Bernard Segal dies; pharmacist also teacher, author, columnist

PROVIDENCE — Bernard "Beryl" Segal, 80, of 94 Overhill Rd., chief pharmacist at Miriam Hospital for over 30 years and a well-known teacher and columnist, died yesterday at home. He was the husband of Irene "Chaya" (Waxman) Segal.

Born in Russia, he was a son of the late Aaron I. and Rachael (Lieberson) Segal, and had lived in Providence most of his life.

He taught Yiddish at the Workmen's Circle School, later teaching Hebrew at the Temple Beth El Religious School and the Hebrew High School of the Rhode Island Bureau of Jewish Education.

He was the author of many published stories and plays for children, written in Yiddish, Hebrew, and English. He wrote a textbook for the R.I. Bureau of Jewish Education entitled, "Know Your Community," a column for the R.I. Jewish Herald entitled, "One Man's Opinion", and a column for the Providence Journal-Bulletin entitled, "Your Medicine Chest."

He did extensive research and writing for the historical notes of the R.I. Jewish Historical Society, of which he was a founding member.

He was educated at the Kamenetzer Yeshiva in Russia, later receiving his B.S. from Brown University in 1927, his M.S. from the University of Rochester in 1932, where he was inducted into Sigma Xi, and his Ph.d. from the Rhode Island College of Pharmacy in 1940.

One of the first members of the Board of the Bureau of Jewish Education, he was a member of the Temple Beth El, the Jewish Home for the Aged, the Arbiter Ring, and the Brown Club.

The recipient of the Brown Bear Award from Brown University, he received various awards from the State of Israel Bonds, the Farband Poale Zion, the Jewish Historical Society, the Organization of Rehabilitation Through Training, the Bureau of Jewish Education, Temple Beth El and the Rhode Island Bicentennial Committee.

Besides his wife he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Annette S. Hockman of North Miami Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Geraldine R. Foster of Providence; a brother, Mordecai Segal of Israel; and six grandchildren.

The funeral will be held today at noon at Temple Beth El, 70 Orchard Ave. Burial will be in Lincoln Park Cemetery, Warwick.
