

after his ventures in Colorado, he not only engaged in the insurance business but also real estate too.

In 1935 Mr. Whipple, who was a member of the Joshua K. Broadhead Post, No. 16, of the American Legion of North Providence, made poppies that were sold by the Legion for the benefit of disabled veterans.

Carried on Business at Bedside

Mr. Whipple had carried on his business correspondence at a portable typewriter at his bedside and used to enjoy listening to the radio, particularly to political speeches. During the last nine months of his illness, however, he was unable to continue with even that activity.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mabel (Nunne) Whipple; his daughter, Sara M. Whipple, who is a nurse at Providence Lying-In Hospital, and his father.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the N. M. Latham funeral home, Putnam avenue, Greenville. The Rev. LeRoy F. Emery, pastor of the Georgiaville Baptist Church, will officiate.

MRS. ISABELL DEPALMA

The funeral of Mrs. Isabell M. (Gillispie) Depalma, who died at her home, 177 Linwood avenue, last Monday, was held yesterday from the funeral home of McMurrough & Todd, 173 Broad street, Edgewood, followed by a high mass of requiem in the Church of the Assumption, Potters avenue. Rev. James Connolly of St. Catherine's Church, Apponaug, celebrated the mass.

Burial was in St. Anne's Cemetery, Cranston. Rev. Francesco Bruno, pastor of the Church of the Holy Angels, Barrington, reading the committal service. Bearers were Philip Cocco, John Carty, Samuel M. Usco, Michele Giordano, Harold Pierce and Frank Irace.

MR. ANN McGUINNESS

The funeral of Mrs. Ann McGuinness was held yesterday from her home, 61 Dover street, followed by a solemn high requiem mass at line for our war needs" in New England. Local OPA officials interpreted the statement as meaning that however tight gasoline supplies may become, nobody in the agency would view station closing as a solution; war workers must get to work even if other restrictions are applied to motoring, and gas stations would have to stay open for maintenance of essential services and travel.

LOUIS J. FLINK DIES

Pawtucket Man Was In Wholesale Grocery Business Many Years.

Louis J. Flink, for many years engaged in the wholesale grocery business on Canal street in Providence, died yesterday at his home, 100 Sheffield avenue, Pawtucket. With his father and brother he operated the Manhattan Wholesale Grocery Company until 1938.

For the last two years, he has been president of the Pawtucket Recreation Centre operating bowling alleys in Cranston. He was a well-known golfer and active member of the Ledgement Country Club.

Born in Tiverton, son of Morris and Sarah (Snell) Flink, he spent most of his life in Providence and Pawtucket. He is survived by his wife, Margery (Wolf) Flink, a son Robert Hahn Flink and a daughter, Sally Ann Flink.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home, 458 Hope street.

FRANCESCO TROTTA

Funeral services for Francesco Trotta, 61, will be held at his home, 504 Douglas avenue, tomorrow morning at 9:15 o'clock followed by a solemn mass of requiem at 10 o'clock at St. Ann's Church, Hawkins street. Burial will be in St. Francis Cemetery, Pawtucket.

A resident of the North End section for the past 41 years, Mr. Trotta died Wednesday at Rhode Island Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Trotta was born in Casaca-