Rabbi Emeritus Bohnen To Speak At Services At Emanu-El

Temple Emanu-El will continue its 50th anniversary observance with the Friday, December 13, to Sunday, December 15, weekend devoted to recalling the second 25 years in temple life. Rabbi Emeritus Eli A. Bohnen, the congregation's spiritual leader during that period, will deliver the sermon at the Friday evening service on December 13 at 8:10 o'clock when his subject will be "Temple Emanu-El - The Second 25 Years." At this service there will also be a special observance for the Yahrzeit of the late Arthur Einstein, the temple musical director for many of those years.

An Oneg Shabbat with Mrs. Max Alperin as chairman will follow the service. Following a Men's Club breakfast on Sunday morning, December 15, Rabbi Bohnen will speak on his 40 years in the rabbinate with "Is That a Profession for a Jewish Boy?"

During the years of Rabbi Bohnen's leadership the temple achieved its greatest physical growth and established its leadership in the religious, cultural and educational life of the community. The school building was completed in 1953 and the three days a week integrated religious school program which Rabbi Bohnen advocated was established.

A meeting house with facilities for cultural and social activities was built in 1959 and in it space was provided for a Jewish museum. In 1969 16 murals executed by Professor Walter Feldman of Brown University were installed in the windows of the meeting house.

Rabbi Bohnen has done much to further the cause of Zionism and Israeli Bonds here and he has also been president of the Rabbinical Assembly. He holds honorary degrees from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and from the University of Rhode Island and Brown University as well.

The temple will hold its second First Sunday on December 15. These events mark Rosh Hodesh each month and the programs, which were inaugurated for the 50th anniversary year, are planned to involve families in creative observance of special events. The program on December 15 will be a performance by a traveling repertory troupe, "The Mixed Bag," in which both the theater group and the audience are activated together. A congregational Hanukkah latke party will follow the performance.

Conservative Judaism Convention Gives Women A 'More Equal Role'

Kiamesha Lake, New York...Following discussion and debate, the 2,000 delegates participating in the Convention of the Women's League for Conservative Judaism, voted by a six-to-one margin to allow women, in effect, to be counted in the Minyan (the quorum required for synagogue or group prayer) and to be called up to make the blessing at the reading of the Torah. This issue had been the subject of considerable controversy within Conservative Jewish circles. The large vote of approval, therefore, came as a surprise even to supporters of the resolution.

The resolution approved the recent decisions of the Committee on Jewish Law and Standards of the Rabbinical Assembly of America (rabbinic arm of Conservative Judaism) which allowed women "a more equal role in ritual and synagogue life, with the understanding that the rabbi is the final religious authority in his congregation". Conservative synagogues are now to be encouraged "to explore and discuss the implications of these decisions and to implement them as individual circumstances permit."

At the religious service conducted throughout the convention, the women were called up for the reading of the law and the recitation of the blessings on the appropriate days.

Jewish Dilemmas
Prior to the discussion and the vote, Dr. Gerson D. Cohen, chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary, conducted an unusual Torah Session for the 2,000 Convention delegates on the subject of "Ethical Dilemmas: Means and Ends in Jewish Law," which dealt with the Dilemmas:

that individuals and institutions face in trying to achieve desirable goals, and the temptation to use questionable means towards that end. He made frequent reference to Talmudic sources in his exposition,

OZ TO SPEAK: Amos Oz, one of Israel's leading writers and culturalists will be the second guest speaker in the Adult Institute Lecture series, on Sunday, December 8, at 8 p.m. in the Temple Emanu-El meeting house. He will speak on "An Israel Sabra Writer Looks At Israel."

Amos Oz was born in Jerusalem and at 15, he went to live and work at Kibbutz Hulda. He is presently writing and teaching literature at the regional kibbutz secondary school.

He has participated in the defense of Israel, serving in the Tank Corps during the Yom Kippur War and the Six Day War. As B'nai B'rith Visiting Lecturer in the United States in 1973, he was applauded for the honesty and passion of his presentation.

and said that rabbinic tradition had been able to find constructive answers in resolving the tensions arising from such dilemmas.

Recognizing that hundreds of the women delegates were in an agonizing position on the matter of the impending vote - which to them may have represented a departure from Jewish tradition - Dr. Cohen, without taking a position on the vote, asserted that "in a world of rapid change our posture must follow classic rabbinic guidelines. We must be open to change - but orderly change, within boundaries established by the principles of our tradition. Only in this way will we preserve our sacred institutions, and retain their relevance to the problems of our day."

Dr. Cohen revealed that he was the one who made the decision to call women and adolescent girls to the Torah at the services held at the Ramah Camps, the summer-camping arm of the Conservative Movement, because he believed that the women at the camps were dedicated and ready for the performance of such Mitzvot.

AN EXPLANATION

TEL AVIV: Professor Benjamin Akzin, charges that Israel could have done much more in winning world public support had it used appropriate techniques to explain and clarify its position, especially with respect to the so called Arab "refugee problem". In the last sixty years, Akzin writes, there have been a great number of population transfers where minority groups left their countries of residence en masse and were replaced by minorities from other lands. In all such instances the displaced persons were never accorded the status of "refugees".

And You Wonder What Happens To The Herald?

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY: More than 12 tons of undelivered mail, some dating to 1967 and most of it advertising material have been found in a postman's attic.

Postmaster S.N. Devito said that the mail had been found in about 1,200 sacks in the home of Frank Sosienski. Mr. Sosienski, 54 years old, has been employed by the Postal Service for 10 years.

Postal inspectors charged Mr. Sosienski with detaining and delaying mail and suspended him pending a hearing.

Mr. Devito said that six persons would be assigned to deliver the mail and that it would take about a month to complete the task.

NEWINGTON, CONN.: A young mailman was charged with stealing and delaying more than three tons of mail in the Hartford area it was reported Tuesday.

The mail was found in his attic during a weekend house fire.

Robert Santangelo, 23, was charged with violating two federal statutes relating to the theft and delay of mail by a postal employee and released on $1,000 bond after appearing before US Magistrate Thomas F. Parker.

Postal officials said most of the mail would be sorted and delivered.

He had worked as a mail carrier in several Hartford area towns. Authorities said the mail had disappeared from several points in the postal system.

The mail, dumped on the lawn outside the partially destroyed house, was put into a 40 foot trailer. It covered the floor to a height of four feet.

WINNERS: The winners of the Annual Book Review Contest, sponsored by the Educators' Council of the Bureau of Jewish Education, at the Jewish Book Month celebration held on November 24, are, left to right, Maryland Estes, Temple Beth El librarian, contest judge, who made the presentation; Judah Organic, Faith Corwin, Laura Glicksman, Jamie Josephson and Robert Kumins.

A POLITICAL ORGANIZATION?

After a vote of Arab nations had thrown Israel out of UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization), a story has come through that UNESCO "worried by the unfavorable reaction to measures taken against Israel in a recent meeting of the organization, said it hoped Israeli scientists, educators and scholars would continue contributing to its work." Our question, why should they?

When at UNESCO's general conference in Paris last month, a series of Arab-inspired resolutions were adopted expressing hostility to Israel, and actually ended in barring Israel from UNESCO's European region and another conference vote cut off her aid, $24,000, for her cultural institutions (nowhere near the amount Israel has contributed to UNESCO), how can the organization expect help from the Israelis? Although, we don't doubt that Israeli scientists, educators and scholars may continue their work if they feel the people may need it.

UNESCO has done a great many important jobs for needy children and other people over the years, but to allow an Arab majority (and actually the vote, if those who abstained had voted, would not have been a majority) to throw Israel out of the group for no proper reason, except that it was Israel, means that as long as there are more Arab nations than one Israel (and, of course, there are and always will be) the group will not do what is right, but will simply be dictated to by the Arabs. This means that UNESCO is no longer the independent body it once was. It is now a tool of the Arabs and not a true worker for those in need. For this reason, UNESCO certainly can no longer expect not only Israeli scientists and educators to go along with it, but must lose the respect and support of all those people who have helped it over the years because of its essential and well-done work.

When we have given to UNESCO through the years, we felt it was for the good of children and others, everywhere, not just for a few who were in control of the group. If UNESCO has changed and is only for those in power, than it will have to live on and with those nations on whose votes it depends.

UNESCO, which we once thought of as a completely honest organization, not caring about ideologies, or race, or caste, but as imply doing what it could for those in need in the world, has suddenly become a political organization. And since it is now a political organization, it should be treated as such. If you don't like its politics, forget it.

A humane organization deserves the help of everyone, regardless of political belief. But a political organization should live only on those who believe in its politics.

ADL Writes To Pope Paul; Protests Award To UNESCO

New York: The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith protested to Pope Paul VI "the awarding of the distinguished John XXIII Peace Prize to UNESCO" in the light of the grievous injustice done to Israel by the United Nations agency.

Recalling that he was a member of the delegation of American Jews which Pope John greeted with the message, "I am Joseph, your brother," Benjamin R. Epstein, ADL national director, sent a night letter to the Holy Father expressing his and the League's profound personal anguish "that the award was made.

In a separate comment on the award, Mr. Epstein declared that it is a tragic and ironic commentary that UNESCO is recognized by the Roman Catholic Church for its excellent work of the past at the very moment the U.N. agency has reversed its field and sabotaged its own work by yielding to the pressure of the automatic Arab-dominated majority in the General Assembly.

He went on to say it is unfortunate that the timing of this award may make it appear as if the Roman Catholic Church is endorsing the UNESCO action against Israel, an action which is a negation of the philosophy and attitude of Pope John XXIII.

Soviets To Supply Egypt With Nuclear Reactor

LONDON: The Soviet Union has agreed to supply Egypt with a nuclear reactor, a Soviet publication said. It is viewed as a step toward restoring close relations at the expense of the United States.

The Soviet Weekly, an English-language publication, said the agreement calls for the installation of a 460,000-kilowatt reactor. It did not mention whether safeguards against the production of nuclear warheads were included.

When Richard M. Nixon was President, he offered to supply Egypt and Israel with reactors for peaceful purposes, but the offer appears to have been shelved.

The Soviet commitment, with other promised projects, was seen by Middle East experts as a move to pave the way for the restoration of close relations. The Soviet leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev, is to visit Cairo by mid-January.

Israel Will Not Be First

JERUSALEM: Israel has the knowledge to produce nuclear weapons but will not be the first to introduce them to the Middle East, President Ephraim Katzir said today.

FROM FRIDAY TO FRIDAY

Rare Books and Rare Music

By BERYL SEGAL

I must repeat myself. This is the year of Temple Emanu-El. The temple is celebrating its 50th year with memorable programs.

About a month ago, the community had a glimpse of some rare books and manuscripts on exhibit at the temple, and the opportunity to hear Miss Anna Kleban's pithy and amusing stories relating to many items in the Museum of the Theological Seminary in New York. Miss Kleban, who is the Librarian at the Museum, showed slides of the treasures in the more than 1,000 items in the collection, and she commented on each. Her comments were those of a housewife showing the treasures in her kitchen and telling anecdotes of each and every item. She is familiar with everything in the Museum, and she talks about each of them with a touch of humor.

Miss Kleban showed a Megillah which was not the Megillah of Esther. It was written like a Megillah, rolled like a Megillah, and nobody for years questioned the authenticity of the Megillah. But it turned out, thanks to a critical scholar at the Seminary, that it was a story of a miraculous rescue of a merchant in Italy who was helped up by a would-be robber, and he wrote down the story of that miracle and read it to his friends on Purim.

Or the story of the letter written by the Rambam (Maimonides) which fell to the ground while it was being shown to visitors. A lady picked it up from the floor and upon being told that she had in her hands a letter written so many years ago, by one of the greatest Jews who lived in Spain during the 12th century, she was so excited that she ran home and called, on the next day, with a generous gift for the Museum.

Miss Kleban delighted the audience with her humor and her familiarity with her subject, and it was all so informal.

On the 22nd and 23rd of November, the Temple had another treat for the community. On these two evenings, Temple Emanu-El presented the Russian-Jewish tenor, Mikhail Alexandrovich in concert.

Mr. Alexandrovich has a sweet voice and he sings with heart and soul. Of the four languages in which he sang, we understood three. He was best in the Cantorial music and in the Yiddish folk songs. At least they appealed to us most. In his Cantorial pieces, he reminded us of the masters of the Amud, the Cantor's lectern, Yosele Rosenblatt, Herschman and Kwartin in the days when they came to Providence for concerts. He read the words with feeling and clarity, and his trills brought tears to the eyes of the audience. Around us we saw many prayer books being opened when the artist began to sing "Modim Anachnu Loch," "We give thanks unto Thee, for Thou art the Lord our God and the God of our fathers for ever and ever," and they sang quietly with him the prayer so familiar to every Jew.

Some of the songs were a mixture of Cantorial music and Yiddish folk songs. The Jew, though poor in substance, is rich spiritually. On Rosh Hashanah, on Yom Kippur and Simchas Torah, the synagogue resounds with prayers appropriate to these holidays, each in a different mood, and each with a Yiddish prayer of its own.

Yiddish folk songs made up a greater part of Mikhail Alexandrovich's repertoire. In these folk songs, he seemed to excel and, judging from the response of the audience, with these he won the acclaim of the listeners. They were nostalgic, and they had humor, and they touched at the hearts of everyone.

Moshele, my friend, where are the days of our childhood? Remember the Heder and the Rebbe, and the kanchick? Remember the first time we fell in love? How can we recapture the years gone by?

And since the diction of Mikhail Alexandrovich was perfect, and his voice and mannerisms were superb, the audience heard the yearning in their own hearts for the years gone by.

The mother singing to her son who had just cut all his teeth, and telling him that soon he would start Heder, and study Humosh and Gemoro, and become a man among men, and therefore it was not seemly for him to cry and refuse to sleep.

The laughter in the temple was evidence that the words were understood by all.

The woman who wants to make Varnitchkes, Bows. She has salt and pepper, but where will she get the flour?

She has the flour and salt and pepper, where will she get the stove to make the Varnitchkes?

She has the stove and the flour and salt and pepper, but where will she get the Bochor, the Bridegroom, to eat the Varnitchkes?

The humor of the song was not lost on the audience. The laughter that ranged through the temple testified to that.

The great faith in the Provider who will not forsake those who serve Him well was expressed in this song:

Reb Menashe sits day and night over the Gemoro and studies. His wife asks him a Shaalah, a question: Where will food for the Sabbath come from? Where will the dowry for their two daughters come from? Reb Menashe answers: We have a great Creator of the world, and he will provide.

We could see Reb Menashe sitting over the large Gemoro and telling his wife not to worry: God in his great mercy will see to it that they have food for Shabbos and his daughters will somehow get married like all Jewish daughters.

Mikhail Alexandrovich was generous with encores. And the more he sang, the more reluctant was the audience to let go of him. On the way out we heard people remark:

"We could have sat all night long and listened to him."

So could we.

Your Money's Worth

By Sylvia Porter

'Equal' and 'Fair' Credit

Are you aware that as of 1975, it will be illegal for a credit card company or retail store to deny you credit on the basis of your sex or marital status?

Or that you no longer will have to tolerate fighting exhausting and expensive battles to get creditors and their computers to correct billing errors?

Or that if you buy a gadget via a bank or other "third party" credit card and the gadget conks out, you will not be legally required to continue payments to the bank or other credit card company, if you can prove you were sold shoddy merchandise?

These are just a few of the new consumer credit protections you will have under amendments to the federal deposit insurance legislation. Here is a roundup on your new rights:

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act

bans creditors from discriminating against women — the first across the board federal legislation ever to protect women's credit rights. It goes into effect in October 1975, follows similar laws of varying efficiency already enacted in 33 states, applies to all commercial and personal credit transactions and includes cash loans, installment sales, mortgage loans, and the opening and closing of revolving charge accounts.

It is, in essence, a long overdue acknowledgment of the undeniably justified complaints from married women who have been denied credit cards in their own names regardless of personal income and from single women (divorced, widowed or separated) who have been refused bank loans or charge accounts on the basis of factors that have nothing to do

Mrs. Joel S. Chase

Temple Sinai was the scene of the wedding on Sunday, December 1, of Miss Helene Cynthia Gama to Joel Stephen Chase. Rabbi Jerome S. Gurland officiated at the 3 p.m. double ring ceremony which was followed by a dinner reception at the Metacomet Country Club in East Providence.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Gama of 119 Bretton Woods Drive, Cranston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chase of 99 Harvard Street in Cranston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a quiana knit gown with a matching headpiece of quiana knit accented with pearls from which fell her cathedral length veil. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Janet Sleszyuski, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Ronald N. Chase served as best man for his brother. Joseph Gama, brother of the bride, was the usher.

Following their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Cranston.

The bride, a graduate of Classical High School and the University of Rhode Island, is a teacher in the Cranston school system. The bridegroom, who was graduated from Hope High School and the University of Rhode Island, is attending Suffolk Law School in Boston, Massachusetts.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

DAVID R. SARGENT

Municipal Bond Funds

Q: I am interested in investing in tax free municipal bonds. I am afraid to risk all my money in one or two bonds. Are there load or no load funds which specialize in this area? —E.H.

A: Funds offer an attractive alternative to "going it alone" in the market for tax exempts, which is filled with tens of thousands of unfamiliar names. Moreover, diversification is difficult because minimum trades are usually $5,000 to $10,000 and wide spreads often occur between the bid and asked. The fund provides the safekeeping and assumes the job of clipping coupons and making collections, plus expert selection of the bonds at the start.

There are 16 companies in the field, but Merrill Lynch, John Nuveen, E. F. Hutton and Paine, Webber have underwritten the bulk of the 220 series which have been marketed. Typically, these are offered at a 3 1/4%—4 1/4% sales charge plus a small annual amount to defray trustee and evaluation costs. All the existing municipal bond funds are closed end. There is no management and rarely are bonds sold out of the list. As portfolio issues are called or mature, proceeds are distributed rather than reinvested. A fund, now in registration, Wellington Tax-Exempt Bond Fund, will be continuously managed and open end.

A recently offered series carried a 7.5% interest rate, which would be equal to 11.7% for a couple filling jointly and in a 36% tax bracket. Municipal bond funds are exempt from federal taxes but not from state taxes, except generally that portion of the portfolio reflecting issues of your home state.

In this regard, the funds do most of the work for you by issuing statements showing the percentage of portfolio income derived from each state. Fund income would presumably be entirely tax exempt for residents of those few states where taxes are levied as a percent of federal income tax. As far as I know, no bond purchased by the two largest of these funds has so far failed to pay interest and principal when due.

Time to Reflate?

Q: Do you think that we are in a recession or will the steps by President Ford prevent one? —F.A.

A: One of the problems of economic forecasting and policy making is the "recognition lag" — the time lapse between collection of data on the economic scene, necessary corrective action and the resultant and hopefully curative reaction. Moreover, the original premise upon which remedial measures are based may prove inaccurate, in that an individual economic indicator may be an aberration, resulting from faulty seasonal adjustment, unusual weather or incomplete data. This is one reason for the ongoing dispute on whether we are truly in a recession now. However, any doubts on this must have been dispelled by publication of third quarter gross national product figures. After removing the effects of inflation, GNP fell at an annual rate of 2.9%, the third quarterly consecutive decline. This, combined with a 5.8% unemployment rate for September and a drop in housing starts to 1.1 million (annualized), has surely confirmed a recession.

As recognition of the recession grows, increasing attention will be given to measures to reflate, rather than deflate, the economy. Thus, the chances for adoption of President Ford's deflationary tax proposals will weaken. Conversely, pressure for tax cuts will strengthen. And, a case can be made for such action during an inflationary recession, since stimulating the economy would increase output helping to combat future inflationary shortages.

Tax cuts also would restore some purchasing power, justifying guidelines on wage increases and moderating price boosts based on higher unit costs.

However, a tax cut large enough to be effective would clearly pose the danger of a sizable federal deficit requiring an unhealthy boost in the money supply or the reallocation of existing capital resulting from Treasury competition in the money market. A reflating economy would inevitably worsen the U.S. balance of payments by increasing the import of foreign goods, particularly oil. A successful program to reflate the economy would necessitate some limit on wage increases. Meanwhile, until Congress acts, the recent swing by the Federal Reserve toward easier credit is the main prop against a deeper recession.

Conservative Capitalization A Plus Factor

Q: I am interested in buying common stock but would like a company that is free of long-term debt with very little preferred stock. Does such a company exist? —P.H.

A: The present scarcity and high cost of new money coupled with rising concern over the mountainous levels of debt in the economy have caused many investors to look askance at companies heavily leveraged with long-term debt and preferred stock. By the same token, you and other investors have placed in a favorable light companies which have managed to flourish free of debt. Obviously, the absence of debt alone does not make a stock a good buy; there are other important factors to consider. However, in a period of rampant inflation and tight money, many businesses become pinched for new money to finance expansion and working capital needs. Companies which have already borrowed to the limit may find the going rough. The ability to stay out of debt these days and retain a conservative capitalization is a mark of distinction.

Among the many Big Board listed issues which meet your standards, the two discussed below are particularly attractive for purchase currently. American District Telegraph, the leader in the field of safeguard systems, has twice as many central alarm stations in operation as its two largest competitors. Three factors which should boost earnings are: the renegotiation of higher priced two year rather than five year contracts, the automation of its central stations and aggressive selling of residential protective devices.

At only 9.6X estimated 1974 net of $2.10 a share, ADT is suggested for purchase. Fort Howard Paper, recommended twice recently, has reported a 50% year to year increase in third quarter earnings. This should push full-year results to a record of $1.35 a share vs. $1.08 in 1973. This converter of waste paper into disposable paper products has never had any long term debt since incorporation in 1919. Cash items exceeded current liabilities by 44% at the 1973 year end. Buy.

UNESCO Worried About Israel; Hopes Educators Still Contribute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.: UNESCO, worried by unfavorable reaction to measures taken against Israel in a recent meeting of the organization, said it hoped that Israeli scientists, educators and scholars would continue contributing to its work, according to a New York Times article by Paul Hofmann.

In a statement issued here and at UNESCO's Paris headquarters, the agency took pains to explain that Israel had not been excluded from membership.

At UNESCO's general conference in Paris last month, a series of Arab-inspired resolutions were adopted expressing hostility to Israel and weakening her status in the agency.

One resolution barred Israel from UNESCO's European region without admitting her to any other regional grouping. Another conference vote cut off Israel's modest UNESCO aid — $24,000 in 1973-74 — for her cultural institutions.

Israel's past contribution to UNESCO, put in financial terms by far exceed what the country received from the organization.

A third resolution adopted at the Paris conference invited UNESCO's new director general, Amadou Mahtar M'Bow of Senegal, to supervise educational and cultural institutions in the territories under Israeli occupation, in cooperation with the Arab states concerned and with the Palestine Liberation Organization. The United Nations General Assembly recognized the group as the representative of the Palestinian people.

Today's UNESCO statement said that the agency had not yet received an request for assistance by Palestinians.

United Nations officials here said they were concerned about a movement among scholars, scientists and intellectuals in the United States and in Europe to boycott UNESCO in a protest against its ostracism of Israel.

Pope Paul VI joined those who had reproached UNESCO. In an address to representatives of the agency, the Pope, clearly referring to the action against Israel, urged UNESCO to restore its universal and peaceful character.

The United Nations officials, who did not want to be identified, also voiced concern about an amendment to the foreign-aid bill introduced recently by Senator Clifford P. Case, Republican of New Jersey, that would bar a United States appropriation for UNESCO unless the agency repealed its political resolutions affecting Israel. The United States has been paying for 25 per cent of the UNESCO budget.

According to reports published in newspapers in Beirut, Lebanon, Arab oil-producing countries have promised to increase their contribution to UNESCO by $16-million annually — the sum it stands to lose if the Case amendment is adopted.

A United States official said that some European nations — he named West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands — might follow the American example and halt their contributions.

Dayan Doubts War Is Coming Soon

NEW YORK: Former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan does not think "war is coming soon" to the Mideast, but at the same time indicates the "possibility" that war will break out could not be ruled out.

Speaking to an overflow audience of New York University students and staff members, Dayan warned that the Arabs' new economic and political might make them feel stronger than ever before and thus not willing to accept Israel's existence. Declaring that he was less optimistic now than he was immediately after the Yom Kippur War, Dayan said that the Arabs do not talk any more about peace and even Egypt refuses to accept non-belligerency with Israel. "The root of the problem is that the Arabs do not want to recognize us. They still hope that one day they will manage to get rid of us," he said.

Referring to the US and Soviet Union involvement in the Mideast Dayan contended that "Russia is in a much stronger position in the Mideast than is the US." According to him, there are now thousands of Soviet experts and soldiers in Arab countries: 3000 in Syria; 1000 in Iraq; and a few hundred in Egypt.

"The question is: Is the US ready to confront the Soviets in the Mideast?" Dayan asked. Israel he said, "can take care of the Arabs" but she is not capable of confronting Russia. "Only the US is capable of keeping Russia out of the Mideast," he said, adding that Israel does not want American boys to fight for her.

Bronfman's Receive Stephen Wide Awards

Charles R. Bronfman of Montreal and Edgar M. Bronfman of New York received the 1974 Stephen S. Wise Awards of the American Jewish Congress at a dinner held last Sunday.

The awards, given annually for distinguished contributions to Jewish life and human rights, were established in 1949, on Dr. Wise's 75th birthday.

Edgar Bronfman, president of Distillers Corporation Seagram's Limited (D.C.-S.L.), is a trustee of Mount Sinai Hospital and School of Medicine, the Salk Institute for Biological Studies and the National Urban League, president of the Samuel Bronfman Foundation and a founding member of the Rockefeller University Council. He serves on the executive boards of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity and the New York Councils of the Boy Scouts.

Charles Bronfman, president of The House of Seagram, Limited, has been chairman of the executive committee of the Allied Jewish Community Services of Montreal, and is a life governor of the Jewish General Hospital in Montreal, a governor of the Montreal YM-YWHA and a director of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

11,309 Israelis Killed Since '47

JERUSALEM: Israeli army sources now put the aggregate toll of Israeli victims of wars and terrorist acts at 11,309, from the year 1947 to date. The figure includes 8,988 military personnel and 2,321 civilians.

In Israel's War of Independence of 1948 no less than 4,500 soldiers and 1,700 civilians were fatalities of that conflict. In addition, that war resulted in a further 12,510 wounded. In the Sinai campaign of 1956 and in the Six-Day War of 1967, the total dead were 1,253 and 361 civilians. In the interim period between the Six-Day War and the Yom Kippur War 650 military men lost their lives, as did 188 civilians. The toll in the Yom Kippur War was 2,522 soldiers dead and 19 civilians.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

ON ALCOHOLISM

Dr. Thomas Paolino, director of the Alcoholism-Joint Admission Project at Butler Hospital, will be the main speaker at the meeting of the Butler Hospital Auxiliary on Wednesday, December 11. The luncheon and program will be held in the new trustee room in the Potter Building and will start with a sherry hour at 11:30 a.m. with the program starting at 1 p.m.

Dr. Ben Feather, director of the hospital, will speak briefly on the "Changing Role of the Hospital."

Mrs. James Winston is program chairman; Mrs. Charles G. Chason is president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Earl Chambers is hospitality chairman.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Chambers at 272-3031. The program is open to the public.

HANUKAH SUPPER

The annual Providence Hebrew Day School celebration of Hanukkah will be held at the school on Wednesday, December 11, at 6 p.m.

The Women's Association of the school, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roberta Scholdan, will serve a traditional chicken and latke dinner. A group of students will present a musical program.

A special feature of the evening will be a formal dedication of Torahs to the New England Academy of Torah, Inc., the high school division of the Providence Hebrew Day School, by Joseph Lury, president of Lenas Hatzedek Congregation.

INTERSCHOOL ASSEMBLY

Children of the religious schools of the Greater Providence area will gather at Temple Emanu-El to celebrate Hanukkah in the first interschool assembly of the year on Sunday, December 8. This assembly is sponsored by the Educators' Council.

Each school has been assigned a segment of the program which will include the traditional kindling of the Menorah, community singing, the Temple Sinai Choral group, the Temple Emanu-El dance group, and the Temple Beth El dramatics group. The assembly will be held from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. The community is invited to attend.

Hello Again!
News of the Sports World by Warren Walden

ELABORATE! EXCITING!
 Where the rafters once vibrated to the cheers and applause of thousands in response to great deeds on the hockey ice and entertaining performances by Ice Capades and Ice Follies among many other attractions, now emerges probably the most unique recreation center in the entire nation. "You'd never know the old place now," referring to the RI Auditorium at 1111 North Main Street, Providence.

ENTHUSIASM: Sol Resnik and Charles Pappalano, two gentlemen of wide imagination, are making dreams of a super recreation center come true. You just can't help being interested and intrigued while listening to the exciting plans for the old arena. Mr. Resnik was talking with information and accomplishments flowing in an incessant stream. "No, we haven't named the place, yet. We just haven't thought of a name but we do want to use the word 'arena.' But, regardless of a permanent name, plans are proceeding and construction is being completed."

READ THIS: When ready for opening, probably next June, the complex will include: A good-sized swimming pool; ten tennis courts; a therapy pool; saunas for both men and women; ping pong tables; a gymnasium; handball and squash courts; locker rooms with hair dryers and sun lamps; a Pro Shop for tennis and other equipment; an art gallery, and a nursery for children!

MORE AND MORE: "Any billiard tables?" was the question. And Mr. Resnik, who covers about everything imaginable with trophies in his Emblem and Badge place, replied, "We'll have everything we can have. Yes, even a restaurant and club which is going to be located right in the front of the building." And then he continued, "There are going to be two levels in the area that was the main auditorium. We've dug down 15 feet and there will be recreation areas above and below." Sol didn't have to think too deeply. He had information right on the tip of his tongue; he knows readily what he's doing; knows what is going on. "There'll be an entertaining deck for parties at the pool; a couple of beautiful fountains; and pool cabanas available." "How about the outside of the building, Sol?" The answer came quickly. "We're putting on a new roof, a new front and new parking facilities."

AND SO: Maybe you've been wondering just what is going on at the old Auditorium? If so, rest at ease. The rejuvenation is not a dream. It's actually progressing. Ah yes. And maybe the ghosts of Lou Pieri, Judge Dooley, Jean Dubuc, Arnold Jones, Hubert Milot and the others who worked to make the old place a success, will be smiling and happy at its rebirth rather than demise. And someone will recall memories of the "greats" who appeared there, including Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney and Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg and Ed Strangler Lewis; also "Believe It or Not Ripley" and Gracie Fields and Sigmund Romberg and Al Jolson among the other outstanding immortals not forgetting the hockey players and boxers and wrestlers who made history in the old Auditorium which is being made new. Yes, Mr. Resnik and Mr. Pappalano, it is exciting. Hurry up and get it ready.

THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING: It isn't the title of the movie. It's a statement concerning the Ararat Erevan Soccer team and its game with the Oceaneers at Providence Civic Center on Monday night (December 9). The Russians were scheduled to play a game at Pierce Field last summer but some sort of mixup forced cancellation. Now they're fulfilling the assignment. All kinds of superlatives describe those Russians. Edvard Markarov, a forward, has received the highest acclaim a Russian athlete can receive. He carries the Soviet title of "Honored Master of Sport." Arkadi Andriasjan, Levon Ishtojan and Alesha Abramjan have played a number of times with the Russian National team. They must be good. In fact, the Russian team is in line to win the European Outdoor Cup. The Oceaneers are undefeated in five games in an indoor New Jersey League. It's the only Eastern stop for the Russians. Sounds like something to see. Guess I'll go. CARRY ON!

The Spying Neighbors

When I was a young married man in Larchmont, N.Y., the myth to which the American family subscribed was that our neighbor was watching us. We believed that the sanctimonious neighbor was marking our absences at church or temple, that the parsimonious neighbor always knew our credit rating, the next-to-Godliness neighbor checked the clothes on the line.

What happened to all these? The neighbors don't even borrow tools which they fail to return. Television has something to do with it. On television the folks can catch up with the peccadilloes of the politicians. Our elected officials are ever so much more interesting.

When I was young all the politicians resembled either Warren Harding or Calvin Coolidge. The difference between the two was that 10 years after they were dead we discovered Warren Harding had a girl friend.

The last thing Calvin Coolidge would have thought of doing was authorizing and subsidizing a bitter polemical tract against a political rival. Calvin Coolidge didn't read much and talked even less.

When Roosevelt closed the banks in 1932, the fat cats held a rally at Madison Square Garden where they hissed. Damn it, he stopped closing banks after that.

If there had been a Chappaquiddick in 1925, the governor of the state would have called out the National Guard. Any Congressman riding with a stripper who wanted to jump into the Potomac would have advised her, "Go ahead and jump, but don't make a splash." He would promptly have sped to his office and telephoned key constituents that he was working late rather than try to keep the lady from getting wet.

Fifteen years ago the biggest scandal ever uncovered in North Carolina was when some reporters discovered the Republican nominee for Governor was leading a bigamous life with one family on the plateau and another over the line in Virginia. His real trouble came when both women said they wanted to stick by him. Their mutual devotion ended his political career.

And, of course, no community chicanery will ever equal the depredations of the Watergate gang. Any group of men who have $62 million to play with not their own money are bound for perdition. Watergate promises to be the longest road show in history. It's more fun than a tent sing.

But I think the nation will be better off when we go back to spying on one another.

Reforms for the Next Congress

Fifty per cent plus one is a mandate in any election. The Democrats in the last election received appreciably more than that. What they will do with the control they have just won is another question. It is another question from what they promised when they ran.

No one makes the promises a congressional candidate makes. After all, there are 435 seats in the House and it is awfully easy for a newcomer to lose himself or to get lost. And Congressmen when hard pressed about why they have accomplished so little often ex-

Adjustment
For Tourists

NEW YORK: Tourists to Israel are certain beneficiaries of the recently-announced devaluation of the Israel Pound, according to Israel Zuriel, representative for North America of the Israel Ministry of Tourism.

The devaluation, says Zuriel, has raised the value of the dollar brought to Israel from IL4.2 to IL6.0, creating an increase in worth of 43 per cent.

According to Ministry of Tourism officials, the rise in the value of the dollar, when coupled with the low winter airfare in effect between Nov. 1 and March 15 ($519 round-trip, ten-day) is expected to create near record holiday winter travel to Israel in late December.

Some price increases are expected in Israel, but by and large, according to Ministry of Tourism officials, the tourist in Israel should enjoy savings as a direct result of the currency adjustment.

NO RESTRAINT

WASHINGTON: According to U.S. News and World Report, Washington will not restrain Israel if there is another round of war. Assessment is that Israel will inflict an even more humiliating defeat on the Arabs than in the Six Day War.

themselves with the reminder they only have two years in which to work.

But it seems to me there are several things a new Congress could do right away. First of all they could abolish the seniority system in the House. It doesn't seem to work any more.

It doesn't work because it perpetuates as the heads of committees who are representatives from "safe" districts, men who have served five, 10 and often 15 terms. Invariably, however, a "safe" district is in a sparsely populated state.

The second thing a new House could do is to reward savings. The banks need money to extend credit which is in short supply. I would rush through a bill that forgave taxes on the interest accumulated by savings.

After all, the interest on municipal bonds by which we build our sewerage system is exempt from taxes. The oil depletion allowance gives the oil men a tax break. The promise of no taxes on interest would spur the middle class to save.

Every two years these 435 Congressmen run for election. Eight hundred and seventy candidates this time guaranteed their campaigns were free from the corrupting influence of big money. This may or may not be true. Now that 435 of them will soon take their seats, there is no reason they cannot make it true in law.

Election reform ought to be the first order of business because it is the easiest order of business. Among other things, the Congress could make election day the first Tuesday after Labor Day. The absurd length of the campaigns occasion most of the abuse.

The truth is that this column did not take me 20 years to compose. It took more like 20 minutes. I am "sure" everyone who reads it has a few reforms which would make government more efficient and responsive.

What we really need is a mammoth letter-writing to tell our congressmen what we want. Those who voted for the lower get to write too.

with the relevant questions of their credit history and salary.

The Fair Credit Billing Act provides you — among America's 35 million families using at least one credit card — with a valuable legal platform from which to argue with a creditor's computers and protect yourself against an unfavorable credit report while you are talking back.

Surely you don't need me to elaborate on the difficulties of trying to clear up errors on monthly charge accounts or credit card statements. One New York businessman, for instance, spent more than 15 months working to straighten out a mistaken charge by his credit card company for six plane flights, after he had cancelled one. But more of us have neither this sort of time nor patience to carry on lengthy quarrels with a computer. Often we give in frustration and just pay the disputed amount; or we're intimidated into compliance by letters and threats of legal action or an adverse credit report.

This act will go into effect one year from now and among other things, will require that a creditor must:

(1) Acknowledge customer billing inquiries within 30 days and resolve those inquiries in no more than 90 days.

(2) Not send dunning letters, threaten you with an adverse credit report or take other collection action until the inquiry is resolved.

(3) Not report an amount you continue to dispute as delinquent to a credit reporting agency unless he notifies you, the customer, and tells the credit reporting agency that the amount is in dispute.

(4) Indicate on monthly bills an address for handling billing disputes and periodically remind you of your rights.

While responsible creditors already are meeting most of these requirements, those who are not will be compelled to.

In addition, this act strengthens the legal rights of customers who use credit cards issued by banks or other "third parties."

You will, for example, be able legally to withhold payment for junky merchandise purchased with a bank or similar credit card, and use the same legal defenses against the bank or other card issuer as you might use against the merchant who sold you the junk. This measure protects you against fly by night operators who may have skipped town or gone out of business, before you discovered you've been swindled but while you are still paying for your bad buy.

The law applies to purchases made for more than $50, made within the cardholder's state of residence or within 100 miles of your home, whichever is greater. The bank or card issuer, however, does not become subject to any legal claims you may have until after you've tried to get the original merchant to repair or to replace your defective purchase.

Miss Debra Mollie Buckler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph N. Buckler of Lincoln, was married on Saturday, November 23, to Lesley ven Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rich of Fair Lawn, New Jersey. The 6:30 p.m. ceremony was conducted by Rabbi Jacob Handler and Rabbi Yaacov Uvitzky at Temple Beth Israel. A reception was held in the social hall of the temple.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown created especially for her by Mendicino Originals of New York City.

Miss Ida Mollie Bochner, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rhonda Kessler, Ann Applebaum, Debra Anderson, Joan Maitland and Marilyn Patterson.

Donald S. Rich served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Stuart Rich, brother of the bridegroom; Gary Buckler, brother of the bride, Robert Chace, Robert Ringman and Richard Wallberg.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Buckler and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kessler, all of Lincoln. The bridegroom is the grandson of Sadie Berman of Paterson, New Jersey.

Following a trip to Puerto Rico, the couple will live in Belleville, New Jersey.

The Brown, Nixon, Saxbe Phenomenon

Anti-Semitism--- Greatest Hatred In History

BY EDWARD FLANNERY
(The Reverend Edward H. Flannery is executive secretary of the Secretariat for Catholic-Jewish Relations, National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and author of "The Anguish of the Jews: 23 Centuries of Anti-Semitism." He is the former editor of the Providence Visitor.)

WASHINGTON: The strictures by General George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in which he revived the hoary lie about Jewish ownership of banks and newspapers sent a quiver of embarrassment across most — but not all — of the country.

A recently published tape transcript showed that on June 23, 1972, Richard M. Nixon, as President, warned H. R. Haldeman to eschew the arts: "The arts you know — they're Jews, they're left wing — in other words, stay away."

Last April, Attorney General William B. Saxbe, in a news conference remark that in the McCarthy era "there was a great distrust of the intellectual," added: "One of the changes that's come about is because of the Jewish intellectual, who was in those days very enamored of the Communist party."

The list could be extended back through time indefinitely. There was nothing unusual about these performances. Hardly a day goes by that a stereotyping or attack is not visited upon Jews somewhere. Where is the synagogue on which a swastika has not been daubed?

The only thing somewhat unusual about these performances is the political level of the persons involved. We are not dealing here with guttersnipes but with presumably educated and sophisticated people.

The very level of these personages raises questions. If individuals of some cultivation, or stature, fall prey to the virus of anti-Semitism as readily as anyone else, where are the boundaries of its power? Is anyone beyond its reach? Have we underestimated the dimensions of the phenomenon of anti-Semitism?

The reaction to incidents like those cited is usually minimization and denial. Those involved always deny their anti-Semitism, and most people defend them. It is socially disrespectful today to be overtly anti-Semitic, whence a strong reluctance to own up to it, or accuse another of it.

Our first conclusion must be that anti-Semitism is something strongly repressed, hence always denied.

When there is any sort of acknowledgement, a process of minimization takes over. Reduced to a foible, an anti-Semitic lapse is made light of, even made subject of jest.

Anti-Semitism is the greatest hatred in human history. In duration and intensity, it has no competitor.

What other hatred has lasted some 23 centuries and survived genocide of six million people in its 23rd century of existence? I say "survived" because it is very much alive today.

An inexorable devil, it has ravaged from age to age, land to land. As one kind wanes, another promptly replaces it.

A vapid pre-Christian kind was followed by a "Christian" variety that became oppressive and murderous. Then in succession came rationalist, pseudo-scientific racist, socialist, rightist varieties. Today there are Soviet, Arab (over and beyond political enmity), black, New Left and "gentle" types.

Anti-Semitism has known every cruelty: social and civic disabilities, insult, ghettoization, torture, exile, murder.

Through the centuries, even great saints and leaders have been infected. Estimates of Jews murdered before Hitler range in the multimillions.

Is there not warrant to view this enormity as the greatest stain in the history of Western culture?

It may, in any case, be seen as a demonic force, endless and bottomless, that defies analytical powers, indeed eludes our very observation. The Jew, "eternal scapegoat", serves apparently to assuage a deep human need.

Denounces Hijackers

BEIRUT, Lebanon, The Palestine Liberation Organization announced that it had taken 26 persons into custody here and in other Arab countries on suspicion of involvement in the hijacking of a British airliner from Dubai to Tunis.

Shafiq al Hout, who heads the Palestinian organization's office here, said at a news conference that the suspects would be placed on trial in public, but he did not specify when.

Mr. Hout also said that the Palestine Liberation Organization was adhering to its request, that Tunisia turn over the four gunmen who seized the plane.

Mr. Hout said violent incidents like the hijacking caused serious harm to the Palestinian cause, which the United Nations General Assembly endorsed by adopting a resolution recognizing Palestinian rights to independence and sovereignty.

Citing the recent decision of the Arab leadership meeting at-Rabat, Morocco, to recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization as the "sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people," he said the group would do its utmost to stop hijackings.

"We do not have a state yet that will send such people to jail," he said, but he added that those who committed crimes against the Palestinian people would be punished.

Since the Rabat conference last month, the Liberation Organization has indicated a determination to exercise its authority.

A PLO source who did not want to be identified for publication said "At the time we are gaining international recognition, we cannot allow mercenaries in our ranks to undermine our new stature."

Many efforts have been made to understand anti-Semitism, all partly successful. Historical causes center on the "decide" charge, the old theological myth. Yet history can hardly do full justice to the phenomenon: Profound psychological mechanisms are at play. As one psychoanalyst has stated: "Anti-Semitism is more a conflict within a person than between persons."

Perhaps the most fruitful avenues of explanation explored locates anti-Semitism in the lowest strata of the psyche where savage forces struggle against all restraints and ideals. In the Christian, it would be an unconscious displaced resentment of his own Christianity; in the non-Christian, a revolt against moral conscience.

It was Judaism that brought the concept of a God-given universal moral law into the world. The Jew reminds us of our paganism. For this he has never been forgiven. Willy-nilly, the Jew carries the burden of God in history.

Until anti-Semitism is openly acknowledged and diagnosed along the lines as deep as these, the Browns, Nixons and Saxbes will always be with — no, in us.

Population Still Shifts;
One Car Per Family

TEL AVIV: Tel Aviv's population in 1960 was approximately 390,000. Twelve years later, in 1972, the population had fallen by 28,000 as younger people moved to outlying areas where housing was less expensive, and that trend seems to be continuing to this day. The 390,000 residents of Tel Aviv 14 years ago possessed some 28,000 automobiles. In 1972, although the population figure was smaller by 28,000, the number of autos soared to 78,000.

All present estimates are that the number of cars is even greater now, and that the registry of vehicles has more than tripled in the past 15 years. Assuming that each family consists of an average of 4 persons, one could say that there is now one private car for every family in Tel Aviv.

Adults read one or more newspapers in markets of all sizes.

MINISTERS OF THE ROYAL COURT OF TURANDOT: The Chaminade Opera Group will present Puccini's "Turandot" in English fully staged and with orchestra on Sunday, December 15, at 2:30 p.m. at the Columbus Theatre.

Featuring Theresa Leach, Benjamin Cox, Margaret Krewson, and Jonathan Prescott in the title roles, this production involves a cast, crew and orchestra of about 100 people. This performance is covered by the Ticket Endowment Program, which gives discounts to senior citizens, disadvantaged groups, servicemen and student groups (including college level).

Leaders Ask More Study
By Jewish Youth On Nazis

BOCA RATON, Fla.: Deploing the lack of knowledge and understanding among Jewish youth about the Nazi holocaust, leaders of American Orthodox Judaism called for intensive study of the subject, according to a New York Times article by Irving Spiegel.

In a unanimously adopted resolution, delegates attending the biennial convention of the Union of Jewish Congregations of America declared:

"There is a whole generation of Jews which has arisen in the last three decades since the holocaust, and they must be made to know of what happened, not only as a monument to the dead but, more so, as a dedication to the living."

The resolution called on boards of Jewish education to make the study of the holocaust, in which six million Jews were killed, a major part of the curriculum.

The resolution also called for appropriate texts and teaching materials, essay contests, commemorative posters and expositions.

Harold M. Jacobs, president of the union, asserted that the memory of that "infamous era must be retained as an inspiration to the success of generations of Jews to live their lives as a continuation of the lives of the martyrs, and to perpetuate through their lives the ideals and values that could not be destroyed in the attempt at the final solution."

Hitler used the term "final solution" for his liquidationist program against Jews.

Rabbi Norman Lamm, the spiritual leader of the Jewish Center in New York, cautioned that Jewish religious schools "must not be biased towards the policy teaching of the holocaust," adding that "many millions were killed in World War II — non-Jews and Jews, religious and secularists, believers and atheists."

Rabbi Lamm emphasized, however, that "Jews were the only ones doomed solely because they were who they were — not because of what they did or believed. This made the holocaust unique: Just being a Jew was a death warrant."

An appeal to synagogues throughout the country to place an eternal light or a plaque in memory of the holocaust was made by Rabbi David Cohen, the national director of the union and Rabbi Elkanah Schwartz, another official.

Hegasi Praises US Role In Seeking Peace

CAIRO: Premier Abdel Aziz Hegazi praised the United States for its "active and positive role" in seeking a resolution of the Middle East crisis but added that it was "still in the stage of wishful thinking."

In a three-hour policy statement to the People's Assembly, Egypt's parliament, he said that "the United States' role should be welcomed and encouraged because it is in the right direction."

He did not explain what he meant by "wishful thinking." It was noted that Egypt was getting increasingly restless over a lack of concrete results from Secretary of State Kissinger's mediation efforts.

COMPLAINS

COPENHAGEN: Israeli Ambassador Moshe Leshem has complained to the Danish government about anti-Semitic propaganda being handed out at the Soviet trade and industry fair now in Copenhagen. The Ambassador referred to a booklet entitled, "Zionist Falsehoods," published by the Soviet press agency Novosti, which was distributed at the fair. He asked the Danish government to intervene with the Soviet Union to withdraw the distribution of such literature. A Danish Foreign Ministry spokesman expressed surprise that such propaganda was being handed out at a technical fair, but explained his government does not have the policy to control written material at foreign fairs.

Rockefeller Vague On PLO; Position Not Definite Yet

WASHINGTON (JTA): Vice President designate Nelson Rockefeller neither condemns the Palestine Liberation Organization or refuses to recognize the terrorist group, a transcript of his testimony before the House Judiciary Committee indicated.

Rockefeller was repeatedly asked to state his views on the PLO by Representative Joshua Eilberg (D-Pa.) at a confirmation hearing by the committee Nov. 21.

Referring to his testimony in a statement issued by the Religious Action Center of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Rockefeller was represented as having "either expressed personal repugnance for the PLO and for what they stand nor a refusal to recognize them at this time."

Rabbi David Saperstein, Associate Director of the Center which is a joint group of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the UAHC, appealed to Rockefeller for a clarification of his testimony. He noted that in "view of the strong positive attitude toward Israel that Governor Rockefeller has exhibited in the past, I feel sure that he will do so as soon as possible," Rabbi Saperstein said.

Statements in Rockefeller's analysis of the relationship of the US, Israel and the PLO were described as "confusing," the UAHC said, according to a transcript available at Eilberg's office, exchanges between Rockefeller and Eilberg included the following:

"Eilberg — what are your feelings about the current situation in the Middle East and would you as President without a mutual agreement with Israel recognize the PLO as the spokesman for the Palestinian people?"

"Rockefeller — again it is like, if you will forgive me, the analogy of the oil depletion allowance. This is as somebody referred to in connection with me the tip of the iceberg. This problem is just part of the total, very complex problem."

"Eilberg — what is your answer? What would your answer be?"

"Rockefeller — I would have to talk with the Israelis about how they feel and what are the possibilities of getting some solution. One of the problems — forgive me, Mr. Congressman — is that those who are in a position elected, or have importance, and take positions on some issues, we can effect other peoples opinions and their lives and make it very difficult to negotiate. I might answer your question now but I don't know what the answer is."

"Eilberg — Governor, I think it has appeared very clearly in the press that the present leadership of the State of Israel does not recognize or would not deal with the PLO."

"Rockefeller — not yet. "Eilberg, and so I am asking you, if you had to face this question at this time — what would your answer be?"

"Rockefeller — my answer would be, I would sit down with the leaders of the Israeli Government and I would say, all right, here is the reality and how are we going to deal with it? If you will forgive me, Sir. This happens to be their problem. They live over there. These people were on their land and they took the land. Now we have got problems. Do not misunderstand me but we cannot solve everybody's problems. And by making a pronouncement in this room as to what you would do or what I would do, may not solve a problem. It may only exacerbate that problem and may make it more difficult for the countries involve to solve it. Therefore, I have a tremendous responsibility."

"Eilberg — Governor I think your position and my position are somewhat different. I think it is more our problem than you think it is."

"Rockefeller — excuse me, it is our problem in that it affects us but we do not have the power to settle it which makes it very difficult for us."

JAFFA 'STRIKE'

TL AVIV: As part of a massive series of civil defense exercises to test Israel's emergency services in event of war, a simulated "missile" strike was made on Jaffa. Police, firemen, civil defense guards and ambulance crews took part in the drills during which "rescue operations" were carried out in "strike areas."

NO IMMEDIATE THREAT
 NEW YORK: Informed sources report that UN "third world" delegates suggested to the Arab delegations that they ask the UN to deal with Israel as it did with South Africa, by excluding it from participation in the deliberations, however, there is little danger that Israel will get the same treatment as South Africa. They point out that the Arabs are interested in maintaining indirect contact with Israel and in utilizing the decisions of the international body in order to put pressure on Israel to withdraw from the so called "occupied" territories. The UN serves as a useful forum for the Arabs in their political and diplomatic contest with Israel. For that reason the Arabs are interested that Israel should remain within the UN confines.

Two commodity trading systems I've been testing; both showing a profit to date. But this is a very volatile field. Will watch my $5000 in each one carefully. See if there really is value to these professionally managed trading accounts

Company running the first one is Incomco, 1 World Trade Center, New York, New York 10048. Man in charge of it there is Phillip Martin. I have authorized him to give any of my readers the exact up-to-date value of my account upon request. You can call him collect: (212) 466-1350.

The other account is being handled out of the Uache office in Brookline, Massachusetts (850 Boylston Street) through broker Robert Mann. He, also, will be glad to tell you how my account there is doing. Call collect: (617) 731-1200.

News about an interesting invention: It's a robot that throws balls like a human! No moving parts — far less complex (and costly) than present automatic tennis ball thrower which has US market alone of several million dollars in sales every year! Also has great potential for ping pong market. Can be marketed and sold as home recreation device or set up for lucrative coin operation. . .

If you're interested in getting in on this in any way, call or write the inventor, Tibor Horvath, 1877 East 27th Street, Brooklyn, New York 11229: (212) DE9-2395.

If you're thinking of buying silver bullion, now is not a good time to buy it. And if you already have some, right now might be a very good time to sell!

More about this — and other fields of so-called 'financial opportunity' you should know about, and be aware of the dangers. Don't miss this.

What Is The Reason?

BY RABBI YAAKOV UVSITZKY

(Rabbi Uvsitzky has requested the following space to present the Orthodox viewpoint on certain Jewish customs and procedures.)

Why do women light Chanukah candles?

Women were also part of the miracle of Chanukah, because the daughter of Yochanan Cohen Gadai (High Priest) killed the captain of the Greeks and brought back his head to the Jews. Women were thus, in large measure, responsible for the miracle of Chanukah.

Why did the miracle of Chanukah take eight days?

One factor was because when the Jews had to go from Jerusalem to get the olive oil for the Menorah in the Holy Temple, it took them four days to get to the place and four days back, making a total of eight days.

Anti-Semitic Rumors Increase In France

PARIS: A new "Orleans affair" has broken out in the French city of Chalon sur Saone where public rumors are being circulated that local Jews are "kidnapping" teen-aged girls and "selling them abroad." Jewish sources in Chalon sur Saone said the rumors started about two weeks ago in the local high school for girls. From there it spread to the rest of the city's population.

Soon after the rumors first started, anti-Jewish slogans were painted at night on Jewish-owned shops. Rumors, similar to those which rocketed Orleans in the spring of 1969, claim that Jewish shop keepers drug and kidnap their non-Jewish customers, especially young girls, to sell them abroad. At the request of the local 200-member Jewish community the local police investigated the rumors and printed a denial in the city's newspaper, "Le Courrier." In spite of this, the rumors are continuing unabated, local Jews said.

Two prominent French Jewish organizations expressed their concern over the Chalon sur Saone situation and the anti-Semitism growing there.
