FRANK KASSED

WARWICK — Frank Kassed, 87, of Shalom Drive, a retired business owner, died Sept. 28 at Harborside Healthcare Greenwood House, Warwick. He was the husband of Dorothy (Grossman) Kassed.

Born in Providence, a son of the late Sam and Anna (Primack) Kassed, he had lived in Warwick for one year. He had previously lived in Cranston for many years before moving to Clearwater, Fla., and Dallas, Texas, moving back to Rhode Island in 1999.

He was the proprietor of the former Providence Shoe Box shoe store for 30 years, retiring 26 years ago. While living in Dallas, he worked for the Nielson Company. He served as a captain in the U.S. Army during WWII from 1941 to 1946, serving in the Pacific Theatre. He was a member of Touro Fraternal Association, Post 23 of the Jewish War Veterans, Hamilton Lodge of the Masons and a former member of Temple Torat Yisrael. He was a volunteer in the Dallas school system serving as a mentor for underprivileged children.

Besides his wife of 68 years, he leaves a son, Dr. Marvin W. Kassed of New Port Richie, Fla.; a daughter, Linda Nieberg of White Plains, N.Y.; a brother, Jacob Kassed of Randolph, Mass.; a sister, Blanche Weinberger of Dallas, Texas; six grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild. He was the brother of the late Irving Kassed and Irene Masinter and the grandfather of the late Jeffrey Kassed.

Funeral services were held Sept. 29 in Shalom Memorial Chapel, 1100 New London Ave., Cranston. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick. In lieu of flowers, contributions in his memory may be made to the American Heart Association or the United Cerebral Palsy Association. Arrangements were made by Shalom Memorial Chapel.
