QUEEN KNIGHTS JEW

AMSTERDAM (JTA) — Queen Wilhelmina has created Herman Leydensdorf, famous Jewish virtuoso, a Knight of the Order of Orange and Nassau.

Reich Forces Big Jewish Firms to Sell

BERLIN (JTA) — Over 75,000 Jewish and semi-Jewish enterprises will pass into "Aryan" hands under the Reich's present policy, the German press reported today. Average value of these enterprises was estimated at 30,000 to 40,000 marks, official statistics indicate. The mark value was set at 10.33 in yesterday's market. Special emphasis was placed upon an immediate anti-Jewish boycott in the fur trade by Hitler's personal organ, the Voelkischer Beobachter.

BERLIN (JTA) — The large number of forced sales of Jewish-owned business enterprises shows a decided increase throughout the Reich, and now includes a number of the larger Jewish firms whose assets are being transferred to "Aryan" firms in the present wave of "liquidation."

Hitherto chiefly smaller Jewish enterprises have been compelled to transfer their business assets to only a small percentage of their actual values.

Britain Rebukes Reich; Nazis Resent "Truth About Hitler"

LONDON (JTA) — The Foreign Office has rebuked the German Government in connection with its protest, offered by the German Ambassador to Great Britain upon instructions from Berlin, against an article in the Strand Magazine by Winston Churchill in which Hitlerism is bitterly denounced.

The Foreign Office bluntly informed the German Ambassador that it does not exercise control over Mr. Churchill.

The Nazi Government's action in protesting the article created considerable resentment in journalistic circles here where it was widely interpreted as a Nazi attempt to censor the British press.

Churchill's article was entitled "The Truth About Hitler." Referring to it to the Jews of Germany, he writes that "a community numbered by the hundreds of thousands has been declared a foul and odious race."

"The twentieth century," he continues, "witnessed with surprise not merely the promulgation of these ferocious doctrines but their enforcement with brutal vigor by the Government. Past services, proved patriotism, even the wounds sustained in war do not procure immunity for persons whose only crime is that their parents brought them into the world. Every kind of persecution, grave or petty, upon world-famous scientists, writers and composers, at the top, to wretched little Jewish children in the nation's schools, was practiced, was glorified and still is being practiced and glorified."

Churchill expresses astonishment that German people not only did not resent the "horrible bloodbath" of June 30 last year, but even endorsed and acclaimed its author with honors as though he were a god. "Here," Mr. Churchill concluded, "is the frightful fact before which what is left of European civilization must bow its head in shame."

Prov. Levi Dies In Paris at 72

PARIS (JTA) — Prof. Sylvain Levi, noted French historian and orientalist and president of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, leading Jewish organization which is this year celebrating its 75th anniversary, died here suddenly today. He was 72 years old.

Prof. Levi was born here March 28, 1863, and educated at the Sorbonne, later serving on its faculty. He has been on the faculty of the College of France since 1894 and with Ecole des Hautes Etudes since 1885. At both schools he occupied the chair of Sanscrit Language and Literature.

At the Peace Conference at Versailles, Prof. Levi, representing French Jewry on the Committee of Jewish delegations, took a vigorous stand against Palestine as a Jewish national home. He was always a strong opponent of Zionism.

A brilliant orientalist, his published works include "Le Theatre Indien," "La Doctrine du Sacrifice dans les Brahmanas," "Le Nepal," and "L'Inde."

Beth-Israel Speaker

MAURICE SAMUEL

Maurice Samuel will be guest speaker at the first formal meeting of the Men's Club of Temple Beth-Israel, Monday, Nov. 18, it was announced today.

Mr. Samuel is internationally known as an English and Yiddish scholar and orator. His translations of the autobiography of the late Schmarya Levin is a masterpiece of literature. He has caught the spirit and life of Levin's inimitable Yiddish style and the latter's writings live again in English.

Maurice Samuel has had a varied and colorful career. He was educated in England and upon graduation from the University of Manchester, he continued to study in various French and German Colleges. Following the war, he served for a year with the United States Pogrom Investigating Committee to Poland, and the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission in Paris, Berlin and Vienna.

Besides his literary activity, Mr. Samuel is undoubtedly the most popular orator of the present day. He has recently returned from his European, Asian, and African travels, and is well versed with first hand information concerning the current crisis on the Mediterranean and in northern Africa. While the text of his topic for discussion is not yet announced, it is expected that he will speak on the effect of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict upon the world minorities.

Samuel R. Fibongold, chairman of the program committee of the Men's Club, announced to members of the board of governors at a meeting held last evening that the Hon. (Continued on Page Four)

Creation of a Genuine Jewish Art is Goal of Saul Raskin

"Creation of a Jewish Art, distinctly Jewish in conception and style, is the aim of every Jewish artist today," declared Saul Raskin, well known artist to a Jewish Herald reporter in an interview yesterday.

Mr. Raskin, whose works are exhibited at Temple Emanu-El under the sponsorship of the Institute of Jewish Studies, was born in Russia and came to this country in 1906 after he had completed his studies at the Universities of Berlin and Paris. All of his time since has been spent in this country except for the periodical visits he has made to Palestine, the land which has greatly influenced and inspired his work. Although Mr. Raskin is 57 years old his beginning as a painter only started fourteen years ago while visiting in Palestine. "The beauty of the land," Mr. Raskin said, "was really the one significant factor that turned my interest and energies to painting."

"But to become a painter, a good painter," Mr. Raskin continued, "it

Drive Starts Tuesday: Five Jewish Agencies Allotted Funds

With the Special Prospects Division already hard at work under the inspiring direction of Bernard M. Goldovsky, the full strength of the Jewish Federation for Social Service will be thrown into action next Tuesday as part of the Providence-Cranston Community Fund Campaign which will seek in one week to raise $634,908, for the support of 38 social agencies for the entire year of 1935. Included among the 38 agencies which will wait the result of the campaign with anxiety are five major Jewish institutions upon whose work the welfare of many sick and poor and orphaned and unfortunate individuals in the city.

With James Goldman in charge of Jewish participation on the teams in the general divisions, assisted by Mrs. Ethel Cohen as organizer, and Mrs. Harry Gony and Miss Anna Field as assistants, several hundred Jewish workers will step into stride with an army of more than 2000 for this annual drive. This year for the first time, the Cranston Community Fund is included marking another (Continued on Page Two)

Arab Strike Is Not Effective; Peace Prevails

JERUSALEM (JTA) — The Jewish population of Palestine relaxed this week from the tenseness that had accompanied the general strike of the Arab population against alleged Jewish arming last Saturday.

The strike was only partly effective and there were few disorders. At Nablus, 400 Arab youths threw stones and smashed windows in the Shomdonim quarter of the ancient city. Nobody was wounded, according to reports.

Many Arab shops and restaurants refused to close their doors in defiance of the orders issued by Arab party leaders. The strike also failed to cripple transportation lines, many of the buses operating throughout the day.

Credit for the peaceful outcome of the strike, the first important nation-wide Arab demonstration against the Jews since 1929, the year of the riots, was given to the elaborate precautions against disturbances taken by the police.

was necessary that I pass through three stages. First, the technique of painting and drawing had to be conquered which then permitted me to realize my own capabilities. Secondly, as a Jewish artist, I had to know my people or it was they whom I was to portray. Their actions in their homes, their synagogues, their methods of business and their enjoyment of life had to infiltrate my whole being.

"The third factor, and to me the most difficult is the creation of a distinctive Jewish art. There are innumerable Jewish artists but only a few dealing only with Jewish subjects and it is through these few that we can expect the greatest advance towards genuine and original Jewish interpretation. In the past, famous Gentile artists have portrayed Jewish characters and situations, but despite their technical skill, the inner emotions could not be reflected in the finished works. For they, the artists, were not Jews. (Continued on Page Four) great step forward in coordinating charitable work in this community, in eliminating waste and duplication and in saving many hundreds of dollars in campaign costs.

Message of Support
On the eve of the campaign, the Federation has sent to several thousands loyal supporters in this city a statement of the urgency of the campaign. It is entitled: "AN URGENT PERSONAL APPEAL TO YOU."

"Never have your Jewish charities been more needed than today. Never have they been better able to meet that need since joining the Community Fund — Never before that, were their directors able to give full time to the real job of caring for the needy — Never before were your orphans and sick and poor unfortunate so well cared for. Never will they need your help more than in 1936.

"For you, conditions are improving. For you, jobs are more plentiful. For you, business is better. BUT for the poor, they are still waiting for the sun to rise.

"Show your appreciation of the essential work your charities are doing. Show your gratitude for your own improving position. Express your thankfulness for the good things in life which are yours by a generous subscription, once a year for all these charities, payable in installments throughout the year.

"The Community Fund seeks a minimum of $334,908, this year. Of this total, your own charities require at least $65,001., nearly 11% of the total."

This statement is signed in behalf of their agencies by the following: Max L. Grant, president of the Federation and of Miriam Hospital; Alter Boyman, vice-president of Miriam Hospital; Arthur J. Levy, president of Jewish Family Welfare Society; Milton C. Sapinsley, president of the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island; and Mrs. Milton Fuld, president of North End Dispensary.

The statement continues to describe the work of the above-named institutions and also asks that subscribers remember well that there are 32 other agencies in the Community Fund which deserve ample support, including the Lying-In Hospital, Providence and Cranston District Nurseries, Providence Tuberculosis League, Children's Friend Society, S.F. C.C., Charitable Fuel Society, and a number of others.

Gift Increases Necessary

It has been pointed out that owing to the increase in the needs of the fund agencies, and to certain deaths and other causes in the community, increases in gifts are needed to make this year's minimum quota attainable. Due to the passage of an act of Congress exempting incorporation may now increase their gifts to the Community Fund from 12 to 2 per cent without spending an extra cent for the purpose. Thus a corporation which gave $100 last year may give at least $112.50 this year and the net cost to the concern will be just the same. From reports already received at the time of going to press, it is apparent that a great many corporations will avail themselves of the opportunity to give more generously in this manner.

SHOWER FOR IDA WEINER

A shower in honor of Miss Ida Weiner of Pleasant Street, was held last Saturday night at Zinn's Restaurant. A dinner was served which was followed by a round of bridge. More than 250 people from New York, Pennsylvania, Boston and Providence attended.

Hostesses for the evening were Meadames H. Weiner, M. Moskowitz, S. Weiner, O. Zinn and J. Schreiber.

Miss Weiner will marry Irving Moskowitz, of Oakland Ave., the latter part of December.

Propaganda Spread by Nazi Agent in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, D. F. (JTA) — A group of Nazi agents arrived here recently and are spreading among the Mexican population propaganda against the Jews and for Hitlerism. They are conducting their activities with the aid of the Golden Shirts, Mexican anti-Semitic Fascist organization.

"Jewry and Crime" is the name of one of the pamphlets distributed by the Nazi agents in trolley cars throughout the capital and in many towns and cities of the provinces. Information contained in the pamphlet was compiled by the Nazi secret police in Germany under the direction of General Dalge.

The pamphlet charges that the Jews always contributed the largest percentage of criminals in Germany and that Nazism did away with them, but that Germany is now overrun by Jewish criminals in industry and commerce and that Jews are engaged in gambling and narcotic traffic.

Another of the pamphlets, sent here from Germany and bearing the imprint of the Falken Verlag, Leipzig, is published by the Anti-Semitic League Deutsche Fuechte Bund. Readers are asked to spread the pamphlets and invited to write to the Verlag for a supply gratis.

The propaganda is conducted without interference although there are laws on the books prohibiting spreading of race hatred, particularly by foreigners.

One instrument of propaganda was checked recently when the government prohibiting the film "Loyal to the Death," a UFA picture depicting the clash between Nazis and Communists during the early days of the Hitler revolution. The official explanation of the ban is that it might have stirred clashes among the workers. The newspaper sharply criticized the government for banning the film, accusing it of Communist sympathies.

UFA films monopolized Mexican markets recently because American companies refused to pay the high tariffs imposed on American pictures. This disagreement, however, is being straightened out.

Warn Professors to "Lay Off" Anti-Nazi Activities

MINNEAPOLIS (JTA) — Postal authorities are investigating threatening letters received here by University of Minnesota professors and other liberals, who were advised to "lay off" anti-Nazi pronouncements or undergo "tar and feathering."

Chief among those to receive the missives are Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota, and Professor Benjamin E. Lippincott, of the University's Political science department.

First disclosure of the threats was made by Professor Lippincott, vigorous exponent of liberal thought in a lecture before one of his classes on the campus. The threat, written on one of the periodic letters sent out by the Edmondson Economic Service, 80 Washington Street, New York City, was not received by Lippincott directly, but by a faculty colleague. The Edmondson letter apparently had been sent to St. Paul and from there mailed by the "threatener." The threat was signed "Christian Vigilantes."

Canada to Enter Olympics

MONTREAL, Que (JTA) — Canada's acceptance of Germany's official invitation to the Olympic games was made more than a year ago and its status as a participant remains unchanged, said P. J. Mulqueen of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, this week.

It had been reported that the conference decided to delay action on participation pending the action of the British Olympic Committee.

Mulqueen and W. A. Fry, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, were in conference with heads of Canada's winter sports bodies here. Mulqueen said the matter of Canada's participation has not been officially discussed as no official protest has been received by the committee.

An invitation from the German Olympic Committee to Canada to send 30 boys and 30 physical education instructors to view the games was objected to by H. E. Herschorn of Montreal, president of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association "because of present conditions in Germany" and because, he said, the trip might be regarded as propaganda.

Victory Luncheon Will Wind Up Membership Drive

The concentrated membership drive conducted by National Hadassah is drawing to a close and as a wind-up to its local endeavors during the past month, and in compliance to the new recruits, Providence Chapter of Hadassah is sponsoring a "Victory Luncheon" to precede its next Tuesday meeting, which is being held at Temple Beth Israel. Mrs. Murray H. Goldfarb, local membership chairman, indicated that the results accomplished are gratifying: "In addition to new members, many past ones have been brought back to the fold," she announced.

According to reports from National Hadassah headquarters, fine progress is also being made by chapters throughout the country, in response to the appeal for a showing of 50,000 members at Purim, 1937, when Hadassah celebrates its Silver Jubilee. For the handful of women who created Hadassah in 1912, and the hundreds, then thousands that joined them in the succeeding years, this coming historic milestone in the annals of Hadassah accomplishment, will be rightly a period of rejoicing and of enriching the Hadassah tradition with ever greater achievement.

The need today for united effort to combat the more than deplorable situation of world Jewry is greater than ever, and Hadassah offers in its ranks, a place for every Jewish woman of our community who wishes to participate in the great movement for the upbuilding of the Jewish homeland, recognized as the true solution of the Jewish problem. Mrs. A. A. Fain, president of the local chapter, states that the organization will welcome, at its luncheon on "Victory Day," any prospective member who wishes to identify herself with the significant work which is being carried on nationally by 32,600 American Jewish women. Mrs. Fain also urges the members to run out the campaign with a final intensity in order to increase enrollment to the highest possible figures.

The program for the event is in charge of Mrs. Rose Markensohn, chairman of education, Rabbi Morris Schussheim will offer the invocation and Mrs. Morris Schussheim will render a report on the World Zionist Congress, which was held recently at Lucerne, Switzerland. Bridge will be played during the afternoon and attractive prizes presented to the winners.

Mrs. J. D. Grossman is chairman of the function, and will be assisted by the following committee: Mrs. A. A. Fain, ex-officio, Mesdames S. Michaelson, Sol Cohen, Benjamin Bromberg, Jules Irving, S. Deutsch, Jacob Ernestof, L. Marcus, Isidore Singer, Charles Temkin, Murray Goldfarb, Morris Sheer, M. Shust; Mrs. N. Temkin, publicity; Mrs. Rose Markensohn, program and Mrs. Murray Goldfarb, membership.

The event is scheduled to begin at 12:30 noon.

BEN AMI FRATERNITY

The Ben Ami fraternity held their first meeting of the year last Wednesday night at the Jewish Community Center. Plans were discussed for the establishment of a dramatic group and a fraternity orchestra.

Hospital to Stage Jubilee

JOSEPH SMITH

MAYOR JAMES E. DUNNE

Roland Hammond, president of the R. I. Medical Society, and Dr. Charles F. Wilensky, director of Beth Israel Hospital, Boston, and deputy commissioner of health in Boston. Dr. Wilensky will talk on "The Hospital and the Community."

Maj. Charles M. Hoffman became superintendent of the hospital in January, 1927, and has since served in that capacity. During his administration the per diem patient costs have been cut from $8.27 in 1926 to $6.87 last year, without sacrificing quality of services or food. Still active in supporting the hospital is the Miriam Hospital Association, aided by another organization called the "intermediates" and private philanthropists.

Some idea of the scope of the hospital's accomplishments can be obtained from Maj. Hoffman's report for last year, and from other official statistical records. But the humanitarian side of the hospital's record is attested by the hundreds of thankful letters from former patients.

Non-Sectarian in Scope

Discussing the fact that only about 10 per cent of the treatments given at the outpatient department last year were for Jewish patients, Maj. Hoffman pointed out that there are few Jewish families resident in the Olneyville and Cranston street sections served directly by the hospital, but there is a large Catholic population. Therefore, he said, Miriam receives a large Catholic outpatient load because of its geographical location, just as St. Joseph's Catholic hospital on the fringe of South Providence, which has a large Jewish population, receives many Jewish patients.

Dispensary or outpatient service is restricted entirely to the indigent or the individual in reduced circumstances who cannot engage the services of a private doctor. Such patients receive the attention of a physician free of charge, but are required to pay cost of drugs, laboratory examinations or laboratory tests, but in cases of dire distress they receive this service free.

Large Personnel

To render all these services, Miriam Hospital employs a large personnel. Included are: Superintendent, director of nurses, floor supervisors, night administrative staff, X-ray and laboratory technicians, anesthetists, records clerks, bookkeeper, housekeeper, telephone operators, pharmacist, dietician, cooks and food servers, housekeeper, steamstress, ward maids, laundry help, porters, orderlies and janitorial workers.

The co-operation of all these workers, with nurses and doctors, plus the support of the entire citizenry of Providence, non-Jewish as well as Jewish, has enabled Miriam to rise to its present eminence in its short life span." Maj. Hoffman declares in the yearbook commemorating the hospital's tenth anniversary.

Members of the board of directors have voted that the evening be devoted entirely to gaiety and joy. They feel that Providence Jewry should rejoice in the great accomplishments of the Miriam Hospital. The committees assisting Mr. Joyman include: tickets, Mrs. Jo-

ONCE A YEAR!

If one little Jewish boy in this city had no place to lay his head tonight, a hundred of us would be up in arms over the situation and would see to it that he was fed and tucked under the covers somewhere. Such is the spirit of neighborliness among the Jewish Community of Providence. Likewise, if a family had no fuel or food or shelter or clothing, or if a person were ill and in need of medical care which was not available, or if a young man or woman were on the road to crime or anti-social behavior — in any such case a hundred of us would drop everything to care for the situation. Such is the spirit of neighborliness among the Jewish Community of Providence.

If you and I were told that the Miriam Hospital, the Jewish Orphanage, the Jewish Community Center, The Jewish Family Welfare Society and the North End Dispensary were going to close their doors for lack of funds to carry on, not merely a hundred of us, all of us would drop everything and would empty our pockets to see to it that such a thing did not happen. Such is the spirit of neighborliness among the Jewish Community of Providence.

But such a thing cannot happen. Why? Because that same spirit of neighborliness prevails all the time, even when no youngster is out in the cold, when no patient is suffering unattended pain, when no family is hungry and cold, when no boy or girl need hang around the corners. Because you and I and our fathers and mothers took care of these things long ago by organizing ourselves to care for those less fortunate than ourselves.

We have established these splendid institutions, we have united them in the Jewish Federation for Social Service, and we have linked arms in genuine American teamwork with our non-Jewish neighbors through the medium of the Providence-Cranston Community Fund. Thereby we have reduced the costs of raising funds for efficient social work to a minimum. Thereby we have inspired cooperation, have avoided duplication of effort, have made our charitable dollars do the most good. Thereby we have eliminated countless money-raising "affairs" and with them have abolished expensive and unnecessary items of overhead involved in such "affairs." Thereby we have saved ourselves from perennial annoyance from solicitation.

Once a year and once only we determine the amount we can afford for a whole year by one single subscription. Usually we add a few dollars for good measure and for the sake of our own hearts and consciences. Four times a year, or more often if we like, we pay our subscriptions in convenient installments. And throughout the year — for 365 days — we have the deep personal satisfaction of knowing that we have done our part for those who are most unfortunate.

That opportunity to join in this great annual campaign is with us now. This week we are all invited to subscribe, not only for the five great institutions which we have developed but for all the 38 great agencies in the Providence-Cranston Community Fund, most of which in any event are non-sectarian in their policy and program, most of which are ours just as much as they belong to anyone else in the city, all of which should be supported by us with equal generosity and with equal enthusiasm.

As in the past, we will give to the limit of our ability. As in the past we will consider the needs of each of them, and our gift will be the sum total of our loyalty to all 38 agencies. As never before in the past, we will remember that 1936 may be the crucial year when it will be determined whether these absolutely essential institutions will go on or not. Such is the spirit of neighborliness among the Jewish Community of Providence.

BOOK NOTES

By Esther Levine

Robert Briffault's "E n s u e r e" (Charles Scribner's Sons) is one of the important books of the season. It is lengthy, detailed account of European conditions, especially in the higher social strata, during the late nineteenth and early twentieth century.

It depicts a society with values so distorted, with cravings so unnatural, with tastes so avid for new sensations that it has lost sight of human decencies. One wonders not that such a social order was destroyed, but that it was allowed to exist for such a length of time.

The story is drawn about young Julian Bern, the son of a minor English diplomat with good connections. Young Julian's early education in Italy quickened a naturally inquiring mind. He found much to question, particularly the contradictions of life. When his father tells him that he is free to make his own decisions and to form his own judgment, Julian protests.

"How should I be able to judge for myself when, as far as I can make out, most grown-up people are not able to do so? And I don't see that I am free. There are lots of things that I should like to know, but nothing is said about them by any of my teachers. And the things which they teach me do not help me in the least to judge for myself. And when I ask questions, I am told that I must wait until I grow up. When I try to read out for myself, I am told that I am wicked and should not read wicked books. Do you call that being free?"

Julian's years at Cambridge did not stop his mental growth. His interests in science kept his mind open. His social contacts were many, and varied from going to balls attended by royalty to rescuing women suffragettes from the hands of policemen. Through the development of this cosmopolitan, the entire social and political background of European civilization is spread before the reader.

He main criticism of this book lies in its overwhelming wealth of detail. There is, for a novel, too little discrimination in the selection of material. It is decided for a readers.

Jewish Art (Continued from Page One)

"For example," he continued as he went rapidly over a group of paintings, "it is interesting to see a group of prophets that have been pictured many times. They differ from all previous attempts to materialize what our ancient prophets resembled. In the past, the prophets were pictured as blond, smooth skinned men whose faces looked like the Hebrew intensity they have come to associate with our ancient thinkers. The temperamental delivery of messages, thundering over the heads of their oppressors, is sorely missing.

"Many of the majestic characteristics of our prophets are well displayed by the dignified Jewish aged, a group that will someday be extinct. It will be a great loss to the Jewish people, despite the fact that they have been considered nuisances. The latter reaction is merely a subterfuge to cover the hope of appearance of a new Jewish.

"The old men of our race are true characters and splendid in their knowledge of higher wisdom of life and I feel as if I were drawing a monument each time one poses for me. As a distinct group, they will be gone."

In discussing his work which was colorfully displayed Mr. Raskin pointed out, with merry irony, some of the titles with which he had adorned several of his paintings. But through the entire exhibition it was clearly evident that Mr. Raskin's subjects were his own people in natural poses.

Whether it was an old fashioned Chedak, a Simchas Torah celebration, a scene in the park, the central characters were Jewish and in many he captured that delicious Jewish humor that is inherent with Jews. Palestine, the workers, in play and in labor, in them he has personified hope and freedom from religious oppression. There is little superficiality about Mr. Raskin's work for he attempts quite successfully to give each characteristic some meaning; there is no waste of material. There is something greater radiating from his work as a Jewish artist and his efforts are not merely paintings; they reflect Jewish life and personalities.

cerned with a world which is rotten and decadent and he describes it in the James Joyce manner, in which a spade is not only called a spade but the quality of the earth unturned is analyzed in minute detail.

Prominent figures wander in and out of the pages of this remarkable book. Aristocrats of the period look on bewildered as the standards they have believed immutable are swept aside. Lady Penmore, Julian's aunt has been in the habit of sponsoring semi-political gatherings at her social. ## Talented Disease to Perform Here

Miss Julia Diane Jacobs, well known disease, will appear at a meeting of the Young Women's Hebrew Association, Wednesday, November 20, at the Jewish Community Center. Miss Jacobs performed at a similar meeting last year and was received so enthusiastically that a return performance was demanded.

Although her home is in New Haven, Conn., Miss Jacobs has achieved a distinctive reputation throughout New England for her fine work. Her repertoire is extensive; but most of her presentations are of Jewish content. When last here, she read "The Golem," and her realistic characterizations will long be remembered. Her program for November 20 has not been announced. Miss Helen Sapsowitz will preside.

where he attended sessions of the Laundry Owners National Association in New York City. Laundry owners from all parts of the U. S. were in attendance and friend Charles brought back many new ideas for the Washington Laundry.

Mrs. Morris Cowen is taking her rank as one of our "ace" book reviewers, her talk on "Paths of Glory" by Humphrey Cobb was a feature of the evening held by the International Relations department of our local Council of Jewish Women... this brilliant young lady was an honor student at Pembroke College and taught at East Providence High School until her marriage to the likable Morris Cowen and this couple are now blessed with two fine children... they are telling me the story of one of our local attorneys who went to the Brown Stadium on last Saturday to witness the Brown-Harvard game and he brought one of our local females with him, but wasn't his face red when arriving at the field he was told the game was in Cambridge—better luck next time.

Sisterhood of Temple Beth-Israel planning annual dance at Narragansett later part of month and Mrs. Arthur Galkin is head of a fine committee... did you know that Mrs. Jerome J. Hahn is almost a daily visitor at our Jewish Home for the Aged and many, many more of our good women can be seen there on different days of the week... Isador Low, head of Low Supply does most of his reading mornings starting at 5 a. m.

We are hoping to see many of our friends this week-end in Springfield, Mass., where the annual convention of the Associated "Y's" of New England will be held... the sessions begin on Saturday, with a dance and will continue until Monday night, Armistice Day... Joseph Finberg, prominent civic leader of Attleboro and prime factor in the Camp Avoda movement has a public school named after him in the Massachusetts city... at Clinic Day at Memorial Hospital in Pawtucket last Wednesday, medical men, Herman Winkler, Nate Bolotow and Bill Cohen took an active part... more than 150 physicians were in attendance... the Armistice holiday, made legal this year in R. I. for the first time will find many locals leaving for New York and other points... and a holiday from one's regular duties is good for all of us... so this is all for another seven days.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By JACK C. ANHALT

This column is to be devoted to the interests of contract bridge, the card game which is constantly gaining in favor throughout our state. Until recently very little tournament play has been held in Rhode Island; but I am confident that this pleasurable pastime, which offers so much relaxation will be as popular as it is in other cities, where duplicate match may be found on any evening during the week.

Contract bridge proves to be fascinating at times because of the law of distribution. Perhaps this is the reason we find so many gray-haired adherents of the game. The following hand was one of the most interesting I have experienced during my playing in the past month. This heart-breaking hand which occurred recently in one of the Hotel Dixon Duplicate Tournaments. Incidentally the Hotel Dixon is in North Attleboro, Mass., and if some of you fellow bridge lovers think that all people in that town are farmers; take a look and see how two of their women players kept my partner and myself from a highly successful evening.

NORTH, 2 Diamonds, 5 Clubs, 5 Spades, Pass.
EAST, 3 Clubs, Pass, Pass, Pass.
SOUTH, 3 Spades, 5 Diamonds, 6 Spades.

In the play of the hand, West made the very clever lead from the Ace and Queen of Hearts. The ace was led and West continued with the Deuce of Hearts. Even with the cue of West's heart bid, I did not want to take the chance of being set on the second trick with the long Diamond suit to be established. This play was my undoing, for on going in with the King of Hearts I was unable to get a break in Diamonds. With four Spades in West's hand and no other entry in my partner's hand, the contract was lost.

This column is always open for a discussion of any hands, unusual or controversial, that any Jewish Herald reader would care to submit. Address Jack C. Anhalt, care of this paper, and your problem will be considered.

Business Bad; "Aryans" Seek Ghetto Cafes

BERLIN (JTA) — A number of "Aryan" cafes in the Kurfurstendamm district, the "main stream" section of Berlin, applied for permission to engage Jewish musicians and give Jewish programs, signifying readiness to abide by the rule limiting clientele to Jews and accepting the classification of "ghetto cafes."

The owners complain that with Jews forbidden to enter "Aryan" cafes and forced to patronize only "ghetto cafes," the business of the German establishments has suffered severely.

Temple Beth-Israel

On next Friday evening, Rabbi Morris Schussheim will exchange pulpits with Rabbi William G. Braude who will address the congregation on "The Future of Peace." The public is cordially invited.

Adult registrants for the Temple Religious School will be accepted next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Class rooms have been re-equipped and refurbished to make room for additional students.

Post Bar-Mitzvah boys are meeting Sunday mornings at 9 o'clock for religious services. A community breakfast is then served at the Temple prior to Sunday School sessions. All boys of Bar Mitzvah age are eligible for admittance. Election of officers will be held Sunday, November 10.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN

The most important event on next week's calendar, and everyone's calendar, Jew or Gentile, is the Providence-Cranston Community Fund campaign which begins this coming week. Hundreds of men and women will cheerfully give of their time, the majority at the expense of their businesses, to personally solicit pledges for funds to carry on the work of the many agencies who serve the underprivileged and unfortunate men, women and children of our community. It is our duty to welcome these workers with our best smile and to give willingly. Many of our own Jewish charities are dependent upon the Community Fund and we, the Jewish people of the community, should at least contribute as much money as our agencies take out. If you are not approached during the week's campaign for your contribution, call Community Fund headquarters and a worker will call. By all means do not shirk this important duty—let us adopt the campaign slogan and be "Good Neighbors."

OLYMPIC GAMES SPOTLIGHT

The United States' participation in the coming Olympic games continues to be front page news although many non-Jews of prominence have declared themselves openly against our country sending its athletes to Germany. It is our personal opinion that when all is said and done, the United States will be found in the ranks of the competing nations. In the mail last week I received a letter from a friend in New York who requested me to make five copies of the same letter to mail to friends asking them to send their objections to our participation in the games to the American Olympic committee. This is the chain letter idea and I understand that thousands are doing this in other sections of the nation. Although the Hitler nation through its high powered press agents are exclaiming that it will not bar Jewish athletes from its teams, many facts of a contrary nature are being disclosed, the latest is that Baron Gottfried von Cramm, who almost defeated the great English tennis star, Perry, will be barred from the 1936 Davis Cup tourney because his wife is Jewish.

A survey conducted a few weeks ago amongst leading sport writers by the United Press as to whether the United States should participate in the coming games brought this information... 13 for, 11 against, and six non-committal. We understand that the people of the German nation, the rank and file, do not know of the agitation in this country because of the strict censorship which is exercised there and which does not permit of any news reaching them of a contrary nature. As a result of the tremendous amount of publicity and agitation, the American Olympic Committee in whose hands rests the ultimate decision of participation, is publishing a 16 page booklet covering the situation.

HITS AND MISSES

As a veteran and seasoned member of the Jewish Herald staff, we welcome two new members, Miss Esther Levine who will contribute a book review column and our good friend, Jack Anhalt whose new column will cover that important subject of "bridge" and who will endeavor to help you with your problems... the coming to the Jewish Herald of these two well qualified individuals is but one of the first of many new features to be brought to these columns by the new publishers.

Wonder why so many of our pretty young ladies like to meet every noon at the corner of Westminster and Dorrance... see for yourself about 1 o'clock every day... When I was young and handsome, Gladings' was the favorite spot and before that, when our mothers and aunts made their dates before the advent of the gas buggy, Shepard's deck was the spot where "romos" and their "belles" kept their dates—remember, I got my names a bit mixed last week—it was not Manny Sontam with Valencia Lapitz but Manny Sontom—sorry, the best of us go wrong at times... Sam Workman is the lonestom man in town since friend wife Ruth and child left for Los Angeles last week to spend four months with Sam's (aka in the California city—well, Sam, now you will know the life of a louseome bachelor like yours truly... nearly everyone in town will be at the Narragansett on Sunday night on the occasion of the 10th anniversary or Jubilee celebration of our Miriam Hospital... The Leo Grossman fittingly celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Friday night last when scores of their many friends crowded their home on Reynolds Avenue and surrounded by their five strapping sons they proved gracious hosts.

The Boston Symphony concerts are again proving a magnet for many of our locals who like good music but believe it or not, only five were seen enjoying themselves in the land of Morpheus, so last Tuesday's concert must have been loud and good... The Nat Rays, Bernie Payton and sister Nedda with Norma Gouse were amongst those spotted at the wrestling matches last week and I do wish that Cy Mitchell, local wrestling impresario would bring on a good Jewish wrestler... Al Brenner, Maplehurst Hotel manager of Bethlehem has named his eating spot on the campus of R. I. State College, the Rampus Klub... seen on Exchange Place, crowds watching a Packard with N. Y. number plates which had attached to it several dead deers, evidently from the Maine woods... Charlie Felder has just returned from a five days' stay at Atlantic City

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

By PAUL A. PETERS

Spotlight on Small Town . . . A city of about 12,000 . . . Hudson, appropriately enough, being located on the east bank of the Hudson River, about half way between Albany and New York City . . . About the time you are reading these words, that town is going to be one of the most uncomfortable places for bigots and such anywhere in the United States . . . We have it on the highest authority that a group of outstanding Christian leaders, BIG NAMES who are prominent in the anti-Nazi movement in this country, are preparing to turn the full glare of a powerful spotlight on that community . . . First, they will conduct a complete survey of the situation there . . . If the survey produces the expected results, Hudson, N. Y., is to become Exhibit A in a campaign sponsored by this group to demonstrate how Nazism can take hold and spread in a small city in the United States . . . The whole affair started when a Lutheran pastor, Walter Pfeil, came back from Germany stuffed full of anti-Jewish propaganda . . . Pfeil, on his first appearance before his flock, stood in his pulpit and read, without one word of comment, a statement handed to him personally by a high Nazi official . . . The statement was to start to finish an attack on Jews and it wasn't couched in mild or gentlemanly or churchly language . . . Also without comment, the town's two dailies reported the "sermon" practically verbatim . . . Publication of the "sermon," of course, created a furore among the town's Jews . . . The whole affair was brought to the attention of the aforementioned Christian leaders and about the time you are eyeing these words the Hudson fur should begin to fly and there will be squirming in that town such as can't be witnessed outside of a Holy Roller meeting.

Mark Twain Could Have Told Hitler

Mark Twain, the 100th anniversary of whose birth on November 30, 1835, is being celebrated, once wrote something that sounds as if it were written especially as a rebuke to our modern Hitler-haters . . . In a newspaper series of articles, called "The Sweets of the Tenements," the following passage appears . . . "This great mass of ghetto-dwellers are living refutations of a popular anti-Semitic libel—that the Jew is congenitally a money-changer, a trader and not a workman, a manufacturer, an actual producer of wealth."

following wire to Goebbels: 'Send us two Jews immediately or boycott will be failure.' . . . Mandzac, incidentally, is one of the most enthusiastic fellows we've ever run across in the Anglo-Jewish field . . . You can mark this prediction in your memory book and hold us to it some time in the future; he'll be one of the most successful Anglo-Jewish publishers in the country.

Split Ticket

Morris Rothenberg, president of the Zionist Organization of America, was given a dinner on the occasion of his return from Palestine . . . Among those attending were two of Mr. Rothenberg's sisters (he has five sisters and three brothers) . . . And those two sisters are Biru-Bidjan rosters . . . Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, at his opening sermon, said that to most New Yorkers, "the world is bounded on the north by the Yankee Stadium, on the south by the Aquarium, on the west by Hoboken and on the east by Coney Island." . . . He probably wasn't referring to his son, James Waterman Wise, as one of those New Yorkers . . . James, among his other varied activities in liberal causes, is now an associate editor of "People's Press," handsomely gotten up radical tabloid weekly of 12 pages, printed in Chicago . . . Incidentally, Pere Wise doesn't hesitate to state that in his opinion the greatest American Jewish figure today is Justice D. Brandeis, whose 79th birthday falls on Nov. 13.

Furrier and Farmer

Moshe Smilansky is a farmer . . . A Palestine pioneer, he's also famed as a writer of Hebrew tales of pastoral life in the Holy Land . . . Z. Stalbow is a furrier in London . . . He is also an enthusiast on the question of the Jewish National Home . . . And a friend of Smilansky's who always wanted to see Smilansky's Hebrew stories translated into English . . . And now let Vic Bienstock, Chief of European Service of the JTA tell the rest of the story . . .
