SUICIDE EPIDEMIC HITS VIENNA JEWS

Vienna (WNS)—An epidemic of suicides among Austrian Jews is revealed in a report of the government's bureau for helping people who are tired of living. More than 200 people call at the bureau every month, a majority of them Jews, the bureau announced.

The report, however, did not say that the Jews are taking their own lives because of the cold pogrom which is steadily closing all avenues of employment to them. Many of the suicides are German refugees. It is said that three of the six persons who commit suicide in Vienna every day are Jews.

Gifts Distributed By Assn. Visiting Comm.

Mrs. Louis Lovett, chairman of the Ladies Union Aid Visiting Committee to State Institutions, recently reported that she had distributed handkerchiefs and stockings to the Jewish inmates of Howard. They were donated by Mrs. Bernard Goodman.

Through the courtesy of Councilman Kagan and the Elks Club, several families, recommended by the Ladies Hebrew Union Aid, were treated with Christmas baskets, containing groceries and fruits.

NAZI COURTS DEFY OWN PROSECUTORS

Decisions Are Contrary to Nazi Wishes

Berlin (WNS)—Two Nazi courts in different sections of the country have just handed down decisions contrary to Nazi wishes. In Baden-Baden a court convicted the Nazi hoodlum, M. Birtbauer of attacking Mrs. Arthur Cohen of London last August and sentenced him to seven years in prison.

In Berlin another court defied the Nazi prosecutor and refused to convict a former Jewish journalist who had been accused of violating the law forbidding Jews to be journalists. The Jewish newspapermen had been selling newspaper photographs to provincial papers under an assumed name.

The prosecutor sought to convict him for using a false name in the practice of his profession but the court ruled that selling photographs was not his profession.

POLAND PLANS GHETTO CLASSES

Warsaw (WNS) — Establishment of ghetto seating sections for Jewish students in all Polish universities will be announced after the first of the new year when the universities reopen, is the fear being openly expressed in Jewish circles and the Jewish press.

The universities have been closed since the recent outbreak of anti-Jewish rioting growing out of the students' demands for the separation of Jewish students in all classes.

The university authorities have made a great show of refusing these demands but they are now exercising heavy pressure on Jewish leaders to agree to voluntary ghetto seating arrangements. It is understood that this attempt to get the Jews to accept this plan is designed to allay any protests from abroad and to avoid any new outburst of anti-Polish feeling.

BANQUET, MEETING WILL OPEN DRIVE

Urgency of Increased Donations Stressed

Preliminary to the general conference and meeting which is to be held next Sunday night under the auspices of the United Palestine Appeal at the Biltmore Hotel and to be addressed by Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, and Mrs. Archibald Silverman of Providence, a group of men and women prominent in Jewish communal life gathered at the Narragansett Hotel at a luncheon meeting last Monday to complete plans for the drive.

The meeting was presided over by Max Winograd, chairman of the Initial Gifts Committee of the United Palestine Appeal, and addressed by Archibald Silverman and Dr. Ilie Berger. The urgency of larger contributions for the fund to meet the ever-increasing needs connected with the up-building of the Jewish homeland was stressed by the speakers.

THREE-FOLD TASK

It was pointed out by Mr. Silverman that the drive this year is a three-fold task, inasmuch as it covers the purposes of the Jewish National Fund, the land purchasing-agency of the Zionist organization, the Karen Hayesod, or Palestine Foundation Fund, and the Emergency Security Fund. The last of the three is of particular significance this year since it seeks to rebuild all that was destroyed during the Arab riots and to furnish security against a repetition of similar occurrences.

In response the following men and women pledged their best efforts towards the achievements of the goal of this year's drive: Mrs. Saul Abrams, Morris Beeber, Mrs. Morris Beeber, Mrs. Ilie Berger, Max Berman, Alter Boyman, Henry Burt, Walter Cohen, Mrs. Jacob Ernstof, Morris Feinberg, Jacob I. Felder, Miss Irene Finklestein, Mrs. Anna Goldenberg, James Goldman, Abraham Heller,

Untermeyer, the Poet, to Speak at Center

Louis Untermeyer, sometimes referred to as America's greatest poet, will be the speaker in the fourth of the major Sunday evening programs offered by the Center this season next Sunday evening.

Mr. Untermeyer will deliver an address that will combine readings of his poetry and humorous discussions of the variations of the English language which sometimes is referred to as the "new American."

Some of the excerpts of his own autobiography are interesting. He says he was born in New York, raised and miseducated there. Unable to graduate from high school, he compensated for that failure later in life by becoming an author, editor, lecturer, and itinerant pedagogue, devoting much of his time to teaching teachers what not to teach.

WAS BUSINESS MAN

He is one of the few literary figures who have made a success in both the business and artistic worlds. He retired from a large manufacturing jewelry business, which he was vice-president, and factory manager — having been one of the first men in the country voluntarily to reduce working hours, and his many collections and original volumes are in every public library, even in a few private ones.

In 1928 he moved from his native New York City to a trout-stream, a mountain of sugar maples, and a farm of one hundred and sixty acres in the upper Adirondack Mountains. There when he is not traveling or hiding in various "winter quarters," he lives with his wife (ex-Judge Esther Antin, who practices law in Ohio and New York), his two sons, and an accumulation of cats.

A reception will follow the address. Mrs. Max Tarnapol is the chairman, assisted by Mrs. Martin Bernstein, co-chairman and Mesdames Barney Hochberg, Benj. Rakatansky, Harry Katz, William Meyers, Sol Rubenstein, Harry Marshak, Charles Tessler, Mathew Curran, Morris Sackett, Max Temkin, William Kolb, Ira Galkin, Charles Barad, Max Sadler, Hallet J. Foster, Sydney Levinson, Ira Robinson and Max Botwin.

Hadassah To Conduct Annual Linen Shower

At a special meeting conducted Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Barney Taber, Moore street, plans were formulated for Hadassah's Annual Linen Shower, which is scheduled for January 12th in Temple Beth-El, at two o'clock.

Owing to the heavy demands on the Palestine Supplies' Bureau, due to abnormal conditions in the Holy Land during the past six months, there is at present a great shortage of linens in the Hadassah hospitals and thirty-nine additional institutions sponsored by Hadassah.

The Committee in charge of the Linen Shower project is as follows: Mrs. Barney Taber, chairman, Mrs. Samuel Michaelson, co-chairman, Mrs. Leo Cohen, hospital, Mrs. Leo Rosen, telephone squad, Mrs. Rose Markensohn, program.

Mrs. Morris Cowen will review the much discussed book "The Brothers Ashkenazi" by I. J. Singer. This novel was chosen in England as the most outstanding book-of-the-month for October. Mrs. Esther Pritsker will give "Current Events." A social hour will close the afternoon's proceedings.

As another method of helping the National office raise additional funds necessary because of the recent disturbances in Palestine, Hadassah will hold its first Rummage Sale during the month of January. Mrs. Judah C. Semonoff, is chairman and is being assisted by a committee to procure cast-off articles of any kind. Further announcements in this connection will be made shortly.

The next meeting of the Cultural Study Group will be held at the Biltmore Hotel, Friday, January 8th, at two o'clock. Rabbi Morris Schussheim will again be the speaker.

Banquet for Nurses Saturday at Hotel

The ninth annual banquet for the Nursing Staff of the Miriam Hospital, given by the management of the institution, will be held Saturday evening in the Narragansett Hotel.

Following the banquet there will be dancing to which all friends of the hospital are invited to attend.

Welfare Unit Elects Officers; Hear Reports

Arthur J. Levy was elected president of Jewish Family Welfare Society for his eighth term at the Annual Meeting of the society held on Wednesday evening of this week at the Carpenter Memorial Building of the Providence Community Fund. Other officers were elected as follows:

First vice president, Mrs. Moses Einstein; second vice president, Alter Boyma, secretary, Dr. Joseph Smith, treasurer, Charles C. Brown, counsel, Jacob S. Temkin. Directors for three year terms: Mrs. Fred Adler, Walter Adler, Rabbi William G. Braude, Max L. Grant, Harry M. Myers, Miss Rose Presel, and Mrs. Ephraim Rosen. Director for two year term to fill vacancy: Mrs. Esther Pritsker.

Directors whose terms continue are: Irving I. Fain, Mrs. Louis Goldenberg, Mrs. Edward M. Finberg, Henry Hassenfeld, Dr. James C. Krasnoff, Mrs. Kopel Mayberg, Dr. Joseph B. Webber, Mrs. Max A. Cohen, Morris Feinberg, Mrs. Milton Fuld, Mrs. Harry Guny, Dr. Louis I. Kramer and Samuel H. Workman.

The meeting was addressed by Rabbi Levi A. Olan of Worcester, who is chairman of the New England Conference of Jewish Communal Agencies, President of the United Jewish Charities and President of the Jewish Community Council of Worcester. Rabbi Olan outlined the program by which the Jewish social agencies of his city are integrated in a city wide organization by which all problems of charitable and other broad Jewish interests are dealt with by a single democratic body. His subject was "Practical Jewish Communal Organization."

REVIEWS WORK

Miss Jessie Josolowitz, executive director, reviewed the work of the agency during the past year. Her report showed that there had been a slight decrease in the calls upon the society for relief during the year, with the result that more attention could be paid to problems of deeper significance. During 1935 305 different families were assisted, while during the first eleven months of 1936 the number totalled 292. Among the 292 families were 1008 individual men, women and children, representing about five per cent of the total Jewish population of the city. Most of the cases presented not one but a number of different causes of difficulty.

Sixty-seven per cent presented the difficulty of unemployment, under employment or seasonal employment. In 82 per cent of the cases ill health was a factor in the trouble. Of these 67 per cent showed behavior problems or personality difficulties. Twenty-three per cent involved difficulties due to old age and incapacity for employment for that reason. In 41 per cent of the families there was a history of domestic disorder, marital incompatibility, desertion or family discord. Five per cent of the cases were those involving widowhood.

MOTHER'S AID HELPED

The last group is small because the Mother's Aid law has helped for a number of years. In 1936 a similar result obtained due to the Old Age Assistance Act. Thus, 26 families, involving 33 persons received regular monthly aid during the year, amounting to $561 per month. This replaced the smaller sum of $106.50 which the society was able to give these same families, and freed that sum for use in connection with better care of other cases.

Mr. Levy, in his Annual Report as President, pointed out that in 1936 the society was able for the first time since its organization in 1930 to begin to approach the broad problem of really rebuilding families and expressed the hope that in 1937 a definite program and plan would be developed and put into effect for doing the job of rehabilitation for which the society was originally organized. Among the things which might be included in that program he suggested such things as vocational guidance and employment placement services, much more constructive service and relief to families which could be put on their own feet again, a service of business advice, small loans and small grants to small business men, whereby they could again support their own families, and a number of other features.

Mr. Levy also pointed out that the steps which are soon to be taken for a complete reorganization of the entire Jewish Social work picture in the community would necessarily benefit Jewish Family Welfare Society by enabling it to dovetail its work much more effectively with that of the other agencies in the community.

PIONEER CONCERT PLEASES AUDIENCE

Maxim Brodyn and Company, with Zelda Zlotin and Woolf Merker, members of the Little Art Theatre, New York, completely captivated the appreciative audience last Sunday night at the Plantations Club. The concert was sponsored by the Women Pioneer Club.

The first part of the program gave Mr. Brodyn ample opportunity to display his fine baritone voice. He excelled in tone quality and control, singing his high notes like a tenor and in his lower tones displayed a real basso quality.

Zelda Zlotin added much to the program with her mimicry her interpretive stories. The smiles on the faces of the Orthodox Jews in attendance were proof of the nativity of the stories. In the second half of the program, Woolf Merker astounded your correspondent and the entire audience with his rendition of Rudyard Kipling's "Boots" in Jewish.

I, for one, suggest more of these programs of a strongly Jewish nature. They not only help out Jewish art and artists, but also teach us a bit more of Jewish life.

Nazi Court Acquits Muniton Officials

Berlin (WNS)—A stunning setback was administered to the Nazi regime by one of its own courts at Meiningen when after a secret trial of six months three of the leading officials of the former Simson Arms Works at Suhl, which were owned by Arthur Simson, a Jew, were acquitted of charges that they had defrauded the government over a period of nine years.

The action against the Simson firm and its officials began last December when it was taken over by Fritz Sauckel, Nazi governor of the state, and the name of Simson eliminated. Simson himself left the country before the trial but his business manager, factory manager and chief engineer stood trial. All were acquitted for lack of sufficient evidence.

Toscanini In Palestine

The first concert of the new Palestine Symphony Orchestra in Tel Aviv under the baton of Arturo Toscanini was an event of more than passing interest. The members of that orchestra included many distinguished artists who are exiles from Germany.

The world-famous conductor was the man who has repeatedly emphasized that he would have nothing to do with Hitlerism or any other ism that destroys culture. And the audience numbered many refugees who had found a new life in Palestine.

From this aspect the concert is the musical world's answer to Hitler.

More significant, however, is the fact that the tremendous enthusiasm of Palestine Jewry over the concert and the establishment of the orchestra as a permanent institution reveals the deep-rooted love of culture that is inherent in the Yishub.

Although politics dominates the news from Palestine, it remains a fact that art, literature, music and the theatre enjoy extraordinary support in Palestine.

In the midst of building the Jewish Homeland the Yishub still manifests a loving devotion to the arts—which is one of its noblest attributes.

Incident In Tripoli

The disturbing anti-Semitic articles that have appeared recently in certain Italian newspapers have been discounted as utterances of unofficial writers.

Italy, it was said, still held fast to the theory that Fascism need not be anti-Semitic.

This interpretation was accepted, even if with some hesitation, in view of Mussolini's refusal to be a party to Jew-baiting. But what are we to think now when Jews are publicly flogged in Tripoli, on orders of the Italian authorities, for refusing to violate the Sabbath?

In an attempt to force Jewish merchants to move from the newer section of Tripoli to the old city, the Tripolitan officials decreed that all shops must remain open every day except Sunday.

Naturally the Jewish merchants rebelled.
Many capitulated and moved out of the new city.

To terrify those who were adamant, three were singled out for a public whipping.

It may be that Italo Balbo, governor of Tripoli, acted without instructions from Rome.
If he did, then it is up to Rome to repudiate

Brisbane's Death

The death of Arthur Brisbane, noted journalist and columnist, removes a newspaper man who throughout his career never failed to combat anti-Semitism either at home or abroad. In his famous column, "Today" he often denounced attacks on Jews. He was one of the first important journalists to come out against the Berlin Olympics. He was particularly bitter against Nazi Germany's policy of Jewish persecution.

daughter Mrs. Hirsberg, the Morris Grovers, Dave Geffner, the Al Strauss's, Dot Raphael, Ruth Waldman, Rose Sugarman, Edith Captin of Worcester, Esa Goldberg, Hilda Raphael, Grace Eisendorff,

proud of that kid brother back for a vacation from college in Colorado . . . Mrs. Irving Pliner, she the former Ruth Shaeffer and now of Framingham, in

PIONEERS ENTERTAIN

A precedent in fine Yiddish entertainment was set by the premier annual concert of the Women's Pioneer Club of Providence at the Plantations Club.
Maxim Brodyn's presentation of arias from the operas and Yiddish folk songs indicated a sweet voice of pleasant qualities expertly handled by a true artist. An interesting use of hands, an accomplishment of few American singers, was noticeable throughout.

But expert singer as he is, and surrounded by expert accompaniment, Maxim Brodyn once again brought home the proverbial lack of "sechel" on the part of an artist. Our enjoyment of really excellent entertainment was marred by complete let-downs to fourth rate "Second Avenue Vaudeville"
such as the telephone skit which showed good acting, but with cheap and rank material—and I'm no Galitzianer . . . Most of the gags were ancient.
One of them I recognized as a crack which cost my grandfather five dollars—he broke the slats of his cradle laughing at it. The selection hardly in consonance with the rest of the program which was of high quality.

KUNTZ BOOTS

One of the oddest effects ever to be produced on the stage was the presentation of a Yiddish version of Rudyard Kipling's "Boots." This was an excellent and clever portrayal. Rudyard Kipling was made vivid by Woolf Merkur, an old hand of the "Kuntz Theatre." Zeldia Zlotin did excellent work in accompaniment at the piano as well as in uniformly good acting.

Prominent among the Pioneers was Mrs. Harry Beck whose striking white hair set off against the curtain, Mrs. Louis Smira, chairman of the arrangements, the Harry Chaets, the Morris Beebers, the Alter Boymans, the Henry Burts, the Sam Shatkins, the Ben Rakatanskys, the Arthur Kormans, the whole tribe of Shermans.

Bill Smira, placid as ever. Nate Hilfer enjoying himself. The Al Travis's, the Jack Felders. George Pulman, Harry Leach.

LATE DINERS

Frances Rabinowitz back from Boston where she saw the new show Frederika . . . Jean Mazo nonchalantly drifting down 5th Ave. with her fiancé
. . . Toots Norman doing the big city . . . At Leon and Eddie's Ethel Levine Sho' did enjoy her company . . . Spotted Judah Greene dashing from his home to his drug store in East Prov. . . .

port . . .

Seen but not heard above the din: Lew Winburg,

protected her from my recognition. Sid Silverstein who seems to like Woonsocket better than our own town . . . the George Preblods, whom we haven't run into since summer. Leo Mann with his beautiful wife. Jack Anhalt with a trio of the younger set.

ANCIENT MARINER

Next time you boys want to take in a Charity
Ball make sure they have water on the menu . . .
When some of the boys asked Jack Seefer why the waiters would not bring water for love or graft at the Home for the Aged affair Saturday Night, Jake's answer was "Water is not on the menu." It seems, however, that some of the self-perpetuating dignitaries knew the trick of getting water even though it was not on the menu and they got it—plenty of it—much to the humiliation of some of the crowd who just bought tickets for the affair and who can't seem to place the blame for the incident
but who aren't exactly well-disposed toward anyone connected with it. Thanks M. L. for your letter, it arrived too late to be used.

"FIER HINDERT"

Mrs. Astor thought she was pretty ritzy with her
"400" but the boys who're running that New Year Eve party at the Manor have it all over her. They tell me reservations closed tightly several days ago and there are more people who wish they'd thought earlier than ever wanted to crash "the list." . . .

By EDYTHE JAY
The Hotel Narragansett was the scene of the season's most colorful affair last Saturday night, when more than 600 gay and laughing people gathered to celebrate the Home for Aged Ball . . . Under that suave baton waver, Pietro D'Alfonso, one of the largest crowds ever to attend such an affair tripped, skipped and capered through an evening of fun, strongly reminiscent of a New Year's Eve celebration . . . And lest we forget, top honors are hereby allotted to Lou Rosenberg and his committee, whose perfect arrangements were in evidence . . .

From our point of vantage, (the head of the stairs,) we watched the steady parade of incoming guests, and as the lady next to me said "If the success of the Ball hinged on the number of beautiful women attending, its success was assured." . . .

Among the early arrivals, we spotted our old friends the Harry Eisenbergs, she the former Trixie Bedrick with the curly hair, followed by the Charlie Barads . . . Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Licht, she in black satin with a flower figured top . . . Herbert Cohen, his six foot three in tall contrast to cute Sylvia Young, petite in black net as was Mrs. I. Fain, trimmed with sweetheart roses . . . Mrs. Iie Berger in gold lame . . .

Leo Cohen stopped to greet his brother doctors on the way up . . . His wife looked smart in black, enhanced by a jewelled girdle and neckline . . . Bess Gorman sauntered in, a picture in pink and silver lame . . . The Dave Dwares, a handsome couple, she in black sprinkled with silver, her face all but hidden by an enormous corsage of gardenias . . .

Leo Logan entered with the Mrs., swathed in mink . . . The Harry Becks, her crowning glory of white a standout in any crowd . . . the statuesque Mrs. Hillel Hassenfeld, lovely in flowered gown . . . Mrs. Joe Levine, one of the few women wearing a corsage of orchids . . . Bernice (Rosenberg) Lash fairly flew up the stairs to plant a kiss on Momma's cheek . . . Her husband followed suit . . . the Saul Feinbergs were next to come—her green gown set off her red hair, ala Grecian style, with orchids to contrast . . . Emma Miller in blue, accompanied by her pranking husband, Leo, made up a part of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Korb's party . . . Mr. and Mrs. Sol Cohen and Walter (Red) Cohen, with a lady from Central Falls, rushed in late . . .

Passing through the door to the dance floor, the ever-smiling Isaac Feinstein checked us off, with Sam Magid's approval . . . Herman Swartz, always a hard worker was in charge of checking everybody in and distributing the food concession . . . On our first turn around the Ballroom we came upon a bunch of boys and girls whooping it up in a private Paul Jones, while over at the other end Mrs. Olevson kept the girls in stitches with funny stories . . . Pen Trinkel surprised us with his intrepredation of the rhumba . . .

There were the Reuben Lipsons, the Sam Lazarus's, the Jake Felders, the Ted Max's . . . And we noticed that Mrs. Aaron Hilfer finally enticed her husband off his comfortable lounge seat and whirled him around the Ballroom . . . Jolly Adolph Meller and his party struggled thru the crowd—Nan Greenspan vivacious as ever and looking her best was the centre of a gay gang . . . the Feinbergs were well represented with the Saul's the Jerry's and the Morris's and then Morris Feinberg put his sons to shame by waltzing around the floor in the "Grand Manner" Milt and Nora Potter came ahead of the senior Potter's but they got together in good style . . . Came 11 o'clock and all went to the tables, with a little time out for cocktails at the bar . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kane and the Olevsons were there first . . .

Harry Goldshine captured his table early, and in his party we noticed the Sydney Kanen . . . Evelyn Marks, in from New York and a vacation, seemed to be enjoying herself . . . Mildred Wine shimmered in a gold sequin tunic over a blue skirt . . . Morris Cooper the ice-cream king looked a bit pale, but we know why . . . Al Berger was busy with arrangements . . . Martin Curran and Shep Gray decided that a little close harmony would work in well at the party . . . The Charles Tesslers and their Pawtucket group developed a gay party of their own . . . Archie and Joe Finkel came ensembled . . . Between bites Doc Mellion told me he is planning a trip to California . . . In his party were the Rubins of Fall River . . .

After the midnight bite dancing continued until 1.30 . . . The only cause for complaint we might have is that this Ball may be too much of an anti-climax to our New Year's Eve celebration . . .

In recognition that times do change, the French have a pat little saying—"other times, other customs." Back in the 80's a party was an awful ordeal. Guests arrived and perched on the edges of uncomfortable chairs in a "parlor" and conversed about literature and "genteel subjects." How glad both hostess and guests were when the party was over!

But, having a few people in for the evening is quite a different matter today. All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't keep the guests from strolling nonchalantly into the kitchen. And why not, unless your kitchen is something to be ashamed of?

A modern kitchen is an electric kitchen. The electric refrigerator is a necessity to the family health and comfort; the electric range enables anyone to shine as a perfect cook. Then there's the electric water-heater, which supplies hot water instantly, and the little electric kitchen mixer which performs a dozen tasks.
