Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities

Two Kinds of Milk

Shakespeare, it was so sweet of him, poured forth a stream of saccharine counsel to the Jew on the "milk of human kindness."

I have a feeling, however, that in the eternal scales, the "milk of human kindness," which Nathan Straus, who has just passed away, distributed, will bulk just a trifle heavier. He brought the actual pasteurized milk free of charge to thousands of the poor children of New York.

Bernard Shaw once observed that "those who can do, do, and those who can't, teach."

Emerson observed: "Your acts speak so loud, I can't hear your words."

And the ancient Rabbis boiled it down to: "Lo hamidrash haikar eleh hamaseh." "Not the word is important, but the deed."

Shakespeare preached, but Straus predicted.

Weeping and Working

Says a New Testament passage: "Jesus wept." Along about one hundred years ago, came a cynic and added in apposition: Voltaire smiled. Came Elbert Hubbard some fifteen years ago and added a third link: William Morris worked.

And Hubbard left the inference that in his opinion the working was more important than either the tears or the grins. I neither affirm nor reject Hubbard's decision, but as between Straus' practicing and Shakespeare's preaching, I'll take the former.

Sportsman Turned Philanthropist

The turn of Nathan Straus to philanthropy presents one of those strange metamorphoses, that remind us that the transition of the cocoon into the butterfly has its analogue in the world of Human Life.

Straus was a business man, and in his leisure hours, he was out at the race track. One finds it difficult to think of Straus as a sort of Harry Payne Whitney, standing at the race track with hat aloft in hand, cheering for "Aggravating Papa." And yet he was that. He was regarded as one of the leading turf men of the metropolis, with a stable, the par of any in the country.

But the sportsman was destined to be lost in the philanthropist, and to that role, he added subsequently the other of Jewish idealist.

These Sudden Changes

These sudden changes, in which there seems to be not so much of a change, as a complete breaking off of the past, occur more frequently than is imagined. In "The Moon and Sixpence," Mougham has recounted the actual story (although in fictionalized form), of a stock broker, who of a sudden dropped career and family to paint in the South Sea Islands. Sherwood Anderson is said to have suddenly given up his business and left for other scenes that he might write. And was not Ames but a plain herdsman before the word of the Lord came to him?

Slamming the Doctors

They are telling this one about the wife of a prominent Jewish undertaker in New York. Recently, she was at the home of some prominent cloak and suit manufacturer.

The wives got to talking together. "Times are terrible," began the wife of the cloak and suit manufacturer. "Yes," wailed the undertaker's wife,

Miss Ruth Zisquit of 1 Langham road is in charge of reservations and it is suggested that those who have not as yet arranged for tables, communicate with Miss Zisquit at once.

COMPINSKY TRIO TO APPEAR HERE SUNDAY AT CENTER

To Present Fine Musical Program; Have Been Acclaimed by American Music Critics

The Compinsky Trio will make their first appearance in Providence on Sunday evening, Jan. 25th, at 8:30 o'clock, at the Jewish Community Center auditorium, 65 Benefit street.

Although only a short time in this country this interesting musical group, consisting of two brothers and one sister, has already achieved a place of prominence in the musical world. The Trio will present numbers by Brahms, Schubert, Mendelssohn and Tschaiakowsky.

The New York Telegraph, in a recent review of a concert, given by the Trio at Carnegie Hall, said: "The young players show fine evidence of long and happy rehearsals. We venture to say that the Compinsky Trio has already succeeded in taking a high place among contemporary organizations."

The "Musical Courier" said: "This excellent Trio, which came from London recently and has taken up its residence in this country, is a first-rate organization which will be appreciated when it becomes better known."

Each of the players is an accomplished musician and has had the opportunity of excellent musical training.

URGES JEWS AND CHRISTIANS BACK STRAUS MEMORIAL

Suggests, in Letter to New York Times, Memorial be Erected in New York City

New York City, Jan. 23—(JTA)—The suggestion that a suitable memorial to the memory of Nathan Straus be erected in New York City, originally made last week by former Ambassador James W. Gerard in a letter to the New York Times, was seconded by Rabbis Israel H. Levinthal of the Brooklyn Jewish Center and Alexander Lyons of the Eighth Avenue Temple, Brooklyn, at the regular Friday evening services of their congregations.

"Nathan Straus was to me the symbol of the heart of Israel," said Rabbi Levinthal. "If it is true, as the ancient Rabbis say, that one of the distinguishing marks of a Jew is his merciful spirit, then Nathan Straus was the most distinguished of all Jews."

Referring to the proposed memorial for Nathan Straus, Dr. Lyons said: "I hope that it takes a form that shall permanently conserve childhood, in which Mr. Straus was so ardently interested."

Both Rabbis appealed for united Jewish and Christian support of a proposed memorial to the philanthropist.

BUDGET TO GIVE JEWISH INSTITUTIONS 1,300,000 PENGOES

Budapest, Jan. 23—(JTA)—The sum of 1,300,000 pengoes (about $16,600), for various Jewish institutions of the city is included in the project city budget adopted by the municipality on Jan. 7.

This sum includes 1,000,000 pengoes for educational purposes and 250,000 pengoes for charitable organizations.

Noted Social Worker Sees Anti-Semitism Waning In the United States

Milton M. Alexander of Detroit Gives Credit to Educational Departments of Reform Units

Philadelphia, Jan. 23—(JTA)—Anti-Semitism in America is definitely on the wane, according to Milton M. Alexander, widely known Detroit advertising expert and social worker, who addressed Wednesday's session of the 32nd biennial council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. Mr. Alexander, who is a member of the Board of Managers of the Union's Department of Synagogue and School Extension as well as of its tract commission, laid the improvement to the work of the Union's Educational Departments.

Good Will Improved
"On every hand in America today," he said, "we note an improvement in the existing relationships between Jew and Christian. Part of the credit must of course be given to organized efforts for the achievement of good will and human understanding and a part of it must go to the superb example in citizenship of such American Jews as the late Nathan Straus and Louis Marshall and other fine Jewish leaders who are still spared to us."

"But a substantial share of the responsibility for the improved relationship between Christian and Jew must go to the work that has been quietly carried on by your own organization. By organizing Jewish education by giving our children a sense of pride in their Jewish origin and by cultivating an intelligent Jewish self-respect among them we have gone a long way in winning the respect of our neighbors."

"We Jews, who are the first to resent evidence of ill-will, should be equally quick to acknowledge any improvement in human relationships. I think it is safe to say that anti-Jewish feeling in America is definitely on the decline, that American Jews have made real progress in winning and holding the good-will of people of other faiths."

Regional Rabbis Needed
Ten instead of the present two Regional Rabbis should be engaged by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations to spread the message of Judaism to the isolated Jewish communities throughout the country and to help them solve their Jewish religious problems, according to the recommendations by Julius W. Freiberg, Chairman of the Board of Managers of the Union's Department of Synagogue and School Extension, who spoke on regional organization at the session.

"The falling away of Jews from Judaism is the major problem challenging the best minds in American Jewish life and the solution lies in education," Mr. Freiberg said. Other duties of the Union's Synagogue and School Extension Branch, he pointed out, include religious education of university students, administering to Jews in hospitals and prisons and teacher training.

The Synagogue and School Extension's main objectives, he said, are first, to increase Jewish working units throughout the country through organizers, Regional Rabbis and volunteer Rabbis, and second, to increase these units' efficiency through education by texts, pupil tests, teachers' helps, collateral reading and similar material.

Short Sermons Urged
Lewis L. Strauss of New York, private secretary to Herbert Hoover during the latter's World War food administration work, urged a return to 20-minute sermons on Biblical topics as related to life's principles, in his address at the afternoon's session. "Our Christian friends are in the same class," he said, in deploring the trend of some ministers to lecture on non-religious matters. "It is not just a Jewish problem. Church attendance is dwindling no less than Synagogue attendance." The reason for the falling off in attendance, Mr. Strauss pointed out, is that congregants lose respect for ministers who discuss matters on which the ministers are not so well informed as their hearers. In addition the injection of controversial matters replaces reverence with disagreement, he added.

In deploring the existence of "a most unhealthy symptom of estrangement from the Synagogue today on the part of the American Jew," Mr. Strauss said "there is need among us

HOOVER NAMES FIVE JEWISH LEADERS TO RED CROSS BOARD

Entire Country Is Represented in Choice; Coolidge, Honorary Chairman

Washington, Jan. 23—(JTA)—Five prominent Jewish leaders are included in the list of members of a Red Cross committee appointed recently by President Hoover to assist John Barton Payne, Chairman of the Red Cross, to aid the National Red Cross and its local chapters in the $10,000,000 drive for funds to aid in the drought sufferers.

The first Jews named to the committee of which former President Calvin Coolidge is Honorary Chairman and former Governor Alfred E. Smith, one of the Vice Chairmen, are as follows:

Felix Warburg of New York, General Abel Davis of Chicago, Herbert Fleischacker of San Francisco, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York and Mrs. Joseph E. Friend of New Orleans.

DETROIT GREETSS USSISHKIN; PLAN FOR $150,000 FUND

Thousands of Jews Turn Out to Greet Zionist; $3000 Raised at Banquet

Detroit, Jan. 23—(JTA)—Thousands of Detroit Jews turned out Monday to greet Menachem Ussishkin. More than 2000 could not get into the hall of Northern High School where another 2000 literally hung on windows and walls to hear the World President of the Jewish National Fund, and tickets for the luncheon were at a premium, more than 200 having clamored for admission after about 350 monopolized every available seat in the Philadelphia-Byron Talmud Torah.

Contributions to the Jewish National Fund at the banquet from Synagogues and organizations exceeded $3000. At the mass meeting more than $2000 additional was raised. Detroit Jews are asked to raise $150,000 in five years for the redemption of a stretch of land in Emek Hasharon to be known as Nachlat Detroit. During Mr. Ussishkin's stay in Detroit, at a number of parlor meetings, an organization will be perfected to raise the sum assigned to the Detroit Jewish community.

Aaron Kurland presided at the luncheon, which was addressed by Mr. Ussishkin; Federal Judge Charles C. Simons and Theodore Levin, who announced the assignment of a parcel of land in Palestine valued at $35,000 by Judge Simons' father, David W. Simons. Rabbi A. M. Hershtman presided at the mass meeting, which was addressed by Abraham Goldberg of New York and Mr. Ussishkin.

The Synagogue Takes Its Place In Modern Palestine

This is not a piece of art, the product of an artist's imagination, nor is it a photograph taken in some Jewish community in Poland or in some other part of Eastern Europe. It is a snap-shot by a passing-by cameraman, taken at Nahalal, one of the famous Zionist co-operative colonies, established on the land of the Jewish National Fund.

The camera, focussed on a part of the new Synagogue, recently built in Nahalal on land provided by the National Fund, provides us with a glimpse into the blending of the new with the old in the modern Jewish colonies in Palestine. The old folks, congregated for their early morning prayers, are the religious parents of the modern pioneers. They were brought to the settlement by their sons, who prospered. Note the simplicity of the Synagogue structure, truly representative of the pioneer life, and the devotion of the elderly congregants, reciting the ancient prayers of Israel, under the bright light of the Palestinian early morning sun, beating through the windows.

"Unrivaled In Its Scope"

That is the precise term Bernard M. Goldowsky used in speaking of the high-grade music that will be furnished at the annual ball of the Zionist District of Providence to a representative of The Jewish Herald.

"It occurred to me," Mr. Goldowsky said further, "that some readers of the Herald might question the need of repetition, but let me remind them that what is interesting news today might be forgotten tomorrow. For example, notwithstanding previous announcements I am frequently asked by prospective patrons of the ball when and where it will take place, what orchestra has been engaged and what the price of admission will be. Of course in each instance I am obliged to repeat that the ball will be given at that splendidly renovated Arcadia Ballroom on Tuesday, Feb. 24th—or on the same date that the World Zionist Congress will convene—that not only the great Morey Pearl (himself) and his master musicians have been engaged, but the famous 'Happy' Stanley and his orchestra as well. In other words twenty wonderful musicians will play continuous music. And last, but not least, the price of admission is only one dollar.

"Why then should I let those good folks worry for fear of forgetting all those details and thus miss the time of their lives when there is in our midst a medium such as The Jewish Herald, through which I can keep their memories constantly refreshed?" "And that, of course, also applies to all Yehudim from Pawtucket, Central Falls, Woonsocket, Newport and from other parts of our state as well as to those from Southern Massachusetts.

"My goodness, just let them figure out what they will get for one 'buck' and they will come in automobiles, trains, buses, electric cars or in aeroplanes. There isn't a thing I know of that might prevent me from issuing frequent reminders. I am sure that The Jewish Herald won't stop me; others can't, and my fountain pen writes English."

To the representative's query whether the ball will be a formal or an informal affair, Mr. Goldowsky answered, "informal." And then added, "Understand, this is going to be a strictly respectable family gathering. One can show off in the Zoup and anchovies or come dressed in his business suit, just as he has a mind to, but one is not expected to dress for the occasion in a bathing suit or in a pair of overalls.

"Checks, at the rate of one dollar per ticket, should be made payable to Dr. Joseph Smith, Treasurer, and mailed to me at P. O. Box 726, Providence. Positively no tickets will be mailed without an order. The people know a Metziah and go for it when they see it. And this is the 'Bargain Sale' of the year in the line of entertainment."

44% JEWISH MARRIAGES IN ROTTERDAM, WITH NON-JEWS

Amsterdam, Jan. 23—(JTA)—More than 44 per cent. of Jewish marriages in Rotterdam during 1930, were those between members of the Jewish community and non-Jews, according to statistics just published.

Central Conference of American Rabbis Year Book Printed

The 40th volume of the Year Book of the Central Conference of American Rabbis is a substantial volume and contains the proceedings of the convention held at Providence, R. I. The reports of the officers show that the conference has given much attention to subsidizing literary activities of scholars all over the world, specially through a gift by Lucius N. Littauer for the purpose.

Papers the outstanding papers were here of the Union Prayer Book in the Evolution of the Liturgy by Rabbi Solomon B. Frechet, The Function of the Prayer Book by Rabbi Israel B. Eitan, The Religious Ideas of the Union Prayer Book by Rabbi Samuel C. Conson and The Devotional Value of the Union Prayer Book by Rabbi Jonah B. Wise.

Two papers on The Modern God Idea by Rabbis Barnett R. Brickner and Bernard Heller are published, and the discussion on The Purpose and Possibilities of Synagogue Extension by Rabbi Leo M. Franklin. An address by Dr. Israel Raffalovich of Rio Janeiro, Brazil, on the Condition of Jewry and Judaism in South America. An excellent bibliography for Adult Religious Education is contributed by Rabbi Jacob Singer.

The volume was edited by Rabbi Isaac E. Marcuson of Macon, Georgia, from whom reprints of the various articles can be secured.

Zionists Included in New Wave of Soviet Arrests

Jerusalem, Jan. 23—(JTA)—A new wave of political arrests has been sweeping over Soviet Russia for the past few months, says a report received here by the Mogen, a society for the succor of Russian Zionists, and many Zionists are among those who have been imprisoned. The authorities seem to be anxious, the report says, to keep the exiles under the thumb of the G. P. U. which is planning to prepare new charges to enable them to continue to keep imprisoned such exiles whose term of "minus" is drawing to an end, so that they shall not regain their liberty. By far the greater number of arrests end in sentences of further exile and imprisonment in politisolators. Each of the new arrestees has six to eight years of imprisonment and banishment behind him.

At the beginning of September, the report says, there were arrests at Samarkand, Ashkhabad (Central Asia) and Great Ostiug (North Russia). Zionist, Social-Democratic and Social-Republican exiles were arrested. The names are not yet known. Recently three Zionist women exiles were stopping temporarily at Krasnoarsk on their way to the place of banishment designated for them by the authorities, a place called Torokhensk, one of the very worst places of banishment. These unfortunates were chaltzoth from the agricultural settlements of the illegal Hehalutz Organization. One of the exiles applied

SALONICA RABBI TO AID MARRANOS OF PORTUGAL

Salonica, Greece, Jan. 23—(JTA)—Rabbi Baruch Ben-Jacob of this city has left for Portugal to help the Marranos of that country return to Judaism. Rabbi Ben-Jacob has left at the behest of the Committee for the Reconversion of the Marranos, whose headquarters are in Amsterdam, Holland.

In Oporto, Portugal, there are now 12 families of Marranos who have returned to Judaism, besides seven Polish-Jewish families. A group of seven Marranos has decided to study for the Rabbinate, and for this purpose have established a Yeshiva, known as Rosh-Pinah. These candidates for the Rabbinate come from various towns in North Portugal, where many Marranos dwell, and after finishing their

Good-Will Chief Takes Issue With Missionary's Plea

Winter Park, Fla., Jan. 23—(JTA)—The pronouncement of Dr. John R. Mott, President of the International Missionary Council, at the Atlantic City Convention of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America on last Wednesday, that "missionary work among Jews was a duty in spite of all protests," was ill-timed, according to Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, Secretary of the Committee on Good-Will Between Jews and Christians of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and Director of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, who is delivering a special lecture course at Rollins College here.

"The blind spot in the vision of many of us Christians is illustrated in the fact that Dr. Mott made his pronouncement on a day when the whole nation was thinking of Jewry in terms of Nathan Straus," said Rev. Mr. Clinchy. He added that "Dr. Mott simply restated the orthodox position of the centuries. What Jews must remember is that there are equal, if not greater forces within every cultural group to resist proselyting agencies and therefore the dangers to the Synagogues are more imaginary than real.

"Personally I do not want to see Jews proselyted to Christianity. Dr. Mott is not aware of the bad social consequences of his stand. Mistrust, fear, hatred and a fighting spirit are the result. For a Christian to talk about expressing good-will for Jews and at the same time plan to annihilate Judaism, shows a total ignorance of the laws of human behavior. The development and co-operation of both Judaism and Christianity are essential to the best interests of America."

Chairman, Board of Trustees, 3 Years

By SONNER SIEGAL

Early in the fall of 1924, the late Samuel E. Goldman of Pawtucket, R. I., called on Nathan David, President of the Congregation Jeshuat Israel, with the idea of organizing a B'nai B'rith Lodge in the city of Newport. Mr. Goldman, with the assistance of Mr. David, Dr. Samuel Adelson and others, succeeded in a short period of time to organize Judah Touro Lodge, No. 998, with a membership of twenty-five.

Mr. David at this time was honored by being selected the first President of this lodge, and on its first installation, the Grand Lodge Officers of District No. 1, which included Louis Fabricant, Archibald Hillman and others, participated. The degree team of Henry Friedman Lodge of Pawtucket performed the initiation, which was followed by an elaborate banquet held at the New Cliffs Hotel for the members, guests and their wives.

In view of the short year since its inception, Nathan David was re-elected President to serve a full term for the year 1925. During this period the lodge began to expand in membership and was compelled to leave the meeting room of the historic Touro Synagogue and seek larger quarters in the Building and Merchants Hall. From there the lodge moved into their own meeting room in the new Community Center. The late Samuel E. Goldman was held with great esteem and affection by all the members of the Judah Touro Lodge. Rarely did he miss any important meeting of the lodge and in appreciation, he was made an honorary member. His interest in the lodge continued up to the time of his death. In his will he bequeathed to this lodge a sum of money to be used to furnish a room for meeting purposes and to be known as the Samuel E. Goldman Room. This, the lodge honored by later dedicating a memorial bronze table and his picture hangs over it in a most fitting manner.

Through the efforts at this time of Murray S. Jacobs, Joseph Adelson and Dr. Samuel Adelson, a publication was printed pertaining to local B'nai B'rith activities, entitled the "Spectator." This paper was enjoyed immensely during its publication and went out of existence when Joseph Adelson, now a prominent attorney in Providence, resigned from the lodge to complete his study of law.

In 1926, Murray S. Jacobs was elected President and much could be mentioned of his untiring efforts. He was chiefly responsible in organizing a degree team through the assistance of Irving Eisenberg. Although the degree team was organized but a short time it made a splendid showing in a contest sponsored by the District and received honorable mention.

In 1927, Dr. Samuel Adelson was elected President and continued his term of office very efficiently up to the time he resigned from the lodge, due to his being busily confined to his practice of medicine. Robert G. Mirman completed the unexpired term of Dr. Adelson and continued the Presidency in an efficient manner.

In 1928, Irving Eisenberg was elected President. During his term of office many activities arose which were the means of creating a great deal of interest in the meetings and which resulted in a large increase in membership. President Eisenberg, with the assistance of Samuel Kosch, promoted a series of bridges, which resulted in raising a sum of over one hundred dollars, which aided the finances of the lodge considerably.

When the Grand Lodge convention of District No. 1 was held in Providence, Robert G. Mirman was elected delegate to represent Judah Touro Lodge as a part of the general committee, consisting of President Eisenberg, Vice President Samuel Kosch and His Honor, Judge Max Levy.

Through the efforts of this committee the Newport Lodge played a very important part in entertaining delegates from the entire district, including those from Canada. The delegates' visit to the city of Newport was very much enjoyed through the efficient manner in which the Newport Section, National Council of Jewish Women, acted as hostesses and assisted in pointing out places of interest during the tour of the city.

In 1929, Samuel Kosch was elected President. The progress of the lodge was carried on very successfully from the expiration of former President Eisenberg's term. Other series of bridges were promoted by President Kosch with the assistance of Irving Eisenberg, which resulted in a larger surplus for the lodge treasury.

The convention in Buffalo was attended by Delegate Irving Eisenberg together with Samuel Kosch, Nathaniel Sacher and Murray S. Jacobs.

The establishment of the Samuel E. Goldman Room, through the beneficence and generosity of the late Samuel E. Goldman, was carried out during President Kosch's term of office. A committee was formed, consisting of President Kosch, Irving Eisenberg and Robert G. Mirman, who drew up a form for a bronze tablet in memory of the late Samuel E. Goldman, and which now graces the wall in the lodge room of the Community Center. At the dedication and unveiling exercises, His Honor, Judge Max Levy, eulogized the late Samuel E. Goldman in an impressive manner that held the audience spell-bound.

Goldman Room Dedicated

The dedication of the Samuel E. Goldman Room and the installation of the officers for the year 1930, with Robert M. Dannin, took place on Thursday, Jan. 16, 1930. A banquet was held and addresses were made by Harry Greenblatt of Boston, representative of the District Grand Lodge; Samuel Kosch, retiring President; Nathan David, first President of the lodge; Vice President Everett I. Hess, Secretary N. Thomas Adelson and Nestor Dreyfus, a representative of the executives of District No. 1 of New London. A chief feature during the administration of President Dannin was the opening of the charter which resulted in a large increase of members. With this new increase in life more activities were possible, which included the organizing of the Newport Chapter of A. Z. A., by Dr. Bernard C. Friedman and Harry Nemptzow.

On Feb. 20th, Judah Touro Lodge celebrated Washington's Birthday with an open meeting, at which Rev. Roy Magoun, Superintendent of the Seamen's Institute, was the guest speaker. A letter, which Washington sent to the Jewish Community at Newport, was read by the President.

On March 20th, State Senator John H. Nolan spoke and his address was both inspiring and entertaining, dealing with the comparison of the Jewish and Irish races, their ideals and understandings.

During the month of May a large class of candidates were initiated, which included twenty members. The initiation was under the direction of Louis Fabricant of New York, former President and now Treasurer of District Grange Lodge No. 1. Archibald Hillman of Worcester, a member of the Grand Committee was also present.

On the evening of Nov. 10th, the lodge celebrated its seventh anniversary with a banquet and entertainment. The guest speaker of the evening was Rabbi Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanu-El of Providence. His address dealt with the religious education of the Jewish youth.

At a later meeting, Rabbi Sonderling of Temple Beth-Israel of Providence addressed an open meeting on the topic of "B'nai B'rith Lodges In This Country and In Europe."

The Grand Lodge Convention in New York was attended by Delegate Samuel Kosch, together with Irving Eisenberg and Bernard Richards. The trip was extended to Washington, where Congressman Clark Burdick and Senator Jesse Metcalf greeted them.

A considerable amount of welfare work has been done during this winter by a committee headed by Secretary N. Thomas Adelson in the distribution of old and discarded clothes among the poor.

A GREAT JEW PASSES

The death of Nathan Straus has won kind words from the lips of many men. Gentile and Jew alike benefited from his good works while he was alive, and there was none who did not respect and admire him for his intelligence and his generosity.

For the wealthy to give lavishly is easy; but it is not so easy to give understandingly, so that you may do the most good. It may honestly be said that Nathan Straus gave so understandingly that he put philanthropy on a sounder basis in America. His life helped him to know how to be charitable, since he himself was not always in affluent circumstances.

After more than a half-century of hard work in business he devoted himself exclusively to philanthropic activities. He was active in New York's civic life, and had a principal interest in public health. This interest led him to so practical an activity as the maintaining of a laboratory for the study of milk pasteurization, an interest profound in him, because it saved the lives of so many children. He spread his ideas to other lands also, even while he continued to do charitable work in New York by distributing coal, bread and groceries to the poor. He maintained lodging houses for the homeless; he founded the first Tuberculosis Preventorium for children.

In 1912 he established soup kitchens in Jerusalem, and he continued to help those who suffered in Palestine. During the war he performed innumerable services for the Red Cross. So splendid was his character as a leader that he was elected Chairman of the American Jewish Congress in 1920 and 1922. In 1923 he was elected the most public-spirited citizen of the country.

All these excellent acts have made the man. Nathan Straus will live long in the memories of the American people, not only because he was a great and outstanding Jew, but because he performed his duties in life, not from the point of view of race or color or creed, but because he had a great heart and a great mind and a great love of man.

Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities
By DAVID SCHWARTZ

"it's terrible—there is little business now."

"But how can you complain?" interrupted the manufacturer's wife, "your business must be as good as ever. People die whether times are hard or not."

"Yes," returned the undertaker's wife, "but you know in hard times people don't have many operations."

But Suppose He Had!

"O my God—O my God," wailed the man.

"What is it?" asked Eddie anxiously.

"What is it? O my God. The bank has failed with such a loss."

"Did you have any money in the bank?" queried Eddie.

"No, but suppose I had—O my God—O my God."

Steuer and Kresel

Revenge is sweet, says the old proverb. So sweet, indeed, that the Torah forbade it. Vengeance belongeth to the Lord, says the Holy Writ. Yet—consider the latest development in the case of the closing of the recent big New York banking institution. Max Steuer has accepted, without compensation, the job of investigating the collapse of that institution. And some spectacular pyrotechnics are expected.

Why did Steuer accept? There is no money in it for him. It actually means a loss of money to him, for his time is worth a couple of thousand a day, and he must expect this bank prosecution to take several months of his time.

Why did he accept? Some are hinting that it is a taste of revenge. Some fifteen years ago, Kresel, who is now very much in the public eye, directed legal proceedings in which Steuer figured.

Well, it happens that Kresel, the hero of the present hour, is one of the directors of the close bank, and Steuer is aching for the opportunity to get Kresel on the witness stand and give him a dose of the medicine that he inflicted on Steuer a decade ago.

It will be interesting to watch these two legal giants of New York measuring lances, with one another. Steuer, intense, alert; Kresel, cool and shrewd.

You've seen a first-class bull dog in the preliminaries with an equally high-powered cat? Well, that will be nothing compared to it—when Kresel and Steuer face each other.

She Knew It Too Well

Steuer is soft spoken, but his eyes look all through you and seem to know everything.

There was the case of the manufacturers indicted in the Triangle Factory fire. The blaze, it will be recalled, was responsible for a ghastly loss of life. Some hundred girls perished in the flames. The manufacturers were charged with manslaughter. The sympathy of the public was, of course, not with Steuer, who led the defense of the factory owners.

But particularly effective on the jury was the story of one of the girls who had escaped from the blazing factory. As she concluded the jury wept.

The story as told by her seemed a bit too dramatic to the alert Steuer. He asked her to repeat it. She did. "You left out a word, didn't you?" Steuer asked. She admitted she did. He asked her to tell it again. She told it again, word for word.

When the jury perceived that the story had been drilled into her by her lawyers and was not a spontaneous reaction, the effect on the jury was lost. Steuer triumphed.

Campaign for Palestine Land Fund Continues

In The Jewish Herald of last week it was stated that a check for $7500 was given to Mr. M. M. Usishkin during his visit here of last week.

This is incorrect as the Jewish National Fund Campaign Committee has raised an amount of but $4000 and until the sum of $7500 is reached, no check can be given to Mr. Usishkin in accordance with the committee's pledge for the purchase of land in Palestine, to be known as the Rhode Island section.

Jewish Cultural Life in Poland Seen on Upgrade

New York, Jan. 23—(JTA)—Despite the grave economic situation of Polish Jews, whose outlook for the future is not too bright, a strong Jewish cultural life has been developed there, declared Dr. A. A. Roback, Jewish scholar, in an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, upon his return from Europe, where he spent about eight months. Dr. Roback, who was instrumental in the establishment of the first university course in Yiddish Literature in America at the Boston University Extension, delivered lectures at Oxford and Warsaw Universities, while abroad. The main purpose of his European trip, however, was to study Jewish cultural life in Europe, especially in Eastern Europe.

"Although economic conditions of the Jews in Poland are bad," Dr. Roback said, "scores of Jewish newspapers and hundreds of Jewish books are being published. Especially delightful is the great number of Jewish schools where Jewish children receive their general education in the Yiddish language. Another important link in the Jewish cultural chain in Poland is the Yiddish Scientific Institute in Vilna which, with its many departments, does important work for Jewish culture."

630 CASES OF INTERMARRIAGE IN BUDAPEST DURING 1930

Budapest, Jan. 23—(JTA)—During the year 1930, 630 cases of intermarriages between Jews and Christians took place in Budapest, according to government statistics recently issued. The great majority of these mixed marriages were with Roman Catholics. Of 318 Jewish men who intermarried, while out of 312 Jewesses who intermarried, 215 took Roman Catholic husbands.

The statistics show that the number of Jewish men in Budapest who intermarry has decreased, while the number of Jewish women who intermarry has remained about the same.

M. Hollis Arnold Announces 1930 Prudential Report

The following is the report of the activity of the Prudential Insurance Company of America mortgage loans made for the year 1930. This information has been sent to M. Hollis Arnold, realtor, the Prudential Loan Correspondent, offices at 104 Grosvenor Building, and should be of utmost interest to real estate owners because real estate mortgage loans continue to hold a high place of investment for the funds of the Prudential and help to create and stabilize values:

"Newark, N. J., Jan. 12, 1931—A disbursement of $177,582,378 in real estate mortgage loans was made during the year 1930 by the Prudential Insurance Company of America, with home offices in this city.

The loans, which were general in scope and not restricted to any particular territory in the United States or Canada, were made on dwellings, apartment houses, mercantile buildings and on farms.

As in previous years the loans on dwellings were greater than on all other properties together, this class of real estate showing 17,163 individual loans for a total of $93,244,913. The dwellings involved provided living accommodations for 19,444 families. There were 846 apartment loans for a total of $17,783,182, these furnishing living quarters for 7930 families.

A total of $36,517 was loaned on 341 mercantile and other properties.

There were 6068 farm loans for a total of $30,036,947.

The Prudential executive in charge of this department of the company, called attention today to the fact that while the total mortgage loans for 1930 were approximately $11,781,200 under the figure for 1929, the preceding year, most of this decrease was in apartment loans.

The Prudential loans in the Providence metropolitan area of dwellings of high-grade construction, apartment houses and mercantile business property well located and well established. Interest rates, the lowest five to ten-year terms to repay, with repayment privilege, and prompt and efficient service render prompt closings. Prompt attention to inquiries will be had at the Loan Correspondent's Office at 104 Grosvenor Building in Providence.

JEWISH WORKERS' EXPERIENCES IN BLIND INSTITUTE TO BE TOLD

New York, Jan. 23—(JTA)—The experience of Jewish workers in the Israelitiches Bindeninstitut, in Vienna, will be related by Dr. Siegfried Altmann, Superintendent of the institution, at the World Conference on Work for the Blind, which meets here next April 13th.

Dr. Altmann is a member of the Committee on Personnel and Program which is making arrangements for the World Conference. He will discuss the methods used in Austria to rehabilitate the Jewish blind through vocational education for a self-respecting place in industry; the education of blind children; the psychological adjustments of the blind to the rest of the community, and similar problems.

Sigma Pi Fellowship

Under the new regime of President Edward Goldberg, all activities of the organization are now in full swing. The boys are tuned to a high pitch of active interest in all the club doings.

Ben Friedman, unanimously elected to captain the five, is handling the ball as well as the boys in wonderful style.

Art Rotman, chairman of the entertainment committee, has threatened the boys with special entertainment at the next meeting.

Past President Milton Blettle would welcome telephone calls from any Jewish boys over 19 years of age caring to follow the Sigma Pi boys in the promotion of fellowship. Please call Dexter 9435 and ask for Milt.

The Sigma Pi Fellowship Club is now going forward in planning their annual formal affair to be held some time in February. The committee in charge consists of Milton Blettle, Milton Blazar and Arthur Rotman.

Joyous news has finally come to the Sigma Pi boys. One of the beloved members has started the ball rolling by getting himself engaged. Good luck, Milt.

Dr. Banice Feinberg, who was toastmaster, presented Mr. Goldblatt a purse of gold on behalf of his friends. Brief talks were given by Louis Nadell of Boston, William Torgen, Max Siegal and Joseph Field.

MONTREAL BATTLES FULLER TONIGHT

Attention of the fistic fans in this section will be directed towards the Providence Auditorium, where tonight, Young Montreal, celebrated Providence boxer, takes on the formidable Sammy Fuller of Boston in ten ten-round headliner of a brilliant fight program.

Because of the many natural elements attached to the affair there is a superfluous amount of interest engendered and a large crowd of the fight faithful is expected to sit in to see proceedings. Fuller will enter the ring a slight favorite in the betting because of his superior hitting attributes and a little weight advantage. Monty has his followers who believe his science and great ring generalship will carry the day for him.

The supporting card is a fine one from every conceivable angle. The eight-round semi-final will show Oddone Piazza, Italy's promising middle, against Johnny Curcio of Providence. Three splendid sixes with Tony Catalano of Providence vs. Al Gelleto of New Bedford; Paris Apice of Providence vs. Whitey Hurwitz of Boston, and Ernie Brooks of England vs. Joey Cayer of New Bedford will complete the bill.

JEWESS PRESIDENT OF MONTANA LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Providence Fraternal Association News

By CHARLES L. SILVERMAN

NEXT MEETING, JANUARY 27

The next meeting of this association will be held next Tuesday, Jan. 27, at 8 p. m., at Eagles' Hall. The President will announce all of his committee appointments. A number of important matters will be taken up and a good attendance is expected.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The membership drive will start at once. Simon Licker is chairman of the Membership Committee and I am confident that he will put over this drive in tip-top fashion. "Si" has been on a number of very important committees at the B. P. O. E. and I understand that every one of his assignments has been carried through in a successful manner.

Three valuable prizes will be given to the members bringing in the most new members. It ought to be a cinch, boys, because we have an organization containing benefits, advantages, etc., that will appeal to every Jewish young man. From a fraternal, insurance and social standpoint, we really have something to offer.

I believe that every young Jew ought to join at least one worthy Jewish lodge. He is able to fraternize with his own people, those that really understand him.

It is only at a Jewish lodge that we can freely exchange Jewish ideas, Jewish hopes and aspirations and a Jewish future. We can be better American citizens by being better Jews. We are respected more by the others by being good Jews than when we try to lose our Jewish heritage.

Fraternal bodies, such as the Masons, Elks, Pythians, Odd Fellows, etc., have their sphere of usefulness, and so has a Jewish lodge. We need it because we are dependent upon each other for security and protection. We Jews are like that—Aren't we all?

Hugo Sperber and Louis Rosenbaum are studying their arithmetic lessons very diligently. Judge Robinson cannot spare the time to tutor them as he is very busy collecting in the little blue tickets and therefore Paul Robin and Sam Lazarus are helping them along in their lessons nicely. The prize will be a fur-lined bath tub.

Many were disappointed who were unable to gain admittance to witness the excellent performance of "Let's Get Married," presented at the C. J. I. BRITISH ANTI-SEMITIC SHEET BEING EXPORTED TO AMERICA

London, Jan. 23—(JTA)—The Board of Deputies of British Jews has addressed a memorandum to the British post office authorities in protest against the exportation from Great Britain to the United States by mail of an anti-Semitic pamphlet. The pamphlet was called to the attention of the Board of Deputies by a prominent American Jewish organization, which urged the Board to take legal action to get the post officials here to prohibit the spread of anti-Semitic propaganda.

In reply to the memorandum the postal authorities emphasize that no action can be taken because the pamphlet is neither indecent nor obscene.

DANCE PLANS DISCUSSED

At the last regular meeting temporary plans were made for the tenth annual dance to be held on the last night of Passover, which is on April 9, this year. Saxe's excellent bowling last week won for him two honors, high single of 139 and high three-string of 361, breaking 137 and 346, respectively, both held formerly by George Labush. Saxe's high scoring also helped his team to win three straight games, bringing his team up to second in the league. If they should repeat their performance next week they will replace Waldman's team from first place, a position they have held since the league started.

Highlights In the History of the Judah Touro Lodge of Newport

President's Message

Much more could be added to the above history since the institution of the Judah Touro Lodge and its continued progress is being looked forward to in the administration of Everett I. Hess for 1931, who says:

"Having been honored by being elected the eighth President of Judah Touro Lodge, No. 998, B'nai B'rith, I feel it incumbent upon me to state that it is to me an opportunity that can be made use of in service not alone to the members but the Jewish community at large. For any lodge, regardless of aims or purposes, must have an ideal, and what is more must attempt to put these ideals into practice. As President, I believe that the Judah Touro Lodge should do all in its power to aid in every worthy object in its sphere.

"As a concrete example of such I do not believe that a better or perhaps larger opportunity to be of service during the coming year to the members of the B'nai B'rith and the community in general exists than that of trying to reduce the debt on our Community Center Building, which we and all the Jewish Community make use of. We should put our shoulders to the wheel and try to be of some material help towards the end of wiping out this debt to a large extent. There is nothing that I know of that is of such great benefit to young and old and is used as much as our Community Building, and it should be maintained at all cost.

"Again I believe that the B'nai B'rith can do much in aiding the sick, distressed and unfortunate, even though it has done a great deal along these lines in the past, but we can redouble our efforts along these lines in many respects. The B'nai B'rith is a wonderful national organization and it only remains for us who believe in it to take advantage of its full measure of service and to try and induce more eligible men to see that such is the case and urge them to become members.

"I wish to thank the members of Judah Touro Lodge for their faith in having elected me their President and I have hopes of a year of harmony and co-operation."

Installation of Officers

The installation of officers for the year 1931 took place on Thursday evening, Jan. 15th, at an open meeting, largely attended. Rabbi Jacob M. Seidel delivered the benediction. Mr. Nestor Dreyfus installed the new officers and His Honor, Max Levy, introduced the speakers of the evening as follows: Robert M. Dannin, retiring President; Nestor Dreyfus of District No. 1, of New London; Mr. Nathan David, President of the Congregation Jeshuat Israel and first President of the Judah Touro Lodge; Judge Max Levy and Max H. Reback of Pawtucket, District Deputy.

The officers installed were as follows:

President, Everett I. Hess; Dr. Bernard C. Friedman, Vice President; Fred S. Kashman, Financial Secretary; Dr. Simon Ozarin, Recording Secretary; Max Adelson, Treasurer; Dr. Samuel Nevelson, Trustee, three years; Robert G. Mirman, Trustee, two years; Robert M. Dannin, Monitor; Harry Eggert, Warden; Delegate to Convention, Robert M. Dannin; Irving Eisenberg, Alternate.

REGULAR MEETING

A regular meeting was held on Sunday, Jan. 18th, at Eagles' Hall. This was the largest attended meeting that this organization ever had as the much-talked-of debate was held. The members that were there certainly were not a bit sorry for spending the morning at this meeting. Our new Chairman, Bernard Abedon, certainly was inspired, as this was his first meeting as presiding officer, and it gave him an opportunity to get acquainted with most of the members.

Now for the debate. The subject was, "Resolved, That the U. S. Recognize the Soviet Government." The affirmative was upheld by Sidney Hoffman, our general Vice Chairman, and Joshua Bell, well-known attorney of this city. Their arguments were very well taken. The negative was upheld by Joseph Ress, local attorney, and Louis Halpern. This discussion was educational in every way, and I am sure that if our educational committee plans on a debate every once in a while our attendance at the meetings will increase at all times.

The following are the officers of this organization:

Chairman, Bernard Abedon; Vice Chairman, Sidney Hoffman; Recording Secretary, M. Hercov; Financial Secretary, S. Newman; Treasurer, S. Wolk, and Inside Guard, M. Urban. Brothers, come up to the meetings and enjoy a few hours.

J. A. C.

The Junior Activities Committee held a meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 14th, at the headquarters, corner Prairie avenue and Blackstone street. There were several prominent members of the R. I. W. B. A. present and it certainly is an inspiration to the younger men of this organization to have these old-timers with us.

Plans were made as how to get more young men to attend our meetings and if this works out to our expectations, I am sure that we will have to get new and larger headquarters.

PERSONALS

SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

ONLY ONE EASTERN TEAM WITH CLEAN SLATE

What a cyclone hit the basketball courts during the past week. When I sent this column to bed last week four New York City college fives had yet to meet defeat and now at this writing, St. John's, is the sole remaining undefeated member of the group. C. C. N. Y. has fallen twice. Meeting St. John's last Saturday night the local team tasted defeat by the score of 26-21. It was the fourth consecutive time that a St. John's quintet was able to beat out a Holman coached team. It brought the Brooklyn team's winning streak up to nineteen games in two years of play. N. Y. U. bit the dust twice, first at the hands of Pittsburgh and a few nights later Columbia turned the trick. Fordham took it on the chin from Syracuse and Pittsburgh. I refuse to do any predicting now as St. John's will meet the Syracuse team and then Manhattan College five, undefeated team, and also a winner over C. C. N. Y.

The most exciting contest over the week-end was the C. C. N. Y.-St. John's battle. Playing before a crowd of 12,000, the greatest ever to witness a basketball game in New York, the Irish-though Jewish team, clearly showed their superiority over the City College boys. Lallie Schuckman, St. John forward, was the individual star of the game and lead the scoring. Max Posnack and Begovich were the two other main cogs in the St. John machine. Trupin and Davidoff were the stars for C. C. N. Y., but their best was not quite good enough to overcome the fine play of the more experienced and bigger St. John's boys.

The only honey in the C. C. N. Y. ointment was the victory of the C. C. N. Y. Junior Varsity team, which defeated the St. John subs for its 10th win this season.

KING LEVINSKY LOSES TO SLATTERY

A few weeks ago King Levinsky, ex-fish peddler and the pride of Chicago, won a decision over Jimmy Slattery, the light-heavyweight. The fans claimed it was a steal and to prove they were right demanded a return bout. It was held the other evening at Chicago. The fans were right. Levinsky was trimmed by Slattery with ease. He gave the big Jewish boy an artistic boxing lesson. Levinsky tried to box and was ludicrous to behold. The pretty Buffalo boy made him look foolish. The fans didn't enjoy the spectacle, but they got what they wanted.

The ballyhoo for Maxie Baer, Jewish heavyweight, is beginning to be heard again. Latest blasts tell us that Maxie is going to get a chance at either Schmeling, the deposed champ, Stribling or Sharkey. Don't you believe it. Max will first fight Heeney, and if he can't beat him he might just as well go back to California and become a weather prophet.

GUTTMAN PASSES OUT OF BIG LEAGUE SOCCER

It seems as though it were only yesterday that a group of young Jewish boys, wearing the star of David on blue and white jerseys, ran into the Polo Grounds and played soccer against the best American teams. These boys, fresh from Vienna, were known as Hakoah, and made America soccer-conscious and also proved how adept Jewish boys were with a ball and a pair of feet. A lot of hard cider has run through the mill since then. Only the other day it was announced that Bela Guttman, center halfback of the New York Soccer Club, had been given his unconditional release. It means he is through as a player in big league soccer. Guttman was one of the original Hakoah players. His fine play attracted the attention of the American managers and he was signed to play with the Giants, but when the Hakoah All Stars were formed to play in the Eastern League. Guttman signed with them and played for two years. Released by his Jewish friends last fall he signed to play with the New York team and now it is found that he has slowed up a trifle and must leave the game.

HAKOAH STARTS QUEST FOR NATIONAL HONORS

Although they finished third in the league standings, the Hakoah All Stars have hopes of regaining national supremacy by winning the cup offered by the United States Football Association. It was the winning of this cup, two years ago, that gave Hakoah top ranking in the soccer world.

Starting auspiciously for the 1931 award, the Hakoah team beat the New York S. C. 2-1 in the opening round. The Hakoah forward line was functioning with smoothness of a 16-cylinder car and at half time had gained a lead of two goals, which they kept well protected. W. Wortman, a former Hakoah star, played with the New York team, while S. Wortman performed for Hakoah and accounted for one of its tallies.

I wonder where the Jewish soccer players of the future are going to come from? It is unlikely that Vienna boys will continue to make a push for these shores and there have been so few native-born American soccer players of any note. The Agar family were active in the game and so was Vic Ross of New York City, but they were exceptions. Every season one sees plenty of Jewish names in the lineups of the college teams, but that seems to be as far as the boys go. Can it be that the remuneration is not a sufficient lure. A star soccer player gets $100 a week.

CHATTERINGS

Professional wrestling is reaping the golden harvest. The local fans, fed up on poor boxing exhibitions, have become frequenters of the wrestling matches, evidently happy to know that at least the fakes put on before them are fooling nobody. Our Jewish wrestlers, who have known lean years, are getting their now. Herb Freeman seems to be the best of the lot and is appearing in the major shows.

The rankings of the tennis stars for the season of 1930 are due towards the middle of next month and I suppose one doesn't have to be a seer to guess that there will be no Jewish names among the first ten.

Notice how all the boys back-peddled when a college professor solved the over-emphasis on football by suggesting that only one game a season be played. A poke in the pocketbook is worth ten anywhere else!

Have you ever tried to turn out a page of copy in a hurry on a jumpy typewriter? This misses two letters a word. Are you surprised this column is done in a hurry?

I examined the lineups of 20 New York basketball teams and found 10 Cohens listed!

The C. C. N. Y. basketball team doesn't practice on Friday nights and if games were scheduled for Saturday afternoons there would be no team.

Jewish Postal Clerk Re-elected Financial Secy.

Is Holding Office in Local 387, National Federation of Post Office Clerks for Fourth Year

For the fourth consecutive time, Nathan Schwartz, one of the only three Jewish postal employees of Providence Post Office, its stations and branches, was re-elected without opposition to the office of Financial Secretary of Local 387, National Federation of Post Office Clerks, when the organization held its annual election of officers last Sunday at the Benefit Street Arsenal.

Mr. Schwartz has been in the postal service for 10 years and has always been active in the work of this organization. He has now won for the sixth consecutive year the Bring-a-Brother Contest conducted by this organization every year.

EPSILON SIGMA BETA PREPARES FOR FROLIC

At the regular meeting of the Epsilon Sigma Beta, held at Temple Beth-Israel, last Sunday, a special social committee which had been appointed at the previous meeting, reported to be making rapid headway. The committee, which consists of Irving Mittleman (chairman), H. Lawrence Hoffman, Malcolm Gordon and Leo Rosenthal, has been endowed with the power to act in any manner it sees fit, directing its course of activity towards some form of social affair.

At the next regular meeting which is to be held at the club rooms at Temple Beth-Israel on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 1st, the committee will announce to the fraternity the time, place and the nature of this frolic, for which elaborate preparations are being made.

Likens H. Szold to F. Nightingale In a Radio Address

Dr. Newman Praises the Work of Henrietta Szold and Her Rare Service to Cause of Zionism

New York, Jan. 23—Dr. Louis I. Newman, Rabbi of the Congregation Rodeph Sholom, and member of the Administrative Committee of the Zionist Organization of America, spoke over WGBS, as part of the world-wide celebration of the 70th birthday of Henrietta Szold, founder of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America.

In a stirring speech, Dr. Newman extolled the work of Henrietta Szold and her rare service to the cause of Zionism. "Her example is an inspiration of immeasurable power," declared Rabbi Newman, "for it is built in the spirit of Florence Nightingale, Susan B. Anthony and other illustrious women who have pioneered in the fields of humanitarian and altruistic service." Tracing the beginning of Miss Szold's interest in the re-building of the Jewish National Home in Palestine, Dr. Newman told of Miss Szold's first visit to Palestine in 1909.

"This event marked a turning point in her career," he declared. "She rejoiced in the achievements of the Jewish colonists, but she noted with sorrow the many difficulties which troubled the heroic Yishub as the settlement in Palestine is known. She turned her attention particularly to the medical needs of the colonies. Under Turkish control the health problem of the country had been treated unscientifically and primitively. While the Jews sought to introduce the best methods of Western hygiene, surgery and medicine, the Arab settlements nearby lacked the sanitation and cleanliness we associate with orderly living. Malaria, trachoma; skin diseases were due in large measure to neglect; the dangers attending childbirth, the high infant mortality, the lack of adequate nursing service and other short-comings impressed themselves upon Miss Szold's sympathetic spirit. She determined to enlist the co-operation of the Jewish women of America in an enterprise of mercy and healing. Out of her vision emerged Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization, with its motto: 'The Healing of My People.' Today Hadassah consists of 296 Chapters in as many cities of this country with a total membership of 50,000 Senior and Junior members."

Dr. Newman's radio address was part of a world-wide celebration of Miss Szold's birthday in recognition of her incomparable service to Zionism. An informal dinner tendered to her by the National Senior and Junior Boards of Hadassah was another part of the program. In 196 cities and towns of this country meetings have been held, in order to extol the work of Miss Szold. Messages have poured in and are still pouring in from all over the country and from almost every country in the world.

THE ESKIMO

In the land of ice and snow There lives the Eskimo Their weapons are made of bone And others are made of stone.

From the ice and snow The Eskimo builds his glow The dog does most of the work From burden they do not shirk.

The summer is pleasant The winter is cold The Eskimos stand it For they are bold.

The name Firestone is on every tire Firestone makes. They do not make tires under Special Brand names for mail order houses or other distributors. Such tires are made by some unknown manufacturer and sold under a name that does not identify him to the public, usually because he builds his first line tires under his own name.
