Death Of Four At Terrorists' Hands Shocks U.S., Elicits Condemnation

TEL AVIV: Two terrorists killed four persons and wounded 24, 14 of them seriously, at Istanbul's Yasilkov Airport Aug. 11 minutes before they were to board a Tel Aviv-bound El Al plane. Eighty-two passengers were already on the plane when the killers opened their machine-gun and hard grenade attack on the remaining passengers in the departure lounge. The seriously injured passengers were taken to hospitals in Istanbul. The other less seriously injured were flown back to Tel Aviv. Among the injured, were two Turkish policemen and an Israeli security officer. Many of the injured were hit by splinters from the grenades and shattered window panes.

Fourth Not Identified

The four who died included Senator Javit's aide, Harold W. Rosenthal, 29 years old, of Philadelphia, a Japanese tourist guide, Yutaka Hirano, and an Israeli identified as Sano Sholomo.

The badly mutilated body of the fourth person has not been identified. The police said he might have been a member of the guerrilla group.

The police gave the names of the two captured guerrillas as Mehti Mohammed Zilh, 22, and Hussein Mohammed al-Rashid, 23, but they said these could be aliases. They traveled from Libya to Istanbul via Rome on Kuwaiti passports.

To Kill Or Capture

The killers admitted they were members of the Popular Liberation Front for the Liberation of Palestine led by George Habash and that they were in the pay of Libya. The two were traveling with false Kuwaiti passports. The story of the attack was pieced together by passengers who returned to Ben Gurion Airport, the captain of the El Al plane, Yaakov Roman, the Israeli Vice-Consul in Istanbul, Ephraim Mazar, who was at the airport when the attack occurred, the governor of Istanbul and a representative of the Turkish Ministry of Justice who were at the airport and conducted an investigation of the tragedy. From some of the accounts it appeared that the terrorists were not trying to hijack the plane but to kill or capture as hostages as many of the passengers as possible in retaliation for the Israeli rescue of more than 100 hostages held by terrorists at Entebbe Airport in Uganda.

One passenger told reporters at Ben Gurion Airport the attack occurred as the passengers were emerging from the terminal building towards the bus that was to drive him to the plane. The terrorists opened fire, aiming directly at the passengers, she said. The killers appeared to be coming from the terminal building. The passengers scattered, screaming. Another passenger said he heard a loud explosion following by machine-gun fire and people falling all around him, crying in agony and bleeding. The explosion was apparently that of a hand grenade. Two other passengers, Abraham Papou and his wife, Rachel, said the gunmen tossed grenades and opened fire when the Turkish police thwarted their attempt to seize hostages. Paul Barker of England, another passenger, reported that the entire incident took about 20 minutes. He said he was in the group that was about to board the plane when he heard two loud blasts. "We were ordered out of the bus and told to lie flat on the ground. We heard a lot of automatic fire. But the El Al security agents and the Turkish police seemed to have gained quick control of things."

Captain Credited

Another aspect of the attack was pieced together from various accounts, namely, how the 82

passengers aboard the plane were saved. Credit was given to the quick thinking of the captain who decided to take off as soon as possible after the attack began. He ordered the doors of the plane closed as soon as the last of the earlier groups of passengers, who had been bused to the plane were aboard. Those left behind were the injured, the dead and several others who were waiting to board the bus taking them to the plane. At a midnight press conference, about an hour after the El Al plane landed at Ben Gurion Airport, Gad Yaacobi, Minister of Transportation, and Mordechai Ben Ari, General Director of El Al, said they supported the captain's decision.

Yaacobi said the attack was the continuation by terrorists of their war against Israel. He added that the attack was further proof that Israel's national airline must be constantly on the alert for terrorists. He said that since the hijacking of the Air France plane, Israel has taken extra special security measures to thwart terrorists attacks. The Transport Minister added that in spite of the Air France hijacking the world has still not grasped the awesome meaning of air piracy and terrorism. Premier Yitzhak Rabin, who received the news of the latest tragedy as he was addressing a delegation of Israel bond leaders from the U.S. and Canada, said he doubted that the world was fully aware of the consequences of continuing air terrorism.

Conflicting Reports

There were conflicting reports, official and unofficial, as to how the terrorists gained access to the terminal building. One report was that they arrived earlier in the day aboard a Pakistani plane from Libya. Another was that they arrived from Pakistan on an Italian airliner. A third report, deemed most authentic, was that they arrived in the morning in Rome from Benghazi then took an Alitalia plane to Istanbul where they remained intransit, thus having access to the departing passengers' lounge. Meanwhile, Yaacobi announced Aug. 12 that Israel would seek to extradite the two captured terrorists if the law allowed. He said he had already discussed this with foreign ministry officials.

Notable Reputation

Harold Wallace Rosenthal, an administrative assistant on foreign affairs to Senator Javits, had achieved a notable reputation as an aide to law makers.

He was going to Jerusalem to represent Senator Javits at a two-week conference on the Middle East and Israel at the Van Leer Institute when he was killed in the terrorist attack in Turkey.

Describing Mr. Rosenthal's death as "a stunning, awful and senseless tragedy," Senator Javits said he would urge the Republican Party to adopt a "strong plank against terrorism."

Mr. Rosenthal joined Senator Javits' staff eight months ago after having been a staff assistant on the international economic program of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

'Out Of The Scrap Heap To A Place In The Sun'

By BARBARA WRONSKI

When Route 95 paved its way through the heart of Congregation Sons of Zion, oldest Orthodox synagogue in Providence, formerly on Orms Street, the two Mogen Davids over the entrance ways fell by the wayside — or so it seemed. At least one of these was recovered by an Italian man working on the site. Not knowing what to do with it, he turned it over to Pete Katzman of Katzman Plumbing who, in turn, gave it to Joseph Block, religious chairman of Congregation Beth David of Narragansett. Ironically, Beth David is the youngest Orthodox synagogue in the state, started in 1962. The star was refinished and mounted above the doorway of the shul.

"From the scrap heap of the oldest Congregation, it has found its rightful place in the sun of the youngest Congregation," said Mr. Block at dedication ceremonies for the Mogen David this past Sunday, August 15, at Congregation Beth David.

The symbolic protector of David was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Block in memory of their brother-in-law, Benjamin Berkowitz. Mr. Block has been religious chairman of Beth David for the past ten years.

Leo Kofman, one of the original promoters of opening a shul in Narragansett, came in from New York especially for the dedication ceremony. The Mogen David was dedicated in the memory of David Frank, who died in 1960, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Frank. While the shul was under construction, congregants met at the couple's home.

Congregation Beth David is located on Kingstown Road in Narragansett, and is open every summer, daily, from the last week in June until Labor Day. Services are conducted by visiting rabbis from around the state. Following service every Saturday and Sunday morning, Beth David's Sisterhood prepares a delightful breakfast, fit for kings.

ORT STUDENT INVENTION

NEW YORK: Aviram Barel, a student in the automation department of the Women's American ORT school in Givatayim, Israel, has invented a special lift which puts a wheel chair into a vehicle. The apparatus was designed to fit a commercial van and the handicapped person is taken into the van from the sidewalk rather than through the rear doors.

Portugal May Establish Relations With Israel

TEL AVIV (JTA): The establishment of diplomatic relations between Israel and Portugal may be expected soon as a result of contacts during the last two months between representatives of both countries. A hint of this possibility was made Aug. 2 by Premier Mario Soares of Portugal in a speech to the Parliament in Lisbon. He said his government would embark on an effort to normalize relations between Portugal and Israel and with the People's Republic of China. Circles in Jerusalem said that Socialist leaders in Western Europe recommended to Soares, who heads the Portuguese Socialist movement, that his government establish diplomatic relations with Israel. Reports reaching Israel from Portuguese Socialist sources say that Communist and other leftist circles in the previous coalition governments in Portugal opposed the establishment of diplomatic relations with Israel. The exclusion of Communists from the Soares Cabinet now open the way for diplomatic relations. Meanwhile, rumors are rife in Jerusalem that Yaakov Yashur of Mapam is being considered as Israel's first ambassador to Lisbon if and when relations are established.

Barbed-Wire Fences A Cause For Tension

BEIT JALA(WEST BANK): Though barely visible, the sudden appearance, recently, of triple-strand barbed-wire fencing on the Beit Jala hilltop has provoked anger and protest in this Arab Christian West Bank municipality of 7,000 people between Bethlehem and Jerusalem.

Erected last week by Israeli soldiers, the fence symbolizes one of the touchiest of the complex, sensitive issues between the Israelis and the Arabs who came under Israel's jurisdiction as a result of the 1967 war —The use of land which had been fought over and revered for centuries.

'Every Millimeter'

"You do not understand," an Israeli — who summed up the feelings of other Israelis and Arabs as well — told a newcomer. "Every millimeter of land here has economic, political and heritage value." Israeli officials, citing the fact that the 100-acre site was once used by the Jordanian army for military purposes, say that the fence was constructed overnight to cordon off the hilltop for strategic reasons.

"We did the fence because some of the people there had intentions to build," an Israeli military official said. "They thought because we didn't use it for a long time they could use the land. But the position of Mount Gilo, as we call it, is strategic."

"We made it clear with the fence that we are still in possession of the same rights as the Jordanian army," the official said.

Arab residents of the village, citing, among other things, reports in the Israeli press, say that the real purpose of the military expropriation of the land is to erect another West Bank Jewish settlement on land they have traditionally held. The creation of such settlements — 25 of them have been built so far by the Israelis on occupied West Bank land — is opposed by the Arabs and has been criticized by some Israelis who regard their construction as a deterrent to possible future peace negotiations with the Arabs. The settlements have been deplored by United States officials in the past as an "obstacle to peace."

One Israeli official said that there were plans to use the encircled site to build a youth hostel and to erect an extension of a nearby environmental institute. When residents of Beit Jala discovered the existence of the fence the other morning, they protested at the mayor's office, situated in a modest building on a square where donkeys amble along impassively as cars, horns beeping, whiz past them.

Mayor Bishara Daoud helped the protesters draft a complaint to the United Nations and request a meeting with Shimon Peres, Israel's Defense Minister. Over thimble-sized drams of sweet thick coffee, Mr. Daoud said that there were other issues involved regarding the fence besides the prevailing one of politics. Staring at a huge map, drafted by an Israeli planner, which he rejected in favor of a worn scale map dating from the 1930's, Mr. Daoud said: "Beit Jala will become a suburb of Jerusalem."

Moynihan Urges Action To Combat Hijackings

NEW YORK (JTA): Daniel P. Moynihan, the former United States Ambassador to the United Nations, has called for international action against terrorist airline hijackings without waiting for an international treaty.

Speaking at the Young Israel of Staten Island, Moynihan, who is a contender for the Democratic nomination as its candidate for the U.S. Senate, said that while the U.S. and Western proposal for a treaty to cooperate against

100 Bond Leaders Leave For Israel

NEW YORK (JTA): One hundred U. S. and Canadian Jewish leaders left for Israel from New York recently to participate in the 1976 Jerusalem Leadership Conference with Premier Yitzhak Rabin and other government leaders on the country's economic problems and needs.

The week-long conference will plan a program of action to increase the mobilization of economic development funds by the Israel Bond Organization in order to provide a major share of Israel's current $1 billion development budget. An International Fall Leadership Conference, to be held in Los Angeles Sept. 10-12 at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, will mark the official start of the fall drive for the sale of Israel Bonds.

terrorism is "well-intentioned," it is also "mistaken."

"The unavoidable implication is that in the absence of a treaty there would be no international obligation to cooperate to thwart hijackers," he said. "This is wrong. Moreover, the Libyas and Ugandas of the world would never sign such a treaty." Moynihan said Israel was right, under international law, in rescuing the hostages from Entebbe since it was clear that Uganda helped the terrorists.

Israel Warned To Seek Peace Or Face An Imposed Solution

By Edwin Eytan

PARIS (JTA) — Pierre Mendes-France has warned Israel that it must come up with a "credible" peace initiative before the end of this year or face an imposed solution after the American Presidential elections which could possibly amount to a "new Munich."

The former French Premier, who returned recently from a visit to Israel where he conferred with its leaders, stressed, in an interview published May 17 in Nouvelle Observateur, that no solution to the Middle East conflict can be found unless "the Palestinians have the same right as the Israelis to be independent, to have a country and to decide on what concerns them without any foreign intervention." Mendes-France, one of the three Jews who have served as the Prime Minister of France, predicted that "As soon as the Lebanese crisis is settled and the American elections are over, Israel will have to face a terrible end of term. This is why I hope with all my strength that Israel will take the initiative to avoid a new Munich. An Israeli offer is far preferable to an imposed solution even if both are similar" (in their terms), he said. According to the French statesman, "Israel must create a new situation" and "to achieve this, it must make a significant gesture" such as "telling the Palestinians that there are no obstacles to their freedom and their rights."

Mendes-France criticized both sides in the Middle East conflict — the Arabs for proclaiming their desire to destroy Israel and Israel for establishing settlements in Arab territory.

A Libel Charge Is Pressed Against Former VP Agnew

NEW YORK: Rabbi Henry Siegman, executive vice-president of the Synagogue Council of America, announced he will press a libel action against former Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew for falsely attributing to him "malicious views" with regard to Israel's treatment of Arabs in the occupied territories. Prof. Siegman said Alan Dershowitz of the Harvard University Law School will represent him in the libel action.

Siegman referred to a news letter titled "Memoranda," published by Education for Democracy, a tax-exempt educational foundation recently acquired by Agnew and being used by him to disseminate anti-Israel, pro-Arab material.

In an article titled "Mideast Time Bomb," published in the first issue of "Memoranda," Agnew claimed that Siegman "roundly criticized Israel for the treatment of Arabs living in the territories conquered in the 1967 war."

In his statement, Siegman said: "The statement attributed to me by Spiro Agnew is a total fabrication, a deliberate and malicious falsehood. The fact is that not only have I never said or written any such thing, but I have denounced those who have leveled such reckless charges against Israel ... It is the height of malice to criticize Israel for alleged mistreatment of Arabs in the occupied territories when, in fact, Israel — in the most trying of circumstances — has shown of concern for human and civil right that is unheard of in the Arab states that are Agnew's clients. Agnew's attribution of such malicious views to me is false and libelous and I am taking steps to press a libel action against him."

In a related action Breira, which describes itself as a pro-Israel organization that proposes alternative strategies for achieving Israeli security, strongly disassociated itself from the context of the article in "Memoranda" in which it was quoted: The article said that Breira "sent an open letter to Israeli leaders condemning the 'unfortunate killings' of Arabs in Galilee and deploring 'violations of civil rights and loss of life' on the West Bank."

In a statement released here, Breira declared: "We unequivocally denounce such manipulation of responsible Jewish dissent. While we have been critical of some Israeli policies, the characterization of those policies as synonymous with 'imperialism' — especially by one so close to the manipulating of global power — is no less absurd than similar Soviet and Chinese characterizations." The Breira statement added, "Agnew's anti-Israel and anti-Jewish biases disqualify him as a responsible advocate for Middle East peace."

The actions by Siegman and Breira followed a disclosure by the ADL that Agnew, "a convicted felon who has been engaging in classical anti-Semitism," has taken control of Education for Democracy for the purpose of organizing a movement to reflect his anti-Israel, pro-Arab views.

Your Money's Worth

By Sylvia Porter

Economy: Vote-Getter For Which Party?

As the Republicans convene in Kansas City, a crucial political issue which a short while ago seemed a cinch for the Democrats — the state of the economy — has shifted dramatically to the GOP's side.

In fact, if the 1976 election were to be decided today solely on the basis of the direction of the U.S. economy, the GOP would maintain control of the White House in November. For the evidence is abundant that in upward direction, the economy so far in 1976 is closer to the economic ideal than at any time since the start of the 1960s.

But what is not ideal by any means is the level of the economy, the extent of the recovery since the slump, worst since the depression 1930s, bottomed out 16 months ago.

Also far from ideal is the expansion's solidity, for in breadth as well as depth there are disturbing signs of fragility.

So, although the nightmare of galloping inflation side by side with soaring unemployment will not be the open-and-shut vote-getter for the Democrats that appeared probable early in the Ford administration, it's not a sure winner for the GOP either.

The direction is magnificent — and you may be positive that, in the months before November, the Republicans will seize every chance to boast that their policies are responsible.

• "Real" Gross National Product — total U.S. output of goods and services with the impact of price increases on the dollar totals eliminated — is running approximately 6 to 7 per cent ahead of last year to new highs in dollar terms. That annual rate of rise is healthy and sustainable, neither too feverish nor too feeble.

• Total employment is at a new peak of close to 88 million, almost 4 million higher than in '75, and unemployment has fallen moderately to about 7.4 million. The overall unemployment rate is down to 7.8 per cent from a peak around 9 per cent last summer.

• The pace of rise in the cost of living has slowed from 12 per cent in August 1974, when Ford took over, to roughly 6 per cent — a cut in half.

• Corporate profits may end up 25 to 30 per cent over 1975. Workers' paychecks are climbing, and for those with jobs, the pay hikes plus the slower rate of rise in prices mean some relief from the cost of living squeeze.

• Industrial production has been expanding steadily; retail sales are a bright spot; consumer confidence is spreading; productivity (output per workhour) is rising to help offset pay hikes and permit wage increases without necessitating price increases; the federal budget deficit is billions of dollars smaller than the White House predicted in January. The countdown on good economic news easily could be stretched out.

But the level is far from magnificent in key areas — and you may be just as sure that the Democrats will seize every opportunity to emphasize this point between now and November.

• A jobless rate of 7.8 per cent at this stage of the expansion is dangerously high. And the overall total hides the much bigger, cruel jobless rates among women, the young, blacks. These groups cannot be dismissed. They are people. They vote.

• A 6 to 7 per cent annual rate of rise in prices would double our price level in only 10 years. No expansion could long be sustained with so steep a rate of inflation.

Nor is the solidity of the expansion any cause for complacency among any of us.

• Business spending for new plants and equipment — essential to avoid inflation-creating bottlenecks as the expansion develops — is lagging.

• The basic housing industry is just starting to crawl back from a great contraction, and here too shortages are a danger.

• Consumer confidence is fragile, and expectations of inflation are particularly dangerous because the fears could be self-fulfilling and lead to the very price spiral feared.

A study of 21 presidential elections going back to 1892 by Yale economics Prof. Ray C. Fair discloses that voters respond strongly to a change in the economy's direction. And we have moved from sickening slump to strong rebound in a short span.

Thus if the election were to be decided today on the issue of the economy's direction, the Republicans would have it. But it's obviously not that simple. The fight is yet to come.

Arabs Expect Ford To Recognize PLO

WASHINGTON: President Ford's reported expression of appreciation to the Palestine Liberation Organization for co-operating in the evacuation of United States citizens from Lebanon recently has apparently been construed by pro-Arab commentators as indicating that the Americans will shortly recognize the PLO.

This view was expressed by Dana Adam Schmidt of the Christian Science Monitor as well as by columnists of the Washington Star.

Jeremiah O'Leary of the Washington Star said that "it has become a fact that of life in the Middle East arena that the Palestine Liberation Organization has gained acceptance and status with the United States that is normally accorded only to nation-states."

No official status
The PLO representatives in the United States, however, have not been accorded any official status.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

By BERYL SEGAL

At the beginning of the present century, before the Jewish community was federated, every institution and organization was on its own. Each planned its own activities regardless of the others. Each conducted its own campaigns and distributed the collected monies according to its own needs. There was rivalry and contention in the community.

To bring order into this chaos, many who remembered the structure of the Jewish community in Eastern Europe, began to talk of forming a Kehillah. The Kehillah was a time honored institution, dating back to the days of the Talmud, when the Jewish community was united for cultural, social and philanthropic, as well as religious, purposes. It acted as a body representing Jewish interests in the General community regarding matters peculiar to Jews.

The Kehillah which I remember from the days of my youth in Kamenetz-Podolsk had supervision of all the Jewish charities, it was the arbitrator between the Balebaitim and their employees, it was a Beth Din, a Court of Appeals in civil cases involving Jews, it maintained the Jewish hospital, the orphanage and the home for the aged, and it was the spokesman-body for the Jew to the official authorities.

The most vocal advocate of forming the Kehillah in the United States was Judah L. Magnes who traveled in Europe in his student days and knew the beneficial effects of this organization. Of course, there were to be variations to fit the character of the Jewish communities in the United States. But in general, the Kehillah was considered the answer to the needs of the Jewish community.

But the Kehillah idea did not take root in the United States. After a few years the Kehillah in New York, the greatest Jewish community in the land, as well as Kehillahs in other cities, fell apart. The reasons were many. Chief among them was the unwillingness of the various organizations to give up their independence. The times were relatively peaceful. There was no incentive, no urgency for the religious groups, the secular sector and the uncommitted, unaffiliated Jews to unite. The Hitler years, the rise of Israel and the wars Israel had to wage to defend its independence, broke all boundaries that divided the Jewish community and united it for more effective aid and comfort to the people and the land.

Thus the Federations were born. The Federations had the best attributes of the Kehillahs but without the arbitrary dominance of a select group of people who set themselves up to control the community.

The Rhode Island Jewish Federation is as good an example as any other in the hundreds of cities and towns in the United States. It took its first uncertain steps through the years of the General Jewish Committee, and walks with firm, purposeful strides as the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, uniting under its umbrella the local institutions, the national agencies and the aid to Israel. It does it with efficiency and in a businesslike manner.

But above all the Federation is the recognized body in the eyes of the Christian community for all matters relative to the Jewish group. The Federation celebrates whenever there is cause for celebration in the Jewish world and it presents a united voice when the occasion calls for it. When there is a time for celebration, we celebrate together, and when there is time for protesting we do it through the Federation.

One voice for triumphs as well as for adversities.

It was therefore unfortunate that one group in the Jewish community took it upon itself to celebrate publicly the prowess of the Jewish commandos in Uganda. The Governor, the Bishop, the Senators and anybody who is somebody in the City of Providence were all there to express their admiration for the rescue of hostages at Entebbe Airport in Uganda. All except representatives of the Rabbinate and the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, and therefore the Jewish community.

Wouldn't the absence of Jewish representatives, except those who organized the tribute, be enough cause for anybody and in particular the four ladies who wrote the letter of disappointment (Jewish Herald of August 6) at the absence of "our Rabbis, our community leaders, our visionaries," to guess that something must be wrong with this "Ecumenical Tribute?"

It was wrong for one organization to call a gathering of such a nature without consulting the Jewish Federation.

It was wrong for one organization, no matter how worthwhile the tribute to the Israeli forces was, to ignore the community and to hope to get more than a lack of attendance at the State House.

You see, that is exactly why the Kehillah could not get a foothold in the Jewish community in America. This is why it failed. Lack of consulting the community on a matter of concern to the entire community, was the downfall of the Kehillah idea.

All honor to the organizers of the gathering, but they cannot complain of the indifference of the Jewish community, "our community leaders, our Rabbis and our visionaries" to their effort.

The Rhode Island Jewish Federation must be consulted in all such matters concerning Israel and to arouse communal support for Israel in such moments. This is not the work of one individual, one organization, one group, no matter how well meaning they may be. The Governor, the political leaders and the clergy of the community do not know this but the Jewish organization ought to have known it. The four ladies who signed their names to the note of protest are well understood. But they must understand also that an organization like the Federation cannot be ignored.

The Book of Judges tells of a time in Israel "when every man did that which was right in his own eyes." That time is long gone. We have a Jewish Federation of Rhode Island now.

Stagnant Economy Might Continue Through 1976

By Yitzhak Shargil

TEL AVIV (JTA): Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz predicted that the stagnation in Israel's economy that has been in effect since 1974 will continue through this year. He said the gross national product will increase by only one to two percent as compared to an annual growth of 10 percent up to 1973.

Rabinowitz's remarks were made to 100 American and Canadian Jewish leaders who were here for the 1976 Jerusalem Leadership Conference of the Israel Bond Organization led by Bonds general chairman Sam Rothberg.

The visitors were told by Rabinowitz that inflation will continue, with prices going up some 30 percent. But the Finance Minister said the government's new economic policy is achieving results and has surpassed the targets set for it in the first half of 1976.

Despite a $100 million increase in military imports the balance of trade deficit should go down about $200 million, Rabinowitz predicted. He said the government should be able to reach its goal of doubling production by 1980 through the investment of $2.8 billion, the major share coming from Israel Bonds, and by shifting some 6,000 workers from service jobs to industry.

Opposed To Arms Sales

The Israel Bond group was also told by Defense Minister Shimon Peres that Israel may need permission from the United States to sell the Israel-made Kfir jet interceptor since it has an American engine. At the same time, Peres said Israel has made it clear to the U.S. that it opposes massive arms sales to the Arabs even if they contain guarantees. "We would rather have no guarantees and no arms shipments," he said. He said Israel can assure the U.S. "that Israel will do everything to relieve the Middle East from the need for arms. All we want is peace."

Peres also told the Bonds leaders that while there have been some technical violations of the Sinai agreement by the Egyptians, the agreement had brought about a positive change of the atmosphere due to the opening of the Suez Canal and the reconstruction of Egyptian canal towns. He said the Syrians are also strictly adhering to the agreement on the Golan Heights although they have not changed their hostile attitude to Israel.

During the stay, Bond leaders were received at the home of President Ephraim Katzir, met with Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek and the Foreign Ministry's Director General Shlomo Avineri and laid wreaths on the graves of former Chief of Staff Gen. David Elazar and Lt. Col. Jonathan Nethanyahu who was killed during the Israeli rescue mission in Uganda.

JERUSALEM (JTA): The People's Republic of China has returned to Israel a cable sent by Premier Yitzhak Rabin in which he expressed the government's sorrow at the loss of life in recent earthquakes. Rabin sent his cable to the Chinese Prime Minister Hua Kuofeng immediately after news of the disaster arrived in Jerusalem. The cable was returned to Israel with a note that since Peking does not have diplomatic relations with Israel it cannot accept the message. The cable included an Israeli offer for medical and other assistance.

Fact: Nuclear power generates electricity at about half the cost of oil.

Oil is used to produce electricity in most of our generating plants. The average cost to generate a kilowatt hour of electricity, in those plants, is 2.48 cents.

In our nuclear plants, the average cost to generate a kilowatt hour of electricity is 1.28 cents.

We know electric bills will not be lower in the future. But, we also know this: With more nuclear power, electric bills will not be as high as they would be if we have to keep using high-cost foreign oil. That's one of the basic reasons nuclear power makes sense. Remember, the energy crisis is still with us. We must develop all available sources of energy.

We're in this together.

Let's solve it together.

Rabin Praises US Israeli Aid

By Gil Sedan

JERUSALEM, (JTA): Premier Yitzhak Rabin praised the United States last night for its aid and understanding of Israel. Speaking at the final session of the Rabbinical Council of America convention, Rabin said sometimes he found less understanding among Israelis and diaspora Jews to Israel's policy than by the American government.

He described the relations between the two countries as reaching "one of its peaks, if not the highest one. The U.S. government supports Israel in the international arena, in the supply of arms and in economic aid almost with no precedence. The margin between what we want and what we get is very small."

Rabin told the Orthodox rabbis that the financial support Israel received in the last four years for arms purchase was three times as much as Israel had received in the previous 25 years. "When I am asked, do I see the present relations with the United States extending into the future, I say: Definitely."

Partners In A Great Mission

Telling the rabbis he wanted to speak with them as "partners in a great mission," Rabin said that in terms of "Shivat Zion" (return to Zion) "one must bear in mind that never in the history of mankind has there been a precedent for what Zionism has accomplished. Shivat Zion is unique, and one must be patient and understand that the fulfillment of such a vision is not easy."

So many generations of Jews since the destruction of the Temple had dreams and aspirations of participating in Shivat Zion, Rabin noted. "But only the last two generations had the free opportunity to fulfill these dreams, the question is whether they will make use of that opportunity. The response to that question is more decisive to the fate of Israel than what a certain Senator, a President, a Secretary of State or an Arab leader says. The fate of our people has never been so much in our own hands."

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

A hand with the same type of situation came up not too long ago and stumped all of the Declarers. This hand did the same when actually they should have known exactly where the key card had to be and had they governed themselves accordingly they would be able to make the hand. None of them did.

North		South
♠ Q 7	♥ K 7 3	♠ K 8 3	♥ A 8 5 4 2
♦ 9 6 5 4	♣ K 10 8 5	♦ Q	♣ A Q J 3
West		East
♠ J 9 6 5 4 2	♥ J 9	♠ A 10	♥ Q 10 6
♦ 7 2	♣ 9 7 4	♦ A K J 10 8 3	♣ 6 2

South was Dealer, both sides vulnerable, with this bidding:

3♥	P	4♥	End

The bidding was just as it should have been at every table. After South opened, North had a good raise. East had a fine hand with a good six card suit so came in at the three level with his Diamonds. It is this vulnerable bid at that high level that should have provided South with his clue. Not one Declarer took advantage of it. South had enough extra to try for game, his three Heart bid asking North to go on to game if he had the upper part of his bid which he did.

West dutifully led a Diamond and it certainly looked as if the hand would make easily if the Trumps broke normally. All that had to be lost at a quick glance would be one Trump, one Heart and the first Diamond trick. Except it didn't turn out that way. This is what happened as each Declarer went about his business the same. They each ruffed the Diamond return and drew two rounds of Trumps ending in their own hand. Next they naturally led a small Spade toward the doubleton Queen in Dummy and now the roof fell in.

East won with his Ace, drew Dummy's last Trump and led another Diamond forcing South to ruff. Eventually that other small Spade in South's hand had to be lost for the setting trick. True, this line would have worked had Declarer not been unlucky enough to find East with the long Trump. Had West had it East could not have drawn Dummy's last one when he got in so that Declarer could have still ruffed that small Spade in Dummy. The rest of the hand would have been the same but East did have it. Each Declarer felt he had been the victim of poor luck because of this for with his known long Diamond suit it should have been the other Defender who would have that third Trump. True, more than half the time that would be true but had they listened to the bidding they could have prevented what did happen no matter where that other Trump was.

This is how. He starts out the same way but takes the second Trump trick in Dummy and instead of leading Spades the normal way, to the Doubleton, he leads from Dummy's Queen to his own King. See what happens now and how he knows that it will. A sharp Declarer listens to the bidding. If they did they would be positive where the Spade Ace had to be. No one would bid vulnerable at the three level without it so leading to that Queen is going to end as it did unless they are lucky enough to have West have the odd Trump. But leading the other way does this: If East takes his Ace, the hand is over as both Spade honors are now good. If he ducks, as he should, the King wins. Now all that has to be done is to examine the cards that are left.

Leave that master Trump up, they can cash it at any time but now utilize each of those three small Trumps in Declarer's hand. How? By ruffing Diamonds, the Clubs can be used for entries to do this. Count the tricks now. Two high Trumps, one Spade, four high Clubs and three Diamond ruffs in Declarer's hand. All this depends on is the Trumps breaking 3-2. If they do not, the hand could not have been made anyhow.

Moral: When all signs tell you where a certain card has to be, you must govern the entire play on that fact if it's being there makes the difference of a trick.

I WOULD LIKE TO THANK MY MANY FRIENDS AND RELATIVES FOR THEIR GOOD WISHES SENT DURING MY RECENT ILLNESS.

SUSAN & ALAN CAREY

Two generations celebrated their continuity at the 50th wedding anniversary of Barney and Ida Buckler of 15 Cedar Pond Drive, Warwick, and the wedding of Miss Susan Buckler, daughter of Martin and Elaine Buckler of 50 Birchwood Lane, West Warwick, and Alan Carey, son of Louis and Bessie Carey of Worcester, Massachusetts. The double event took place on Sunday, July 25, at 12:00 noon at the Larchwood Inn, Wakefield.

The newlyweds are residing in Woodstock, New York. The bride holds a B.S. in special education from Boston University and a master's in special education from Columbia Teachers College in New York City. She is forming a new school in Woodstock, New York, called the "Children's Annex" for 6 to 10 year old emotionally disturbed children.

The bridegroom is a former film maker who has turned to still photography. He has published two books and his work has appeared in Life, Mother Earth News, Lifestyle, and other magazines. His photography has been exhibited at the Woodstock Art Association, at the Focus 2 Gallery in New York and at the Institute of Contemporary Arts in London. A graduate of Boston University, he has received several National Exhibition Awards and is planning an exhibit of his work at Ulster County Community College in December.

Barney and Ida Buckler lived for 47 years in Providence before moving to Warwick. They have two children, Martin of West Warwick and Mrs. Ezra Sheffres of Santa Barbara, California. Of their five grandchildren, Susan is the oldest and first to be married.

ADL Charges Bias At Exclusive Club

LOS ANGELES (JTA): The Pacific southwest regional office of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith has charged that an exclusive country club in which some of Palm Springs most prominent citizens are members engages in "institutional discrimination." According to Al Navsky, chairman of the ADL's regional office, "It was recently reported that the assistant golf professional at the O'Donnell Golf Club, David Ross, had admitted that applications at O'Donnell are carefully screened, 'otherwise, you'd have a lot of Jews coming in there all the time. We try to keep them down to fifteen percent.'"

Navsky pointed out that the ADL's concerns are increased "by the apparent involvement of the City of Palm Springs in the discriminatory policies of the O'Donnell Club. O'Donnell operates on a long-term lease from the City of Palm Springs on city owned property."

The ADL, Navsky stated, is considering possible legal action against the club and the City of Palm Springs because of Ross' "admission of the club's discriminatory policies." He added that the regional ADL has written to the mayor and City Council of Palm Springs regarding the club's policy and has requested that a "thorough investigation of the club's admissions policies be undertaken. We have informed the leaders of Palm Springs that discrimination by a lessee of the city operating on municipal property implicates the city and its leaders. We have urged the mayor to determine what the club's policies are and take proper action."

Navsky noted that the Supreme Court has declared it to be a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment for an institution utilizing public property to discriminate on the basis of race, religion or national origin. According to the Supreme Court ruling in one landmark case, he continued, when a state leases public property, the proscriptions of the Fourteenth Amendment must be complied with by the lessee as though they were binding covenants written into the agreement itself.

Diaspora Youth Participating

JERUSALEM (JTA): A record number of 10,000 youngsters from abroad have participated this year in activities in Israel offered by the Jewish Agency's youth and hechalutz department, Mordechai Bar On, the department's head, told a news conference. He predicted the number should reach almost 20,000 by the end of the year as part of the decision by the Jerusalem Solidarity Conference last year to make 1976 the year of pilgrimage to Israel.

Some 4200 of the participants were from the United States and Canada. Another 2500 came from Western Europe, 1000 from Britain and 150 from Iran, Greece and Turkey.

Bar On said that during the 20 years the program has existed, 30 percent of the diaspora youth who participated in year-long and half-year projects have immigrated to Israel. But, he said, of equal importance is that the projects serve to build up diaspora leadership. He said the youths who participate in programs in Israel return to their communities as natural leaders. At the same time, he said, their contacts with Israeli youths are rewarding for the Israelis who discover the importance of world Jewry. "We have turned Israelis into Zionists," Bar On said.

The youths travel to Israel at their own expense except for a $100 per person subsidy from the Jewish Agency. A 44-day seminar in Israel costs up to $1000, including the round-trip flight. About 8000 of the youngsters participated in the summer programs.

NEW YORK (JTA): In a letter made public Aug. 3 the chairmen of the departments of Computer Science, Physics, Chemistry, Geochemistry, Mathematics, and the Institute for Fluid Dynamics at the University of Maryland stated that they would refuse to receive Soviet scientists participating in an international exchange program until the Soviet Union exhibits a willingness to live up to the principles of free scientific exchange. The letter, addressed to Dr. Allen H. Kassof, executive director of the International Research and Exchanges Board (IREX), which coordinates the exchange program, called attention to the case of Prof. Benjamin Levich as "an illustration of the discouragement of free exchange of scientists by the Soviet government. Levich, a Corresponding Member of the USSR Academy of Sciences who has been repeatedly denied permission to emigrate to Israel, was invited by the University's Physics Department in September, 1974, for several months of teaching and scholarly seminars. The six department chairmen noted that by preventing Levich from accepting the invitation the Soviet government was denying many American scientists the possibility of engaging in free scientific exchange with him.

Hebrew Tablet Is Unearthed

TEL AVIV (JTA): Two fragments of clay tablets inscribed with five lines of 80 Hebrew letters were discovered by Israeli archaeologists at Izbet Sarte, about 10 miles northeast of Tel Aviv. The tablets are believed to contain the oldest Hebrew writing, even older than the 10th Century B.C.E. Gezer calendar, to be uncovered until now. Dr. Moshe Kochavi of Tel Aviv University and Dr. Moshe Garsiel of Bar Ilan University, who supervised the excavations, said that the inscription on the two clay tablets could not as yet be deciphered because of the very shallow print. They said it will take scientists some time to decipher the writing. The new specimen was discovered at the bottom of a silo at Izbet Sarte. The two archaeologists identified the site with Evan Ha'Ezer, mentioned in Chapter Four of the First Book of Samuel, where the Philistines defeated the Israelites and captured the Holy Ark. A wall of a large building and some silos on the eastern and northern sides of Izbet Sarte also were unearthed.

16 Settlements Due In January

JERUSALEM (JTA): Sixteen new settlements will be established in Israel and in the administered areas one day during the 29th World Zionist Congress here in January and the delegates will visit the sites to take a symbolic part in the opening of the settlements. Yosef Almogi, chairman of the World Zionist Organization Executive announced to newsmen on a radio program. It was learned that all of the settlements have been approved by the WZO Executive in coordination with the government. Almogi stressed that the 29th Congress would be "a large Congress and a turning point," adding that a four-year plan for all WZO departments will be presented at the meeting. Asked what he had proposed to the Horev Commission, which is investigating immigration and absorption procedures, Almogi said that if the present structure is continued, "strict divisions" must be set between the Jewish Agency and the Absorption Ministry, but would prefer a joint authority for immigration and absorption to replace the Agency's aliya and absorption department and the Absorption Ministry.

ARGENTINE THREATS

BUENOS AIRES: Argentine journalists have received leaflets signed by the self-styled Argentine Anti-Communist Alliance, stating that the group plans to execute large numbers of alleged "enemies of the State," including Jews. It warned that individuals will be liquidated who respond to "non-fatherland, anarchist, Freemason, anti-Christian interests or those of international synarchic Judaism."

Rabin Warns Lebanon Conflict May End In Security Problem

By Gil Sedan
 JERUSALEM (JTA): Premier Yitzhak Rabin said that he expects an extended conflict in Lebanon, but once it is over the Lebanese border will present a special threat to Israel's security. Meanwhile, Rabin said in an interview with the Histadrut newspaper, Davar, "the central military element in Lebanon presently is the Syrian army."

Rabin said that Syria is "interested in a calm border with Israel to avoid any Israeli pretext for intervention in Lebanon." He said the success of Israel's policy of hitting terrorist bases has proven itself by the fact that there are no foreign forces in southern Lebanon near the Israeli border.

The Lebanese conflict has prevented the Arab world from directing its attention to a possible settlement with Israel, Rabin said. He noted that there is also less danger now of an Arab military coordination against Israel. "I prefer this reality rather than a concentration of the radical Arab forces for a confrontation with Israel," he said. Rabin said the Lebanese conflict has provided an opportunity for a public opinion campaign against the Palestine Liberation Organization. "The PLO has undoubtedly proved itself to be a cancerous body in the entire fabric of the Arab world," he said. "Lebanon was the only secular country in the Arab world in which Christians and Moslems could live together and the PLO has destroyed that co-existence."

Program Due
 On other issues, Rabin said he will soon present to the Cabinet a detailed program for the removal of the Gush Emunim settlement at Kadum in Samaria. "Gush Emunim is a political movement which threatens the democratic system in Israel," he said. He asserted that the government should also act strongly against any other unauthorized settlement. But, he said, action against Gush Emunim, must not be only by force but also by arousing public opinion against them.

Referring to the rescue mission in Uganda, Rabin said that was an example of how the Cabinet should work. He said the decision was taken by the entire Cabinet.

MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP
 Lisa R. Spraragen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sanford C. Spraragen of 140 Cindynn Drive, East Greenwich, has been awarded the 1976 Dorothy Wagner Music Scholarship. Miss Spraragen is a classical guitarist and has been studying at the New England Conservatory of Music under Robert Paul Sullivan.

She is a 1976 graduate of East Greenwich High School and will be a freshman at Brown University this fall.

Internal Rifts Destroying PLO

TEL AVIV, (JTA): The Palestine Liberation Organization's claim that it is the sole representative of the Palestinian people has been dealt a severe blow as a result of the Lebanese war, it was stated here by Shlomo Avineri, the director general of the Foreign Ministry. Speaking at B'nai B'rith House, he said that the previous seeming unity of the PLO has been rent by infighting and by its conflicts with various Arab countries. Part of the PLO, Avineri noted, is in conflict with the Syrians and one part of the PLO is battling another part. "Sometimes, one part of the PLO doesn't know who is firing at whom, or why," he said. Whatever the outcome of the Lebanese struggle, either in the short-run or long-run, the world will not accept the PLO's previous claim, Avineri asserted. Furthermore, he said, "it is difficult to see how it may regain its former position." Meanwhile, he noted, Israel has to maneuver between two possible dangerous developments: either the creation of a Palestine-dominated Moslem state in Lebanon or the annexation of Lebanon by Syria. Israel must watch both developments and act accordingly.

New Diplomat In New York

JERUSALEM (JTA): Yosef Ben-Aharon, a 43-year-old diplomat, has been appointed chief deputy to Consul General Uri Ben-Ari in New York and will handle political and international affairs. He has been at the nerve center of Israel-American relations for the past several years, first as a diplomat in the Israeli Embassy in Washington when Yitzhak Rabin was the Ambassador, and since the Yom Kippur War, as one of the Premier's inner staff of aides.

Ben-Aharon was co-opted to the Premier's office during the war by the then-Director General, Mordechai Gazit, Premier Golda Meir's top aide and now Ambassador to Paris, and stayed on when Rabin became Premier. Raised in Egypt, Ben-Aharon is the father of five daughters, one of whom is married to a student at the Merkaz-Harav Kook Yeshiva. He himself took time out between leaving the Premier's office and taking up the new appointment to study at Jerusalem's "Ohr Samayach" Yeshiva.

New York Soviet Jews Ask Family Admittance

WASHINGTON: At a recent gathering at the Capitol, 50 Soviet Jews urged the government to admit their relatives, living in Italy, to this country.

According to Zindel Zelmanovitch, spokesman for the Ad Hoc Committee for Reunification of Russian Families, more than 2000 Soviet Jews are stranded outside Rome, living in squalor and without medical or financial aid.

"Many of these refugees have close relatives in the United States," he added.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service have denied their requests for visas, saying they do not qualify as refugees since they had settled briefly in Israel after leaving the Soviet Union, according to Marvin Schick, a political scientist aiding their cause. The Attorney General is being asked to waive the immigration restrictions. Similar exceptions have been made for Vietnamese and Cuban refugees, Mr. Schick said.

Roman Catholic Publication Denounces Nazi Literature

BUENOS AIRES: The military government of Argentina was called upon recently by the leading Roman Catholic publication there to prohibit the circulation of Nazi publications that are flourishing with negative material on both Jews and the Vatican.

Criteria said it was unacceptable that the nation which has banned the distribution of subversive materials of the political left, should permit unhindered subversion by the right. The magazine is a monthly publication edited by Rev. Jorge Mejia, a liberal Jesuit priest.

The statement appeared in an editorial prompted by the widespread distribution of Nazi materials, including Hitler's Mein Kampf and the "Protocole of the Elders of Zion," an anti-Semitic tract. These and other Nazi materials are being produced in Spanish by Editorial Milicia, a publication center directed by Federico Ritaneira Carlesi, an Argentine admirer of the Third Reich.

Editorial Milicia has, since the early part of the year, been producing a so-called Library of Doctrinary Information that appears in bound issues and contains pictures of Hitler, who is characterized as the savior of the West. Fourteen such issues have appeared in editions of as many as 100,000 copies.

The material in these has been primarily Hitler speeches. One recent issue contains a tract called "Judaism and the Catholic Church," by J.A. Kofler, who argues that the church should be anti-Semitic if it does not want to be destroyed by Jewish infiltration.

100 Lebanese Refugees Are Presently In Israel

By Gil Sedan

JERUSALEM (JTA): There are about 100 Lebanese refugees presently in Israel — many of them women and children — who have crossed the border seeking medical help or simply a haven from the bloody warfare going on in their own country. Some of them are staying with Maronite Christian families in Jish, the largest Maronite village in Israel. Others are to be found in various hospitals and clinics. They come to Israel for medical treatment because hospital facilities have broken down in the nearest Lebanese towns — Sidon and Marj Ayoun. Some sustained wounds in the fighting but there is a variety of other medical problems that Israeli doctors and nurses are handling voluntarily at no cost to the patients.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency visited a mobile clinic set up in an apple orchard near the Israeli border town of Metullah and the children's ward at the Safad Hospital in Upper Galilee. At the latter, there was a ten-year-old Lebanese girl taking care of her five-year-old brother who was treated for a broken leg.

Seeking Jewish Content For A Fuller Jewish Life

TEL AVIV: Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, president of the American Jewish Congress, declared recently that Jewish organizations such as the World Jewish Congress must not "lose even one moment" in starting a campaign to instill Jewish content into Jewish life.

Main Components

The main components of Jewish content, he said, were links with Israel, Jewish tradition and the Hebrew language. The deep erosion in world Jewry, the results of assimilation and intermarriage, constitutes a danger to the continuity of the Jewish nation no less than the external danger that threatened during the Nazi era, Hertzberg told the Israeli Executive of the World Jewish Congress which is marking its 40th anniversary.

He said the WJC need not seek to replace the Foreign Ministry of Israel in its political activities nor need it attempt to follow the lead of the World Zionist Organization in purely Zionist activities. Its main task is to preserve the Jewish nation and its activities in interfaith discussions and efforts to establish relations with Third World nations are also of great importance, he said.

The Israelis, for their part, were ready to check which American products suffer discrimination relative to the favoured Europeans. In each instance they offered to give that tariff (and eventually the zero tariff) applicable to all imports of that particular product, from any source.

Negotiations

Negotiations with the U. S. in June, 1975, revealed that 133 of its products were adversely affected by Israel's tariff treaty with the Common Market. Israel agreed to generalise those tariffs by last January, the terminal date set in the Trade Act.

This was done, and Israel was duly admitted to the list of territories enjoying GSP (Generalised Special Preferences) — the tariff cut authorised for developing countries.

Both sides gained from the deal. Out of Israel's $300m. of exports (including $150m. of diamonds), $50m.-$60m. benefit from the GSP. The average duty remitted is 7 or 8 percent, so the tariff benefit can be estimated as totalling about $5m. for the export figure registered in 1975.

The universalisation of Israel's preferential tariffs on those 133 products that proved to be of concern to the Americans provides a gain of $9.2m. to all the suppliers involved, of which $6.4m. are a gain to the Americans.

The successful conclusion of this round of discussions has created an exceptional situation for Israel: for her industrial goods she faces zero duties in Europe, thanks to her treaty with the Common Market, and zero duties in the U. S. thanks to the GSP. These two markets between them account for more than half Israel's total visible exports.

Limitations

Mr. Kiryati points out one or two curious limitations. The GSP benefit applies only on goods whose sales to the U. S. do not exceed $25m., or 50 percent of that country's total imports.

It happens that Israel sells to the Americans $5,000 worth of Dead Sea bath salts (good for rheumatism) a year. This is well below the ceiling figure of $25m., but on the other hand is 100 percent of America's import of that product. So the famous bath salts are excluded from the duty free list right now.

In July, 1974, Secretary of the Treasury William Simon and Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz initialled an agreement establishing the U. S. — Israel Joint Committee for Investment and

No Longer Incentives

Hertzberg observed that fundraising campaigns and political rallies for Israel no longer constitute incentives for Jewish life nor do they fill Jewish life with sufficient content. He said the Israeli rescue operation at Entebbe Airport in Uganda may have raised Jewish prestige, but this could be of a temporary nature because the main problems of Israel and Jewishness have not changed.

He noted that Zionism and aliya are themselves dependent upon the Jewish content of Jewish lives. The fact is that almost all Jews who immigrate to Israel come from traditional backgrounds, he said, either religious or Hebrew-speaking. Even aliya from Russia is primarily based on those Jews who had deep Jewish feelings. Those who lacked it remain in Vienna to go elsewhere, he said.

Chides Israelis

Hertzberg also chided Israelis who regard diaspora Jews as "good soldiers" to do Israel's bidding but are never really consulted or asked for advice. Itzhak Koren, chairman of the WJC's Israeli Executive, countered by criticizing American Jews for failure to prepare the tools to fight the erosion of Jewish life and, in fact, failing to foresee such developments.

Trade. It met in Washington in May, 1975, and again in Israel last March. Its reports are tremendously encouraging documents, for they speak of active measures to foster U. S. investments in Israel.

These measures include forming an Israel-U.S. Joint Business Council (under Governor George Romney); prompting OPIC (Overseas Private Investment Corporation) to lend money to or invest in American companies that operate in Israel; and encouraging the Export-Import Bank to supply credit, and in particular to underwrite leases of U. S. equipment to Israeli firms.

Two openings are of particular value. Israel is an approved supplier to the U. S. Defence Department and of the commodities and services financed by AID (Agency for International Development) — a subsidiary of the World Bank which gives soft loans to countries in need.

The U. S. will ensure the availability of grain and raw materials, even when they are in short supply. (This undertaking was originally given when Israel signed the Interim Agreement with Egypt.) The U. S. will also help expand and modernise the storage and warehousing facilities for such products inside Israel.

Finally, a U. S.-Israel Bi-National Science Foundation, established in 1972, is given body in an agreement signed at that March 3 meeting of the Joint Committee. It will have an initial capital of $60m. in Israeli currency, each government supplying half. The U. S. contribution consists of debts owed by the Israel Government on account of agricultural surpluses, which Washington agrees to re-channel for research purposes in the Foundation.

Objects of the Foundation are strictly of the kind that benefits both countries by significantly increasing exports, helping an entire industrial field, contributing to additional development of products, processes or markets, etc.

All these devices will, in the end, contribute to the gradual elimination of that $600m. trade gap. They will do it in the constructive way, not by brusquely reducing the supply of goods and services to a volume consistent with Israel's scanty purchasing-power, but (again, as was done in the Marshall Plan) by helping Israel to boost that purchasing-power through higher production, and through the new (and in some cases privileged) export opportunities offered by the American authorities.

Israel Is Broadcasting 'Blockade' Of Lebanon

TEL AVIV: According to a recent Israel state television broadcast, Israeli patrol boats are blockading the Lebanese coast and seizing weapons headed for leftist Moslems and Palestinians battling right-wing Christians in Lebanon's civil war.

This was the first semiofficial confirmation of reports received earlier that Israel was aiding the Christians by stopping the arms shipments primarily from Libya and Egypt.

"Navy boats today stand as a barrier between the supply ships and the Lebanese coast. The significance of this operation is a maritime blockade of arms to the left and Moslem forces," the television broadcast said in a long report on the increased sea patrols.

Israel's military command declined to comment on the broadcast.

Bedouins Angry Over Decision

By Gil Sedan

JERUSALEM (JTA): Hammad Abu Rabi, a Bedouin, has asked Premier Yitzhak Rabin to meet with the leaders of the Bedouin tribes in the Negev over the government's decision to go ahead with the settlement of Bedouin claims of ownership of nearly two million dunams of land in the northern Negev.

The meeting was demanded after Bedouin leaders expressed anger over the decision last Wednesday by the Ministerial Committee on Israeli Arab Affairs, headed by Rabin, to accept the recommendation of an interministerial committee that a committee be set up to negotiate a compromise with the Bedouins and that a supreme decisions committee rule on claims in cases where compromise settlements could not be reached.

The Bedouins claim that the government decision will deprive them of most of the land they now own in the Negev. The issue has already been tested in the courts with the government winning in all cases. The decision by the ministerial committee would provide the Bedouins with more compensation than they have received from the courts.

The meeting of the Ministerial Committee on Israeli Arab Affairs was its first since the Cabinet decided on May 23 to establish the committee in the wake of the Mar. 30 disturbances by Israeli Arabs in the Galilee. The Cabinet at that time also decided to set up an interdepartmental committee of director generals of ministries involved with Arab affairs and a public Council on Israeli Arab Affairs with an equal number of Arab and Jewish members.

The interdepartmental committee has met several times while the ministerial committee at its meeting last week first set up regulations for the public council whose members have not yet been appointed. The council will include 40 Arabs and 40 Jews with Rabin serving as its chairman.

ARSAC - FAIN

Miss Roberta Fain, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fain, was married at a noon ceremony on August 8 to Lucien Albert Emile Arsac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Arsac of Peage de Roussillon, France. Officiating at the ceremony was Judge Jacob J. Alprin. A reception immediately followed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a long, white dotted swiss gown with Queen Ann neckline trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace with a matching hat. The bishop sleeves were of sheer dotted swiss touched with a rounded cuff of Alencon dotted swiss. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, daisies, yellow tea roses and ivy.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Cheryl Ann Fain. Best man was Steven Enderby.

The bride is a magna cum laude graduate of Rhode Island College and also attended the University of Lyon in Lyon, France. She is presently the social service coordinator for the Cranston Community Action Program. The bridegroom is a graduate of College d'Enseignement Technique de Salons in Lyon, France.

Following a wedding trip to St. Maarten, the couple plan to reside at 246 Park Avenue, Cranston.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Rose Friedman of Fall River, Massachusetts.

Warner Awarded Rights On Film

JERUSALEM: Warner Brothers has been chosen to make a film of the rescue by Israeli raiders of more than 100 Israeli hostages held last month in a hijacked Air France plane at the Entebbe airport in Uganda, it was announced by an Israeli government agency last week.

According to the Israeli Ministry of Commerce and Industry, an agreement had been worked out between the government and Ted Ashley, Warner board chairman, to produce a film of the rescue operation that would be budgeted at about $10 million.

"Operation Jonathan," is the working title of the film, in honor of Lieut. Col Jonathan Netanyahu, a 30 year old American-born Israeli officer who was killed at Entebbe.

The film rights were sought by other film companies, including Universal and Paramount, but the government said it preferred Warner Brothers' offer because work would begin immediately and the film was scheduled to be distributed by next summer.

Book Rights

Paramount has purchased the film rights for the William Stevenson's book "90 Minutes at Entebbe," issued yesterday by Bantam.

Paramount has Paddy Chayefsky to write the screenplay and Sidney Lumet to direct its planned production.

The Kastner organization has reportedly lined up Godfrey Cambridge to play President Idi Amin of Uganda, Louis Jordan as the French pilot, Elke Sommer as a woman hijacker and Chaim Topol as the Israeli counterintelligence hero.

Anti-Semitism In Arizona GOP

By Joseph Polakoff

WASHINGTON (JTA): Sen. Barry Goldwater (R. Ariz.) declared recently that the opponent of candidate Sam Steiger for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator in Arizona is engaged in anti-Semitism and he is "very concerned" about it. Steiger, who is Jewish and who has been in Congress 10 years, and John Conlan, a Congressman for two terms, are battling for the seat of retiring Republican Senator Paul Fannin. Both Congressmen are staunch conservatives with almost identical voting records. The primary date is Sept. 7. Goldwater was asked by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency to comment on the campaign after the Wall Street Journal reported that many Arizona Jews are "uneasy" over the "gutter-style way a religious issue has entered the race."

Goldwater, an elder statesman in the GOP since his campaign for the Presidency 12 years ago, told the JTA that "first of all, we have heard Conlan is using anti-Semitic remarks about Steiger" and that "Conlan is calling him a Jew in an uncomplimentary way. This is very unusual in Arizona. We are very concerned about anti-Semitism creeping into any campaign and I don't want to be associated with anything like that," said Goldwater. "I am merely mentioning that I will disavow that in the Republican Party as long as I am around." Referring to what the Journal called the "very strong" support for Conlan by an evangelical Protestant movement, Goldwater added that "my Episcopal bishop is terribly critical of this Christian movement. Senator (Mark O.) Hatfield (R. Ore.), who is a very religious man, is opposed to the concept of trying to mix the word Christian into elective politics." Goldwater said that the movement backing Conlan "has vast sums of money — over a hundred million dollars, they tell me." Conlan has been endorsed by Billy Graham and the head of the Arizona Billy Graham crusade is his chief fundraiser, the Journal reported.

Jews Uneasy

According to the Journal article by James P. Gannon, Conlan denies that there is anti-Semitism in his campaign. "Nevertheless," the article added, "many Arizona Jews apparently are uneasy about Mr. Conlan's strong pitch for greater political involvement by Christians so that more 'God fearing people' will be elected to office." The Journal quoted Donald Hall, a University of Arizona professor who quit as Pima County (Tucson) Republican chairman recently over the religious controversy that "the Jewish community is frightened out of its wits by Conlan." Conlan said he is an "independent Protestant" who denies any bigotry, the Journal reported. It added "He freely acknowledges that his frequent speeches to church groups and evangelical rallies are meant to encourage a 'rising awakening' among Christians that they must become more politically active." Steiger has a piece of paper with a newspaper clipping that, the Journal reported, says "quit working for that Jew — remember, you have been warned." The Journal said Steiger says "that paper" is one of numerous anti-Semitic calls or messages sent to his Tucson campaign office. "I have been in Arizona politics once before," Steiger is quoted, "I am sure John (Conlan) did not instigate this but it reflects the kind of people his campaign attracts." paign attracts."

Rabin Draws A Parallel

JERUSALEM (JTA): Premier Yitzhak Rabin drew a parallel between the Athens airport attack last year and the Istanbul raid in that, in both assaults, the terrorists planned their arrival at the airport to coincide with that of the passengers who were their target. He noted that security measures for passengers in transit are less tight than otherwise.

He declared that despite the number of injured, the attack was not a success, considering what the terrorists could have done in the Istanbul airport. He also drew a distinction between two kinds of terrorist action — those meant to achieve a bargaining position and those aimed simply at murder, as at Istanbul. Rabin said it should be kept in mind that holding hostages for bargaining purposes was simply a means to assure continued acts of murder. Terrorist acts for bargaining purposes, he said, are designed to enable other terrorists to continue with their acts of murder, knowing that if they are caught, their friends will do everything to free them. Therefore, he said, he was certain that Arab terrorists would continue to try their murderous activities, especially since they have the support of some Arab countries, plus the "laziness and lack of action" against them by other countries. Rabin, who was escorted in the town by Police Minister Shlomo Hille, watched new anti-terrorist techniques. The border patrol was active in coping with riots in the West Bank. Border patrol police also help keep law and order in some of the cities in Israel proper. Meanwhile, El Al officials here reported that the Istanbul assault not only has not caused any loss to El Al bookings but that, on the contrary, more people are shifting to El Al flights.

Instructed To Kill

ISTANBUL: Pro-Palestinian guerrillas who killed four persons in an attempt to hijack an Israeli plane were quoted as having said they had been instructed to kill "as many Israelis as we can" in reprisal of Israel's raid at Entebbe.

The prosecutor, Nejat Ulgen, said the two guerrillas contended that their attack was a reprisal for the Israeli commando raid, in which more than 100 mostly Israeli hostages were rescued from a hijacked Air France plane.

Mr. Ulgen said the terrorists had described themselves as "active warriors" of the Palestine Liberation Organization. They said they had joined the group six months ago.

Damns 'Savage Attack'

WASHINGTON (JTA): The U. S. government recently condemned the "savage attack" on El Al passengers Aug. 11 and the hijacking of the Air France plane to Uganda and hoped it would "prod leaders of the world into taking positive action on the question of terrorism." In a statement read to the press, the Department declared, further: "This is an issue that must be addressed in the United Nations and is a matter of greatest urgency. It is fortunate indeed that the aircraft was not seized and still greater tragedy did not take place." The Department statement added that "We profoundly lament the death of Harold Rosenthal, 'the aide to Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R.N.Y.) who was killed in the attack by the terrorists, and extended 'deep sympathy' to his family. A Department spokesman said that the United States will be lending full support to the plan to combat terrorism being initiated by West Germany and that it would also back any plan for that purpose.

BAD CHECKS

JERUSALEM (JTA): The number of bad checks that went through Israel's banking system so far this year is double that of last year, bank statistics have revealed. Rubber checks that "bounced" amounted to 12.3 percent of the total compared to 6.3 percent in 1975.

O'Dwyer Urged To Use A More Ethnic Strategy

NEW YORK: In his bid for the Democratic nomination for the Senate, Paul O'Dwyer, City Council president, received the endorsement of two former presidents of Jewish veterans groups. The endorsements were received in a joint telegram from Jerome D. Cohen, a past national commander of the Jewish War Veterans, and Melvin Hurwitz immediate past commander of the New York State Department of the Jewish War Veterans, both from New York City.

Mr. O'Dwyer also met with a group of New York City Jewish leaders to begin planning "a more concentrated ethnic strategy," in the words of Councilman Howard Golden of Brooklyn, who helped organize the meeting.

Mr. Golden said he had advised Mr. O'Dwyer to get his record on Israel more to the forefront in his campaign.

"Many Jewish voters don't know that Paul was a supporter of Israel 25 years ago and helped raise money for the people who were fighting to establish the Jewish state," Mr. Golden said. "What they remember, is Moynihan's speech about Zionism, because that got worldwide coverage."

He was referring to Daniel P. Moynihan's denunciation of the United Nations resolution that condemned Zionism as a form of "racism," a resolution drawn up by the Third World Committee and passed by the General Assembly last fall. Mr. Moynihan was the United States representative at that time.

Visit to Coast

Mr. Moynihan, who also is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Senate, was in California yesterday attending fund-raising events in San Francisco and Los Angeles that were organized by wealthy backers of Hubert H. Humphrey, Edmund G. Brown Jr.

and Henry Jackson in their unsuccessful bids for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

In San Francisco, Mr. Moynihan received a certificate of honor from Quentin L. Kopp, president of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco, which said that "the people of San Francisco" commended him for his "distinguished service" as former Ambassador to India and representative at the United Nations.

Representative Bella S. Abzug, another of the five New York Democratic contenders for the Senator nomination, issued a statement urging revitalization of the railroads in New York State.

Mrs. Abzug campaigned in lower Manhattan, catching the noontime crowds coming out of the World Trade Center and in the financial district.

On The Edge

"When I tell my wife I saw Bella, she'll go crazy!" said Harry Margulies, 68, a lawyer who shook the candidate's hand at the corner of Church and Fulton Streets. "I was teetering on the edge because O'Dwyer is a classmate of mine and an old friend. But my wife, Runya, said she'll leave me if I don't vote for Bella," he said.

Abraham Hirshfield, the businessman who has been stressing his "practical experience" in his own bid for the nomination, was campaigning in Brooklyn yesterday. He praised the city for having used accounting students to help collect money due the city, saying through a spokesman that the technique showed "a practical business approach as opposed to the city bureaucratic approach."

Ramsay Clark, the former Attorney General and the fifth Democrat in the race, assailed Senator James L. Buckley for his brief Presidential bid, calling it "headline-hunting politics, not issue politics."

Brain Tumor Removed By Israeli-Developed Instrument

BONN (JTA): An Austrian professor has successfully performed the world's first brain tumor removal by laser technology using an instrument developed in Israel. The operation was carried out on a 56-year-old man by Prof. Fritz Heppner of the Graz University's neuro-surgical division. The "carbon-dioxide laser scalpel" was developed by Prof. Isaac Kaplan of the plastic surgery department at Israel's Bailinson Hospital in Tel Aviv. Heppner told the JTA the instrument had been used for other operations but this was the first time it was employed for removing a brain tumor. Although the operation can be carried out by conventional methods, laser technology offers big advantages, Heppner said. "It provides completely smooth cutting edges, and results in minimum destruction of healthy tissue. In cancerous diseases it causes evaporation of tumor deposits not visible to the naked eye which sometimes remain behind and cause a recurrence."

Mrs. Joseph Friedman of Wood-fall Street is the paternal grandmother.

Maybe A Hospital Ship To Help Sick, Wounded

By Joseph Polakoff
WASHINGTON (JTA): The U.S. government is considering the use of a hospital ship to aid sick and wounded in the Lebanese conflict. A cp decision, probably in favor of the project as a humanitarian gesture, is expected soon. The State Department today officially disclosed consideration of the proposal to President Ford by Sen. James Abourezk (D.SD) to establish a "floating hospital" in Lebanese waters.

Factors understood to be receiving major attention include the price the Palestine Liberation Organization would extract for the presence of an American ship in Beirut harbor. PLO gunfire can prevent successful operation of the project. The two evacuations of Americans and others by land and sea from west Beirut required PLO escorts.

A second factor is whether the bitterly warring forces will be able to agree on the rationing of the ships facilities for civilians within their political orbits. Suitable Vessels

Abourezk, who is regarded the chief supporter in Congress of Palestinians, including the PLO, is in contact with both the State and Defense Departments about his plan. His office told the JTA that the Pentagon has located two suitable vessels, both in need of repair. One is a Project Hope ship in San Francisco and the other is a military vessel in Philadelphia. Project Hope is the name given to the American medical project in disaster areas or where medical facilities are insufficient — a situation that now prevails in Lebanon.

According to an aide, Abourezk, who is of Lebanese descent, is prepared to attach a rider to the Defense Appropriation Bill now before Congress that would provide funds for refurbishing a ship and maintaining it while being used as a hospital. He said that a medical doctor has told Abourezk that he would organize a staff of volunteers to supply services on the ship.

Meeting Smacks Of Politics

WASHINGTON: The 2,500 delegates attending the 52nd annual Hadassah convention have immersed themselves in political activism in this Presidential election year. Delegates of all ages and backgrounds are taking strong stands on domestic political issues from Federal child care and health insurance proposals to gun control measures.

Many of the delegates seem to agree with the social action positions of the Democratic Party platform, according to information gained in interview and from the organization's position papers.

Hadassah, whose primary business is a fusion of social and health services in Israel, continues to emphasize that it is "violently nonpartisan" in political matters and does not endorse candidates. Mrs. Rose Mitzkin, its president, said "Our members may well be guided in their voting choices by the resolutions and positions they adopted at a convention."

Several Issues Listed

Mrs. Matzkin cited Hadassah's support of antipoverty and community action programs, revision of immigration laws, Federal aid to housing and civilian control of nuclear power as "some of the concerns of our membership."

Random interviews with delegates, meeting at the Washington Hilton Hotel, showed little concern for feminist issues such as the equal rights amendment. Instead, national health insurance, inflation control. Low-cost day care centers and tax reform were among the issues that dominated. And it is these issues, many of those interviewed said, will guide them in voting for a Presidential candidate.

Mrs. Anna Eden of Silver Springs, Md., was one of several who included "energy self-sufficiency" for the United States as high among her priorities. America needs "to be independent of Arab oil interest," said Mrs. Hortense F. Sernoff of Denver.

Most of the delegates interviewed were reluctant to express a preference for any candidate. Many said they were still "waiting for what the candidate will have to say when the campaign is under way."

The few who disclosed their choice tended to favor Jimmy Carter. Mrs. Marilyn Moosnick of Lexington, Ky., was one.

Panaceas Not Expected

"I know that Jimmy Carter's ability to lead without shackles is untried. His prejudices are as yet conjecture. But his intelligence and integrity look like the real thing."

Mrs. Lauree Weiner of Atlanta said she was "fully aware that no one candidate has a panacea for all that ails the United States." But she said that she planned to vote for Mr. Carter for his "impact on the confidence and the integrity of our government process."

Aloni Joins Labor Party For WZ Congress

TEL AVIV, (JTA): Shulamit Aloni, who left the Labor Party to form the Civil Rights Party which now has four Knesset seats, has joined forces with the Labor Party again for the forthcoming World Zionist Congress. Aloni's group, with seven delegates to the congress, signed an agreement last week with the Labor Zionist Movement for a joint list to the congress, it was announced by Yitzhak Koren, the movement's secretary. Koren, who reported this to the Labor Executive which met to discuss the movement's platform for the congress, also announced that although the Zionist General Council (Actions Committee) approved a clause last month to forego elections to the congress in countries where 90 percent of the factions represented in Zionist Federations are agreed on the number assignment of delegates for each faction, 14 of the 21 Zionist Federations will hold elections. These include the Federations in Great Britain, Australia, France, Argentina, Sweden and Canada. There will be no elections in the U.S., he said.
