KORTICK, EDITH, of Cranston, peacefully passed away Sunday, July 22, at 86 years of age. She was the beloved wife of Morris Kortick for 65 years. Born in Fall River, MA, a daughter of the late Louis and Ida (Sandler) Trostonoff, she had lived in Providence before moving to Cranston 49 years ago.

Dear sister of the late Nathan Trostonoff and Sarah Dix. Devoted mother of the late Helen Ann Kortick. Loving grandmother of Marcy Cohen. Cherished great-grandmother of Noah and Gabriel.

In 1950, she founded, with her husband and partner, Jewel Manufacturing Company which was later acquired by Swarovsky International. A woman of impressive athletic ability, she was a former member of Potowomut Country Club and an original member of Crestwood Country Club where she was twice runner-up golfer for the championship of her division. A former Brownie and Girl Scout leader, she was also a member of Hadassah and Temple Sinai. Her philanthropic endeavors were typical of her altruistic nature, and she generously supported many Jewish causes.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10:00 a.m. in SHALOM MEMORIAL CHAPEL, 1100 New London Ave., Cranston. In lieu of flowers, contributions in her memory may be made to Temple Sinai. Shiva will be observed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cohen, 60 Basil Crossing, Cranston, Tuesday 1-3 and 5-7, Wednesday 5-7 p.m.
