Milton Goldberger, M.D.

Obstetrics, gynecology specialist, formerly on staffs of area hospitals

TUCSON, Ariz — Dr. Milton Goldberger, M.D., 77, of Tuscon, a former Providence obstetrics and gynecology physician, died yesterday in Tucson. He was the husband of Carrie (Rosenbaum) Goldberger.

When in Providence, he was on the staffs of Rhode Island Hospital, Providence City Hospital, Miriam Hospital, St. Joseph Hospital and the Memorial Hospital, Pawtucket.

Dr. Goldberger practiced medicine in Providence until 1942, when he moved for reasons of health to Tucson where he practiced until he retired.

He was an honorary trustee for life of the Handmaker Jewish Geriatrics Center, of which he was president for four years. In 1959, he was awarded the Tucson Jewish Community Council Service Award for extraordinary public service.

Dr. Goldberger was a Brown University graduate, class of 1924; a graduate of Cornell Medical School, class of 1928, and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Medicine, class of 1929.

Born in Providence, he was the son of the late Samuel and Bertha Goldberger.

Besides his wife in Tucson, he is survived by two brothers, Edward Goldberger of New York City and Herbert H. Goldberger of Newton, Mass.; a sister, Blanche Canter of Brookline, Mass.

The funeral and burial was to be held in Tucson.
