

SAMUEL FINE, 96, of 359 Smith St., a farmer for 40 years, and later an employee in the Attleboro School Department for 20 years before retiring 22 years ago, died yesterday at the Life Care Center. He was the husband of Pearl (Heitin) Fine.

Born in Russia, a son of the late Charles and Bluma (Golden) Fine, he lived most of his life in Attleboro.

Mr. Fine attended Oregon State University, New Hampshire State University and Brown University. He was a member of the Massachusetts State Army Guard during World War II. He was a past president of the Kiwanis Club and a member of Ezekiel Bates Lodge of Masons, which was to present him later this year with a 45-year membership pin. He was a board member of Congregation Agudas Achim, and a member of its Men's Club.

He was a founder, past president and board member of the Attleboro Municipal Credit Union. In 1993 he was awarded a cane from the State of Massachusetts for being the oldest person in Rehoboth.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, Harold Fine of Rehoboth; two sisters, Annie Lutsky of Long Island, N.Y., and Mary Friedman of Pawtucket; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. He was father of the late Gerald Fine.

A graveside service will be held tomorrow at noon at Dodgeville Cemetery, Attleboro.
