Organizations Asked to Join Federation

To Expand Service Into Community Wide Project

The Jewish Federation for Social Service this week took the first step in its program of expanding to community wide proportions the right to voice and vote in the management of its affairs, following the adoption last Spring of temporary By-Laws providing for this change. The step consisted of an invitation sent to every adult Jewish organization in the community, excepting charitable and social agencies, to accept membership, as organizations, under the new governing rules.

The invitation to all organized groups in the Jewish community of Providence invites them "to join with each other in a single united front in the management of this Federation and of other communal matters of common concern by the democratic process of open discussion, majority decision and businesslike action."

Theme of Invitation

The invitation makes the following statement concerning the purposes of the change: "Providence, like other American Jewish communities, has for years had a Federation devoted to the interests of its larger charities and managed by their chosen representatives. Now, Providence, like other American Jewish communities, takes the next step — a Federation devoted to all charities and all other subjects of proper community interest and controlled and managed by the entire community through its representatives, chosen and functioning democratically." The invitation indicates that three steps are necessary to accomplish this purpose:

(1) The adoption of new temporary by-laws, already accomplished.

(2) Acceptance by organizations of their right to voice and vote in the new communal plan.

(3) Permanent by-laws prepared and adopted by the organizations after they accept their right to a voice and vote.

Safeguards Adopted

It is pointed out that the governing rules are temporary only for the reason that no perma-

Predicts Change in Jewish Economic Life After War

NEW YORK. — Lion Feuchtwanger, noted German-Jewish novelist, who recently arrived in this country after his escape from a concentration camp in France, declared this week, that the economic structure of the Jewish population in Europe will change completely after this war is over.

Speaking at a luncheon in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, held under the auspices of Labor and Peoples ORT — world-wide organization for the promotion of skilled trades among Jews — Mr. Feuchtwanger declared: "Millions of Jews in Europe will be forced to change their occupations during and after this war. The task of ORT to retrain former Jewish merchants and professionals into Jewish workers in industry and agriculture is therefore of the utmost urgency."

The noted novelist appealed to American Jewry to help ORT maintain its hundreds of trade schools, cooperative factories and farm colonies in various European countries, where many thousands of Jewish war-victims are now receiving an opportunity to learn a new trade and to adjust themselves to the newly-created situation.

Jewish Federation

The Jewish Federation for Social Service this week has announced the most forward step which the Jewish community of Providence has taken in all of its history extending back more than a century by inviting all organized groups to accept official membership with the right to voice and vote in all broad communal matters.

Providence is by far the largest city in America without adequate Jewish communal organization, and has been in this unenviable position for many years. It will continue to be in this position indefinitely until some group takes the initiative. The Federation has done it. The total effect of its step is to bring together the permanent delegates of every organized adult group to a common meeting place, there to decide for themselves by democratic methods how they want this communtiy and its affairs managed in the future. Once that process has begun there is no limit to the valauble forward progress which can be made. The 1936 survey by the Providence Council of Social Agencies pointed out that proper "coordination is possible only through proper community planning," and went on to add "Providence is one of the most poorly organized Jewish communities of its size in the country."

The Federation, with proper safeguards, now offers the community a thoroughly fair and democratic means by which this situation can be eliminated. Never before has such a step in this community been more needed. Never before has a better opportunity been offered to accomplish the purpose. Every organization in this community should accept this opportunity with promptness and enthusiasm.

For the Record

Sensationalism is demanding. Each story must outdo the preceding one in startling news. And there comes a time when the supply of normal, unusal stories evaporates and it becomes necessary, in order to maintain the pace, to rely on the imagination and twisted incidents to suit the sensational purpose.

Such was the case of the H. J. Heinz Co., whose denial of the charges made by the magazine Friday are found on Page 3. In a so-called expose, this magazine dragged in the names of organizations and individuals, and claimed they were enemies of the Jewish people, by virtue of their open or behind-the-scene co-operation with anti-Semitic organizations.

Yet, in making its charges, the Jewish Forward says, the magazine did not take the trouble to investigate the whole case in advance, to check upon everything, so that it could not be disproved later. An authentic check of the facts reveal that the H. J. Heinz Co., has never contributed or in any way given assistance to any group professing anti-Semitic aims or seeking in any way to foster prejudices based on religious or racial grounds. The investigation indicated further that there is nothing in the entire 71 years of the firm's history that could create any doubt along these lines.

The Jewish Herald, in the interests of fairness and truth, takes this opportunity to clear the name of a firm that has been the victim of sensationalism. We must remember "that, which is hateful unto thee, do

The British Legation staff was silent.

H. J. Heinz Co., Answers Accusation

Charges Found To Be False

Charges by the magazine Friday that the H. J. Heinz Co., had contributed to an anti-Semitic organization were categorically denied this week by officials of the company in a letter addressed to the Jewish Herald. It was later proved that the charges were false and without fact. A booklet containing evidence that the Magazine Friday had erred is available for examination in the Herald offices.

The letter follows:

"On Sepetember 27, 1940, a publication called Friday, made the accusation that we had contributed to an anti-Semitic organization. This untrue charge soon spread from mouth to mouth and, like so many rumors, became magnified in the telling.

"We have prepared a booklet, entitled "H. J. Heinz Co. presents evidence." It is a factual answer to this untrue charge. You could not spare the space to reprint the photostatic copies of letters and documents, making up our answer. Nor would most of your readers, we believe, care to wade through so lengthy a manuscript.

"We are, however, sending you three copies of the booklet. We quest that you study the evidence carefully, and please make the copies available to all who may be interested.

"We are certain that you will be convinced that the accusation is false and even reckless. If so, please publish this letter. We leave the rest to the good sense of your readers."

Sincerely,
H. J. HEINZ CO.

The canopy was banked with white blooms and greenery.

Given in marriage by her mother and brother-in-law, William Wexler, the bride wore a gown of white brocaded satin, made with a fitted bodice, full skirt and long sleeves, and fashioned with a sweetheart neckline. Bows of white satin ribbon were scattered over her full veil of illusion, which was fastened to a coronet bound in white satin. She carried a white bible, with white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Diane Chorney, maid of honor, wore a gown of chartreuse silk jersey, contrasted by a vermillion hooded jacket. She carried an arm spray of yellow roses. Irving Harrison was best man.

Mrs. Peskin was attired in a gown of moss green crepe, with gilt nail heads, and had a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Kaufman wore black crepe, and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for family and friends was held in the vestry of the Temple. After a motor wedding trip of three weeks, the couple will make their home on Saratoga street.

More Than 100 Jewish Leaders Support Willkie

NEW YORK. — Over 100 Jewish leaders of philanthropic, religious and communal organizations endorse and will vote for Wendell Willkie in the forthcoming election according to the survey just completed by Frederick F. Greenman, vice-chairman of the Eastern Division of the Republican National Committee.

Method of Survey

This survey was carried on in the following way: Mr. Greenman received from Jewish organizations a list of 200 leaders in religious, philanthropic and communal activities throughout the country but without any reference to their political affiliation. He then wrote a letter to each of these leaders in which he said substantially that he did not know whether they were disposed to vote for Willkie or not, but if they were, would they please send him a one paragraph endorsement of Willkie for President.

Classifies Results

The results were as follows: Four persons said they would vote for Roosevelt, one with a warm endorsement, one with an apology, he being a Southern Democrat who did not like the third term, and the two others with simple statements thet they would vote for Roosevelt.

But what is more significant is that at least 60 responded with affirmative endorsements of Willkie and at least 40 additional persons stated that while they were voting for Willkie, they did not, for business, professional or other reasons, desire to have this fact publicized.

Among those who have sent in written endorsements of Willkie are: Joseph M. Proskauer, New York City, former Justice of the Appelate Division of the New York Supreme Court, former president of the New York Federation of Jewish Charities and the Young Men's Hebrew Association of New York;

Benjamin Buttenweiser, New York City, president of the New York Federation of Jewish Charities and treasurer of the Jewish Welfare Board;

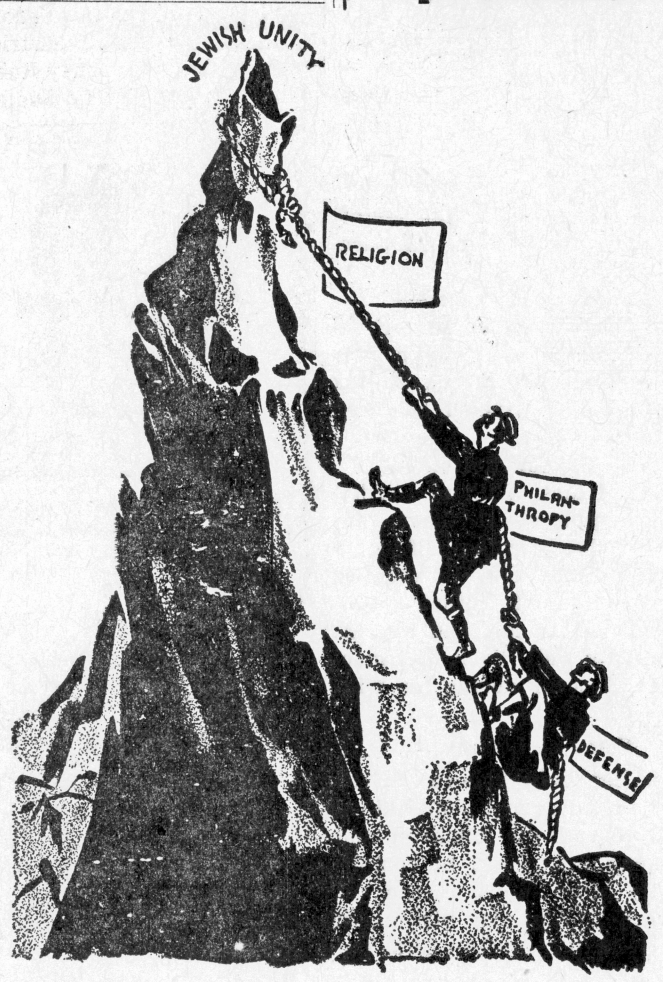

William Weiss, New York City, president of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America;

Lessing J. Rosenwald, Philadelphia, Pa., former chairman of the board of Sears Roebuck and Co., and former president of the Philadelphia Federation of Jewish Charities;

Roger W. Strauss, New York City, co-chairman National Conference Jews and Christians and trustee Hebrew University of Palestine;

Jacob J. Kaplan, Boston, Mass. co-treasurer United Jewish Campaign of Boston, member of executive committee United Palestine Appeal.

Deny Palestine Defenses Inadequate

NEW YORK. — The British Embassy, in a letter to the New Zionist Organization, has contested claims made by the organization that measures to defend Palestine were not farsighted and adequate enough to cope with possible developments in the Near East. The British Embassy said the facts "do not bear out the contention that Palestine is not being defended."

Sees Religion in Schools As Helpful to Good Will

Religious instruction in the public schools and its relation to broad basic democratic assumptions in order to avoid sectarian conflicts, is the subject of an article by F. Ernest Johnson, executive secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, in the current issue of the Contemporary Jewish Record.

Religious Life Fragmentary

Stressing the importance of the public school system to present and future American culture, which he broadly defines as the "American way of life." Dr. Johnson, who is professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, points out that the democratic principle of separation of church and state is inevitable because of the fragmentation of American religious life."

Under the title, "Religious Education in Public Schools," Dr. Johnson declares that democracy cannot hope to endure unless it finds firm support "in a synthesis of the individualistic, assertive principle of liberty with the disciplinary, ethical principle of equality—a synthesis expressed in the third term of the democratic triad, fraternity.

To offset what he sees as a defect in our American cultural and political structure, Dr. Johnson proposes a revival of the principle of religious instruction in the public schools, with emphasis on unity and not on sectarianism.

"I do not believe that the separation of Church and State is necessarily involved in this issue. Sectarian religious teaching is banned in our schools and I think it should be. The urgent necessity to preserve the schools from sectarian strife was ample justification for eliminating divisive religious teaching.

"No salutary change can be effected unless all groups are satisfied that the intention is not to traverse the boundary between Church and State by making the public schools instrumentalities of sectarian teaching, or to impose on the schools some form of ecclesiastical control."

Evict 9,000 Jews- France to Get Them

BERLIN. — Reliable sources reported to the United Press that nearly all the 9000 Jews living in the provinces of Baden and the Palatinate, opposite northeast France, had been rounded up and shipped away yesterday morning.

Informants said they believed the Jews had been sent to southern unoccupied France.

(New anti-Semitic decrees by the Petain government make life almost as unattractive for Jews in France as in Germany.)

It was understood that some of them had been warned Monday night to be prepared to leave their homes yesterday morning with only 110 pounds of baggage and 100 marks ($40) in currency. At other places, including Baden-Baden, Jews were reported to have been given only 20 minutes in which to prepare to leave.

Blind Refugees Society Bombed

LONDON. — A small orthodox synagogue was completely demolished when it suffered a direct bomb hit in a recent London raid, it was learned this week.

Forty blind Jewish refugees who had been placed in a provincial center under the care of the Jewish Blind Society maintained admirable calm when they had to be evacuated to a nearby church hall in a recent air raid.

The matron of the home said her wards did not show any panic when they were told they would have to be evacuated. They dressed quietly and walked to the church, where they are now sheltered. All of them are refugees from Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia, most of them elderly. The blind women among them have kept busy knitting socks for soldiers.

LINEN SHOWER

A complimentary bridge, mah jong and linen shower (bed linen preferred) will be held by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Providence Hebrew Sheltering Society next Monday afternoon, 2 o'clock, at 86 Jefferson street, it was announced this week. A short meeting will precede the affair.

HATRED SPREADS

PRAGUE. — Anti-Semitism has broken out violently here, inspired by the Nazis. Jews can only ride in rear ends of tram cars.

Jr. Hadassah Opens Membership Drive

Tea Held At Biltmore Hotel

Providence Chapter of Junior Hadassah opened its membership campaign with a tea last Sunday afternoon in the Foyer of the Biltmore Hotel and at the same time celebrated the chapter's 20th birthday, with the lighting of the birthday candles by officers and various chairmen.

Miss Muriel Dauer, president, welcomed members and guests. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Nathan Temkin, Senior Hadassah president; Miss Bernigold Macy, Fall River Junior Hadassah president; Miss Harriet Goodman, Pawtucket Junior Hadassah, and Miss Helen Davidow, New Bedford Junior Hadassah.

Rabbi Aaron A. Tofield of Woonsocket addressed the group as guest speaker. A group of songs was sung by Miss Gertrude Himelfarb, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Pickar. Miss Hilda Mittleman and Miss Faye Dunder were chairmen in general charge of the affair.

Bar Joe McWilliams From N. Y. Ballots

NEW YORK.—The petition of Joseph E. McWilliams, anti-Semitic candidate for Congress who sought a place on the ballot under the American Destiny party banner, was declared invalid by the Board of Elections of New York this week on the ground that his petition of 4,400 names included 1,909 invalid signatures, leaving only 2,531 names. Three thousand signatures are required to obtain an independent nomination.

McWilliams, who was arrested several times for making violently anti-Jewish speeches on street corners, is now serving a sentence of 75 days in the city workhouse for violation of laws on freedom of speech and assembly.

1,650 INTERNED

ROME. — Approximately 1,650 foreign Jewish refugees registered with the Italian-Jewish Aid Committee have been interned while some 1,350 are still at liberty. Thirty per cent of the interned and 85 per cent of those still enjoying their freedom are women and children.

To Dedicate Room At Rutland Hospital

Purchased By League for $1000

A room at the Tuberculosis Society in Rutland, Mass., purchased recently for $1,000 by the Ladies Union League for Consumptives, will be dedicated on Sunday at 1 o'clock, it was announced at a meeting of the League, held this week at 86 Jefferson street. Rabbi Joshua Werner of this city, Mrs. Rose Wenetsky, president of the Sanitorium's Board of Governors, and a Boston speaker will appear on the dedication program.

Mrs. Gussie Nelson, president of the League, announced that the organization now maintains four patients at the Hospital, and that a bridge is being scheduled for November 20 at the Jewish Community Center, to raise funds for the purchase of an additional bed.

Mrs. Nelson has advised that those wishing transportation to Rutland for the dedication ceremonies may call DExter 7038, and cars will be provided.

Invite 100 Organizations to Attend Federation Meeting

nent rules should be adopted until an ample opportunity has been afforded to all organizations to express their views carefully as to the final form which the Federation shall adopt. The temporary by-laws make provision for membership by which every organization is entitled to one delegate, plus one additional delegate for each fifty members in good standing, with a maximum of ten. Delegates thus appointed serve on the House of Delegates, a large democratic body which has final authority in all matters including control of Board of Governors, adoption of permanent by-laws, election of officers and governors and final authority in case of any appeal.

It is pointed out that certain safeguards have been provided which bar partisan politics, which limit the term of any president to three years, which forbid any person to speak for the Federation without approval and which limit the Federation to broad communal matters only and provide specifically that it will have no voice in the internal affairs of any organization.

The temporary by-laws also make provision for membership by charitable and social agencies which are not already members, but invitations to these organizations are temporarily deferred so that the larger group of organized bodies in the community may have their representation and their voice prior to any change in the existing structure with respect to the charities since the charities require financial support from the community and the community at large should be efficiently organized to regulate that support to the best interest of all concerned with full representation.

100 Organizations Invited

The invitation which went forward this week to nearly 100 organizations asks that each of them "take its proper place as an important unit in the Providence Jewish community with full privileges and only as much responsibility as you choose to accept" by adopting a resolution accepting membership under the provisions of the temporary by-laws.

Officers of the Federation anticipate that many of the organizations will take affirmative action at their next meetings and that a large majority of the organized groups in the community will have affiliated themselves during the present season.

Lipson Endorses Candidacy Of McGrath for Governor

In a letter addressed to the Jewish Herald, Reuben Lipson, who has been long active in Jewish affairs, this week endorsed the candidacy of J. Howard McGrath for Governor of Rhode Island. Mr. Lipson's letter follows:

Editor, The Jewish Herald:—

Like so many thousands of Rhode Islanders, I do not consider myself a member of either political party. Rather, each election year, I prefer to fairly and impartially view the candidates of all parties, and then select the individual candidate whom I believe can best serve all the people of the State. This year both candidates are personally known to me, and I have been able to judge them both by their acts as reported in the press and by my own personal observations.

On the one hand I find J. Howard McGrath, an honest, able and conscientious public servant, whose record is above reproach. I have yet to hear of any person criticising the character or ability of the man, nor would I tolerate any such criticism, for I know the man to be all that can be desired of any candidate for Governor.

On the other hand, we find Governor Vanderbilt, not quite the man we thought him to be when he first ran for Governor. We may forget his unfair treatment of Dr. Bressler; we may disregard his broken promises; but never can we condone his act in permitting Mr. Freeman to be prosecuted for a crime (the judge called it that) of which he knew Freeman to be innocent, because he, Governor Vanderbilt, despite his early protestations of innocence, was in fact the guiltiest of the wire tappers. How can we tolerate such intellectual dishonesty, to put it but mildly.

As U. S. District Attorney, J. Howard McGrath relentlessly prosecuted the guilty, and staunchly protected the rights of the innocent. Governor Vanderbilt, on the other hand, has permitted the innocent to be prosecuted, without once attempting to protect their rights. Such a comparison of the two candidates leads to one logical conclusion, and can lead to no other. I am going to vote for J. Howard McGrath for Governor.

(Signed),
REUBEN LIPSON

Expect Citrus Crop To Be Very Small

JERUSALEM, (Palcor Agency) —The citrus crop of the 1940-41 season is expected to be very small, according to Hadar, the monthly paper of the Palestine citrus growers.

About seven million cases will be exported, it is estimated. This number will approximate that of the 1939-40 season, during which according to the final statistical survey released some time ago 7,596,214 cases were shipped, but will be less than half the total of 15,310,000 cases exported during 1938-39. Of this season's seven million cases probably six million will be of shamouti oranges, six to seven hundred thousand of grapefruit and two to three hundred thousand of Valencias, lemons, clementines, etc.

Statute "Dictated" In Nazi Germany

NEW YORK. — The Jewish Statute issued by the Vichy Government "can only have been dictated in Nazi Germany or devised by Frenchmen who seek to curry favor with their conquerors," the New York Times said in an editorial deploring the action. The Times said the search for a scapegoat "is as old as defeat itself" and is "tragic and senseless.

Dutch Clergy Protest Anti-Jewish Decrees

Nazis Invoke Midnight Curfew

AMSTERDAM. — Netherlands residents must stay indoors between midnight and 4 a. m., starting Oct. 31, unless they have a special permit, the German-dominated government has announced.

Cafes will close at 11 p. m. and public dancing will be prohibited. No reason was given for the curfew.

Clergymen reported from the pulpits of all Protestant churches in The Netherlands that Protestant sects were uniting in a protest to Dr. Arthur Seysz-Inquart, German Netherlands Commissioner, against a recent anti-Jewish decree.

The announcement said the decree excluding Jews from government services was a measure not in accordance with Christianity.

The decree requires that all Jewish enterprises existing in The Netherlands before the German invasion last May must be registered, with a statement of their capital.

Denies Race Bias In Employment Policy

NEW YORK. — The National Association of Manufacturers has "no policy of discrimination for or against any racial or religious group" H. W. Prentis, president of the Association, stated in a letter to George Gordon, chairman of the Council against Intolerance in America.

Prentis' letter was in reply to a letter of inquiry from Battle concerning alleged discrimination of this type. The Battle letter was based upon the photostatic reproduction in the newspaper PM of a letter from the Law Department of the N.A.M. which specified that the applicant for a position must be a Gentile.

Waive Membership Dues For Men in Armed Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — B'nai B'rith, oldest and largest national Jewish service and fraternal organization, has waived membership dues for all of its members who have been or will be called into the armed forces of the United States, it was announced here yesterday by Henry Monsky, president of B'nai B'rith.

Mr. Monsky explained that dues will be waived for all who enlisted or will enlist as well as those called into service through the conscription act and the mobilization of the National Guard and reserve contingents of the Army and Navy. Such members will be exempt from dues payment for the duration of their service, Mr. Monsky said. He added that "of course such members will continue to enjoy all the rights and privileges of membership in B'nai B'rith.

In case of members whose dues are paid beyond the time at which they are called into service, they will be credited with such payments after they return to civilian status, Mr. Monsky said.

In 1917, at the time of the first World War, B'nai B'rith took a similar step.

Repertory Presents 'Night Must Fall' As First Play in the 1940 Season

To a small, but receptive audience, Repertory Players last Monday night presented "Night Must Fall," a drama in three acts by Emlyn Williams, at Barker Playhouse, Benefit street, directed by William E. Smith, assisted by Edythe Jagolinzer, make-up by Arthur Peace, properties and costumes by Jean Shepard, Arlene Sass, Edith Fink and Barbara Blistein.

The arrogrant machinations of an egocentric bellhop, and his strange fascination for murder, provided the thrilling background for the English play, with which Repertory Players opened its ninth season.

A difficult vehicle for any amateur group, the production opened unexcitingly through the first act, but worked itself creditably up to a proper climax in the second and third acts.

Much credit goes to William E. Smith, for his apt directing, and for his sensitive characterization of the baby-faced bellhop, Dan, who committed two murders and then qualified them by saying "Nothing in the world worries me." Admirable performances were turned in by Harriet Levy, as Mrs. Bramson the "invalid," Lillian Greenberg, as Oliva, the feminine lead, Frances Pritzker, as Mrs. Terrence the wisecracking housekeeper, Dena Cornfield, as Dora Parkoe the maid, Irving Gershkoff, as Hubert, Oliva's suitor, Nat Grossman, as Inspector Belsize and Frimmette Silverman, as the district nurse.

It was regrettable there were so many empty seats in the house.—N. A.

Scene Around Town

Politics

About seventy-five business and professional men of Rhode Island attended the reception given last Tuesday nite by George and Harry Triedman at the latter's home for J. Howard McGrath, Democratic candidate for Governor . . . McGrath, in a brief talk that was well received, sketched the reforms and legislation that he intends to enforce . . . While we're on the subject of politics, we've been informed that an eye is being focused on a city candidate for election, whose sympathy for Father Coughlin has been shown in direct action on the former radio priest's behalf . . .

Marriages and Betrothal

The romance of Frieda Rothstein and Arnie White was culminated in their marriage last Sunday . . . They've gone on a wedding trip to New York, Washington and Virginia Beach and will live on Balcom street when they return . . . At the annual meeting of the Home for Aged last week-end much discussion was given to a new infirmary, which they hope will be constructed soon . . . Officers of the Congregation Ahavath Sholom are feeling proud these days . . . They will install 133 new members during a three-day ceremony which begins Friday evening . . . Incidentally, this is a new high for new members in any one campaign . . .

Because of the tendency of certain publicity chairmen to use their offices for petty revenge on people they don't like, The Herald has forced to insist that all publicity items sent through the mail, must bear the signature of the writer . . . These originals will be filed away for reference, in the event of complaints . . . At the Beachcomber last week, we saw Mr. and Mrs. Murray Adelman, who were celebrating their third anniversary, Adele Lamchick, Kay Hodosh and Howie Kane, while at The Farm, we spotted Charlotte Rubin, Adelaide Pulver, Sam Solinger and Al Brown . . .

Anniversaries

Among those who recently observed anniversaries were the Dave Litchmans and Max Seigals . . . The Litchmans were entertained by many of their friends, with Mrs. Dave Feldman acting as hostess, assisted by Mrs. Bill Lipson . . . The Seigals were guests at a party given by Mrs. Max Golden, assisted by Mrs. Dave Meyers . . . Tuesday and Wednesday the boys were number conscious in Providence . . . Favor Brown Over Yale This Saturday

With a record of four wins and one loss, the Brown eleven will open the second half of the 10-game schedule against Yale at New Haven Saturday. The game will be the first of three successive contests away from home, with Army and Harvard to be met on subsequent Saturdays in that order.

Fresh from the triumph over Holy Cross, the team will face Yale in top condition and confident of giving the Elis a severe test.

If the ground defense is as effective as against the Crusaders, who were limited to a net overland gain of 35 yards, Brown should be able to check the Eli backs.

Brown will be at full strength and further bolstered by the knowledge that capable sophmore reserves at guard and center, who played the major part of the Holy Cross game will be available.
