The Mad 17

The plot to overthrow the United States Government, charged against 17 members of the "Christian Front" is so fantastic as to be almost incredible. Yet the evidence collected by J. Edgar Hoover and his FBI operatives is of a kind that cannot be dismissed; rifles, ammunition and bombs.

But has the whole story behind the 17 arrested been told? Was the plan to terrorize racial groups, to bomb newspapers and theatres no more than the reaction of a few unstable men to the tales of war and the flood of propaganda? Or was their insanity only a part of a bigger and crazier project directed by others?

Answers to the above questions will not be forthcoming readily. Despite the voluminous evidence available that Father Coughlin, sponsor of the Christian Front, advised member units to use force if necessary, Mr. Hoover, head of the FBI, and the Dies Committee, have said that neither Father Coughlin nor the organizations he backs, are responsible for "Christian Frontism."

And now for political propaganda, with an eye to the coming presidential campaign, Governor Aiken of Vermont, deplores the fact that these 17 were arrested inferring that their crime was that of only speaking out freely against the New Deal. "There are indications," he further said, "that some people are becoming afraid to speak out for fear of reprisals." Mr. Aiken has expediently forgotten that in a democracy one speaks with their mouths and not with guns and bombs.

Mad as the whole conspiracy may be, any attempt to confuse the issues behind the arrest of the "Christian Frontists", should be resisted vigorously. Every detail of its origin should be brought to light and every person convicted of taking part in it should be given the treatment prescribed by law.

Jews in the Soviet

An ominous note was sounded by Oswald Garrison Villard last week when he predicted that the Nuremberg national laws will be applied to Jews in Russia as part of the Nazi-Soviet agreement. According to information which he received "from responsible circles in Germany" this step was to take place within six months of the conclusion of the agreement signed August 23.

Meanwhile it is reported in Poland that thousands of Jews are pouring into Soviet Russia, the border between Germany and Soviet Poland being temporarily re-opened to permit Jews to escape the Nazi persecution.

With more than three million Jews in Russia, the application of Goebbel's laws would be a tragedy too horrible to contemplate. Since strict censorship exists in Russia concerning this story, we can only hope that the "responsible circles" Mr. Villard quotes are trial balloons by the Nazis in a further attempt to place the blame of the present wars on the Jews.

Testimonial Dinner to Archibald Silverman Planned for March 5th

Wins Temple Award

Winfred L. Fitzpatrick Nursing Head Named 'Outstanding Citizen'

Winifred L. Fitzpatrick, director of the Providence District Nursing Association, was awarded the second annual community award of the Temple Emanuel Men's Club, at a meeting of that group held on Thursday night at the Temple.

The award, which last year was given to Dr. Arthur H. Ruggles, is presented to a citizen of Providence, picked for outstanding achievement in the field of civic improvement, human betterment and the advancement of American ideals.

Miss Fitzpatrick was born in Providence. A graduate of the Rhode Island Hospital and other private schools, she first joined the Providence District Nursing Association in 1904. At that time, she was the third district nurse in this city. In 1931, she assumed directorship of the Association, and still holds that position today.

She is a member and past presi-

Because of the unusually large attendance anticipated, the committee, after much consideration, has restricted reservations to men only. An elaborate program is being arranged. Further details will be published in a later edition of The Herald.

Whipple, president of the Rhode Island College of Education; former Assistant Attorney General George Hurley; Rev. James Morrison, pastor of Central Baptist Church and president of the Rhode Island Ministers' Union, and Samuel Rosen, vice-president of Temple Emanuel.

Principal speakers during the evening were Mr. Morrison, Mr. Hurley and Mr. Viall. Judge Philip C. Joslin, Rabbi Israel M. Goldman and Dr. Whipple also addressed the gathering briefly. Music was furnished by the Jewish Community Center Orchestra, under the direction of Benjamin Premack.

Year of Life Celebrated By Woman Who 'Died' Year Ago

NEW YORK. — The ambulance surgeon relaxed. He said: "This woman is dead." That was a year ago. But today "this woman," Mrs. Bella Futterman of the Bronx, was busy making gefuete fish, preparing kishke, baking chales, potato knishes and matzoth knaidlach with cheese. "I am yet alive a year," she laughed gayly. "We are going to celebrate. I have invited a few of my friends in for dinner — about 50."

Pronounced Dead

Last year at this time, Mrs. Futterman suffered an attack of asthma. The ambulance surgeon, arriving first, pronounced her dead. Breathing had stopped; no heart action could be found; the tortured mouth and eyes had drawn and set. A few minutes later the family doctor arrived. He began artificial respiration. After four minutes he detected life.

Emergency Action Successful

A police emergency squad was pumped into the stricken woman. "God sent me back to work for my people in Poland," Mrs. Futterman said this week. Long before Russia ravished Poland, this unknown woman in the Bronx was organizing relief societies to raise money for the poor in her native country. Through her efforts an Orphan Asylum was established and maintained in Poland. This is but one of the organizations she helped found.

To Celebrate

The Futtermans are so happy this week that they are eating unusually well, much gefuete fish and potato kigel and blintzes and schnapps — very much schnapps. The main celebration of Mrs. Futterman's revival will begin Saturday when the young Futtermans will have in their friends for a rug-rumpling good time. The next day the 50 older guests will come in for the really serious drinking and eating. Nine extra rooms have been taken in

Wagner to Renew Drive for Refugees

WASHINGTON. — Senator Wagner of New York this week announced plans for removal of his campaign to lift, at least slightly, the legal barrier against admittance of European refugee children into the United States.

A modified version of the bill he introduced at the last regular session shortly will be urged upon the Senate Immigration Committee. Just what its provisions would be was still undecided.

Last year's bill would have admitted 10,000 refugee children a year for the next two years. It was strongly supported by charitable organizations and church groups, but was so mutilated in committee that Wagner did not try to force Senate action.

Volunteers to Form "National Guard"

TEL AVIV. — Negotiations are proceeding to transform the Tel Aviv Civic Guard (a voluntary body of stewards and watchmen) into a "National Guard" (Mishmar Ha'Am) for the entire country, and a formula is now being worked out between the Vaad Leumi and the Tel Aviv Municipality. The National Guard will have members aged 35 to 50 years, the younger men remaining in the previous Jewish voluntary formations.

The Revisionists are stated to be opposed to the new organization as it would be under Jewish Agency discipline.

Ahavath Sholom to Celebrate 35th Anniversary

Rabbi A. Dachowitz To Install Rabbi Silk

Arrange Special Sunday Services

Rabbi Aaron Dachowitz of New York, renowned orator in English and Jewish, will install Rabbi Morris G. Silk as the new spiritual leader of the Ahavath Sholom Congregation, on Sunday afternoon at the Synagogue, Howell and Scott streets. Following induction ceremonies, a dinner will be served in the vestry of the Synagogue, in observance of the Congregation's 25th anniversary.

Founding of Synagogue

Many years ago, a small number of Jewish immigrants from Europe made their homes in this city. Like all pioneers they suffered much, and it was only their courage and self confidence which enabled them to succeed. The traditional Jewish characteristics were not lacking in them, for they set about with great energy to build spiritual homes. They gave generously to support a little synagogue. The contributions of Sidney Copeland, Samuel Klein, Samuel Priest and Joshua Stoneman were responsible for the eventual purchase of the Ahavath Sholom Synagogue, which has since its inception been situated at the corner of the Howell and Scott street. Steady progress has been made. The customary mortgage was redeemed and burned.

New Organizations

With the coming of Rabbi Morris G. Silk as spiritual leader in 1939, a Men's Brotherhood, Young Peoples League and Judaea Clubs were formed. Modern Friday night worshipers are well attended, and the Junior Congregation conducts its own Sabbath service. The Ladies Auxiliary is an active body, under the leadership of Mrs. Barney Coren. Since Rabbi Silk assumed the pulpit, 129 new members have joined. An active membership enrollment will commence in February.

Congregation Officers

Officers of the Congregation are: Irwin Priest, president; Joseph Shaulson, vice-president; Lipa Linder, treasurer; Nathan B. Greenstein, financial secretary, and Samuel Woolf recording secretary.

Committee Members

Samuel H. Levinson is chairman of the banquet and installation committee, arranging for the event. He is assisted by J. Honigblum, secretary; M. Charren, treasurer; A. Sugerman, assistant treasurer, and the Messrs. S. Orenstein, B. Coren, I. Priest, S. Woolf, A. Zura, P. Abrahams, H. D. Cohen, N. Davis, I. Grossman, S. Shaulson, J. Shaulson, L. Schuster, B. The Bowling Brotherhoods boasted of some pretty fair scores these past few weeks . . . Up at the Temple Emanuel brotherhood, Lew Greene leads with the highest single string of 155, closely followed with Morris Sydell's 151 . . . Greene's high three score totals 383, and Sydell's 342 . . . To Martin Zucker, president of the Emanuel's Men's Club, goes the distinction of the low, low string of the season — 22 . . . Temple Beth Israel's Sisterhood is giving the boys a break with a Leap Year Dance? . . . All the expenses will be paid by the girls . . . Stop me, if you've heard this one: Two girls who had been holding down jobs for many years, and were still unmarried, were overheard in a discussion of the sterner sex . . . One of them asked the other which she would prefer most in a husband — brains, wealth or appearance . . . The other answered, "Appearance, and the sooner he appears the better." . . .

Of Puppets and Dogs

Archie Chaset thinks that I'm afraid to get up early in the morning, because I couldn't keep a date with him at the Superior Coal Company last Monday morning . . . But Tuesday afternoon, he told me this story: A friend of his went into a book shop and asked the sales clerk whether she had a copy of "Pinocchio." . . . It's about dogs, isn't it," the sales girls asked . . . "No," was the reply . . . "It's about puppets." . . . "Well," snorted the sales clerk, "that's what I said." . . . Some of our hot-stove political prophets were all upset when they found out that Hitler had four million horses dumped in his lap, with the annexation — "Opposed." . . . "How," query the wise-guys, "are the Nazis going to feed the horses?" . . . Well, how about the horses feeding the Nazis? . . .

Man Bites Dog Story: — Tubby Mittleman is the authority for this one: His little cousin "who is also a druggist" was stopped by a cop for going fifty miles an hour . . . "Take it easy, Tom," said the cop . . . "This is a closely built-up section!" . . . Whereupon, cousin Tom said "You're drunk! . . . Take me to the station right away . . . I want a physician to examine you." . . . When the cousin and his cargo arrived at the station, an M. D. was summoned and pronounced the cop O. K., and cousin Tom will still have to face the judge.

Information Here

Attention please: If the lady who called this office last Tuesday morning and said that she was Mrs. Rice, recently of the West, will again communicate with us, we will have some interesting information for her . . . Irving Rosenthal left this week for a ten day cruise to Havana . . . Eunice Cohen and Harold Levine will announce their betrothal one of these days . . . Believe it or not, in a contract game last week with four ladies participating, one of them stuck in a sacrifice bid of seven no trump, and went down thirteen tricks, double vulnerable. . .

Memo for Mars

Not that it matters, but if you manage to make a trip to Mars, you'd find a 200 pound person would weight less than 80 pounds on arriving there, and a year would be 687 days long . . . Add bon mot, via Europa: Rumania, the diplomats believe, will be next in line when Stalin looks around for another opponent worthy of his steal . . . Observation of an economist: — "To be sure, the Soviet started the thing as a blitzkrieg, but it begins to look as if they might have to fall back on that old five-year plan again."

Winifred Fitzpatrick was awarded the annual Temple Emanuel Community plaque last night . . . Jolly old juxtaposition: Over a brief item in a San Antonio paper recently was this headline: "Chicken Coop Raided." . . . And right next to it in the adjoining column was another item headlined: "Latin American League to Have Chicken Dinner." . . .

Officers Report at 11th Annual Meeting

Temkin Refutes Merger Report

During the past year, the Jewish Family Welfare Society gave help and guidance to 415 families, comprising about 1600 individuals, Isadore Gandal, executive director, reported at the 11th annual meeting held last Sunday in the vestry of Temple Emanuel.

Change in Activities

Jacob S. Temkin, who was re-elected president, emphasized the change of the society's activities from those of a relief-dispensing agency to one which stresses preventive and rehabilitative services. He also refuted the erroneous implication made some time ago in the press of amalgamation of the Jewish Family Welfare Society and the Family Welfare Society. Mr. Temkin pointed out the necessity of a Jewish family agency in our own experience and in the experience of other communities.

Fewer Chronic Cases

In his report of the year's work, Mr. Gandal explained that while the number of families serviced was 13 fewer than in 1938, but 114 more than in 1937, the drop last year was accounted for chiefly in fewer chronic relief situations, due to the intensification of the social case program and the co-operation of public welfare societies. The society received 307 applications last year. Mr. Gandal also reported a sharp increase in applications for relief in the last three months of the year.

Standards of Relief Low

Mr. Gandal praised the co-operation of the public welfare services, their administration and personnel but criticized the standards of relief as being too low for the health and morale of people who must depend upon public aid and help.

Unity Stressed

Mrs. Marion Silverstone, of Hartford, Conn., guest speaker, in her talk on the "Jewish Family Welfare Society in an Organized Jewish Community", stressed the importance of strengthening the importance of Jewish communal life by joint planning and democratic representatives of the community as a whole and pointed to Providence as one of the communities in which this joint planning is being developed.

Scores Merger Question

Referring to the question of merging the Society with a non-sectarian agency the speaker pointed out the importance of case work treatment based on a full recognition and understanding of the background and history of the minority group which cannot be duplicated by a non-sectarian agency even though there may be available Jewish workers — especially in the treatment of personality and of domestic difficulties.

Other reports were presented by Dr. Joseph Smith, secretary; Mrs. Charles C. Brown, treasurer; and Morris Pritsker, auditor.

Officers and directors elected were listed in last week's edition of the Herald.

Dick - Weiner

Wearing a gown of Dutchess satin, trimmed with 18th century Alecon lace and seed pearls, Miss Charlotte Shirley Weriner, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weiner of 160 Slater avenue, became the bride of E. Harold Dick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dick of 54 Adelaide avenue, on Sunday evening, at a ceremony performed in the Ballroom of the Narragansett Hotel. A tulle veil of old ivory heirloom lace, fell from the bride's Russian tiara of lace, outlined in seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, gardenias and white sweet peas.

Rabbi Morris Schussheim and Israel M. Goldman officiated at the nuptials, which were performed beneath a bower of white roses and Southern smilax. Cantor Joseph Schlossberg sang, and traditional wedding music was played by Al Rosen, organist.

Miss Rosalyn Rice, attending as maid of honor, wore a gown of forget-me-not blue satin and net, with a silver flower in her hair. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and delphinium. Bridesmaids included Lillian Dick, Lucille Weiner, Constance Sheridan, Myrtle Rice, Evelyn Nelson and Rosalyn Weiner. They were attired in pastel colored taffeta gowns, and carried white Bibles with flower decorations. Martin Sheridan acted as best man. Rabbi Israel M. Goldman of Temple Emanuel performed the single-ring nuptials.

The bride wore a Princess gown of ivory satin, en train, fashioned with a lace bodice and a square neckline. From her tiara of orange blossoms, fell a fingertip length veil, and she carried a white bible, covered with bridal flowers.

Miss Evelyn Greenstein, sister of the bridegroom, acted as maid of honor. She was gowned in aqua taffeta, very bouffant, with a gold sequins bodice. She carried a mixed bouquet of blue delphinium, tea roses and lilies of

Announce Betrothal

Announcement has been made

BY EDYTHE JAY

Half the town is out of town
Worshipping the Southern sun
Quarter of the town is going North
To get their winter sports done . . .
Us, we're part of the 25 per cent
Remaining in town for the season
Someone must keep the home fires burning
Is that a good enough reason? . . .

Providence and its suburbs, whether they provide year-round residences or summer homes, come in for their share of desertion at this time of year . . . Practically everyone is getting out of town . . . Florida stills holds its famous lure for some folks . . . Some people are Northward bound for skiing and tobaggoning, while still other folks are planning gala trips to Lou-siana, and Mardi-Gras . . .

Via the grapevine system, we've learned that the Lisker girls, Rose and Fredda, are in Miami . . . Molly Weinberg and Dotty Kelman are part of that colony, too . . . Helen Curland was leaving this week, as was Dena Cornfield, as was Florence Glantz . . . Rita Wintman and her mother, Mrs. Samuel Wintman, are on their way down — as this is being written . . . Mrs. Harry Pinkerson is south of the border, down Mexico way . . . As for the folks going North, they seem to slip away from town all of sudden-like, and we don't hear of it 'till they're back . . .

Wonderful, isn't it, to think that visitors in Miami may do their shopping beneath blue skies, dressed in slacks in keeping with the summertime temperature . . . Ever think of that while you were down in the windiest part of the world—the Turks Head section? . . .

Folks going to the Delta state for Mardi-Gras, are of course in for a perfectly grand time . . . They'll get their share of carnival gaiety, and magnificent parties — and oh yes — dancing in the streets . . . The latter, we think, is a secret desire of almost everyone — and it's absolutely proper at Mardi-Gras time . . .

Probably the most sure-fire way to clear cobwebs out of the brain is to make for North Conway, N. H., with skis and sleds and skates, and slacks and sweaters and skirts . . . American designers with a penchant for turning out the snapiest sport clothes in the world, have really outdone themselves in producing variety for the snow slopes and frozen ponds . . . Which is half the fun of winter sports . . .

Girls about town this week were very chic — and didn't look as if they were missing a thing by being here . . . Helen Stanzler in a stunning black silk jersey frock, with a lipstick red yoke . . . She wore a red turban and a Persian coat with it . . . Charlotte Scherer, in a cute fitted coat of postman's blue, with a darling hood lined in bright red . . .

Carol Parnas in a wool suit of heavenly blue, topped with a chic skunk coat . . . A heavenly blue Fedora on her dark locks . . . Mrs. Samuel Gan wore a wool frock of burnt orange, topped by a moss green coat with a Lynx collar . . . Her chapeau was deep green, and the snood was of deep green and burnt orange velvet . . . Jane Payton in a military frock of deep plum, accented with a turban of teal blue and plum . . . A short Persian (Continued on page 5)

And while on the subject of millinery . . . For some time now, we've been threatened with simple, sane headgear . . . We're glad to report the new spring hats are not as sane as they've been touted . . . For what could be worse on a dull January day, when depressed in spirits you go out in search of a quick-spring tonic, than to run head-on into whole collection of classic felts . . . Take heart, the milliners are still using flowers and veils and bows and streamers . . . All this week we've been looking at the blitheful hats they've concocted for the approaching season, and so help us, our winter doldrums evaporated . . . If we had more room, we'd tell you about them now — but come back another time, will you, and we'll give you installment two on the subject . . .

Coughlin Roundly Disavows Christian Front

Hopes Hoover Will Substantiate Charges Claims Arrested Members Fakers

DETROIT. — The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin declared this week he had roundly disavowed the "Christian Front," seventeen members of which have been arrested on revolution conspiracy charges, and he expressed the hope that J. Edgar Hoover would "substantiate every contention made."

Father Coughlin, who said he had advocated "a Christian Front" to combat Nazism and Communism, but never had supported the "specific" Christian Front involved in the conspiracy charges, asserted he had once refused a contribution of money from the latter group. He said he had advocated organization of "a real Christian front to oppose these fakers."

The priest charged that "this so-called Christian Front" was of Communist or Bundist origin, organized "along their policies of boring from within to embarrass the real Christians of this nation."

"Disavowed Them"

"Moreover, following Oct. 25 of last year, they sent me a check of some $1000 which I returned to them in a public manner, telling them that I would not accept such kind of money and advising my followers to have nothing to do with such organizations."

Each worker was given a kit with instructions, prospect cards and an engagement calendar for future rallies.
