Montreal Paper Warns Against Nazi Activities

Editorial Strongly Condemns Anti-Jewish Propaganda

Says Hitlerism Won't Go

MONTREAL, Que., (JTA) — Open condemnation of the anti-Semitic campaign being waged in the Province of Quebec and a warning that the Hitlerite doctrines will not be tolerated in Canada was voiced by the Montreal Daily Star in its editorial columns. Under the caption "Our Jewish Citizens," this influential Canadian paper said:

"It is a matter for profound regret that in certain quarters both here and in the ancient capital there should recently have developed a campaign of anti-Jewish propaganda. This has taken the form both of articles in a section of the weekly press and of pamphlets, making various charges against the Jewish race in general and particularly against Canadian citizens of Jewish origin or race.

"Surely Canada ought to be the last place where such calumny should be fostered. Our Jewish citizens have long occupied a place in the community and have distinguished themselves by their law-abiding disposition.

"What is there to justify any campaign of calumny? What is there in the record of the Jewish population of Montreal or of Quebec to justify it? We know of nothing, and we do not believe anyone else does either.

"We want no form of anti-Jewish propaganda to gain a foothold among us," the Star concluded.

Many "Tourists" Facing Deportation Not Included in Count

8000 Are Reich Refugees

JERUSALEM (JTA) — More than 30,000 Jewish immigrants legally entered Palestine during 1933, official figures made public here by the executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine revealed today. The figures do not include the number of tourists who have remained without permission, unofficial estimates placing these in the thousands.

The Agency lists are based upon official government statements up to the end of November and include an estimate for December of 1933. Of the 30,000, nearly 8000 German-Jewish refugees are now in the country, fugitives from the persecutions of the Nazis.

125,000 Pounds Available

The German department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine announced that it has 125,000 pounds for use in settling the refugees on the land, in addition to the funds that the settlers have brought themselves. Dr. Arthur Ruppin is head of the colonization department of the Jewish Agency. While making the announcement, Dr. Ruppin told newspaper men of plans being developed by the Agency to settle the German-Jewish refugees. He praised their industriousness and willingness in tackling the problems of transplanting themselves from comparative ease and comfort — up to the time of Hitler persecutions — of Germany to pioneer Palestine.

The problem of tourists overstaying leave was occupying major attention here, many of these having used this method to flee Germany and enter Palestine because permanent entry was denied them under the restricted quotas in effect. A central legal aid committee has been established here in Tel Aviv and in Raifa to assist tourists threatened with deportation because of unauthorized settlement.

CENTER PLAYERS TO PRESENT THREE PRODUCTIONS SUNDAY

The Jewish Center Players will appear in their annual production next Sunday evening at the Barker playhouse, 400 Benefit street, near Transit street. It was deemed advisable to allow the players to perform there because the Center facilities for dramatic presentations are inadequate and the change gives the group an opportunity to display its talents.

The Center Players have been in continuous existence for more than seven years, having produced a number of one-act plays and operettas and have attained an enviable reputation in Providence and throughout New England. Last April in Springfield the Center Players were awarded first place with New Haven and Springfield dramatic groups.

The three plays to be presented are: "The Dollar," by David Pinski, a story of a stranded troop of actors depicting the characters of life; "Ebb Tide," by Robert Lambert, a mystery drama aboard a marooned yacht, and "The Violin Maker of Cremona" by Francois Coppe, the old story of two men in love with one girl whose father had pledged her to the one who will win the gold chain by making the finest violin.

Following is the cast of each play: "The Dollar": Wallace Serye, Sydney Long, Mina Udisky, Charlotte Long, Rosalind Gouse, Leo Cohen, Samuel Fink, and Al Gurwitz. "Ebb Tide": Al Gurwitz, Hilda Raphael, Ethel Shukofsky, Nathan Grossman, Norma Gouse, Wallace Segro, Larry Spitz, and Jack Gordon. "The Violin Maker of Cremona": Sydney Long, Leo Cohen, Albert Lisker, and Evelyn Siegal. Mrs. Samuel Starr is the coach of the three productions.

This is the fifth of the nine Sunday evening events offered by the Jewish Center to the members and the community at large. Due to the limited seating capacity of the Barker Playhouse admittance is being restricted to members of the Center but there will be a few available guests tickets that may be obtained at the Center prior to Sunday. Under no consideration will tickets be available at the door and those non-members planning to attend are requested to make their reservations by calling Dexter 8730.

THE WEEK IN JEWISH NEWS

Rehabilitation of Refugees from Nazi Wrath Estimated to Cost $2,500,000 . . . Roumanian Government Vigorously Crushing Anti-Semite Iron Guard

GERMANY

Amidst a series of conflicting reports on the proposed law regulating the status of Jews in the Reich, the draft of a code giving Jews and other non-Aryans the status of second-class citizenship, regulating their participation in certain professions and rigidly defining intermarriage, was made public by responsible authorities.

New measures by the Nazi authorities to stir up world hatred against the Jews took the form of a new international propaganda service quietly distributing mimeographed sheets designed "to educate poorly oriented Aryans concerning the doings of the Jewish underworld." . . . The Boersen Zeitung, chief financial organ, reported that the Steuben Society and the German-American Chamber of Commerce were backing the anti-Jewish anti-boycott drive in the United States.

Jewish students were barred from final examinations in Prussian universities, only sons of war veterans being exempted from the decree. . . . Minister of the Interior Frick urged haste in ousting Jews from public posts. . . . transfer taxes were waived to expedite transfer of businesses from Jews to Aryans.

The case of the Jews of Upper Silesia again will come before the League of Nations when the Council, meeting this month, considers several petitions protesting discriminations against members of the Jewish minority there. The Council has signified, however, that the petitions will be taken up at closed sessions of the body.

PALESTINE

The Arab Executive announced, and secured official permission for a country-wide demonstration on January 16 against continued Jewish immigration into the country.

The anticipated Municipal Government Ordinance, establishing a slight measure of self-government for Palestine, was promulgated.

The hearing of the three defendants in the Arlosoroff murder case took a dramatic turn when the defense shifted emphasis of the case onto the revolver owned by the assassination victim and the prosecutor accused the defense of trying to clear the three men by establishing a case against Dr. Arlosoroff's widow.

Five Arabs accused of membership in the terrorist organization responsible for a series of outrages in Palestine were freed in Haifa magistrate's court.

RUMANIA

Outward disorders have gradually subsided in Rumania since the assassination of Premier Duca and the vigorous measures taken by the Tarescu government, together with the frequently-repeated pledge of the new premier that he would spare no effort in crushing the anti-Semitic Iron Guard which was responsible for the death of his predecessor. The Rumanian situation still remained troubled, however, with Nicholas Titulescu, veteran Foreign Affairs Minister, a reluctant member of the new ministry. With King Carol's popularity somewhat in eclipse, the nation hand-hit by the general economic situation and disturbed by the rapidity of political developments since the December election, tension remains high and there are considerable forebodings regarding the future among members of the Jewish community.

POLAND

The fourth All-Polish conference of the Agudath Israel made a significant decision when it decided not to participate in the proposed world congress of all orthodox groups called by the World Mizrahi to meet in Jerusalem next year.

The prayerbook used by the Ba'al Shem Tov founder of the Chassidic movement came into the possession of the Lubawitcher Rebbe, Rabbi Joseph Isaac Schneerson, and created something in the nature of a major sensation among the devout Chassidim who flocked to Warsaw from miles around for a glimpse of the famous book.

Two hundred chedorim, Hebrew schools, were closed by the authorities for not having school licenses. The Polish rabbinate is studying the plight of the teachers and is considering an appeal to the government in their behalf.

HUNGARY

Student anti-Semitic disorders flared into the open again as a nation-wide strike of students broke out in all Hungarian universities. Non-striking students were forcibly prevented from registering for the new university semester as the striking students sought to force the government to adopt their twenty-point anti-Semitic program.

AUSTRIA

Events in Austria moved with gradually increasing speed in a definite Fascist trend as the Heimwehr, Fascist guard, extended its influence. Austrian Nazis defying the Dollfuss efforts to crush the movement treated the country to a display of bombings and other form of violence unparalleled in the country.

THE REST OF EUROPE

In Latvia, Jewish boycott leaders, betrayed by a group of Latvian Jews who are opposed to boycotting Germany were arrested and interrogated by the police. They were subsequently released but their records were confiscated.

In Salonica, Greece, Jewish merchants were seriously affected by a rigid Sunday observance law enacted this past week. Under the law now, Jewish merchants who observe the Jewish Sabbath, must lose two days of business each week.

French Jewish organizations were to confer on the question of finding permanent habitation for refugees from Germany who have to vacate the government barracks in which they have been temporarily housed. With two hundred leaving for Palestine and most others established in positions, a considerable number of refugees still remain destitute and in need of aid in Paris.

THE UNITED STATES

President Roosevelt was called on to make representations to the German government regarding the persecution of the Jews in a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland. . . . The House Committee on Rules has under consideration the bill introduced by Congressman Samuel Dickstein calling for a probe of Nazi activities in this country.

The protest of American Jewry at the restriction of immigration in Palestine and the man-hunt for tourist illegals took the shape of a resolution adopted at a conference of national Jewish organizations, bodies affiliated with the Zionist organization, the Zionist Organization of America and the American Representatives of the Jewish Agency for Palestine.

Congressman Dickstein announced that he had been informed that the American Federation of Labor will support his resolution.

High Commissioner James McDonald, stressing responsibility of non-Jews to aid in the refugee work, estimated that $25,000,000 would be required for the work. . . . Professor Albert Einstein was awarded a silver loving-cup by the high school boys of Philadelphia. . . . George Blumenthal was elected president of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

AMONG THE LITERATI

By GEORGE JOEL

Joel Rustam is a young man; in fact, he is young enough so that he doesn't want anyone to know how young he is. Just a few years ago he left Columbia University to become correspondent for the Moscow Daily News. Last year he spent a month in Germany just when Mr. Hitler was preparing to take over the Republic. Returning to the United States, Mr. Rustam decided that what New York needed was a new publishing house. He was able to convince a few backers of this crying need. The result is a firm which is called "Tomorrow." The idea, so the founders state, "is to issue timely pamphlets and books on current subjects." Economics and sociological matters are the major concerns of this new house. Pointedly enough, the first publication to come from its presses is a pamphlet by Joel Rustam himself, titled "The Fire." It deals with conditions in Germany and is a discussion of the Reichstag fire. At this writing Mr. Rustam is not ready to announce any of his future publications but he assures me that his plans are both tenable and interesting.

A Rumor or Two

Bill Soskin's salary at the New York American will put him somewhere in the "$10,000 a year or more" income tax class. His column will be syndicated to many Hearst papers. Miss Doris Schneider, who went to the American with him, will not, for the time being, write a column.

Simon & Schuster celebrated publicly their tenth anniversary in the book business. "Fortune" magazine devoted some pages to the success of this firm as did Publisher's Weekly. To what do Simon & Schuster attribute their success? The ability to pick manuscripts that become best sellers! Simple and concise but try and do it!

Ignace Paderewski, whose opinion of the Jewish race is as well known as his piano playing, is the subject of a biography by Rom Landau which Crowell will publish this season. The same firm will publish in January a biography of that American taskmaster, Stephen Foster, by John Tasker Howard.

The Trotsky book on Lenin will not be published by Funk & Wagnalls even though I said so. It will be published by another "big" publisher (whose name I am in honor bound not to disclose). Said publisher paid a very nice advance, especially since they knew that Trotsky had not written a line, at the time the contract was signed.

Bertram D. Wolfe, who was once secretary of the Communist Party but has since been expelled because he disagreed with the central party's views on the method for making America communistic, is writing the text for Diego Rivera's "Portrait of America." Mr. Wolfe, who is director of the New Workers School, recently agreed to go out to Sunny-side, L. I., and teach some of the more serious truth seekers of that community the basis of communism.

David Karsner, author of "Silver Dollar," who is working on a Philadelphia newspaper, is at work on another biography. The short, thin mild looking little man always picks some large robust figure to write about. His latest is a once famous coal and steel operator who went through a fortune of $70,000,000. Yes, I said seventy million!

Lions Club Initiates Dr. Jacob A. Brill

JEWISH HOME FOR AGED OF RHODE ISLAND

By M. P. OSTROW

BOARD MEETING

The board meeting scheduled for yesterday, has been postponed to Monday evening, January 22.

Nat C. Cohen in charge of membership states that the committee has been meeting regularly every Sunday morning, going over lists of prospective members to the Home. Mr. Cohen reports that within the last month, approximately 50 new members have been enrolled as supporters of the Home. Mr. Cohen recommends the setting aside of a definite period during the month of April for a membership drive. This plan involves the organization of soliciting committees representing every Jewish organization in the city and state.

"The Jewish Home for the Aged of Rhode Island is recognized by every Jewish citizen in the state as a most necessary institution to house and care for helpless aged. There are 45 of them in the Home. They can not go out to solicit for their support, and it is up to every able bodied Jewish citizen to do it for them."

The other committees to report are: Admissions, Mrs. Samuel N. Deutch; entertainment, Bernard M. Goldowsky; house, Max Siegal; finance, Henry Hassenfeld; budget, Charles C. Brown; publicity, Alter Boyman; legal, Walter I. Sundium, and memorial, Judge J. Jerome Hahn.

MRS. BELLIN PASSES AWAY

Among other things to be reported is the death of Mrs. Dora Deborah Bellin. This lady, 80 years old, had been taken care of by the Home for the Aged, at the Orms Street house, and later at the new Home, for several years. Mrs. Bellin had raised a family, and was beloved by everyone who knew her, as the motherly and pious type of Jewish womanhood. She had lost her eyesight and had a complication of diseases that would have ended her career many years ago, had she not been taken care of at the institution. It was through the vigilance of the medical committee and staff, that Mrs. Bellin lived longer and carried her sweet presence and comforting wise words to those who came in contact with her. She passed away January 4, and the old people participated in the funeral services, showing great grief for this loss.

WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE

Max Siegal, head of the ways and means committee will present a written report of the contemplated plan to hold a carnival for the benefit of the home during the month of June. This project was deferred in order not to interfere with other projects in the community of a similar nature.

DONATIONS

Siegal's Market, meat; Col. Joseph Samuels, bread; Mrs. Samuel Steiner, nightgowns; Mr. and Mrs. George Sandperil, cash; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cohen, candles and cash; Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel, cake and wine; Hebrew Ladies' Aid Association, pocket, cash.

Several Countries Not Invited by Nazis to Olympics

PARIS, (JTA) — A number of so-called "non-Aryan" countries have not been invited to participate in the 1936 Olympic Games which are to be held in Berlin, Le Temps disclosed. The Paris paper stated that no invitation was extended to Soviet Russia to send its athletes into competition at the games.

Among the countries which the German authorities failed to invite to take part in the Olympics, according to Le Temps, are Egypt, Honduras, Liberia, Persia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, and strangely, Lithuania. Lithuania was omitted from the invitation list possibly because of the certainty that its team would include Jewish athletes.

Le Temps expresses bewilderment at the failure of Germany to invite Egypt which has given many champions to the Olympics in past years, and also at the slight to Russia where physical culture is particularly stressed.

The failure of the German authorities to invite these countries to participate in the games follows repeated assurances on their part that racial discriminations in Germany would not affect the course of conduct of the Olympic Games.
