KLEIN, AARON

Providence Journal-Bulletin
Saturday, January 9, 1982

Dr. Aaron Klein; retired cardiologist, Jewish leader, at 77

error

PROVIDENCE — Dr. Aaron Klein, 77, of 341 Morris Ave., a cardiologist, died yesterday at Miriam Hospital. He was the husband of Jenny (Machlowitz) Klein.

Born in New York City, a son of the late Simcha and Chaia (Leimsider) Klein, he lived in Providence since 1943.

Dr. Klein practiced in Providence until his retirement 12 years. He was a member of Temple Emanu-El and its Men's Club, a director of education at Temple Emanu-El for 25 years until his retirement, and a national vice president and a founder of the Educators Assembly of the United Synagogues of America. He was the first person to receive a doctorate of religious education from the Jewish Theological Seminary.

A past president of the Providence District of the Zionist Organization of America, he authored various articles for educational magazines and professional journals. He was a translator for the Jewish Publication Society of America, a member of the Farband and the National Association of Jewish Education.

Besides his wife, he leaves two sons, Ruvain Klein of Warwick and Joel M. Klein of Baltimore; a sister, Charlotte Goldfarb of New York City; eight grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

A funeral service will be held tomorrow at noon at Temple Emanu-El, Morris Avenue. Burial will be in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick.

The Providence Sunday Journal
January 10, 1982

Aaron Klein

Director of religious education at Temple Emanu-El for 25 years

PROVIDENCE — Aaron Klein, 77, of 340 Morris Ave., director of religious education at Temple Emanu-El from 1943-1968, died Friday at Miriam Hospital. He was the husband of Jenny (Machlowitz) Klein.

Based on information from the funeral home, the Journal-Bulletin incorrectly described him yesterday as a cardiologist.

Born in New York City, a son of the late Simcha and Chaia (Leimsider) Klein, he lived in Providence since 1943.

He was a member of Temple Emanu-El and its Men's Club, and a national vice president and a founder of the Educators Assembly of the United Synagogues of America. He was the first person to receive a doctorate of religious education from the Jewish Theological Seminary.

A past president of the Providence District of the Zionist Organization of America, he authored various articles for educational magazines and professional journals. He was a translator for the Jewish Publication Society of America, a member of the Farband and the National Association of Jewish Education.

Besides his wife he leaves two sons, Ruvain Klein of Warwick and Joel M. Klein of Baltimore; a sister, Charlotte Goldfarb of New York City; eight grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

A funeral service will be held today at noon at Temple Emanu-El, Morris Avenue. Burial will be in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick.