PROVIDENCE

GREEN, CAROLINE PARNAS
94, Rhode Island native and long-time Providence resident died peacefully Tuesday morning at her home in Hanover, NH.

True to her time and place, she was a homemaker, a devoted mother and wife of Ira Green, a salesman for Paramount Greeting Cards who died in 1984. She moved to Hanover from her beloved East Side home a few years ago to be near her son Ronald, a physician who teaches at Dartmouth Medical School, and his wife, the former Sue Caslowitz of Woonsockett .

In addition to Dr. Green she is survived by her daughter Robin and son-in-law Mitchell Burgess, TV writers who live in New York and Los Angeles; her grandchildren Jordan Green of Brooklyn and Rebecca Green of Williamsburg, Virginia, and five great-grandsons.

A memorial gathering will be held in Rhode Island this summer, time and place to be determined.
