

JOSEPH ELOWITZ

Funeral services for Joseph J. Elowitz, 78, of 45 Forest Street, former Pawtucket businessman, and a World War I Army veteran, who died Monday, were held Wednesday at the Mount Sinai Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The husband of Celia (Weinfeld) Elowitz, he was born on August 25, 1896, a son of the late William and Sarah (Sussman) Elowitz.

A past president of the Rhode Island Electric League and the Pawtucket Retail Merchants Council, he had owned the Hub Radio Company, formerly of Broad Street, Pawtucket, from 1933 to 1954.

He was a lifelong Providence resident, and a graduate of Classical High School. He had served with the 55th Artillery and was a founder of Riback-Winsten Post 406, Jewish War Veterans, and also a member of Post 23, JWV.

Mr. Elowitz was a member of Temple Beth Sholom, and a past president of both Congregation Sons of Zion and Congregation Ohawe Sholam. He was a 55-year member of the Ionic Masonic Lodge in Stafford Springs, Connecticut.

Besides his wife, survivors are three daughters, Charlotte Rosenberg of Pawtucket, Rosalea Cohn of Cranston, and Dorothy Kosto of Maitland, Florida; a son, Murray Elowitz of Los Angeles, California; two sisters, Belle Fain of West Hartford, Connecticut, and Anna Ehrenberg of Norristown, Pennsylvania; a brother, Harry Elowitz of Miami, Florida, and 10 grandchildren.
