Israel Asks UN Intercession

JERUSALEM — Israel this week asked the United Nations and the United States to use their influence with Jordan to prevent new clashes along the border dividing the two countries, it was announced by the Foreign Ministry.

The plea came following last week's attack by Jordanian soldiers, in which two Israeli soldiers on reserve duty were killed and a third injured, and three civilians—two men and a girl—were seriously wounded.

Israeli authorities told Jordan officials in direct contact at the Mandelbaum Gate between Old and New Jerusalem, the area of the fresh attack, that "if you cannot control your undisciplined army, we will do it for you." The Israeli officials cited an earlier incident on June 16, when Arab Legionnaires fired without provocation on an Israeli military patrol, killing one soldier. Jordan at that time assured Israel it was not official Jordanian policy to disturb the peace between the two countries, and expressed regret.

UN Investigates

Following a strong Israeli protest to the United Nations Mixed Armistice Commission, UN officials began an investigation immediately of the latest exchange of gunfire. The Jordanians began shooting from a position in the wall around the Old City. According to the UN Truce Supervision Organization the Jordanians contended that Israel fired first.

Make Overtures Of Friendship To Algerians

JERUSALEM — While the battle for control of newly-independent Algeria continues between supporters of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and insurgents led by Vice-Premier Mohammed Ben Bella, the Israeli Government is making overtures of friendship to the new government in hopes of averting its alliance with hostile Arab states against Israel.

Algerian Independence

The Foreign Ministry announced this week that Israel has formally recognized Algerian independence and welcomed her "to the family of sovereign nations."

In the Knesset (Parliament) last month, Foreign Minister Mrs. Golda Meir said that Israel would be "glad to establish with independent Algeria the same framework of profitable and meaningful relations that exist between us and most other new states."

Mrs. Meir expressed the hope that the Algerian people "now emerging on the road to freedom, will not automatically be drawn into the Arab circle of hostility and hate, but will safeguard their spiritual and political independence."

Algerian Jews

In the background to these gestures of goodwill are the estimated 25,000 to 60,000 Jews who still remain in Algeria, and whose future under a regime which is unfriendly toward Israel is decidedly not optimistic.

Tourists on Mount Zion began rushing down the slope when the shooting began. A soldier on top tumbled down. The intensity of the gunfire was so great that one wounded soldier could not be reached for 40 minutes, and he died en route to a hospital. The second Israeli soldier was killed when he was hit at his post on the slope facing Mount Zion. The three wounded civilians were a man and his 14-year-old daughter, and another man.

In an editorial, the Jerusalem Post noted that there are no indications that the shooting incidents "are a deliberate military provocation by Jordan." It concluded that "the discipline in the Jordan Army is slipping, that men posted on the frontiers are trigger-happy or nervous, and that they are, in fact, no better than the men of the other Arab armies, where wild shooting is the custom rather than the exception."

Case Of Suspended Nazi Teacher Excites Interest Of British

LONDON — The case of Colin Jordan, a Coventry school teacher who is the leader of the British National Socialist movement, this week continued to excite the interest of members of Parliament, most leading newspapers, and leaders of British Jewry.

Jordan's organization, which held an anti-Semitic rally in Trafalgar Square two weeks ago, has been roundly condemned by many members of Parliament, and the teacher has been suspended from his school post at Coventry, where the local education board is probing its activities.

Jordan has appealed to the National Union of Teachers to support his fight against dismissal by the Coventry school board. His ideology and his anti-Jewish propaganda were sharply attacked in editorials in the leading newspapers, including the Telegraph, Observer and Reynolds News.

Britain To Use Stricter Rules For Meetings

LONDON — The British Government gave assurances last week that stronger measures would be used in the future against the kind of pro-Hitler and anti-Jewish agitation which sparked a riot in Trafalgar Square during a meeting of the British National Socialist movement.

The assurance was given in the House of Commons by R.A. Butler, Home Secretary, who said police had not expected the violence that erupted in response to the anti-Semitic speeches at the meeting.

He said in the future police would act more strictly in such situations and that there was a possibility that the Nazi speakers would be charged with violation of the Public Order Act. Twenty persons, including a number of Jews, were arrested and fined for breaking through police lines at the riotous meeting.

As press condemnation grew against the inflammatory speeches voiced at the meeting, other Government officials indicated that the British Nazi group probably would not be given permission again to hold public rallies. Government spokesmen had consistently argued, in response to complaints in Parliament prior to the meeting, that barring it would be a violation of free speech.

Miami Police Arrest Two Rockwell Nazis Threatened By Crowd

MIAMI — Two members of George Lincoln Rockwell's American Nazi Party were arrested last week while they were picketing in downtown Miami when a crowd of several hundred onlookers threatened them with bodily harm.

The two, Roger C. Foss and Gene Slaydon, wore khaki uniforms and carried crudely made placards that read: "Eighty-five percent of convicted communists are racial Jews." The pair was spirited away by metropolitan police when one member of the crowd jumped one of the Nazis and tore his placard away.

The two men, who admitted membership in the Rockwell group, apparently arrived from Arlington, Va., Rockwell's headquarters, to picket the Congress of Racial Equality convention in Miami, but they had evidently been mixed up, on the dates. The CORE convention was over before they arrived. The picketing also was aimed at the Anti-Defamation League Florida office.

Picket Atlanta Convention

A spokesman for the Dade County State Attorney's office said he understood the two Nazis had been taken into custody for their own protection. But Miami police officials said that the two were arrested on charges disturbing the peace, assaulting a police officer, inciting to riot and possible vagrancy.

In Atlanta, three pickets in military-style uniforms, two of them wearing swastika armbands and carrying anti-Semitic signs, picketed a Negro convention in Municipal Auditorium. A police patrol wagon stood by, but police made no arrests.

Robert Bolling, one of the defendants indicted but never tried in the 1959 bombing of a synagogue in Atlanta, was one of the pickets. The others were identified as Harry Blair of Arlington, Va., and Lawrence Smith of Washington, D. C., both members of the American Nazi Party.

The signs read: "Race Mix Jew Plot," "Communist Jews Stay Out of Atlanta" and "Why Must Negroes Be Led by Jews?" The target of the picket was the 53rd annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Fire Prosecutor For Nazi Actions

BONN — Wolfgang Fraenkel, the only attorney appointed recently to the staff of the West German Federal Prosecutor's office, was suspended last week on charges that he had participated in "unlawful judgments" in the Hitler People's Court during the Nazi regime. Dr. Wolfgang Stammberger, Minister of Justice, ordered the suspension, since the June 30 deadline for the resignation of People's Court judges and prosecutors has expired. Fraenkel had been an assistant to the chief prosecutor in Leipzig during the Nazi regime.

JDC Sets Up Algeria Office To Aid Needy

VIENNA — The Joint Distribution Committee has set up an office in Algeria to provide various welfare services to the needy Jews still remaining in Algeria. Charles Jordan, European director general of the JDC, reported here this week after a visit to the newly-independent Moslem country.

Stopping in Vienna en route back to his offices in Geneva, Jordan said there was no Jewish communal structure left in Algeria and that only two "heroic" rabbis had remained to look after their flocks.

He said it was still not known how many Jews were left after the mass exodus in the months preceding Algerian independence day on July 1. He cited estimates of 25,000 to 60,000 Jews still in Algeria of the original 125,000 Jews in that country when it was under French administration.

He reported that more than 1,000 children had been provided transportation to France in the two weeks since the first JDC and United Hias Service representatives arrived in Algeria. He said various payments to Jewish aged and handicapped which were formerly handled through social welfare agencies of Jewish communities had been resumed under JDC auspices and that some 1,200 Jewish men and women were currently receiving such aid. (JDC is a constituent agency of the United Jewish Appeal.)

TRADE IN ISRAEL

TEL AVIV — An official United States trade mission recommended 362 enterprises in Israel as potential areas of interest to American exporters and investors.

"Bermuda Bop" — Enjoying themselves were tween-agers dancing at the "Bermuda Bop" which was held at the Jewish Community Center on Sessions Street on Saturday night, July 14. More pictures on Page 6.

Convict Man for Bombing Tries

MIAMI — A former Miami city employe was convicted here last weekend on two counts in the attempted bombing of a synagogue and sentenced to serve three years in prison on each count.

Donald Branch, 26, was convicted in a Dade County court of possessing and transporting explosives. The jury deliberated less than three hours after hearing evidence which included tape recordings of conversations Branch had had with Stefan Plumacher, an undercover police agent, which were filled with lewd and vicious anti-Semitic remarks. The tapes were offered in support of Dade County State Attorney Richard Gerstein's contention that Branch plotted with the undercover Miami policeman the attempted bombing of Anshe Emes Synagogue last April 28.

Branch faces another and more serious charge on July 23 when he faces trial on charges of bombing the home of Don Shoemaker, editor of The Miami Herald last February. Conviction would mean a possible 20 years to life sentence. A number of leading South Florida Jews were allegedly targets of an assassination plot by Branch.

HELPFUL HINT #11
for better home heating!

A villain that spreads dirt and smudge in the home

DIRTY REGISTERS

If you have a warm air heating system, heated air constantly circulates through the registers. It is important that registers be cleaned regularly. Also the filters in your furnace, so vital to keeping household air fresh and clean, should be replaced annually. Oil Heat is clean because the fuel moves from an enclosed tank to an enclosed burner, producing a flame within an enclosed chamber. This chamber is not open to any part of the home except the chimney. However, the heat in your home . . . any heat, definitely provides a means for dirt and dust to circulate regardless of the fuel used.

REMEMBER . . . CLEAN MODERN OIL HEAT MAKES HOUSEKEEPING A LOT EASIER!

To Present World Premiere

On Monday night, Theatre by-the-Sea will present the world premiere of Oliver Hailley's "Hey You, Light Man!" The play is the first of two new productions which producer John G. Holmes will present this season under the auspices of New Theatre Productions.

"Hey You, Light Man!" is a comedy about Lula Roca, who falls asleep at a performance of a play and awakes to find herself locked in the theatre. Living on stage is the star of the play—a middle aged matinee idol Christopher Knight, who is retreating more and more into his plays and who invites Lula to join him in "life" on the stage. Since she is a realist who has endured a sizeable share of life's shocks, the invitation leads her into a world she first finds frightening but ultimately is unwilling to leave.

The part of Lula Roca will be played by Estelle Parsons, who has been an actress since she was four and has been featured in several Broadway musicals. Leon Shaw, who will be seen as Christopher Knight, appeared on Broadway with Yul Brynner and in the past season has played numerous major roles on television. Jane Lillig plays Lula's faithful friend Mabel. Patricia Ripley has the role of Knight's very real wife, a woman with a possessive approach to marriage and motherhood. Vincent Romeo and Genie Franklin will portray two formidable adolescent children.

Serious Social Problems Confront The Soviet Union

MOSCOW—The Soviet press published recently three typical news items that portrayed the nature of one of the most serious social problems confronting the Soviet Union. The problem is economic crimes and Soviet courts are combating it by meting out death sentences and lengthy prison terms it was reported by Seymour Topping in the New York Times.

One item was a report from Minsk, where eighteen men are on trial charged with speculation in foreign currency and gold worth millions of dollars.

From the Ukraine it was reported that the director of a china factory had been indicted for selling part of his output to illegal private dealers.

Near Moscow, the manager of a shop went on trial for having filled vodka bottles with water and selling them as the real article.

Over the last year the Soviet press has burgeoned forth with numerous such articles detailing "crimes against the state" in the forms of speculation, embezzlement and misappropriation of state funds.

Many Jews Involved

One of the objectives of the publicity, according to Soviet officials, is to deter would-be offenders. However, a by-product of the campaign has been to stir some apprehension of a revival of anti-Semitism because a considerable number of Jews have been condemned in the campaign against currency and gold speculation.

Some Western observers trace the inspiration for the intensive drive against economic crimes to disclosures by Premier Khrushchev in 1960. The Soviet leader found then that one of the reasons for the Soviet Union's agriculture difficulties was widescale swindling.

Investigations that subsequently were extended to industry and commerce uncovered scandals that resulted in a decree authorizing the death penalty for major economic crimes. By Western standards the punishments seem severe. They are not necessarily so by Soviet standards, which allow more tolerance for a murder committed under strong emotional impulse than for embezzlement of state property.

Economic crime is considered a more heinous offense here because its very nature threatens the foundations of Soviet society. The Communist system breaks down when citizens fail to respect the principle of public ownership or officials fail to provide the honest statistics required for efficient economic planning.

According to information reaching Western officials here, about 225 persons have been sentenced to death by Soviet courts over the last year. The majority of those shot are believed to have been convicted of economic crimes.

Jewish organizations abroad have focused foreign attention on the Jews among those executed for economic crimes.

This reflects the fear of some Jews in the Soviet Union that latent anti-Semitism among the population may be stirred up by the publicity given the economic crimes.

Among those defendants cited in the three cases reported in the Soviet press, six of the eighteen persons charged in the Minsk speculation case appeared to have Jewish names.

Jewish defendants have not been identified as such in Soviet press accounts of the trials, except by implication in two known instances where religious associations were mentioned during the presentation of evidence.

There Are Some 4,500 educational institutions of all types in Israel. About 65 per cent of them are of the kindergarten or primary school level.

You have to know what's going on in the world. It seems to be important to know the basic facts of communism and democracy. You should be able to think out your problems without having to consult other people. If it is necessary to ask for advice it should be your parents. You should know what's going on in your own country — and keep a level head at all times.

In order to succeed, first of all you should have good health and well-being. You also need security — people who will back you up if necessary — and you need to be socially accepted. You also need drive, determination and a good personality, and if you had a good education, it would help.

Nowadays, in order to succeed, you need education. It's one of the most important things that is necessary. If you don't go to college it would be very difficult to become a success, I think.

I agree with Mark that you need good health and must be socially accepted in order to succeed. You also need good parents, good grades in school — and money.

LOIS ABRAMS, 12

I think that in order to succeed nowadays you need luck most of all. You also need a good background, and experience.

To succeed nowadays you have to have logic, and have to be capable of making your own decisions. You should have a non-segregated mind — be able to think of other people as equals. You also need the drive or push to be able to sell yourself.

The Italian System

by Revoke

There has been much discussion in expert tournament quarters about the bidding of the Italian world championship team. It is true that their complicated system is very accurate and effective on certain distributional hands, but this is true also of many others. And like them the Italian system, too, in spite of its complex detail, has its weaknesses. In my opinion it is too overloaded with artificial bids, but the Italian team and its individual players are of such high quality that they would succeed whatever system, within reason, they adopted.

Here is a hand from the world championship match in New York on which the Italian system failed decisively. North-South vulnerable:

North
♥	A Q 9 8
♦	Q 10 4
♣	Q 5 4 2
West		East
♠	Q J 7 6	♠	10 5 3 2
♥	K 10 3 2	♥	J 6 5 4
♦	5 3 2	♦	J 8 7
♣	8 7	♣	J 6
South
♠	9 8 4
♦	A K 9 6
♣	A K 10 9 3

In the open room the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1NT	Pass	4C	Pass
4NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's response of 4C was an artificial bid showing 14 points but promising nothing further in the way of distribution. North's 4NT showed a minimum no-trump in their system.

In the closed room the bidding went:

North	East	South	West
1NT	Pass	3C	Pass
4C	Pass	6C	Pass
Pass	Pass

7C was of course a lay-down against any lead as declarer could trump his losing spade in dummy. Indeed it is surprising that the American partnership did not make an effort to explore the grand-slam possibility. After the club support by North, South ought to have made some effort than merely to bid 6C. However, even this mediocre result scored heavily against the Italian achievement on the hand.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

ANSWER TO 'THE SECOND PROFIT SQUEEZE'

Nothing the U.S. Government can do will beat the profit squeeze which is strangling an increasing number of U.S. corporations today and is dangerously limiting the growth of our economy.

No foreseeable business upswing from here will solve the fundamental problem of declining corporation profit ratios, for the simple reason that today's profit squeeze is basically due to intense and bitter competition and this will persist into the indefinite future.

There is no gift from the gods in prospect to restore corporation profits to the levels of earlier post-World War II years, when U.S. industry prospered under the brilliant economic combination of huge pent-up demands for goods, a vast accumulation of savings to buy goods, an exploding growth of new families needing everything we could produce, no competition worth noting.

Today's profit squeeze is one of the roughest ever.

It can be beaten, but only by businessmen taking bold, broad, imaginative, stern, unsentimental, realistic actions on their own to do so.

Right now, in every industry which overall is in a pinch a few companies are doing just this. Other companies which want to triumph in the environment of the 1960's will have to follow similar courses.

These, in brief, are the conclusions of a detailed, thought-provoking analysis of "The Second Squeeze on Profits" by J. Roger Morrison and Richard F. Neuschel, to be published in the July-August issue of the Harvard Business Review. Here's the heart of the study.

No matter what your sympathies or prejudices, the fact is that a profit squeeze does exist and the evidence is mounting that it has been retarding our growth. There is mounting concern that profits aren't high enough to finance the imperative replacement of our increasingly obsolete factories, much less to finance the enormous total of new plants needed to employ the additional 13 million workers entering our labor force before 1970.

This second squeeze differs from the first, in the 1950's, which was due primarily to the fact that rising costs outran rising prices on finished goods. This second squeeze is due to a declining rate of demand for established products and a slowing rate of demand for new products. It is due to the fact that many industries have substantial unused capacity, and this not only depresses prices but also sparks intense competition. It is due to skyrocketing foreign competition. It is due to the fact that prices have stabilized, and even in periods of sharp business upturn corporations can't hike their prices enough to absorb higher costs.

"No automatic relief is in sight" for this sort of squeeze, say Morrison and Neuschel.

"There are no broad economic forces now in prospect to bring profits" up to a "more satisfactory level." Yet, the fact that in each industry some companies are conquering the squeeze emphasizes that this pinch "is obviously sensitive to management action." Specifically:

(1) Cost reduction by decree -- "arbitrary expense cutting" ranging from controlling use of paper clips to outlawing company planes. There are many instances where companies have slashed costs 10 to 25 per cent by this pressure -- but it has to be "stern" and realistic.

(2) Review of all existing operations, to slash costs and to increase income. The president of one $1 billion corporation requested each vice president to study over a five-year period every activity under his responsibility to find profit improvement opportunities. In the first year, savings ranged from 20 to 25 per cent on each activity studied and profits were hiked by tens of millions.

(3) Search for fundamental changes, for the forces behind the second profit squeeze "have generated many profit opportunities that are greater in scope and size than those whittled away by the relentless erosion of competition." Rethink every policy, re-examine every facility and organization structure, don't hesitate to undertake drastic surgery. As one company president put it, "It is like starting out all over again in business."

"The real answer to the second profit squeeze" lies in "the combination of sound management of each function with bold and broad evaluation of new profit opportunities," conclude Morrison and Neuschel. In one of the nation's most respected business publications, the challenge to business has been coldly and unsentimentally flung down.

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

THE PRETENSE: Olivia de Havilland, who starred in Garson Kanin's "A Gift of Time," recalled the day a game began -- Kanin's little game of pretense. He was new to Hollywood then, fresh from the Broadway theater, which had been dominated for years by Jed Harris. There was one stretch, in fact, where Harris directed five straight smash hit plays.

Kanin, as a novice film director, was working on a scene with Douglas Montgomery -- who seemed to be diffident about it. Kanin, impatient, said to the actor: "Say, who do you think you are?"... And Douglas Montgomery blurted, "Douglas Fairbanks"... The next day they had another exchange and Montgomery said to the young director, "Say, who do you think YOU are?"... And from Kanin's subconscious came the reply, "Jed Harris."

His mannerisms, his voice, his attitudes, all seemed to confirm this. He fancied himself as Jed Harris. And Kanin's work as a director was in that mold, too -- unique and successful... At parties Kanin used to start the game with guests: "Who do you think you are?" It was his theory that most people really fancied themselves as other persons.

After his early movies had won him wide recognition, Kanin suddenly felt discouraged. He sensed a change, rejected scripts assigned to him by his studio and suffered suspension from the payroll. His agent finally arranged a conference to seek the source of the problem. "I don't think I'm Jed Harris anymore," Kanin confided. "I'm beginning to think I'm Frank Capra."

"That's fine," the agent reassured him, "That's fine, Gar. I've been talking to Jed Harris, and Jed now thinks he's Frank Capra."

THE CRITICS: "The drama critics never say exactly what you want them to say," said Joshua Logan, addressing the graduates at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. Logan's example was his direction job on "Charley's Aunt," starring Jose Ferrer, which received rave notices: "I was happy to get the review as the man who saved the wonderful farce. But I was sad, somehow, because I felt that Brandon Thomas, the author, should have gotten the credit."

THE SECOND MEETING: It was at a party at the Joshua Logans that Mrs. Kirk Douglas was introduced to Michele Paulmien, the former husband of the Countess of Barchester and Sussex. They nodded, and were quite casual about mentioning that they'd once met. It was before World War II, on a beach in France -- a beach for nudists, where neither had worn any garments.

THE MEASURE: Charles Revson, dined with an Indian industrialist at the Four Seasons. The Indian, whose home is in Calcutta, referred to the unique amount of nationalistic pride in his native land. "My brother," he said, "is important in India's politics." The proof he cited was the fact that his brother had spent more time in British jails as a civil disobedient than either Nehru or Gandhi.

THE STUDENT: Priscilla Johnson, of the Russian Research Center at Harvard, is an eminent expert on Soviet affairs. In writing for the Saturday Review on "New Heretics in Soviet Writing," she quoted Prof. Alexander D. Alexandrov, rector of Leningrad University: "A student is not a vessel to be filled, but a lamp to be lighted."

THE LANGUAGE: "Prince" Michael Romanoff, the Hollywood restaurateur who, for a generation, posed as a member of Czar Nicholas' family, recently joined my table at Sardi's. My son, Warren, who studied Russian at Columbia, was at the table, sitting

Berlin Banker Receives Life

Berlin — A Berlin bank manager was sentenced to life imprisonment for the mass murder of Jews in Eastern Europe. He is Dr. Alfred Filbert, 57, an associate of Adolf Eichmann, executed last month in Israel. He held the same rank as Eichmann, colonel, in the SS Elite Corps.

Gerhard Schneider, 51, a ranking civil servant in the state government of Lower Saxony, got a 10-year sentence.

Konrad Fiebig, 52, a government employee in Munich, was acquitted. Heinrich Tunnat, 48, a craftsman's trade organizer and Bodo Struck, 53, a police officer in Lower Saxony, each were given four years. Wilhelm Greiffenberger, 61, a bookkeeper, got three years.

In hearings spread over five weeks, more than a hundred witnesses told the West Berlin next to a woman born in Russia. When she addressed a greeting in Russian to Romanoff, who shrugged it off, Warren quickly spoke to her in Russian.

What he said was: "Please don't speak Russian to Mike Romanoff, because I know for a fact that he doesn't know the language."

THE GAMBLER: Sammy Cahn, the songwriter, was witness to this incident in Las Vegas: A busboy at El Rancho Vegas went to one of the casinos downtown where, on a sensational streak, he won $47,000 in a dice game. He said he'd quit once he made it an even $50,000. He lost it all, and that night was back working at his $67-a-week job.

THE NUMBER: Before Hugh Downs made his first trip to Las Vegas, his mother told him: "Put $5 on No. 9 for me"... Downs went to the roulette table, placed his own bets twice, lost, then announced: "And now, $5 on No. 9, because my mother picked it"... No. 9 came up. Downs collected the winnings, then heard two gamblers hopefully ask, "What's your mother's phone number?"

THE SITE: Joan Comay, wife of the Israeli Ambassador to the UN, is the author of the new book "Everyone's Guide to Israel." The book omits this incident: Pablo Casals starred in the Casals Music Festival at a theater in Caesarea dug up by archeologists. The last previous performance there had been given 2,000 years before... Israel's archeologists recently unearthed another ancient theater in the hills.

"Casals will play there again," said Mrs. Comay. "To get Casals back, we literally have to dig up a new theater for him."

Denies Plan to Tax Minorities

ISTANBUL—Prime Minister Ismet Inonu personally denied last week reports that he was planning to impose a new "wealth" tax on Jews and other national minorities of the type he had promulgated 20 years ago. The old "wealth" tax known as the "Varlik tax," resulted in ruining the economic position of many Jews in Turkey.

Reports about Inonu's plans for a revival of the "wealth" tax had been spread by political opponents trying to hamper his effort to form a new coalition government. Inonu broadcast over the Turkish radio network a statement categorically denying such "unfounded reports."

Prowse's company recently. Looks like Eddie Fisher, who squired Juliet temporarily, must have been baby-sitting... The late Harry Cohn, Jr., now working at the studio as production assistant to Milton Feldman on "Bye Bye Birdie."

DORIS King, formerly of the San Francisco Opera Company and boasting a three-octave range, is the favorite of Las Vegas fans in the town's only sing-along room at the Dunes Hotel. She is also an accomplished pianist. Doris is married to Airforce Major Ben Novom. They have two children, Martin, 14, and Charlotte, 10.

IT is my sincere hope that Edward G. Robinson is fully recovered at this reading from his heart seizure. We sat together at Paramount Pictures' "Hatari" preview just before Robinson's departure for his overseas role. He had been warned by his doctor that he faced a coronary if he didn't slow down.

RECENTLY married again, Julie Styne is the proudest pop in town. His son, Stanley, is writing the words for the elder's "Ghost Goes West" melodies... Harpo Marx planes out of here in August to solo with the Israeli Symphony. They'll love our dumb fox.

DID you know that "Majority of One" is barred from Israel? Now there is at least one blot on a democratic record, so let's open the gate!

In Hollywood...

By Barney Glazer

HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA--Mark Marno, 26-year-old actor who played Eddie, the houseboy in the Broadway and Hollywood versions of "Majority of One," is a mixture of Japanese, French and Italian. His mother is a French Jewess. His father is Italian and Japanese.

Born in Manhattan, single, in showbusiness five years, Marno looks Oriental enough to play a Japanese and says: "If I were in Japan, I'd probably be taken for an Erastan."

"What religion do you follow?" I asked. Replied Marno: "I'm agnostic." Before you reach for your dictionary, he meant he believes God is unknown or unknowable, as opposed to atheism.

"Does your mother adhere to the Jewish religion?" I inquired. "I don't know," said the young actor. "Her religion is her own belief and mine is mine." He made it clear that he didn't feel it should be discussed.

"I'm not particularly anxious to dwell on my Jewish part," he insisted, "and I would prefer not to publicize it. I have given you as much information as I care to, and my publicity man (a Jew, by the way) advised me to sidestep any of your questions about my Jewish ancestry. However, I want to be courteous and tell you what I can."

SAMUEL Rosenman, former N.Y. Supreme Court Justice, is board chairman at 20th-Fox. Arthur Schwartz, another former judge of the same tribunal, is helping counsel Columbia Pictures... Winnipeg's Jack Kruschen, who scored heavily as the doctor in "The Apartment," says he has received the full approval of Beth Am's Rabbi Pressman here in Hollywood to portray St. Matthew in "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

Protestant Body Endorses Ruling

NEW YORK — Nineteen leaders from nine Protestant denominations this week endorsed the ruling of the Supreme Court which forbids any government official from writing or prescribing prayers for use in the public schools. In their statement, which was released by Harold E. Fey; editor of The Christian Century non-denominational weekly, the Protestants hailed the Court's recent decision as protecting "the integrity of the religious conscience and the proper function of religious and governmental institutions."

The statement said, "we are in agreement with the Supreme Court that it is neither sacrilegious nor anti-religious to say that each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves and to those the people choose to look for religious guidance."

"We call upon the American people to study this decision prayerfully and without political emotion. We believe the Court's ruling against officially written and officially prescribed prayers protects the integrity of the religious conscience and the proper function of religious and governmental institutions."

Synagogue Fired; Jews On Trial

LONDON — A synagogue at Mikha Takhakaya, a Soviet town in western Georgia near the Black Sea, was burned down as a result of a fire deliberately started by "hooligans," according to information reaching here this week from Moscow. The synagogue was totally destroyed.

Mikha Taskhakaya is a city of 22,000 population, big enough by provincial standards to contain a sizable Jewish community. Soviet authorities were reported investigating the origin of the fire which took place on May 1, the most important national holiday in the entire Soviet Union. Thus far, there is no information as to whether anyone has been arrested.

Reporting from Moscow in The New York Herald Tribune, David Miller wrote that five men with obviously Jewish names have gone on trial with 13 others in Minsk for alleged illegal dealings in currency and gold.

A Byelo-Russian newspaper carried an account of the trial without identifying the five as Jews, but lurid descriptions were given of them. The reported leader of the ring is a Michael Bursak, whose name is Jewish, and who was described as a "rogue and rascal" who had already served four years in jail for two black market and speculating convictions.

The 18 defendants, according to Miller, were accused of pursuing the "fast and easy buck, theft, bribery, scheming and speculating," while "spicing their crimes with wine, bawdiness, moral decadence and degradation."

Money in Flower-Beds

Nathan Friedman is alleged to have kept untold sums of gold in one of the flower-beds near the Minsk railroad station.

The ring is alleged to have handled millions in old rubles and nearly 100 pounds of gold nuggets in operations in a dozen cities, including Kishinev, Vilna, Lvov, Leningrad, Kiev and Slutsk. The 18 were said to have "cowardice, brazenness, indifference, calmness, blankness and cuteness" written on their faces when they showed up in court.

The Byelo-Russian newspaper, Miller wrote, concluded with "All of them willingly sold their souls to the golden fleece and were making their fortunes at the expense of the state. Crime comes to its natural end."

Licensed drivers in the U.S. amount to approximately 87 million, according to the Automobile Legal Association.

SUBSCRIBERS ASK...

Answered here - important questions about your Blue Cross and Physicians Service Protection

1. Why Should I carry my Blue Cross-Physicians Service membership card with me?

Your membership card is instantly recognized and honored at hospitals in Rhode Island, and by the 6,000 or more non-profit general hospitals across the nation. As soon as you display your card, your "credit", so to speak, is immediately established. When illness strikes, there usually is no time for delay. So, it's wise to carry your membership card with you at all times.

2. Do I have to file a claim to get my benefits?

No... claims are taken care of between the hospital and Blue Cross and between your doctor and Physicians Service. The only exceptions would be when you use your benefits in a non-affiliated hospital... and there are very few of them. Whenever benefits are paid in your behalf, Blue Cross and Physicians Service send you notification of how much and for what services payments were made. This keeps you informed and is another check on accuracy.

3. Will the benefits I receive be realistic? Will they meet my actual needs?

Providing realistic protection for subscribers is one of the basic purposes of these community health-care plans. Blue Cross, of course, pays a set amount toward your daily hospital room, board and general nursing care. This amount depends upon the plan you have. Often, Blue Cross service benefits, however, are more important. These pay in full, regardless of amount, for most "extra" services the hospital provides.

Included are charges for operating room and laboratory services, drugs and dressings, special therapy and a whole list of costly but vital "extras".

Physicians Service pays service benefits, too. The services of your surgeon, assisting surgeon and anesthesiologist are paid in full for you if your income is within the following limits and you otherwise qualify.

(If you are enrolled under —

	PLAN A Income Limits	PLAN B Income Limits
Individual Membership
Your income is under:	$2,800	$4,000

Family Membership

Your combined family income is under:	$4,000	$6,000

This 'exclusive' feature is possible because 9 out of 10 Rhode Island physicians have agreed to accept the plan's benefit payments for qualified members as full-payment for surgical services — even if this payment is less than the physician's normal fee.

4. What if I have 2 memberships? Will I get benefits under both?

If you have duplicate coverage, such as Group, Individual and Direct Pay Family memberships, you are entitled to maximum benefits under the combined contracts up to but not exceeding the total charges.

5. If I ever have questions about my membership or benefits, whom should I ask?

Call or write anytime! You'll help us to serve you if you have your membership number.
