KWASHA, OWENBRUCE

JVH 1-23-09

Owen Bruce Kwasha, 82

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. – Owen Kwasha died on Jan. 11 at Palm Beach Gardens. He was the husband of Beverly (Strauss) Kwasha for 57 years.

Born on Jan. 2, 1927 in New Brunswick, N.J. to the late L. James Kwasha and Irme (Kaufman) Kwasha, he was formerly the owner of Eagle Cornice Company in Cranston. He resided in Cranston until 1989 when he and Beverly moved to Palm Beach Gardens.

He also leaves his daughter, Kathy Hamilton and her husband, Joseph L. Hamilton. His daughter Karen Jacober and her husband Jeff Jacober, predeceased him, as did his grandson Eric Jacober, and his sister Carol Sugarman. He leaves his grandchildren, Megan Hamilton, David Jacober, Kristen O'Neill and her husband Dr. Michael J. O'Neill, and Michael Jacober. He also leaves his sister Lenore Beranbaum and several nieces and a nephew.

A 1951 graduate of the University of Rhode Island, a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Society and Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity.

He was a World War II Army veteran, serving as a first lieutenant. He was a member of Temple Beth-El, Touro Fraternal, B'nai Brith and the Anti-Defamation League. He was a past president of Ledgemont Country Club in Seekonk, Mass. and Eastpoint Country Club in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

Contributions may be made to the charity of your choice.