Organizations Meet to Conclude Preparations for UJA Campaign

Editorials

ZOA Membership

Edmund I. Kaufman, president of the Zionist Organization of America, has designated the five week period ending with Chanukah Zionist Membership Month. In his statement proclaiming the month, he appealed for unity and the submerging of all differences to the primary task of concentrating upon the efforts for the upbuilding of the Jewish Homeland in Palestine.

A goal of 150,000 members has been set by the present administration of the Z.O.A. This is by no means an unreasonable figure. In ratio to the 5,000,000 Jews in this country, it only constitutes 3% of the Jewish population. 150,00 members, therefore, would represent the very minimum required to demonstrate to American public opinion and the world at large that the Zionist program which seeks to rehabilitate our homeless people on its own soil is supported by all segments of American Jewry.

The attainment of this goal should therefore be the concern of every Ameerican Jew who seeks to render constructive help to his brethren in need and who desires to help in providing a home and security for hundreds of thousands of our persecuted brethren who look to Palestine as their only ray of hope.

On Boy Scouts

Military training has no place in the program of the Boy Scouts of America. There was a day, before the aims and methods of Scouting were well known, when the public suspected that the trim khaki uniforms of this new organization betrayed a warlike nature. The record of the World War rectified that mistake. The youngsters were active in helping win the struggle, but it was not as an auxiliary of the Army or Navy. Rather, the Boy Scouts worked at home, where they sold millions of dollars worth of Liberty Bonds, gatered tons of fruit pits for gas masks, and located thousands of walnut trees for the aircraft industry. Their record was a brilliant one.

With the nation focusing its attention on defense, and with the government launching the greatest preparedness program in history, it is significant that the Boy Scouts are also working on their own emergency training plank. It calls for intensified practice in the activities for which Scouting is already best known.

Boys must be ready for any form of service, whether it be a house-to-house canvass or sudden mobilization to meet a natural disaster. Troops must be up to their full strength of 32 Scouts each and many new Troops must be organized. Equipment—signal flags, hatchets, ropes, uniforms and first aid kits—must be procured and paid for by the boys themselves. Adult volunteer leaders have to be found and trained.

The result is profitable to the community. Boy Scout training has its greatest scope in our everyday life, when boys are formed into useful citizens, taught to care for themselves, and trained for all-round service to the nation. In times of emergency the value of this preparation becomes apparent.

MEETING DATE CHANGED

To Launch Drive For Funds in Dec.

Aroused by the catastrophe that has come to the European continent where vast numbers of Jews have lost their right to live on an equal level with other human beings, and determined to avail themselves of the only existing means of extending them immediate assistance, delegates of 100 organizations in Providence will meet at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, November 24, at the Crown Hotel, to conclude preparations for a vigorous fund-raising campaign on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees and Overseas Needs.

Claims Anti-Semitism Has Been Checked

INDIANAPOLIS. — Dr. Salo W. Baron, Columbia University history professor, says persecution of the Jews seems to be lessening.

"It is quite possible," he said in an address here, "that anti-Semitism, rather than advancing, has been checked in 1939."

Baron, author of "A Social and Religious History of the Jews," explained that Russia apparently was trying to absorb much of its Jewish population, Germany was too busy with war for a strong anti-Jewish campaign and the U. S. was seeking a national unity precluding race discrimination.

N.Y. Adopts Religious Instruction in Schools

NEW YORK. — Over vigorous protests of representatives from nearly all major liberal organizations in New York, including Dr. John Dewey, the released-time religious instruction regulations were adopted last week by the New York Board of Education. The vote was 6 to 1.

Under the plan, voted last April by the Legislature, children will be given one hour off each week to take instruction supervised by ministers of their faith. For the time being, only a few centers will be set up to test the practicability of the regulations. The centers will be divided into Protestant, Catholic and Jewish institutions.

Y. — Protestants, Catholics and Jews have joined hands in a co-operative venture to help European refugees find economic independence here by opening a shop on one of the main business streets where a dozen women refugees will sell baked goods, preserves and handicrafts made by the refugees themselves.

General De Gaulle Pledges To Restore Jewish Rights

NEW YORK. — General de Gaulle, leader of the France Forever movement in opposition to the Vichy regime, made his first public declaration to the American community last Wednesday evening in a cablegram pledging to the Jews the restoration of their rights in France at the end of the war and denouncing the men of Vichy who have abrogated 150 years of democracy and of racial and religious freedom through their acts of October 18th placing discriminatory legislation against the Jews upon the statute books of France.

General de Gaulle's message was sent to the meeting arranged by the American Jewish Congress in cooperation with the American Federation of Labor, American Committee on Religious Rights and Minorities and the Church Peace Union, to protest the abrogation of democracy and 150 dom in France.

The meeting was the first of its kind held in the United States and brought together outstanding spokesmen of French and American liberal opinion in addresses presented to the meeting and in messages received from those who could not attend.

The meeting, which was under the chairmanship of Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress, was addressed by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York; the Hon. Newbold Morris, president of the City Council of New York; the Hon. Joseph E. McGoldrick, Comptroller of the City of New York; Dr. Albert Simard, vice president of France Forever; Pierre Van Passen, distinguished American author; Mr. Robert Watt of Washington, representative of the American Federation of Labor in the governing body of the Inter-

Refugee Service Censored for Action

To the Editor of The Jewish Herald:

Please insert these few lines in The Jewish Herald. Perhaps one of your readers or you, yourself, can answer my question.

I have been told that superiority complex is a disease that is incurable, and that German-Jews were always susceptible to this disease. But, until now, I never knew that a superiority complex was contagious. From certain recent occurences, however, it appears to me that this fact is true.

There is a group of men and women in our community who are working for the rehabilitation of German refugees. These men and women, in the past have done very little for, and contributed still less to, our community. As soon as they became connected with some German refugees, however, they, too, became diseased with this superiority complex.

For weeks and weeks, it has been announced that a conference for the United Jewish Appeal was to be held on Sunday, November 24, at which time it was hoped we would be able to set aside a large amount of money for the care of refugees in Rhode Island. But these superior people ignored the U. J. A. conference and are calling their annual meeting for the same day — a meeting which could have waited another week or another month, and which undoubtedly will interfere with the U. J. A. conference.

It is my belief, Mr. Editor, that these people should be censored publicly. Don't you think it is advisable that they conduct their own campaign for funds, and we will see how much money they will raise?

Sincerely,
Yachov Stern

Our eyes we'll keep on all of you
And rant about your styles . . .

While the girls concentrated on cracks, dots, bams, dragons and flowers, this column—true to type—concentrated on the members and their raiment . . . 'Twas at the mah jong and bridge of the Y. W. H. A. last Monday night . . .

Here are costumes worn by some of the guests whose long, tapered fingernails were heard clicking against the mah jong tiles: Rose Goldsmith in a smooth outfit of tan gabardine . . . Pale blue woolen, with unusual sleeves, was chic on Beatrice Gertz . . . Dora Freedman in a black crepe dress with the new apron effect . . . The keen combine of brown and beige chosen by Mary Weiner . . .

Sylvia Feldman had on an eye-catching black vagabound hat and smart black dress . . . Edith, of the Abraams clan, and the Y's prexy, was attired in a dashing tri-coloured beige costume, and added green accessories, while sister, Ruth, was chic in a smart black and gold dress, with many pleats . . . Celia Korn Feldman was radiant in an outfit of black . . . Mrs. Gertrude Asher, in a striking plaid dress, and green chapeau

Mrs. Abe Ogan wore red, with a green feathered hat . . . Blonde Tilda Kessler had on a lovely black frock and hat with a long red quill . . . Anne Goldstein was seen in wine jersey, with a stunning plaid hat and coat matching . . . Evelyn Pansy wore lush green, with a black ruffled hat, while Beatrice Cohen wore a delightful outfit of ginger . . . Ruth Berger selected black crepe, with rays of little pearl beads . . Molly Cokin wore heavenly blue jersey, very good on her . . . An exciting coat of fireman red, contrasted by a black velvet collar topped Esther Levine's outfit . .

A lovely shade of green made up the well-tailored dress of Edith Berger . . . Individuality was the keynote of a beige jersey dress worn by Emma Kleinman.

Mrs. Samuel Workman entered in a stunning black Persian coat and toque . . . Bernice Kahn wore the classic combination of black crepe with pearls . . . A black and red outfit, contrasted by a jeweled belt and jaunty black hat —the costume of Marion Kessler . . . Mrs. William Ross came in blue, with a noteworthy grey velvet hat, feather trimmed . . . Ida Roy, smart in tan and beige plaid while Betty Roy chose black and red . . . Bright and sparkly clips ornamented the attractive black outfit worn by Gertrude Tarnapol . . . Soft wool of mellow yellow was pretty pretty on Evelyn Gertz . . .

Time roguishly wagged its tail, and about here, this department withdrew . . .

Maurice Samuel, whose recent book, "The Great Hatred," declares that Anti-Semitic activity of Germany represents in fact an Anti-Christian movement, spoke last Sunday nite on a similar topic at the Jewish Community Center . . . To the several individuals who made speeches of their questions, Mr. Samuel impatiently reminded that he was there to make the speech . . . Sprinkled in the audience, were noted the Abel Gurwitz's, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Starr, Saul Feinberg, Zionists Dr. Ilie Berger, Abe Heller and Ben Kane, Harry Pinkerson, and a goodly number of refugees, who have shown a real interest in many of the programs there . . .

New Offspring

Brother Stork had a busy week, with the boys winning three to two . . . The Al Rosens, she the former Hope Pulver, and the Dave Uffers, she the former Edith Shulman, were the recipients of daughters, while the Nat Gerstenblatts, (Evelyn Siegel), the Theodore Reuters and the Harry Levines are the proud parents of sons . . . Incorrectly reported last week, the Paul Goldsteins really have a SON . . . Mrs. Goldstein is the former Rose Schoenberg . . . A reader has gone to the bother to inform us that lovely Carol Bruce, star of the musical comedy "Louisiana Purchase," is really Shirley Levy . . .

Town Topics

Morris Shoham is on his way to New York to attend the annual convention of the National Labor Committee for Palestine . . . Jacob Licht is back in town after a business trip to Florida . . . South Providence Hebrew Free Loan Association originally planned to celebrate its 35th anniversary this Sunday . . . Because of the U. J. A. conference this Sunday however, the organization has postponed its observance until December 1 . . . What's this we hear? . . . Is there a Business and Professional Women's Club being formed in the Jewish community? . . .

Miscellany

Among those who will speak at the Joint B'nai B'rith and Ahavath Sholom Thanksgiving service will be Justice Francis Condon and Cantor Joe Schlossberg will be there to partake in the musical program . . Joe has been appointed official cantor of B'nai B'rith . . . Providence's younger set continues to find the Beachcomber a diverting oasis . . . Seen there recently were Shirley Stern, Ruth Klein, Fred Strasmich and Henry Reisman . . . Wise cracks of the week: In commenting on British bombing trips to Berlin, a newspaper headline said, "Grapes of RAF in Berlin.". And concerning a noted strip artist, someone remarked, "She's been in the game so long, we've named her 'Strip-Van-Winkle' ". .

Don't forget the Temple Emanuel Thanksgiving dance, Thanksgiving nite at the Biltmore Hotel, and the United Jewish Appeal Conference this Sunday afternoon at the Crown Hotel . . . That's all for now . . .

A column of chat on Home and Security—from Old Colony Co-operative Bank

EVER listen to your CONSCIENCE? When you spend a dollar too much, it complains: "Small leaks can sink a great ship." But when you SAVE a dollar the Old Colony Way, it cheers: "Mighty oaks from little acorns grow!" It's a comfortable feeling to enjoy.

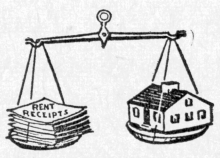

About HOME OWNERSHIP: there's a good rule-of-thumb to tell you how much you can afford to invest. Generally, the financing should not absorb more per month than your average weekly earnings.

For instance: If you make $2000. a year, you should be able to afford about $5000. for home ownership. Make this your outside figure.

Don't START by looking at $6500. homes. Plan on buying or building a house to cost about $4500. when finished. Then count on putting up about $500. for land.

Think it over. Why not do business with yourself—the only LANDLORD who really understands your family's needs and desires?

Brown Prepares for Dartmouth Game Sat.

Eager to rebound into the win column after having a four-game winning streak snapped by Harvard last Saturday, the Brown eleven is drilling with all valves open this week in preparation for the invasion of Brown Field by the Dartmouth Indians.

Major emphasis is being placed on contact work, the lack of which last week because of the wet weather is believed in some degree responsible for the poor tackling displayed against Harvard.

Against Princeton and Cornell on the past two Saturdays, Dartmouth has proved capable of holding its own with two of the best teams in the East, and the general belief exists in the Brown camp that the Indians will hit their peak this week.

Organizations Meet For U.J.A. Campaign

Abrams Explains Relief Needs

sible to continue the relief and rescue work in Europe by the Joint Distribution Committee, colonization and upbuilding in Palestine by the United Palestine Appeal and refugee adjustment and integration in the United States by the National Refugee Service. The campaign will be launched early in December.

It is expected that Dr. Perlzweig, the guest speaker, will give his Providence audience a first hand account of the position of Jews vis-a-vis the present War, their unprecedented needs in a time of international crisis and means being employed in helping them.

The importance of maintaining the far-flung program of European relief, Palestine upbuilding and refugee integration in this country, which is being carried out with United Jewish Appeal funds, was emphasized by Saul Abrams, member of the Appeal committee.

"The needs of French Jews and German, Belgian and other Jewish refugees in unoccupied France represent only one phase of the widespread emergency situation in Jewish life abroad which must be met," Mr. Abrams pointed out.

"The magnitude of our problem must not distract us from the fact that we are in a unique position to help those who need it most," concluded Mr. Abrams. "The machinery for extending assistance to the Jewish victims of oppression and war exists and is functioning, and we should give thanks that it is available to us."

Among other agencies which will receive funds from the Providence campaign are the American Jewish Congress, the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Youth Aliyah, Palestine Defense Fund, Palestine Hebrew Cultural Fund, Hebrew Guild, the American Committee for Yemenite Jews and the Rhode Island Refugee Service.
