ABRAMS, JEFFREY S., 57, of Brookline, MA died unexpectedly Saturday, April 1, at home. Born in Providence, he was the loving son of Jordan and Rachael (Allen) Abrams of Cranston.

Jeffrey was a graduate of Cranston High School East and Hofstra University and worked as a Director of ITT Educational Institute for 30 years in various cities, until his retirement in 2005. Jeff was extremely passionate about piano, basketball and going to Narragansett Beach and was devoted to his dog, Maxx. He was notorious for leading jam sessions in the basement of his parents' home with other family members.

Jeff was the loving brother of Cheryl Levy and her husband Rob of Seattle, WA and was the uncle of Jennifer and Eric Levy. He also leaves several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 12 noon in SHALOM MEMORIAL CHAPEL, 1100 New London Ave., Cranston. Burial to follow in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick. In lieu of flowers, contributions in his memory may be made to The Joslin Clinic, 1 Joslin Place, Boston, MA 02215, or your favorite charity. Shiva will be observed at the home of Harold and Helen Abrams, 60 Tallman Ave., Cranston, Wednesday 7-9 and Thursday 2-4 and 7-9 p.m.
