Mother of Almacs president, at 78, leader of Jewish women's groups

BOSTON — Mrs. Nanette M. Segal, 78, of 10 Hammond Pond Pakwy., Chestnut Hill, mother of Philip A. Segal Jr. of Cranston, president of the Almacs chain, died yesterday at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. She was the wife of Philip A. Segal.

Born in Troy, N.Y., she lived in Albany, was a graduate of Emma Willard School, class of 1920, and Wellesley College, class of 1924. She was active in community affairs of Newton and Boston most of her adult life. She was president of Newton Wellesley Family Welfare; president of the Women's Committee of Jewish Child Welfare and a member of the founding board. She was on the board of the combined Jewish Appeal.

For years, she was on the board of Brandeis University National Women's Committee. As president of the Boston section of the National Council of Jewish Women and later a member of the National Board, she went to New York regularly to meet the refuge families and orphan children.

Besides her husband and son, Philip Segal, who also is a member of the board of directors of the Greater Providence Chamber of Commerce, she is survived by another son, John N. Segal of Watertown, Mass.; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held tomorrow at 10 a.m in Temple Israel Chapel, Longwood Avenue, Brookline, Mass.
