

To Install Rabbi Hershel Solnica At Congregation Shaare Zedek

The official installation of Rabbi Hershel Solnica as one of Rhode Island's new spiritual leaders will be held at Congregation Shaare Zedek at 6 P.M. on Nov. 11.

Rabbi Samuel Solnica of Congregation Shaare T'fila, Bronx, N. Y., will install his son. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Shimon Morduchowitz, vice president of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada, and father-in-law of the new rabbi.

Rabbi Solnica, a graduate of City College of New York, studied at Yeshiva University and was ordained by Rabbi Moses Feinstein, Dean of Mestifa Tifereth Jerusalem.

Since his arrival, Rabbi Solnica has organized a class of 60 adults for his lectures and is sparking new interest through his newspaper and teenage group.

Chairman of the affair will be Leo Greenberg and the new officers of Congregation Shaare Zedek will be installed by David Hassenfeld, the congregation's first president.

Rabbi Hershel Solnica

Serving for the coming year will be Charles Dickens, president; Charles Oelbaum, vice president; Emil Ross, treasurer; Joseph Margolis, secretary; Nathan Rosenfeld, financial secretary; Solomon Kaufman and William Reich, Gabbaim.

A catered affair will follow.

Educator Asserts United States Underdeveloped For Jewish Culture

NEW YORK — A leading Jewish educator asserted here last week that, whatever American Jews do for culture, "we make sure it is at least an ocean away." He rejected the argument that "there will be an automatic transmission of Jewish culture from Israel" to the United States.

The speaker, Dr. Judah Shapiro, secretary of the board of the National Foundation for Jewish Culture, also told the annual convention of the board of directors of the National Council of Jewish Women that the United States was "an underdeveloped country for Jewish culture."

Mrs. Leonard Weiner, NCJW, vice president, announced that the organization has set up a $5,000 scholarship grant, to be awarded annually for four years for original research and writing on Jewish life. The initial grant was awarded for the current year to Dr. Erich Rosenthal, associate professor of anthropology-sociology at Queens College, for a study on the American Jew in terms of group cohesion.

Mrs. Charles Hymes, president, announced that the organization was forming a nationwide service corps for senior citizens, modeled on the Peace Corps. Under the plan retired people would volunteer to help staff undermanned health, welfare and educational services in their communities on a non-sectarian basis.

Buy Bonds
Mrs. Hymes also announced that Argentine Jewish Women, responding to official Argentine Government's assurances that authorities there will stamp out anti-Semitism, are expressing confidence in their country's future by purchasing Argentine Government bonds. She told the board meeting that the Consejo Argentino de Mujeres Israelitas, an affiliate of the International Council of Jewish Women, had joined with other volunteer organizations in Argentina in the bond buying effort.

Addressing the NCJW board, Label A. Katz, B'nai Brith international president, also reported on the Argentine Jewish situation.

Laborite MP Reports Threat

LONDON—Sir Leslie Plummer, Laborite MP, told the High Court last week that his life had been threatened after he introduced a bill in Parliament to make it a criminal offense to insult a person because of his color or religion.

Sir Leslie appeared in connection with his suit for damages for libel against three members and one former member of the British right-wing National Party who in a council election address called Sir Leslie the "pro-black MP." The former member is John Tyndall, who was expelled from the party and who is now in jail serving a sentence for violation of the British Public Order Act.

Bureau To Hold Annual Meeting Israel Condemns Manifestation Of Racial, Religious Prejudice

The Eighth Annual Pedagogic Luncheon-Conference will be held on Sunday, Nov. 11 at 1:15 P.M. at the Temple Sinai auditorium according to an announcement by the president of the Bureau, Irving Brodsky.

Dr. Louis L. Kaplan, executive director of the Baltimore Bureau of Jewish Education, will address the teachers on "The Teaching of Judaism in our Schools". A discussion by teachers will follow.

The Conference will open with a luncheon to be served by the Sinai School Committee and Sisterhood, followed by the singing of Hanukkah songs conducted by Cantor Norman Gewirtz of Temple Beth El. Greetings will be brought by the president, of the Bureau Mr. Brodsky, and Nathan Ludman representing the Sinai School Committee, Rabbi Saul Leeman, chairman of the School Council, will serve as chairman of the Conference, which is open to teachers in all departments and in all nearby communities. Avis Jacobson will serve as secretary for registration.

Reservations for luncheon may be made by calling the office of the Bureau of Jewish Education. Hostesses at the luncheon include Mesdames Raymond Gertz, Donald Heskings, Nathan Ludman, Kenneth Sackett, Norman Torman, and Bennett Yetra.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Israel spoke up sharply last week at the United Nations against anti-Semitism and racism throughout the world, pinpointing the recent outbreaks of anti-Jewish activities of neofascists and neo-fascists in Britain and the United States, and sharply condemning anti-Jewish religious and cultural discrimination in the Soviet Union.

The Israeli statement, dealing with the entire gamut of "manifestations of racial prejudice and national and religious intolerance," was made before the General Assembly's 110-member Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee by Michael S. Comay, permanent chairman of Israel's delegation here. He did not cite any country by name, but his references to the lands involved in one form of anti-Semitism or another were unmistakable.

Begins Debate

The Committee last week began debate on a resolution, pending in various forms since January, 1960, originally adopted by the Human Rights Commission's Sub-commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities. Since 1960, that draft has gone through various stages, being watered down to the draft on the agenda now so that the term "anti-Semitism" does not appear. Arab representatives, backed by the Soviet bloc were chiefly responsible for deletion of specific mention of anti-Semitism. However, the draft is still considered a strong condemnation of all forms of racism.

Wants Anti-Semitism Clause

Comay was the opening speaker in the committee debate on this issue. He expressed Israel's feeling that the text should "express reference to anti-Semitism" and requested not only that the resolution be adopted but also that the Assembly instruct the United Nations Secretary-General to report to the Assembly in 1963 on what steps, if any, member states had taken to wipe out anti-Semitism.

Without naming the USSR, but aiming directly at the Kremlin regime, Comay told the committee, "I refer to what may broadly be termed cultural discrimination: cases where minority groups are denied the freedom and facilities to maintain their distinctive language, literature and traditions."

"It is painful for us to state that a large section of the Jewish people has been singled out for such discrimination, in a land which officially recognizes the identity of each ethnic, national and religious group within its borders — including the Jewish group, the members of which are formally described in their documents of identity as being Jewish in nationality

Deprived of Prerogatives

"As a religious group too, this community is deprived of the prerogatives which are still extended to other faiths, such as the production of sacred books, and articles, the training of clerics, and contact between the different local communities within the country, or between them and Jewish communities elsewhere."

"In brief, the Jewish community of that country has been tragically cut off from its own rich religious and cultural heritage, as well as from its Jewish brethren in the rest of the world. Their helplessness is ag-

Canadian Jews Move En Masse To Suburban Areas, Says Report

MONTREAL—Canadian Jews have moved en masse to the suburban areas surrounding most of the major centers in this country, according to an analysis of Canada's latest country-wide census made here by the Canadian Jewish Congress. The result has been, in general, that the Jewish population of major cities — Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Windsor and others—has dropped in the cities themselves, but has increased significantly in the metropolitan area which include the new suburbs.

Because of this trend, there are now two suburbs in Montreal's and Toronto's belts where the Jews form a majority of the total population. In Cote St. Luc, outside Montreal, there are now 8,307 Jews, making up 62.5% of the total population. There are 11,023 Jews in Forest Hill Village, a suburb of Toronto, comprising 53.8% of that city's total population.

In metropolitan Toronto, there are now 88,648 Jews, but the number of Jews in the city proper dropped from 49,046 in 1941 to 18,818 in 1961. Only 21.2% of Metropolitan Toronto's Jewish population lives in the city proper, most of the remainder being spread out among the suburbs and villages north of that city.

Population Grows
Metropolitan Montreal's overall Jewish population grew to 192,724 by 1961, but the percentage of Jews to the total population of metropolitan Montreal decreased from 6.2% in 1961 to 4.9% in 1961. In 1941 80.2% of Montreal's Jew lived within the boundaries of the city itself; now that percentage is only 63.6. The remainder are scattered among 10 other cities in suburbia.

In metropolitan Winnipeg, only 64.9% of the Jewish population lived in the city of Winnipeg itself, while only a very

Rabbi Feels Jewish Groups Add 'Fuel To Flames Of Anti-Semitism'

NEW YORK—A New York rabbi says some Jewish organizations have added "dangerous fuel to the flames of anti-Semitism" by supporting the recent Supreme Court decision banning non-denominational prayer in the public schools.

Dr. Immanuel Jakobovits, rabbi of the Fifth Ave. Synagogue, said Jews have been exposed, perhaps unfairly, to the charge of undermining the religious foundations of the society because groups like the American Jewish Committee have endorsed the high court's plea.

His view was disputed, in a Yeshiva University debate recently, by Will Maslow, national executive director of the AJC, who said American Jewry depends for its "ultimate security" upon the "unimpaired and uncompromised" separation of church and state.

Dr. Jakobovits said endorsement by Jews of an "anti-prayer" position is incompatible both with the traditional teachings of Judaism and with the long-term interests of American Jewry.

The AJC has already criticized America, a Jesuit magazine, for asserting that Jewish organizations have invited anti-Semitism by their stand. Maslow said:

"Jews, recollecting their 2,000 years of dispersion, realize that historically they have never enjoyed full equality in any nation with an established church. This explains the steadfast determination of American Jews to keep government out of religious affairs and to oppose all efforts of government to foster religious training of any kind."

Envisions Eilat As Largest Port In Israel Soon

TEL AVIV — A vision of a Greater Eilat as Israel's largest port in the not too distant future was described here last week by Prime Minister Ben Gurion in an address to some 3,000 members and guests of the Israel Exploration Society which held its annual conference in Eilat.

Ben Gurion, who celebrated his 76th birthday recently, said that Eilat could not exist without large industry, just as it could not exist without a strong Negev hinterland. He revealed that as far back as 1935 he had visited the Eilat area with the late U.S. Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis, who proposed, on the spot, that a large sum of money be raised to purchase lands there.

Prof. Yigal Yadin of the Hebrew University reported to the conference on his findings in the Bar Kochba cave explorations in the Negev. Prof. Nelson Glueck, president of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, also addressed the session.

הסמל היהודי העתיק ביותר, שאפשר לזהות אותו בנדאות כסמל יהודי, מקורו במנורה בעלת שבעת הקנים, שהיתה בבית-המקדש, עד שהלכה בשבי לרומא.

כידוע חקוקה דמותה של מנורה זו על "שער טיטוס" שברומא. סמל המנורה נמצא הבה בקשטים של בתי-כנסיות עתיקים, במטבעות עתיקים ובמערות-קבריים.

כדאי לדעת, כי הסמל "מגן דוד", שנחשב עד היום כסמל היהודי המפורסם ביותר, ושמקורו לפי מסורת העם עוד מימי דוד המלך, נמצא על שרידים יהודיים רק מאז המאה השבע-עשרה.

לעמית זאת שמשה המנורה כסמל יהודי מאז ימי חרבן-הבית, ועכשו היא משמשת כסמל הרשמי של מדינת-ישראל.

דמותה של המנורה נמצאת על הטפסים הממשלתיים של כל משרדי הממשלה, מעל בימת הכנסת ומעל בימת השופטים בבתי המשפט בישראל.

THE MENORAH: Emblem Of The State Of Israel

The most ancient symbol which can be indentified with certainty as a Jewish emblem originated with the seven-branched candlestick which was in the Temple until it was spoiled by the Romans.

As is known the figure of this Menorah is engraved on the arch of Titus in Rome. The Menorah emblem is prevalent among the decorations of ancient synagogues, ancient coins and catacombs. It is worth knowing that the Magen David emblem which is regarded today as the most famous Jewish symbol and which goes back according to popular tradition to the days of King David is found on Jewish relics only from the 17th century.

On the other hand the Menorah has served as a Jewish symbol ever since the period of the destruction of the Temple and now it serves as the official emblem of the State of Israel.

The figure of the Menorah is found on government forms in all government office, above the rostrum of the Knesset and above the dais of the judges in the courts of Justice in Israel. (Edited by Brit Ivrit Olumit)

Israel Minister Warns Euromart Talks 'Tough' After French-U.S. Meet

JERUSALEM—Finance Minister Levi Eshkol returned to Israel from a lengthy visit to the United States and France with a warning that talks to implement the European Economic Market decision for negotiations for trade agreements with Israel would be "very tough."

He added that "even when the talks are successful, the Euromart will not give us everything on a silver platter. The Finance Minister reiterated that Israel's economic problems were far from solved in spite of the Euromart decision to open negotiations.

He said the United States decision to sell ground-to-air defensive Hawk missiles to Israel "had great political value" and that it had raised Israel's prestige. He asserted that the Arab boycott was still hurtful to Israel particularly in the ban on Israeli shipping in the Suez Canal. He reported that he expected a World Bank announcement of a $20,000,000 loan to Israel for highway development would be forthcoming in a few weeks.

The Finance Minister outlined at a Cabinet meeting later a general plan for mobilizing payments for emergency defense acquisitions which he had discussed previously at a meeting with Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion. He indicated after the Cabinet session that Israel would try to meet the special security needs without imposing new taxes this year.

He emphasized, however, that demands for government services were exceeding anticipations and that the need for an increase in the budget would also hinge on the immigration rate in the coming months. The entire issue is scheduled to be placed before the Cabinet soon for a detailed discussion.

Meanwhile, figures on weapons production in Israel indicated that such production increased 25 per cent over that of the previous year. While precise information on overseas sales of such arms was not given, it was indicated that about 45 per cent of the weapons were exported. The rise in production was due mainly to overseas orders.

Obituaries

LARRY L. GOLDSTEIN

Funeral services for Larry L. Goldstein, 34, of 214 Winter Street, Woonsocket, president of Mark Stevens, Inc., wholesale drug concern, who was killed in an airplane crash on Oct. 31, were held Nov. 2 at Congregation B'nai Israel Synagogue in Woonsocket. Burial was in the B'nai Israel Cemetery.

Mr. Goldstein, the husband of Mrs. Elaine S. (Fellman) Goldstein and father of two children, was returning from a business flight to Bridgeport, Conn., when the plane in which he was a passenger, crashed into heavy woodland in the Cowesett section of Warwick, during an attempted instrument landing.

Masonic branches were represented at the funeral. Mr. Goldstein was a 32nd degree Mason.

Honorary bearers were Merrill Temkin, Craig S. C. Shaw, Robert Reed, Harry Garelick, Thomas Cohen, Ralph Hogland, Dr. Philip D. Kinkle and Scott K. Keffer, the latter master of Morning Star Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons.

Bearers were Ted Lowe, Bentley Tobin, Paul Bernon, Lester A. Macktez, Robert M. Dunn, Samuel Sherman, Sidney Silverstein and Dr. Harvey Fellman.

MRS. JACOB RICHMAN

Funeral services for Mrs. Fannie (Shuman) Richman, 77, of Providence, who died on Nov. 2, were held Nov. 4 at the Schlossberg Memorial Chapel, Mattapan, Mass.

Born in Russia, Mrs. Richman came to Boston 42 years ago. She moved to Providence in 1941. She was the widow of the late Jacob Richman.

She was member of the Congregation Sons of Abraham and its Sisterhood and a member of the Mizrahi.

She is survived by a son, Arthur Richman of Providence, and three grandchildren.

ARTHUR HARRIET

Funeral services for Arthur Harriet, 65, of 64 Lafayette Street, Pawtucket, who died Monday, were held the following day at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

From 1926 to 1956, Mr. Harriet had been proprietor of Harriet's Meat Market in Pawtucket, formerly located at 510 Broadway. He was the husband of Mrs. Maud (Perelman) Harriet.

He was a member of Congregation Ohave Shalom of Pawtucket, Barney Merry Lodge No. 29, F & AM, and Henry Friedman Lodge B'nai B'rith.

Surviving besides his wife, are two daughters, Mrs. Elliot Berkowitz, and Mrs. Harry Gorden, both of Pawtucket; a son, Melvin Harriet of Cumberland; two sisters, Mrs. William Goldberg, and Mrs. Eva Liss, both of New Bedford, Mass.; two brothers, Benjamin and Max Harriet, both of Providence, and three grandchildren.

Born in Romania, Mr. Harriet had lived in Pawtucket for more than 50 years. The late Mendel and Ethel Harriet were his parents.

ABRAHAM KAPLAN

Funeral services for Abraham Kaplan, 71, of 76 Davis Street, who died Tuesday after a day's illness, were held the following day at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The husband of the late Jennie (Kaplan) Kaplan, he had been a resident of Providence for the past 50 years. He was born in Italy and was a self-employed expressman until retiring eight years ago. He was a member of the Anshe Kovno Synagogue.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Sylvia Kaplan, and Mrs. Frances Rodinsky; two sons, Nathan and Robert Kaplan, all of Providence; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA-- If you missed Paul Wallace's 12-minute dance scene in the Broadway version of "Gypsy," you'll get the echo in the film version. This was the smash routine that stopped the Broadway show cold when young Wallace played the role of Tulsa. Paul's real name is Willens, but he changed it to Wallace when everyone persisted in calling him Williams. It might have been simpler had he changed it to Williams. His dad is Sam Willens, owner of a few cleaning and dyeing stores here in the San Fernando Valley, adjoining what is more popularly called Hollywood. Sam hails from Hartford, Connecticut, where he never dreamed he'd one day own a home with a swim pool.

Paul is the only member of the original New York cast of "Gypsy" to repeat his role in the film repeat. He's 24. You may remember him as Kippy, the kid next door, in Robert Young's TV series "Father Knows Best." He never got a chance to hoof in that. No, girls, he isn't married, but if you ever visit Hollywood, I'll tell you where he lives. He may be on the road for a few months at that time, but I'll guarantee you ladies won't mind waiting once you see what he looks like in "Gypsy."

The personable and gracious young actor played the role of Andamo opposite John Vivyan in CBS-TV's "Mr. Lucky." Most fans think he's really a Latin. He attended law school in Washington, D.C., after earning B.A. and M.A. degrees at City College in New York but never took a bar exam.

HOLLYWOOD'S artistically inclined upper crust flocked to the 75th anniversary exhibition of Marc Chagall in La Jolla, California, to study with considerable awe a number of the famous Jewish painter's works never before shown publicly.

Unlike other important 20th-century painters of Jewish birth, Chagall has woven his Jewish heritage into the fabric of his pictures and sculpture. Only by taking this heritage into consideration can the observer fully respond to his artistry. If one knows nothing of Jewish life in the Russia of Chagall's childhood, he can only skim the surface of Chagall's work.

It is to be remembered that Marc Chagall was raised in the milieu of Hassidism, a Jewish sect in which mystical joy prevailed, in contrast to the mournful and puritanical sect known as the Misnagdim. According to the mystical tenets of Hassidism, miracles can, and often do happen around one in daily life, provided one has the eyes to perceive the wonders wrought by God.

In Hassidism, feeling is more important in the expression of faith than intellect, and joy is more appropriate than sorrow.

Conditions In Israel Exist For Developing Electronics Industry

NEW YORK — A study carried out in Israel for the Agency for International Development of the United States by a Stanford Research Institute team has established that conditions exist in Israel for the development of an expanded electronics industry, it was reported here last week.

An initial finding by the Stanford research team was the presence of a widening gap between Israel's exports and imports of electronic goods. In 1960, Israel imported nearly $9,000,000 more of electronic equipment than was exported. By 1961, the deficit was $12,700,000 and in 1962, it is expected to reach $17,800,000.

The Stanford report noted, therefore, that "a growing local market for electronics obviously exists," and that "a healthy electronics manufacturing capability could possibly satisfy part of the market, save the foreign exchange now expended and produce major items for export."

The survey also found that "the conditions specifically suitable" for the electronics industry "are to be found in Israel." The country has six trade schools which turn out 200 electronics technicians annually. Some 75 electronics engineers and physicists are graduated each year in Israel, while several others graduate from schools abroad.

LESS TURKISH JEWS
ISTANBUL — Turkey's total Jewish population in 1960 was 43,000, according to official census figures issued here by the Government recently. Of the total, 35,485 lived in this city. Jewish leaders stated that the over-all Jewish population in the country is somewhat smaller now than it was in 1960, due to emigration.

Plan Detailed Study Of Jewish Population

MILWAUKEE — Plans for a long-needed census and detailed study of the Jewish population of Milwaukee were unanimously approved here by the board of directors of the Milwaukee Jewish Welfare Fund. The survey would establish the facts about the number of Jews in the community, their ages, residence and related demographic matters; and be a study in depth of the characteristics of the Jewish population, the services now provided and those needed, where future services will be needed, and other pertinent information upon which to base future Jewish community planning.

The board at the same time voted the funds needed to provide professional aid and guidance. However, the professional services will be considerably facilitated as a result of an offer, which the board gratefully accepted, by the Women's Division. Members of the Women's Division will work as census takers, thus saving the Welfare Fund much of a total of $10,000 previously envisaged as required for the total job.

Announce Publication Of Hebrew Magazine

NEW YORK—The American Jewish Committee announced here the publication in Israel of the first issue of its independent Hebrew language magazine. The magazine aims to encourage cultural creativity in Israel and to increase mutual understanding between Israel and Jews in other countries.

Entitled Amoth (Evaluations), the bi-monthly periodical is modelled in style and content after AJC's Commentary. It is edited by Shlomo Grodzinsky who, before emigrating to Israel ten years ago, was editor of the Yiddisher Kemfer, a Yiddish language literary magazine published in this country. He also served as editor of the Jewish Frontier.

The magazine is part of the AJC's new educational and cultural exchange program in Israel. In February 1962, the Committee opened an office in Israel to develop this program.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

WHERE ARE THE JOB VACANCIES?

The unemployment story in our country we know only too well. Since 1957, joblessness has struck above 5 per cent of our work force, and even now, 21 months after business started up and with the country in the grip of a new international crisis, our unemployment rate still is close to 6 per cent. This is economic, social and political dynamite, and we all know it.

But what about the unfilled jobs that exist throughout the country, side by side with the unemployment?
 This story we do not know, except in the most general way!

We do not have accurate statistics showing how many jobs are seeking workers, in what occupations there are major job opportunities, in what regions there are untapped pools of employment in contrast to pools of unemployment.

We may suspect that lots of employers, particularly small businessmen, have jobs available, but we cannot confirm our suspicions with statistics. We may be positive training-retraining is a key solution to long-term unemployment, but we don't have precise information to guide us on what jobs to train workers for and where to direct them when trained.

The lack of statistics on job vacancies is "one of the more conspicuous gaps in our labor-force information," said the President's Committee to Appraise Employment and Unemployment Statistics in a just-issued report. No suggestion, it added, "for improvement of knowledge about the nation's labor markets was more frequently voiced to this committee than that calling for job vacancy statistics."

Several highly important conclusions were reached by this committee, chaired by economics professor Robert A. Gordon of the University of California. One publicized finding was that even when unemployment rates in other nations are measured exactly the same way as our rates, our jobless rate still stands double to five times above the rates in most other countries. Another was that our employment statistics are the best in the world and there is no doubting their "scientific objectivity."

But as provocative as any finding was this emphasis on the almost complete absence of information on job vacancies.

The only detailed occupational statistics we have are those collected in the decennial census. These figures are 12 years old before a new set becomes available. The monthly household survey on employment is of exceedingly limited usefulness. While it is clear that job vacancy statistics must come from employers, the Bureau of Labor Statistics as of now collects this data on only a few occupations.

The need for this information -- and we're going to get the figures now that the lack of them has been dramatized -- is indisputable.

Up to date, national figures on job vacancies will be of vital help in recruiting and placing employees.

They'll be essential to the proper carrying out of the large-scale training programs now starting under the Manpower Training Act.

They well may turn out to be one of our most reliable, early signals of turns in the economy. Increasing vacancies would precede rising hiring of workers, for instance -- and an increasing hiring rate already is accepted as a signal telegraphing in advance an upturn in business activity.

They surely will reveal the condition of our labor market. As an illustration, if the total of vacancies exceeds the total of unemployed, this could be a sign that the economy is straining toward inflation.

Steps already are being taken to fill the gap the Gordon Committee has underlined. The BLS is working on a questionnaire to be sent to between 500 and 1,000 companies in various industries before next spring as part of a pilot survey on job vacancies. Studies are to be made of what job vacancy data is now available, especially among state employment agencies. Studies also will be made of how job vacancy information is used in other countries, such as Canada, Great Britain, and West Germany.

It's so obvious a gap that it seems astounding we've permitted it to exist so long. Even before the loophole is filled, I can see this one statistic moving rapidly toward the top of the list of economic tools to help individual Americans and the U.S. economy as a whole, achieve new high standards of well-being.

OFFERS SEMINARS
NEW YORK — Jewish orientation and training seminars for Jewish social workers were started last week for the ninth year in a row at the Jewish Education Committee building. The seminars are sponsored by the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, the JEC and the New York Metropolitan section of the National Jewish Welfare Board. The courses were organized to complement professional training with modern concepts of Jewish culture, tradition and philosophy. They include courses in Jewish religious observances, contemporary Jewish philosophies and socio-psychological patterns for American Jewry.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY WHEN THE TEMPERATURE GOES UP

By Beryl Segal

The temperature in Rhode Island may be on the low side now, and getting lower every day... but the temperature in the hearts of the people of Rhode Island is high and getting higher and higher day by day. Every time one peeks at the Heart Thermometer put up by the United Fund of Rhode Island on the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel, he sees the red climbing higher, and the heart is gladdened. The people of Rhode Island are responding warmly to the appeal of the United Fund.

We have a long way to climb. Our state, I was sorry to learn, is far below the New England average. The average per capita giving to the United Fund in New England has been $5.02 for last year. Ours was only $3.46, and we have even higher to climb if we are to reach the average for the rest of the country.

The people involved in the campaign are determined that this discrepancy be obliterated. And so should we.

This year the campaign is conducted for the Greater Providence and the Blackstone Valley United Funds. This makes it a campaign at the same time for the same purpose in 26 cities and towns of Rhode Island. Besides the local and state agencies, the United Fund also allocates moneys to 8 National agencies. Among these National agencies are the Red Cross and the all-important USO. All together, there are 86 agencies that will benefit by your giving and mine. It is estimated that the people actually helped by the United Fund, reaches about 300,000. That number will increase by the thousands when you consider that many people are helped indirectly.

I was astonished to learn the relative number of people who receive help from the United Fund agencies. So will you. It is estimated that one out of every three people are in need of some help, and that this help is given to them free by one agency or another of the United Fund of Rhode Island.

The day when help to the needy was given directly from donor to receiver are gone. The days when campaigns were conducted separately by each agency are also coming to an end. The public does not like it and it is costly. The United Way is the Best Way.

The Questions and Answers published by the United Fund puts the matter very simply. It is worth repeating.

There are three goals of the United Fund:

1. To help people.
2. To raise funds to help the people.

3. To allocate the funds raised to help the people on the basis of need.

These three points give the purpose and goal of the United Fund campaign this year, and any year. To help people. As long as there are people who need our help, we will not refuse to help. We will form agencies that will heed these needs and provide funds to maintain these agencies.

But to me, the greatest value of the United Fund campaign, is the help it gives to the people involved in the drive for funds. It helps them reshape their opinions and transforms their view-point immeasurably.

About 20,000 people volunteered to help the funds for this year. These people have to think of others every time they come to a house asking for a donation. They have to be ready with an explanation, and to answer any questions put to them about the Fund. They learn the art of helping others, by doing it. They are doing it because they have been moved to volunteer their time and effort for the needs of others.

And they are also learning to work with people of all races and creeds and social status in the common cause. The United Fund campaign gathers together leaders of industry, with people employed in their industry. They bring together leaders of the three faiths working in unison. A pamphlet of the United Fund shows a Rabbi, a Catholic Bishop, an Episcopalian Bishop and a Protestant leader, all working for the United Fund. It also names people of different backgrounds and traditions, all working for the same purpose... helping the people of the State who need help. This is a tremendous achievement.

The temperature outside is low, but the thermometer put up by the United Fund is climbing higher and higher and will reach, we hope, the one hundred percent goal. For this, we will have to thank the 20,000 volunteers, and the generosity of the people of Rhode Island.

Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

PLAYWRIGHT -- One of Sean O'Casey's friends tells this story about him during the rebellion. The IRA stored ammunition in O'Casey's apartment. Liam O'Flaherty and other rebels came to the apartment and began stuffing their pockets with bullets. O'Casey remained at his table, and O'Flaherty called to him, "Aren't you coming with us?" "Oh yes, of course," said O'Casey, "but first I have to finish this second act."

FIGHTERS: Joe Louis sat in Shor's with two men he'd knocked out -- Tony Galento and Billy Conn, the ex-light-heavyweight champ. "I'da been champ if the referee hadn't hit me," said Galento. "It musta been the referee, 'cause I never did see the punch that flattened me." Conn said, "Joe, why didn't you let me have the title for six months? I'd have given it back to you." Louis smiled, "You had the title, for 12 rounds."

Louis had met Jackie Conn, Billy's brother, and told him, "I hear Billy got rich in oil, so you must be in good shape now." Jackie replied, "You mean my brother'd share his wealth with me, Joe? You hit Billy -- but not that hard."

ARCHITECT: In Edward Durrell Stone's forthcoming autobiography, "The Evolution of an Architect," he tells of the depression years when he and some eminent colleagues accepted an invitation to Phoenix to judge a cook stove competition. Frank Lloyd Wright said of their mission, "That's like aiming a howitzer at a hummingbird."

Wright gave Stone his description of Washington, D.C.: "It looks like a stone quarry gone out of business." Wright told him, "I can do without the necessities of life, but the luxuries are a must. Grand pianos are only $30,000 a dozen." And Wright gave him a formula for living, "Love your work, love your wife, tell the truth -- that's all there is to life."

SLOGAN: For the Cuban crisis, a cabdriver placed a slogan across the bumper of his taxi: "Better Brinkmanship Than Chickenship."

PRIZEWINNER: The critics used all sorts of adjectives in appraising John Steinbeck's merits as a Noble Prizewinning author. Steinbeck once was asked by a movie director for a statement to use in an ad, and said, "They've used up all the superlatives, and the word 'good' seems to be out of the dictionary. So let's find it again, and say, 'It's a good movie.'"

The word "good" was used by the then Sen. Josh Lee of Oklahoma when he saw Steinbeck in the Stork Club. This was soon after publication of "The Grapes of Wrath," and the Senator said, "It's a good, important book. Unfortunately, California got the grapes and Oklahoma the wrath."

MEMOS: Justice William Hecht will try the Fifth Avenue Coach Lines' $100 million condemnation claim against the city... Marcello Mastroianni, star of "La Dolce Vita" and "Divorce, Italian Style," will appear on the New York stage for three weeks with the Visconti-Morelli-Stoppa troupe... Jay Hoffman will bring Simone Signoret and her Paris company of "The Little Foxes" to Broadway in the Spring... Cecil Beaton, who usually photographs stars and royalty, is in Detroit shooting a 1963 car.

Margo taught Lana Turner the flamenco she dances in her new film "Who's Got the Action"... David Merrick, who's been feuding with critic Howard Taubman, read his rare review on "Tchin-Tchin" and said, beaming, "My God, what a writer"... If Humbert Fugazy, the oldtime fight promoter who is suing Feature Sports, produces Cus D'Amato as a witness, the defendants will have Floyd Patterson to refute his manager, D'Amato

New Tasty Treat For Cheese Lovers

Cheese lovers everywhere, and housewives in particular, will welcome the latest development by Tiger Brand Swiss Gruyere Cheese. Tiger Brand has introduced a new package which brings new convenience to mothers.

The makers of Tiger Brand Gruyere, long a popular favorite in the familiar triangular wedge, are now delivering to your grocer a new flavor sealed package containing six individually wrapped slices of their delicious cheese.

This new package assures you of complete freshness from the first to the last slice. The individual wrapping is your guarantee that each slice will retain its flavor and its firmness. You also get the convenience of ready to use sandwich slices that you can pop right onto your favorite type of bread for neat, quick eating pleasure.

Tiger Brand Swiss Gruyere never has that "too strong" flavor because it is aged mild to taste mild. Some gruyere slices turn soft on the sandwich, but Tiger Brand Gruyere stays firm down to the last bite. This firmness together with the delicious nut-like flavor is what you have come to expect from a true Swiss Gruyere Cheese.

Arnold Toynbee Renews Attack On Jewish Claims To Israel

PHILADELPHIA — British historian Arnold Toynbee renewed his attack on Jewish claims to Israel in the current issue of the Jewish Quarterly Review, published by Dropsie College, which appeared recently. He was rebutted in the same issue by Prof. Solomon Zeitlin, noted Jewish historian.

The exchange resulted from an article by Zeitlin in the July, 1961 Review which was published with an earlier article by Toynbee. In the current issue, Toynbee contended that his main thesis was "that the human rights of the inhabitants of a country override the historical claims of the descendants of people who were inhabitants of the same country a long time ago but who have not constituted more than a small minority of the population for a long time past." He said that Zeitlin had failed to take direct issue with the thesis.

Zeitlin replied that Jewish claims as crystallized in the restoration of Israel had been validated by the United Nations, that the State of Israel had been recognized by most countries of the world and has been a member of the United Nations since 1949.

Arabs Told to Leave

Zeitlin rejected Toynbee's contention that what prevented the Arab refugees from recovering "those lands" was the refusal of Israel to agree to their reinstatement. Zeitlin then cited documentary evidence that the Arabs in Palestine had been ordered by Arab leaders to leave the area and that those Arabs who had ignored those orders had continued to live at peace in Israel "with seven representatives in the Knesset."

Zeitlin called Toynbee's proposal for unlimited re-admittance of the Arab refugees the equivalent of asking Israel "to commit hara-kiri." He also dealt with Toynbee's contention concerning the historical "minority" status of Jews, declaring that more than 20 years after the collapse of the Bar Kochba revolt in 135 S.E., "the Jews in Palestine were far in excess of the percentage you assigned to them."

Zeitlin added that more than 200 years later, in 351 C.E., "the Jews were strong enough and numerous enough to revolt against Rome in order to regain their political independence."

West wins the first two tricks with the queen and jack of hearts. West then leads a small diamond which South takes with the ace. South clears the trumps ending in the closed hand, then leads the queen of clubs; West covers and dummy wins with the ace. South now lays down the hand to easily make five.

COMMENT: North took all the blame for missing the bid on a game hand. North should have bid the clubs, then raised the spades, thus taking South to at least four spades.

The mural in the kindergarten room, painted by Mrs. Kenneth Sackett, a member of the Sinai congregation, which depicts Noah's Ark, has a different animal added to it weekly.

A New Building . . .

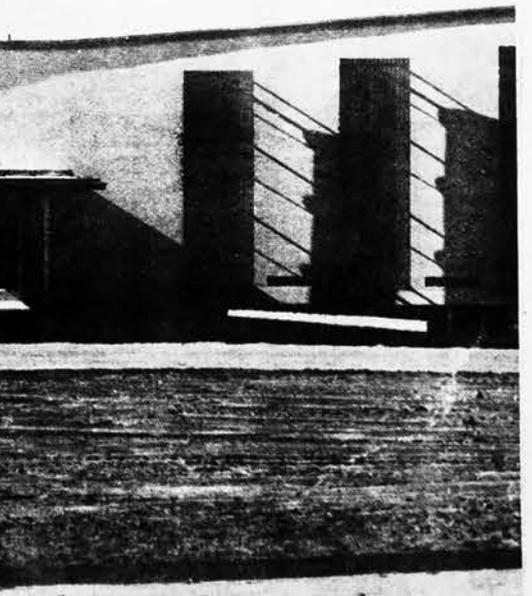

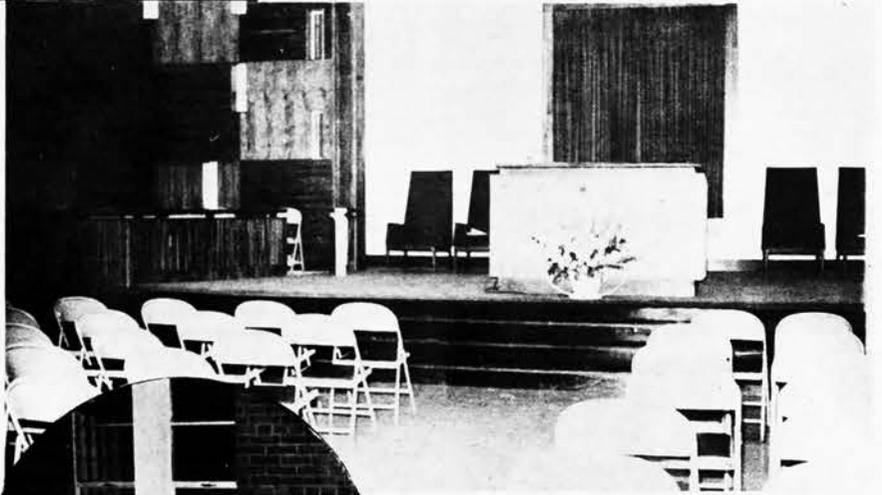

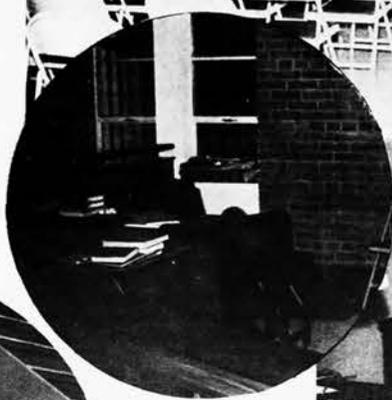

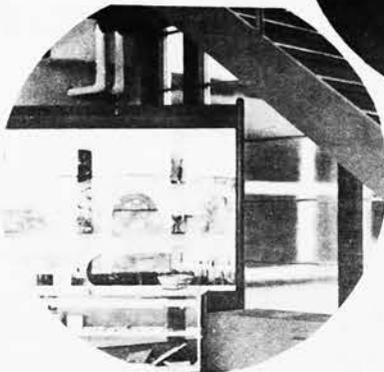

With 185 families as members, there are 250 children in the kindergarten through high school Sunday School, as well as about 80 children in the three-day-a-week Hebrew School.

The modern building which is completed and is only waiting for spring to be properly landscaped and planted, contains, besides the social hall and sanctuary (which when the walls are pushed aside can accommodate 850 people for services), nine classrooms, the rabbi's study and the office, a kitchen, and a gift shop as well as spacious corridors, and such thorough lighting that photographs can be taken without the use of artificial light during the day.

Their membership is increasing steadily as more young people move to the suburbs, and the number of children in their congregation increases proportionately. Although they will probably not add to their temple for quite a period of time, they have a great many acres of land in which to expand if they find it necessary in the future.

The sanctuary, upper right, whose outer walls are pierced with oblong panes of colored glass, can seat 300 ordinarily. It contains a special space for the organ and the choir at the side of the pulpit. Far right, Donald Heskins sits at his desk in his study which is connected with the main office of the temple. The Gift Shop, right, is located in a sunny spot on the lower floor of the building.

A New Congregation . . .

High Holy Day services this year were held in three newly built homes — Orthodox (one of the oldest congregations in the city), Conservative, and Reform (the youngest congregation).

Temple Sinai, the suburban Reform temple, was started by a group of young people from Warwick and Cranston, just four years ago — their average age now is estimated as being in the middle or late 30s — although they have older and younger members, also.

Their new synagogue, designed by Richmond and Goldberg of Boston, and built by the Maloney and Rubien Construction Company at an approximate cost of $325,000, is set in the open spaces of the Meshanicut Interchange in Cranston, where it can be conveniently reached by members in Cranston, in the various parts of Warwick and the other suburban areas of that part of the state.

Defense Backed By Bombay Jews

BOMBAY — The Central Jewish Board, the representative body of Jews of Bombay pledged the full support of the Jewish community to measures taken by the Indian Government to repel the invasion by communist Chinese forces of territory in Northern India.

The board, which met in emergency session, condemned the "treacherous act of the Chinese against the peace-loving people of India," and pledged its fullest support "of government efforts to safeguard the integrity and freedom of the country."

(Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India has requested Israel's support, "together with that of all peace loving countries" in the current border dispute with communist China, it was disclosed in Jerusalem by Premier Ben Gurion. He brought Nehru's cable to the attention of the Cabinet. Similar cables were sent by the Indian Premier to all members of the United Nations. India does not maintain diplomatic relations with Israel.)

WIDEN SLOWDOWN

TEL AVIV — Haifa stevedores widened their slowdown into a full strike Tuesday and the Israeli Government prepared for emergency action to end the crippling port tieup.

The dockworkers began their action Oct. 14 in protest against what they claimed were excessive prices for meals.

Go After the Kind of People You Want in Your Store

BUSINESS is a battle. And the master of business is the man who thinks—plans—directs the fight with the cool and calculating eye of an experienced general. Competition is daily becoming keener in every line of trade. Scientific methods are demanded in every department of business. And all commercial organizations lead to definite and centralized effort.

In no other feature of modern business is the expediency of concentration so universally emphasized as in the advertising end. Topsy-turvy publicity will quickly eat up the profits. In order to create a demand for an article through newspaper advertising you must first formulate a specific proposition for the right people.

This accomplished, you next seek an economical and efficient vehicle of publicity for the marketing of your goods. The selection of your medium should be made with regard to the character of the merchandise you are offering. If you are engaged in distributing goods of the better grade, you know that your logical field of sale is that of the substantial, prosperous class of people—the folks who can appreciate and afford your wares.

Your problem is to reach possible buyers—and no others.

Maximum results at minimum cost — that's The Herald's claim on your advertising appropriation.

INCREASE OF NON-JEWS
JERUSALEM — Israel's non-Jewish population was reported to total 250,000, an increase of more than 100,000 since Israel was established.

In addition to the natural increase of population among the Arabs of 48.2 per 1,000—among the highest rates in the world—some 35,000 repatriates helped account for the increase.

Miss Barbara Kaufman Married To Carl Rubin

Miss Barbara Kaufman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kaufman of 95 Briarcliffe Road, Cranston, became the bride of Carl N. Rubin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rubin of 70 Chatham Road, Cranston, at a 6:30 P.M. ceremony at the Cranston Jewish Center on Sunday, Nov. 4. Rabbi Saul Leeman, assisted by Cantor Jack Smith, officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Center.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of light ivory peau with a scoop neckline. An empire sash accented the bodice and appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace dotted with seed pearls and opals cascaded down the controlled skirt while a cabbage rose held the Watteau pleating which fell into the sweep of the chapel train. Bouffant veiling of French silk illusion was caught to a crown accented with Alencon lace appliques.

Miss Paula Goldberg was maid of honor and Miss Ronna Shanfield and Miss Marilyn Cohen were bridesmaids. They wore street length dresses of gold satin with matching overskirts, and matching gold pill boxes dotted with bows.

Also dressed in gold were the bride's mother and the mother of the bridegroom.

Arthur Rubin served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Marvin Rubin, Edward Kaufman, Edward Kudish, David Seidman, Bernie Gergel, Alan Carter, Stephen Rubin and Michael Freidberg.

After a wedding trip to the Nevele Country Club in New York, the couple will reside at 70 Garden Hills Drive, Cranston.

French End Trial On Libel Charge

PARIS — The trial of rightist leader Pierre Poujade on charges of criminal libel for anti-Semitic statements in speech and print ended last week in Limoges Criminal Court, which announced that a verdict would be returned this month.

The charges were filed by the MRAP, the Movement Against Anti-Semitism and for Peace, and represented the first trial in recent years of a prominent French political personality on such charges. The Jewish War Veterans Organization of France was listed among the plaintiffs. Poujade did not attend the proceedings. He was charged with having made anti-Semitic comments in his weekly, French Fraternity, and with having slandered the memory of Jewish soldiers who died for France in World War II.

Maurice Schapira, the plaintiffs' attorney, called Poujade's statements "a real aggression against the Jewish people in purest Nazi style." He added that "we do not criticize Poujade's likes or dislikes but we plead a criminal case."

German Pastor Urges Fight Against Bias

NEW YORK — Dean Heinrich Gruber, anti-Nazi German Evangelical pastor, recently called upon churches and all Christians to wage a battle against anti-Semitism.

In an address before the American Christian Association for Israel at a luncheon at the Inter-Church Center, the clergyman urged that Christians set aside a special day of atonement "for the nightmare that anti-Semitism has brought to the Jewish people, over the age," suggesting "Kristallnacht" on Nov. 9, as an appropriate occasion. On this day in 1938, the Nazis in Germany launched their attack upon the synagogues.

Dean Gruber, who was thrown into concentration camps for aiding Jews, proposed also that Christians support Israel, a nation which he said was "born out of the recent holocaust and out of the sufferings of past centuries."

"What would have happened to the victimized Jews of our day—in Europe, the Middle East and North Africa—had there not been Israel's open doors of compassion?" he asked. He said that many Christians do not understand Israel's vital role in the world, but at the same time concern for Israel should not "diminish our compassion for the needs of the Arab peoples, who fortunately have nations and lands and resources with which to work out their salvation."

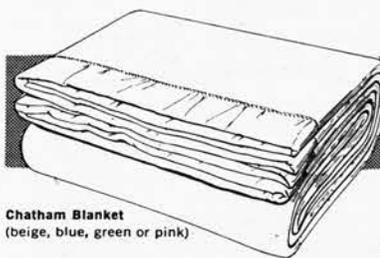

Dean Gruber urged that West Germany establish diplomatic relations with Israel immediately, adding that "consideration for Arab countries should not prevent us from doing that which we recognize as a moral responsibility."

He disclosed that he would lead a group of German Christians to Israel next month "so that they may come to dedicate themselves to aid the Jewish people and the people of Israel."

Doctor Gruber received an honorary degree at exercises marking the opening of the 41st academic year of the New York School of Hebrew Union College Jewish Institute of Religion, the Reform rabbinical seminary.

Others who received such degrees were Dr. Hans Jonas, professor of philosophy of the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research; Aaron Rabinowitz, philanthropist and pioneer in public housing; and Rabbi Samuel H. Gordon, of Rye, N.Y.

King Hassan Launches Campaign For 'Islamization' Of Schools

CASABLANCA — King Hassan 2 of Morocco launched a campaign for the "Arabization" and "Islamization" of all schools in the kingdom in the course of a speech before the country's Superior Educational Council in Rabat.

The monarch declared that "our goal is to teach in all Moroccan schools a standard program, taught in Arabic." Following the King's speech, the council adopted a resolution to make Arabic "the universal teaching language for all subjects," and called for preparation of an "Arabization" program.

Israel Ministry To Tighten Up Law Of Return

JERUSALEM — A spokesman for the Interior Ministry said recently that the Ministry was considering steps to tighten the Law of Return in view of the large number of Jews fleeing to Israel to escape arrest or trial abroad.

The spokesman made that comment in connection with an announcement that the Ministry had not issued any kind of permit to Peter Lieberman, a stowaway from Detroit, who is wanted by the United States on charges of passport fraud. The spokesman added that the Ministry had no intention of issuing such a permit to Lieberman, and that the Detroit man had no legal status and was merely in Israel on sufferance.

(Mervin Lee Gold, the Cleveland investment broker who was denied Israeli citizenship after he fled a Federal grand jury indictment in Ohio on charges of criminally conspiring to obtain a $150,000 loan from the U.S. Small Business Administration, returned to New York recently and was immediately arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.)

Refugees From N. Africa Raise Population 50%

PARIS — Thousands of Jewish refugees from Algeria and other newly independent countries in North Africa have raised the Jewish population of France about 50 per cent in the last year, according to an official of the American Joint Distribution Committee.

The committee, founded in 1914, combines the efforts of several American Jewish organizations in helping Jews who are victims of religious or racial persecution.

The AJDC official said that the stream of refugees into France had raised the country's Jewish population from 300,000 or 350,000 to well above 500,000. Algeria, which once had 135,000 Jews, now has only 10,000.

The committee was host last week-end to 150 American Jewish leaders who came to Paris on the first leg of the eighth annual overseas mission of the United Jewish Appeal, an annual fund-raising drive.

Jewish residents of Algeria as French citizens, are eligible for aid from the French government. But other Jews in France, who have come from Morocco, Tunisia, Libya, or Egypt, or from eastern Europe, are not.

The committee spends about $30,000,000 a year helping Jewish communities in various countries, including Israel. It plans to spend about $3,000,000 in France next year, an increase of $500,000.

The American group is headed by Joseph Meyerhoff of Baltimore, general chairman of the UJA, and Edward M. M. Warburg of New York, chairman of the ADJC.

Morocco for several thousand Jewish school children who receive secular and religious education. Both the French and Arabic languages are used in instruction. Agreement with the Moroccan Government governing the schools and the status of their staffs was announced by the Alliance last week.

To Investigate College Hazing

HOLLAND—Justice Minister Anton Beerman assured the Dutch Parliament last week that there would be a full investigation of recent hazings at the Municipal University in Amsterdam, where Jewish students were called names and locked up in a cellar, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported.

He gave the assurance, in which he also said that there would be prosecution if the facts warranted it, in reply to indignant questions about the incidents which have evoked sharp press criticism. The incidents included the performance of a play entitled Dachau, which recreated scenes of concentration camp life. After the play, first year Jewish and non-Jewish students were herded into a small cellar, where several students fainted.

Two students charged by university officials with anti-Semitism insisted they were acting only as "bullies to the newcomers."

Dear sir,

I read with interest, in your November 3rd issue of the Herald, Mr. Albert's defense of the conservative movement. If he will note carefully, my letter of October 26th stated that 'some of the conservative rabbis (plural) have given permission to ride to services' on Holy Days. Mr. Albert states that he is a member of a conservative Temple and has not heard a rabbi condone that.

It is possible that the rabbi of his temple, and maybe of a few other temples have not condoned it, but have any of them had the guts to raise their voices in protest. The Torah which they refer to in their sermons, contains the positive command 'thou shalt surely rebuke thy neighbor' (Leviticus XIX, 17) What closer neighbors can a rabbi have than the members of his own congregation? In order to rebuke, it is not necessary to address individuals by name and shame them (this is inconsistent with the teachings of our Torah). It can be a rebuke to the entire Congregation, collectively. What I have just said applies with equal force to the women who come to the Synagogue or Temple, on Holy Days, with pocket books under their arms, as if they had come to purchase salvation.

When a temple spends a large sum of money to purchase a number of buildings, tear them down, level the ground and cover it with asphalt, it's done not to make a skating rink or a playground for children, it is for a parking lot for those who come—in particular on the High Holy Days — to the Temple.

The conservative rabbis delight in quoting the prophets. The Prophets, as every one knows, were men of action, who raised their voices against transgression. We have, in our age, witnessed a good example of passivism and of positive action. The passivism of Chamberlain brought us a Munich and its dire consequences, whereas the positive action of Kennedy produced the dismantling of the Cuban missile bases.

Why don't the conservative rabbis—some of whom are eloquent speakers — raise their voices in a large cry against the profanation of the Sabbath and the Holy Days?

Sincerely,
 Harris Miller

To Speak — "Promise Without Dogma," will be the subject of Rabbi Arthur K. Hertzberg's lecture at the Temple Emanu-El Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults on Wednesday.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

ARTS & CRAFTS
Registrations opened this week at the East Side Jewish Community Center for Arts and Crafts Classes for elementary school aged boys and girls, under the direction of Evelyn Berkowitz.

Enrollment is open to boys and girls in grades 1 to 3 who are Center members.

Children will work in a variety of crafts media in classes on Tuesday from 4 to 5 P.M., beginning Tuesday, Nov. 20.

Advance registration is required, since the size of the group will be limited.

TEEN CANTEEN
Two special programs will be conducted at the Jewish Community Center's East Side Teen Canteen programs during the coming weeks, it was announced today.

BODY BUILDING
Young adults interested in turning loose flesh into muscle may register now for Body Building Classes to be conducted at the East Side Jewish Community Center on Wednesdays 7 to 9 P.M. beginning Nov. 14.

The instruction program will include weight lifting and physical fitness exercises, under the direction of Ed Horelick in the Center Health Club.

Participants in the program will have the use of the Center Health Club facilities after the end of their class.

JUDO CLASSES
Registrations for classes in Judo for boys and adult men are now being accepted at the East Side Jewish Community.

Directed by Walter Vine, Judo Black Belt Champion, the classes will be conducted on Wednesdays from 7 to 9 P.M.

Richard King, Center Physical Education director, has announced that classes for girls and women will also be arranged if there is sufficient interest.

BICYCLE TRIP
The Jewish Community Center will conduct a "Country Road Bike Trip" for children and adults on Monday under the leadership of Dick and Nancy King. It was announced this week.

The program will be open to Center members only. All children under 10 must be accompanied by a parent or an adult.

Cyclists making the trip will leave the Center at 9 A.M., returning at 4 P.M. Participants are to bring a lunch. Registration for the program will close this Sunday, at noon time.

Engaged — Mr. and Mrs. Irving I. Feldman of 226 Hillside Avenue, Pawtucket, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rona Elaine Feldman of 91 Marion Street, Brookline, Mass., to Allen Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goodman of 58 Nottinghill Road, Brighton, Mass.

Miss Feldman is a graduate of Pawtucket West High School and Boston University. Mr. Goodman, a Boston University graduate, also was graduated from Boston University Law School.

A Dec. 23 wedding is planned.

... Leonard Spigelgass' second book, "Fed to the Teeth," will be about his experiences as an extra man at New York and Hollywood dinners.

LENGTH: Georges Simenon, the most prolific of published writers today, says all novels should be short enough to be read in a single sitting. "You wouldn't go to see the first act of 'Hamlet' and return the second night for the second act. The same applies to reading novels."

EDITING: Peter Ustinov's new movie, "Billy Budd," was to have been distributed by Warner-Pathe. They insisted upon editing the film their own way, without heed to Ustinov, who produced, directed, wrote and starred in it. "Fortunately," Ustinov concedes, "I'd sent them a print, and not the negative." He switched distributors, to allied Artists.

PRODUCER: Ustinov's London play, "Photo Finish," was produced by Joe Levine. The showman just read the script, gave him the production money and said, "I'll see you on opening night."

GESTURE: The Insider's Newsletter reports that at the Grand Vefour in Paris, Count Alain de Vos ordered dishes not on the menu. Each dish was a delight. The manager, Michel Oliver, presented an untaxed bill, asking the Count to decide. The Count paid with a blank check.

STAR: Jackie Gleason said he wrote "Gigot" just to prove a clean movie can make money. He shrugged off the comparison to Chaplin: "A great pantomimic, but could Chaplin have played 'The Hustler'?"

Peter Townsend, whose one-time romance with Princess Margaret was the focus of worldwide attention, is coming to N.Y. He's a salesman for Maxim's wine-brand . . . Anita Loos has succeeded in getting Cole Porter to start writing songs again. They are collaborating on a musical for Broadway, titled "The Weaker Sex"

EXPRESS SATISFACTION

WASHINGTON — A number of newspapers received here from London and Paris have expressed a certain wry satisfaction with U.S. discomfiture over Algerian Premier Ben Bella's trip to Cuba.

They called attention to the Eisenhower-Dulles intervention of 1956 when the British and French sought to topple Nasser and remove his threat to unrestricted international use of the Suez Canal.

PROPOSES HEALTH CENTER

MIAMI — Dr. Sidney S. Lee, general director of Beth Israel Hospital of Boston, described at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association here a plan for an integrated health center to meet the problem of the "increasing fragmentation" of medical care today.

Dr. Lee said such a health center could provide comprehensive medical care and also serve as a focus of education and research. He said its range of services should be as broad as possible — "preventive, therapeutic and rehabilitative."

"Within such a center might be what we now know as the doctor's office or clinic, preferably operating on a group practice basis, the health department, the general hospital, the chronic hospital, the psychiatric hospital, etc."

ENROLL HEBREW CLASSES

JERSEY CITY — A special city-wide drive to enroll high school pupils in this city in Hebrew language courses in the high schools has been launched here. The city Board of Education has approved the teaching of Hebrew in the high schools.

No Age Limit • No Physical Examination Required

In cooperation with the national program to extend Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection to the aged, your Rhode Island Blue Cross and Physicians Service now offers membership to everyone — regardless of age — October 15 through November 15.

If you live or work in Rhode Island, you Qualify! There's no age limit. You don't need a health statement. But you should act now. With Blue Cross and Physicians Service, you can take advantage of modern health services without serious financial worry. And you'll be joining the 8 out of 10 Rhode Islanders who already have found that Blue Cross and Physicians Service is the best way to pre-pay hospital medical bills.

HERE'S WHAT BLUE CROSS PROVIDES! Blue Cross pays hospital bills. You can choose either the semi-private plan, $20 per-day or $14 per-day hospital room, board, and general nursing care coverage. All three plans give PERSONALIZED SERVICE BENEFITS. This means full-payment coverage for most hospital services when you are a bed patient in any member hospital.

LOOK WHAT PHYSICIANS SERVICE PROVIDES!

With Physicians Service, you subscribe to a surgical-medical plan that is endorsed and guaranteed by the doctors themselves. If your income is within certain broad limits and you meet other qualifications, your surgical bills are paid in full. Plan A is designed for persons with modest incomes, and Plan B is designed for persons with moderate or higher incomes.

HERE'S HOW TO JOIN!

And You Must Act Before November 15th.

1. Use the coupon at right to get full information and your application blank.
2. Choose the Plans that fit your needs and budget best.
3. Send in your application before November 15. Within a matter of a few weeks you'll receive your membership card. Your protection will then begin with hospital admissions or physicians services rendered, beginning on or after December 1, 1962.

IMPORTANT NOTES

- A. Family membership covers husband, wife and all unmarried children under the age of 19.
- B. If your application is received by November 15, your membership will be effective with hospital admissions or physicians services beginning on or after December 1, 1962 (not the date of application).
- C. Conditions existing at the time of application are not covered for the first seven months of membership.

Your Rhode Island plans already lead the nation in voluntarily enrolling more of our "senior citizens" than any other plan. But for the first time, a nationally-coordinated enrollment of the aged is now being conducted by Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans across the country.

In cooperation with this national program — and to make certain that everyone has an opportunity to join — your non-profit health plans in Rhode Island are again opening membership from October 15 through November 15. There is no age limit. Anyone — either over age 65 or under age 65 — can join now.

AT THESE LOW MONTHLY RATES YOU CAN CHOOSE THE PLAN THAT FITS YOUR NEEDS AND BUDGET BEST!

Israel Condemns Manifestation Of Racial, Religious Prejudice

gravated by the growing (though by no means original) trend to find Jewish scapegoats for economic difficulties."

Bracketing the situation of Jews in the Soviet Union and the anti-Semitic outbreaks in Latin America, Comay told the committee that "hardly a week has gone by during the current year without a report of some act of anti-Semitic violence in some country. Bombs have been thrown at Jewish schools. Jewish business premises have been machinegunned. Synagogues have been bombed or set afire, or their windows shattered by stones or bricks. Gatherings have been attacked by organized gangs of hoodlums. Swastikas and filthy slogans have been smeared on buildings. Jewish cemeteries have been desecrated and tombstones uprooted. And, during this last summer, there were two incidents of young people abducted and tortured, with swastikas branded into their flesh."

Nazi Groups 'Bolder'

Comay, who visited South America last summer, during the height of the resurgence of anti-Semitism in various countries, including Argentina, Uruguay and Guatemala, declared "It might be tempting to dismiss most of these incidents as the work of lunatics or juvenile delinquents. But, of late organized nazi groups have become bolder in some countries."

"Their leaders are frustrated would-be fuehrers surrounded by youthful and black-shirted storm-troopers."

RABBI LAYMAN TO SPEAK

His topic will be "The Importance of the Bible for the Jewish People."

U.S. Supreme Court Asked To Rule On More Aspects Of Religion In Schools

MIAMI, Fla.—The U.S. Supreme Court was asked Monday to rule on the constitutionality of three more aspects of religion in public schools.

In an appeal sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union and the American Jewish Congress, the high court was requested to review a Florida Supreme Court decision that upheld, in addition to Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer:

1) Baccalaureate (high school graduation) exercises in the form of Protestant religious services; 2) a religious census of pupils; 3) a religious test for teachers.

The two organizations stressed that the appeal was "not an attack on religion" but rather "an effort to strengthen the constitutional principle of separation of church and state—the best guarantee of religious freedom for all Americans."

The appeal papers were filed by Leo Pfeffer, general counsel of the American Jewish Congress, acting as chief attorney for four Miami parents challenging sectarian practices in Dade county public schools.

The Florida case is the last of three decisions affecting religion in the schools to be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court during its current session. A significant feature of the decision was the action of the Florida Supreme Court in banning sectarian holiday observances in the schools, such as Christmas, Chanuka and Easter, and the showing of religious movies on school property — the first time in American history that any State Supreme Court had issued such a ban. The use of school facilities for after-hours religious classes was also prohibited by the Florida court.

These parts of the decision were hailed by the ACLU and AJ Congress as "landmark rulings that signal a historic advance in the effort to protect the public school child from invasions of his religious conscience." They were not appealed by the school board to the Florida Supreme Court.

Florida Case Contains Two Separate Actions

In challenging the school sectarian practices upheld by the Florida Supreme Court, the four parents made these points:

1) Baccalaureate programs of a religious nature are "ordinary procedure" in Miami schools, with some held on public school property and some in churches. The program generally consists of the playing of religious music an invocation by a religious leader, a reading from the Bible, the singing of hymns, the reciting of religious prayers and the giving of a sermon. The service may also be combined with the graduation ceremony and the award of diplomas.

"While ministers regularly appear at these services," the papers noted, "both rabbis and Catholic priests have declined to do so."

2) "All pupils are asked to state their religious preference when they enter the school system and the answers become part of the permanent record of the pupil and are kept in the board's central records," to testimony of the Dade county superintendent of schools.

3) All persons seeking teaching jobs or other employment are required to answer a question on the application form as to whether or not they believe in God. Religious affiliation is also considered in the promotions that are given under the school board's "career increment program."

In support of the statement Mr. Pfeffer cited an exhibit submitted to the court noting that under the heading "Cultural Attitudes," Dade county teachers are rated on a scale of zero to four.

"As to religion, a rating of four is given if the teacher 'takes part in his own religious organization and respects other religious beliefs,'" the appeal papers noted. "He rates three if 'he practices a religious belief and if he takes part in his own religious organization.' If he merely 'conforms to his own religious belief,' he rates one. He rates zero if his evaluation 'is less than' any of the 'standards described above.'"

The statement seeking Supreme Court review noted that the Florida case consists of two separate actions challenging the constitutionality of a variety of religious practices in the Dade county public schools Chamberlin vs. Dade County Board of Public Instruction and Resnick, Stern and Thorne vs. Dade County Board of Public Instruction. The two cases were tried simultaneously and the decision of the lower courts covered them both. Chamberlin is an agnostic. Resnick and Stern are Jewish. Mrs. Thorne is a Unitarian.

Major General Holland To Speak Sunday At Memorial Services

Major General Leonard Holland, Adjutant General for the State of Rhode Island, will be guest speaker at Woonsocket's Veterans Day Memorial Service to be held Sunday, Nov. 11 at 2:30 P.M. at the new Congregation B'nai Israel Synagogue under the joint sponsorship of the Woonsocket United Veterans Council and Congregation B'nai Israel.

Featured on the program will be the unveiling of a plaque which pays tribute to the Woonsocket Jewish servicemen and women of World War II.

The memorial service will be led by Rabbi Pesach Krauss, the Congregation's leader, assisted by Rev. Henry Schooley, pastor of First Universalist Church, and Rev. William J. Llewellyn-Phillips, chairman of the Rhode Island Ministerial Association. Other participants will be Cantor Philip Mactaz and the Congregation B'nai Israel choir.

Color guards from the United Veterans Council and the Jewish War Veterans Department of Rhode Island will present American, Rhode Island and Israeli flags.

Arrangements are under the direction of Harold Sadwin, past commander of the Woonsocket Jewish War Veterans, and Siegmund Berger is program chairman.

TO START NEGOTIATIONS

BRUSSELS — Negotiations between Israel and the European Common Market on trade agreements of Israeli exports to the six nations of Euromart will start in the second half of November, it was announced here last week at the European Economic Community headquarters.

Amiel Najar, Israel's Ambassador to Brussels, met with Jean Rey, head of the EEC foreign relations department for a discussion.

small percentage lived outside the boundaries of the city of Winnipeg in 1941. In 1961, the Jews living in the newly developed housing area of the city of West Kildonan had increased to 6,133, forming 30.5% of the total population of all origins in that city, while the number of Jews in East Kildonan had increased to 184, and in St. James to 131.

In metropolitan Windsor, while the total Jewish population has increased from 2,226 in 1941 to 2,419 in 1961, only 68.3% of the Jewish population lived in the city of Windsor itself in 1961, while 570, or 23.6% lived in West Sandwich township, and 149, or 6.2% in the town of Riverside.

BOLSKI—DRESS

In the description in last week's Herald of the wedding of Miss Rosilyn Alberta Dress to Milton Burton Bolski, the names of the best man and the ushers were inadvertently omitted.

Norman Bolski served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Jeffrey Dress, Arnold Shapiro, Burton Weiser, William Parenteau, Charles H. Dress and Jordan Richman.

The Herald regrets the error.
