MITCHELL BRUCE LUBER, 45, of Waterford Circle, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., an attorney practicing family law in Broward County, Fla., for 18 years with his own firm, died Sunday in a car accident in South Carolina. He was the husband of Martha (Bonneau) Luber.

Born in Providence, he was a son of Rosslyn (Glass) Luber of Fort Lauderdale, and the late George Luber.

Mr. Luber was bar mitzvahed in Temple Beth El, Providence, attended Classical and Pawtucket West High Schools, and was a graduate of Boston University School of Law in 1973 and the University of Miami Law School in 1977.

He was a member and lecturer on behalf of the Florida Bar Association. His practice focused primarily on the defense of abused women and children in divorce cases. Several of his court cases helped create new marital law in Florida. In 1995, he joined with his wife to create the Mediation Institute of Florida. He lectured throughout the United States, Argentina, Venezuela and the Caribbean on divorce and child custody arbitration.

He was a board member of Temple Emanuel of Fort Lauderdale and was an active participant in the United Jewish Appeal and other charities.

Besides his wife and mother, he leaves two sisters, Donna Morse of Fort Lauderdale and Patricia Goldman of Woodcliff Lake, N.J. He was grandson of the late Bertha and Irving Glass and Israel and Rebecca Luber, all of Providence.

A memorial service was held yesterday in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick.
