POULTON, PAULINE

Pauline Poulten

Active in Jewish affairs, widow of R.I. journalist

PROVIDENCE — Mrs. Pauline Poulten, 67, of 249 Warrington St., who was active in Jewish affairs for many years, died in Rhode Island Hospital after an illness of two months. She was the widow of Ben Poulten, a journalist in the state for 40 years, who died in 1972.

Born in Russia April 10, 1908, she was a daughter of the late Harry and Nattie Chorney. She lived in Providence for more than 65 years.

Mrs. Poulten was a graduate of Commercial High School, Providence, and attended New Jersey State Teachers' College. She was a past president and past treasurer of the Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island and Temple Beth Israel Sisterhood. She was a member of the board of trustees of the Jewish Home for the Aged and Temple Beth Israel.

Mrs. Poulten was a past president of Montefiore, a Jewish public service organization; was a member of B'nai B'rith and the United Order of True Sisters and the Brandeis University Women's Association.

She leaves three sons, Arthur Poulten of Cranston, Steven D. Poulten of Narragansett and Howard W. Poulten of Providence; two sisters, Mrs. Irving Avrutsky of Providence and Mrs. Edward Raiff of Hyde Park, Mass.; a brother, Sanford Chorney of Cranston and a grandson.

The funneral will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the Temple Beth Israel, Niagara Street at Atlantic Avenue, Providence. Burial will be in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick.
