

Yom Kippur Services Bring End To High Holy Days

YOM KIPPUR SERVICES
Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, will conclude the High Holy Days for 1968-5728. Kol Nidre services will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 1, and Yom Kippur services will be held Wednesday morning, Oct. 2, with Yizkor services held during the morning. The blowing of the Shofar in the evening will bring an end to the holidays.

BARRINGTON JEWISH CENTER
"Remember: The Sabbath's Meaning For Us," is the title of the sermon which will be delivered at tonight's services at the Barrington Jewish Center by Rabbi Richard Weiss. The services for the Sabbath of Repentance this evening will start at 8:30 o'clock in the Center's building. Mrs. Victor Prushan will light the Sabbath candles, and Barnett Fain will make the Kiddush. Dr. Henry Izeman will bless the Torah, and Donald Miller, the Haftorah.
Kol Nidre services for Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, will be held at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday. The Holy Day candles will be blessed by Mrs. Jordan Cohen and Mr. Joseph Fath will hold the Torah during the chanting of Kol Nidre.
Services will resume at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, and the sermon will be titled, "Remember: We Were Slaves in Egypt." George Miller will bless the Torah and Allan Klepper the Haftorah. Announcements will be made by Fred Stern. The afternoon family service will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday with the help of the religious school pupils. A sermonette on "Forgetting" will be delivered.

Memorial and concluding services will start at 4 p.m. Leonard Rumpfer and Harvey Lapidus will bless the Torah, and Herbert Wolk and Mrs. Kurt Rose, the Haftorah. A brief sermonette on "Remember: The Day of Death and Remembering and Forgetting," will be followed by a brief Break-the-Fast reception to be held in the Center building.

CONGREGATION AGUDAS ACHIM
Attleboro, Mass.
Rabbi Philip Kaplan will conduct Kol Nidre services at Congregation Agudas Achim in Attleboro starting at 6 p.m. on Tuesday. His sermon will be "Are You Ready for the Verdict?"

Wednesday morning services will start at 8:30 o'clock and the sermon will be titled "Remembering Our Beloved." The Yizkor service will follow at 12 noon. Children's services will be held in the chapel at 11 a.m.

CONGREGATION B'NAI ISRAEL
Woonsocket.
Yom Kippur services at Congregation B'nai Israel, Woonsocket, will start on Tuesday evening at 5:45 o'clock, with the Kol Nidre services at 6:15. Services on Wednesday morning will start at 8:30 o'clock followed by the sermon at 11:30. Rabbi William E. Kaufman will conduct the services, and Alexander Lenz of New York will be the cantor. He will be accompanied by Walter Weinberg of New York.

CONGREGATION OHAWA SHOLAM
Congregation Ohawa Sholam will hold Kol Nidre services starting at 6:15 p.m. on Tuesday, followed by the sermon at 6:45 p.m. and the evening service at 7 p.m.

Services on Wednesday will start at 8 a.m. with the Torah reading at 10:30 a.m. and the sermon at 11 a.m. An additional service will be held at 11:30 a.m. During an intermission at 3:30 p.m. Rabbi Chaim Raizman will conduct an open seminar in the vestry.

The afternoon service will start at 4:45 p.m. and will conclude with the sounding of the Shofar at 7:15 p.m.

Report Questions Agnew Popularity In Jewish Community

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Jewish Council said that a report published by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency on the relations between the Jewish community in Maryland and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the Republican Vice Presidential candidate, was incorrect.

A JTA report had stated that Gov. Agnew's popularity with the Jewish and other minority groups had dwindled as a result of his stand on civil rights and welfare programs.

The Baltimore Jewish Council, which represents the major community organizations of the Greater Baltimore Jewish community, said that, while maintaining neutrality in all political matters, it "feels impelled to speak out in the interest of fair play in order to set the record straight."

The Council told JTA that it is "completely unaware of any evidence indicating a change in the attitude of Jews towards Gov. Agnew."

Its statement said the Council "is aware of the records of the candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States in both major parties and it states unequivocally that none of them is unsympathetic to Jewish causes."

Jewish Teachers, Nuns Teach Hebrew To Arabs, Arabic To Jews

JERUSALEM — Far beneath the storm clouds, which billow daily over Israel and her Arab neighbors, a small group of dedicated Jewish teachers and Christian nuns work quietly to help conquered and conqueror learn to live together in peace.

They teach Arabs living in occupied areas to speak and read Hebrew, the language of the victors of the 1967 war, and they teach Arabic to Jews.

In the months since the six-day war, they have scored impressive successes.

It all started with an Arab who needed assistance as war cut a swathe through his hometown; with a woman who went on a walk as the dust of battle settled in the Holy City; and with a man who feels for people so much he is willing to work from dawn into the night to help them.

Kalman Yaren, 43 years old, is a director of Hebrew University's Adult Education Center and the driving force behind the scheme. He was in the battle-scarred Arab city of Ramallah on the third day of the war.

"I was confronted by an Arab who blurted out he had a sister in Los Angeles," he related. "He asked me to send her a cable saying he was safe. I did and we became good friends.

"It was my first meeting with an Arab after the war and I was impressed. I wondered vaguely about meeting Arabs on human and cultural terms. I looked for a bridge."

Zionist Leader Asks For Cooperation To Combat Black Extremist Anti-Semitism

WASHINGTON — An American Zionist leader asked last week for an immediate cooperative effort among all national Jewish groups to combat what he described as "the rising manifestations" of anti-Semitism by black extremists throughout the country.

Jacques Torczyner, president of the Zionist Organization of America, made the appeal as the group opened its 71st annual convention at the Statler Hilton Hotel. He said the American Zionist movement must take the lead in assembling such a conference for the "express purposes of defending Jewish rights."

The Zionist leader, in an interview later, said he would get in touch with various religious and secular groups with main headquarters in New York City to formulate plans for the meeting.

There has been increasing concern in the Jewish community over what it characterizes as "discrimination in reverse." At the B'nai B'rith triennial convention earlier last week, Dr. William A. Wexler, president of the 500,000-member organization, said the Jewish communities "cannot shrug off a practice of discrimination in reverse that ousts a school teacher from his job in a ghetto neighborhood to satisfy the new black power criteria for self-segregation."

Mr. Torczyner told 1,000 delegates from all over the country that "thousands of Jewish school teachers" faced ultimate expulsion because of the major role black extremists were expected to play in the administration of local school boards as decentralization assumed wider proportions in black-dominated areas, particularly in New York City.

The Zionist leader assailed Jewish groups for what he said was their failure to protest against the widespread destruction of Jewish property during the riots last year and also their failure to resettle and relocate Jewish merchants who lost their businesses.

Jewish leaders, including Mr. Torczyner, in reflecting the troubled sentiments of the Jewish community over racial disorders, said there could be no challenge to the black community's right of full equality in America. But the Jewish community, Dr. Wexler said, cannot "shrug off the penalty of a gutted business to a victimized shopkeeper — that's a brutal price for an innocent victim to pay."

Mr. Torczyner was critical of Dr. James H. Hester, president of New York University, for his appointment of John H. Hatchett as director of the university's new Martin Luther King Jr. Afro-American Student Center. Mr. Hatchett evoked controversy because of what Jewish leaders described as "an anti-Semitic article" he had written with reference to Jewish teachers.

Mr. Hatchett has asserted in defense that the thrust of his article was not aimed at Jews just because they were Jews but that the tone of the article was anti-Establishment. However, Jewish leaders have frequently emphasized that Jewish teachers were "deeply dedicated in teaching children no matter their race, color or creed."

Although emphasizing that the Negro struggle for equal rights "is justified from the human point of view," Mr. Torczyner said this struggle in the near future would assume a "more violent turn and endanger the position of Jews in America" because of the increasing influence of black extremists among Negro masses.

The Zionist leader cited the role the American Jewish community had played in the civil rights movement to aid the American Negro, pointing to the "heavy sums" that had been contributed in this effort.

"This is now over," he said. "Extremist black power is the order of the day. We have a new brand of anti-Semitism — black anti-Semitism."

Mr. Torczyner contended that the "black power Negro movement" pledged support "to Arab terrorists" and was aligned with Arab students on campuses throughout the country in opposition to Israel. He referred to a New Left meeting in Chicago last year at which black extremists forced through a resolution that assailed Israel's was against the Arab states and condemned the "Zionist conspiracy."

Zionists Urge Sale Of Jets

WASHINGTON — The Zionist Organization of America called on the Johnson Administration last week to make Phantom F-4 supersonic jets available to Israel "immediately and without further delay."

In a resolution which was adopted unanimously, the Zionists commented on the dispatch that appeared in The New York Times reporting that President Johnson had decided not to sell Phantoms to Israel in the near future.

"Such a decision," the resolution said, "would be contrary to the best interests of the United States and would play into the hands of the Soviet Union. Such a decision will not satisfy the American people."

At their 71st annual meeting at the Statler Hilton Hotel, the Zionists asserted that the jets would serve as "a deterrent to Arab attacks or miscalculation abetted by Soviet encouragement."

Richard N. Nixon, in a message addressed to Jacques Torczyner, president of the organization, reiterated that Israel must have a "valid self-defense" and that she must have a "technological military margin to offset her hostile neighbors' numerical superiority." He again urged the shipment of Phantoms to Israel.

Mr. Nixon said that Israel stood as a "bulwark of strength in the path of Soviet ambition" and that she was an example of what a "free and energetic people can accomplish."

"Faced with a direct threat to her security, Israel must have the strength to deter any attempts on her freedom and sovereignty," he said.

Earlier in the week, both Mr. Nixon and Vice President Humphrey, in separate addresses before the B'nai B'rith triennial, urged that the jets be sold to Israel. Mr. Humphrey sent the Zionists a message to this effect.

Israel has been pressing for the sale of the planes since last fall. She has asked for about 50 of the long-range, 1,200-mile-an-hour jets, the most advanced warplane in the American air arsenal except for the new F-111.

Arab town of Nablus and one in Beit Sahur, near Bethlehem.

Almost 700 Arabs, mainly professional people like doctors and lawyers, learn Hebrew twice a week. More than 100 Jews study Arabic.

Mr. Yaron has 15 part-time teachers. He needs more and the money to pay them, to provide facilities for his classes, to finance outings, seminars and teach-ins.

"I could get hundreds, maybe thousands, of pupils if only I had the money," he said. "The Adult Education Center has so many schemes to finance it doesn't have any money to spare."

"I think I would need about $14,000 a year to run the project properly. The center's total budget is only around $3,000.

"I don't do this for money. It is the first time all these people, Arab and Jews, have had a chance to communicate with each other. I try to understand them and explain myself.

"I do not brainwash the Arabs. We don't speak of politics. During the Israeli raid on Karameh I doubted if anybody would turn up for class.

"But with Mirage jets screaming overhead I taught a class even fuller than usual. A class is a place to escape from war. Later a student came up to me and said: 'Thank you for coming today.'"

Some of Yaron's most devoted helpers are the nuns, whose leader is Mother Superior Mary Aline from France. Her chief assistant is Sister Rose Therisa from Malta.

Courtship, Marriage, the Family
 By Dr. Alfred J. Prince

Divorce and Remarriage
 Next to death, divorce is the most common cause of broken families. Currently, there are approximately 480,000 divorces each year in the United States, or roughly 10 per 1,000 existing marriages. Divorces reached their height in 1946 when more than 600,000 were granted, or a rate of 18.2 per 1,000 marriages. There are in the United States at the present time approximately 2.8 million living divorced persons.
 How many of these divorced persons remarry? How successful are the remarriages? What effect does divorce have upon the children?

It is often said that one-fourth of all marriages contracted in the United States today end in divorce. This statement is misleading. Both first marriages and remarriages after divorce are included in this one-to-four ratio. Studies show, however, that remarriages after divorce have a higher divorce rate than first marriages.
 A more likely estimate, therefore, of the probability that couples entering marriage for the first time will some day be divorced is closer to one in six rather than one in four.

The earlier the marriage, the higher the divorce rate. Also, marriages in which the bride is already pregnant have twice the divorce rate of ordinary marriages. A correlation also exists between socio-economic status and divorce. The lower the socio-economic status of the partners, the higher the divorce rate.

Divorce rates also vary by region of the country. They tend to increase from east to west, reflecting differences in attitudes, values, and in the age, ethnic, and religious composition of the population.

Most divorces occur within the first few years of marriage. After the third and fourth year, divorce rates gradually decline, with the exception of a slight rise around the 20th year.

Although the divorce rate is higher for childless marriages than for marriages with children, the presence of children in the home is no longer an effective deterrent to divorce. Both the proportion of divorces involving children and the number of children affected by divorce are on the increase.

Studies show that divorce is less traumatic for younger children and for children who did not view the home as a happy one prior to the divorce.

"The damage to the child," writes one family sociologist, "comes from perpetual conflict and bickering between the parents; and from his being used as a pawn in their conflict." It is this kind of home atmosphere, he adds, that creates problems for children and not the divorce as such.

The most popular adjustment to divorce is remarriage. Approximately 75 per cent of divorced persons remarry within five years. Divorced men have greater probabilities of remarriage than do divorced women.

 How successful are second or subsequent marriages of divorced persons? Studies show that, in general, remarriages of divorced persons are less stable than other marriages. Where either one or both of the partners remarrying have been divorced more than once, the divorce rate is four times as high as in first marriages. If both partners have been divorced at least twice before, the probability that the remarriage will end in divorce is four in five.

 Some divorced persons no doubt gain insight into their own personalities by the experience and are able to recognize the part they played in the breakup of their first marriage. These individuals usually find happiness in a new marital relationship.
 The divorced person who blames all the trouble on the partner, however, without insight into his or her part in the marital failure, or who blames himself exclusively for the divorce, is likely to repeat the same mistakes in his second marriage.
 "Remarriage is seldom an improvement," writes one family specialist, "when part of the problem is still within the divorced person." More often than not, professional help is needed to prepare a divorced person for success in his second marriage.

HARRY LECHT
 Funeral services for Harry Lecht, 93, of 204 Oakland Avenue, who died Sept. 18 after a five-week illness, were held Sept. 20 at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

The husband of the late Sarah (Finkle) Lecht, he was born in Russia, a son of the late Israel Morris and Eva (Stone) Lecht. He had been a Providence resident since 1907. He was a cattle dealer and at one time was in the partnership of the United Packing Company of Pawtucket. He retired 20 years ago.

A member of the Congregation Sons of Jacob and Anshe Kovni, Shamro Shabbas, he was also a member of the Gemilas Chesed and Chevra Kadisha, the Jewish Home for the Aged and the Hebrew Sheltering Society.

Survivors include three sons, Morris Lecht of Providence, Samuel Lecht of Hull, Mass., and Leonard Lecht of Bethesda, Md.; five daughters, Mrs. Nathan Golin, Mrs. Barney Marinsky and Miss Blanche Lecht, all of Providence, Mrs. Sydney Koret of Rochester, N.Y., and Miss Esther Lecht of Barrington; two brothers, Jona Leach of Lincoln and Jacob Licht of New York City; 13 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

MRS. MYER RICH
 Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Rich of 164 Ninth Street, widow of Myer Rich, who died Sept. 20, were held Sunday at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Born in Russia in 1897, she was the daughter of the late Isaac and Mulka Levin. She had lived in Providence for 66 years.

She was a member of Temple Emanu-El and its Sisterhood, Roger Williams Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women, the Jewish Home for the Aged, Miriam Hospital Women's Association, Pioneer Women and the Brandeis University Women's Auxiliary.

Survivors include two sons, Harold L. Rich of Providence, and Jordan Rich of East Providence; a daughter, Mrs. John B. Schechter, and a brother, Samuel Levin, both of Providence; two sisters, Mrs. Esmond Borod of Providence and Mrs. Henry Marmorstein of Jersey City, N. J., and four grandchildren.

MEYER S. JAFFA
 Funeral services for Meyer S. Jaffa, 81, of 1710 Broad Street, Cranston, who died Monday in New York City, were held Wednesday at the Max Sugarman Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Mr. Jaffa, a retired owner of a former chain of restaurants in this area, was the husband of Mamie (Jampolsky) Jaffa. Born on April 18, 1887, in Palestine, he had lived in Providence for 68 years before moving to Cranston in 1960. The late Abraham and Libby (Salant) Jaffa were his parents.

Mr. Jaffa retired in 1948 from the Overland Lunch restaurant, which he had operated for many years.

He served on the original board of directors of Temple Beth Israel and held life memberships in the Jewish Home for the Aged and the Zionist Organization of America. He also was a member of the Gemilith Chesed.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Donald D. Jaffa of East Providence and Aaron Jaffa of Warwick; a daughter, Mrs. Leo Brynes of Warwick; a brother, Daniel Jaffa of Detroit, Mich.; a sister, Mrs. Sarah Greenberg of Steubenville, Ohio; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

SAM STEINGOLD
 Sam Steingold, 68, of Los Angeles, Calif., died Sept. 16 of a long-standing heart condition. Burial was in Mt. Sinai Memorial Park in Los Angeles.

Born in Russia on Sept. 10, 1900, he immigrated to Pawtucket in 1914. He was active in the automobile business in the area until he retired and moved to Los Angeles in 1959.

He was a long term member of Ohave Shalom Synagogue of Pawtucket, where he was active on the school board and the Gemilith Chesed. Mr. Steingold was also a member of the Miriam Hospital Association, the Jewish Home for the Aged, and the Zionist Organization of America.

He is survived by his widow, Jessie P. (Abewitt) Steingold, of Los Angeles, a son, Harold Steingold, of Santa Monica, a daughter, Linda C. Townsley, of Los Angeles, and three grandchildren. He is survived also by two brothers, Charles Steingold of Providence, and Louis Steingold of Miami Beach, Fla., and by two sisters, Marion Rubin and Mamie Garfinkel, both of Springfield, Mass.

"A Mother's Kisses," scheduled to open Oct. 29 at the 46th Street Theatre in N.Y., will be produced by Gene Saks, who also produced the movie, "Odd Couple." Saks' wife, Bea Arthur, stars in the musical and Barry Gordon, 19, who sings beautifully, plays her son.

Eight years ago in Broadway's "A Thousand Clowns," and later in the movie version, 11-year-old Barry Gordon scored a hit as Jason Robards' son. Another Jewish youngster, the very same Gene Saks, also played a supporting role. So it all comes under the general heading of how miraculously drayt der veidt (ain't it a small one?).

CARL SHAPIRO, Boston book shop and travel service operator, returned from a trip to Freeport in the Bahamas where he attended the first bar mitzvah ever held there in a Methodist Church. When Freeport builds its first temple, I trust that the local Jews will return the compliment by holding Freeport's first Methodist confirmation in a synagogue.

VICTORIA Medlin auditioned for Universal's "Goodbye Columbus" but failed to get the role because "you don't act Jewish enough." Here are the statistics: The young actress is really Victoria Levinson, daughter of Barry Levinson, Broadway literary agent, and Janet Medlin, once a singer for Liberate.

Meanwhile, Stanley Jaffe, who is producing this movie, signed Cantor David Benedict of Temple Israel, Lawrence, Long Island, to portray a rabbi who officiates at a wedding. The nuptials will be filmed at the Delmonico Hotel in Manhattan. It would have been even more ironic had Cantor Benedict failed his test because he sounded too much like Tiny Tim.

AFTER COMPLETING his Thames television concert with the London Philharmonic, Jack Benny hosted a champagne cocktail reception but felt that something was missing. Accompanied by a few intimates, Benny went to Isow's where they all enjoyed the "something missing" - a Jewish meal.

NO SOONER did Theodore Bikel complete his "Fiddler on the Roof" extended run at the Las Vegas Caesars Palace then he played the role of a Cardinal in TV's Mission: Impossible.

THE ELECTRIC Prune (that's a rock 'n' soul group, dad) recorded two albums: "Mass in F-minor" for Christmas and "Kol Nidre" for the High Holidays. As I've said repeatedly, never sell our kids short.

ROBERT LIPPETT is preparing a television movie about the late Cantor Morris Rosenberg. . . Prime Minister Levi Eshkol still wants Joseph Levine to head a moviemaking campaign for Israel. . . Have you heard about Marlo Thomas starring in a movie titled, "Have You Heard about Jenny Shapiro?"

GLENN FORD bought an original screenplay, which he'll produce. About a horse who thinks he's Jewish, it's titled, "Funny, You Don't Look It" . . . Tel Aviv has a Frug Street but, unlike pathetically hippie-notized Fairfax Avenue in Los Angeles, you can't find a soul brother anywhere.

BROTHERS-actors Harry and Harold Herring have roles in Paramount's "The Riot," in which Harold portrays a prison parolee released in custody of his film brother, Harry. This, of course, makes Harry Herring his brother's kipper.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

ROGER E. SPEAR

CATV Market Largely Untapped

Q: We are rank amateurs who bought 100 shares each of Lehigh Industries, Livingston Oil and Imperial Corp. We thought these would be good long-term investments to hold seven months to a year. Would you help us?—R.P.

A: I would first point out that although seven months qualifies as "long-term" in income tax parlance, in the stock market it generally indicates several years. For rank amateurs you have chosen three interesting issues, assuming of course you can afford to speculate and are willing to exercise patience.

Lehigh merits retention on several counts; it has a $23 million tax loss carry forward, one-third of its shares are closely held, acquisitions are aggressively pursued and the shares are highly leveraged. The sizable dilution factor—39%—would reduce estimated 1968 earnings of $1.40 to $1.10 a share.

Livingston Oil is an attractive speculation on the basis of its interest in CATV, through two subsidiaries. Projections of the potential CATV market range from 10 to 50 million homes. At present only 5% of the nation's 59 million TV homes are subscribers, leaving a large untapped market.

Your third selection moved up sharply following a favorable ruling on its interstate bank holdings. Earnings, which in 1966 and 1967 were under pressure from reduced borrowing, more than doubled year-to-year in the first half. With higher interest rates now unlikely, full-year earnings should be much improved.

Q: I was left a large block of Employers Group Associates. I know little about the industry and find the stock difficult to follow. Should I switch to blue chips?—A.H.

A: Employers has an excellent record which is being extended into 1968 results. Quotations are available in most large metropolitan daily newspapers in the insurance section of the O-T-C market. Since you are uncomfortable with this holding I suggest switching all but 100 shares into equal dollar amounts of Allied Chemical, Duquesne Light and Amer. Tobacco.

Extravagant Claims Can Be Misleading

Q: I have recently sold two holdings and put the money into Lane Wood Inc. which I'm told will double in a year. Do you think this was a good investment?—H.B.

A: Yes, I do feel that Lane Wood is a good investment on a long-term basis. However, your friend appears to have been overenthusiastic. Because of the many unforeseen situations that can disrupt the market, I would, in the future, be wary of anyone who states positively that a stock will double in price in a given length of time. Lane Wood, a Dallas-based company, derives 80% of earnings from sales of mobile homes and 20% from oil and other holdings. Earnings in the last fiscal year, ended April 30, were $1.02 a share, and a comfortable increase is estimated for this year.

There is a sizable — over 20% — dilution factor from conversion of debt and preferred issues. A recently proposed secondary offering should not be difficult for the market to absorb. Proceeds may be used to acquire additional firms in the mobile home industry.

Q: I am self-employed, in my early 40s, have three boys to educate and am eligible for a retirement plan under the Keogh Act. We have been able to put money away systematically toward retirement but may have to dip into it for college tuitions. Would you advise my taking advantage of Keogh plan?—L.S.

A: I would hesitate to advise your using the Self-Employed Pension Act for the very reason you have given: the possible need for these funds to meet future expenses. Funds invested under this act are frozen until age 59 1/2, except in cases of severe disability or death. However, if you are in a higher tax bracket, the advantages of income tax deferral may outweigh this consideration.

I strongly suggest a thorough study of your individual situation with the assistance of your attorney or tax accountant, either of whom may point out fiscal advantages of which you are unaware.

Future Plans Uncertain After Sale Of Business

Q: My wife and I are selling our business valued at $100,000. We have $5,000 in a mutual fund and $24,000 in bank deposits. If we have to sell our house we will realize $23,000 from it. Should we look for a new business to buy, go to work for someone else or invest for income? We have 15 years before retirement.—T.P.

A: Not possessing all of the facts, I can only give you a surface judgment. As I see it, the length of time that might be required to find another suitable business could in itself create an unavoidable amount of anxiety. In addition, you might be forced to relocate, a prospect that is not always appealing. With a new unknown venture there is the possibility of a reverse which would reduce the capital you have worked hard to amass.

On the other hand, to invest solely for income, which at best will bring only 6% with safety, would be unwise when you have many active working years ahead. My choice would be to secure a salaried position and invest the proceeds from the sale of your business in a portfolio of blue chip growth issues. With careful selection your capital at retirement will have outpaced inflation, and you will be in a better position to switch your holdings for greater income.

Q: What stock would you suggest for a boy with $500 to invest?—J.B.

A: At your age you should choose an investment in one of the technological areas where growth potential is above average. I like Alloys Unlimited Inc., a large volume producer of individual components for the semiconductor, avionic, electronic, computer and aerospace industries. Highly complex components fabricated from a variety of exotic elements are supplied to meet the specialized needs of customers.

Working from a well-established competitive position, Alloys has reported excellent earnings gains since 1964. Shares are trading well below their 1968 high and at a reasonable multiple of projected earnings.

CHARTER NEW CHAPTER: An afternoon chapter of Women's American ORT was chartered on Thursday, Sept. 12, at the home of Mrs. Alvin Kurzer, immediate past president of the Providence Chapter Women's American ORT.

Shown greeting the first new member, Mrs. Stanley Rudolph, are temporary officers Mesdames Irving Garrick, Ross Feinberg, Judah Rosen, Martin Dittelman, Irving C. Goldfarb, Louis Backerman, Jack Cohen. Mesdames Robert Singer, Simon Nemzow, and Irene Levine were not present for the picture.

This chapter was formed to meet the increasing needs and growth of ORT's programs, here, in Israel, and all over the world. They will meet on the second Thursday of the month. Those who want more information may call Mrs. Nemzow at 831-1562, or Mrs. Dittelman at 942-5735.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

SENIOR HIGH DANCE

The first senior high school dance of the 1968-1969 season, the "Senior Hi Campus Mixer," will be conducted at the Jewish Community Center on Saturday evening, Oct. 5, under the auspices of the Center Youth Council.

Jim Salk, CYC president, has appointed Mimi Goldsmith and Brian Kenner as co-chairmen for the event.

Subsequent dances at the Center for senior high students will be held on alternating Saturday nights, under the sponsorship of the senior high school organizations which meet in the JCC building.

ANNUAL DANCE

Temple Beth Torah will hold its annual Yom Kippur Night Dance at the temple social hall in Cranston on Oct. 2, at 9 p.m. Music will be provided by Glenn Jordan and his orchestra. The dance is sponsored by the Men's Club and the Temple Sisterhood. Eli Leftin and Mrs. Beverly Adler are co-chairmen.

LIGHT TO SPEAK

Frank Licht, former state Superior Court judge and a candidate for governor, will speak at Temple Sinai Social Hall on Sunday, Sept. 29. He will be the guest of the Temple Sinai Brotherhood at their breakfast meeting at 9 a.m.

SUPPERETTE PLANNED

A Paid-up Supperette will be held by the Ladies Aid and Sisterhood of the Ohawe Shalom Synagogue on Sunday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. Following the meal, which will be held in the vestry, officers will be installed by Rabbi Chaim Raizman.

A skit, "The Impossible Dream," will be acted out by Sisterhood board members directed by Mrs. Chaim Raizman. Guests for the evening will be Abraham M. Mal, president of the synagogue, and Rabbi Raizman.

Mrs. Abraham M. Mal is chairman of the event, assisted by Mesdames Harold Kerzner, co-chairman; Samuel Trachtenberg, Samuel Brown, and Katherine Loewy.

SERIES OF TALKS

Rabbi Saul Leeman will present a series of talks to the Men's Club of Temple Beth Torah based on his impressions of Israel. His discussions will take place at the Sunday morning meetings of the Men's Club. Each meeting will begin with services at 9 a.m., followed by breakfast at 9:30 a.m., and the Rabbi's message at 10 a.m.

Rabbi Leeman and his family recently returned from a year in Israel. The topics on which he will speak, and the dates of the meetings are, "After the Six Day War," Oct. 20; "Religion in Israel," Oct. 27; "People and Places," Nov. 3; "American in Israel," Nov. 17.

Arrangements for this series of lectures were made by Oscar Cohen, first vice-president.

RUMMAGE SALE

The Ladies Aid and Sisterhood of the Ohawe Shalom Synagogue will hold a rummage and toy sale on Oct. 3 and 4. Rummage may be brought to 628 Dexter Street, Central Falls, where the sale will be held. Mrs. Samuel Brown, Mrs. Katherine Loewy, Mrs. Eva Kaplan, and Mrs. Ester Klein are chairmen of the sale.

VISITS VATICAN

VATICAN CITY — Jacob Herzog, director general of the Israeli prime minister's office, came to the Vatican at his own request to discuss the Mideast situation with the Holy See.

Herzog met recently with a high Vatican official. It was reported elsewhere that the official was Archbishop Agostino Casaroli, head of the Council for the Public Affairs of the Church.

Herzog's visit to the Vatican was with particular reference to the peace keeping mission of U.S. secretary general Thant's special ambassador to the Mideast, Gunnar Jarring.

L.A. CELEBRATION
LOS ANGELES — One hundred and fourteen years of organized Jewish life in Los Angeles will be commemorated Sept. 28 when a State of California historical marker will be

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: it or not, women do these things all the time—and men pay scant attention, because they know it is the way with women. Cease to worry. The truth of the matter is that you don't have to tell the boy anything. You can courteously say, "Excuse me for a moment. I'll be right back." There is little need to say anything else—and nothing else will be said if the boy is a gentleman. In fact, he may welcome the opportunity to go where there is good light and a mirror to determine if his hair is properly combed.

OUR REPLY: One of the most famous of all female lines is, "Pardon me. I think I will go and powder my nose." What are you worried about? You could go to the ladies room to wash your hands after eating the kind of candy that melts in your hands . . . to straighten your lipstick, to re-arrange your hairdo. Believe

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Law or Force

We in the United States are presumably living under a government of law. In oversimplified form this means that all who live in this country must obey the law of the land, and the law of the land applies equally to all who live here.

The point of this is, that the people who condone the role of the police in Chicago during the recent Democratic convention seem to feel that because some people don't believe as they do, or because they wear beards, they don't come under the same law. In such cases, they feel, it is perfectly all right for the police to hit first and find out later if those who were hit had been misbehaving. This is not a rule of law; this is the rule of the police state.

This may keep the streets safe for some, but it won't keep your life or your home safe or your freedoms safe. This is the Hitler strategy: there are people out there who don't believe as we do; get rid of them.

The idea behind democracy is supposed to be that everyone has a right to his opinion and a right to express it. If he pulls a gun, if he starts fires or throws bombs, if he hurts people, and it can be proven in a court of law, he should be appropriately punished. But that he did it must be proven.

A quotation from a recent editorial in Life Magazine illustrates the point:

"... But the character and quality of the changes that are coming in American life will be affected by the way we use our law to keep order. The enforcement of order applied firmly and sensibly to the public good is one thing, and the young will just have to live with it. But the frenzied and hysterical application of force of the kind we saw in Chicago is simply rotten. It deepens the national bitterness, virtually destroys the concept of the police as servant protectors of the people, makes even more difficult any reconciliation and understanding between generations, and threatens a disaster whose price in pain and repression would terrify us all."

At Last: Good News From Rowan County

Rowan County in North Carolina is reputed to have one of the largest chapters of the Ku Klux Klan in the United States.

The Grand Dragon of the Klan, J. Robert Jones, lives in Granite Quarry in Rowan and indeed the next rally of the Klan is scheduled there. But in a recent newspaper series which appeared in the Charlotte Observer, reporter Howard Covington passed along the good news that Klan membership is diminishing. Hearing that the Klan has passed into oblivion would be the best of all news but failing it, let us hope the Klan stays underpopulated.

The Klan was strong enough in North Carolina to have a booth at the State Fair in Raleigh two years ago. The New York Times picked up the story and shook the folks in the state capital who canceled the Klan's lease on the grounds that Klansmen were making too much noise. If you drive through Rowan County on a Sunday, you can usually see a platoon of Klansmen in khakis and helmet liners, the new regalia, doing close order drill in the fields and meadows. It is not a sight to attract tourists.

But Rowan County has reason to be proud. The election of Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan Koontz to the presidency of the National Educational Association was front page news. Mrs. Koontz is a Negro, a career classroom teacher from Salisbury right in the middle of Rowan County.

Teaching is, I believe, either the eighth or ninth largest profession in the country. The President of the National Educational Association is no empty honor.

While Grand Dragon Jones has trouble recruiting savages for his tawdry tribe which came into being by expressing its distaste for another race, a Negro teacher from his own ballick becomes the head of an organization with 1.1 million members.

If Mrs. Koontz, the youngest of seven children born in a talented Negro family of Rowan County, is an inspiration to colored citizens of her county, state, and nation, she also should prove an inspiration to poor North Carolina whites.

Though both of Mrs. Koontz's parents had college degrees, she and her brothers and sisters still had to work their way through school. One of her brothers was Dr. Samuel Duncan, the President of Livingstone College, recently deceased. His death was mourned by whites and blacks throughout the state where he was respected as a builder, a teacher, and a healer. Two of Mrs. Koontz's brothers are high school principals and another became one of the first Negro commissioners in Washington, D.C. Her sister is the Registrar of Livingstone College.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

The Night of Selichot

My granddaughter, who is a senior in high school, and two of her friends, have decided to go to Temple Emanu-El and participate in the Selichot Service. Nobody suggested it to them. Nobody coerced them to go. They just felt a desire to hear the Midnight Selichot Service.

Whether they knew it or not, these three young ladies have linked themselves to a century old Jewish tradition, and have joined themselves to their forefathers of untold generations. Selichot, forgiveness, is a tradition hallowed by Jews from time immemorial. And this is in essence the meaning of Selichot.

I remember the time when I went to the Selichot service with my grandfather, in the little town of my birth.

No one knew how old grandfather was at the time. Birthdays were not counted in the little town of my birth, on the Ukraine. Certainly my grandfather did not celebrate his birthdays. Yartzeit, the dates of departure of relatives and men of renown, were observed religiously. But not birthdays. With his white beard and serious patriarchal bearing grandfather looked to us, his grandchildren, to be ageless. Grandfather was always with us and would continue to be with us forever, we believed.

For grandfather to be up at all hours of the night was not new. Whenever we woke up in the night we could see a light shining in his own room. There he stood wrapped up in his Tallis and either prayed or studied.

But to me getting up to Selichot was an event. I lay in bed asleep and not asleep, waiting to hear the Shamosh knock on our door, calling out:

"Shtet of tzu Slichos!"
 "Wake up to Selichot!"

As soon as I heard the familiar chant, I rushed to my grandfather's side, he holding my hand tightly, and I shivering in the cold night air and we were outside.

How quiet the little town was on that night!

What patterns of light and shadow the night has designed on the strangely familiar houses and trees!

We walked in silence until we came within the circle of light of the House of Worship.

There were four Shulen, one next to each other, in our little town. Now they were all four of them lit. They seemed like fantastic balls of fire standing on nothing. From every direction Jews came rushing to Selichot and separated again each to his own Shul.

It is a far cry from Temple Emanu-El in Providence to the House of Worship in my little town. But the Selichot are the same. The melodies are the same. The message of Selichot is still the same. And I hope the mood is still the same.

We ask forgiveness of Him who can forgive all sins and transgressions.

Sins which we have sinned against our fellow man.

Sins which we have sinned and crimes which we have committed, people against people, nation against nation.

The whole world needs forgiveness. We pray for ourselves and for the world.

I hope the young ladies who went to hear the Selichot, my granddaughter and her friends, understood the meaning of the service.

And that they also understood the anguish in the words of petition which our forefathers chanted:

"Do it for the sake of the blood of Thy faithful shed by tyrants.

"Do it for the sake of those killed in the Sanctification of Thy name.

"Do it for the sake of the school children.

"Do it for the sake of the infants free from sin.

"Do it for Thy own sake and forgive us.

"We invoke the merits of the Fathers, the Faithful, the little children, and the Martyrs, and ask for forgiveness."

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

A physician was called in not long ago, to diagnose the condition of a woman suffering from despondency. After he left, the woman jumped out of the window. Her survivors sued the doctor and won a settlement of $200,000.

A man was sitting in his car in front of a house when a tree fell on the automobile; the resulting injuries left him paralyzed from the neck down. A jury awarded him $1.5 million in his suit against the property owner.

A physician and a drug manufacturer were sued recently for $6 million for the wrongful use of a drug. The case has not yet been concluded, but the sheer size of the demand is a dramatic illustration of the huge sums involved in liability suits — and awards — today. The $6 million suit also illustrates how financially vulnerable hundreds of thousands of wealthy Americans have become.

As a protection against crippling lawsuits, mounting numbers of business executives, doctors and other professionals — moderately well-to-do as well as wealthy — are turning to "umbrella" liability insurance policies. Today there are an estimated 250,000 umbrella policies in effect, with coverage ranging from $1 million to $5 million. The vast majority of these policies have been written just within the past five years.

An umbrella insurance policy builds on top of your existing auto and homeowners' insurance coverage and, perhaps landlords' or professional malpractice insurance. Umbrella coverage also covers you for other types of legal action such as libel suits and false arrest — involving a deductible which may range anywhere from $250 to $5,000.

In addition, umbrella coverage extends to areas not usually covered by standard liability policies; for instance, rented items ranging from boats to automobiles. And umbrella insurance may extend your present health insurance well beyond the maximums provided in your regular policy.

Umbrella policies, and the premiums for them, differ according to the specific financial circumstances of the individual buying the coverage. But in most cases, you are required to maintain a minimum of $100,000 to $300,000 in auto bodily injury coverage, $10,000 in automobile property damage insurance and $50,000 in comprehensive person liability insurance.

How much does umbrella insurance cost?

For the individual who owns his home and maintains personal liability coverage of $50,000, but who owns no car, the cost of a typical $1 million umbrella policy is $42 a year.

For the individual who owns both a home and a car, the yearly premium cost is $57. And if he owns a small boat as well, the annual cost is $67. Typically, the premium rises $12 a year for each additional car owned by the insured.

But let's say you're among the majority whose homes, savings and other assets are not worth anywhere near $1 million, and who have no need for this level of liability coverage. But let's say you also wonder whether your present coverage is adequate to protect the assets you do have.

To show you the costs of increasing your personal liability coverage under your home owners policy, here are figures provided by the Insurance Information Institute of New York, using the example of a family living in a $25,000 frame house:

Personal Liability	Annual Premium
$25,000	$77
50,000	80
100,000	82
300,000	87

And here is a table showing the typical cost of raising your automobile liability insurance limits for bodily injury:

Liability Limits	Annual Premium
$10/20,000	$50
50/100,000	65
100/300,000	70

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

George Wallace was surprised at Happy Chandler's refusal to run for vice president with him. When Chandler left the U.S. Senate to become baseball commissioner the Kentuckian said he'd run for, and was elected to, 14 offices: "There's only one more elective office to go." He was the first candidate to declare for the presidential nomination in '60.

Then, in conceding the nomination to JFK, Chandler said: "I've made the run for the roses for the last time. This barefoot - boy - from - a - log - cabin don't go no more. Gotta be rich."

Chandler has a rubber stamp with his name in Chinese letters, a gift from Mme. Chiang Kalshek. He also has a short-snorter bill given him by George VI at Buckingham Palace. He claims he lost the presidency in '44, when Wilson Wyatt wouldn't back him for FDR's vice presidential nomination: "For if I couldn't

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

Ever since I turned to teaching the game of Bridge I have tried to impress on my pupils and also those who now play Duplicate Bridge at my Club, exactly how important it is to think and plan before they play to the first trick. I can show them how and tell them why but I cannot make them actually do it. Today's hand will show what happens when one plays too quickly and thoughtlessly to the first trick. That is it will happen if the Defenders play as they should.

North and South were vulnerable, South dealer. The first time I watched the hand the bidding went as follows with the final contract being a popular one as I watched it thereafter.

 2S P 4S End

For those who used Weak Two Bids the auction was quick and simple. North's hand opposite a vulnerable opening Weak Two bid should be able to provide at least a good play for game. The worst hand imaginable should be as good as the one South actually did hold. The players not using this valuable convention had more trouble getting to game, many of them stopping at two. As the hand turned out these timid souls were rewarded for their caution as no Declarer was able to make the contract legitimately. A couple did because of defensive lapses.

In every case West's opening lead was the Heart Jack. Not one of the Declarers stopped and thought the hand out before automatically covering that Jack with the Queen. They were going to play to that trick and think later. They were to find that they had thought too late. Best defense, which was the rule here rather than the exception would be for East to win the Ace and switch to a Trump. No matter which Spade South would play West could beat it, play his other high Trump and then his last one exhausting Dummy of its valuable ruffing power.

Now when the Diamonds failed to split evenly Declarer would find he had a Diamond loser or a Club loser, only one of them could be discarded on the high Heart in Dummy. This plus the Two Trump losers and the Heart Ace already lost meant going down. Of course, if the Defense slipped and a Trump was returned the Dummy could ruff the losing Club. Many defenders did return the Trump.

Those Declarers who failed to make the hand later bemoaned their fate during the post mortem and were joined by their partner who agreed that every card had been wrong causing the contract to go down. True, had the Heart Ace been with West and that opponent played it early enough, two discards could have been obtained. Also, had the Trumps been situated more advantageously only one might have been lost but actually even as the cards are had Declarer stopped to think before covering that opening Jack lead he still could have made the hand.

Practically no good player will underlead an Ace on the opening lead in a suit contract. In No Trump, yes, not otherwise. So South should know the Heart Ace is in the East hand where it will remain. If he does not cover the opening lead West will win his Jack but now nothing that defender can lead will harm the Declarer. Later, because of the singleton Heart in his hand, Declarer can ruff out that same Heart Ace by leading an honor from Dummy and discarding if East plays low, ruffing if East plays the Ace. Now he still gets that discard. Furthermore, he can now either ruff the losing Club or West will have to give up a Trump trick to stop it and even that would not work here, he would never lead from his tenace position in Trumps.

This hand was played during the Women's Club Championship last week and each female Declarer, many of them excellent players, couldn't wait to get that Queen on the Jack. Some of them are still oblivious of the fact that they could have made the hand by not covering. This article, provided they read it, may give them a slight jolt.

Moral: There is no such thing as always cover an honor. Learn to think when to and when not to. Either way learn to think.

Counselor To Discuss 'Teen-Agers' World'

Problems of the teen-ager in relation to family, school, and society in general, will be discussed at the 39th Annual Meeting of the Jewish Family and Children's Service on Monday, Oct. 21. The featured speaker will be Miss Edna R. Macdonald, formerly head of the guidance department at Hope High School.

The meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m. in the Kane gymnasium at Butler Health Center. Mrs. Mary Binder, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the nominees for officers, board, and corporation. Annual reports will be given by Irving Brodsky, president of the board of directors; Alvin W. Pansey, treasurer; and Herman L. Goldberg, ACSW, the executive director.

Serving with Mrs. Binder on the nominating committee are Mrs. Walter J. Nelson, Norman G. Orondenker, Joseph Thaler, and W. Irving Wolf, Jr.

Professor Israel J. Kapstein is chairman of the Annual Meeting Committee, which arranged the program. Members of the committee are Dr. David J. Cohen, Mrs. Alfred Fain, and Abram Wahl.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

ARGENTINE RABBIS UNIT BUENOS AIRES — An Argentine Board of Rabbis was established here by Dr. David Kahane, chief rabbi of Buenos Aires. Attending the inauguration was Dr. Zerach Warhaftig, Israeli Minister for Religious Affairs, who is visiting here. The action followed the closing of the eighth annual conference of the Federation of Argentine Jewish Communities. Dr. Warhaftig and Dr. S. Levenberg, chairman of the international affairs department of the World Jewish Congress, attended a special meeting of the South American executive of the WJC. They discussed Jewish life in Latin America.

LEAVE CZECHOSLOVAKIA PRAGUE — Jewish sources here said that over 60 Jewish young people left Czechoslovakia since the Soviet occupation or have failed to return to their native country from visits abroad. Community leaders told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that they have no exact figure. They expressed anxiety over the future. Some said their children were abroad.

Hello Again!

Sports News By Warren Walden

RESPECT FOR A WRINKLE
 — Back when a pretty good baseball pitcher named Bill Cooper was baffling the best batters in this section, it was said, "He doesn't have a thing and yet they don't hit him!" And then along came an impostor who said he was Marty O'Toole, a famed pitcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates a number of years ago. Thinking this happy fellow was actually O'Toole, folks in baseball circles here-abouts paid attention to his deductions. He took one look at Bill Cooper in action and casually explained, "He's throwing a 'slider'."

"IN" CURVE — Not wanting to let "Marty know that I didn't understand a "slider," I made believe I did and all the while thought he was referring to an "in" curve which was a pitch that jumped the opposite way from the customary "out" curved-ball. Yards and yards ago, there was a right-handed pitcher by the name of Harold Nelson who could throw an "in" that curved sharper than an "out." In fact, Harold could bend that "in" right around a right-handed hitter's neck and he set all kinds of strikeout records while throwing it. I'll add right here that I have never seen a more mystifying pitcher than Harold Nelson, in or out of the major leagues after watching many of them down through the years.

BACK TO THE WRINKLE — Before the fellow who surreptitiously impersonated O'Toole came along, there were those who called Bill Cooper's pitch a "wrinkle," meaning that it didn't appear to curve very much. Now the "wrinkle" has achieved great respect in the major leagues. It is reported that Denny McLain, the Detroit pitcher with the "30" mark, throws an improved "wrinkle" or "slider." Recently when Rocky Colavito, the home run slugger, turned pitcher for the Yankees, he is said to have used a "slider." And Satchel Paige, the 60-year old marvel of the mound, says his best pitch is a "slider."

WHAT IS IT? — According to a drawing accredited to Whitey Ford in the New York Times, the "slider" curves in the same direction as the regular curveball, which we called an "outcurve," but it starts its break nearer home plate and doesn't curve as sharply. It is credited with giving the pitchers the edge over the batters this season. Some of the big batters in the Tim O'Neil Providence Amateur League could have told these up and coming stars about the "slider" years ago. It seems that Bill Cooper was away ahead of a good many with his tantalizing pitch. Maybe some of Bill's managers could tell more about it. Frank Hopkins and Howard Kempf were a couple of them.

THE SPITLESS SPITTER — There have been many special kinds of pitches down through the years in baseball. Christy Mathewson had the famed "Fade-Away," and Carl Hubbell mastered the "Screwball." And hasn't there been a "fork-ball?" And an "emery-ball" and a "blooper" and a "slowball" and, of course a "spitball?" Andy Coakley of Providence, who gained fame as the "discoverer of Lou Gehrig," the immortal "Iron Horse," developed the "spitless spitter" in order to baffle his opposition. "It takes a lot out of your fore-arm," Andy would explain, "But it acts just the same as the "spitter" and the batters don't know it's coming up."

INTERESTING STORY — The late Tim O'Neil told a story about Coakley. Seems that the great Christy Mathewson was giving the Brown University pitchers a few hints while in Providence and Coakley, a boy, heard about "Matty's" presence. He asked Tim if it could be arranged for him to go up to college hill and just get a glimpse of the great Mathewson, a boyhood idol. Mr. O'Neil arranged a meeting and Christy gave Coakley a pointer or two. Tim's eyes would gleam when he arrived at this part of the story, "Would you believe it?" he'd exclaim, "Just two years later I sat in at the Polo Grounds and saw the same Coakley pitching for Philadelphia in a World Series against Christy Mathewson who was pitching for the New York Giants!" —And fact is stranger than fiction many times — and — do me a favor, will you — Repeat and say to everyone in a parting word, "Goodbye and, remember, if you can't say something good, don't say anything!" — CARRY ON!

Comfortable And Elegant New Styling In Four Door Sedans: Lincoln-Mercury Presents Marquis And Marquis Brougham

The Marquis and Marquis Brougham are 1969 arrivals to the Lincoln-Mercury line by Ford. The full length styling includes concealed headlamps, ventless side windows with accented glass curvature and full width taillamps. Standard in both cars is the 429 cubic inch V-8 engine and Select-Shift automatic transmission.

Deluxe wheel covers are standard on both models, as are slender center pillars for a sleek look. Seats are specially padded, contoured and angled. Lincoln-Mercury's road tuned chassis and suspension design are combined with the longer 124 inch wheelbase. Twin Comfort lounge seats in the Brougham allow the driver and passenger individual adjustments.

The Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark III have a new computer designed 460 cubic inch, 365 horsepower V-8 engine as standard equipment. Power steering, power brakes, dual hydraulic brake system and warning light, and power windows are standard. Both models are equipped with automatic transmission, two way power seat, and dual system windshield washers.

American Car Buyers Offered 357 Choices

Domestic auto makers are entering the 1969 campaign with 357 models on the books, the annual Automotive News analysis discloses.

The total is down 11 from the 368 listed at the end of the '68 model run, and the principal reason for the decrease is the reclassification of several units in the Chevrolet and Chevrolet lines.

Although the model count has slipped, market coverage by individual makers has not been lessened to any appreciable extent. In most cases, the declines resulted from shifting former models to the option category or from weeding out slow-selling units.

Jewish Study Shows More Mental Illness

MELBOURNE, Australia — A high rate of mental disorders among Jews of Melbourne was disclosed in figures published by the Mental Hygiene Authority of Victoria. The report noted however, that a high percentage of Melbourne Jews are survivors of Nazi concentration camps who immigrated here and who are the main sufferers.

The figures showed 330 Jewish mental patients for every 10,000 citizens compared to 155 to 10,000 ratio for non-Jews. But the incidence of mental illness among Jews may be higher since the figures did not cover private patients among whom there are believed to be more Jews than non-Jews.

The report showed, however, that the high rate of mental disease among Jews did not hold true for such disorders as alcoholism and senility.

Emphasize Importance Of Research At Miriam

The importance of research at The Miriam Hospital has been emphasized with the announcement of grants by the Rhode Island Heart Association to three physicians at the hospital.

Dr. M. M. Witoszka has received $2,700 for research during the current fiscal year. The title of his project is "Heterografting of Cardiac Valves."

Dr. J. John Yashar has received $2,736 for a project entitled "Lung Transplantation." A $2,323 grant has been presented to Dr. James J. Yashar for his project "Changes in Cardiac Output, Blood Volume, Body Fluid Compartments Following Open Heart Surgery."

Dr. Florindo A. Simeone, surgeon-in-chief at The Miriam Hospital and professor of Medical Sciences in the Division of Biological and Medical Sciences at Brown University, is a member of the Heart Association's Research Committee. Commenting on research activities at the hospital, Dr. Simeone said:

"Through the news media, the public is well aware of the remarkable recent advances in surgery which have brought benefit to the patient with diseases of the heart and blood vessels. What is not always clear is the incredible amount of research which must precede every little advance. For every bit of progress, investigators must contribute hours, institutions must contribute facilities and equipment, and funds must be found to defray the high costs of today's research. I personally am proud of our hospital for providing facilities and equipment for our investigators and of the Rhode Island Heart Association and those who support it for providing financial support."

The Miriam now has under construction a two-story, air-conditioned research building, which will be in operation next July in time for the start of the 1969-1970 academic year at Brown University.

Commenting on the significance of the research building, Paul Levinger, president of The Miriam, said, "We believe that through the medium of this new research center we will attract talented physician-scientists who will be the foundation for the future growth of this institution. They are an integral part of the medical care team, involving the attending physician, the full-time staff, interns and residents, and the bio-medical students — all inter-acting to provide the opportunity for the highest possible standards of patient care."

Dr. Ray L. Heffner, president of Brown University, also has pointed to the important role The Miriam's research center will have in the future by saying, "Brown is proud to be associated with The Miriam Hospital and with other hospitals in a mutual effort to expand medical, teaching and research programs, and to improve the already high level of patient care in this community. The new research building at The Miriam represents a very significant strengthening of its basic commitment to clinical research, and, through research, of teaching and service."

AJC APPEALS

NEW YORK — The American Jewish Committee appealed to the five major Presidential candidates to publicly announce their "disaffiliation" from social clubs that practice discrimination, to resign from any such clubs of which they might be members.

The Plymouth Fury III is one of the few American cars that doesn't look like several other American cars. This automobile is completely new for 1969; it is longer, wider, roomier, and yet so much more than just a new size.

Something for Everyone Shown in Plymouth Line

Plymouth has a new car this year, the Fury VIP. A long car with full length body lines, it rides on a 120 inch wheelbase. Standard equipment includes wheel covers, fender skirts, hidden windshield wipers and a premium die cast front grille. A fold down center armrest is standard; as an option individual comfort seats with a reclining passenger seat back are offered.

The standard Safe/Flight instrument panel fully illuminates instruments and switches with miniature floodlights. This panel features gauges rather than warning lights. The standard engine is a 318 cubic inch V-8.

Other Fury choices include the Sport Fury, Fury III, Fury II, a family sedan built for economy, and Fury I. Each car is planned for a certain need.

Included in the Plymouth line are GTX's, engineered for sanctioned racing, and the sporty Road Runner hardtop, convertible and sedan. Plymouth Belvederes are offered in a variety of styles, including the biggest standard V-8 in the field. A selection of Barracudas for the sporty, Valiants for the economy minded, and completely restyled station wagons round out the Plymouth line for 1969.

Optional Automatic Shift Available on 1969 Volkswagen

Volkswagen for 1969 features optional automatic stick shift, electric rear-window defogger, and steering and ignition lock. With the automatic shift, no clutch pedal is needed. The two drive positions can be combined for optimum gasoline use; Drive 1 is designed for around town driving and Drive 2 works like an overdrive for speeds over 55 mph. Fastback and squareback models offer the option of a fully automatic three speed transmission designed for Volkswagens to be light in weight with few moving parts.

All models retain the standard four speed transmission with synchromesh shifting, air cooled engine in the rear, and sealed bottom. The fastback has a computerized fuel injection system instead of a carburetor to reduce exhaust fumes.

There is room for seven people in the Volkswagen station wagon, with extra space for luggage. The 2 rear seats can be removed if more cargo space is needed, and if more seats are needed there is an optional set-up for nine people.

The Volkswagen Campmobile features as standard equipment in 1969 a back seat that becomes a double bed with mattress, a bench seat that becomes a bed for children, and a hammock. There are a 2.6 cubic foot icebox, storage for groceries and utensils, work tables, a 110 volt outlet for appliances, and a sink with running water. Included are closets, curtains, a lamp, vinyl flooring, birch plywood panels and a screen door.

ENEMIES OR WHAT?

ROME — An Italian court will decide shortly whether Jews in Italy were treated as "enemies" under the Mussolini regime during World War II and therefore should be exempt from payment of a 1946 head tax to cover war damages. The question has been the subject of many lawsuits in civil and administrative courts since the tax was decreed.

Volkswagen Dealers Seek Record Year

Provincetown, Mass. — Volkswagen is confident of successfully meeting any kind of small-car competition that Detroit can muster.

In fact, Detroit subcompacts should help VW's cause, said Stuart Perkins, president of Volkswagen of America, at VW's national press preview of 1969 models.

Perkins said he expects 1969 to be another record year for VW in the U.S. — its 20th in a row — with sales of "about 570,000."

Volkswagen will be shooting for this goal with a line of cars that have some interesting refinements for 1969 — electrically heated backlight as standard on all series, improved rear suspension and, as an option on the 1600 series, a fully automatic transmission.

Other new features standard on the 1969 Volkswagen include:

1. An inside-the-car lock for the gas tank filler-neck door.
2. A steering-wheel lock controlled by the ignition key.
3. Relocation into the glove compartment of the trunk-release handle.
4. New warn-air outlets to speed windshield demisting and repositioned floor-level heater outlets in the front of the car.
5. Greater adjustment range for the front-seat backrests.
6. A new day/night rear-view mirror.

From a styling viewpoint, the '69s are little changed.

VOICES CONCERN
JERUSALEM — Foreign Minister Abba Eban, in a Knesset speech, voiced concern over the rise to political prominence of the neo-Nazi National Democratic Party in West Germany.

Eban made the statement in reply to a request, in the form of a motion, to place the matter on the agenda for discussion. A full plenary debate on the subject may take place if the Foreign Affairs Committee approves it.

Youth Orchestra To Form New Training Group

Auditions will be held the week of Sept. 29 for the Rhode Island Philharmonic Youth Orchestra, according to Joseph P. Conte, conductor of the orchestra. At the same time, 30 or more music students from junior high and elementary school will be sought to make up a new training orchestra to supplement the existing Youth Orchestra, which includes 110 members.

Four to six concerts are performed annually; in the past several seasons especially qualified instrumentalists are permitted to rehearse and perform in the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra's eight series concerts. Members of the Youth Orchestra are invited to participate in weekly Theory and Solfege classes.

Mr. Conte, conductor of the Youth Orchestra since its founding 12 years ago, is concertmaster of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra. The three assistant coaches, all members of the Rhode Island Philharmonic, are John Corrado, strings; Frank Marinaccio, woodwinds; and George Hirst, brass.

GRAND PRIX Hardtop Coupe

Convenient Cockpit Styled Instrument Panel Is Feature of 1969 Grand Prix From Pontiac

The Grand Prix for 1969 from Pontiac is a machine designed for one purpose — driving. This year the wheelbase is a shorter 118 inches. But the Grand Prix is big where it counts, in the Wide-Track department. This year's model has the longest hood in the industry to house the 400 cubic inch V-8 that develops 350 horses.

A console encloses the heavy duty, fully synchronized 3-speed transmission. This year's Grand Prix has an exclusive radio antenna; two wires about twice the thickness of a human hair are impregnated in the windshield.

The Strato-Bucket seats come in fully expanded Morrokide or a combination of fabric and Morrokide. Three custom interiors in genuine leather are available for a dressier look. The padded door panels feature squeeze type release handles. A cockpit styled instrument panel brings every gauge, control and switch into easy reach. Wall to wall carpeting and Carpathian burled-elm vinyl inlay complete the picture.

WHEAT FOR ISRAEL
WASHINGTON — The United States agreed last week to finance shipment of 2.66 million bushels of wheat to Israel under a long term dollar credit agreement negotiated as part of the United States Food for Peace Program. Officials said the agreement was signed at the State Department. The deal covers $4.4 million in financing for wheat or wheat flour and $200,000 for ocean shipping costs.

Model T Wins Prize At Old Car Festival

DEARBORN — A 1909 Ford Model T roadster and a 1924 Studebaker touring car were declared grand champions at the 18th annual Old Car Festival at Greenfield Village.

The two pastime ancients were judged the best of 304 entries in the two-day affair.

On the first day, with competition limited to the 1917-25 era, the Studebaker swept honors. It is owned by Francis Krajcovic, Akron.

In second place was a 1924 Rolls-Royce roadster, owned by G. Roy Lovegrove, Swartz Creek, Mich. Finishing third was a 1919 Case touring, entered by B.E. Stewart, Gahanna, O.

Cars competing on the second day were 1896-1916 vintage. The winning Model T is owned by Carl Herndon, Gallon, O.

The second-place finisher was a 1911 Cartercar touring, entered by Fred Huston, Birmingham, Mich. In third place was a 1915 Packard touring, owned by Clifford A. Weidenbener, Detroit.

Planned Obsolescence Opposed By Checker

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — As other American cars undergo their annual changes, prior to their fall release dates, Checker Motors Corp. has announced that the 1969 Checker Marathon looks exactly the same as its 1968 model.

David Markin, sales vice-president, said "we believe the most important function of an automobile is to provide safe, comfortable transportation at the lowest possible cost. Perfection of these elements should not be sacrificed for the sake of styling fads.

"We believe that 'planned obsolescence' is unwarranted and demeaning to the American car-buying public. Our industry has the technology and expertise to produce cars capable of traveling many thousands of miles more without requiring extensive repairs. Checker Motors has proven this point."

Improvements on the Checker Marathon are introduced when they're perfected and not held up for the traditional September or October release, Markin added.

'Swinger' Joins Dodge Dart Family

The compact Dodge Dart's 1969 line includes a new model, the Swinger. Aimed at the youth market, the low price, two door hardtop is available with a wide variety of power plants. The 340 cubic inch engine of 1968 is featured in the "Swinger 340", with four speed floor shift transmission, dual exhaust, heavy duty rallye suspension, and D70 wide tread tires. A special bright red color is exclusive for the Dart Swinger 340. A performance hood, "340" nameplate, and wide bumble bee stripe establishes the Swinger look.

different models, including the Swinger, with a choice of engines. All Dodge Darts have a new grille, tail light, exterior and interior ornamentation. Repositioned door locks and "non-overriding" door locks are shown in two models. Large side marker reflectors are standard and head light warning buzzers optional. New automatic brake adjusters are featured.

The fiberglass belted tire is a new optional tire choice. Dodge engineers announce an improved Cleaner Air System for all engines. The Dart, on its all 111 inch wheel base, can combine full size comfort with compact exterior size.

The Dart line-up this year includes five series and nine

Styling and Engineering Changes Mark 1969 Oldsmobile Line

The 1969 Oldsmobile line features changes in both styling and engineering. The 88's and 98's are completely restyled, the Toronado shows a major change in rear end appearance, and power train improvements are introduced in the F-85 models. The medium price class lineup is simplified; all cars in the "88" family are Delta 88's.

Wheelbases on the Delta 88 cars are increased to 124 inches. A new hardtop coupe, the Delta 88 Royale, has a distinctive backlight, chromed front fender side louvers, and a vinyl top as standard equipment.

The restyled 98's feature longer hood, longer rear deck, and greater luggage capacity. The 98 Luxury Sedan now offers two models. Toronado for 1969 is 3 1/2 inches longer, with a new deck and rear quarters. A sportier look on the Oldsmobile F-85 shows in front, rear, and interior changes.

All Oldsmobiles offer the optional rim-blow steering wheel and the cruise control system. Larger 12 inch rear view mirrors are new standard features. A windshield "header" is designed for front seat protection. Other safety features include side impact bars inside the doors of 88's and 98's, a more uniform rate of energy absorption in all steering columns, and head restraints.

Electrically operated antennas are featured on some models; they retract entirely out of sight within the fender housing. Glove compartment doors are opened by a new rotary latch. The Toronado has a current conducting grid fused to the inner surface of the glass to clear the rear window of fog and frost.

WATER TRACING

REHOVOT, Israel — Techniques of tracing of underground water by using isotopes may help to alleviate water shortages in Northeastern Brazil, in the wake of a recent survey team from Israel, headed by Prof. Joel Gat of the Weizmann Institute of Science. The Israeli team studied a one-million square km. area in Northeastern Brazil, where a combination of a low and uneven rainfall, high evaporation and the poor infiltration capacity of the soil has resulted in critical water problems.

Trinity Opens Season With O'Casey Drama

Martyn Green will be Brennan O' the Moor when the Trinity Square Repertory Company presents Sean O'Casey's "Red Roses for Me," as the season opens on Thursday, Oct. 17. The drama, directed by Adrian Hall, will be performed at the Rhode Island School of Design Theatre.

Cast in other major roles are Terry Lomax as Ayamonn, Matrin D. O'Sullivan as Eeada, and Nancy Acly as Sheila Mooreen. Returning members of the Trinity Acting Company to be featured include Marguerite Lenert as Mrs. Breydon, Barbara Orson as Dymphna, Andra Akers as Finoola, and William Cain as Mulcanny. Also featured are Clinton Anderson as the Rev. E. Clinton, Ed Hall as Inspector Finglas, Ronald Frazier as Dowzard, James Gallery as Roory O'Balacoun, William Dankoehler as Sammy, and Robert J. Colonna as Foster.

Others appearing in the large cast are Peter Gerety, Donald Somers, Robert Patterson, James Eichelberger, Barbara Molson, David Marsoli, Martin Molson, Richard Pinter, Dan Plucinski and David Kennett.

Sets for "Red Roses for Me" will be designed by Robert D. Soule, with lighting by Roger Morgan and costumes by John Lehmeier.

Martyn Green is the British performer recognized as the greatest living authority on Gilbert and Sullivan. He produced, directed, and starred in many Gilbert and Sullivan works and wrote "Martyn Green's Treasury of Gilbert and Sullivan." He has appeared on Broadway and in films and has made recordings.

Attitude Toward Israel Called 'Abnormal'

WASHINGTON — Philip M. Klutznick, who served in the U.S. delegation to the United Nations and who is a past president of B'nai B'rith, said recently at the triennial B'nai B'rith convention here that the appreciated the remarks of Presidential candidates on Israel but thought that there was something "abnormal in this relationship with Israel" in that the issue of military needs "has to be aired in a national election campaign."

Klutznick asserted that with other democratic nations, friendly to America and resisting Soviet pressures, "we would have acted long ago or we would have united such a nation into a mutual security pact so the other side would know our intentions clearly and unmistakably."

He held that "after 20 years, Israel's relationship with other nations, including the United States, should be normalized." He asserted that "states are sovereign, not Jewish, Catholic or Moslem."

Both Presidential candidates, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, addressed the B'nai B'rith convention and made strong statements of support for Israel. Both said the United States should provide Israel with the Phantom jet fighter planes Israel seeks to maintain deterrent strength.

Famed Actress Ida Kaminska Would Direct Yiddish Theatre

TEL AVIV — The first lady of the Yiddish theatre, Ida Kaminska, former director of the Warsaw State Yiddish Theatre, who arrived here last week, expressed relief that "at last one can breathe freely." Mrs. Kaminska arrived from Vienna in a chartered plane carrying immigrants. She was accompanied by her husband and grandfather and was met here by her brother, Josef Kaminsky, first violinist in the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra.

Mrs. Kaminska was unable to say whether she would establish permanent residence in Israel. "The fact that I am here," she said, "says much and speaks for itself." She said she would not organize a Yiddish Theatre here but was ready to direct one if someone established it.

 be on "Man, The Enigma."
 On Wednesday morning Yom Kippur services will start at 9 o'clock. The sermon title is "Threats to Survival," and will be delivered at 10:45 o'clock, to be followed by Yizkor at 11:15 a.m. Memorial plaque dedications will be held at 11:30 a.m.
 A discussion with Rabbi Rosen, "Ask the Rabbi," will be held at 3 p.m. Bernard C. Gladstone will preside.

TEMPLE BETH TORAH
 At Temple Beth Torah Rabbi Saul Leeman and Cantor Jack Smith will conduct the services. Kol Nidre services will be held on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., and services on Wednesday morning will start at 9 o'clock. Yizkor will be at approximately 11:30 a.m. and concluding services will start at 5 p.m.

TEMPLE EMANU-EL
 Yom Kippur services will begin at Temple Emanu-El on Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock. In the Main Sanctuary Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen will speak on "Law and Order." In the New Synagogue, Rabbi Joel H. Zelman will preach on "Come As You Are," and in the Meeting House the subject of Rabbi Henry Fisher's sermon will be "When Man Sins Against Himself."
 Services will begin at 9 a.m. on Wednesday. Rabbi Zelman will preach in the Main Sanctuary; Rabbi Fisher in the New Synagogue and Rabbi Bohnen in the Meeting House.

Cantor Ivan E. Perlman, assisted by the choir under the direction of Benjamin Premack and with Kimball Darling at the organ, will chant the services in the Main Sanctuary. In the New Synagogue Cantor Louis Ainsberg will chant the services, assisted by the choir under the direction of Louis Winsor Moore, organist. The Meeting House services will be chanted by Cantor Morton Freeman, with Mrs. Louis Baruch Rubinstein at the organ.

Children's Services will be conducted by Rabbi Zelman and Cantor Perlman in the Main Sanctuary from 2:15 to 3:15 p.m. on Wednesday, while adults will meet in the school auditorium for a question period with the rabbis. This is sponsored by the Men's Club and Manfred Weil will act as moderator.

Yizkor services will be conducted in the three locations during the Musaf service.

TEMPLE SINAI Cranston
 Rabbi Jerome S. Gurland will speak on "Betrayal" at services to be held at Temple Sinai on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.
 Wednesday morning service will begin at 9 a.m., and a children's service will be held.
 Steven Schatz, a rabbinical student at the Hebrew Union College, has assisted Rabbi Gurland in conducting services during the High Holy Days. He will deliver the sermonette at the children's service to be held Wednesday.

HONEY SOUFFLE
4 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
3/4 cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons sherry or sweet wine
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup unsalted, soft kosher pareve margarine, melted
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons finely ground almonds

1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.
2. Beat the yolks until light and creamy. Sift the flour, nutmeg and sugar together and stir into the yolks until smooth.
3. Add the wine. Mix the honey and melted margarine together and add slowly to the egg mixture. Add rind and beat until smooth.
4. Beat the whites until stiff but not dry and fold into honey mixture. Pour into an ungreased 1 1/2 quart souffle dish. Sprinkle with almonds.
5. Place dish in a shallow pan of hot water and bake 30-40 minutes.

Yield: Four servings.

APPLE CREAM CAKE
Pastry
1/2 cup unsalted, soft kosher pareve margarine
2 egg yolks
1/4 cup sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons sherry or sweet wine.

Filling
5 medium-large apples, peeled and sliced paper thin
1 egg
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon mace
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 cup light cream.

Topping
1 cup flour
1/3 cup unsalted, soft kosher pareve margarine
1/3 cup sugar

1. Preheat the oven to 350 degree.
2. Mix together the margarine, yolks, sugar, flour, baking powder and cinnamon until crumbly. Add the wine and form into a ball. Pat the mixture on the bottom and halfway up to the sides of a well-greased 8-inch spring form pan.
3. Put the prepared apples on top of the pastry. Combine the egg, sugar, mace and nutmeg and add the lemon juice. Mix the cornstarch with the cream gradually and add to lemon mixture very slowly.
4. Pour over apples.
5. Combine the remaining flour, sugar and margarine and work with fingertips to form crumbs. Sprinkle over cake and bake 45-55 minutes. Cool on a rack.

Yield: Eight servings.

***
DATE-NUT FRITTERS
10 ounces pitted fresh dates (about 36)
36 blanched whole almonds
Sherry or sweet wine
1/2 cup cold water

2 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons unsalted, soft kosher pareve margarine, melted
1/4 teaspoon cardamon
1 teaspoon lemon rind
Melted unsalted, soft kosher pareve margarine for frying
Lemon wedges, optional
Sour cream, optional

1. Stuff each date with an almond and cover with sherry. Let stand at least two hours. Drain.
2. Combine the water, eggs, flour, sugar and margarine and beat until a smooth batter. Add cardamon and rind.
3. Pat dates dry, dip into batter and fry two or three at a time in hot melted margarine one-inch deep until well-browned.
4. Drain on absorbent paper and serve with lemon wedges and sour cream.

Yield: 36 fritters.

control my own delegation. . ."

When Abba Eban left here to campaign for office in Israel, Chandler told him: "I wish that instead of this plaque we could have given you one of my Kentucky voting machines. It helps remove from elections democracy's only disadvantage — which is doubt."

Leonard Bernstein signed to conduct Beethoven's "Fidello" in the Theater an der Wien — where Beethoven conducted the world premiere of his opera. It will be for the celebration of Beethoven's 200th birthday. Christa Ludwig will sing the title role. . . Igor Stravinsky is in town. He'll spend all his time composing, never again conducting. . . Barnard College asked the Playboy Club about opportunities for its students to be Bunnies.

Joan Fontaine was at the Four Seasons the other day, before flying to Europe with her mother. She's carrying her father's remains to their final resting place in Guernsey. Miss Fontaine discussed the ultimate disposition of her own remains: "Those parts-banks can have anything of mine they want — heart, liver, eyes — but frankly I'd advise against it."

Godfrey Cambridge saw "Hair" and was pulled out of his seat by the cast to join them in their tribal slow-march up the aisle. . . Leo Lerman, the bearded critic-editor, was shaved clean before his operation at Beth Israel Medical Center. . . After his N.Y. run at the Cort Theater, Gilbert Beaud, the singer-composer, will tour Canada and then South Africa. He'll be Dr. Christiaan Barnard's house guest there.

Steve Rowland, the actor whose newest film is Garson Kanin's "The One With the Fuzz," does many TV commercials. One account executive phoned to ask when his baby is being born. "This week," said Rowland. . . "Let me know immediately," the agency man replied. "Because we've just taken on a baby food account."

Thomas Hart Benton, 79, has begun repairing the murals he'd painted at the New School for Social Research 35 years ago. . . Peter Viertel is writing his novel in Wichita, where his wife, Deborah Kerr, is starring in a movie for John Frankenheimer. . . Lee David, composer of "Tonight You Belong to Me," is undergoing eye surgery at Mount Sinai. . . Kyle Rote is helping Hugh O'Brian in his quarterback
