EDWARD SCHWARTZ

CRANSTON — Edward Schwartz, 86, of Cedar Crest Nursing Centre, Scituate Avenue, a former cost analyst for the General Electric Co. in Lynn, Mass., died Wednesday, January 13, 1988, at Roger Williams General Hospital. He was the husband of the late Ida (Kamins) Schwartz.

Born in New York City, he was a son of the late Morris and Mary (Hipshman) Schwartz. He lived in Cranston since 1965. He previously lived in Lynn and Fall River, Mass.

Mr. Schwartz also had been a supervisor of costs in the motor and steam turbine and generator departments at GE from 1941 until retiring in 1965.

For several years, he worked with building contractors erecting the New York City subway system, and for 10 years was office manager and costs accountant for the former United Rayon Co., Fall River.

He played the violin and was concert master of the Fall River and Melrose, Mass., Symphony Orchestras for many years. He attended the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh.

In 1948, Carnegie appointed him a delegate to the inauguration and installation as president of Abram L. Sachar at Brandeis University.

Mr. Schwartz was a past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias and a deputy supreme chancellor of the organization.

He leaves a daughter, Joyce Morettini of Cranston; a son, Edward Schwartz of Walpole, Mass.; three sisters, Lillian Ginsberg and Helen Berman, both of Newton, Mass., and Emily Black of Hallandale, Fla.; and five grandchildren.

A graveside service was held at Sharon Memorial Park, Sharon, Mass.
