DAVID KOLODOFF, 85, of 200 Post Rd., a retired liquor retailer, died Tuesday at Rhode Island Hospital, Providence.

He was the husband of Libby (Soorkis) Kolodoff. Born in Providence, a son of the late Jacob and Sarah (Uditsky) Kolodoff, he had lived in Cranston before moving to Warwick 11 years ago.

He owned a liquor store in Providence for 40 years, retiring in 1978.

He was an Army veteran of World War II, serving in Europe as a medic, and was awarded the Bronze Star.

He was a graduate of Roger Williams University, Class of 1951. He was a past treasurer of the Rhode Island Liquor Stores Association, and a member of the Providence and South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Associations.

An avid historian, he was a member of the Rhode Island Jewish Historical Association, and the Rhode Island Labor History Society.

Besides his wife, he leaves a son, Joel M. Kolodoff, and a brother, Max Kolodoff, both of Warwick, and several nieces and nephews. He was the brother of the late Bernard M. and Joseph H. Kolodoff.

A funeral service will be held today at 1 p.m. in Samuel Priest Memorial Chapel in Lincoln Park Cemetery. Burial will follow.
