father, Cantor Avraham Shorr. He later was trained at the School of Sacred Music and Education. Prior to his current appointment, he served for five years at Brith Shalom Jewish Community Center in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, and for five years as cantor at the Cape Cod Synagogue in Hyannis, Massachusetts.

Cantor Shorr has toured extensively giving lectures, concerts and shows as well as one-man-shows in Jewish community centers, distinguishing himself with his unique introduction of Jewish content themes. He has been engaged to present a similar concept of programming to the college circuit, has been active in recording work and has maintained a nationally syndicated radio broadcast feature.

Among his more notable credits musically, Cantor Shorr has appeared on national ABC-TV as well as in Carnegie Hall and on Broadway. He has recorded with 3D Records and was the first long-term star of the nostalgically famous "Cafe Exodus" Night Club on 69th Street and Broadway in Manhattan, New York.

CANTOR RAOUL SHORR

Raoul J. Shorr, newly appointed cantor at Temple Beth Israel, has a rich background in cantorial music and in music of Jewish content. Cantor Shorr's first exposure to the field was in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, as a child alto singing as soloist in the choir of the leading cantor in Philadelphia, his grand-

PROMOTED: Lola Schwartz has been promoted to the position of Assistant Executive Director of the Jewish Community Center of Rhode Island, it was announced by Sigmund J. Hellman, Executive Director. Previously, Mrs. Schwartz was the program director of the agency. In her new position Mrs. Schwartz will continue to direct and coordinate the center's program and she will assume additional administrative responsibilities.

Originally from New York City, Mrs. Schwartz completed her BSSW at Roger Williams College. She has a 2 year certificate in ceramics from Rhode Island School of Design and attended the Boston University Social Work Institutes for 5 years. She originally joined the JCC staff as director of children's activities in 1963.

Inflation And Taxes Burdening Israelis

JERUSALEM: Basic commodities, from bread to public transportation will be soaring as a result of rising inflation in Israel, a nation already burdened with some of the highest taxes in the world. Increases are expected to go into effect after the high holidays and Succoth, sometime in October.

The increases are expected to affect currently subsidized consumer essentials such as bread, milk, eggs, margarine, cooking oil and chicken.

Government officials claim that a complete removal of the subsidies could mean that the price of these staples would increase by as much as 40%.

Seeking $40 Million

It is doubtful that the Government will permit such an onerous increase all at once. Instead, it is reported, Israeli officials will have to find an additional $40 million to keep the price increases at a more manageable level.

The Government is currently operating under a bare-bones budget with depleted reserves, and is facing the so-far unanswered question of where to find the subsidy funds to cushion the price increases. "Our major problem this year is a domestic one—the impact of inflation on the social fabric," one Israeli official said.

An economic analysis of the Israeli economy for 1975, published by Bank Leumi le-Israel, the nation's leading commercial bank, says that the major cause of the protracted recession lies in "the balance-of-payments deficit accompanied by a marked drop in foreign-currency reserves."

"This problem," the report said, "has in fact been at the heart of Israel's economy since the establishment of the state," in 1948. The Government has been attempting with renewed vigor to promote the export of Israeli goods and to attract more foreign businesses. At the same time it is trying to curb consumer appetites for imported products.

Deterioration Stopped

According to the Bank Leumi analysis, this policy has at least stemmed a further deterioration of the balance-of-payments situation. The total deficit last year was nearly $4 billion.

Construction starts, a major economic bellwether here, were down in 1975 by 24 percent from 1974. According to the bank's economic appraisal, 1975 was the first year since 1967 in which the number of buildings completed exceeded the number of new housing starts. Despite the recession, unemployment here is low, a little over 3 percent.

The major single item in the Israeli budget is defense spending. The estimated defense budget for 1976 is $3.3 billion, or about 40 percent of the total budget. This year Israel will spend about 35 percent of its gross national product on defense-related items, an inordinately high amount when compared, for example, with the United States, which spends about 8 percent of its G.N.P. on defense.

This year, the report said, "would seem to be the first time since the establishment of the state that there will be a reduction in the means available for the provision of state services and development."

The country's 1976 inflation rate has been pegged at 30 percent, and even higher estimates have been mentioned. "They tell us we're going to have to tighten our belts until we can get by with a size zero," one Israeli said the other day.

Permit Charges Under Scrutiny

BONN: The state prosecutor in the West German city of Offenbach, near Frankfurt, is investigating allegations that more than 1000 Soviet Jews with Israeli citizenship have paid large sums to obtain work and residence permits in the city. This followed a report in the Israeli paper Yediot Ahronot claiming that the emigres were paying intermediaries up to $1000 to obtain the necessary permits.

The Offenbach local authorities have conceded that there has been a rapid rise in the number of Israeli citizens in the area, from 458 at the start of 1974 to 1100 presently. A spokesman said there was "no doubt that a carefully planned action is underway." The immigrants are almost all from the Soviet Union and other East European bloc countries. They reportedly first went to Israel but soon after came to Germany.

Under the guise of being German descendants ("ehemalige Volksdeutsche") they then applied for refugee papers which entitled them to immediate social security benefits.

All-Day Protest Over Murder Of Mrs. Bloch

LONDON: Horrified and angered at the savage murder in Uganda of Mrs. Dora Bloch, the 75-year-old woman who was in a Kampala hospital at the time of the Israeli rescue of her fellow hostages, a large number of Jews and non-Jews held a vigil outside the Uganda High Commission a day.

During the vigil, a group of British Members of Parliament called at the High Commission to present a letter of protest over Mrs. Bloch's murder.

A special "British Committee for Dora Bloch," which comprises representatives of Jewish and non-Jewish organizations and a number of clergymen, has been formed as a protest.

According to an unnamed Ugandan who arrived in Nairobi yesterday, the body of Mrs. Bloch, half-burned, was found in a forest near Kampala alongside the bodies of three radar operators who had been working in a radar room when the Israelis landed to carry out their rescue at Entebbe airport.

In Jerusalem, Mr. Ilan Hartuv, a son of Mrs. Bloch, said he was sure that the Ugandan authorities had ordered his mother to be killed "in cold blood." He declared that even if President Amin did not give the actual order for her murder, he was responsible. If his mother were dead, as reported, he added, the family would be asking for her body to be sent to Israel for burial.

There was a further sharp deterioration in Britain's relations with Uganda today when it was announced that Mr. Peter Chandley, a member of the British High Commission staff in Kampala, and his wife had been expelled by Amin.

Mr. Chandley is the man who saw Mrs. Bloch in the hospital under Ugandan guard when he visited her a few hours before she disappeared. The Ugandans have maintained that Mrs. Bloch left the hospital earlier.

Son Will Testify If Amin Requests

LONDON: A son of Mrs. Dora Bloch says that he knew the names of four members of the Ugandan secret police who had murdered his mother and would be willing to testify to a commission of inquiry in Uganda if President Idi Amin set one up. He did not believe, however, that the killers had been acting on orders from Amin.

Bertram Bloch said the family had received this information of late. The Israeli engineer was addressing journalists at the end of his stay in Britain during which he has been investigating his mother's death in the wake of the Israeli rescue action at Entebbe Airport.

He also thought that no more witnesses of the murder were still alive in Uganda. However, he appealed to other witnesses, who had since left the country, to come forward to confirm what he had already been told.

Mrs. Bloch, who held dual British and Israeli citizenship, was a passenger on the Air France plane hijacked by a pro-Palestinian terrorist to Uganda.

Bloch's press conference was held at the House of Commons under the auspices of Labor MP Greville Janner, who had formed a group of MPs to keep a watch on the case. Bloch thanked Janner, his colleagues and the British government for their concern at the affair.

LOT WINNER

Jack Garfinkel of Parkis Avenue in Providence was recently the winner of $500 in the Rhode Island Lottery's Grand Lot drawing.

REGIONAL DIRECTOR: As of September 1, Jonathan Davis became the regional director of the Israel Aliya Center of New England. He succeeds David Roizenblit, who is returning to Israel after completing his four year term of duty.

Mr. Davis was born in London, England, moving to the United States at an early age, where he received his elementary through college education. In 1969, at the age of 20, Mr. Davis made Aliya.

He received his BA from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem in Jewish History and International Relations, and his master's degree from Tel Aviv University.

He was active in United Synagogue Youth, served on the educational staff at Camp Ramah and worked for the Israel Radio Broadcast System.

For three years Mr. Davis served in the Israeli Defense Force as a paratrooper scout. He fought in the Yom Kippur War on both fronts and finished his service in 1974 as a First Sergeant.

Mr. Davis's wife, Iris, is also an American olah and works in Israel as a gerontologist.

Dole, Ford's Running-Mate Gives Israel Strong Support

KANSAS CITY (JTA): Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, chosen by President Ford Aug. 19 to be his running-mate in the election campaign, has a record of staunch support for Israel and Soviet Jewry in his 15 years as a U.S. Representative and Senator and has been honored by the government of Israel.

Although he is usually found backing Republican administration policies, the conservative junior senator from Kansas has on at least two critical occasions publicly recommended to the President that his administration provide more adequate support to Israel.

In 1971, the year President Nixon named him as the Republican Party's national chairman, Dole was among the first senators to urge the White House to supply Israel with Phantom jet planes, then a controversial subject in Washington. In May, 1975, when the Ford Administration was engaged in its "reassessment" of the Middle East policy with pressures on Israel, Dole joined 75 other Senators in signing a letter to the President urging him to provide adequate military and economic aid to Israel.

Memorial Services Slated In Sharon

For the 28th consecutive year, the Jacob Grossman Memorial Chapel-In-The-Woods at Sharon Memorial Park, Sharon, Massachusetts, will be the setting of the traditional open air memorial services, slated for Sunday, September 19, at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Relatives and friends are invited to participate.

Starting at 9:45 a.m. and again at 3:45 p.m., there will be a short interlude of liturgical organ music, played by Mr. Louis I. Shapiro, organist for both services.

The 10 a.m. service will be conducted by Rabbi Nasen Goldstein of Temple Shaare Tefilah, Norwood, Massachusetts. The traditional prayers will be chanted by Cantor Baruch Greisdorf of Beth El Temple Center, Belmont, Massachusetts. Rabbi Hilel Rudavsky of Temple Beth Shalom, Framingham, Massachusetts, will deliver the morning sermon.

Temple Emanu-El Memorial Services

Temple Emanu-El will conduct its annual public memorial services at Lincoln Park Cemetery in Warwick on Sunday, September 19, at 11 a.m. A special service has been prepared and will be conducted by Rabbi Joel H. Zaiman and Cantor Ivan E. Perlman.

This service, which is for members of Temple Emanu-El and friends and members of departed members of Temple Emanu-El, is for the purpose of making it easier for all those who wish to visit the cemetery prior to the high holy days.

A tent, chairs and a public address system will be provided, with a special supervised area for parking. Special graveside prayers will be provided for those attending the public service.

Arrangements are under the chairmanship of Howard E. Schneider and Louis I. Sweet.

Ahavath Torah Congregation, Stoughton. Cantor Harold Lew of Temple Israel in Sharon will chant the traditional prayers. The afternoon sermon will be delivered by Rabbi Alvin I. Lieberman, chaplain, Boston Area Veterans Administration Hospitals.

In case of inclement weather, the services will be held on the assembly grounds at the Park.

Honored For Saving Jews

DUESSELDORF: Jewish survivors of Nazism in West Germany have paid tribute to Miss Johanna Peppmoeller, a former nurse who has died, aged 91 years, in Bielefeld in North Rhine-Westphalia. She risked her life many times to save Jews during the Nazi regime.

As a young maternity nurse, Miss Peppmoeller became friends with many Jewish families. When one mother died, she gave up her profession to bring up the baby named Lotte.

Later, Miss Peppmoeller opened a boarding house as a haven for persecuted Jews, but she failed in her attempts to prevent the deportation of Lotte who was murdered in Auschwitz concentration camp.

However, she saved a young Jew by smuggling food parcels to him in Auschwitz. After the war, Miss Peppmoeller helped to rehabilitate Jewish survivors of the concentration camps.

HONORARY DOCTORATE

JERUSALEM: Hebrew University will present an honorary doctorate to Andrei Sakharov, the Soviet Nobel Laureate and prominent dissident and critic of the Soviet regime.

Brooklyn, New York, a daughter of the late Joseph and Elizabeth (Cohen) Lowenthal. She had lived in Providence since 1919.

MISS RESSLER ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Ressler of Long Beach, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Audrey Pamela, to Steven Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wasser of Cranston.

Miss Ressler is a senior at the University of Maryland where she is majoring in special education and learning disabilities. Mr. Wasser was graduated from the University of Rhode Island with a BS degree in accounting. He is presently attending graduate school in business administration at the University of Maryland. A December 25, 1976, wedding date has been planned.

WINS FIRST PRIZE

Elaine Goldstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Goldstein of Hazelton Street, Cranston, has won one of the first prizes in the Casual Corner "Dog Days" contest in the Warwick Mall. Her entry was a sequin-covered felt dog in blue, green, white and black.

SCHACHTER - RUBIN

Miss Betsy Ina Rubin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marc Sheldon Rubin of 39 Brookwood Drive, Woodbridge, Connecticut, was married on June 6, to Dean Alan Schachter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Schachter of Uniondale, New York.

Rabbi David Wortman performed the ceremony at the Woodbridge Country Club, where a reception followed.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire style gown of silk organza made with a high collar and bishop sleeves, and trimmed with Alencon lace, Venise lace and pearls. She carried her mother's Bible marked with a white orchid, white carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Cynthia Rubin served as maid of honor for her sister. She wore an orchid print voile gown. Attired in similar gowns in blue were the bridesmaids, Cathy and Lisa Schachter, sisters of the bridegroom, and Laurie Levin.

Pat Roach of Uniondale, New York, served as best man. Guests were seated by Robert Felner of Rochester, New York, uncle of the bridegroom; Alan Rubin, brother of the bride; Jonathan Beyman of Bridgeport, Connecticut; Raymond Rogalski of Meriden, Connecticut; and Edward Klonoski, Jr., of Torrington, Connecticut.

Following a trip to Bermuda, the Schachters set up residence in Rochester, New York.

Mrs. Schachter will complete her undergraduate studies at the University of Connecticut in December. She is a dean's list student, a member of Alpha Lambda Delta Honor Society and a member of the University of Connecticut concert choir.

Mr. Schachter was graduated cum laude with a BA degree in psychology from the University of Connecticut. He will receive an MBA degree in finance in 1977 from the University of Rochester Graduate School of Business Administration, Rochester, New York.

Mrs. Schachter is the granddaughter of Mrs. Abraham Rubin and the late Mr. Rubin, and of Mr. Samuel Cohen and the late Mrs. Cohen. Mr. Schachter is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schachter of Cranston, who celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary on the couple's wedding day.

Stop Talking, Start Acting

By David Landau
 JERUSALEM, July 19 (JTA) — It is not common to hear from a leading American Jewish giver and fund-raiser a hard sell "pitch" for aliya. That kind of talk has traditionally been left to the "organized Zionist" leadership, while the United Jewish Appeal men have quietly gotten on with the job of raising the funds to pay for whole areas of social and educational endeavor which the Israel government itself simply cannot afford to cover.

But things are changing, said

Your Money's Worth

By Sylvia Porter

Translating Industry Bafflegab For You

What does the common term "heat-resistant glass" mean to you? Are you a little uncertain?

If so, you're not exceptional, for even though this product has been on the market for a full 63 years, one in every eight persons queried on the term in a recent survey had only a vague or wrong idea of what it meant and how to care properly for an item so marked.

Among the interpretations consumers gave for "heat-resistant glass" were: "heat won't go through it," "glass that's cool to the touch," "regardless of temperature, can't break," "won't get hot and won't melt."

Although different types of specially treated glass have different levels of heat resistance, the most generally available types can be heated from room temperature to about 500 degrees Fahrenheit without breaking. They also can withstand a down shock — a change from hot to cold — of about 350 degrees F. Thus, while you can bake a pie in a pieplate made of heat-resistant glass, say, a coffee pot made of the same material probably would break if you moved it at once from a burner into a sink filled with cool water.

This illustration underlines a problem with which manufacturers have been wrestling for years — and particularly since you, America's consumer, have become much more aware of and demanding of your rights.

The problem: how can you be helped to understand when and how you can safely use a given product?

Or how can the gap be narrowed between industry bafflegab and easy-to-understand language or symbols for consumer, no matter what your ages and educational levels?

Through its opinion research programs, Corning Glass Works had learned that many of you have trouble with commonly used terms. You don't understand or you mistrust such words as "guarantee" and "warranty." (Among the ironic answers submitted for these words was "assurances that a manufacturer takes away on page two after having given them to you on page one.")

In general, you distrust these quasi-legal terms and, as a result, Corning switched to the word "promise." The company still uses it but it now must combine the word with "warranty" in order to satisfy government regulations under new laws.

You also seem to comprehend negative use and care instructions more readily than positive ones. "Don't use on top of range or under broiler," for instance, convinced all but 9 percent of customers tested not to use a particular product on top of a gas or electric stove. But 24 percent of those polled answered a query about "other than oven baking use may cause breakage" by saying they still would use the item on top of the stove or broil in it.

A universal, simple-to-understand set of terms and/or symbols should be developed for business to adopt for its warranties and use-and-care instructions, says Robert L. McClery, Corning's manager of consumer affairs, and Corning vice president Conrad Stenski.

Explains Stenski: "It seems desirable to select a committee which represents all interested parties to identify a universal terminology that will be understood by poor readers, those with limited vocabularies and those with limited comprehension. These are the citizens with whom we should be communicating most effectively to prevent misuse and accident."

"With increased government regulation," Stenski told a meeting of consumer groups and representatives of business and government agencies, "more and more terms will be dictated by government, and government could make the same mistake made by business — choosing terms it understands, but which many consumers do not understand."

While the response to the proposal has been favorable, no committee representing consumers, government and business has yet been formed to take on the job.

The need, though, is clear, not only to prevent you from misusing products and harming yourself, but also to help you cooperate with a manufacturer when the latter recalls a defective item or part of an item. In one recall, for instance, con-

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Jerusalem,
 My Jerusalem!

By BERYL SEGAL

Jerusalem, who has not written about you, sung about you, painted visions of you, composed music dedicated to you? It seems there is nothing more to say about you.

And yet, as I look out through my hotel window and see your distant hills wherever the eye falls, your twinkling lights like stars in the night, your narrow streets and alleys, the dwellings made of white Jerusalem stone, I see you as no one has ever seen you before. You reveal yourself to each and every soul in his own image of you, his own perception of you. From early childhood we formed our private vision of you and have been carrying it with us.

They called you Jerusalem, the fair city, the holy city, the center of the universe, the reflection of the Jerusalem in heaven, the golden city from which justice and knowledge would spring forth, the city where men saw the Creator, the city of Zion.

Five times we have visited you, Jerusalem, and five times we have seen you in a different glow. You change appearances every times, yet remain eternal.

The intensity of young and old hurrying to synagogues on Friday evenings, as if it were the "First Sabbath." The tongue of the prophets in the mouths of little children playing in the street, a thing that we can never get used to hearing.

The multi-colored men and women walking the streets, each wearing his own clothes and speaking the language of his country, Sephardim and Ashkenazim blending together.

The constant stream of people at the Kotel, the Wailing Wall, not wailing, nor rejoicing. Just standing, touching the massive stones of the wall and whispering something between themselves and the western wall which listens and remains silent.

The sight of tourists who wan-

Stanley Sloane of New Jersey, one of the UJA's 15 national chairmen and a shrewd and sophisticated observer of the trends of Jewish history. It was Pinhas Sapir, who, as chairman of the World Zionist Organization, first called for the challenge of aliya to be transferred from the sole "jurisdiction of Israel" into the hands and responsibility of diaspora communities themselves.

Some moves in that direction have already been made. But first, of course, the need for the change has to percolate through to the awareness and conviction of the diaspora leadership — and particularly of the American Jewish leaders, Sloane observed. This, he believes, is what is in fact happening at this present time and he saw convincing evidence of it at the Jewish Agency Assembly held here last week.

"We Americans came away with the conclusion that it's up to us to get involved in aliya . . . to exhort our fellow citizens . . . and to act in a practical way to turn exhortation into realization . . ." he said. The Zionist proponents of aliya, urging others to go but not showing the example themselves, have been positively detrimental to aliya, Sloane said, referring to the leaders of the various large American Zionist organizations.

U.S. Aliya Potential

His own recommendation — it is still in the form of general, personal thoughts that have been running through his mind — is for the the American Jewish leadership to "identify the people who are the potential for aliya" and to encourage them, materially and morally, to make the move to Israel. The aliya potential, Sloane observed, is among the estimated two million urban American Jews. About one-half of these are elderly, but the others are the obvious reservoir for an initial mass movement of American olim to Israel.

These urban Jews, usually in the middle or lower-middle income brackets, are struggling constantly to make a living, and at the same time face worsening problems of ecology and quality of life. Eventually — and for most of them within the next decade — the need to make a physical relocation will become pressing. Their options as they see them are to hop over to a nearby neighborhood, moving piecemeal away from negative social influences, or to make the more difficult move to suburbia, where life is more expensive.

The task facing American Jewry, Sloane stated with conviction, is to persuade these young urban Jewish families, many of them only loosely affiliated with organized Jewry, that they have a third option: Israel.

Part of this persuasion must be in the form of material arrangements — efficiently made and adequately explained — for their settlement and absorption in Israel. A moderate success — say in the realm of two percent annually — would mean 20,000 American Jews to Israel each year. And that would be just a start.

der around with wide eyes, their badge of the stranger, the camera, hanging by their sides. There are the wonderful sights and sounds and aromas of Jerusalem.

But we are also aware of another side of Jerusalem: not of song, of color and poetry, but of stark, harsh reality.

The truth is that too many have no patience for poetry. The people of Jerusalem, the greater part of the inhabitants of the city, spend their time trying to make ends meet.

Stop anybody on the street and you will hear a tale of high taxes, wages that cannot catch up with the high cost of living, and, above all, the burden of keeping up an army of bureaucrats which eats up the fruits of the labors of the wage earners.

There are no shortages in Israel. The supermarkets are stocked with all kinds of products. But the average consumer cannot buy anything but bare necessities. Yet side by side with these supermarkets stand palaces, hotels that only tourists can afford the luxuries provided in them.

There is no unemployment in Israel. But the wages do not last long. They are eaten up before the next pay day arrives. Yet banks, all kinds, under different names, abound in the land. We can only surmise who the banks are for and who profits by them.

This, and another thing, Mishorot. Offices, departments, agencies, wherever one goes one comes upon an agency. It is conceivable that each of them has some function. The stranger, however, is bewildered by the multiplicity of agencies and offices.

With all this, Jerusalem, you are wonderful! The beautiful and the ugly embrace each other.

Bronze Doors Recovered

NEW YORK: Local police arrested Mark Robinson, 19, of Brooklyn as a suspect in the theft of eight sculptured bronze mausoleum doors from Temple Emanu-El's cemetery in Cypress Hills, Queens. He was apprehended in the early morning about a mile from the cemetery as he was about to drive off in a van.

Police recovered some 2000 pounds of bronze which had been cut up. The doors were estimated to be worth between $150,000 and $200,000.

Deputy Chief Anthony Voelker, commander of the Brooklyn Detective Area, would not disclose where the metal had been recovered, saying that the investigation was continuing. The suspect was charged with burglary, criminal possession of stolen property, criminal mischief and grand larceny.

Henry Fruhauf, administrative vice president of Temple Emanu-El, while praising the police voiced concern that two funeral urns containing ashes had not been recovered. The temple, at 65th Street and Fifth Avenue, which has been prominently identified with Reform Judaism, was still trying to locate members of families whose urns were taken in incident late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

In another development, Congregation Shaare Zedek, a Conservative house of worship in Manhattan, reported that in the past several days about $25,000 worth of bronze guard rails had been taken from mausoleums in its Bayside Cemetery in Ozone Park, Queens.

Detective John Hammond of the 106th Precinct, who is in charge of the investigation, said intensified efforts were being made in the case.

"THE PRESENT GENERAL TREASURER CAN COST YOU $13 MILLION DOLLARS IN THREE YEARS"

"In 1974, the Governor's Task Force studying the State's Retirement System recommended a full-time money manager for the state to increase interest the state earns on its investments. By continuing with the present part-time State Investment Commission which he heads up, the General Treasurer cost the taxpayers over $4 million in fiscal '76 and will cost the state $4½ million in '77 and $5 million in '78. To be installed are Carol Kaplan, president; Mamie Block, Barbara Forman, Joyce Rose and Lenka Rose, vice presidents; Nellie Silverman, treasurer; and Esther Scoliard, secretary.

Esther Share was nominating committee chairman. Presidents of the three groups are Esther Resnik, Aleph; Mabel Berman, Business & Professional; and Fran Weisman, Jerusalem.

Installing officer and guest speaker for the day will be Marge Housen, president of the Western New England Region of Hadassah. The program will include a report from the recent national convention of Hadassah in Washington, D.C.

SCHOLARSHIP GRANTS

Sixteen Rhode Island students have been awarded scholarship grants this year by the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women. Ten of the grant recipients are young men and six are young women students. Ten of the grants are renewals to students who received previous grants. Six of the students will be freshmen this year at college and one student is a member of a recently resettled Russian immigrant family.

The Providence Section also awarded scholarships this summer to needy children who attend Beach Pond Camp and Camp Ruggles as well as Camp Jori and day camps selected by the Jewish Family and Children's Service. The scholarships are provided each year.

WEIGHT WATCHERS

Weight Watchers will hold open house in all classes throughout

Rhode Island during the week of September 20. The public is welcome to attend at no obligation.

Men, women and teenagers are welcome and those attending will receive free recipes. For information on times and locations, call 831-0337.

'LEGACY OF HATRED'

A film symposium on "The Legacy of Hatred and Prejudice" will be held at Sperry Lecture Hall in the Harvard Divinity School, Boston, Massachusetts, on October 6 and 7 from 2 to 5 p.m. The theme will be man's responsibility to his fellow man in times of crisis.

The symposium has been organized by the New England Regional Office of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith in conjunction with the Associated Synagogues of Massachusetts, the National Conference of Christians and Jews and the Harvard Divinity School and Old South Church.

Admission is free. Further information may be obtained by contacting (617)542-4977.

Sankowich/Golyn Productions will present the national touring theatre production of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" in its fully staged Broadway version on September 19 at Veteran's Memorial Auditorium. There will be a 2 p.m. matinee and a 7 p.m. evening performance. Ticket reservations may be made by contacting 751-2800.

TWO-FER DINNER

The Touro Fraternal Association will hold a "Two-Fer Dinner" for members and their wives on Wednesday, September 22, at 6:30 p.m. at the Venus de Milo, Route 6, Swansea, Massachusetts. Entertainment by Mel Simons. Reservations must be received by Wednesday, September 15. No cancellations after Monday, September 20.

A Folk Song On Entebbe

WASHINGTON (JTA): Joe Glazer, a popular folk song artist specializing in trade union ballads, was so inspired by Israel's rescue of more than 100 hostages at Entebbe Airport that he decided to commemorate the event in a folk song. Hours after the news of the heroic rescue flashed across radio and television, Glazer and four colleagues — "my mountain music chaverim" as he describes them — were recording the first song commemorating the Israeli exploit.

One stanza is: "My friends, you should have seen/The face on General Amin/When he heard the hostages were flying home. He ranted and he roared/But they were safe aboard... /Goodbye Uganda — Israel Shalom!/Hey! Hey!/Goodbye Uganda — Israel Shalom!" ((C) 1976 Collector Records). Another stanza states: "It was early Sunday morning, Without a word of warning/Those big Israeli birds swooped from the sky. A hundred years from now/I bet they'll still be telling how/That deed was done the Fourth Day of July." ((C) Collector Records, 8422 Georgia Avenue, Silver Spring, Md. 20015)

RI Jewish Federation Presents 'Fashions For Federation' Show

The East Providence Division of the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island will present "Fashions for Federation" on Thursday evening, September 30, at 8 p.m. at the Four Seasons East Club House on Arthur Avenue, East Providence. Clothes are from E/D Ltd. of South Angell Street, Wayland Square.

Maida Horovitz is co-chairman of the event with Lillian Slatoff. The fund raising campaign for East Providence was kicked off on Thursday, September 9, with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Paul Corin. Workers include Mrs. Herbert Cohen, Mrs. Leo Katz, Mrs. Mort Gerstein, Mrs. G. Castowitz, Mrs. Mortyn Zietz, Mrs. Mort Zisquit, Mrs. Ed Weiner, Janet Robinson, Rose Schneider, Lee Krasner, Elise Cokin, Esther Swartz and Fay Alperin.

Models for the fashion show are Maxine Marks, Ina Schuster, Carol Sofro, Sandra Scoliard, Roz Cohen, Harriet Weiner, Sara Lee Zisquit, Dotty Katz, Marcia Gerstein and Bayla Gordon. Meredith Silverman will be fashion commentator.

"Entebbe was an event for the ages. They're rushing book and movies on it. A song completes the cycle," Glazer said. Glazer, 58, has been writing and recording songs of social commentary for 25 years with 15 albums to his credit. He can barely read music. His musical education was seven guitar lessons and — as he recalls it — "forced labor in a synagogue choir when I was a kid growing up in Brooklyn."

BRIDGE

By Robert E. Starr

The two best defenders in the world couldn't set today's hand but they wouldn't have allowed the overtricks that most of the Declarers made. As this was in a Duplicate tournament that trick was very costly. Actually there was no reason for that trick to disappear, all they had to do was enlist the aid of their partner to tell them what to do. Most of the Defenders sitting East simply looked at their own cards and the Dummy and led what seemed to them the automatic card back. Just as automatically they should have led something else.

♦ A K 6 2

South was Dealer, East and West vulnerable with this bidding:

1♣	P	4♣	End

The bidding, very simple, was over in one round. After North heard his partner's opening bid he felt his hand might produce game because of his tremendous distribution but as he did not have an abundance of high cards the only way he could show this was by jumping right to game. This effectively ended the bidding and was probably the way every pair sitting North and South bid the hand.

Every West I watched led a Club for lack of anything better to lead, East winning the Ace. Right here is where the vital decision has to be made by East as to just what card or suit he should lead back. Almost every one of them, looking at the two small cards in both of Dummy's red suits, did what to them seemed correct; they returned the Diamond-Jack, the top of a three card honor sequence. Wasn't that the thing to do? Who leads from Ace, Queens especially when both red suits in Dummy are the same?

As you can see, the Declarer was now able to take the rest of the tricks by winning the Diamond Ace, drawing Trumps, ruffing his two small Diamonds and discarding his three Hearts on those good Clubs. Most of the Defenders felt they had been victims of the cards for they insisted that they had done the normal thing leading that Diamond Jack.

Had they stopped to really think the hand out they would have changed their tactics. They should have reasoned that the key to the whole hand was at trick two. They could see that Club suit staring them in the face. That if they didn't cash out the Declarer could discard all his losers on those Clubs. Any Trump trick would not disappear if there was one so how could they know without guessing what to do? How? As mentioned above by their partner telling them. If they slip here they will be lost. As a Trump trick is unlikely and the Clubs are already set up, Declarer will not take any finesse as he will not need one if he has the Ace of the suit led. Therefore, it is imperative for the Defense to take as many tricks as they can right then. True, the Diamond Jack will work out if West happens to have the Ace but will be disastrous if he doesn't.

-By the same reasoning, West is just as likely to have the Heart King as the Diamond Ace, he will have to have one of them to do the Defense any good. East should lead his Heart Ace to find out. If he is wrong he can still switch to the other suit, his partner will signal whether to switch or to continue. In this case, West will play his ten and the hand held to four as it should be. Not one East thought West's opening lead was a singleton and led back a Club. It could have been and I wouldn't have condemned any East who did that but otherwise the Heart Ace.

Moral: The word partner means something. Too often Bridge players play all by themselves instead of using that very partner to help them. Remember, Bridge is a partnership game.

Austrians Will Discuss Purchase Of Kfir Jets

TEL AVIV (JTA): Austrian Defense Minister Karl Ferdinand von Leutendorff led a delegation of Austrian air force experts to Israel to discuss the possible purchase of 24 Israeli-made Kfir jet interceptors. The Austrians were flown from Vienna in an Israel Aircraft Industries Westwind piloted by Danny Shapiro, IAI's chief test pilot.

Austrian test pilots have already tried out the Kfir at the IAI field. Both IAI and Austrian sources deny that the Austrian Defense Minister is coming to Israel to sign the agreement for the purchase.

JOE WALSH IS AN EFFECTIVE LEADER

During his eight years in the General Assembly, Joe successfully sponsored major legislation which has benefited all of our citizens.

In the last session, he sponsored legislation which strengthened parole laws, revised criminal procedures and restructured the courts.

In his leadership role as Senate Majority Whip, Joe supported and helped pass legislation affecting conflict of interest, generic drugs, medical malpractice and Sunday sales revisions.

Warwick needs a mayor with proven leadership ability.

JOE WALSH CAN SOLVE PROBLEMS

Joe saw problems at the ACI and came up with proposals to reform the parole system and build a supermaximum security facility.

Joe saw problems with the proposed runway expansion at Green Airport and worked to defeat the airport runway bond issue.

He saw problems with the Rhode Island court system and, as Chairman of the Special Commission on Criminal Procedures, came up with proposals for court reforms.

When doctors threatened to strike last year, Joe, as a member of the Governor's Special Commission on Medical Malpractice, helped develop comprehensive malpractice legislation.

Warwick needs a mayor who will tackle tough issues and find solutions to difficult problems.

JOE WALSH UNDERSTANDS GOVERNMENT

Joe has experience in both state and local government.

As a former assistant city solicitor for Warwick, Joe worked with the Zoning Board of Review, building and minimum housing inspectors, the Board of Public Safety and Warwick Community Action. He was also in charge of prosecution for the Warwick Police Department.

Joe served in both the House of Representatives and the State Senate. He knows how state government functions.

Warwick needs a mayor who understands how the city and state can work together for the benefit of the people of Warwick.

JOE WALSH CARES ABOUT PEOPLE

Joe is concerned about the needs of the people who live in Warwick.

He believes in an open government that provides a free flow of information to the public.

Joe supported the open meeting bill and the conflict of interest bill passed by the General Assembly and favors passage of open record legislation.

Joe believes in giving people all the facts about issues that concern them. He fought the proposed airport runway expansion because people weren't given enough information about how expansion will affect them.

He believes public officials should be responsive to their constituents and municipal department heads should be accessible to the public.

Warwick needs a mayor who will be open and responsive to the people of our city.

For Warwick-Democrat

Phil Noel, the Democrat who proved he can get government working for the people.

Phil Noel is the Democrat who has brought Rhode Islanders together during the worst of times, and turned a period of threat into a period of progress for the people.

When the Navy was pulled out from under us, it was Phil Noel who created the Department of Economic Development that attracted new companies like Electric Boat. It was his leadership that brought about changes in the tax structure so business could create new jobs. It was Phil Noel who established the facilities to train skilled workers to meet new job opportunities. Under him, the government went to work for the people and the people went back to work.

But Phil Noel not only helped working people earn a decent living, he helped them keep the money they earned. He dramatically up-graded our health insurance programs, taking Rhode Islanders out from under crippling financial hardship with Catastrophic Health Insurance. He created new ways for Rhode Islanders to build and buy homes. And through it all, he fought month after month to hold the line on taxes.

Phil Noel fights and wins for you. Make him your Senator. Vote in the Democratic Primary, Tuesday, September 14.

13 DETAINED
 TEL AVIV: Security forces detained 13 persons at Hebron on the West Bank of the Jordan River following an explosion near the Aliya Hospital there, officials said. The blast caused no casualties and little damage.

Confronting At Eye-Level

NEW YORK: Upon meeting Moshe Tzahar of Tiberias, Israel, Mayor Beame of New York smiled and said, "I'm going to enjoy this — I've just found a mayor as short as I am."

The encounter preceded a City Hall reception to which the five-foot-two New Yorker and his 72-year-old guest attended. Mayor Beame is one year younger.

Mr. Tzahar served in 1948 as Israel's first acting Prime Minister. New York was the last stop for Mayor Tzahar on his American tour, accompanied by 35 other residents of Tiberias, a Biblical city with a current population of 40,000. The Israeli mayor was presented a lithograph by Mayor Beame of City Hall. In return, Mayor Beame was given a reproduction of a coin used in Tiberias in the first century.

Mayor Beame acknowledged the gift with, "Thank you. Maybe this will help us with our budget."

Redgrave Attacks Rescue Operation

LONDON: Vanessa Redgrave, the actress, told a crowded meeting of Palestinian supporters in Kensington, London, that the raid by Israeli commandos at Entebbe airport, Uganda, showed that the Israelis were "the biggest terrorists." She said that so far as the highjacking itself was concerned, it was a "dangerous diversion."

Miss Redgrave, who was one of several speakers at a meeting arranged by Palestine Action, a campaign "for justice for the Palestinians" to discuss the Palestinian situation in Lebanon and to raise funds for medical supplies for the Palestinians, spoke at some length in support of revolutionaries.

She spoke of the "heroic experiences" of the Palestine Liberation Organization and declared that the struggle in Lebanon was class warfare. Now, she said, it had all the appearances of a repeat of the spectre of Black September. The PLO — a revolutionary force in the Middle East — "are going forward to victory," she said. She also declared that imperialism was on the run in every country in the world.

She also said that the Syrian armed troops in Lebanon were "aping Zionist attacks," and added that every day the PLO persisted in its "heroic fight" made greater difficulties for the Zionists and for Syria.

Chairman at the meeting, which raised £500 for medical supplies, was Ms. Louise Eakes, former chairman of the Young Liberals and now editor of "Free Palestine." She told the meeting that they had an important role in Britain — to break down Zionist Power and gain support for Palestinians.

No Stranger To Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (JTA): Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau, who arrived with his wife in Israel at the end of the month as part of a private tour they are making of Europe and the Middle East, is not a stranger to Israel.

Veteran journalists here recall that as a young man Trudeau visited Jerusalem and spent some time in an Old City detention cell. This happened in 1949, when he visited Israel and then went into Jordanian-occupied East Jerusalem. Trudeau took a walk close to the armistice line, arousing the suspicions of Jordanian authorities. He was detained overnight in the old police station within the Old City walls.

If, as expected, Trudeau stays at the King David Hotel during his current visit, he will not be too far away from the prison. And when he completes his visit to Israel, he will be going to Jordan.

Singles Magazine Is Now Available

BOSTON: The August issue of the New England Singles Magazine & Date Book is now available at newsstands throughout the Northeast. It's editorial content is directed toward adult single, divorced, widowed and separated persons.

The magazine is a full size publication printed in color and is published monthly.

The editorial objective of the magazine is to inform singles in the Northeast of Singles' clubs, events and happenings in their local areas. Monthly articles deal with the single's lifestyle.

Also offered is a unique "Single's Classified" section of person-to-person ads. The publisher's premise is the creation of a discreet and private method in print for people to become acquainted with other single adults.

The next issue was to be out August 26. The magazine sells for $1 an issue with a subscription price of $10 yearly for 12 issues, or $6 for six months.

Basic Studies Program

NEW YORK: The American Jewish Committee's Academy for Jewish Studies Without Walls announced a pioneering "Basic Studies Program" in Jewish history and culture that will include summer seminars next year in the United States, Canada and Israel.

The Academy general curriculum will embrace ten new basic courses designed for students enrolling individually or in groups who do not wish to take the original college credit courses offered by the Academy. These high level courses are intended for busy people with a deep interest in Judaica but without the need for acquiring formal credentials, according to the Academy announcement.

The new courses cover the following subjects: Foundations of Judaism, Biblical Thought, Talmudic Thought, Modern Jewish Thought, Judaism and Christianity, Hasidism, Bioethical Issues on the Rabbinic Tradition, History of American Jewry, Zionism, The American Jewish Experience in Literature.

Information on all courses and projects of the Academy may be obtained by writing to Yehuda Rosen- man, Director, Academy for Jewish Studies Without Walls, The American Jewish Committee, 165 East 56 Street, New York, N.Y. 10022.

Vessel Seized By Israel Navy

TEL AVIV (JTA): Israeli Navy units, responding to a distress call, intercepted and captured a Greek- manned Egyptian vessel carrying ammunition for terrorists concealed in its cargo of watermelons. The vessel was towed to an Israeli port. The Israeli boarding party learned from Greek crew members that the craft had sailed from Alexandria and was bound for Lebanon. A search yielded quantities of am- munition, including 155 mm. shells. The crew admitted the ammunition was consigned to Arab terrorists in Lebanon.

PLO Office Is Due To Open In Prague

VIENNA (JTA): The Palestine Liberation Organization will soon open an office in Prague, Czechoslovakia, diplomats have said. "A high-ranking PLO official is scheduled to attend the opening ceremony," the diplomats added.

Arab sources said this was an in- dication that either PLO leader Yasir Arafat or the chief of its political department, Farouk Kad- doumi, is scheduled to come to Prague. The diplomats did not dis- close the date of the opening.

RICHARD LORBER

Richard Lorber is a Director of the Jewish Federation of Rhode Island, a Past Director of the Jewish National Fund and a member of the Temple Beth El Brotherhood. He has given much of his time and money to worthy organizations in the Greater Rhode Island area.

He has also been active in programs aiding the indigent and those in need of medical care. During the civil rights movement of the early '60's, he contributed cars to young people active in voter registration drives in the south.

As a man of compassion and honesty, he can contribute much more to serving the people of Rhode Island as their United States Senator. He will work hard for a government that invests in education, reduces un-employment, controls inflation and protects the rights of all its citizens.

People are the real business of government . . .

"I have always believed that public service should be measured in terms of people helped and problems solved. Legislation and committee assignments are a continuing and vital concern, but people are the real business of government.

"I am proudest of the fact that during the last sixteen years my office has been able to provide direct assistance to over one hundred thousand people in the district. This has been the single most rewarding aspect of my congressional duties.

"Your friendship and encouragement over the years have meant a great deal to my family and myself. Thank you for believing in me and the principles I have worked for in government.

"As we approach the Primary Election on September 14, I have one request to ask of you. Please take a few moments to vote on Primary Day. Exercise your voice in the public business — it can't work without you."

WZO Executive Has Rejected Klarman's Election Demands

TEL AVIV (JTA): The World Zionist Organization Executive rejected demands by Yosef Klarman, a leader of Herut and the WZO's youth aliya director, that the Zionist Congress Court check the legality of not holding elections for the next world Zionist Congress and of his charge that the elections for the last congress were illegal. He was told to take his charges to the WZO's legal advisors' first. Klarman, Herut's representative on the Zionist General Council, was one of the strongest dissenters when the council decided in July to forego elections for the congress in those countries where 90 percent of the Zionist Federations agreed upon a slate of delegates beforehand.

He had urged the WZO to postpone the congress, scheduled for January, 1977, for three months to allow the elections to be held.

Jewish Officer
Killed In Korea

WASHINGTON (JTA): First Lt. Mark T. Barrett, one of the two American army officers killed by North Koreans in a demilitarized zone recently, was converted to Judaism in May 1974, a month before his marriage to Juliane Reiner of Hollywood, Florida, in a Jewish ceremony in Gainesville, Florida.

Barrett and his bride met while students at the University of Florida at Gainesville. He was graduated in 1973 and as an ROTC officer was assigned to the Army Training Center at Fort Jackson, near Columbia, South Carolina. Shortly after his arrival there he approached Rabbi William A. Greenebaum, the Jewish chaplain at Fort Jackson, and expressed his desire to convert to Judaism.

Eleven months later he became a convert after taking instructions from the chaplain. Barrett and his fiancée invited Greenebaum to perform the wedding ceremony. Barrett's immediate family members are Catholics.

Barrett and his wife attended services regularly at the Jewish Chapel in Fort Jackson and were active in its programs. Greenebaum said, "Lieutenant Barrett felt himself very Jewish," the chaplain said.

Greenebaum conducted what he described as "a completely Jewish service" at Fort Jackson. He said the kaddish with Mrs. Barrett. Also participating in the service was Chaplain Mark Manzak, a Catholic priest, who was invited by Greenebaum to join him in the rites. Greenebaum described Barrett and Maj. Arthur G. Bonifas, the other U.S. officer slain by the North Koreans who was buried at West Point on the same day, as "two precious jewels, young men in their prime who have been taken from us."

Avineri Participates In Hegelian Scholars Meet

JERUSALEM: (JTA): Shlomo Avineri, the director general of the Foreign Ministry, left recently for Lisbon, Portugal, to officially participate in a meeting of Hegelian scholars. Avineri, the former head of the Hebrew University political science department, is considered an international expert on Hegel, the German idealist philosopher who developed the modern system of dialectics, and on Marxism. It was stressed here that Avineri's trip has nothing to do with recent indications that Portugal may decide to establish diplomatic ties with Israel, following a statement by Premier Mario Soares that such a step was anticipated.

Israelis Still Will Not Sign

JERUSALEM: Israel continues to be unwilling to sign a nuclear nonproliferation agreement before a regional conference is held for an area agreement on nonproliferation of nuclear weapons. This was stressed by Israeli political sources following Israel's initialing of an agreement for the sale by the U.S. to Israel of two nuclear reactors. This position was expressed last year by Foreign Minister Yigal Allon to the United Nations and by the Knesset this year.

LAROCQUE - WINE

Miss Lois Elaine Wine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice A. Wine of 100 Fordson Avenue, Cranston, was married to Ronald Roger Larocque on September 5. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Larocque of 817 Manville Road, Woonsocket. Rabbi Jacob Handler and Cantor Karl S. Kritz officiated at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony at Temple Beth Israel. A reception followed at the temple social hall.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a gown of ivory silk organza designed with a mandarin neckline, bishop sleeves and a chapel train accented with Venice lace appliques with a cameo insert on the bodice. A matching camelot cap held her long tiered veil of silk illusion which is bordered with Venice lace trim. She carried white roses combined with stephanotis and baby's breath tied with ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Lorie A. Klemer, cousin of the bride. Other attendants were Mrs. Hubert Cournoyer and Mrs. Dennis Hassell.

Best man was Hubert Cournoyer. Ushers were Gary Wine, brother of the bride, and Richard Flood.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in Cranston.

Denies Plans For Lebanese Embassy

WASHINGTON (JTA): The State Department said it has "no intention" of opening an Embassy "or any office" in Christian-controlled areas of Lebanon. Spokesman Robert Funseth made that assertion when he was asked whether U.S. diplomats Robert Houghton and David Mack, who had conferred with Christian leaders, including President-elect Elias Sarkis, had been asked to establish a U.S. mission in Christian-held territory.

Funseth said the diplomats had returned to Cyprus but he has not yet had a report on their consultations in Lebanon. He said that the diplomats carried no U.S. plan to Lebanon. Houghton and Mack had arrived in Lebanon by sea from Cyprus to Jonieh, the unofficial capital of Lebanon's Christian enclave, because there was no other way for American diplomats to reach that sector of Lebanon.

Funseth said earlier that the U.S. has "no specific plan" for the settlement of Lebanon's continuing crisis and vigorously denied implications that the U.S. may favor a division of Lebanon by partition or zones. He said the U.S. reaffirms that "we remain opposed to partition, or de facto partition," and that the U.S. "reaffirms" that it stands for Lebanese sovereignty, national cohesion and unity.

Poet Dinsky Dies In NY

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (JTA): Funeral services were held recently for Lazar Dinsky, a Yiddish poet who died August 20 at the age of 85. Many of his works reflected the struggles of the labor movement in the late 1920s and early 1930s when he was an organizer of fur workers in New York. His books in Yiddish include "In the Meantime," and "Days in Shop."

The Pot Calling The Kettle Black: Third World Trade With S. Africa

WASHINGTON (JTA): Third World countries, while excoriating Israel for its relations with South Africa, are themselves maintaining extensive — but often circumspect — trade with the apartheid-practicing state, the B'nai B'rith International Council said.

Virtually every Black African country, along with Arab and Communist nations, has commercial relations with South Africa, a B'nai B'rith report, released at the Council's annual meeting here, disclosed.

The report, prepared by Dr. Harris Schoenberg, B'nai B'rith's deputy director for United Nations Affairs, noted that South Africa's largest trading partner, after Great Britain, is the African continent where some two dozen Black states trade with South Africa directly or disguise the relationship through intermediaries or purchasing agents.

Several Black states, after importing partly-finished products from South Africa, finish, label and sell them in African markets without any South African identity, the report said.

Hypocrisy In Stand

It said the current Arab propaganda drive charging Israel with racism and citing South African prime minister John Vorster's recent visit to that country as evidence of a "Tel Aviv-Pretoria axis," hypocritically ignores their own growing commerce with Africa, that of a generally pro-Arab France which has become South Africa's principal arms supplier, or Vorster's state visits to the Ivory Coast, Senegal, Liberia and Zambia.

Saudi Arabia, which had openly supplied South Africa with one-fourth of its imported oil before the 1973 embargo made South Africa's energy supplies a classified matter, the Persian Gulf sheikdoms and Jordan are among prominent trading partners with South Africa, the report said. It pointed to large purchases of South African food, pre-fabricated materials and gold by Saudi Arabia.

The report said that Kuwait's royal house, as owner of a London-based conglomerate with 59 subsidiaries in South Africa and Rhodesia, earned profits in Black Africa and used them to subsidize projects in the white-ruled southern states.

Selective Concern

Mozambique, one of the most militant opponents of South Africa, aids the South African economy by sending some 100,000 miners to work in the state's gold mines. In return, Mozambique receives an annual South African subsidy of some $120 million — more than the country receives from either the United Nations or the Soviet Union.

South African exports to other countries have been growing at an annual rate of almost 40% and many Black African states seek loans and credits from the Vorster government, the report said.

Schoenberg cited a 1975 UN economic report as "typical of the selective Third World and Communist concern over apartheid." The report charged the United States and other Western countries, by trading with South Africa, of supporting the brutal and ruthless plunder, and exploitation of human and natural resources, but it failed to mention the Third World and Communist trade.

Mondale Says Israel Support Is Not A Political Question

NEW YORK (JTA): Sen. Walter F. Mondale, the Democratic candidate for Vice-President, said recently that both the Democratic and Republican parties should make clear their support of Israel so that her adversaries can see that "this is not a political position but an American position." Speaking at the American Jewish Committee, Mondale stressed that the United States must both support Israel and seek peace in the Middle East. But in seeking peace, he said, the U.S. must not tie its aid to Israel to any blueprint or timetable.

About 60 persons attended the AJCommittee meeting, including representatives of other Jewish organizations. Mondale, responding to a question about the Palestinians, said "Israel should decide with whom she will negotiate. I don't think Israel can be criticized for refusing to negotiate with an entity that is not a state" and that calls for Israel's destruction, he said.

The Minnesota Democrat noted that Israel has said that it will make concessions for peace and he said the U.S. must not "crowd" or "push" Israel but allow the Jewish State to make its own decisions.

On the question of the Arab boycott, Mondale said he and Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter support bills before Congress banning tax credits for American companies that comply with the boycott and ban tertiary boycott compliance. He said many American companies have refused to comply with the boycott and have found it has not adversely affected them.

Class Action Suit Filed By Nurses

NEW YORK: A class action lawsuit has been filed in federal district court in Manhattan on behalf of Orthodox Jewish nurses and nurses of other faiths who cannot obtain employment at New York University Medical Center because of their Sabbath observance, according to Sidney Kwestel, president of the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs (COLPA).

The suit is being brought by COLPA attorneys Jacob Suslovich, Simon Klein, Leon J. Kimmel and Dennis Rapps.

In the complaint it was charged that the Medical Center has an inflexible employment policy which requires all registered nurses to work periodically on Saturdays and that they therefore refuse to hire observant Jews for those positions.

The complaint alleges that the hospital refuses to consider any arrangement or accommodation which would permit Sabbath observers to be employed as registered nurses while permitting the observance of their Sabbath.

The complaint charges that the hospital's employment policies regarding Sabbath observers violate the United States Civil Rights Act and the regulations of the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

Both enactments require that employers make reasonable accommodation to the religious observance of employees.

15,000 Nurses On 24 hr. Strike

JERUSALEM (JTA): Some 15,000 nurses went on a 24-hour warning strike in a demand for better wages. By the afternoon the strike seemed to be complete, and disruptions in the medical services were reported from various places.

Only emergency crews were on hand in the hospitals to assist the doctors and only emergency cases were admitted. Most of the operations scheduled were postponed. Only maternity wards and pediatrics departments were fully staffed. YAEL, a women's organization which does volunteer hospital work, increased its activities to assist the doctors but barely helped the severe shortage.

The nurses demand that the government grant them special preference in salaries above and beyond general wage hikes in the economy. They claim that due to poor wages, there has been a continuous dropout of nurses from the profession. The result is that increasing hospital needs must be shared by a diminishing number of nurses, thus making work unbearable, according to the nurses' spokesman.

The plight of the nurses is generally recognized by the government, but despite demands by the Health Ministry, the government has not yet approved any special privileges for the nurses, partly because of the fear that such privileges will result in demands from other branches in the economy, which will argue that they are just as vital as the nurses.

Anti-Israel Articles In S. African Paper

JOHANNESBURG (JTA): A series of rabid anti-Israeli articles have been appearing during the last several weeks in Muslim News, an independent newspaper published in the city of Athlone on the Cape of Good Hope.

Accusing Israel of "treachery" in its rescue of hostages at Uganda's Entebbe Airport, the newspaper stated: "The Zionists have shown by this action and actions in the past that they will not hesitate to perpetrate the most inhuman acts to fulfill their aims."

In an editorial, Muslim News charged Israel with planning to convert the Al-Aksa Mosque on Jerusalem's Temple Mount into a synagogue. In another issue the newspaper showed two photographs under the heading,

Soviet Game-Playing In The Lebanese War

By MAURICE SAMUELSON

LONDON (JTA): The Soviet Union is playing a double game over the Lebanese situation. On the one hand, it voices verbal support for the Palestinians; on the other, it carefully refrains from criticizing Syria, whose intervention has tipped the balance in favor of the Palestinians' Lebanese enemies. It is thus hoping that when the fighting dies down it will retain its position in Syria and — through support of the Palestinian cause — in the Arab world as a whole.

This two-tier policy was evident from Soviet propaganda during the siege of the Tel El Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp. In addition to muting criticism of Syria, the Soviets also play down any references to the religious nature of the civil war, which they blame almost entirely on the machinations of U.S. imperialism, Arab reaction and Zionism. Their aim, one Moscow commentator declared, was to destroy the Palestine resistance which was "the strike force of the Arab national liberation movement." Thus, Moscow Radio seized avidly on the report that the Lebanese rightists were using arms supplied by Israel while the Israeli navy was preventing arms from reaching the leftists and Palestinians.

One of the most authoritative Soviet statements on Lebanon was the article in Izvestia, the government newspaper, on July 29, by Viktor Kudryavtsev. He wrote: "It is hard to overestimate the role and place of the Palestine resistance in the Arab national liberation movement. Objectively it is the link between the progressive sections of the population in different Arab countries because circumstances have made it the most consistent fighter for the elimination of the consequences of the Israeli aggression. The Arab people of Palestine wish to establish their own state and for this reason they are fighting for the liberation of the Israeli-occupied Arab lands, the only place where a Palestinian state can be established."

Kudryavtsev warned that the imperialists were "trying to establish an advance post in Lebanon in the form of an Arab Israel!" This would mean "a new aggravation of the Middle East crisis and delays in its settlement."

Moscow's desire to remain friendly with Syria was reflected in a statement by Khaled Bakdash, the veteran Secretary General of the Syrian Communist Party, while visiting the Soviet stand at the Damascus international fair in early August. "Our relations with the great Soviet Union, our great friend, are not based on consideration of the movement, but are relations of destiny in the struggle against imperialism, Zionism and for social progress," Bakdash told Moscow Radio.

From its balanced attitude toward Damascus, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the Soviet Union has resigned itself to letting the military struggle inside Lebanon run its course, even if it ends with the destruction of Palestinian power. Indeed, the Soviets may well believe that the Palestine Liberation Organization will then be a far more malleable instrument. It is significant, too, that Syria as well as Moscow is opposed to the creation of an "Arab Israel" in Lebanon.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union continues its bitter criticism of Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and the Saudi monarchy for their close ties with the United States. It depicts them as traitors to the Arab cause, a charge it refrains from leveling at Syria. Sadat himself seems in no doubt about Moscow's underlying alliance with Syria. Interviewed in the Kuwaiti newspaper, As-Siyasah, on August 14, Sadat ridiculed a claim that Moscow had warned the Syrians to pull out of Lebanon. "I cannot understand what is the meaning of such a warning when the Soviet vessels carrying arms are active in unloading their cargo in Latakia," he said.

"Faces of Zionist Occupation." The caption for one picture accused Israel of being a country ruled by "the law of force which is implemented by guns and batons, as our picture shows."

Israel is not being neglected in the Soviet propaganda war. In addition to its daily Hebrew broadcasts, Moscow has introduced overseas commentaries in Yiddish. Israeli listeners were warned on August 11 that by sending arms to the Lebanese right-wing, "the rules of Israel are dragging the country into a new adventure."

100,000 Americans Protest For Freedom Of Soviet Jews

NEW YORK: A wheelbarrow loaded with petitions signed by 100,000 Americans and urging freedom for Soviet Jews was rolled to the front door of the Soviet Mission to the UN recently in a graphic protest of the USSR's failure to adhere to the principles of the Helsinki agreement.

In attempting to present the petitions to officials of the Soviet Mission, District Attorney Eugene Gold, chairman of the National Conference of Soviet Jewry, stated that the goal of the petition drive is to gather one million signatures. "Our plan is to send these petitions to Soviet Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, to put him on notice."

When John Hawkins says he'll support policies which uphold Israel's right to exist, you can believe him.

Anyone can talk about the future, but the only proof is in past performance. Senate Majority Leader John Hawkins has worked hard for the kind of legislation which helps - Bus Passes for the elderly; a Generic Drug Bill; a commission for small businessmen.

"If you send me to Washington as your U.S. Senator, I will stand up for the work for policies which:

- Make it clear to the Soviet Union and the Arab states that the United States remains committed to Israel's survival.
- Maintain American power in the Middle East primarily through the presence of the 6th Fleet to underscore our commitment.
- Manifest our commitment to the principles contained in the United Nations Security Council Resolutions 242 of November 22, 1967 and 338 of October 22, 1973. Israel has the right to exist behind secure and internationally recognized borders.
- Relieve the military, political and economic pressure imposed on Israel by her enemies.

Nuclear Spread Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON (JTA): A select Senate committee will visit Israel, Egypt, Iran and other countries to study U.S. security and foreign policy interests "with particular emphasis on world-wide nuclear proliferation," the Senate has decided.

The action, which will include visits to European nations, was proposed by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, (D Mont) and Minority Leader Hugh Scott (R Pa) and was adopted without debate Thursday. The European countries were not named.

In introducing the resolution, Mansfield said the "next Congress" will be faced with the development of a policy to cope with the worldwide proliferation of atomic reactors. "It is probable," Mansfield added, "that the Senate will be asked to make judgments on the sale of nuclear reactors to certain countries such as Iran, Israel and Egypt in the Middle East."

His statement was taken as indicating that the Senate will not take up the proposed sales to those countries during the current session of Congress which is expected to adjourn Oct. 2 for the Presidential election.

The committee, to be appointed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, who presides over the Senate, is likely to include members of at least three Senate committees related to foreign relations and nuclear affairs.

Pledge $9 Million For UJA Campaign

NEW YORK (JTA): Fifty American Jewish community leaders from 31 cities pledged $9 million — more than these leadership gifts represented in 1976 — to launch the 1977 United Jewish Appeal campaign in the home of Israel's Ambassador to the UN, Chaim Herzog.

"I don't feel you in the American Jewish community understand the alarming degree to which international anti-Semitism is increasing," Herzog said. "I feel it every day at the UN. You just can't imagine the intensity of this new anti-Semitism. It's geared not just at the people of Israel, but at the Jewish people."

Continuing, Herzog declared: "The reliance on one part of the Jewish people for the other is a message the world understands, for it says that 'we, the Jewish people,' are one — that we will stand up and fight back — than we can revitalize ourselves — and face the future strong, meaningfully and with confidence. That is the message of Entebbe, and it will echo throughout the world."

Frank R. Lautenberg, UJA general chairman, responding to Herzog, stated: "The moral standard of excellence and concern for life expressed by Israel demands a response which we must answer."

Forced To Live As 'Hostages'

JERUSALEM: When Uganda's President Idi Amin visited Syria earlier this year, Syrian Jews were forced to turn out en masse to give him a warm welcome. This was disclosed to the Knesset, which held a special session to discuss the plight of Soviet and Syrian Jews, by Gideon Hausner, Minister - without - portfolio, who quoted a report in a Damascus newspaper.

Hausner said that the 4,500 Jews in Syria were virtually "hostages." These "present-day Marranos," he said, were forced to live a life of shame and degradation.

Hausner also reported that 175,000 Soviet Jews had filed applications to join their families in Israel but there had been no response to their requests. The number of exit visas granted had declined. "This is a blatant violation of the Helsinki Agreement," he told the Knesset.

Carter Pledges Boycott Action

PLAINS, GA. (JTA): Jimmy Carter, the Democratic candidate for President, said here that if he is elected he will take a strong stand against "boycotts of our corporations just because they may happen to have Jewish leaders." In a question and answer briefing with reporters after he met with 11 experts on international economic matters, Carter said that as President he would propose legislation to make "tertiary boycotts" illegal.

The tertiary boycotts involve companies that may not have direct Jewish or Israeli connections but are boycotted by the Arabs for doing business with companies that have such connections.

"If I make (my feeling) clear," Carter said, "It will go a long way to resolving this issue as a matter of principle."

The Prayers Of A Christian Hermit Are Answered By Earthly Jerusalem

By Abraham Rabinovich

WADI KELT: In the awesome wilderness where he normally contemplates the majesty of God in total solitude, Father Photius, an Austrian-born hermit, smiled with delight yesterday as he watched one of his minor prayers being answered by a team of workmen from earthly Jerusalem shouting to each other over the racket of pumps and generators.

A stream of water being pumped up from the Ein Farra springs on the wadi floor 60 metres below spewed out of a plastic hose into two cisterns outside the cliffside monastery where Father Photius has lived alone for the past three years. "Fill it up," he said cheerfully in German. "To the top."

Filling the cisterns means that the 66-year-old monk will no longer have to carry up his drinking water

Quadruplets Are Born In Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (JTA): Quadruplets born to a young Holon couple at Tel Aviv Maternity Hospital, — the first in the hospital's 20 years — have a good chance to survive, though each weighed less than a pound at birth, hospital physicians said today.

The mother, 21-year-old Aviva Arami, had a normal pregnancy — her first — and was not given the fertility drugs which often produce as many as five infants. The father, Adi Arami, was overjoyed, a reaction tempered by the fact that the Aramis still do not have an apartment of their own.

The couple have lived with the mother's parents and then with the father's parents. Holon municipal officials are busy trying to find temporary quarters suitable for such a large family. The officials said the flat the Aramis are scheduled to get should be ready within a few months.

'Quick' Legislation Is Sought By Ramsey Clark

NEW YORK: Ramsey Clark, a Democratic candidate for nomination to the United States Senate, has called for "quick passage" of legislation before the Congress that will penalize businesses who cooperate with the Arab boycott.

Some New York banks that accept letters of credit from Arab companies are "perpetuating an immoral and illegal boycott," Mr. Clark charged, adding that they were doing this by honoring the restrictive clauses and refusing to pay those concerns that do not comply with the boycott.

Mr. Clark said passage of the Stevenson-Rosenthal bill, which would deny tax benefits to complying corporations and subject executives who lie about their earnings from complying countries to fines and jail terms, would strike a blow against the "obvious anti-Semitism" of the boycott.

He further noted that hearings held by the New York State Assembly Committee on Government Operations held earlier this year had shown that the state's anti-boycott law was being circumvented by many New York-based concerns and that federal legislation was needed to "adequately protect the fundamental human rights involved."

The statement was made when Mr. Clark took time from his campaigning to serve as tour guide for 25 high school students from around the country who were visiting New York as part of the program of Encampment for Citizenship. The non-profit group, founded in 1946, conducts summer leadership and educational programs for young people.

Historical Tidbits

The former United States Attorney General, a native of Texas, exhibited a broad knowledge of New York City history in the tour in pails from the spring, equivalent to climbing a 20-story building on a slope of 20 degrees.

It was Father Photius' landsman, Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek, who made it possible for the water to flow uphill at the Fara Monastery. The two met last Easter at a reception given by the "White Russian" Church in the Old City. They were soon conversing in Kollek's native Viennese dialect. When Father Photius explained his water problem — the ancient channels which had once brought rain runoff into the cisterns had long since been broken — Kollek said he would look into the problem.

He came to the monastery a few weeks later after a bruising half-hour ride on a stony track from the village of Anatot and said it would be possible to do the job.

"Teddy always says it's possible," said Municipal Sanitary Engineer Zvi Offer goodnaturedly as his men hauled equipment up the rocky slopes 15 kilometres east of Jerusalem. "Then we have to do it." It had taken eight workmen all day Wednesday just to drag equipment — including a 200 kilogram generator — hundreds of yards across the slopes and link it up.

"I'm afraid to ask what this costs," said Father Photius. "This is another example of how the Israelis are ready to help Christian churches whenever necessary." (Kollek said last night that the cost, as yet undetermined, would be met by the Jerusalem Foundation.) The filled cisterns will permit him to plant a vegetable garden in addition to his flower garden.

The monk, who rises each morning at 2 a.m., generally divides his days between prayer, contemplation, the writing of a history of the monastery and physical work including the tilling of his garden and washing of clothes. ("Without a strict daily discipline you couldn't make it.")

Routine Disrupted

His writing, however, has virtually come to a halt since Beduins broke into the monastery in April during his absence and stole his two typewriters — one with Greek letters and one with Latin letters — along with cameras and ikons.

Once every two or three weeks, Father Photius walks six kilometres up the steep slopes to Anatot where he takes a bus to Jerusalem. He returns in a taxi bearing groceries and the contents of his post office box. The box generally includes newspapers sent to him by the Austrian embassy which he reads while still in town.

The small monastery, which is 1,650 years old, is probably the oldest in the country. It was founded by a Fourth Century saint, Chariton, whose tomb was to make it a centre of pilgrimage. Colonies of hermits lived in the caves on the cliffs surrounding the spring. Encouraged by Byzantine rulers anxious to build up a Christian presence in the desert to counter increasing Arab pressure, some 7,000 hermits were said to be living in the Judean Desert when the Persian invasion of 614 led to their general slaughter.

Although a number of desert monasteries still survive, it is difficult finding monks willing to live in them. One of Father Photius' motives for staying on at Fara is a feeling that it would probably be closed down if he were to leave.

Although he regards himself as a hermit, he concedes that his shopping trips to town deviate from the hermit's regime. Normally, he says, the church provides a hermit with food and other provisions but he is not provided such service. The monastery is open to visitors Wednesdays and Thursdays but is difficult to reach. A convivial man, he apparently enjoys his occasional visitors. Despite his Austrian (Linz) origins, Father Photius has chosen to be a member of the Greek Orthodox Church which he feels is closest to original Christianity. (The monastery, however, is the property of the White Russians.) He has been a monk 16 years — one of them on Mount Athos in Greece. His solitary existence in Wadi Kelt, he says, has brought him inner tranquility. "It has permitted me to learn sufficiently about myself to advise others."

He knows that he himself cannot stay many more years at Fara. He does not feel loneliness, he said. But the climbs up the mountainside to Anatot would be difficult for far younger men. Once he fell ill and lay unconscious in the monastery for three hours. He has a picture of a small house in the Austrian Tyrol to which he will retire one day with an Austrian pension.

He will bear with him the memory of the Wadi Kelt cliffside changing colour with the shifting sun and of the startling array of stars visible from the utter blackness of the canyon. "Here," he says, "you feel the almightiness of God."

JERUSALEM: Iraqi soldiers are now reported to be fighting alongside the leftist-Palestinian forces in Lebanon. Two prisoners held by the Christian rightist forces admitted at a press conference in Beirut that they were Iraqi soldiers sent there secretly as part of a 150-man Iraqi unit to fight alongside the leftists.

They were captured while fighting in Shiyah, a suburb south of Beirut. A Palestinian spokesman, however, denied that any force of regular Iraqi troops had joined the combatants. There were, he said, volunteers from many nations fighting alongside the leftist forces. There are indications from other sources, however, that Iraqi troops have quietly been infiltrating into the leftist-Palestinian units.

US Charged With Sealing Fate Of WWII Jews Killed By Nazis

WASHINGTON (JTA): Morris B. Abram, former U.S. representative to the UN Human Rights Commission, charged that restrictive and inflexible American immigration policies sealed the fate of European Jews exterminated by the Nazis in World War II. He urged that the president be given discretion to vary immigration policies for the victims of genocide to avoid a similar disaster in the future.

Testifying before the House Foreign Policy Research and Development Subcommittee, Abram, a New York attorney who is honorary president of the American Jewish Committee, also urged Congress to ratify the UN Genocide Convention, to maintain "absolutely firm and unmistakable commitments to the security of Israel," and to adopt legislation aimed at preventing discrimination against American citizens and firms resulting from the Arab boycott.

Abram urged that the U.S. maintain a flexible immigration policy with respect to victims of genocide and an "unyielding position against genocide on behalf of human rights." He charged that almost no voices were raised against the murder by Indonesia of one-half to three-quarter million of its citizens after the overthrow of President Sukarno. Likewise, he pointed out that UN bodies were "very quiet" when the Ibos were being slaughtered during the Nigerian rebellion a few years back.

U.S. Had Information

Turning to U.S. failure to help European Jews survive, Abram charged that the State Department had reliable information on Hitler's plans to exterminate all Jews as early as 1942. However, he added, both the U.S. and Britain rejected requests for cooperation in rescue efforts during the war and immigration officials here so administered the law that few Jewish refugees from Germany were permitted entry into this country.

Tracing the rise of the Nazis to power in Germany and Europe, Abram declared that there were many opportunities "to chain this criminal state after its course was clear and its crimes against its own people were established, but the world failed to consider human rights problems with Germany as of any concern outside. So, the beast was able to devour its own and eventually it stalked abroad and devoured Europe."

Continuing, Abram insisted that "without taking any steps to their disadvantage, I submit that it was possible for the West to have saved the Jewish populations of France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Italy and perhaps of Germany, had these states the time and will to do so. Immigration quotas, bureaucratic lassitude or indifference, administrative runaround and in many cases blatant prejudice resulted in the liquidation in these countries of unnecessary thousands of men, women and children, who could have been rescued by foresight and forceful policies undertaken at the right time."

He contrasted these actions with accomplishments of the Danish people who, in spite of the fact that their country was occupied by the German army, kept almost all 8000 Danish Jews hidden and then ferried them to Sweden, where they remained until the end of the war.

Orthodox Synagogue Constructed At Last

NEW YORK: After five years of worshipping in makeshift quarters, 100 Orthodox Jews dedicated their new, one-story synagogue in the heart of the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn recently.

The 102-year-old synagogue of Congregation Tifereth Israel was destroyed by fire five years ago, leaving the worshippers without a house of prayer. Four Torahs — the sacred scrolls of Judaism — were saved, but 44 others were destroyed.

At the dedication ceremony, the four Torahs were carried under a canopy from the small brownstone basement synagogue where the group had worshipped into the new synagogue.

In the procession were Max Froot, the congregation's president; Hyman Fischberger, vice president; Dr. Gabriel Kirschenbaum, secretary-treasurer; his wife, Cele, financial secretary, and Morris Herman, a trustee.

For the last five years, the officers — led by Dr. Kirschenbaum, a physician who has been associated with the synagogue for 50 years, and his wife had raised funds among friends to construct the new synagogue at a cost of close to $400,000.

Torahs Placed in Ark

Mrs. Kirschenbaum said, "We can't thank enough those friends, the artisans, who gave of their time to make the two lettered stained-glass windows that will be installed in the sanctuary flanking the Ark holding the Torahs."

Echoing that gratitude in Yiddish was Mr. Froot, who listed the contributions of religious articles and funds that worshippers and friends had made.

As the Ark — the repository for the Torahs — was opened, the worshippers stood. The Torahs were placed inside as Cantor Hershel Weiss chanted the hymns.

"At last," remarked Rabbi Israel Wagner, spiritual leader of the Beach Haven Jewish Center, who officiated, "there is now a Clymer Street shule (synagogue) that has three names: house of prayer, house of learning and house of assembly."

"It is a day for rejoicing, to pray for the welfare of our people the world over, to remember that we have known suffering through the ages."

The synagogue was founded on the Manhattan's Lower East Side more than 100 years ago, and was first known as the "Brisker" synagogue, deriving the name from members who had emigrated from Russia's Brest-Litovsk. Some 70 years ago, it was moved to the Williamsburg section and became known as the "Clymer Street Shule."

Ilyinka Families Denied Their Right To Emigrate

NEW YORK (JTA): Moscow authorities have refused to allow 80 families from the Soviet village of Ilyinka to emigrate to Israel on the grounds that they are not really Jewish, the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry has learned. The families are descendants of Russians who were converted to Judaism several centuries ago.

Bronx Borough President Robert Abrams, Conference chairman, explained that the authorities had earlier permitted the emigration of eight families from Ilyinka, which is located in the Voronezh region 1400 miles from Moscow. However, in the past year, 109 invitations from relatives in Israel have not been delivered.

In an effort to isolate the villagers, Soviet activists Vladimir Slepak and Anatoly Sharansky were barred from visiting the village earlier this summer. The Ilyinka Jews are forced to have their internal passports stamped with a false entry stating that they are Russian nationals since they have Russian surnames.

According to Moscow activists, Abrams said, the Ilyinka villagers observe Shabbat and Jewish holidays, bake matzot on Passover and give their children Biblical names. On the birth of a baby boy, the child is taken 650 miles to Daghستان for circumcision. The villagers originally lived elsewhere in the Soviet Union, but were forced to escape from their homes when threatened with pogroms in 1913.

League Cites More Boycott Compliance

NEW YORK: The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith charges that four American firms, including a Chicago company, have cooperated with the Arab boycott against Israel by certifying that goods they provided their Arab customers were not manufactured in Israel and did not contain Israeli materials.

The ADL said one of the companies, York, a division of Borg-Warner of Chicago, made such a declaration for the air conditioners it sent to Saudi Arabia. The other companies were identified as IRI, a non-profit research organization; Berger and Plate, a San Francisco import-export firm; and Fruin-Colnon, a St. Louis construction company. Officials of the companies denied cooperating with the boycott.

The ADL said that the continued compliance with the boycott shows that public opinion is not having any effect and that compliance can only be stopped by strong laws.

Davidovich Family Gets Exit Permit

NEW YORK (JTA): The National Conference on Soviet Jewry reported that the family of the late Col. Yefim Davidovich has received an exit permit to emigrate to Israel. Eugene Gold, NCSJ chairman, said this move "represents the culmination of a long struggle, though tragically Colonel Davidovich never lived to see his name on an exit visa." He died of a heart attack on April 24, at his home in Minsk.

Before he died, Gold recalled, Davidovich said, "My life experience brought me to the conclusion that my family and I can live a life worthy of a human being and a citizen only in the Jewish National State. ... I would not deny the truth, deny my words even if I had to suffer everything from the beginning."

Sixteen months later the former Soviet war hero died, still hounded by the KGB. Buried in Minsk in full military uniform, more than 1000 persons attended the funeral. In a letter to the West, Davidovich's widow, Maria, wrote: "Thank you for your consolations in my time of sorrow. I agree to have Davidovich's remains transferred to Israel for burial. Alive or dead he belongs to his people ..."

Denounces Naming Of Libyan As President Of UN Security Council

UNITED NATIONS (JTA): Israel, charging that Libya was behind the highjacking of the Air France plane to Uganda, the recent terrorist attack on passengers boarding an El Al plane in Istanbul and other terrorist atrocities, denounced the fact that the Libyan representative will be the president of the Security Council in September.

"What more blatant example could there be of the systematic cynical disregard of the Charter of the United Nations than the fact that the representative of Libya, the paymaster and instigator of international terror, will preside over the Security Council during the month of September," Israeli ambassador Chaim Herzog said in a letter to UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim. "Exactly four years after the massacre of the Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympiad, an accomplice to that crime will assume the presidency of the Security Council," he stated.

The presidency of the Council is rotated automatically each month among its 15 members. But, Herzog noted, "Libya, a totalitarian dictatorship ruled by Colonel (Muammar) Qaddafi, whose hands are soaked in the blood of innocent victims of international and Arab terror throughout the world" is a member of the council which is charged by the UN Charter with "the maintenance of international peace and security." He added, "It is the considered view of the government of Israel that the time has been reached when the UN must take immediate and effective action in order to put an end to this intolerable situation."

Herzog's letter, which he asked to be circulated as an official document of both the Council and the General Assembly, contained a list of a dozen terrorist hijackings and other attacks in which Libya was involved from September 8, 1971 through March 3, 1974. In his letter the Israeli envoy centered on Libyan responsibility for the attack in Istanbul in which four El Al passengers were killed. He said that the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an "integral part of the so-called Palestine Liberation Organization," has claimed credit for both the Istanbul attack and the Air France hijacking to Entebbe. "The guiding force behind these foul attacks is Libya," Herzog said. "It bears responsibility together with the perpetrators for the criminal acts."

Herzog declared that the active participation by Qaddafi and Libya "in planning, supporting and cooperating with Arab terrorist movements and with international terrorist movements not only against Israel but also against other countries in North Africa, in the Middle East and throughout the world is common knowledge. Indeed Col. Qaddafi prided himself on this fact in his address, to the conference of non-aligned countries in Colombo on August 18.

"It is the official and systematic policy of the president of Libya to initiate and finance from the considerable income available from oil sales, acts of assassination, subversion, conspiracy and sabotage in countries outside Libya. These acts are carried out in blatant violation of the Charter of the United Nations and the principles of international law."

Herzog noted that even Egyptian president Anwar Sadat confirmed Libyan involvement in the Entebbe hijacking in an interview recently with the Kuwaiti newspaper, Al-Siyasah. Herzog quoted the paper as saying that Sadat declared that the hijacking of the French plane to Entebbe was arranged at a meeting which took place between Qaddafi and George Habash, the leader of the PFLP, and that Qaddafi "paid the money and smuggled the arms to Athens in Libyan diplomatic pouches, and that the Libyan Embassy later turned over the arms to the hijackers."

Herzog's letter came as three terrorists hijacked an Egyptian airliner with more than 100 persons aboard on an internal flight shortly after takeoff from Cairo. The plane was recaptured by Egyptian commandos who stormed the plane at the airport in Luxor where it had landed.

Egyptian Prime Minister Mamedouh Salem charged that Qaddafi was behind the hijacking and that the three hijackers had been promised $250,000 in Egyptian money to bring the airliner to Libya.

The hijackers, who were captured alive, had threatened to blow up the plane and its passengers unless five prisoners held in Egyptian prisons on two assassination attempts were released. One hijacker had a Kuwaiti passport, the second a Jordanian passport and the third a Palestinian travel document.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

DAVID R. SARGENT

EXECUTOR'S DUTIES EXACTING

Q: A long-time friend has asked permission to name me as executor in his will. Before I say yes, I would like some information on what would be expected of me. Can you give me any help? R. G., Montana

A: You are wise to look before you leap. Many individuals agree to serve in this capacity without any clear knowledge of the duties and responsibilities they will be called upon to assume. In a case where the estate is small, where it is not unduly complicated by business arrangements, where no minor children or aging dependents are present to require service of several years' duration, or where no family disagreements are likely to arise, the task can be fairly routine.

In more complex situations, or where the disposition of the estate's assets are challenged, the job can take on nightmarish proportions. And, in such cases an executor must know what he is doing. Inept handling of an estate can needlessly drain assets and whether such erosion is intentional or not, the executor can be held personally liable. He may also be held liable for making "speculative" investment, failure to take proper and timely action and, of course, for embezzlement or other loss.

As executor, you will be expected to safeguard a copy of the will, help make funeral arrangements, and see to the immediate and continuing financial needs of the family. You must make an inventory of all estate property, determining if there are any joint ownership implications, gather all records of the estate, check safe deposit boxes, and have the property appraised for tax purposes. It is the duty of the executor to establish and maintain proper accounting and bank records, to arrange for adequate insurance coverage for estate property, and to maintain business and real estate interests of the estate.

Furthermore, if legal or other advice is required, you will be expected to engage and see to payment of an equitable fee for these services. It is the executor's responsibility to apply for death benefits from employer, Social Security, VA, insurance and annuity policies. Settling claims for and against the estate, paying taxes and costs on time and making periodic distributions to beneficiaries are additional duties. Last but by no means least, you, as executor, would prepare a final accounting for approval for the court.

PORTFOLIO FOR TWENTY-YEAR-OLD

Q: I am 20 and have saved $6,000 which I would like to invest for growth without a lot of risk. I am entering the service for four years. Would dividend reinvestment plans be good for me? What stock would you suggest I start off with? P. L., Pennsylvania

A: To my way of thinking, these plans would be an ideal method for you to build a portfolio while you are in the service. Once such plans are implemented the process is automatic and would not need your constant supervision. Initially you could invest $1,500 in shares of three companies with these plans, which would leave you with a similar amount in your savings account for added safety. My selections for you are: American Brands (NYSE), Dillon Cos. (NYSE) and RCA Corp. (NYSE). Dividends reinvested at the current trading price for these 3 stocks would add approximately 2 1/2 shares of American Brands, 1 1/2 Dillon and 2 RCA in a year's time. Cash additions would build your portfolio that much faster.

American Brands, a leading cigarette maker, derives three-quarters of its revenues from Gallagher (A British tobacco company) liquor, food products, toiletries, etc. A golf equipment manufacturer has recently been acquired. A 6.9% yield and a regularly rising dividend add appeal to the shares.

Dillon, a midwestern retailer, reported an 18% rise in sales for the year ended July 3, while earnings jumped 27% to $2.50 a share from $1.97.

New management at RCA has put new color in its earnings picture. Across-the-board improvement pushed first-half profit to $1.14 a share against $0.55 in 1975. These three stocks should give you a good start on your investment program.

Bipartisan Bloc Urging 'Appropriate Measures'

WASHINGTON (JTA): President Ford was asked by a powerful bipartisan bloc of 20 senators to take "appropriate measures" to combat international terrorism, including suspension of American traffic to any country harboring terrorists.

In introducing the "sense of the Senate" resolution on the bloc's behalf, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) said it should be taken as "an

Israeli Consulate Attacked In Milan

ROME: Four windows in the Israeli Consulate in Milan were broken on Sunday by demonstrators protesting the successful air rescue of the hostages detained in Uganda by Israeli commandos.

The police dispersed the demonstrators who also painted slogans on the walls of the Consulate. Four were arrested.

A statement issued by the "Workers Socialist Movement" claimed that the demonstrators temporarily occupied the Consulate, but consular staff and the police denied this.

A group of Communist members of the Chamber of Deputies, including Mr. Sergio Segre, the head of the Italian Communist Party's international office, has tabled a question on the air rescue to the Foreign Minister.

They are asking whether the (Italian) Government will firmly protest against the Israeli raid which, although it succeeded in freeing most of the hostages . . . represents, nevertheless, a very grave patent violation of the sovereignty of another State and claimed heavy casualties.

The Communist MPs emphasized that it is "Italy's duty, while condemning the foolish terrorist attack, to clearly disassociate herself from the chorus of laudatory voices which in other Western European countries hailed the raid, and joined instead the severe condemnation voiced by Dr. Kurt Waldheim (the United Nations Secretary-General)."

$1 MILLION AD BUDGET

WASHINGTON: Jimmy Carter's campaign Committee is to spend about $1 million on newspaper advertising for the Presidential election campaign and the bulk of it will go to newspapers serving Blacks and Jews in states critical to him, according to Editor and Publisher.

indication that the United States does not intend to tolerate the continued activities of terrorists and their accomplices."

The resolution, which was referred to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, urges the president to direct U.S. ambassadors to encourage foreign governments to suspend air service to any nation "aiding or abetting terrorism until the international community, in implementing the Helsinki accords, has been assured that the nation in question has ceased such activity."

It also recommends that the president undertake negotiations to strengthen the "current minimum safety standards and improve airport security in those nations with direct air links to any transgressor nation and in other airports servicing international air transportation."

Other Recommendations

Other recommendations would have the U.S. suspend the rights by any foreign air carrier between the United States and any foreign nation that may involve terrorism and revoke operations by any airline that does not maintain "transportation security sufficient to meet the minimum security standards" established by the convention on international civil aviation.

The resolution also urges the president to conduct a comprehensive review of all U.S. trade and diplomatic relations to determine what further appropriate actions, including specific sanctions, may be taken to discourage any further support of international terrorism.

Among the cosponsors of the resolution are Senate minority leader Hugh Scott (R-PA), deputy minority leader Robert Griffith (R-MI), Clifford Case, ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale and Hubert H. Humphrey, Democrats of Minnesota, Adlai Stevenson (D-IL) and Walter Huddleston (D-KY).

Mr. Case told the senate that "there is overwhelming evidence that the Libya government has aided and abetted terrorists" and that therefore "it is time for the world to treat the Qaddafi government as one deals with an infected animal — by imposing quarantine." He urged the president to encourage nations to suspend service to Libya until "Libya no longer assists terrorists."

Cabinet Review Of Sinai Accord

JERUSALEM (JTA): The Sinai agreement signed with Egypt has lived up to expectations, and served the interests of both countries, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said. His statement followed a special Cabinet session dedicated to the interim agreement signed a year ago.

The session opened with a report by Allon. Army Chief of Staff Gen. Mordechai Gur reviewed the military situation in the Sinai, but no decision was made regarding the present political situation there. Most of the participants in the discussion agreed that the interim agreement had been a positive move and noted the easing of the situation in the region, the tightening of relations with the United States and Egypt's efforts for civilian development in the Suez Canal zone.

However, there was some ministerial criticism of Egyptian violations of the accord and the recent warlike statement by President Anwar Sadat.

Following the session Allon said in a radio interview that Israel benefited in the agreement in that it could reorganize its armed forces, and rearrange new defensible lines.

"As a quid pro quo for our territorial concessions we got satisfactory security arrangements as well as American military aid," he said. He expressed the belief that the interim agreement would eventually lead to further agreements in the region. However, he added, such agreements will have to wait until after the Lebanese crisis, "which blocks any hope and possibility for any Arab readiness to try and negotiate further steps."

Discounts Elections

Allon discounted any connections between the American elections and possible new political moves in the area. "Why should America press Israel, when America knows very well that Israel gave up its demand for an overall settlement and satisfied itself with the American idea of a cessation of the state of war? America knows very well that it is because of the Arabs — who did not bother to answer our proposals — that there is no progress in this particular area."

Continuing, Allon declared, "Any satisfactory agreement will be accepted by Israel without pressure. Any agreement which will not satisfy Israel will not be accepted, even under pressure. I know we are not a big power, but we comprise 50% of the conflict."

Dayan Critical

In an interview on Israel Radio, former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan criticized the Sinai accord saying that Israel gave up land without receiving anything in return. Dayan said Israel failed to get in the accord what it should have: an end of belligerency agreement. He said it could still get this agreement if the United States made it a condition for providing American arms and economic aid to Egypt.

Dayan also said he would have preferred to have symbolic contingents of U.S. and Soviet troops in the United Nations peace-keeping force which supervises the buffer zone under the second Sinai agreement.

Judge's Formal Apology Sought In Courtroom 'Yarmulka' Issue

By Ben Gallob
NEW YORK (JTA): A spokesman for the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs (COLPA) said COLPA will request a formal apology from a Manhattan federal judge if an investigation confirms a Jewish Defense League charge that the judge ordered a JDL spectator at an arraignment hearing to remove his yarmulka or leave the courtroom.

The JDL charged "overt anti-Semitism" against Judge Henry Werker, Southern District federal court, on the basis of the incident which the JDL said occurred at the arraignment of Russel Kelner, 35, former JDL operations officer, on an 11-count federal indictment.

'Five Cardinal Points' To Reach Settlement

NEW YORK (JTA): Simcha Dinitz, Israel's Ambassador to the United States, outlined to the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations Aug. 24 what he said are Israel's "five cardinal points" necessary to achieve a Middle East settlement.

According to sources, they are: the Soviet Union should be kept out of the negotiating process since it could jeopardize the realization of a just and lasting peace; a strong Israel is a necessary precondition for free negotiations; a security margin which would protect Israel against invasion; no foreign guarantees as a substitute for a negotiated settlement; and no imposed peace.

Dinitz told the Presidents Conference that there is no progress toward a Mideast settlement at present because the Arab states are first waiting for the Lebanese crisis to end. He said Israel has offered the Arabs the option of an overall peace settlement or the American-suggested state-by-state end of belligerency agreement.

He said each week he asks Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger if the Arabs have given an answer to the proposal and each week he is told, no. In answer to a question, Dinitz scored the sale of arms to the Arab countries by the Soviet Union and the industrialized West. He said a dangerous situation was created by the "lust" for arms by the Arab military regimes and the desire by the industrialized countries for the huge cash surpluses of the Arab regimes.

Peiper's Group Strikes Again

PARIS: The group which claims to be avenging the death of former S.S. Colonel Joachim Peiper, whose body was allegedly found in his burned-out cottage in France, has struck again. It claims to have placed an incendiary bomb at a building in Rue de Paradis here, which houses a number of Jewish organizations including the weekly Yiddish-French weekly newspaper "Presse Nouvelle," the Friendship Association of former French Jewish Deportees and the Union of Jewish-French Associations.

The bomb caused a blaze which took the fire brigade 30 minutes to extinguish. Half of the offices in the building were badly damaged, but there were no casualties.

Bureau Of Prisons Will Recognize 13 Holy Days

WASHINGTON: The federal Bureau of Prisons has expanded its list of recognized religious holy days when Jewish inmates may abstain from their work assignments from two days to all 13 when work is forbidden to Jews, under agreement negotiated by the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs (COLPA). Sidney Kwestel, COLPA president, said that, under the previous policy, the bureau accepted only one day of Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur as "recognized religious holidays."

Kelner and three other JDL members were charged on Aug. 19 with participating in a conspiracy which allegedly included shooting into the Soviet Mission to the United Nations and into the Soviet residential complex in the Bronx, as well as with an alleged pipe-bombing attempt at the Iraqi Mission to the UN and an alleged pipe-bombing of a Gulf Oil service station.

The charges were contained in a federal indictment handed up in Manhattan shortly after Jeffrey Weingarten, 21, of Brooklyn, and Kelner, also of Brooklyn, were arrested. The two other JDL defendants, Thomas MacIntosh, 36, of Woodbury, N.J., and Steven Ehrlich, 21, of San Francisco, were arrested last June 8, on Staten Island en route from New Jersey. MacIntosh has been described by the JDL as a convert. Kelner received a one-year suspended sentence last year for making a televised threat to assassinate Yasir Arafat in 1974 when the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization visited New York for an unprecedented address to the UN General Assembly.

Bonnie Pechter, JDL coordinator, said that cash bail of $25,000 each was posted for Kelner and for Weingarten. She said that as she was about to testify on the bail, Judge Werker demanded that a male spectator remove his hat. Miss Pechter identified the yarmulke wearer as Sheldon Fine, a JDL member, who had come to observe the proceedings.

'Not A Temple'
Judge Werker said his court was not a temple and ordered Fine to remove his "hat." Ralph Naden, the attorney for Kelner, objected, declaring the "hat" was a religious article worn by observant Jews. Miss Pechter said that Judge Werker replied he did not care what the head covering was, that "no one wears a hat in my courtroom," and that Fine must remove it or leave. Fine left.

Miss Pechter said Kelner wore a yarmulke Aug. 19 and that Judge Werker did not object. She said Kelner had mislaid his yarmulka and was not wearing it during his appearance when bail was set. She said the fact that the press was present on Aug. 19 but not on Aug. 20 might have some bearing on Judge Werker's reactions on the head-covering matter. She told the JTA she had discussed the matter with an attorney of the American Civil Liberties Union who told her there was no legal warrant for Judge Werker's reported order to Fine.

The JDL demanded, in a news statement, that Judge Werker be removed immediately, and that until he is, he be barred from sitting on any cases involving Jews, "inasmuch as he is definitely prejudiced regarding Jewish matters." A legal source consulted by the JTA said that it was virtually certain that Judge Werker would not be removed or suspended for the purported order against Fine but that he was subject to reprimand.

The JTA was told that Orthodox Jewish attorneys and Orthodox defendants do not remove their skullcaps during appearances in all types of courts and that such challenges as that of Judge Werker never occur. The 11-count indictment charged that the defendants violated federal laws involving conspiracy, transportation of weapons and the protection of foreign officials in the United States. Conviction could mean prison sentences of up to ten years on each count.
