Community Solicitations Unit To Hear 'Exodus' Crewman

Rev. John Stanley Grauel, who served as a crew member aboard the now-legendary ship "Exodus" and is regarded as a "living legend" in his own right, will be guest speaker at the newly-organized Community Solicitations Division workers' dinner on Thursday evening, Sept. 30, at the Colony Motor Hotel.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Mr. Grauel was trained for the Protestant ministry and started his career as the pastor of a Methodist "sea" parish on the coast of Maine.

Reports of Nazi persecutions led him to resign his pulpit and join the American Christian Palestine Committee, an organization dedicated to the establishment of the State of Israel. He later became a member of the Haganah and was an active figure in the European underground.

In 1947, Mr. Grauel volunteered for the crew of "Exodus", a vessel carrying 4,500 Jewish displaced persons from German concentration camps to Palestine. The ship was overtaken by the British Navy and its passengers were removed to prison ships and returned to Germany. His report on the incident to the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine was a key factor in the series of events leading up to the UN resolution for the partition of Palestine and the establishment of the State of Israel.

For nearly two decades, Mr. Grauel has continued his unceasing efforts on behalf of Israel's people. The Community Solicitations

REV. JOHN S. GRAUEL
Division was formed this year for the GJC campaign as a means toward broader coverage of the Jewish community and recruitment of new people for both the campaign and communal work. Harold Leavitt is chairman and Harold Tregar, co-chairman. They said that in 1965 the UJA is being called on to help a total of 741,650 men, women and children in 30 countries. To carry out this program, the UJA has set a national goal of $109,400,000. The new division covers trades and industry, professional division, area division, service organizations, fraternal groups and the Young Executive Group, each with its own chairmen.

HERSHEL GENDEL Cabaret Night To Open Center's Fall Activities

An "Adult Cabaret Night" on Sunday at 8:30 P.M. will begin a week of open-house activities at the Jewish Community Center. Hershel Gendel, well-known humorist, will entertain and Mr. and Mrs. Syd Cantoff will give a dance exhibition. A reception for the Center's new assistant director and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lorberbaum, will be held.

During the week, ending Sept. 25, most of the Center groups will hold their opening meetings, to which friends of members and newcomers to the city are invited. Open house co-chairmen are Lawrence Hopfenberg, Center vice-president and chairman of the program committees, and Mrs. Sidney Meyer, chairman of the adults' program committee.

Bureau Of Jewish Education To Begin Autumn Program

Joseph Teverow, chairman of the adult education committee of the Bureau of Jewish Education of Greater Providence, announces that on Thursday, Sept. 23, at 9:00 P.M. the third year of the Bureau's Adult Program will begin. A series of eight lectures on the general topic, Rabbinic Theology, will be offered by Dr. Asher Finkel, Visiting Professor of Jewish Religion at Brown University.

DR. ASHER FINKEL
gram will be the three classes preceding the lecture, from 7:45 P.M. to 8:50 P.M. Mrs. Esther Elkin will teach Beginner's Hebrew, Rabbi Saul Leeman will give a course in Bible and Dr. Aaron Sovit will teach Modern Jewish History. All classes will be given at Temple Beth El. Students may call the Bureau office, 331-0956, for registration, or may register at the door at 7:30 P.M. on Thursday.

'From Friday To Friday'

From Friday to Friday, the weekly column by Beryl Segal, resumes publication with this issue of The Herald. The column, ranging in subject matter from travel in America to Jewish education, may be found on page 6.

Temple Seeks Injunction In 'Bar Mitzvah Factory' Suit

MINEOLA, N.Y. — A dispute between home owners, most of them Jewish, and a synagogue in nearby Syosset, which has been charged with conducting a "Bar Mitzvah factory," erupted into further bitterness when the congregation filed a counter-suit in the State Supreme Court here last week, seeking an injunction against its alleged detractors.

Originally, the Birchwood Homeowners Association, most of whose members are Jewish, sought an injunction in the same court recently, to halt the activities of the Noam Temple Caterers. The latter has its headquarters in the temple of the East Nassau Hebrew Congregation, of which Rabbi Martin Appleman is the spiritual leader.

The homeowners alleged that the social activities in the temple violate local zoning ordinances and create a traffic hazard, and

Johnson Extends Rickover's Active Duty Two Years

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has ordered a two-year extension of active duty for Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, thus once again preventing the controversial developer of the atomic submarine from being forced into retirement.

Without the Presidential intervention, Admiral Rickover, who will be 66 years old in January, would have been forced to retire from active duty early next year.

Once again the Admiral's Congressional supporters, who repeatedly in the last eight years have saved him from forced retirement by the Navy rallied to his defense.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, a senior Democrat on the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, was understood to have sent a letter to the President urging the retention of Admiral Rickover — a suggestion promptly accepted by Mr. Johnson.

The point being made by the Congressmen — and by Admiral Rickover in testimony repeatedly before Congressional committees — is that in highly technological enterprises it is becoming increasingly important to have continuity of leadership.

In contrast with the rapid turnover in most other military development projects, Admiral Rickover has remained in essentially one job since he first started developing an atomic reactor for a submarine 18 years ago.

It is to this continuity that Admiral Rickover attributes the success and relatively low cost of his expanding program. Slightly more than $1 billion has been spent in research and development in the nuclear reactor program — less than has been spent in the development of some major missiles.

Out of the Rickover program has come a still expanding nuclear fleet as well as the basic reactor technology for the present generation of atomic power plants.

There are presently 30 Polaris and 22 atomic attack submarines in operation, as well as three atomic powered surface ships. Under construction or authorized are 11 additional Polaris submarines, 35 attack submarines and two more surface ships.

In the face of repeated pressure from the Navy to force him into retirement, Admiral Rickover has made no secret of his desire to remain on active duty "as long as I am able and both I and others feel I can do a useful job."

For successful development and safe operation of the nuclear fleet, he has emphasized that it was "mandatory" that there be a permanent organization. He has expressed fears that the Navy would dismember this group upon his retirement because "it does not fit into the nest pattern of Navy organization."

Aside from his length of duty, dating back to his commissioning as an ensign in 1922, Admiral Rickover is unusual in the Navy for his two-hat assignment in two organizations. He serves as director of naval reactors in the Atomic Energy Commission and director of nuclear propulsion in the Navy's Bureau of Ships.

Admiral Rickover faced retirement from his post nearly two years ago when he reached the Navy's compulsory retirement age of 66. But then, under a little used provision of Naval regulations, the Navy agreed to recall Admiral Rickover to active duty for two years upon his retirement. This tour will now be extended until January, 1968, under the new Presidential directive.

With the exception of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who remains on active duty by virtue of his five-star rank, Admiral Rickover now has the longest active duty service of any officer in the Navy. Although he suffered a serious heart attack four years ago, he still maintains his rigorous six and seven-day-a-week pace.

LOUIS I. KRAMER Kramer Named Meeting Chairman

Louis I. Kramer, honorary vice-president of the Jewish Family and Children's Service, and principal of Mount Pleasant High School, has been appointed chairman for the 36th annual meeting of the agency, it was announced today by W. Irving Wolf, Jr., president of the Board of Directors. It was also announced that Mrs. Karl Ross will be chairman of the Hospitality Committee for that evening.

The 36th annual meeting is to be held in the Kane Hall of the Butler Health Center, 333 Grotto, on Monday, October 18, 1965 at 8:00 P.M. The meeting is open to the public.

Special aspects of the agency services will be reviewed by the board relating to family counseling, the aging, the emotionally disturbed, adoption, child care and homemaker service.

Retired Tailor Leaves Estate Of $50,000

A retired Woonsocket tailor, Hyman G. Sholovitz, who died Aug. 14, left an estate of $50,000, it became known when his will was admitted by Woonsocket Probate Court on Sept. 14.

He bequeathed $300 to the Jewish Home for the Aged, $1,000 to the Congregation B'nai Israel Endowment Fund to establish a fund in memory of himself and his late wife, Mollie R. Helf Sholovitz.

Mr. Sholovitz also left $250 to Congregation B'nai Israel for a memorial in his name in Memorial Hall of the new Prospect Street synagogue and $25 to the Hebrew Free Loan Society of Woonsocket.

The testator left a number of personal gifts. He bequeathed his shares of stock in the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. to his daughter, Beatrice S. Greenbaum of Providence. The residue is to be shared equally by Mrs. Greenbaum and the other children, two other daughters, Mrs. Ruth Cohen of West Hartford and Mrs. Isabel Gold of Larchmont, N. Y., and a son, Joseph H. Sholovitz of Providence.

Wreck Estonian Shul For Urban Renewal

NEW YORK — Soviet officials have informed the Jews of Tallin, in Estonia, that the building housing the community synagogue will be torn down to make way for an urban renewal project, and have rejected a request for permission for a new synagogue location, the American Conference on Soviet Jewry reported here this week.

The Conference, representing 24 major Jewish organizations, also disclosed that a Conference delegation had reported this information about the 4,000-member Jewish community's problems in Estonia, to the Department of State. The delegation told the State Dept. that the Tallin synagogue was the 360th Jewish house of worship shut down by Soviet officials since 1959. The figure was based on documents presented by the Soviets at United Nations meetings. The Conference issued an appeal to the Soviet Government against tearing down the existing synagogue.

Zionism Linked With Communism

BUENOS AIRES — Charges that Argentine Jews sponsored camps where military training was given to "Zionist groups of Communism," and were seeking to convey the impression abroad that there were monthly pogroms in Argentina, marked two days of heated debate in the Argentine Chamber of Deputies.

The topic of the debate was activities of extremist left and right-wing groups. Leon Patlis, a member of the Federal Legislature, offered a proposal that questions to be submitted about such activities to the Justice and Interior Ministers be restricted to anti-Jewish activities. The Radical del Pueblo majority faction in Parliament side-tracked the proposal, and then fired the charges against Argentine Jewry. The Chamber then voted to formulate a series of questions to the two Ministries on all activities of the extremist groups.

Pueblo deputy Moracio Garcia charged that the alleged campaign abroad was carried on "particularly in the United States and Europe." He declared that no group was being persecuted in Argentina but conceded that there were "unadapted" individuals who "preach racial violence."

SCHOLARSHIP FUND

TEL AVIV — Israeli Supreme Court Justice Moshe Landau said here that the Scholarship Fund of the America-Israel Cultural Foundation has been named the Moshe Sharet Fund for Young Artists.

Mrs. Robert L. Curran

Miss Betty Ann Brier, daughter of Mrs. Charles Brier of Emeline Street and the late Mr. Brier, became the bride of Dr. Robert Louis Curran at Temple Emanu-El on Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Curran of Lancaster Street. Rabbi Eli Bohnen and Cantor Ivan Perlman officiated at the 2 P.M. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the temple.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Charles E. Gennert. She wore an ivory gown of imported Chantilly lace with Goya sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her court train fell from the Watteau neckline, and a lace cap secured her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Charles Gennert was matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Toby Koritz was maid of honor. They wore gowns of American beauty velvet, and carried pink carnations.

Dr. Alton J. Curran was best man for his brother and ushers were Dr. Henry F. Izeman, Dr. Abraham Saltzman, Dr. Melvin D. Hoffman, Lawrence Hopfenberg, Dr. Robert H. Rosen and Dr. John J. Yashar.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will make their home in Pawtucket.

Rabbi Bohnen To Describe Needs Of Distressed Jews

Voluntary workers for the GJC Women's Division Telethon will hear a first hand report of the needs of Jews in various parts of the world, including Israel.

Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen of Temple Emanu-El, who has just returned from a trip around the world, will be guest speaker at a Telethon rally for workers to be held next Thursday at the Colony Motor Hotel at 10:30 A.M. and to be followed by luncheon.

Rabbi Bohnen will describe the critical needs of some 390,000 distressed Jews in Europe and in Moslem lands and the unmet needs of some 352,000 past and recent immigrants in Israel.

Merrill L. Hassenfeld, GJC president, will describe the urgent and increasing needs of the 13 local beneficiary agencies of the GJC.

Mrs. Benjamin Mellon, Mrs. Sheldon S. Sollosy and Mrs. Harold I. Tregar, chairmen of the Telethon, said the workers will receive instructions for the one-day Telethon Drive to be held next month.

The Telethon Drive replaces the one-day house-to-house canvass of previous campaigns. It will wind up the 1965 campaign for the GJC Women's Division.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Robert Green defeated Allan Goodwin, 6-4 and 6-3, in the senior men's division tennis championships at the Highridge Swim & Tennis Club in Lincoln during the Labor Day weekend. In senior men's doubles, Donald Levine and Mr. Goodwin defeated Sydney Feldman and Mr. Green, 6-3 and 7-5. Mr. Goodwin won the 19 and under single championship by defeating Irwin Shore, 9-7 and 6-3.

Mrs. David M. Schwartz

Rabbi Saul Leeman officiated at the marriage on Sept. 6 at the Cranston Jewish Center of Miss Anne Marilyn Abrams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Abrams of 60 Tallman Avenue, Cranston, to David M. Schwartz, son of Arthur Schwartz of Towers Apartments, Greensboro, N.C., and the late Martha Schwartz. A reception at the Center followed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown with long sleeves and bodice of Alencon lace with seed pearls. Her skirt and long detachable train were of peau de soie, the skirt accented with lace. She wore a matching veil and carried a cascade of stephanotis, phalaenopsis orchids and ivy.

HERE FOR HOLY DAYS — Rabbi Herbert C. Dobrinsky will conduct High Holy Day services at Congregation Ohave Shalom, Pawtucket. He is director of rabbinic placement, Community Service Division, at Yeshiva University, where he earned B. A. and M. S. in Education degrees. He is also director of Sephardic community activities, and a member of the Rabbinical Council of America and the National Council for Jewish Education.

Rabbi Dobrinsky served for four years as spiritual leader of the largest congregation in Canada east of Montreal.

Bloch Honored By Touro Synagogue

NEWPORT, R. I. — Elmer M. Bloch of New York City was awarded the Distinguished Service Citation of the Society of Friends of Touro Synagogue, a national historic shrine, for his interest in the restoration of the famous old synagogue.

Mr. Bloch is the son of the late Rabbi Julius Bloch, who was rabbi of the synagogue 40 years ago.

The society also commemorated the occasion on which George Washington sent a letter to the synagogue decrying religious bigotry.

Sunday School Registration Set

Milton M. Dubinsky, Chairman of the School Board of Temple Emanu-El, announces that registration in the Sunday Department of the Religious School will take place this Sunday, September 19th, from 10:00 A.M. to 12:00 noon.

Pupils who attended classes last year should register on Sunday, and new pupils should also register. Children who are five years old, or who will be five by December 31st of this year, may enter kindergarten. Children, ages six and seven, may register for the first and second grades in the Sunday Department.

Dr. Aaron Klein, Director of the School, will answer any questions which parents may have relating to their children in the School.

Providence Audiences To See 'Pawnbroker'

Ely Landau's "The Pawnbroker" will open Wednesday at the Avon Cinema. It was the official United States entry at the 1964 Berlin Film Festival, where the star, Rod Steiger, won the Best Actor Award. The film, based on the novel by Edward Lewis Wallant, was directed by Sidney Lumet whose father, a Yiddish Theatre veteran actor, plays the role of Mendel.

Dealing with one man's attempt to live cloistered in the midst of life, "The Pawnbroker" created a sensation in the European press and has stirred considerable controversy in this country.

Filmed on location in New York City, "The Pawnbroker" co-stars Geraldine Fitzgerald and Brock Peters.

Hias To Help Settle Record Refugee Group

NEW YORK — A group of 114 Jewish refugees from Eastern Europe, the largest number of Jewish migrants to arrive in this country on any one flight, landed recently at Kennedy Airport. They were met at the airport by Murray I. Gurfeln, president of the United Hias Service, and James P. Rice, executive director of the agency which is helping to resettle the newcomers.

Mr. Gurfeln noted that the United Hias Service has assisted 5,936 migrants during the first six months of this year.

The newcomers will be resettled in New York City with the assistance of the New York Association for New Americans, and in 18 other communities in this country including Pittsburgh.

Israeli Rabbi, 72, Weds Convert, 40

JERUSALEM — Rabbi Amram Blau, 72-year-old leader of Jerusalem's ultra-Orthodox Neturei Karta community, married a 45-year-old convert to Judaism recently.

His bride was Ruth Ben-David, a French-born divorcee who gave up Roman Catholicism 15 years ago. The wedding, arranged by a matchmaker, took place despite the infuriated opposition of the Beth Din, the community's rabbinical court.

Apparently the opposition centered on the age difference and on Mrs. Blau's convert status.

A few weeks ago Rabbi Blau moved to Enei Brak, a community near Tel Aviv, because a wedding there would be outside the court's jurisdiction.

The ceremony was performed secretly after midnight to avoid publicity. Nevertheless, afternoon newspapers devoted headlines to the event.

More than 200 persons attended the wedding, which has split the Neturei Karta community. Some feel that the rabbi's action has undermined the court's jurisdiction; others regarded the court's action as unworthy.

The Neturei Karta — their name means Guardians of the City — are notorious in Israel as adversaries of the Government. They do not recognize the state's sovereignty because, in their zealously literal interpretation of the Scriptures, the Jews can have no homeland until the Messiah arrives.

Killers Of 250,000 Jews To Go On Trial

HAGEN — Twelve former Nazi guards at the infamous Sobibor death camp in Poland are to go on trial here on charges of complicity in the slaying of some 250,000 Jews in the camp.

One of the defendants, former SS/Sgt. Kurt Bolender, is charged in the indictment with 360 counts of murder apart from complicity in 84,000 killings.

French Girl Wins Israeli Harp Title

TEL AVIV — A 17-year-old French harpist, Martine Gelliot, won the third International Harp Contest today. She was the youngest of six finalists.

Miss Gelliot, whose mother and grandmother were harpists, is a graduate of the Conservatoire National de Paris and, like many of her fellow contestants, had won top honors at her school.

One of nine French contestants,

Miss Gelliot fought off a strong Soviet challenge to gain the prize, a grand concert harp and the chance to play the principal solo at a closing concert tonight.

Second and third places went to Soviet harpists, both 26 years old and graduates of the Moscow Conservatory. They were Emilia Moskvitina, a soloist with the Moscow Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

What Is A Religious Teacher?

Some months ago Rabbi Maurice Davis wrote a poignant essay in the Jewish Post and Opinion on "What Is a Religious School Teacher?" We think it warrants reading by our community.

"A religious school teacher (and the 'he' means 'she' as well as 'he') is a person too young for his years, and too old for his dreams; and too much in love with too many kids. He lives in the world of the grown-ups, with his heart in the world of the young. He spends hours of studying for minutes of teaching, and the rest of the week he worries — on and off — about the 20 odd kids that are once-in-a-while students.

He worries about their work, their welfare, their future — and their parents. As a matter of fact, he worries about himself because he has two loves. The kids he tries to teach, and the Judaism he tries to teach them. He wonders if he can ever transmit to them the greatness and the grandeur that he himself barely can grasp. He teaches on Sunday mornings, but he checks in on Saturday nights. That is when his mind begins to drift, and his thoughts begin to wander. He keeps this to himself, of course, for his friends would scarcely understand. How can he tell other grown-ups about the wondrously wise, or wondrously silly, or wondrously wondrous things that his youngsters say and do and are? No one completely grown up could ever comprehend.

He gropes his way awake each Sunday morning to begin again that incredible task of teaching. In equal measure he attempts to pour in (instruct) and to draw out (educate), hoping somehow that his two loves will meet, and learn to like each other.

He busies himself with attendance, and charity, and tests and techniques; and at times he wonders about the worth of it all. But once in a while he sees in their eyes a sudden kind of spark, and then he knows all about worth.

So do we. We pay him too little, and demand too much. But along with all of that, we give him the one thing that shows we know. We give him our children.

There is no greater trust. And there need not be!

The Lyons Den

by Leonard Lyons

THE COUPLE: Few men know more about London and its colorful, off-beat sites than Capt. V. C. Buckley. He's the author-lecturer, and alumnus of Eton, Oxford and Military Intelligence. He introduced each of my sons, in turn, to London's historic fascinations.

Buckley's tour includes the Statey Homes on those special days when they are open to visits. And it also includes the tiny Art Galleries where he experienced an incident which should be recorded by Duke University's Dept. of Extra-Sensory Perception. It concerns a shop he chanced to pass, where he saw a painting by Sir Peter Lely on display.

It was a portrait of William Dawson, Esq., born in 1698 and died in 1765. Thus said the legend on the painting. Capt. Buckley thought it ideal for the wall of his apartment in Eresby House. He bought it, paid a deposit and was to pick it up the next day.

That night he couldn't sleep, because of a troublesome dream. He kept dreaming about a Lady In Blue, an utter stranger to him. It was almost nightmarish in effect and kept him tossing fitfully all night. The next day he returned to the Art Shop to pay the balance due on the painting of William Dawson, Esq. The dealer began to wrap the portrait.

"Oh, by the way," Buckley suddenly asked, "was there another portrait to go with this?" The dealer said there was; he'd simply forgotten to show it. Buckley asked: "Is it a Lady In Blue?" The dealer said it was, indeed a Lady In Blue; "How did you know?" Buckley shrugged...

The dealer produced the other portrait by Sir Peter Lely — the portrait of "Elizabeth, wife of William Dawson, Esq." She was dressed in blue, like the lady who'd disturbed Buckley's dream. Capt. V. C. Buckley bought this portrait too, and took both paintings home to Eresby House... Now this never-separated couple, dead over 200 years, are together on Buckley's walls.

THE FOREIGN TONGUE: Chief Justice Earl Warren masks his smile, whenever he notices local politicians trying to make campaign speeches in foreign languages in which they are not quite fluent. He decided this was unwise, after studying the precedent, set by all those foreign dignitaries a Chief Justice must entertain officially.

At these official functions Warren noticed that the dignitaries speak only in their native tongue and pretend they know no English. But, when alone with the Chief Justice in a garden safe from eavesdroppers, they all spoke English fluently and freely...

THE CONTRIBUTION: A candidate for political office was told by an admirer about a contribution he'd made to the campaign. The admirer said he made it in cash, so that the candidate could use it for any purpose without having to account for it. The candidate was puzzled, and said he'd received no contribution from the man.

His admirer mentioned having given the cash to a precinct captain, to give to the leader, to give to the candidate — hoping each would be credited this way. "I didn't get a dime of it," said the candidate. "Mayor Frank Hague once said 'money never grows on Passing Hands.'"

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

On Travel

By Beryl Segal

The lady that was sitting in front of us on the way to Chicago will forgive me. I know that was not very polite, but I was reading over shoulders. She had a newspaper open and the title of a story intrigued me. The story was written by a women columnist who was going on vacation just as we were, and she came to the conclusion that:

"Turnpikes: Quick Way To See Very Little."

The little I could read, before the lady turned to the next page, stated that "Modern turnpikes and Freeways and Speedways knife through cities, soar over rivers' and bays' vaulting bridges, pass through tunnels, interchanges and cloverleaves..."

My thoughts turned on our experiences with Bus rides over Freeways and Turnpikes on our vacation. We were going, on this trip, by train and by plane, by buses and by car. All kinds of transportation, except the most natural one, walking on foot.

None of these ways of traveling was completely satisfactory. When we were on the train we wished for the speed of the airplane, and when we were on the bus we could not wait for the change of a car.

Up to Springfield, Mass., the ride by bus was delightful. We passed through little towns and villages around Putnam, Connecticut, and when we reached the Berkshire Mountains we wished that the road were to go on and on. Then came Albany, New York, and we were on the State Turnpike. Cities and towns we knew from old times were nothing but signs on the left or right of the road. Exit Right to Rome. Exit Left to Utica. Next Exit to Amsterdam. Five miles to Herkimer. Of the towns themselves we could only snatch a glimpse. The Turnpike was speeding on, announcing new places. The road became monotonous. Same signs. Same Resting Places. Same speed limits. We wanted to cry out: "Stop the bus. We want to get out."

On the way to Toronto, Canada, the Freeway was even more uninviting. Even such tourist attractions as Niagara Falls were bypassed. We were relieved to take to the air in Toronto and in a matter of hours we landed in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

But such is the nature of man, that we were not satisfied with the plane either. We regretted not being able to see half of Canada. No vistas of landscape. We saw nothing of the land between these two cities. Man was meant to look up and behold the glory of sky and stars. But man cannot look down on earth. He can see nothing from thousands of miles up in the air. We paraphrased the words of the columnist: "Airways: Quick Way To See Practically Nothing."

We changed to the railways in Minneapolis, Minnesota. What a relief. The coach is roomy. People all around us. And the scenery to the right and left of us is so grand that we do not know which way to look first. There is a stretch of road as soon as you leave Saint Paul that we could give all our possessions to ride over again. For miles and miles the railroads have built their tracks hard by the shores of the Mississippi. There is the river on the right and green hills and spacious farms to the left. The eye is never satisfied. We keep calling to one another: "Look at this farm. Look how the river curves. See the group of hills riding one upon another?"

Thus it goes for a goodly part of the way to Chicago. But then begins the approach to the city. Clouds of smoke. Soot and dirt. Tenements like boxes stand hard by the railroad tracks. Your heart grows sad and your anger rises. And also your fears. Who can stem the tide of these Tenement dwellers when they rise and take out their wrath on the palaces and hotels and magnificent buildings of the Shore Drive? The delight of the ride along the Mississippi was taken away at the sight of the slums of Chicago. Because even though the Tenements stand in orderly rows, and have little play grounds between them, they are still slums. The people that were milling around between them do not see any change from the old slums they have evacuated.

In Kalamazoo, Michigan, we took to the car. Going by car is, next to travelling on foot, the best means of transportation. We could, conceivably, not go on the highway. We could, if we wanted, go off on a country road and see such villages as Paw Paw where good wine is made, and Pen Yan where a modern Teachers College is situated, and Hue whose name is intriguing to say the least.

If you are young and you have a lot of time and a companion on the road I would advise you to take to the highways on foot. You go where you want to go, and when you want to go, and if you see a little brook and it catches your eye, you sit down beside it, and when you come upon a hill and you take a fancy to see what is on the other side, you go to see what is on the other side of the hill. You will not go too far on such a journey, and you will certainly not make any schedules on time, but you will, it seems to me, come back home more enriched than from any vacation travel.

But in the meantime, it is good to be back, and we hope to tell you more of our experiences on this vacation.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

by Sylvia Porter

YOUR 'POVERTY RISK' What are your strictly statistical chances of being poor today? Precisely how much does your "poverty risk" increase if you are a man or a woman, if you are young or old, employed or unemployed, Negro or white?

For the first time, we are getting details profiling the full face of poverty — the "who," the "how many," the "how bad." A new study by Mollie Orshansky of the Social Security Administration in Washington not only pinpoints the percentages but also dramatizes the grim fact that large segments of our population are far more poverty prone than the nation as a whole.

Hard statistics on high poverty risks in our country are imperative if, in our mounting war on poverty, we are to isolate the targets of attack and know where to concentrate our efforts. Here are some of Miss Orshansky's startling findings:

Your overall chances of being counted among the nation's 34.1 million poor today are statistically one out of six.

If you're 65 years old or over, though, your risk is twice as large as that of a 45-year-old. While the overall number of people who are impoverished is declining, the number of our aged poor has remained unchanged.

Next to the aged, children are the second greatest poverty risk in the nation today — particularly children in large families and in households headed by women. Nearly one in four American children — 15 million — now lives in poverty but nearly half of all children in families with five or more children under 18 are listed among the poor. That's five times the rate for families with only one child.

If you are living alone, your chances of being poor are about twice those living in a family unit. If you are old and living alone, your odds of being poor soar to nearly three times the odds for the family unit.

If you are a non-jobholding wife, your family's risk of being poor is double that of a family in which the wife works.

If you are a Negro, your risk of being poor is 3 1/2 times that of a white citizen. Today, 10.7 million Negroes are counted poor — about one-half the entire American Negro population.

For a Negro child, the poverty risk is four times that of a white child. For an elderly Negro, the chances are twice as large as those for an elderly white.

Your chances of being at the very bottom of the U.S. poverty barrel are greatest if you are a Negro woman heading a large family or an aged Negro woman living alone. A sickening five out of six of these are poor!

The face of poverty obviously is ugly and extremely lopsided. For some groups, the odds of being poor actually outweigh the odds of being non-poor. Poverty does not "strike" race groups; it is built into their lives.

Even at this early stage in our research, it already is abundantly clear that the poverty risk is highest among some of the fastest growing segments of our population; the Negro, the very young, the aged.

True, she makes a Mushroom & Barley Soup even a mother-in-law would envy. Hearty. Nourishing. Loaded with beans, celery, onions and carrots. (To say nothing of mushrooms and barley.)

And wait till you taste Mrs. Adler's Pea Soup! And her Vegetable Soup!

But why be jealous? Just serve it to your husband with a nothing-to-it look.

And let your mother-in-law be jealous! ©

On seeing the Dummy, South realized that 4 Spades would be unlikely to make and that he had made a bad sacrifice unless, of course, he could make his doubled contract. He now set out to do just that.

The Spade ace was led and ruffed by South, who now led the Club 10. His aim was to try to set up a Club for an eventual Diamond discard. The 10 was covered by the King and Ace and now Declarer drew trumps in two rounds. He next played the Club 9 and let it ride through, won by East's Jack. At this point East could have foiled Declarer by leading a Diamond and with West's cooperation Diamond plays until North's King was gone would have set the contract. The vital entry to the good Club Queen would be removed and another Diamond trick lost.

As the play actually went, East, after winning the Club Jack, thoughtlessly played another Spade, ruffed by South. He now played his good Club 8 and then a Diamond, quite confident the Ace was in the West hand for West had opened the bidding and then doubled.

West, realizing his cause was now practically hopeless, gave himself his only chance and did not play his Ace. South, however, played the King and discarded one of his 2 remaining Diamonds on the Club Queen. This guaranteed his doubled contract.

Today's Moral: In Duplicate a bottom is a bottom. Sometimes down 1 doubled vulnerable is no worse than down 10. When this is the case, go all out to make the bid at any cost.

JWB Assigns Second Rabbi To Viet Nam

NEW YORK — The National Jewish Welfare Board, moving to meet the religious needs of the growing number of Jewish personnel in the United States military build-up in South Viet Nam, announced that a second Jewish chaplain has been assigned to the area.

Chaplain Robert L. Reiner, of the U. S. Naval Reserve, will join Chaplain Richard Dryer, already on duty for Jewish personnel, now numbering more than 500.

Sanford Solender, JWB executive vice-president, also announced that the JWB is mobilizing resources to meet anticipated future needs. He said that, of the 14 military installations in the U.S., where the heaviest impact is expected because of the build-up, 11 are covered by full-time Jewish chaplains, and three by part-time chaplains.

There are 71 full-time Jewish chaplains, and 252 part-time chaplains on active duty, according to the JWB Commission on Jewish Chaplaincy.

During September and October, JWB will send teams of personnel into the most heavily military-impacted areas to appraise the effect of the build-up, determine the Jewish population at each installation, ascertain the needs of the Jewish chaplains, examine types of installations and the nature of the training program as these factors affect the JWB on-base activities for trainees.

JWB staff personnel will meet this month with supply officers at the Pentagon to discuss supply needs and to determine whether any special problems in providing supplies exist. JWB plans to insure the availability of Passover and other supplies as needed, and has already sent Hanukah supplies for the next festival to Chaplain Dryer.

JWB is a beneficiary of the United Jewish Appeal of Essex County.

CLEANERS WIN HIKE
 TEL AVIV — A 36 hour wild-cat strike by the sanitation workers in this city ended when the authorities agreed to give the workers a pay hike of 17 dollars per month and more vacation benefits. The Tel Aviv Labor Council was against the strike. While the strike was on, a volunteered corps did the chores of the sanitation men.

EXCHANGE LAND
 JERUSALEM — An impending shift in the Red Sea border between Jordan and Saudi Arabia "visible from the Eilat coast, is of no practical concern to Israel," the Jerusalem Post said.

Federation Raises Its Highest Total

OAKLAND, CAL. — The Jewish Welfare Federation's 1965 campaign here has received 3,610 pledges, for a total of $495,600, it was announced recently by Oscar A. Mintzer, executive director of the Federation.

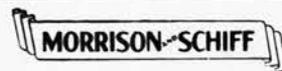

The total, he said, "represents the largest amount raised by the Federation" in a single campaign in its entire history. In 1964, he pointed out, the campaign had brought in $465,000 from 3,700 contributors.

Mrs. Jones To Speak At Pace Setters Meeting

Mrs. Harry Jones, Detroit civic, communal and philanthropic leader and a member of the National United Jewish Appeal Women's Division executive committee, will be guest speaker at the Pace Setters division meeting of the GJC Women's Division next Wednesday at 1 P.M. at the home of Mrs. Alexander Rumpier, 133 Hartshorn Road.

A former campaign chairman of the Women's Division of the Detroit Jewish Welfare Federation, Mrs. Jones is intimately acquainted with the work and problems of immigrant absorption which confront Israel's people, as well as the growth and development of Israel as a haven for oppressed Jews.

Mrs. Leonard I. Salmanson, general campaign chairman for the Women's Division, said the Pace Setters affair is the top major event of the fund-raising drive and sets the tone for the entire GJC Women's Division. Mrs. Marshall Leeds and Mrs. Lawrence A. Paley are co-chairmen.

REJECTS ALIGNMENT
 TEL AVIV — The Central Committee of the Mapam Party rejected an offer by Ahdut Avodah, inviting Mapam to join the political alignment of Mapai and Ahdut Avodah. Leaders of Mapam said they would wait until after next fall's elections to the Knesset before making up their minds on alignment.

New N.Y. Law Strengthens Human Rights Commission

NEW YORK — The New York State Commission on Human Rights will be empowered for the first time, under a new law which went into effect last week, to order collection of damages from an individual found guilty of racial or religious discrimination.

The measure is the first major revision in the New York State Law Against Discrimination in 20 years. It covers discrimination in education, jobs, housing and public accommodations.

The American Jewish Congress, which helped draft the bipartisan measure, said last week the law would "significantly strengthen" the Commission in dealing with such bias and would open "a brand new phase in New York's war on bigotry and bias." Another revision provides for a temporary court order banning sale or rental of housing in which a discriminatory act had been charged. This was made part of the law because it was found that houses or apartments involved in such cases were no longer available for sale or rental by the time the Commission could rule on the complaint of bias.

The law also provides compensation for landlords or homeowners against loss which might be suffered when a restraining order is issued but no discrimination is found.

The State Law Against Discrimination was adopted in 1945, the first such state law in the nation. It defined the opportunity to obtain jobs without discrimination as a civil right. The revisions make it a civil right to be free of discrimination in education, public accommodation places, housing and commercial space.

THEIR GOAL - TO SAVE LIVES

EACH OF THESE MEN HAS A HEART-WARMING GOAL IN 1965 — to save and build lives — as many as possible.

You are invited to join them in achieving it.

Each of these men is an active worker or officer of The General Jewish Committee. Each is also a leader in business, industry and the professions. But right now each is making a commitment to GJC — to work and to give his time and energy to this great humanitarian cause.

Three quarters of a million people need help . . . people hoping to reach Israel and other free lands . . . immigrants already in Israel, who are not yet fully absorbed and 400,000 persons in lands overseas who must have food shelter and other aid.

TO MAKE THIS LIFE-SAVING POSSIBLE, these men have pledged MAXIMUM GIFTS. In addition they will give many hours of their time to securing increased gifts from others.

But it will take hundreds of dedicated givers and workers to achieve the life-saving goals of the General Jewish Committee for the 1965 Campaign.

Remember this year ISRAEL WILL NOT RECEIVE GERMAN REPARATIONS for victims of Nazism. This has been a source of funds for this young country. Funds that were used to provide relief for our fellow Jews waiting in ports all over the world for a chance to go to Israel. We must raise enough to meet this new challenge.

Collegiate Discontent:

(This is the first of two articles on increasing student discontent in the nation's colleges. The concluding article will appear in this newspaper next week. — Ed.)

College education has always been important in America, but it took an atomic bomb in 1945 and a Russian-launched satellite in 1957 to put massive emphasis on how great that importance is.

American society today is permeated by a collegiate ideal, a credo which states that anyone not holding a college degree and of college age is lazy, stupid, incompetent, or all three. A college degree, more than ever, is today an important prerequisite for the attainment of any worthwhile job.

It would seem, then, that those who are "lucky" enough to be in college would be happy, self-assured, and confident of a secure future. They should, we think, be having a ball; they are learning, having an active and full social life, and having few "important" responsibilities.

But the belief widely held by parents of students that their sons and daughters are practically carefree is a misconception, for it is fact that many students today are discontent and more will be that way tomorrow.

The reasons for this phenomenon of student discontent are many and complex, which is why it is impossible to deal with them adequately in anything short of a major book. The purpose of this column and the next, will therefore be to give a superficial examination of collegiate discontent and offer a few rather superficial comments. To try to do more here would be impossible, but what will be done here is done with the hope additional attention will be focused on a worsening national problem.

One problem which leads to student discontent is the fact that entering students have not been adequately forewarned of what lies ahead. What, in fact, does lie ahead are stringent rules to which there are no exceptions; professors whom students don't see, let alone meet; a great sea of administrative impersonality; bad food, and an unending stream of answerable, but unanswered, questions.

A discussion of the many collegiate rules would be interminable, simply because the rules are. Sick? If you can get away between classes, go to the infirmary and wait in line with everybody else. Fill out your life history legibly and keep quiet. The doctor will soon tell you it's all in your mind, all you need is some sleep and balanced meals, and the fever, headache, vomiting and all the rest will go away. Excuse from classes? Well, well, another hum trying to get out of a test. Forget it!

Well, so you'd like to take up a quiz you missed because you had appendicitis. What a pity. Got a scar? Got an excuse? Hmmm, this excuse looks phony, like all the rest you students hand me. You flunk like everybody else.

Well, so you ah-couldn't understand my lecture today, something maybe wrong with your hearing? My lecture was easily understandable. I don't talk too fast, you just listen slow.

So much for some simplified discontent. The chief irritation of students is the cold impersonality of college. Often, students will seek admission to a university because they wish to study under the Great Professor, who is the most expert expert (sic) in the field. When they finally are admitted, they find that the Great Professor has been off on a sabbatical for two years and after that will serve as a Special Deputy Commissioner to the High and Mighty of Zyruba. Such an honor. And we find that when the Great Professor does teach, he teaches only doctoral candidates, and that only when the mood suits him.

And so it is that student X, who sought the Great Professor, ends up being taught by a graduate assistant, who "tries" but doesn't successfully communicate the knowledge that the student seeks. The student becomes confused on some points and tries to see the assistant, but the assistant has only two office hours a week and is booked solid for six weeks. So flunk the test, there'll be others...

IBM floods modern campuses, and the business of registration through which many students are, at this moment, suffering, is done much of the way on IBM cards. Their number is fantastic. They are confusing. And there is usually nobody around to help.

You want to major in Political Science, and despite your efforts, you've never done well in science or mathematics, both of which are "required" for graduation. You take a new course and there's nobody to help, but you try anyway and flunk. You try again and pass by the skin of your fingernail, or by the mood of the prof. The second course in this series of two is tougher than the first, and you ask to be excused. No excuses. And there is no section offered in the course that is especially for students who have a chronic inability to understand the subject, so you take the second course and brown-nose the prof during his less formal moments.

Students come to college with the impression that they are entering the freedom shrine of the world. They can say what they want and do what they want. They can't. Girls are treated like kindergarten pupils, signing a standard form every time they go to the bathroom. If you ask a professor to quit mumbling you may well get thrown out of college, if you ask the wrong prof. Call campus parking rules "stupid" in public and you might find yourself under disciplinary scrutiny by an oversensitive administrator.

College isn't free by any means; overzealous politicking,

ENGAGED—Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Baumberg of Newton, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Joanne, to Steven David Mittleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving I. Mittleman of 74 Eighth Street.

Miss Baumberg received her B. S. in Education from Lesley College, Cambridge, Mass., and is a member of the teaching staff of the Waltham, Mass., Public School System.

Mr. Mittleman was graduated with distinction from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in 1964 and is presently with the Division of Engineering Graduate School of Brown University.

A July 3 wedding is planned.

Gamble On Atom, Israel Advised

HAIFA — An expert in power production has urged Israel to enter the field of atomic power and "to benefit from the advantage of getting in at an early stage."

Lord Hinton of Berkshire, former chairman of the British Central Electricity Board, and chairman of the International executive council of the World Power Conference which was held here, told a press conference that Israel should gamble on the calculated risk of building a nuclear power station, even if it is not immediately profitable.

Among the 74 experts attending the conference from 34 countries was K. D. Lavrenemko, first deputy Minister of Power of the Soviet Union.

and administrators arbitrarily can say what is overzealous — is out; fees, for everything, are in; movies which offend the Historical Society or the neighborhood priest or anybody else who gets offended easily aren't shown.

A great many professors mumble, others don't come to class at all. Some cancel classes after five minutes because nobody has suggested anything he'd like to talk about. Some berate students who are vocal pacifists or militarists. Some talk about foolish things. There is prejudice in college too, racial, religious, and otherwise.

The inability to talk with professors to get questions answered, to find some way to redress grievances, to understand muttering professors, or even some that talk understandably but in meaningless terms; the inability to express opinions in class, or to discuss the merits of an argument against a rule with somebody who could do something; these are some of the elements of collegiate discontent. The number of students is increasing faster than the number of profs and the problem is worsening.

Next week, Collegiate Discontent: Benign or Malignant, will discuss the difference between professor and knowledge communicator; will offer some advice for new students and their parents on where the panic button is and how to push it; and will offer an analysis of some of the possible cures to "collegiate discontent." To keep things complete, we'll have a checklist of (1) the students' objection; (2) manifestations of the objection; (3) action to be taken.

Comments on this series are welcomed.

Mrs. Ira Leslie Kaplan

Miss Barbara Lynn Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Schwartz, 18 Dellwood Road, Cranston, became the bride of Ira Leslie Kaplan, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kaplan, 66 Woodcliff Road, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts, Saturday, September 11th.

Rabbi Saul Leeman officiated at the 8:30 P.M. ceremony held at the Cranston Jewish Center. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie, Dior sheath style with a paneled overlay of silk net and reembroidered Alencon lace. The sheath skirt swept into a Directoire back. The full Watteau train was overlaid in French net and banded and appliqued in Alencon.

The bride's headpiece was made of an imported wreath, illusion and seed pearls, attached to a three-tiered bouffant silk illusion veil. Her crescent bouquet was of white orchids with white sweetheart roses and ivy on a white prayer book.

The maid of honor was Miss Sharon A. Licker, cousin of the bride and matron of honor was Mrs. Arthur King, the bridegroom's sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Court and Miss Brenda Engle.

The best man was Joseph Goodman and ushers were Larry N. Schwartz, brother of the bride, Arthur S. King, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Ronald N. Chase, cousin of the bride, Donald Kaplan, cousin of the bridegroom, Fred Rosen, Larry Ullian, Harold Sadow and Jay Theise.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside at 103 Gerry Road, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.

REPORT SILVER THEFT

JERUSALEM — Two large silver Torah crowns have been stolen from the King David tomb atop Mount Zion, thus marking the first time that a theft of that nature has been reported.

22 Parties To Compete In Elections

TEL AVIV — Israel election officials reported last week that 22 party lists will compete for Parliamentary seats in the elections Nov. 3.

A new entrant will be the National Workers list, led by former Premier David Ben Gurion in a Mapai Party-splitting challenge to the leadership of Premier Levi Eshkol.

Rafi, the new party, expects to seek seven Parliamentary seats. It was announced that Sept. 7 would be the deadline for filing election lists.

The first party to complete its Knesset list was the left-wing Mapam, an opposition party. Mapam set aside the recommendations of its appointment committee to give a "new look" to its Knesset list for a campaign in which, for the first time since the creation of Israel, Mapai's long dominance appears shaky.

The Knesset elections this year are expected to be the most bitterly contested in Israel's history. The injection of the Ben Gurion-Eshkol rift into the campaign is one prime factor. Another is the formation of a voting bloc by the right-wing Herut and the Liberal Party.

APPEALS SENTENCE

AMSTERDAM — Paul Vantienen, a Dutchman who had served in Hitler's SS during the war, appealed a six-month prison sentence imposed upon him by a court at Utrecht for publishing and selling anti-Semitic works. Vantienen is the author of a book in German published in West Germany, defending Hitler. He used the alias of Wilhelm Asenbach as the author of that work. Prior to his arrest and conviction here, he had been in Spain, assisting the notorious Belgian Nazi and war criminal, Leon Degrelle.

Neo-Fascism Seen Danger For Jews, World Peace

LONDON — Chief Rabbi Moses Rosen of Rumania, one of the participants in the conference of 19 Christian and 10 Jewish leaders in Geneva, said that he considered neo-Fascism and anti-

Semitism in West Germany "a vital danger for Jews as well as for world peace."

The Chief Rabbi made his comment in a statement sent from Bucharest to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here, in which he dissociated himself from a contrary evaluation made at the close of the parley by Rabbi Seymour J. Cohen of Chicago, president of the Synagogue Council of America.

The five-day meeting, sponsored by the World Council of Churches, was attended by religious leaders from the United States, Europe and Israel. Rabbi Cohen said at the meeting that anti-Semitism was no longer a "grave" problem in Europe.

Rabbi Rosen, the only East European representative attending the Geneva sessions, asserted in his statement that the problem of anti-Semitism in West Germany was not discussed in any form during the conference in which I took part" and that Rabbi Cohen was "not authorized by anyone of the conference to declare that anti-Semitism in West Germany is of no importance anymore." Rabbi Cohen had declared that he disagreed with reports of a resurgence of anti-Semitism in Europe and that such reports stemmed from the fact that occasionally some "idiot" painted an anti-Semitic slogan or desecrated a Jewish cemetery.

Rabbi Cohen added a warning, however, that there were some "cesspools" of anti-Semitism "which still have to be sealed off." The Chief Rabbi declared that " rapprochement between Jews and Christians, which is so much wanted, is possible only by eradication of anti-Semitism, not by minimizing it."

German War Criminals Unwept, Says Winter

LANDSBURG — Leaders of West Germany's neo-Nazi National Democratic Party last week equated the German war criminals executed by the United States and its allies with the prisoners who died in the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp.

One of the speakers at a wreath-laying ceremony at Landsburg cemetery, where many Nazi war criminals are buried, was Franz Winter, a member of the party's presidium. He said that although the whole world mourns Jewish victims of Bergen-Belsen, no one visited the graves of Nazis at Landsburg, and that the Nazis deserved commemoration. Fritz Thielen, chairman of the NDP, said that many of the executed Nazis were sentenced "unjustly" by war crimes tribunals.

FOOD FRAUDS

WASHINGTON — Reconsideration of the decision to complete shipment of $37,500,000 worth of food to Egypt is being carefully weighed in the light of a recent U. S. General Accounting Office report of Egyptian frauds in the disposition of shipments, it was disclosed here in a communication to Representative Seymour Halpern of New York by Lawrence F. O'Brien, special assistant to the President.

Canadian Artist Produces Intaglio Color Portfolio Of Prints, 'Themes From The Old Testament'

JEZEBEL—"The wall here is the chief prop. This time to recreate the moment of the Prophet Naboth's execution. I chose black and white for the wall, the texture is from taritan, the Baal head is engraved on the hardened compotina plate. The Jezebel head is brown."
 —Cutline by the artist.

TORONTO, Canada — Artist Saul Field and his wife, Jean Townsend, have produced "Themes from the Old Testament," a hand-printed, hand-engraved portfolio of intaglio color prints made in his studio here. The project, made possible by the sponsorship of 50 universities and colleges, public libraries, art galleries and private collectors in North America, was to be limited to an edition of 150 portfolios.

Mr. Field and his wife joined in a dig in an Indian village near Penetanguishene, for two weeks in 1956. The emotional experience of the dig, he said, "kept with me. It helped me to project ideas for this book. It gave me a feeling of time and space, of the history of man, of the earth, its rocks, its people."

"The print is such a satisfying challenge," he said. "You have a record of renewal. You control the color, the surfaces. In painting, paint obliterates what you're doing, but your stage proofs give you a record of that renewal at different levels. And when a painter finishes a painting, it goes away from him forever. But an artist can keep a print for himself."

THE WOMAN NAMED RAHAB—"The harlot who served Joshua's spies. This print is also an intaglio and collage. The collage portion is an actual hardened piece of cheese cloth I use as a plate for the scarlet cloth in the window. The rest of the plate, of course, is compotina. I impressed crinkled silver foil to achieve wall textures."
 —Cutline by the artist.

Mr. Field uses a variety of materials for texture and design. He stripped lace from his wife's mantilla to make the design for a mask on Tamar's face. He asked for, and was given, a sample of brocade from a dress worn by a cocktail party guest.

The portfolio is on permanent view in several Canadian cities, and at the Boston Public Library.

Maureen O'Donnell, writing in the Congress Bulletin, calls the portfolio "a statement of struggle. Saul Field . . . has interpreted the timeless stories of the Old Testament with such force that each print becomes a play."

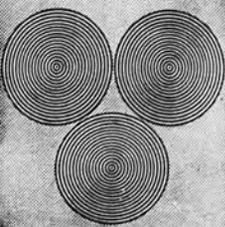

"However, unlike a play his prints may be touched and the fingers demand this satisfaction. Mr. Field has created this need for contact by making his plates of an original material which he calls Compotina, instead of zinc or copper which we commonly employed in intaglio relief printing. With this material, the artist is able to build shapes and impressions, for Compotina is a malleable substance. Thus the prints are composed of clearly defined mounds and crevices which the hand must explore.

"Although the artist studied with Nicholas Hornyansky and Guillermo Silva, Stanislovsky's philosophy has profoundly influenced his work. As the director must understand and employ all words which are essential to his interpretation of a play, so Mr. Field seeks to understand and employ all tools of color composition and material to give meaning to the theme.

"A feeling of life is generated by the color and texture of the prints which are sympathetic to the stories they represent. 'Jezebel' is placed before a menacing black. 'Exodus' has become a print of orange and red terrain—'And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the Lord caused the sea to go back.'"

Mrs. Edward Harry Tocman

Miss Arlyne Gayle Dress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dress, 130 Fifth Street, became the bride of Edward Harry Tocman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Tocman, 13 Chesapeake Road, Holbrook, Mass., on September 12, at the Sheraton Biltmore Hotel.

Rabbi Eli Bohnen officiated at the ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a gown of light ivory peau de soie, empire sheath style designed with a scoop neckline and short sleeves. Floral embroidery of seed pearls and sequins accented the bodice and continued down the detachable chapel train. Her bouffant veil fell from a double tiara crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a Bible with orchids, sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Pauline Dress, matron of honor, wore an Empire floor-length gown of blue with blue and green flowers. Mrs. Sandra Triger, matron of honor, wore a blue floor-length gown with white lace daisies.

The mother of the bride wore a blue crepe floor-length sheath gown with a beaded jacket. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue and white brocade floor-length gown. Both had orchid wrist corsages. The matrons of honor carried cascades of flowers with a touch of pink and white.

Charles Schlossberg was the best man and ushers were Allan Drucker, Howard Tocman, cousin of the bridegroom, Leo Orkin, Michael Simbolist, Leonard Triger, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Harvey Korotsky.

After a wedding trip to the Nevele Country Club and Canada, the couple will reside at 34 Beechcroft Street, Brighton, Mass.

AJC Set To Support Suit Challenging School Bus Law

NEW YORK — The American Jewish Congress recently gave its legal and financial support to a suit challenging the constitutionality of Pennsylvania's recently enacted school bus law, which authorizes the transportation of pupils to "non-public schools."

The suit seeks a preliminary injunction restraining suburban Philadelphia's Rose Tree Union School District from spending funds to transport parochial and other private school pupils to and from their classrooms.

The complaint was filed in the Delaware County Court of Common Pleas by Mrs. G. Richard Worrell of Upper Providence Township. Costs of the suit are being met by the American Jewish Congress and the American Civil Liberties Union.

Mrs. Worrell initiated the action after seeking out the American Jewish Congress and the ACLU as to the soundness of a suit to test the school bus law's constitutionality.

Her action in filing suit has also won the support of the Jewish Community Relations Council of Greater Philadelphia, which announced it would enter the case at an appropriate time as a "friend of the court."

Israeli Humorist Says He's Stubborn

TEL AVIV — Ephraim Kishon, Israel's leading humorist, has eight major plays, one highly successful film, 15 books and thousands of newspaper columns to his credit at the age of 40, but considers himself "not a terribly talented person."

"I'm stubborn, that's all," said the boyish-looking Kishon.

CHAIRMAN — William Fellner, Pawtucket, has accepted the chairmanship of the Essential Gifts Committee of the 1965 Blackstone Valley United Jewish Appeal, it was announced today by Hyman Coklin, campaign Chairman. A meeting of men who will serve on this committee will be held Monday evening, September 20th, 8 P. M. at the home of Mr. Fellner, 9 Lowden Road.

GJC Campaign Dinner To Be Held In Heated Tent At Hassenfeld's

The 21st annual campaign of the General Jewish Committee of Providence to aid 53 national, overseas, and local beneficiary agencies will be officially launched at a dinner at the home of Merrill L. Hassenfeld, GJC president, next Tuesday evening.

Max Alperin, Initial Gifts chairman, said that since the fund-raising dinner is being held at a private home it is important that early reservations be made. The dinner will be held in a large heated tent on the grounds of the Hassenfeld home.

Mr. Alperin declared that the GJC is fortunate in having a man of the caliber and ability of Rabbi Herbert A. Friedman to open the 1965 campaign. Rabbi Friedman, executive vice chairman of the United Jewish Appeal and a dynamic speaker, has just returned from Israel, said Mr. Alperin, and has a message of vital importance for the Providence Jewish Community.

The UJA is the major beneficiary of the GJC campaign. It has set a national goal of $109,400,000 for 1965 and Stanley Grossman, general campaign chairman, urges everyone to contribute generously so that "we can help the UJA to meet its needs."

The UJA's urgent needs arise from the continued heavy influx of destitute immigrants into Israel for the fifth consecutive year, the huge back-log of unmet needs of 352,000 past and present arrivals in Israel, and the critical needs of 389,650 distressed Jews in Europe, Moslem lands and elsewhere.

The most important task faced by the UJA in Israel is the absorption of thousands of immigrants into the normal existence of that country. Before this can be accomplished, he added, the UJA must provide housing, employment, educational and vocational training for these immigrants and also provide proper medical care for both the young and the old.

In the local area, beneficiary agencies depend in part or entirely on allocations from the GJC annual campaign. Mr. Grossman said the cost of operating these agencies continues to rise and must be met if these agencies are to maintain their high standards.

RECEIVES PLAQUE — Manny Young, C. R., associate of the Swartz Agency, received a gold plaque at the recent United Life of New England Insurance Company Convention at Lake Tarleton, Pike, N.H. Mr. Young, who produced the largest volume of health and accident insurance in the United States, received the office of vice-president, Health Insurance Division.

ATTENDS MEETING
Robert Fain, local representative of The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, attended a business and educational conference of the company's leading young agents in New York City recently.

Mr. Fain qualified for the annual meeting by ranking among the top ten percent of Mutual Benefit's new agents in sales and service to policyholders. He is associated with the Harold E. Levine Agency of Providence.

ALAN ROY HOCHMAN

Eshkol Foresees 300,000 More Immigrants By '70

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Levi Eshkol told a crowd of 13,000 border settlers near Israel's Lebanese border last week that 300,000 new immigrants are expected by 1970, and many of them will be settled in 42 new villages planned in the area.

Programs in behalf of immigrants in Israel are carried on by the Jewish Agency, a beneficiary of the United Jewish Appeal.

Eshkol spoke at the close of ceremonies, climaxed by the laying of cornerstones for four new villages intended to close gaps in Jewish settlement along the border of Lebanon, in an amphitheater in B'ranit, a recently-established village.

Knesset Speaker Kaddish Luz, Agriculture Minister Haim Givati, Labor Minister Yigal Allon and Social Welfare Minister Josef Burg also spoke.

The Jewish National Fund has cleared about 60,000 dunam for cultivation in the area. But the livelihood of some settlers will be derived from poultry, sheep breeding and the raising of minks and other furred animals. The four new villages are named Hazon, Shtetla, Netua and Zeratt.

Syrian Christians Fight Vatican Draft On Jews

DAMASCUS, SYRIA — Christian communities in the Syrian town of Aleppo organized a procession last week to protest the Ecumenical Council's document concerning the Jews' part in the crucifixion of Jesus.

The document, already provisionally approved and to be debated in the Council session, which began Tuesday, says the Jewish people bear no special guilt in the crucifixion.

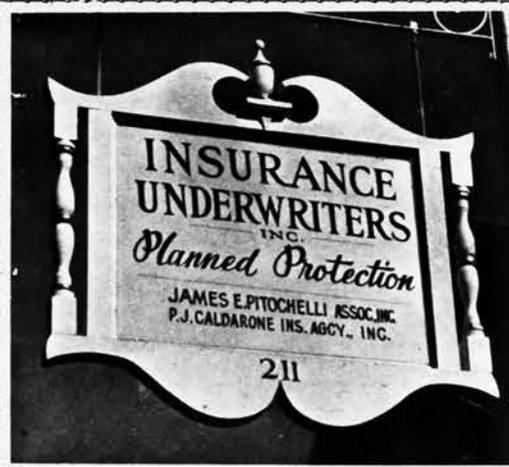

The procession toured the main streets of Aleppo.

Consumers Price Index Shows Sharper Rise

JERUSALEM — A sharper rise in the Consumers Price Index together with a sudden increase in the means of payment, characterized the first half of 1965. Output and exports continued to grow, however, and foreign currency reserves rose by $71.2m. in January-May, according to the Bank of Israel.

Stabilization continued in the building industry, whose boom had broken at the end of 1963. During the first quarter of this year, 13,000 new apartments were started.

Output of citrus went up by 15 per cent and exports by 20 per cent. Excluding citrus, farm output rose by nearly 10 per cent.

Bloodmobile Gift To Israel Hailed As Humanitarian

NEW YORK — The action of a member of B'nai B'rith in presenting an urgently needed bloodmobile to Magen David Adom, the Red Cross Service of Israel, has drawn warm praise from the Israel agency as well as from the head of American Red Mogen David for Israel, Congressman Emanuel Celler.

Mr. Coppel Blechman, of Brooklyn, New York, is a member of the Brighton B'nai B'rith Lodge. Early this year he noted an urgent appeal from Magen David Adom for six Bloodmobiles, big, mobile blood taking and storing laboratories, to service outlying parts of the country. The first of these vehicles was presented in honor of Vice-President and M-rs. Hubert Humphrey by the Women's Division of American Red Mogen David, which is the supply and support wing of the Israel national Red Cross.

Mr. Blechman secured all available data concerning the bloodmobiles. He found that they were urgently needed to reinforce the work of the Marcus Memorial Blood Fractionation Plant in Jaffa, Israel, as that country's central blood bank. The bloodmobiles can go into the kibbutzim and smaller towns to collect blood and can then store the blood until it reaches the Fractionation Plant for processing and freezing. At the same time, these vehicles are of great importance in being able to speed supplies of blood to any part of the country when the need arises.

Recent hostile acts against Israel, coupled with threats of further violence, prompted Magen David Adom to cable Congressman Emanuel Celler with an urgent plea for six of the big $12,000 bloodmobiles which are specifically made to order.

Say LBJ Grooming Goldberg As Future U.S. President

LONDON — President Johnson was reported Sunday by the Washington correspondent of the Daily Telegraph as considering the possibility of helping to put Arthur J. Goldberg into position to become the first Jewish President of the United States.

that Johnson would like to break "the hoary tradition" that no Jew can hope to reach the Presidency. The correspondent reported that Goldberg is being considered by the President as a suitable replacement, as an interim stepping stone to the Presidency bid, for Dean Rusk as Secretary of State.

The dispatch stated that Johnson appears to be grooming Goldberg to be a possible Vice-Presidential candidate in 1972, possibly as a running mate for Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey. Under U.S. law, Johnson will have completed by 1972 the maximum two terms permitted to any President.

The correspondent noted that Goldberg, former associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, and now chief U.S. delegate to the U.N., is "a vigorous 57" and that, all things being equal, he has enough career time ahead of him to be fit for the Presidential stakes in the next decade.

NEW DISPLAY AT WORLD'S FAIR — The "Lion of Israel," a new medal honoring the Jewish faith, is on display in the American-Israel Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. The display includes the original model of the medal designed by New England sculptress Elizabeth Weistrop.

The medal symbolically and realistically depicts the basic sources of Judaism. The obverse shows the symbolic Lion of Israel guarding the nine branch Menorah and traditional Star of David; while the reverse is a lifelike representation of Moses presenting the 10 Commandments to the Israelites after descending from Mount Sinai.

The new medal will go on display later this month throughout the country, and will be made available to the public through United States Medals of Whitefield, N. H.

Representative Farbstein Asks House To Stand Opposed To Water Thievery

WASHINGTON — A member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee has called on the United States to note the escalation of friction caused by Arab attempts to divert Jordan River headwaters, and to declare "firm opposition to the Arab policy of water thievery."

Rep. Leonard Farbstein (D. N.Y.) told the House that "the silence of this government in the face of the diversion of Jordan River water by the Arab states merely encourages Nasser and his minions to further flaunt every rule of international cooperation and good will."

Noting that the United States suffers a water problem of its own, he said the Arabs could not be permitted "to deliberately deprive Israel of the precious water which is rightfully hers. It is indeed time for the United States to speak out in protest."

In a related development, a proposal that the Secretary of State be required to answer members' questions on the floors of the Senate and House of Representatives, pertaining to problems in the Near East and elsewhere, was advanced by Rep. Ogden R. Reid (R., N.Y.) who has served as U.S. Ambassador to Israel.

He testified before the Joint Committee on the Organization of Congress, that issues like the Arab diversion of the headwaters of the Jordan River could be anticipated, and clear policies enunciated to avoid conflict if the Secretary of State could be questioned directly by members of Congress.

Lonesome Rabbis Need Acceptance

PORTLAND, Me. — Rabbi Harry Sky, asking if it was a "plague to be a rabbi," asserted that he and his wife "are constantly faced with the problem of why must we live in isolation. Why aren't homes open to us and to our children? If we are willing to give up our lives for the sake of our people and be on call 24 hours a day, couldn't we expect at least a semblance of acceptability?" he asked.

Eshkol Criticizes Attacks

TEL AVIV — Premier Levi Eshkol has denounced the recent attacks by Jewish youths on Arab residents of Ramle, in which 12 Arabs were injured, calling them "disgraceful acts" and "hooliganism."

His criticism was voiced during a meeting with Police Minister Behor Shitreet, with whom he discussed a police report on the Ramle riots. The Premier told Shitreet that "all possible means must be used to prevent a repetition of such acts," which he called "contrary to the spirit and honor of the people of Israel." He asserted, "We must not allow hooliganism to stain our national effort." As a result of the attacks, 19 Jewish youths were arrested.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

Started With One Ship - Now Owns 67

JERUSALEM — Two decades ago, three years before regained statehood, a number of resolute dreamers laid the maritime foundations for Jewish independence. Paralleling Israel's progress, that modest enterprise, which in 1945 flew its blue-white flag on one single vessel, now has 67 ocean-going ships plying all the seven seas. On June 7, it was 20 years since the foundation of Zim, Israel Navigation Co., on the initiative of the late David Remez, Israel's first Minister of Transport. Three groups participated in the foundation of the company: the Jewish Agency, the Histadrut (the General Federation of Labor) and the Israel Maritime League. In 1959 the Government of Israel joined the enterprise, and today there are three main partners: the State of Israel, the Jewish Agency and the Histadrut. The company started with only one passenger ship of 3,500 tons, operating in the Mediterranean; today, it owns a fleet of 67 vessels, totalling 725,000 tons. At first the main task was to carry immigrants. Cargo ships were introduced in 1949, first carrying citrus exports and later exporting and importing all kinds of goods. In 1951 three ships were purchased: the S.S. Gefen, S.S. Etrog and S.S. Hadar, all built in Dutch shipyards. Their names were derived from the fact that they were used for citrus exports. Later, as the company expanded, two more ships were purchased, the Rimon and the Tamar, the first to be built according to plans drawn up by Zim itself. Zim's fleet of 67 vessels includes luxury and popular passenger ships, mixed passenger-and-cargo ships, large bulk carriers, speedy ventilated ships for carrying citrus, special log carriers, refrigerated ships, fuel and gas tankers, etc. Eighty-three per cent of them were built in the last seven years; during the past 18 months alone the company took delivery of 19 ships with a total deadweight of 260,000 tons. In addition to being shipowners, the company also participates in 69 enterprises and has founded various subsidiaries directly or indirectly connected with shipping. It has 38 branches and about 200 agents all over the world and is a member of 48 international cargo and passenger conferences.

The flag and the name of Israel are carried by the company's ships to the far corners of the earth, from Iceland in the north to Australia in the south; from the ports of southeast Asia and the Far East; from West and East Africa to the western and eastern coasts of the United States, Canada, the Great Lakes and South America.

Threats To Israel May Offer Nasser Face-Saving Way To Withdraw Troops

TEL AVIV — Renewed Egyptian threats of military action against Israel may provide the cover under which Nasser will find it possible to withdraw his troops from Yemen without losing face in the Arab world. Cairo's increasing militancy, in contrast with the almost reasonable philosophic line taken by the Egyptian President earlier in the year, in which he ruled out military action against Israel for some time to come, is undoubtedly the smokescreen which is intended to cover the Egyptian defeat in the Yemen. The open question now is whether Nasser can take the risk of calling back the 60,000 disgruntled and disheartened Egyptian troops in the Yemen without holding out the prospect of another, and more attractive, battle. Egyptian garrisons in eastern and northern Yemen have been almost entirely isolated by successful royalist action and forced to withdraw and consolidate at a few strong points. The Jewish Observer and Middie East Report said Nasser's policy switch is attributed to the growing American influence in Cairo, largely based on the powerful presence of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. This is intended to impress and convince the Israelis no less than the Arabs that they have no need for a special deterrent of their own. The presence of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean, rather than economic aid, has become the cornerstone of American Middle East policy. The Americans are now engaged in persuading and reassuring all countries in the region that the Sixth Fleet is a sufficient deterrent to aggression, or threat of war. The fear of an atomic race in the dispute between Arab states and Israel is one of the reasons the United States proposed in Geneva a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons beyond the present five nuclear powers. Orders were given by the Israeli Cabinet for a speed-up in the building of protective shelters in exposed areas.

PRIVATE MESSAGE TO WIVES ON KEEPING HUSBANDS ALIVE

The best way for a normal wife to have financial security in her retirement years—even if she doesn't like the fellow very well—is to pet her husband and keep him breathing. Retirement money, in our times, is set up for the breadwinner in the family, which usually is the husband, and when he goes, most of the grocery money goes with him. All of which could make a pretty good argument that present retirement thinking seems to suppose that a wife should go out and drown herself when her husband dies. But that gets into deep water. The purpose of today's column is to point up the case of a wife who has come face to face with the problem. "My husband retires at the end of this year," she says. "He will have pension and Social Security of $410 a month, and since we own our home he intends that we start living it up with travel and fun. Which I think we can do to some extent. "But let him die . . . and do you know how much income I'll have per month? Exactly $71, which will be my share of his Social Security. His pension will die with him. So will his own Social Security. And I will suddenly be demoted from a well-to-do retired wife to a poverty-class widow . . . " This is a fairly typical set of facts. Most husbands still do not provide that their pensions be split so their widows also can get a pension for life. And they can't do anything about Social Security. "But this is not the whole story," the wife continues. "My husband gets hospitalization insurance for us as one of his retirement benefits. He dies and it dies. My husband does most of the upkeep on our house. He dies and I start paying somebody $27 to fix a gutter. And there's one other thing—my husband has a well of good-will where his job has been and could go back for a helping hand in time of crisis. As his widow I just wouldn't matter . . . " This wife, while spelling things out about as they are, does not face quite the crisis she thinks she does. Their home, worth probably $16,000, is a two-story affair with three large bedrooms. Their savings, drawing 4 1/4 per cent in a savings & loan association, total $11,000. The husband has a life insurance policy of $10,000 that will be paid up this year. This wife, and others who might now take a new look at this problem, could give some of their more serious thinking to avoiding the whole thing by keeping their husbands alive. Certain positive steps toward this end might be considered: — Make your husband go to a doctor for a thorough physical examination around the time he retires. — Write down what the doctor recommends, come home and be very disagreeable until your husband does all the doctor said. — Stop nagging the fellow. Except in matters of his health.

Many U.S. Jewish Officers To Attend Eternal Light Vigil

NEW YORK — Thousands of Jewish lay and rabbinic leaders from more than one hundred communities throughout the country will converge on Washington, D.C. on Sunday afternoon, September 19th at Lafayette Park to launch a week-long National Eternal Light Vigil for Soviet Jewry.

The program is sponsored by the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry, a cooperative body of twenty-four national Jewish religious, civic and Zionist organizations representing the major portion of this nation's over five million Jews.

The American Jewish Conference was founded in April of 1964 at an emergency convocation at the Willard Hotel in Washington D.C. At that time the Jewish groups planned coordinated action to alleviate the religious and cultural persecution imposed upon three million Jews in the Soviet Union.

Jewish leaders said that the Washington Vigil was the first public action demonstration ever held in the nation's capital under the auspices of all of the Jewish bodies.

The Vigil program will launch a more direct involvement of national Catholic, Protestant, Labor, Business and other groups in dealing with the Soviet Jewish question. Many community leaders are coming to the Vigil with Catholic or Protestant laymen or clergymen as "interfaith teams" and local mayors are appointing special delegations of citizens to demonstrate an American solidarity in support of this problem.

At a Madison Square Garden rally, May of 1965, President Johnson in a message said, "It is my hope that citizens and organizations of all faiths will join in an overwhelming expression of moral concern for the Jews of the Soviet Union. The moral judgment of millions of people throughout the world cannot be ignored by any government."

Participants in the program (starting at 1:30 P.M.) include: James Roosevelt - United States Representative on the Economic and Social Council, Father John Cronin - National Catholic Welfare Conference, Bayard Rustin, Victor Reuther, Bishop John Wesley Lord (Methodist), Theodore Bikel, Chaim Grade - Yiddish writer, Michael Harrington and Rabbi Seymour Cohen (Chicago) - Chairman, Steering Committee of the American Jewish Conference.

ISRAELIS INVEST

TEL AVIV — A firm in which a company owned by Israel's federation of labor has a 40 per cent interest won an $8,000,000 contract to build a new Soviet Embassy at Lagos, capitol of Nigeria. The contract went to the East Nigerian Furniture and Construction Company. Sole Boneh's Overseas and Harbor Company holds 40 percent of the stock in the East Nigerian firm. It is owned by Histadrut, Israel's federation of labor.

Israel has some 700 local government authorities including 28 municipalities (two of them Arab) and more than 650 villages, providing public services for local communities throughout the country.

Population Now 13 Million

JERUSALEM — The number of Jews in the world at the end of 1964 was 13,121,000, according to figures released here by Israel's Central Bureau of Statistics.

Of the total Jewish population, 16 per cent, or 2,239,000, live in Israel, which had a total population of 2,525,600 at the end of last year, the figures showed. The Bureau of Statistics report also showed that one-third of the Jewish population of Israel was under 14 years of age.

CASABLANCA — A new anti-Semitic newspaper, published by the director of a newspaper banned by the Government, appeared recently in Morocco. The first issue of the new publication, "Atiaf," contained articles charging Moroccan Jews in responsible posts with showing favoritism toward co-religionists. A prominent article centered on a Jewish doctor on the staff of a hospital in a small town, Alcazarquivir, in northern Morocco. The article alleged that the doctor attended only to Jewish patients and allowed Moslems "to die of their illnesses."

In Hollywood . . .

By Barney Glazer

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—Daily Variety columnist Army Archerd, one of our faith's most respected journalists and television personalities, reported interesting data from Rome about the Mirisch Corporation's "Cast a Giant Shadow," story of the American Jewish hero David Marcus. The project, wrote Army, moved out of Israel earlier than planned to continue shooting in Rome. Producer Mel Shavelson blamed the untimely move in part on lack of housing for the enormous cast and crew who somehow managed to complete their assignments in the face of tremendous odds.

Unable to rent quarters, Shavelson purchased homes but had to resell them to desperately homeless natives. Also acting as annoying stumbling blocks, newly arrived immigrants, the only unemployed available as extras, pushed, shoved and fought like wildcats trying to get near their favorite actors. Because they came from many lands and spoke various tongues, members of this motley group couldn't understand directions by studio officials or orders by the local police. As a result, pandemonium reigned.

In Rome, where apparently Gimbel doesn't know what Macy is doing, Shavelson exactingly carbon-copied Macy's toy department at Christmas time with Joel Douglas, Kirk's 18-year-old, playing one of the Santas. He's a big one, said Archerd. Older brother Mike, 21, who looks like dad, toils as an assistant director. During school days, he studies drama at U. of California at Santa Barbara. Eric, 6, and Peter, 10, work as extras in the Macy scene where they have found their paradise of toys.

The Macy scene involves Kirk Douglas' decision early in the film, as David Marcus, to leave for Israel and dedicate his life to the establishment and growth of the young democracy.

Shavelson credits John Wayne, who appears briefly in the film, for helping this biographical film reach the screen while others turned their backs. Shavelson told Archerd that Wayne, one of Israel's most dedicated admirers, has consistently pointed out to anyone within earshot that the young nation is one of the few always pro-U.S. and pro-West.

WE'LL SORELY miss Everett Sloane, one of our favorite actors who left us too soon and so tragically. Paradoxically, this gifted Jewish star, devoted so completely to the struggle against intolerance, played the role of Hitler more than 100 times. Lillian Sloane hopes that those who feel they gained a little something from each of her late husband's performances will make a donation in his name to the Anti-Defamation League. Actor Lee Marvin read the eulogy written by Allan Sherman, which honored in part, "He had a scorn for sham and a towering indignation against evil and pomposity."

SHIP AHOY, landlubbers, for Capt. Stanley Kramer's "Ship of Fools," one of the year's most dramatic motion pictures afloat, which should go a long way towards jettisoning the "anti" from anti-Semitism when it leaves its dock for Columbia release. Kramer's navigation, Abby Mann's log, Ernest Gold's musical calms and storms and a powerful cast's personal flotsam and jetsam contribute to a gripping and engrossing film that should load its holds with a rewarding cargo of Oscars at Academy Awards time. A red carpet welcome in Heaven also awaits all concerned on the day of their final reckoning.

WHEN SOPHIE Tucker, George Jessel and Ted Lewis opened August 17 for one week at the San Fernando (Calif.) Valley Music Theater, the celebrated triumvirate shifted the memories of senior citizens into reverse for a quick return to vaudeville's two-a-day when each of the glittering names headlined hundreds of exciting bills for international acclaim. The glitter may be somewhat tarnished but the artistry shines as brightly as ever.

RAPS EDITOR MONTEVIDEO—Sharp criticism was leveled here by the Jewish Community of Uruguay against Aaron Vargelis, visiting editor of Sovietskoye Heimland, lone Yiddish magazine in the Soviet Union, for making what it called pro-Soviet propaganda on the issue of treatment of Soviet Jews.

APPOINTMENT MADE — NEW YORK — Joseph W. Christian has been appointed Vice Chairman of the Plan for Progress Committee of Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc. The purpose of the group is to insure implementation of the equal employment opportunity policy of the firm.

HHH HAILS HISTADRUT — MINNEAPOLIS — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey hailed both Israel and the United States in an address here, for their concern "with the conservation and development of human resources." Addressing the annual dinner of the Minnesota Trade Council for Histadrut, Mr. Humphrey said that such concern by the two nations with human resources was their greatness "and it is the excitement of wanting a better day for everyone that has made Histadrut so great."

ENVOY MEETS SCHROEDER — BONN — Asher Ben-Nathan, Israel's Ambassador to West Germany, had his first meeting with Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and will probably meet with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Wolfe - Miller

The wedding of Miss Susan Arlene Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Charles Miller, 211 Melrose Street, to Alvin Bruce Wolfe, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Irving Wolfe, took place September 12, at the Cranston Jewish Center.

Officiating at the 6 P.M. ceremony were Rabbi Saul Leeman and Cantor Jack Smith. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's gown was an A-line ivory peau de sole with bateau neckline and elbow length sleeves and was appliqued at the bodice and hemline with Alencon lace and seed pearl clusters. The detachable train was also accented with lace and seed pearl appliques. An open crown of pearls held her bouffant veil of ivory silk illusion and she carried a prayer book with cascading white sweetheart roses, swansonia and white miniature carnations.

The maid of honor was Miss Judith Beranbaum, cousin of the bride, and bridesmaids were Miss Jill Holtzman, Miss Marcy Weingart, Miss Diane Levy and Miss Helene Ponce.

Herbert Wolfe, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Stephen Beranbaum, cousin of the bride, Howard Katz, Gerald Schulman, Barry Militsky, Lawrence Freedman, Gerald Freedman, Donald Weingart and Samuel Perlman.

After a wedding trip to the Nevele Country Club, the couple will reside at Summer Street in Malden, Mass.

West Germany Agrees To Compensate Histadrut

TEL AVIV — The West German government has agreed to compensate the Histadrut, General Federation of Labor in Israel, for the assets of the Hechalutz Youth Pioneering Movement left behind in Germany and the occupied countries prior to World War II. The agreement calls for the payment of 15 million West German marks (approximately $4 million), reported Histadrut treasurer Yehoshua Levy.

Mr. Levy announced that the money would be used exclusively for the building of vocational schools, clubhouses and other educational institutions. He specified that the Histadrut had already allotted IL 4.5m. for the establishment of vocational schools in 5 immigrant development towns: Hatzor, Bet She'an, Ramle, Beer-sheba and Tiberias. The government of Israel is matching the Histadrut's allotment pound for pound.

CULTURAL CENTER

TEL AVIV — A new Histadrut Cultural Center was recently opened in Ramat Aviv, a growing residential quarter on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. Histadrut now sponsors 250 cultural centers throughout Israel.

PARATROOPERS COMPETENT
TEL AVIV — Israel demonstrated the competence of its paratroopers over Lake Tiberias by carrying out an exercise in which they jumped from planes at a height of 6,500 feet, fell freely for 30 seconds down to an altitude of 2,000 feet, then opened their chutes and floated gracefully down to the middle of the lake. The exercise was part of Israel's observance of Paratrooper Week.

Herald Recipes

GEFILTE FISH
(STUFFED FISH)

3 pounds whitefish and pike
3 medium size onions
1 large carrot
2 teaspoons salt
2 eggs
2 tablespoons sugar
dash of pepper
1 cup matzo meal (optional)
(approximately)
Have fish filleted and ground with 2 onions. Reserve bones, skin and heads. While preparing fish, put the bones, skin and heads in a deep kettle with 1 onion, 1 carrot, 1 teaspoon salt, and water to cover. To the ground fish, add eggs, a scant teaspoon salt, sugar, water, a dash of pepper, and enough of the matzo meal to hold the mixture together. Mix ingredients well. Form into oval cakes. If desired, filling may be put back into skin of fish. Place carefully on top of the cooking bones. Add more water, if needed, just to cover the fish. Cover kettle. Bring to a quick boil. Uncover and simmer for one hour, being careful not to let the fish burn. Allow fish to cool before removing from the liquid. Serve warm or chilled with carrot slices as a garnish and horseradish. The liquid will jell if chilled and may also be served as a garnish with the fish. Serves 6.

GEDEMPFTE LUNGEN (LUNG STEW)

1 beef lung
1 1/2 pounds lean beef, cubed
1/2 cup diced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
3 tablespoons fat
2 cups canned tomatoes
4 teaspoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
vegetables, as desired
1 tablespoon flour
Trim veins from beef lung. Cut lung into small cubes. Brown onion and garlic in fat. Add beef and lung. Brown on all sides. Add remaining ingredients and simmer until tender (about 2 hours) if vegetables are desired, add after the first fifteen minutes of cooking. Just before serving, mix flour with cold water to a smooth paste. Blend with 1/2 cup of the gravy. Add to stew. Cook five minutes longer and serve. Serves 6.

Variation #1: 1 calf's lung with attached windpipe and 1/2 of a calf's spleen (miltz) may be used instead of the meats above. Have the butcher chop windpipe into pieces. To prepare miltz for cooking, run cold water over it and remove outer membrane. Cut into small pieces or prick all over to allow juices to escape.

TARNIGOLET VE OREZ
(Chicken and Rice)

1 three-pound chicken, cut in serving pieces
3/4 cup uncooked rice
4 onion, chopped
1 recipe parve white sauce salt, pepper paprika
garlic
Combine onions with rice. Season with salt, pepper, and chopped garlic. Place half the cut-up chicken in a shallow greased pan. Cover with a layer of onion-rice mixture. Top with remaining half of chicken and then remaining rice mixture. Add water to cover. Cover pan and simmer over low heat until chicken is soft, about two hours. Make a white sauce. Pour over cooked chicken and rice. Sprinkle with paprika. Serve directly from the pan. Serves 4.

QWENDAW CORN BREAD

1 cup hominy
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1/2 cup corn meal
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cook hominy in boiling water. While it is hot, stir in 2 tablespoons butter. Beat eggs until light and add to hominy. Add remaining ingredients. This makes a very thin batter. Pour into a deep buttered pan and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Law Amendments Rejects New Libel

JERUSALEM — Motions to amend Israel's widely-criticized new libel law were defeated at a special session of Parliament last week by a vote of 51 to 54. The vote was on party lines with all coalition party members voting to support Premier Levi Eshkol's objection to action on the matter at the present time, and most of the opposition parties voting for amendment now. Members of former Premier David Ben Gurion's new National Workers List (Raft), and two members of Agudat Israel abstained.
