Jewish Home Becomes Brown Teaching Unit

The establishment of a formal association between the Jewish Home for the Aged and Brown University Medical Program has been announced.

The first group of third year medical students began their training at the Jewish Home as a part of a clerkship in long term care under the auspices of the Department of Community Health. Both medical educators and clinicians have recently recognized the conspicuous absence of adequate exposure to the long term care problems of the elderly in the curricula of most medical schools.

There are now some twenty million people who are age 65 or older in the United States. In this group of elderly persons, ten million are over 73 years of age, one million are 85 or over. Consequently, physicians in general practice and in the various specialties will be involved increasingly in the care of aging patients. Not only is the absolute number of elderly persons climbing, but so too is the proportion in the total population which is now estimated as approximately 10%.

This aspect of the Brown University Medical education program is designed to better serve the future physician and the community. The clerkship program is designed to provide medical students with increased awareness of the medical, social, psychological, and economic aspects of long term care and chronic disabilities; community and professional attitudes regarding the elderly; appropriate utilization of the community and allied professional resources in support of patient needs; the rehabilitative and restorative aspects of health care; as well as, new and evolving approaches to improving the quality of life of their elderly patients.

Dr. Stanley M. Aronson, dean, Medical Affairs; Dr. Albert F. Wessen, chairman, Community Health of Brown University, and Dr. Henry F. Izeman, Medical director of the Jewish Home for the Aged, each played an important role in the development of this innovation in medical education.

Leavitt Renominated As Home President

Harold Leavitt has been renominated as president of the Jewish Home for the Aged for the sixth year. The election will be held at the Annual meeting of the Home on Sunday, November 25 at 2:30 p.m.

Also renominated are Donald F. Barreros, Milton Dubinsky, Irving I. Fain, Benton Odessa, vice-presidents; Mrs. Elliot Revkin, vice-president representing the Ladies' Association; Stanley Grossman, treasurer; Samuel Michaelson, assistant treasurer; Milton I. Brier, financial secretary; Martin M. Temkin, recording secretary; Norbert Fessel, assistant recording secretary; Herman J. Aisenberg, Max Alperin, Jacob I. Felder, honorary presidents; Bernard B. Abedon, Alexander Rumppler, honorary vice-presidents.

All present members of the board of trustees were renominated. Mrs. Harry Shatkin formerly a member of the board has been nominated as an honorary member. The following have been nominated as new trustees, Erwin M. Bosler, Barry Cohen, Irwin B. Hamin, Bruno Hoffman, Major General Leonard Holland, Bertram Katzanek, David H. Leach, Julius M. ADL Leader Calls On US To Cut Exports To Arabs

NEW YORK. — An American Jewish leader called for withholding U.S. exports to Arab countries "for as long as the Arabs withhold their oil supplies to this nation."

In an news conference preceding a forum on "the energy crisis," Arnold Forster, associate director and general counsel of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, said "the United States has been using a carrot while forgetting that it also has a stick — we do have a protective weapon against Arab oil blackmail — our exports of food, automobiles, airplanes, fuel products, tourist trade, etc."

Mr. Forster, together with Howard J. Samuels, Chairman of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corporation and former Undersecretary of Commerce, was a panelist at the forum, part of the League's 60th anniversary meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. Samuels outlined an energy conservation program which he said "can dramatically effect our energy consumption without great inconvenience or lowering of our standards of living." His proposals, he said, would reduce OTB's energy consumption by as much as 15% in the next year and would, if adopted, cut the rise in our nation's energy consumption from 5% to 2% annually "thus helping to prevent American dependence on Arab oil."

Mr. Forster said it would be "a tragic error" if the great powers ignore the "absolute validity" of Israel's need for secure borders and try to impose against its will a political settlement that would leave Israel vulnerable to the kind of attack it suffered on October 6. The result, he declared, would be to recreate all the circumstances that produced four Mideast war in 25 years and could produce a fifth "as quickly as the U.S.S.R. can re-prepare the Arabs for it."

Mr. Forster went on to say that "we must not be frightened by Arab oil blackmail or panicked by an incipient and irrelevant energy crisis into abandoning the only democracy in the Middle East."

Declaring that Arab-Russian propaganda is trying to disseminate the false impression that the Arab states seek only to recapture "lost lands," he said "none of the Arab wars against Israel since 1948 — including the current one — was for any other purpose than the total elimination of the state of Israel."

Mr. Samuels, in announcing his conservation program, criticized what he called "the permissive approach of the state and national governments toward the energy crisis."

"The greatest cause of the energy problem," he asserted, "is not a lack of oil from the Middle East but a waste of energy."

He gave as an example the fact that New York State allows the lights of the World Trade Center to shine 24 hours a day. "These twin towers," he said, "consume more energy power than the entire city of Schenectady."

Israeli Cabinet Orders Inquiry On Preparedness

TEL AVIV. — The Israeli Cabinet ordered a judicial inquiry into the country's military preparedness for the latest Middle Eastern war.

The investigation was ordered in response to strong public pressure for the fixing of responsibility for the apparent failures and shortcomings that made possible Egyptian and Syrian successes in their simultaneous attacks October 6.

The Cabinet, meeting in Jerusalem, asked Chief Justice Shimon Agranat of the Supreme Court to name a five-member commission that would be headed by a judge with the power to subpoena witnesses.

The inquiry will parallel a military investigation of the war that the Government ordered November 11.

The public demand for an inquiry arose largely from a feeling that if the reservists, who regained the initiative against the enemy, had been called up 48

Mellion, Richard M. Oster and Morton M. Zisquit.

Members of the Endowment Committee nominated for the ensuing year are, Samuel J. Medoff, chairman, Max Alperin, Harry Blacher, Benjamin Brier, Norman M. Fain, Benjamin M. Falk, Stanley Grossman, Robert A. Riesman, Samuel Rosen, Ralph J. Rotkin, Alexander Rumppler.

The nominating committee includes Dr. Joslin Berry, chairman, Milton I. Brier, Benjamin M. Falk, Max Leach, Jacob Licht, Martin M. Temkin and Morton M. Zisquit.

Instating officer will be Rabbi Leslie Y. Gutterman of Temple Beth-El. Members of the Ladies' Association will act as hostesses under the chairmanship of Mrs. Barney M. Goldberg and Mrs. George Ludman.

hours earlier, the Israelis could have routed the Egyptians and Syrians quickly without the loss of approximately 2,000 men.

Officials here have acknowledged they had had intelligence reports of large-scale Egyptian and Syrian troop movements but had not interpreted them correctly. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said last week: "Until the morning of Yom Kippur, no one had foreseen the war would break out that day. That is why the mobilization of reserves had not begun earlier."

Instructions to Commission
Some high-level Israeli militarymen have said that the failure nearly proved disastrous. They said that Israeli's survival had been jeopardized on October 6 when hundreds of Syrian tanks broke through the thin Israeli lines on the occupied Golan heights and raced toward the Jordan Valley and when the Egyptians overran the so-called Bar-Lev Line on the eastern bank of the Suez Canal.

Accordingly, the civilian commission inquiry was instructed to investigate "the information available before the Yom Kippur war concerning the enemy movements and intentions to open war as well as the assessment of the inimilitary and civilian bodies."

The commission will also seek to clarify "the Israel defense forces' deployment in general, its preparedness before the Yom Kippur war and its actions until the enemy was contained."

Some of the top military leaders have acknowledged that there were oversights. Lieutenant General Haim Bar-Lev, the former Chief of Staff who was called up for reserve duty, has said that some soldiers had been washing their laundry or in their house slippers when the war started.

US Air Supply To Israel Changes To Ship Supply

WASHINGTON. — The Defense Department virtually ended its airlift of war supplies to Israel, which was begun during the Middle East war.

A Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said that the United States would make no resupply flights to Israel for the first time shortly after the war broke out October 6.

"In our view the emergency that called for the airlift supplies is essentially over," Mr. Friedheim said. But he declined to rule out all future flights.

Mr. Friedheim noted that Secretary of Defense James R.

Schlesinger said two weeks ago that the airlift of arms and ammunition would be phased out when shipment by sea was ready to take over. He said that war supplies were at present being delivered to Israel by ship.

He also said that sixteen flights were being made to Israel compared with the average more than 25 a day at the height of the war.

The United States has delivered more than 22,000 tons of war supplies by air in about 570 flights of C-5A transports and 30,000 tons by ships owned and chartered by the Israelis.

In the upper income and education groups, newspapers have a gross reach of over 150 copies a day.

Histadrut Head Does Not Object To Relief Corridor

NEW YORK — Yithak Ben Aharon, secretary general of Histadrut, said here that he did not object to a permanent corridor to supply food and water to the encircled Egyptian Third Army on the Suez Canal if Egypt reciprocated on the POW issue and lifted its blockade at Bab el Mandeb; did not believe the Soviet Union is bent on the destruction of Israel; and that the Israeli people have not turned hawkish as a result of the latest Middle East war.

The Histadrut leader noted that while the Arabs have almost a Nazi mentality regarding Israel and want a "final solution," this is not shared by the Soviet Union which, he said has no desire to see Israel pushed into the sea. Israel, he said, is an important element in the Soviet strategy, and if it didn't exist the Russians would invent it. He said the USSR made an "excellent business" from Israel's existence considering the vast sums earned by the Soviet armaments industry in supplying the Arab states with weapons against Israel.

Ben Aharon said a settlement could be reached if the U.S. and USSR want to avoid a new Mideast war. He said he thought the time was ripe now for a full inquiry into the failures that led to Israel being caught by surprise on October 6.

POLL RELEASED

TEL AVIV — A "Gallup" poll conducted by the Hebrew daily, Haaretz, indicates that a substantial number of Israelis believe the government erred in taking too lightly the mass mobilization of Egyptian and Syrian forces, and in failing to make adequate preparations for the war. At the same time there was unanimous opinion that the final victory will be with the Israel Defense Forces, even though it will entail many sacrifices.

Your Money's Worth

By Sylvia Porter

Income Averaging

Let's say your pay has averaged around $10,000 for the past several years. Let's say, though, that in July you won a $5,500 lottery, which will bring your income to around $15,500 by year-end. Can you manage to push another $500 or $1,000 into 1973's income? By accelerating payments of bills you ordinarily would not send out until the end of December? By asking that a bonus usually paid to you at the start of the new year be paid a couple of weeks early? That sort of thing?

If you can manage this small transfer of payments, you will be able to use income averaging — and this will definitely save you tax money.

Are you among the millions of Americans who this year received a fat pay hike? Or earned a hefty bonus? Or received an unusually large fee? Or sold securities at a big profit in this year's violently fluctuating stock and bond markets? Or won a whopping lottery prize? Or suddenly came into a pile of money from some other source?

If so, the good news is that you can use income averaging to hold down your tax bill. You are eligible to use it if your 1973 taxable income is more than 120 per cent of the average of your taxable income for the four years of 1969 through 1972 and this excess is more than $3,000.

You have 45 days left in 1973 in which to figure out whether income averaging is feasible for you — and to adjust your income, as the above illustration dramatizes, to make sure that it is subject to the most favorable tax treatment.

Here is the very simple way to find out whether you already qualify for this important tax break or whether you are close enough to qualifying to try to take steps to put yourself over the line:

Check your income tax returns for the four years 1969-1972. Add up your taxable incomes for those four years. Divide this total by four. This is your base period AVERAGE taxable income.

Now here's a table prepared by the Research Institute of America which will tell you whether your 1973 taxable income is high enough above the eligibility figure to give you any tax savings from the use of income averaging. It assumes that you are a married person filing a joint return. Find your income level and match your average against the totals.

If your average is $4,000, you can save if your 1973 income is over $8,000. You can also save if your average is $6,000 and your 1973 income is over $10,200; if your average is $8,000 and your 1973 income is over $12,600; if your average is $10,000 and your 1973 income is over $16,000; if your average is $12,000 and your 1973 income is over $17,400.

You can save if your average is $14,000 and your 1973 income is over $20,000; if your average is $16,000 and your 1973 income is over $22,200; if your average is $18,000 and your 1973 income is over $24,600; if your average is $20,000 and your 1973 income is over $28,000.

You can save if your average is $25,000 and your 1973 income is over $33,000; if your average is $30,000 and your 1973 income is over $40,000; if your average is $36,000 and your 1973 income is over $46,200; if your average is $40,000 and your 1973 income is over $52,000.

You can save if your average is $50,000 and your 1973 income is over $64,000; if your average is $60,000 and your 1973 income is over $76,000; if your average is $90,000 and your 1973 income is over $120,000; if your average is $100,000 and your 1973 income is over $140,000.

But if your average is $200,000, no saving is possible, no matter what your 1973 income may go up to.

To make sure that you don't overlook the opportunities here, say your income did come to $10,000 and your lottery prize was $6,500 instead of $5,500. You could save by income averaging.

Now here's how you actually make the computation. Say your taxable incomes for 1969, 1970, 1971 and 1972 were $7,000, $6,500, $7,000 and $7,500. Say your 1973 income will balloon to $13,000 because of your lottery winnings.

Add up your 1969-72 incomes. You get $28,000. Divide this by four which gives you $7,000. Multiply this by 120 per cent. This gives you $8,400.

Now check this against the above income match-ups. You can use income averaging because your 1973 taxable income will be $13,000 — larger by more than 120 per cent and $3,000 of the average of your 1969-72 years.

These figures eliminate some exceedingly complicated computations — but if you find you are eligible for income averaging, you would be wise to consult a professional adviser on precisely what to do and how to do it.

RUSSIA DEMANDING CASH

LONDON — According to a BBC report from Moscow, the Russians are demanding that the Arabs pay cash for all the arms supplied since the war because Russia cannot afford to give them credit as she needs the money to buy commodities abroad (presumed to be grain in the U.S.). Egypt and Syria are now trying to get the money from the rich Arab oil states who did not expect to be asked for such huge contributions.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Ida Silverman

By BERYL SEGAL

Every Yom Kippur, for many a year, during the "Ask the Rabbi" question period in the afternoon, a lady would stand up in the back row of the synagogue and begin to ask her question. The well modulated, youthful voice, the clarity of her sentences, the sensible preamble to her question, they all belonged to the octogenarian in our midst.

It was the voice of Ida Silverman, wife of Archibald Silverman, who died in Israel days after her 91st birthday.

Mr. Joseph Galkin, executive director of the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, has inherited from Ida Silverman albums containing newspaper clippings and articles written about and by her and her husband; photographs of her and the great and the near-great of a bygone era, and other memorabilia of a highly historical value. They are to be kept in the archives of the Federation. From some of this wealth of documents of Ida's life and times we have taken a few items that we hope will give an idea of the Providence woman who became an international figure.

Ida traveled. She traveled in Europe, Africa, the South American countries, the United States and Canada, and, of course, to Palestine, which later became Israel, innumerable times. And all of these trips were made on behalf of the land of Israel, or as she insisted on calling it, Eretz Yisrael.

Her first trip to Palestine was in the year 1925. When she returned from her visit, she wrote a long article under the title, "My Impressions of Palestine." Before embarking on the trip her friends had warned her of the difficulties she would encounter, the comforts she had been used to in America which were not available in Palestine, as well as of the possible disillusionments and disappointments she might have when she came face to face with her ideal, and would she tell the truth when she returned from her visit? We reprint some passages from that article.

After telling of the panoramic beauty of Palestine, of the idealism of the people who toil in the land of their fathers, of the work of Hadassah which at that time only had beds in various hospitals in the land, she concludes her article with these words, so typical of Ida:

"Chalutz and Chalutzah, I envy you the clearness of your direct gaze, a clearness that comes from glimpsing the great expanse of the land!

"I envy you the straightness of body and dignity of carriage that is yours, for though bodily weary at times as you must be, yet you are free from the Galuth yoke!

"I envy you your familiarity with the holy places wherein our prophets trod, where Biblical history was made!

"I envy you, dear brothers and sisters, the privilege that is yours in rooting yourself and your offspring into the very soil of the Holy Land!

"Yes, poor in worldly goods though undoubtedly you are, yet I envy you, for you are rich in idealism, rich in accomplishments."

Typical of Ida, we said, for this is the way she spoke. Sentimental, flowery, prophetic, moving. This is why she charmed her audiences at home and abroad. This is why this woman of Providence, Rhode Island, became an international figure.

The clippings from newspapers all over the world describe her as "Brilliant Speaker," "She Charmed her Audience," "The Great Woman from Providence, R.I.," "Distinguished Woman," and "The Symbol of the Jewish Mother."

In the years 1923 to 1926 she had been to 44 cities on a speaking tour for the United Palestine Appeal. She did not keep track of the cities she visited in later years.

She was photographed with all kinds of people and everywhere she stands in the most prominent place. There are pictures of her Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, and Chaim Weitzmann, first President of Israel; with Louis Lipsky, President of the Zionist Organization of America, and with Maurice Samuels, noted author; with Reuven Brainin, writer in Hebrew and Yiddish and Shmaryahu Levin, famous orator. While visiting Los Angeles she was photographed with Greta Garbo and Norma Shearer, Conrad Nagel and Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Mayer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise was her closest friend.

Ida led a running battle with the permissiveness regarding Jewish religious observances in the home and in the synagogue.

In an article called "American Judaism" she decries the divisiveness of such a term and would prefer "World Judaism" instead.

"It is because of the uniformity of worship and staunch adherence to the precepts of our religion that we had the strength to withstand the vicissitudes of the centuries," she argued.

Further she stated in typical Ida fashion:

"Religion, like love, is based on sacrifice. The greater the sacrifice, the more enduring the love."

During the last decades, Ida embarked on building and furnishing synagogues in Israel. The last time we spoke to her she told us of some eighty such Houses of Worship in the villages and towns of Israel. She probably helped build many more since then.

In the town of Herzlia, a city named after Dr. Herzl, the father of modern Zionism, in the Hotel Sharon, where Ida lived during her last years, she undertook a special project.

On Fridays, before sunset we are told, she would stand in the lobby with candles and candlesticks and invite women to kindle the Sabbath lights before it got too late.

On the last Friday of her life, just a few days after her 91st birthday, she arranged the flowers her friends sent to her, and died. She did not live to offer candles for the Sabbath candlesticks to passers as was her habit of doing all the other Fridays.

Sholom Laaforoh. May she rest in peace on the Mount of Olives where she was brought to her eternal home, among people of her generation who dreamed the dream of Zion renewed, as in the days of old.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK — Ex-King Constantine of Greece has been offered a job as a society columnist by a Danish newspaper ... Next month's Esquire will publish a previously unknown screenplay by F. Scott Fitzgerald ... Mrs. Russel Crouse is seeking permission from the city to move the Times Square Theater Center two blocks south to the glass-enclosed former military recruiting centers, so that ticket buyers will not be subjected to the cold weather this winter.

Dick Benjamin, star of the new movie Westworld, discussed the film with an admirer who had seen it in a second-run Chicago theater with the projection out of focus. "Make sure you see it again when it opens here," suggested the actor. "I'm much better in focus" ... Joe Smith, the 89-year-old survivor of the vaudeville team of Smith & Dale, is guest of honor at a party for the cast of The Sunshine Boys. The pair was the inspiration for the Neil Simon play.

Ann-Margret, now preparing for The Best of Ann-Margret, The Best of Las Vegas at the Tropicana next month, said when she returned home to Sweden for the first time in 15 years, she panicked at her airport interview. "We speak Swedish at home, but I was stumped because the reporter used long, unfamiliar words. I know how sensitive the press is about those who forget their native tongue — even though I was 10 when I left.

"So I protected myself by asking the interviewer to use slow, short words — then suggested to my parents we use longer ones at ... (Continued on page 10)

Miss Dorothy A. Goldsmith of Falls Church, Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Goldsmith of 198 Laurel Avenue became the bride of Dr. Paul Jansma of Annandale, Virginia, son of Reverend and Mrs. Theodore Jansma of Hawthorne, New Jersey in a November 17 ceremony at the Sprague Mansion in Cranston. Judge Jacob J. Alprin officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white velvet gown with victorian lace and seed pearl trim. She carried white roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbara Goldsmith, sister of the bride, wore a green empire style gown and carried a bouquet of golden fall flowers and roses with ivy. Dr. Theodore Jansma, Jr. served as best man for his brother. David Goldsmith, brother of the bride served as usher.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Falls Church, Virginia.

The bride is the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Jagolinzer and the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Press.

BURYING THE DEAD
JERUSALEM — The Israeli army's Hevra KadiSha is burying enemy dead, a military reporter wrote over the weekend. The burials conform to International Red Cross rules and to Israeli army procedures regarding identifying bodies and burying them. The burial squads are made up of army rabbinate members. They place markers over the graves. The officer in command, Major Mike, told the reporter that burial of enemy dead in itself raised the moral standards of Israel's army.

Riga Jews Protest Biased Tass Reporting

LONDON — According to Jewish sources in the Soviet Union reaching London 25 Riga Jews portested to Tass against biased reporting of the war news. They pointed out that they did not approve of the anti-Israel policy of the Soviet government either, but they expected at least factual and unbiased reporting from the fronts by the Soviet media.

Also reported was that as soon as the Israelis crossed the Suez Canal and established a base on Egyptian soil, five Jews in Tiblisi — the Goldstein brothers, Elizabeta Bykova, Yevsey Gelman and Eva Kipnis — cabled Israeli army Chief of Staff Gen. David Elazar and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, stating: "Congratulations. We are extremely proud of our soldiers. Best wishes. We consider ourselves Israeli prisoners of war in the Soviet Union."

The Expense Account

It is impossible to buy the best meats in a butcher shop any more. Even the giant supermarkets don't have them. And the vegetable delicacies like endive or truffles have similarly disappeared. Where have they gone?

To the restaurants. There you can eat the best of everything. Don't make the mistake, however, of thinking the customer pays for them. No sirc, don't let appearances deceive you. The United States government pays, because all these foods and fine dishes are just so many more items on the expense account.

The expense account, which comes right off the top of the income tax, has led to the formation of countless credit-card systems. These credit-card systems provide two things: convenience in declaring income-tax exemptions and prestige. The man with the credit card is the man with status.

If you offer to pay cash for your tab in a swell restaurant, the cashier and the waiters rub you off their sleeves like so many fly-specks.

I have seen men with credit cards that unfold and drop from their wallets like those old-time scenic postal cards where you got 12 for the price of one.

On Economics

When Mrs. Jacobs didn't hang out her usual shining line of clothes, we knew something was amiss. My mother went to see what she could do for her. When Mr. Jacobs got a raise, we saw a proud array of new clothes and household linens.

But when things were mended, we knew there was trouble, bills to be paid or sickness. We looked out the kitchen window and got all the information that today Sylvia Porter works so hard to get.

This Day of Atonement

The Jewish Day of Atonement was October 6.

The ancient world of the Greeks lasted about 400 years, then lapsed into silence, never to regain its former glory.

The Babylonians, Hittites, Phoenicians, Persians, Romans and Philistines all had their hour of greatness and then sank into silence or total darkness.

But the Hebrews appear to possess the same vitality today that they had in the days of their prophets, the same vigor that they exhibited even during the period of captivity in Babylon; and the Day of Atonement, which Jews everywhere in the world also observe, may be one of the reasons for a vigor that has never diminished.

The idea of the Day of Atonement, which has played an important role in Judaism's daughter religions, Christianity and Islam, established the concept of a reconciliation with God as the result of sincere repentance and the purification of mankind. The object lesson was carefully worded.

"If one says, 'I will sin and the Day of Atonement will bring me forgiveness for the sins of men against God, the Day of Atonement atones; but for sins against man's neighbor, it does so only after one has first been reconciled to him.'"

Thus the idea of an atonement, unknown to the great civilizations of Greece, Rome and countless others, may very well have been

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

Many times in these articles we have discussed Finesses. They either work or they don't. However, there are situations when their failure only means an extra trick is not made or a trick is lost. In other instances, however, the roof might fall in. Also, whether something drastic will happen or not, the finesse has to be attempted. But there are other times when refusal is definitely the wisest choice. Such was the case in today's hand yet most of the players did take it. Some did not suffer the most severe consequences because what they should have feared would happen if the finesse lost didn't when the defenders continued the same suit instead of switching to even a better one.

the Ace the whole Heart suit can be run when East wins that Spade King provided, of course, West unblocks one of his honors should that Ace be played). East will have led his Jack showing the ten the same as West's opening Diamond lead did.

If the Defenders behave themselves perfectly it would behoove the Declarer to take his chances that with six Diamonds he is less likely to be set in that suit than he would be if he loses a Diamond and his five card Heart suit is attacked, a very good chance after the opening lead. You might say, "Suppose the Spade finesse does work?" It might but even if it does, unless the cards are just so, there will still be only two tricks won in that suit. If it loses, an even chance, a very good contract can go down the drain. Duplicate players are usually optimists, the ones who end near the top are pessimists.

Moral: Do not hope for the best unless that is the only way a hand can be made. Plan on taking of any eventuality you can especially if it costs little or nothing.

Newspapers deliver massive coverage of all occupation groups.

ENGAGED: Mrs. Sydney Zall of Edison, New Jersey announces the engagement of her daughter, Ellen Frances, to Dr. Marc I. Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller of Pawtucket. Miss Zall is also the daughter of the late Sydney Zall.

Miss Zall was graduated, summa cum laude, from the University of Vermont with a BS in social work. She is presently employed by the Social Service Department at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Keller received his BA from the University of Vermont where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and received his Doctor of Medicine degree from the University of Vermont School of Medicine. He is presently an intern at Springfield Hospital Medical Center. Dr. Keller's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Dressler and Mrs. Philip Keller.

A March 24 wedding is planned.

N	E	S	W
1♠	End	3NT

This was the way the bidding went at most tables. South's No Trump bid has a different meaning after a One Club opening bid than it has after any other suit is bid. Instead of showing 6-9 points it shows a balanced hand, no four card Major and 9-11 points. A better hand. One North even went for a Slam after hearing this bid with disastrous results even though as stated, the Defense could have done even better.

At Three No Trump all the Wests led the Diamond Jack and the Dummy was spread. Declarer can make nine tricks all right but he has to be able to get them before the opponents get five or more. A good Declarer examines the possibilities both for him and against him. He Weighs his chances and the potential dangers and takes the necessary steps to combat the enemies plays. Normal Declarers have one-track minds and see only that trick being played. In this case a Diamond being led through an Ace-Queen. Good, they say, here is a chance to possibly win a finesse. They do not worry about what might happen if it loses. Yes, maybe nothing, for with a lone Ace showing, many Defenders will simply return that suit and establish it for their partner.

But some more wide-awake Defenders may seek the possibility of doing better with another suit and do what the Declarer should fear, switch. Almost every Declarer took that Diamond finesse. Some Easts returned a Diamond and now Declarer still had time to establish a second Spade trick before the Defenders could set him. He could take a losing finesse in Spades but that will still get him a trick with the other honor. Adding his tricks now he has five Clubs, two Spades and one each in the other two suits, nine in all.

What happens if East plays a Heart after winning that first trick? Now Declarer has lost the vital timing and can no longer make the nine tricks. If he plays

PARIS — Diplomatic sources in Paris told the JTA that no news has been received in recent weeks from Jews in Damascus and that all Jewish men living in the town of Aleppo have been imprisoned and their wives and children put under house arrest. There are at present 3500 Jews in Syria — 1000 in Aleppo, 2000 in Damascus and several hundred in Kamishli. In 1946, the Syrian Jewish population totaled 30,000.

PROCLAMATION

THANKSGIVING DAY

BY PHILIP W. NOEL

GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, In the autumn, when the woods have shed their coat of many colors and the trees stand stark, waiting to wrap a muffler of white about them, and the pale sun slants low across the fields which have long since yielded their harvest, and the evenings come early, it has been our custom as a people to pause in our labors and give thanks to the Creator of a bountiful nature for all the good things of life, for the freedoms we enjoy, for food and shelter, for warm friends and the love of loved ones, for peace after war, for calm after storms, for sleep when the day's work is done; and

WHEREAS, This urge to give thanks at this turn of the seasons has inspired us year after year, as it first inspired the Pilgrim Fathers more than three centuries ago, and we have repaired to our churches, or recited a grateful Grace, or simply thought to ourselves in silence how fortunate we are to have been brought safely through another year, sustained by God's love and a good harvest, perhaps beyond our deserving; and

WHEREAS, Therefore, in keeping with this cherished tradition, which I earnestly hope will be preserved long after this proclamation has been forgotten.

NOW, THEREFORE, DO I, PHILIP W. NOEL, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS, PROCLAIM and I do urge that all the people of this State, both great and small, old and young, rich and poor, give thanks in their hearts and with their voices for the blessings which have been bestowed upon us, and draw inspiration from this day and its meaning which will serve us to face the future with courage and serenity.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1973, AS

GOD SAVE THE STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the State to be affixed this nineteenth day of November, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and seventy-three, and of Independence, the one hundred and ninety-eighth.

Hello Again!

News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

ASTOUNDING! AMAZING! Two thousand were turned away, unable to squeeze into the Providence Civic Center with the record crowd of 12,714 that attended a professional wrestling show last Saturday night! Not since the days of Gus Sonnenberg have the big grunt and groan showmen provided the magnet for taxing the capacity of a big arena. Sonnenberg and Strangler Lewis filled Boston Garden when they wrestled for the World Championship. That was back in 1928. Joe DeVito and Maurice Tillet, a grotesque fellow from France known as "The Angel," were the wrestling attraction that filled RI Auditorium to capacity. But, who'd a-thunk it? Not the RI Reds; not the Friars; and not the Celtics — but — wrestling attracts the biggest crowd.

UPS AND DOWNS (Literally and actually): Wrestling was a perfected sport 3000 years BC and decorations on ancient Egyptian tombs show practically all the holds used today with the 16 wrestlers free-for-all an exception. By 708 BC wrestling was an important part of the Olympic Games and kicking, striking, etc., was permitted by the ancient Greeks. The Romans brought wrestling to England; Abraham Lincoln did some wrestling and Charles Dickens, in his "Household Words" tells of a wrestler, "Longmire," who won 175 "Belts." Frank Gotch, called the "greatest wrestler of his time," once was a magnet for a "gate" of $90,000. That was in 1908. Wrestling has fluctuated in popularity, moving from the small, smoke-filled halls to the spacious arenas and down the ladder again. Judging from that tremendous crowd of last Saturday, it is riding the crest of another wave of popularity, eh.

BIG CROWDS AGAIN: The talk went to the Friars of Providence College and it concerned more big crowds that will converge on the Civic Center when Dave Gavitt's basketball shooters take over the spotlight. "Keep your eyes on Kevin Stacom," advised John Smollins, administrative assistant for Mayor Joseph Doorley. "A much under-rated player," continued John. "The first one on the court and the last to leave. A shooter par excellence. I saw him hit 45 out of 50 shots from 15 or 20 feet out and at different angles. This fellow, Stacom, who is 6'4" Senior at PC, spent the summer keeping in shape playing basketball in China. He's one of the premier guards in the country, David Thompson of North Carolina being another."

ANOTHER SUBJECT: Mr. Smollins would have continued ad infinitum if he hadn't become enthused over another subject. It concerned the arrival of John Pierre Smollins on November 9, who weighed in at 21-3/4 pounds and who was 21 and 3/4 inches long at that instant. "He looks like a basketball player of the future," the rpuod father remarked. "But right now he's assistant to Georgette, the chef at Kite's restaurant up Grafton way." Georgette is Mrs. Smollins, the new mother, famed for her culinary capabilities and palate tickling creations in French cuisine. Congratulations, John and Georgette.

SUGGESTION: John Praegner, who has been a hockey fan in several sections across this great land of ours, especially in Pittsburgh and Portland, Oregon, suggests announcements at hockey games explaining some of the "whistle rulings." For instance, Mr. Praegner thinks it would be informative for some of the new fans if "icing" were announced thereby letting them know what is happening and why. The rules in the program would explain the reason for the whistle.

A GIFT: Dog fanciers might know someone who would have a good home for a wire-haired terrier or a Cairn terrier, both pedigreed and valuable. The owner can no longer keep them and the right person can have one for the asking — free. Contact me — WW.

NONE GREATER: No local athlete excelled Bernie "Rube" Malarkey as an all-around performer. The "Rube" was outstanding in football and unusual as a baseball pitcher. Back when the Eastern League offered a speedy brand of professional baseball, Malarkey jumped from the Tim O'Neil Amateur League on a Saturday to a pitching assignment in the pro circuit the very next day. He was on the mound for Pittsfield, beating the Providence Grays. Now, a former manager, Joe Waldron, write that Bernie is not feeling up to par and suggests that old friends remember him with a card or two. Address: Bernard J. Malarkey, 41 Carroll Street, Springdale, Connecticut — CARRY ON!

the agency for the religious and moral regeneration that has resulted in an unbroken tie with history for 4,000 years.

It is furthermore a day of prayer. Prayer is a religious ritual which confers a mantle of human dignity upon men. The foundation of the Jewish religion rests upon the assumption that each single human is supremely important. The Jews are not unique in having a day set aside for prayer. Indeed every major religion has such a day. Moslems make a pilgrimage to Mecca, Christians have Good Friday, Easter and Christmas.

When students came up to Carl Sandburg after a lecture and asked him how to become a writer, he always answered, "All you need is a bit of solitude and a bit of prayer."

PIONEER WOMEN
The Dvorah Dayan Club, Pioneer Women, will hold a meeting on Monday, November 19, at the home of Jackie Teverow of 95 Burlington Street.

Prayer is man's best avenue to God. It is his best avenue because it teaches each man he has a personal relationship with his creator.

SYNAGOGUE DAMAGED
NEW YORK — Police and fire officials believe that a fire which seriously damaged a synagogue of Black Jews in a Brooklyn slum was the work of arsonists. The fires were started with a paint thinner which had been sprayed in rooms of the synagogue located on the second floor of a two story brick building in the Bedford Stuyvesant section of the city. Rabbi Chaim Israel said the synagogue had been victimized by arsonists who were envious and jealous because of the congregation's work among young gangs in the district. The rabbi said that a juke box in the synagogue's recreation room had been broken open and the cash box removed. In addition to work among delinquents, the rabbi is a regular visitor to city jails where he counsels the prisoners.

MEMBER OF COMMISSION: Barbara Sunderland, president and director of the Barbara School of Charm and Modeling in North Providence, has been appointed by Governor Noel as a public member of the special commission to study the separate licensing of hairdressers and cosmetologists.

Chairman of the commission is Senator Joseph DiStefano and secretary is Senator Lila Sapinsley.

Arms Sales To Arabs Are Still Possible

WASHINGTON — Potential U.S. arms sales to Arab nations amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars are still alive, even though those countries have cut oil shipments in retaliation for U.S. support of Israel.

Nixon administration officials said arms sales discussions with wealthy Saudi Arabia and Kuwait "are being held in abeyance" for now.

The expressed hope, however, that the New Egyptian-Israeli truce formula worked out by Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger during his visit to Middle East capitals will lead to resumption of the stalled talks.

In addition, the U.S. officials said, arms sales of about $2 billion to Iran are going ahead without any hitch. Although Iran is a Moslem nation, it is not Arab and has not acted to reduce the flow of its oil to the United States.

Even though this country has long been a backer of Israel, it has also sold weapons to Arab countries, ostensibly to help maintain an arms balance in the Middle East.

Persian Gulf states became prime targets of Western arms-sales campaigns in recent years because the states indicated they were ready to lay out cash for modern military equipment, and because the United States, France and Britain saw it as a chance to make friends with important sources of oil.

ARCO Chairman Calls For New Arab Policy

AUSTIN, — Seven to eight million Americans will be out of work within four months unless some accommodation is reached with the Arab nations, a major company oil executive predicted here.

Robert O. Anderson, chairman of Alantic Richfield Company, told an audience at the University of Texas at Austin that the most severe economic dislocation since World War II is in prospect from the loss of about 17 per cent of the nation's petroleum supplies.

The oil crisis is "not serious — it is catastrophic," Mr. Anderson declared.

The oil executive said there was a "clear and present need to act immediately to ease the situation" in the Middle East and he predicted that if the Arab embargo fails to be lifted, "nothing we can do will save us from a major and lasting change in the American life style — indeed, in the whole American system."

Mr. Anderson termed "reasonable" the request by the Arabs for a re-examination of United States policies toward them and Eastern affairs.

David Ben Gurion Slightly Improved

TEL AVIV, — David Ben-Gurion, Israel's first Premier, was reported slightly improved.

He had been taken to a Hospital after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

A spokesman at the Sheba Medical center here said that Mr. Ben-Gurion's condition was serious, but that he was not in danger.

The bulletin, issued by Mr. Ben-Gurion's physician, said that the 87-year-old former leader was conscious, his heartbeat regular and his blood pressure normal. A hospital bulletin earlier said that Mr. Ben-Gurion had also suffered a slight stroke, which had paralyzed his right side.

AID CUT
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The chief of the United Nations aid program for Palestinian refugees warned that budget deficits could require drastic reductions in the aid now extended. "It may appear unthinkable that at this juncture in the Middle East the United Nations Relief and Works Agency should be allowed to disintegrate," said Sir John Rennie, the commissioner general of the United Nations organization, "but this may well be the result if reductions are forced on the agency."

LeRoy Nieman, who is doing a series of portraits of millionaire race horses, will paint Tentam at the Washington International. Nieman, who also painted Secretariat, said Tentam was sold for $2 million, the highest price paid by a single owner ... Composer Burt Bacharach saw the new movie, Incredible Machine, which has a musical score produced entirely by a computer.

"The biggest advantage of hiring a machine instead of a composer," said Bacharach, "is that it doesn't leave cigarette ashes on the piano."

Toni Magnesis, of the Delegate Sealand House, was surprised when the Washington Redskins delayed using Duane Thomas against the Pittsburgh Steelers this week: "Thomas seemed to have been on the bench longer than Supreme Court Justice Douglas" ... Jeanne Faulkner, a secretary for the Harlem Cultural Council, sings the leading coloratura role in Carmina Burana when the Alvin Ailey Dance Theater presents the modern dance work at the City Center later this month.

When actress Genevieve Gilles decided to become a film producer, she sought the advice of Robert Evans, a former actor and now a Paramount executive. "Go after the big bestsellers," suggested Evans, whose company produced Love Story and The Godfather. Miss Gilles took heed and is now competing with Evans in bidding for the rights to several bestsellers ... Elaine May and Gina Rowlands costar with John Cassavetes and Peter Falk in Good Time Charlies.

Lieutenant Governor Lester Maddox (D-Ga.) has recorded an album, God, Family and Country, on which he sings, whistles and plays the harmonica ... John Bruno heads a Teacher's Scotch class to demonstrate the art of preparing holiday drinks at the Pen & Pencil. He warned: "People should know their own capacity too. An evening can only remain a lark when you haven't had too many swallows" ... Garson Kanin, author of the bestseller, Thousand Summers, is working on his next book about Hollywood, Good Guys and Bad Guys, Cowboys and Indians, Sex Symbols and ...

Roberta Peters and George Shirley of the Metropolitan Opera will perform at Avery Fisher Hall December 16, marking the 65th anniversary of the NAACP ... Omar Sharif will be chief commentator wherever the World Bridge Federation holds its tournaments ... Oscar Award-winning composer Michel LeGrand has been signed by Warner Brothers to write the score for The Girls of Penfield ... Melaine Griffith, daughter of actress Tippi Hedron, makes her movie debut costarring with Gene Hackman in The Dark Tower.

Norman Powell, executive in charge of production for the CBS-TV Dick Van Dyke series, received permission to direct the December 3 episode. When it was over, Powell turned to his mother, actress Joan Blondell — who was a guest star on the sequence — and said: "This is why I wanted to direct the show. It gave me a chance, for the first time in my life, to tell you what to do" ... Actor George Hamilton will produce the movie, Handsome Johnny Barron.

EXCAVATIONS CONTINUED
JERUSALEM — Excavations at Tel Lakhish, a Biblical fortress city in the southern Judean foothills and site of the remarkable discovery of the Lakhish letters written in the archaic Hebrew script from the period of the Prophet Jeremiah, were recently resumed under the direction of Dr. David Yessishkin of the Archeological Institute of Tel Aviv University. The expedition, receiving technical aid and assistance from the Jewish National Fund, has uncovered within the ancient city walls at the hill's summit the remains of structures from the Canaanite and Israelite periods.

Life Company Has Good Potential

Q: Several years ago I bought shares of Monumental Life Insurance which subsequently became Monumental Corp. (OTC). The share price fluctuates considerably. If I sold these shares I would have a large capital gain. Why has the stock declined so much recently? E.L.

A: Earnings for the first half were held to a 10% year-to-year gain. Not only was this below the 20% profit increase reported for the full 1972 year but the gain was less than that of the industry in general. However, a broader gain for the balance of the year could lift net to $1.25-$1.30 a share for 1973. The company's real estate operation, Monumental Properties, has grown rapidly and last year accounted for 14% of income. The drop in share price reflected the disappointing earnings for the first half as well as market conditions. Also affecting the share's performance has been the market's antipathy to real estate-related issues while interest rates were climbing. Retention of these shares for continued appreciation appears warranted.

Q: I hold 1,030 shares of Windsor Fund and was withdrawing $100 monthly. In 1972 I changed to taking only income and capital gains distributions. The share value decline has been a source of concern. Since I am a retiree in my late 70's, my goal is income and safety. Your advice would be gratefully accepted. K.J.

A: This conservative fund aims at safe, steady growth with a moderate income return. In fact, at current net asset value the yield from income distributions is close to 4%, which is significantly better than most growth common stock funds. In the five years through 1972, Windsor was well above average as to performance. The record in the 1969-70 bear market was unusually good, although in the 1973 down phase the fund's performance did not match that of the averages.

A conservative investment policy places emphasis on high-quality growth issues which are temporarily undervalued. Portfolio turnover rate and expense ratio are moderate. Hold.

Unearthed Stock May Have Value

Q: I recently discovered 5 shares of Pittsburg Screw & Bolt Corp. common stock dated in 1929. I have been unable to find this listed on any stock exchange. Perhaps you might be able to enlighten me. B.B.

A: This corporation's structure has undergone a number of changes since 1929, including a change of title to Screw & Bolt Corp. of America in 1959. Upon merger with Ampco Metal in 1970 the corporation again adopted a new name, Ampco-Pittsburg Corp. This issue trades on the New York Stock Exchange currently at about 8½. The company pays 9¢ quarterly in dividends.

In order to establish your position I suggest you write to L. R. Vitiello, secretary at corporate headquarters, 700 Porter building, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219.

Q: Since January, 1969, I have invested $10,000 in Synchro Growth Fund. I now hold 980 shares. I am living on Social Security and a very small pension and need more income. Would you advise me to sell these shares for what I can salvage or hold them hoping for a change for the better? M.M.

A: Although your fund shares have dropped in value, I would recommend holding at this time. From a 1973 low of $6.10, net asset value has risen 21% in the recent improving stock market environment. Further recovery appears probable given a continuation of the rising market trend.

Q: I saw a reference in your column to U.S. Treasury and Agency issues which pay a high yield. Would you comment on where such securities are available and whether these are safe investments? O.S.

A: Treasury issues are the yardstick by which all other debt securities are ranked; next in line as to safety are the bonds and notes issued by government sponsored agencies. The various Treasury debt issues are available as original offerings from the Federal Reserve Banks and branch offices. Agency offerings may be purchased, without additional cost, only from the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Previously offered debt securities may be purchased through most brokers for a small fee.

Two Buys For Long-Term Appreciation

Q: I have recently inherited $9,000 which I would like to invest. Since I am in my 40s and employed, I am interested in stocks for growth over a 5-to 10-year period. Would you advise me on what to buy? R.K.

A: Two stocks which appear to have excellent long-term potential are: Burlington Northern (NYSE) and Microwave Associates (NYSE). Even dollar amounts in each issue would allow purchase of 100 BNI and 200 MAI. The former pays $1.50 in dividends annually, while the latter has never paid a dividend.

Burlington Northern is attractive on several counts, most being tied to the current energy crisis. With gasoline in short supply, rails are expected to take on an increasing share of freight now handled by the trucking industry. Furthermore, not only does BNI lease 300,000 acres of coal-rich land to mining companies but this railroad also serves areas which hold more than half the country's coal reserves. In the near future it appears probable that ecologically sound methods will be found to exploit the nation's large supply of coal as an alternative fuel. Moreover, Burlington controls 8.5 million acres of land including 2.4 million acres of fee land with rights for timber grazing, oil production and mineral development. Oil and mineral rights are held on the balance. Earnings this year will apparently not match those of 1972, reflecting flood damage in the second quarter and the delay until August in being granted a rate boost.

The wedding of Miss Mindy Beth Kaufman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shep Kaufman of 53 Dartmouth Road, Cranston and Barry Donald Giordano, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Giordano of 15 Shawnee Road, Trumbull, Connecticut took place on Sunday, November 18 at the Colonial Hilton Inn, Cranston. Rabbi Leslie Gutterman officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory Quiana with a fitted high-rise bodice and bishop sleeves with full cuffs. Tiny self covered buttons accented the line of the bodice. A draped turban headpiece trimmed with buttons at the crown completed the outfit. She carried an arm bouquet of off white callas, brown eucalyptus and wood roses.

Miss Gail Primavera was the maid of honor and Miss Robin Hartner, Ellen Behling, sister of the bridegroom, and Ginny Waters were brides maids. The honor attendant and bridesmaids were identically dressed in floor length Quiana gowns in a copper penny color. The fitted bodice had a rolled high collar and bishop sleeves. The maid of honor wore a full hood in lieu of a hat and the attendants carried arm bouquets of red roses.

Steven Pressley was the best man and Alan Kaufman, brother of the bride, Walter Behling, John Swingen and Mike Boyle were ushers.

Following a reception at the Colonial Hilton Inn, the couple left for a wedding trip to Curacao. They will make their home at 36 Bloomer Road, Ridgefield, Connecticut.
