Harold Glatt

CRANSTON — Harold Glatt, 77, of 33 Plantations Drive, a salesman at the Benny's store on Branch Avenue in Providence, before retiring in April, died yesterday at home. He was the husband of Rochelle (Sirota) Glatt.

Born in Providence, he was a son of the late David and Rebecca (Glass) Glatt. He moved to Cranston 18 years ago.

Mr. Glatt had owned an automotive parts wholesale company for many years.

He was an Army Air Forces veteran of World War II, and a member of the Jewish War Veterans. Mr. Glatt was a member of Temple Am David, the Touro Fraternal Association, and the AARP.

Besides his wife, he leaves two daughters, Marcia Glatt of Burlington, Mass., and Meryl Glatt-Rader of Arlington, Mass., and a brother, Irving Glatt of Cranston.

The funeral service was to be held today at 1 p.m. at Mount Sinai Memorial Chapel, 825 Hope St., Providence. Burial was to be in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick.

GLATT,
Harold
