of me on the shoulder and said, 'All right, Mack, come along.' "

The arresting officer issued Mr. Klein a summons reading: "William Klein did unlawfully permit his child, Gabriel, to climb the guard rail around the lion's cage in the Bronx Park Zoological Gardens. The said child did pull the tail of the lion, thereby exposing said child to personal danger."

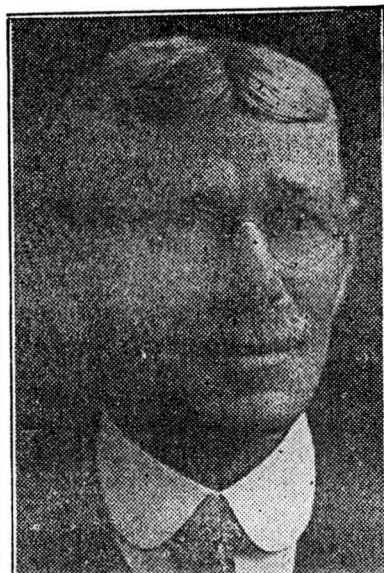

Mr. Kein commented, "Why, Gabriel's even scared of a cat."

Activities at Park View in Full Swing

Activities at the Park View Hotel in Bethlehem, N. H., have gotten into full swing, with warm hospitality and charming friendliness as features of the Park View spirit. A full day of such lawn sports as tennis on the newly improved regulation clay courts, together with ping-pong, quoits, and horse-shoe throwing, is followed by the finest obtainable entertainment in the Social Hall. The cares and worries of the city are put aside as the guests dance to the lilting music of Maestro Milt Gross and his orchestra.

Week-ends are marked by numerous events.

Mourned

LOUIS BOLOTOW

Louis Bolotow, of 25 Forest street, this city, died last Thursday morning, following a prolonged illness. Mr. Bolotow came to this country from Russia forty-six years ago, and has been active in local Jewish communal affairs for many years.

He was one of the founders of the Ahavath Shalom Synagogue on Howell street, and served as its president for several years. He was also one of the organizers of the Hebrew Institute, which later became the Jewish Community Center at 65 Benefit street. He was affiliated with the Hebrew Free Loan Association, the Jewish Home for Aged, the Jewish Orphanage, and Independent Order B'rith Abraham. He was a member of the Roosevelt Lodge, F. & A. M., No. 42, and the Providence Royal Arch, Chapter No. 1.

He is survived by his wife, Fannie, and two sons, Dr. Nathan A. Bolotow and Charles Bolotow, both of this city, and four grandchildren.

Playwriting Contest Closing Date Extended

Due to many requests from college students busy with commencement week preparations for leave to submit plays after the July 1st closing date of the Center Players Second Annual Playwriting Contest, it was voted to extend the contest until September 1, 1937. L. Justin Huddish, chairman of the Contest Committee announced today.

This will give an opportunity to prospective contestants to enter manuscripts and those who have already submitted plays to enter additional ones.

The contest is an annual feature of the Center Players, who each year offer a prize of $25 for the best one-act play submitted and the opportunity of having the play produced. The contest is open to any Rhode Islander 18 years of age or older.

The judges of this year's contest are Professors Ben Brown and Thomas Crosby, Jr. of Brown University, and Rev. Urban Nagle, O. P., Providence College and Catholic University.

Copies of the rules governing the contest can be obtained by application to the Playwriting Contest Committee, Jewish Community Center, 65 Benefit street.
