Obituaries

Dr. Nathan Bolotow

Funeral services were held Sunday for Dr. Nathan Bolotow, 81, at Temple Beth-El, with burial in Sons of Israel and David Cemetery. A surgeon who specialized in ear, nose and throat treatment, he was the husband of Ida (Friedman) Bolotow, and they lived on Slater Avenue in Providence.

Active in civic organizations, Dr. Bolotow was associated with the Jewish Family and Children's Service, serving as its president from 1955 to 1960, and was a trustee and vice president of the Jewish Home for the Aged. He served on the board of directors of the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, and for eight years as the chairman of its medical division.

He was honored for his work in behalf of emotionally disturbed children, and his professional articles were published in national medical journals.

A graduate of Tufts University Medical School, he served overseas as an Army medical officer in World War I, and conducted a general practice in Providence prior to receiving a Master of Science degree at the University of Pennsylvania for clinical research.

He was president of the medical staff and chairman of the credentials committee at Miriam Hospital, and involved with the staffs of most area hospitals. He had been an instructor at Rhode Island and Memorial hospitals' schools of nursing, at the American Academy of Plastic Surgery in New York, and at the American Academy of Otolaryngology. He was a member of many professional organizations, including the New England Otolaryngologic Society and its American Academy.

He was born in Providence, a son of the late Louis and Fannie (Greenberg) Bolotow. Along with his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Beverly B. Foss of Providence; a son, Herbert K. Bolotow, New York City; a
