CHARLES R. YOKEN

Funeral services for Charles R. Yoken, a managing director of the Globe Investment Corporation, who died unexpectedly Tuesday, were held Thursday at the Max Surgarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Temple Emanu-El Cemetery, Randolph, Mass.

He lived at 60 Blackstone Boulevard and he was a managing director of the National Finance Company of Fall River for 25 years.

Born in Fall River on July 15, 1905, Mr. Yoken had been active in Jewish affairs of that city until moving to Providence in 1954. He was one of the founders of the Jacob Ziskind Building of Temple Beth El there, and was a leader of the United Jewish Appeal and Israel Bond drive.

He was the husband of Mrs. Sylvia (Marcus) Yoken, and a son of the late Abraham and Lillian (Chavenson) Yoken.

Mr. Yoken was also a member of Temple Beth El in Providence and Roger Williams Lodge of B'nai B'rith.

In addition to his widow, he leaves a daughter, Miss Phyllis E. Yoken of Brookline, Mass., a son, Robert A. Yoken of Providence; a sister, Mrs. Samuel Robin of Winston-Salem, N.C.; and two brothers, Benjamin Yoken of Fall River and Harry E. Yoken of Portsmouth, N.Y.
