BERGER FLAYS LOCAL JEWS' APATHY AND ANTI-SEMITISM

PALESTINE CONFERENCE SETS QUOTA AT $3,500,000

1200 Delegates Endorse German-Jewish Exodus Plan

Washington, D. C. (WNS)—Stirred by a message from President Franklin D. Roosevelt lauding the rebuilding of the Jewish Homeland in Palestine and declaring that the American people would be ready to co-operate generously in further activities, the 1200 delegates attending the National Conference for Palestine adopted a quota of $3,500,000 to be raised by the Jews of the United States during 1936 for the United Palestine Appeal, thus adding $1,000,000 to the previously determined goal.

The increased quota was adopted in response to a cable plea from the Jewish Agency for Palestine for increased funds to make possible the settlement in Palestine of the tens of thousands of Jews from Germany, Poland and other countries whose position is now hopeless.

After hearing Simon Marks, noted British Zionist and member of the delegation of English Jews now in this country, outline a plan for aiding the emigration of 100,000 German Jews between the ages of 17 and 35, at least half of whom will go to Palestine, over a period of four years at a cost of $15,000,000, the conference approved this project but emphasized its opposition to anything that would in-

Local Poale Zionists Will Celebrate 30th Anniversary

Baruch Zuckerman will be the principal speaker Sunday evening at the Poale Zion celebration. This celebration will be a joyful and to a large extent, a great satisfaction of the accomplishments of the 30 years of the Poale Zion Party. When the Poale Zion Party was organized they were not criticized at that time, but laughed at. They were called Fanatics (Bationim). To the 30th Anniversary the Poale Zion Party is coming with a large part of their program on the way to realization. They are coming with sister organizations founded by them as: The Jewish National Workers Alliance, The Women Pioneers, The Aahachulitz, The Young Poale Zion, and a large number of progressive modern Jewish schools.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR STUDY GROUP

Reference Books Will Be Presented to Temple

Regular Friday Night Services at Temple Beth Israel will be dedicated next Friday night to the Adult Study Group, which brings its season to a close with a special Chamisat Oser B'Shavt Service and party to follow the service. The members of the Study Group will be hosts to the Congregation and will serve appropriate Palestinian goodies, such as figs, dates, nuts, raisins, etc., to give the observance of the holiday its traditional flavor.

New Reference Books

The celebration, however, will be more than a good time. It will also partake of the nature of a Sivan Hasfer or Sivan Hazman. From the tuition fees paid by members of the group a purchase of books has been made for a shelf of reference books costing $100, which will be presented by the group to the Temple. Mrs. Abraham White, chairman for the previous two years, will make the presentation. The expense of the books is borne entirely by the fund collected during the past two years. Mrs. Leo Bojar is chairman of the reception committee.

PALESTINE GOVT. BANS LAND SALES

Jews Plan to Fight Land Ordinance

Jerusalem (WNS-Palcor Agency)—The Palestine Government will prohibit the sale of land by owners unless they have a certain minimum considered indispensable for livelihood. It was announced by J. H. Thomas, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, in a message transmitted to the Arab political leaders of Palestine by Sir Arthur Wauchope, Palestine High Commissioner. Regarded as the most important pronouncement of British policy in Palestine in the last three years because of the effect it might have on Jewish purchases of land, the Thomas declaration is expected to be fought by the Executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine on the ground that it contravenes the promises made to the Jewish people in a letter addressed to Dr. Chaim Weizmann by the then Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

The message by Mr. Thomas was read by High Commissioner Wauchope to a delegation of Arab leaders representing the five political parties who had come to receive their answer to a memorandum they had submitted last November asking for the establishment of a national government in Palestine, the stoppage of Jewish immigration and ban on land sales to Jews.

Pioneer Women Plan 10th Anniversary Celebration

At the last board meeting of the Women's Pioneer Club plans were formulated for the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the organization. There will be a speaker from the national office, in addition to a very interesting program.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday at 8 o'clock at Arcadia Hall. Mrs. Harry S. Beck will preside. After the business session, Mrs. P. K. Phillips will give a biographical sketch of "Men without Stars." The pseudonym of Shalom Yakov Abramovitch, the great Hebrew and Yiddish writer and his contribution to the cultural life of the Jews. Mrs. Arthur Einstein will speak on Khamsis Asar hi-Shavim in Palestine, and Mrs. Arthur Korman will review current events. A social hour will follow, and refreshments will be served by Mrs. Peter Sawlow, assisted by Mesdames Hanna Green, Samuel Sprecher, Samuel Korb, Nathan Pavadol, Joseph Dublin, and Morris Feinberg.

VENGEANCE, MOTIVE FOR NAZI MURDER SAYS FRANKFURTER

Germany Forestalls Anti-Semitic Riots; Killer Confesses Deed

Steadfastly maintaining that he was a member of no political group or that he was acting under orders, David Frankfurter stated that his killing of Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi leader in Switzerland was an act of vengeance for German Jews.

It was stated that Frankfurter intended to commit suicide after killing Gustloff, whom he did not know personally but that he lost his courage and surrendered.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, forbade all Jewish cultural organizations, such as theatre groups, to meet until further notice.

The slayer, David Frankfurter, 26, a Jew, was questioned to determine whether he is a German citizen. The medical student told authorities he is a Yugoslav.

Although fears of international repercussions were lessened, Germany is expected to follow Frankfurter's trial closely.

The slayer told police he shot the 41-year-old Gustloff in the latter's apartment yesterday to avenge the Jews in Germany.

Flags of German consulates in Switzerland were placed at half-staff today in recognition of the leadership of Gustloff, who was reported to have been personally appointed by Adolf Hitler.

Burial to Be in Germany

His body will be sent to Germany, where he was born, for burial. Leftist newspapers here had accused Gustloff of "political spying." A law against such activity was passed after the alleged kidnaping of Berthold Jacob, a Jewish journalist, on Swiss soil by a Nazi agent. Jacob was taken across the border into Germany and arrested, Switzerland charged in a protest which resulted in his surrender by Germany to this country.

JEWISH FILM SHOWN

On Sunday evening, the old folks of the Home for Aged were given an unusual treat through the courtesy of Samuel Samson, who showed a motion picture portraying the history of the Jews from the creation to the present time.

The superintendent of the Home announced the admission of three people during the past month.

REMEDY SUGGESTED

Appeal Quota Not Reached; Only $8,000 Is Raised.

In a letter written by Dr. Ilie Berger, chairman of the local United Palestine Appeal, Dr. Berger denounces the Jew of more than moderate means who has offered pussyfooted and sugarcoated excuses why he could not afford to help his unfortunate brethren. In the letter that follows Dr. Berger offers a remedy. The columns of the Jewish Herald are open for comment on his suggestion.

Quota Not Reached

"Although certain optimistic individuals have erroneously announced to the press that we, who are conducting the United Palestine Appeal, have reached our goal of $10,000, I regret to state that unfortunately we have only gained some $8,000 in pledges towards our quota. It is true that this sum is ahead of that of June 1934, but the measure of misery and destruction of our Jewish brethren has reached a point where something drastic must be done in order to save them from complete annihilation.

"The League High Commissioner, McDonald, in resigning his position has this to say: 'Until the Nazi government will stop its persecution of the Jews then nothing can be done except by emigration. Palestine appears on the horizon as the only haven' (Continued on Page Two)

Albert Rappaport III; Scheduled Lecture and Recital Cancelled

Because of the sudden illness of Albert Rappaport, Chicago Civic Opera tenor, who was scheduled to give a lecture-recital Sunday evening under the auspices of the Jewish Community Center, the entire program has been cancelled, it was announced today.

Mrs. Rappaport, in her letter said: "I wish to inform you that due to illness my husband is forced to cancel his eastern tour. He must remain in California until he recuperates."

Jewish Scientist Courts Death by Self-Infection

Jerusalem (WNS-Palcor Agency)—A professor at the Hebrew University deliberately infected himself with a disease in order to observe its development with a view to finding a cure—and almost sacrificed his life in doing so. He is Professor Saul Adler, head of the Department of Parasitology on Mount Scopus and one of the few international authorities on sand-fly fever (kala azar).

He was engaged on a mission for the Royal Society of England in Crete, Sicily and Greece on kala azar and has received the Chalmers Gold Medal, a distinguished British award, for his researches. During the War he was a captain in the British Royal Army Medical Corps in Mesopotamia, and after the War he did medical research on the Gold Coast, West Africa.

A number of children in the Kfar

Vitkin colony of the Emek Hefer region of Palestine had contracted a strange illness resembling a recurrent form of typhoid fever after having played in a cave near the settlement. Their bodies became covered with a strange species of parasite tick. Professor Adler and two other scientists went to investigate the malady on the spot.

Adler brought back a number of these ticks but none of the three men became ill. Then, in order to be certain that the microbe of this new disease was carried by the parasites and to study the effects and symptoms of the illness at first hand, Professor Adler subjected himself to infection. His experiment was not too successful. He became gravely ill and has since suffered two relapses. At present he is making a slow and painful recovery from the effects of this self-inflicted disease.

Council of Jewish Women Valentine Dance Thursday

The major event on the winter calendar of the Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women, is the third annual Valentine dinner-dance to take place in the ballroom of the Providence Biltmore, Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. The dance committee, headed by Mrs. Edward Deutch, with Mrs. Samuel Markoff, acting chairman, is sparing no efforts to make the affair an outstanding social success by engaging good music, and by planning attractive red and white colored decorations carrying out the Valentine theme. The proceeds of the dance will aid in sending sick and needy children to camp, and in carrying on the Club's other philanthropic endeavors.

BARNEY ZUKROFF Funeral services for Barney Zukroff, a resident of Providence for 35 years, who died in his home, 76 Douglas avenue, were held last Monday. Mr. Zukroff formerly conducted a fruit market on Smith street, but retired two years ago because of illness. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. Fannie Zukroff, two daughters, Mrs. Jacob Berkowitz and Mrs. Louis I. Sweet, and a son, Israel Zukroff, all of this city.

MRS. MOLLIE FAIN Funeral services for Mrs. Mollie Fain, 66 of Davis street, who died at Miriam Hospital following a cerebral hemorrhage were held last Sunday. She had been ill for several years. Mrs. Fain leaves her husband, Jacob Fain; a daughter, Mrs. Jean Rubin, and two sons, Edmund, of Providence, and Danny, of Houston, Tex.

Berger Flays Jews (Continued from Page One) for the refugees. Over 40,000 German Jews have already been absorbed into Palestine.

Millions for Relief "But our problem is not only salvaging German Jews. The destitution of Polish and Roumanian Jews has reached the point of abject misery. The millions of dollars which we have poured into those countries for relief, since the war, have not helped to solve the problem. The Polish government has introduced monopolies depriving millions of Jews in Poland from making a living. The money we have sent for relief purposes appears to be the incentive for more persecutions. It appears that our relief money enriches our enemies, and, as our experience proves, the Jews, today, are in a far worse condition than they were in 1917.

Palestine, Our Salvation "The picture of Palestine looks very large in our Jewish troubles of today. Last year 62,000 immigrant Jews found a home there. All other countries together have not received 20,000 Jewish immigrants. The Palestine of our dreams has not translated into the Palestine of our salvation. Why is it, then, that we have not reached our quota of $10,000 which we have offered to raise? "At the moment I am thinking aloud. And I am afraid that what I have to say will not be pleasant to some people. I will refrain from mentioning names although my inner-entiments demand that I do so. Anti-Semitic Jews "We are in a war. The Jewish people are being attacked on all fronts. We naturally expect that at least our own Jews should unite in defense of our threatened existence. When a Jew, in the midst of all this, has the courage to refuse to contribute, by saying he is not interested, he is a traitor and as such must be treated as a traitor. We should use all of the means available to raise and expose them to Jew and Gentile. "They must be ridiculed, and the badge of traitor and dishonor placed upon them. We should follow the old Jewish traditions of excommunication. They should be deprived even of Jewish burial. To deal with them, they are no good to themselves and certainly a burden to us. We depend on them for assistance in this crisis and they are stabbing us in the back. Hitler has not opened their eyes as yet. Remedy Offered "What shall we do, then? I have a suggestion. The appointment of a committee of investigation to reach out and expose these heartless creatures, who claim they are not interested in the Jewish Home for the Aged but in the Jewish Orphanage; who put the funds of the Home for the Aged into their own pockets; who are giving too much to the Community Chest, or for this or that institution. By careful checking, we find them, with very few exceptions, to be contributing to none of these institutions and just spend that no one being allowed to check and expose them as parasites on human sufferings and miseries. "I remember receiving a warning once from one of these parasites through the mail when we were raising funds for overseas urgent needs, that we were taking too much money out of this city for overseas relief. Of course I answered that as the Red Cross and the Christian World are not helping us, as in the case of Belgium during the war, and as they have now done since then for Greece and Armenia, and lately for Syria, we have to depend on ourselves to help. But in checking this man's record, I found him a giver to none of the local charities. "In the language of the man, who, having been approached for a charitable donation, replied that he had to support a large family, with a very destitute and with a large family. When he was told he did not give to his brother, he had this to say, 'If I don't give to my brother how do you expect me to give to your charity?' If such a committee would function, you certainly would not have any trouble in reaching our goal in appeals for funds locally and for overseas. "The wealthy Jews in our community should be made to understand their duty toward our Jewish communal institutions. They should be made to take an active part in the working out of this relief as the distinguished English-Jewish delegation, headed by Sir Herbert Samuel, who are now in this country on a similar campaign. "Thanking you for this privilege to voice my opinions, I remain, sincerely yours, DR. ILIE BERGER.

THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST The most favorable remarks we have heard about this column concern the last paragraph. So in order to save time for those readers who read only the "dirt dishes," we decided to put the last paragraph first this week in the hopes that they might forget themselves and continue on thru the lesson. The Pinnacle (not Pinchole) We were very much pleased to hear recently from a young lady who reached the optimum of contract bridge, when she bid and made a vulnerable grand slam, doubled and redoubled. Interested in the distribution of such rare hands we asked, "How did it happen, Anni?" (We promised not to mention her name in this column again) not yet anyway. "Well, Sam, you see it was like this. Pull up a chair."

"I was playing against a stubborn opponent who hates to give anyone else the bid. When I blithely opened with one club, she promptly overcalled with one heart. Both partners thought (They evidently sensed the imminent battle and exercised their rights of discretionary neutrality.) I quietly rebid two clubs and she called two hearts with indisputable finality. I calmly continued and she bid three hearts indignantly and started to raise her voice. I smiled benignly and said, four clubs. Her emphatic four hearts was accompanied by daggers and a dare, but I, very complacently, bid five clubs. (At this stage I recalled that she refused to let me have the bid on the immediate. Five Hearts? So loud that she woke the baby next door from its midday nap. Still unruined but in a very low voice, I bid six clubs. (What would you have done?) My partner came to life and doubled her six heart bid, but I, disdaining a penalty of a few paltry trumps, put the grand in club. The whistles blew, the sirens shrieked, the gong sounded, and down came the hammers as she belatedly doubled. But not wishing to let her have the last word I redoubled. Well, Sam, to make a long story longer, I made the grand. I have learned to count my losses before playing any card from dummy.

spending hand originally passed. There are two types of simple takeouts. The One-over-one Takeout This response is made at the level of one suit (One Spade over one Club, etc.). Because it still keeps the bidding at the low range of one, its requirements are very low, although the maximum strength may be 3 1/2 HT. Its range is from 1/2 HT to 3 1/2 HT. You may takeout in a new suit at the range of one with (1) a five-card suit headed by 1/2 HT, or (2) any biddable suit if the hand contains at least one HT. When distribution is bad, you should bid one-over-one with 3 1/2 HT. The Two-over-one Takeout This is still a simple takeout involving no jump, but rather a bid of two in a lower ranking suit than opened. (Two diamonds over one heart, etc.) It is also forcing for one round as above. But because it takes the bidding to a level of two now it requires as a minimum, more strength than a one-over-one. The maximum is the same (3 1/2 HT).

Takeout in two of a lower ranking suit with (1) 1 1/2 HT and a five-card biddable major (two hearts over one spade), (2) 2 HT and a five-card biddable minor (two diamonds over one heart), (3) 2 1/2 HT and a four-card biddable (or slightly slacker) suit with a six-card suit headed by 1/2 HT you may so takeout once, but sign off on the next round. Jump takeouts and double jump takeouts (void-showing) will be discussed next week.

APRIL FOOL! We hate to do this, but we placed the last paragraph first today. Or didn't we? HUNGARY BARS MARRIAGE Between Jew and German Budapest (WNS)—Evidence of the growing rapprochement between Nazi Germany and Hungary was seen here in two significant manifestations of pro-Nazi sentiment by the government of Premier Gombos. The first and by far the most far-reaching of these was a decision by the ministry of justice that a Hungarian Jew may not marry a German girl in Hungary because such marriages are outlawed in the Third Reich. The second evidence of pro-Nazi sentiment involved an official ban on the Pariser Tageblatt, anti-Nazi emigre paper published in Paris by Eugene Bernhart.

The mainspring of Human Energy

פארלירט מידקייט, שטימולירט באוועגונג

If a little boy asked his father, "What makes my electric trains go, Daddy?" he would quickly get an answer - "Electrical Energy."

And if the same little boy asked the family physician, "What makes my heart beat, why can I jump and run and play?" the doctor would answer "DEXTROSE."

Dextrose is a sugar, the "fuel" of Life's Engine. Without Dextrose, we would die. It provides the energy we need for every activity, both physical and mental.

All the carbohydrate foods we eat are transformed into Dextrose by digestion. Then this vital sugar is stored in the body for use as energy as we need it.

In recent years, Science has learned how to make Dextrose. Its chief source is Corn - Golden American Corn. Today, Dextrose is made in both dry and liquid forms. When the great value of Dextrose as a vital source of energy was established - and Dextrose was made available - many progressive producers began to use it in their products.

They found that Dextrose improved the quality of the foods and beverages they make.

That is why you will find Dextrose in so many fine foods such as breads, candies, ice cream - and choice beverages such as ales, beer and soft drinks.

Obviously, an abundance of Dextrose in your daily diet means an abundance of reserve energy in your body - which helps to banish fatigue, increase physical and mental activity - and balance the wear and repair of body tissues.

Whenever you find a food or beverage which contains Corn Sugar - Corn Syrup - Cerelese - Dextrose - nutritionally all one and the same - you may be certain it is rich in food-energy.

PRACTICAL GOOD WILL

The good will movement in this country, dedicated to improving relations between Catholics, Protestants and Jews, has a good deal of constructive achievement to its credit, but a recent incident in Newark, N. J., is by far one of the most significant by-products of the inter-religious good will efforts.

It appears that several hundred Newark Jews were tendering a testimonial dinner to Mayor Meyer Ellenstein, and that as a tribute to Mr. Ellenstein Newark Jews decided to raise an annual fund of $5,000 to provide scholarships for Newark students at Yeshiva College. Informed of this scholarship plan, Monsignor John G. Delaney, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Newark, sent a telegram to the gathering pledging $200 annually to the Yeshiva College scholarship fund.

This practical demonstration of good will is an encouraging sign, and should do much to hearten those who believe that harmony, amity and understanding between the three leading creeds in this country can and will be achieved.

AMERICAN JEWRY UNITES ON PALESTINE

The National Conference for Palestine, summoned by the United Palestine Appeal and having the participation of the forty-two outstanding national Jewish organizations of America, met at Washington, D. C., during the past week-end and emerged with a series of decisions that reflects honor upon the seriousness of American Jewish communal leaders and that promises much for the solution of the problem of Jewish homelessness — that is, if money will back up words.

The principal action of the Conference was to raise the quota of the United Palestine Appeal from $2,500,000 to $3,500,000 at the cabled request of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, which pointed out that it was completely unable to cope with the tremendous pressure exerted by Jews in many lands clamoring for admission to Palestine.

If American Jewry is seriously concerned about rescuing a maximum number of Jews from Germany, if it genuinely desires to salvage as large a number as possible from Poland, Rumania, etc., it must provide far more than the paltry sums which have been given to Palestine in the past few years. Even with the United Jewish Appeal of last year the Jewish Agency received about $600,000, a trifling amount when one recognizes the vast scope of the problem.

The National Conference for Palestine brought together many of the most important leaders in American Jewry. They did not pussyfoot on important issues. They spoke plainly, yet with tact. They decided on a great task, and they seemed imbued with serious intention to execute it. We earnestly hope that the Jews of America will respond to the high sense of public responsibility that was the keynote and the challenge of the National Conference for Palestine.

Beth-Israel Minstrel Scheduled for April 8

This outstanding event of the year is under the general direction of Coleman Zimmerman who is being assisted by the following: Irving Cohen, tickets; William Lipson and Benjamin Woolf, program; Joseph Schlossberg, talent; Arthur Galkin, publicity; and Dave Woolf, arrangements.

Pawt. Ladies' Arrange Dance and Floor Show

At a final meeting of the Pawtucket Ladies' Hebrew Aid association held last week in the vestry of the Temple Ahavath Shalom plans were completed for a floor show and dance to be held Tuesday evening in JEC's auditorium on Exchange street, Pawtucket.

Martin Tenney and Harry Storin, it was announced, would lead the elaborate cast in the floor show.

Mrs. Israel Luber was chosen chairman and Mrs. Jacob Shinagel, co-chairman.

Dust

A Short Story

By HARRY BROADMAN

It was on a gray and gloomy autumn morning shortly after the turn of the century when a tall, lanky, built, and clean shaven man of that complexion was slowly plodding his way up "Constitution Hill"—that part of North Main Street which at that time was narrow and winding and was paved with cobble stones which from a distance and especially after a rain storm looked like so many human skulls partly protruding from the ground. He stopped every now and then to inquire the way to his point of destination and when he had reached the middle of the "Hill" he ascended the half dozen wooden steps of a two and a half-story wooden house, to the left of the street, and entered without knocking.

A bell suspended on a iron spring from the door gill made so loud a noise when he entered that its sound could even be heard in the fire station on the crest of the "Hill" half a block away.

A portly gentleman with a peppy grayish and sandy beard, wearing a black skull cap and in his shirt sleeves, entered the same room through a rear door in response to the alarm.

"Blavarns?" asked the stranger, still holding his hand on the door knob, inside the room, which looked like a delicatessen-news-paper-stationery store.

"Yes, Sir," answered the gentleman in the shirt sleeves, crossing the room in the direction of the man at the door.

"My name is Moscovitz—I am a stranger here—just came by boat," said the newcomer.

"Pleased to meet you, Mister Moscovitz—come in and make yourself at home," said the proprietor with such warmth and cordiality that Moscovitz felt at home at once. The "Blavarns" which before and for some time after the turn of the century was the only place in the city where one could buy a Jewish paper, a ticket to the occasional Jewish performance, a Kozler garned beef sandwich, was about the only place in this part of New England where the Jewish traveler could stay over in a home-like atmosphere.

"Mister Moscovitz—sweeter moscovitz had not heard in many years."

"Mister Moscovitz," the name of Moscovitz in his mind and his heart swelled with joy—the joy that comes with self conquest. For in that small town in New Jersey whence he came where he had spent the best years of his life as teacher in a Hebrew school it had been either "Melamud" (teacher) when spoken to or "Abraham the melamud" when spoken of—but never "Mister Moscovitz."

"That is exactly what Moscovitz was a melamud, an indispensable and functional in the Jewish scheme of life but one whom our people, to our sorrow, have unlike all other civilized races on earth, from time immemorial so unjustly kept in social obscurity.

In the beginning Abraham Moscovitz, an unformed and pious young immigrant, thought that he was fulfilling a holy mission in that Hebrew school and with the enthusiasm of the novice he threw his all and all into his work trying to inspire his pupils with the magnanimity of his own and to instill into their young hearts that religious fervor with which his own heart was overflowing. But after he had spent some years there and had grown older at the task he concluded that he was only wasting his energy on those Jewish youngsters—that no teacher or school of any kind can turn out religious men and women when the home is infirm.

Disillusioned about his "mission" Abraham grew more and more mechanical in the discharge of his duties, he became more and more aware of the derision of the word "melamud" and was finally overcome by an irresistible urge for a change.

That was the time when the religious world was still grossly ignorant of the blows it had received at the hands of Darwin and Ingersoll, and "Abraham the Melamud," a socially disappointed and somewhat spiritually wavering man, himself delved into the "Decent of Man" and the "Mistakes of Moses."

He not merely read those books—he studied every sentence, every phrase, every word in them as if they were another Talמוד, did Abraham the Melamud, and came out spiritually completely converted.

"Either the bible is wrong or those men are crazy" he thought for the longest time and was unable to decide which was which.

One evening when his class had finished with their lessons, Abraham rang to his feet at the head of the long table and asked: "Who made man?"

"God," came the answer from some fifty tender little throats who were seated around that table.

"Out of dust," came the second answer.

"And who made woman?"

"God," the answer.

BOOK NOTES

By Esther Levine

"From death to morning". By Thomas Wolfe. (Scribner.)

Do you remember the unfortunate hero of Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy" who failed his examination because he could not find the right word—the only word that would express his exact meaning? Thomas Wolfe, who has been acclaimed by critics as one of the foremost American writers, scorns such limitations. He builds a pyramid of words.

Like a conductor of a symphonic orchestra he brings out the full meaning of sounds and emotions, drawing the reader into the maelstrom of his interpretation, sharing now his despair and his scorn and his indignation, and now his wild ecstatic exultation and frenzy. Decidedly, Mr. Wolfe is not a writer one can take or leave with a ruffle disturbed.

In this group of short stories called "From death to morning" Mr. Wolfe has struck a somber note. The subjects are somewhat varied, but they are all cast in the same mold of bitter reminiscence. They show a man found yet narrow concern with mankind—narrow because for the most part events are interpreted in the light of personal experience.

Mr. Wolfe is undoubtedly a master of words. It is only when the tremendous effect of his powerful style has receded that one can make any analysis. He has a trick of using a word or a phrase over and over again resulting in a certain artificiality or self-consciousness. One senses the tremendous effort behind the writing. Let me illustrate this on a couple of points. Mr. Wolfe writing with a sentence from one of the most gripping of the stories, "The face of the war." The scene is a sort of lunch room and soft drink parlor.

The men, who are seated at the tables, belong for the most part to that great group of unclassed creatures who drift and float, work, drift, and starve, are now in jail, now out again, now foul, filthy, wretched, hungry, out of luck, riding the rods, the rusty box cars of a freight, snatching their food at night from the boiling steam of hoboes' jungle, now swagging with funds and brief prosperity—the float drifters, and half-bums, that huge nameless, homeless, rootless and anomalous class that swarm across the nation."

"White ladies". By Francis Brett Young. (Harper.) An unhurried account of Anabella Tusley who, at twenty-three, inherits the iron works built up by her grandfather. She comes to Haysech to live but finds little to occupy her interests until, by accident, while bicycling one day, she discovers an old neglected house, called quaintly "White Ladies".

She is determined to own it at least five in the house at all costs. The house becomes the focal point of her life. If the characterizations had more warmth, the novel would be improved. "Seventeen league boots", by Richard Halliburton was given a rousing commission to go anywhere he liked, see interesting people and places and write about them. The Elysabeth Daily episode almost tops Mr. Halliburton's experience as an organizer. It is active and humorous, this book has plenty of "gusto". Reviewed last week.

"The pursuer". By Louis Golding. (Farrar and Rinehart.) A weird story of a strange attraction between two men—an attraction which, had it been in actual contact had the beginning would probably have been the basis for a strong friendship. However, the flight of one of the characters led to a tragic chase. Reviewed last week.

Conservative Relief Society to Organize Auxiliary

Mrs. Max Harris, president of the N. Y. auxiliary of the Jewish Conservative Relief Society of Denver, Colorado, will organize a Rhode Island chapter next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Louis Lavett, 18 Miller avenue. The Relief Society auxiliary, which cares for persons who are unable to pay their way, will co-operate with Joseph Millman who is in charge of the Rhode Island section. All those interested in joining the movement are invited to telephone Mr. Millman at Ho 6257 for further information.

At the meeting Tuesday officers will be chosen from the members and Mrs. Harris will install them into their respective offices.

LADIES' LOYALTY LUNCHEON

The Ladies' Hebrew Free Loan association is planning a loyalty luncheon for April 29. At a complimentary bridge held last Wednesday Mrs. J. Licht, president, appealed for patronesses. More than a hundred ladies volunteered their services. Mrs. L. Pomansky was chosen chairman of the luncheon to be assisted by Mrs. Baratz, secretary, and Mrs. Shanbrun, treasurer.

"Made out of what?" he continued.

"Out of man's rib," answered the chorus triumphantly, making in the direction of the teacher.

But the teacher did not ask any more questions, he could not for he turned as rigid as if he had suddenly turned into hardened clay, his blue eyes staring over their heads into vacancy.

When he again lowered his eyes all those children who had once been the physical image, in miniature, of him above, now looked like so many monkeys and the bewhiskered old janitor who was loitering on the side now looked like a giant.

"Dust-ribs-dust," he continued to mumble, as if in a delirium, as he was slowly groping his way home through the thick fog that autumn evening.

"Sarah, I am through," he said to his wife the following morning after pacing the kitchen-dining room floor all night feigning a toothache.

"Through with what?" she demanded.

"Through with the melamud business," he said, again pacing the floor.

"How's that?" asked the surprised wife.

"Just tired—sick and tired of being a melamud—tired of being snubbed by mental dwarfs—tired of the very air I am breathing here," he said, excitedly.

"But, Abraham, isn't it a bit late to make a change—you're no longer a young man?" pleaded Sarah sympathetically.

HOME FOR AGED TEA SUCCESSFUL

Fund-Raising Drive Will Continue Until March 4

More than 300 guests were entertained Wednesday afternoon by the Ladies' Association of the Jewish Home for the Aged, at a tea and musical, tendered in the main auditorium of the institution on Hillside avenue. The affair honored this large group for their interest, as subscribers, in the auxiliary's major fund-raising project of the year. The drive continues until March 4, when all pledges will gather at the Donors' Luncheon, to attest their support of this worthy undertaking.

The event afforded a delightful afternoon with hospitality aplenty and musical entertainment of a high order. Mrs. Isidor S. Low, president of the Ladies' association, welcomed the guests and conducted a brief business session. The guests were received by a committee comprising the following Mesdames: Morris Berry, J. Jerome Hahn, A. L. Sutton, Leo Logan, and S. Pollack.

Mrs. John J. Rouslin, presented the participants in the program, which featured Mrs. Archie Fink of Boston, vocalist, and Mrs. Allen Markoff, accompanist. Mrs. Markoff also gave several solo numbers. Both artists were cordially received.

The tea tables, prettily decorated for the occasion, were presided over by Mesdames: Archie Albert, Alfred Fain, Samuel Steiner, and Max Seigal. Assisting the latter in dispensing hospitality were a group of about 25 members. Mrs. Maurice Handman was chairman of the afternoon's proceedings and Mrs. Alvin Rice, co-chairman.

PERSONALS

The only Jewish sorority at Rhode Island State College, Nu Alpha, held its first dinner dance last Tuesday at the Biltmore Hotel. Miss Ruth Waldman was chairman of the affair which was attended by many alumni.

Joseph E. Beck, executive director of the Jewish Welfare Society of Philadelphia, was the guest of Isaac E. Feinstein, superintendent of the Jewish Home for the Aged, over the week-end.

Mr. Beck was in Providence to make a study of the afternoon's associated with the Community Fund, at the invitation of the National Association of Community Funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Davis of Stamford street, announce the birth of a son on February 1 at the Miriam Hospital. Mrs. Davis is the former Miss Ann Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Bassow of Jewett street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on February 1 at Miriam Hospital. Mrs. Bassow, before her marriage, was Miss Freda Bernstein.

Mrs. Isaac Rose, of 514 Blackstone boulevard, will open her home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for bridge and tea for the benefit of the Temple Beth-El Sisterhood.

Poale Zion Anniversary

Tel-Aviv which has a population of 135,000 Jews. No doubt they were inspired by seeing the new Jerusalem with the modern buildings especially the Hebrew University. However, the real inspiration came when we have seen on the screen the Emeck Israel, those corporated colonies where those young men and young women are working and singing, working and dancing. Singing at all times, at their work and when they are resting. We have seen that not only are they building a home land for the Jewish people as a whole but they are rebuilding themselves as well and that is what the Poale Zion have advocated in their program all these years.

Zionist Leaders

A large number of the world Zionist Leaders like Ben Gurion, Ben Zvi, Shartak, Kaplan, Locker, Kaplinsky and many others are members of the Poale Zion Party.

Idealists like Prof. Albert Einstein and Justice Louis D. Brandies are the supporters of the Labor Zionist movement, which is advocated by the Poale Zion. Prof. Albert Einstein is always the guest of honor to the 3rd Seder celebrated by the National Labor Committee in New York, Justice Louis D. Brandies sends in annually an unsolicited contribution of a thousand dollars to the National Labor Committee for Palestine and two hundred dollars for the Women Pioneer.

The Poale Zion Party was instrumental to a large extent in the formation of the American Jewish Congress and has always taken an interest in everything concerning the Jews all over the world.

The local organization was organized in 1909 and has supported the National Organization.

Zionists in Jewish Legion

During the World War when the Jewish Legion was organized to help free Palestine from the Turkish Empire, four out of five from Providence who had enlisted in Jewish Legion were members of the local Poale Zion. They are Morris Beeber, Henry Halperin, I. Grebstein and I. Goldstein. Chlover Goldstein lost his life on the battle field of Palestine.

The third Seder which is celebrated now during the week of Passover in honor of the Jewish workers in Palestine, in more than 50 cities and also the Passover Journal which is published now in more than 75 cities is the outgrowth of the Providence Poale Zion organization. The first modern tractor which was sent to the workers in Palestine far before the Histruv in existence came through the initiative of the local Poale Zion. This is only a small part of the activities of the local Poale Zion in regard to Palestine.

The Local Poale Zion has taken an active part in the American Jewish Congress and also in all other Jewish enterprises for the benefit of the Jews.

Anniversary Banquet

The Anniversary will be celebrated with a banquet at Zimms Banquet Hall on Mathewson street. A musical program is provided. The Poale Zion, Abraham Hamlin of Boston will also take part in the program. The arrangement committee consists of: Henry Burt, Solomon Lightman, Harry Chael, Arthur Korman, Max Berman, Morris Beeber, Isadore Resnick and Alter Boyman, chairman.

(Until Column is Named)
BY MAURICE HENDEL

The dizziest—the most exciting—yet the most realistic of brain-childs to arise out of the morass of the depression is that new game—Monopoly. It appears that an elderly couple invented this novel pastime and Parker Brothers, a Massachusetts game making concern, thought enough of its appeal, to offer a reputedly high sum in order to market it. Right now it is commencing to storm the country. All of the toy manufacturers are putting out this fascinating, insanity provoking doo-dad under different names and variations.

Its appeal is almost universal, except to those who have cause to remember the Florida Bubble of 1925, for it is the next best thing to having real money. A player is given a sum of money (paper) with which to buy, build, rent, and mortgage real estate. He may own public utilities, or play around with one of four rail roads. You buy and sell so rapidly, that before the game is actually under way (it lasts until all except one player is broke—thus the name, Monopoly) you become dizzy with excitement. Those with weak hearts are warned to avoid the mere discussion of the game's peculiarities.

Yet, if you are seeking a method of amusement during this hard winter, and are fed up with bridge, poker or pinocchio, take a hand at this, the "screwiest" of them all. You'll find it more exciting than playing a 400 spade hand; more interesting than an hour with Myrna Loy; more trying than an argument with the City Public Works Department to clear the ice off College Hill; (and I'm not in the publicity department of Parker Bros.).

Each week, with the grace of God and the editors of the "Herald," this Column intends to comment upon the realities of the present day, unusual or otherwise. Human interest stories will crop up once in a while. For this reason, we are at a loss for a heading to our banalities, and are giving the readers an opportunity to give us a name. We are open to suggestions. Write me care of the "Herald." The writer of the name chosen as the best (or worst) characterization of this column, "in the opinion of the judges," will receive a year's subscription to the "Herald."

TEMPLE EMANU-EL

Isaac Feinstein, superintendent of the Jewish Home for the Aged, will occupy the pulpit at Temple Emanu-El this (Friday) evening. He will speak on the subject "The Songs of Israel." Mr. Feinstein, formerly superintendent of the Jewish Sheltering Home of Philadelphia, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and of Gratz College, the Hebrew Normal School of Philadelphia.

At the Sabbath morning services, the Bar Mitzvah of Bernard Kramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Kramer, will be celebrated. Mr. Fred Weiser, the educational director of the Temple, will address the Bar Mitzvah boys.

"Love and Marriage" . . . Because of the blizzard a few weeks ago, the regular January meeting of the alumni was cancelled on Sunday, therefore, at 8 o'clock, the Rev. JACK HOLT STARS IN ADVENTURE FILM

"Dangerous Waters" Opens at Fay's Today

Jack Holt, popular star of adventure films, will be seen, starting today, on the Fay's Theatre screen in "Dangerous Waters." Lambert Hillier directed the film for Universal. The story presents the red-blooded triumphs of a brash man of the sea. In many ways it parallels the recent burning of the Morro Castle, but with a far happier fate for the passengers, and a very different performance by the crew.

The opening scenes show a steamer afloat on the roaring Pacific. Blowing smoke and searing flame accentuate the fast tempo and heart racing action. The film is highlighted by breath catching happenings. The cameraman, Harry Forbes, worked with Lambert Hillier to make these scenes grippingly realistic. They developed a method of photography to cause every person in the audience to feel as if he were on board ship, endeavoring to save his own life.

Jack Holt will be remembered for his excellent performance in "Storm Over the Andes." Grace Bradley, an attractive Hollywood siren, who scored in "Rose of the Rancho" and "Anything Goes," gives an entrancing portrayal in "Dangerous Waters." Robert Armstrong and Charlie Murray contribute convincing roles. Murray's new brand of comedy should appeal to audiences which have often laughed at his antics.

"Snow Queen" Will Be Chosen at Jumbo Dance

Who will be chosen "Snow Queen" for 1936 will be answered Thursday evening February 20 when the Jumbo associates stage their gala snow dance at Touros Hall on Mathewson street. The "Snow Queen" will be selected from those present at the dance by public opinion. A prize will be awarded the winner.

Rudolph Traylor and his "Senpai Ambassadors" formerly with the Little Harlem "Nite Club" will furnish the music. Cards are 40 cents each and dancing will be from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Guests are being invited from nearby towns and cities. Many from Fall River and New Bedford have already expressed their intentions of attending.

"MY MARRIAGE" AT MAJESTIC TODAY

Second Feature—Musical "King of Burlesque"

Beneath the glittering color, the haunting tunes, comedy and gay dance routines which adorn "King of Burlesque," the Fox picture which opens today at the Majestic Theatre, is a fascinating love drama which will elicit the same enthusiastic response from you that it got from the opening day audience.

Presenting Warner Baxter, Alice Faye and Mona Barrie in the leading dramatic roles, this happiest of the new musical shows boasts an all-star cast of talented performers.

The story of "King of Burlesque" delves back-stage into the life and loves of the people of the theatre. Warner Baxter is the leading personality, an impresario who has brought the technique of the 14th Street burlesque to an enraptured Broadway.

At the height of his success, he deserts his two old friends, Jack Oddie and Alice Faye, to marry the aristocratic but impoverished Mona Barrie. In the second feature Frances Hyland has written a splendid modern drama in "My Marriage."

Women will like the de luxe settings, the gowns, the luxurious home life, the scenes showing society at play, the fox hunting and distinguished personalities who are presented.

In this background of wealth and fashion a bitter battle between mother and daughter-in-law is carried on. This conflict will be of intense interest to every woman.

A second and highly dramatic story is intertwined with this social battle. It is the anti-crime fight made by a young detective who endeavors to discover and capture the murderers of a "big shot" father of the original feminine character in "My Marriage," a role played by Claire Trevor.

This invasion of Fifth Avenue by racketeers in evening clothes, the murder and homicide around which the story revolves, gives "My Marriage" suspense and a thrilling pace.

Miami (WNS)—Paul H. Marks has been chosen president of the Miami Alumni Association of the University of Florida, making him the first Jew to hold this office.

Philadelphia (WNS)—Morris A. Starr, leader in veterans activities, has been elected vice-president of the Fourth Division, A. E. F. Department of Pennsylvania.

DRIBBLINGS
The greatest water power known to man is said to be a woman's tears.

If a man gives you a square deal in an automobile trade, you can trust him anywhere.

No doubt the bible feels queer being carried around under some arms.

So many people's brains are as good as new—they have never been used.

If your boy comes home from school still asking questions, he's getting real educated.

No man works harder against his own interests than the man who works for them exclusively. . . . so please excuse me for bringing the above to your attention because they really have been hanging around my trusty old note-book for many a day and now I bring them to light.

HERE AND THERE
By the time that you read this, Saul Feinberg, Phil Glanzman, "Mike" Cooper and Ben Mackatz (that Woonsocket blood-brother) will be half way on their journey to Florida where they will bask in the sun for the next three weeks and here I am trying just to get to the Big City for a day or two.

Frank Lazarus seen on the job filling those nomination papers this past week. Tuesday's rain and sleet kept many of us from getting to the office on time and we spotted Ernie Shein, Sam Gerchoff caught in the jam of the slippery streets.

Is Horenstein says his children got rather a "kick" about us calling him "lawyer man" in last week's column—thanks my good children. . . . the best of good wishes to Archie Smith and Connie Straus on the opening of their new law offices in the Industrial Trust Building—we have labored side by side with friend Archie and he is always the faithful worker. . . . received a nice letter this week from Igor Gorin all the way from Hollywood—wants to be remembered to all his many friends here and he tells me that his first "movie" part will be in the stage success "As Thousands Cheer" to be produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—this will be released here in several months, probably at Lewy's—incidentally Igor will receive his citizens papers the first of March—watch this boy travel along the road to stardom.

WORTH REPEATING
SAYS ABIE: "Cohen, I've been to the bank to borrow some money, and they say all I need is that you should sign to this note your name. Then I can have all the money I need. Ain't they fine?"

"ABIE," says Cohen reproachfully, "you and I have been friends for many years and yet you go to the bank when you need money. Abie, you just go again to the bank and say that they should sign the note, and then Cohen will lend you the money."

DROPS OF INK
Providence athletes lovers will have a treat when Benny Leonard appears on Thursday evening February 20 at the Jewish Community Center. . . . this clean living individual who made a fortune and then lost it was named Benny Leiner at birth and was considered one of the greatest boxers ever produced in the world. . . . he ruled the lightweight class for many years and retired undefeated. . . . always a devoted son he did not marry during the lifetime of his mother and finally six months ago he entered the ranks of matrimony. . . . he was easily worth a half a million dollars when he retired from professional boxing and lost most of this in the stock market and in the promotion of a professional hockey club in Pittsburgh. . . . at the present time he is associated with the Jewish Welfare Board and is in great demand as a speaker throughout the country—make an effort to hear him—he has an interesting message.

Wherever you go you will probably see these people together. . . . Charlie and John Silverman. . . . Iz Korn and Myron Keller at lunch. . . . Al and My Lisker. . . . Irving Fain and Ed Goldberg before Ed got himself (itched) . . . Aaron Roitman and Howe Presel. . . . Esther Kuldien and Zelta Fisher. . . . Phil Leberman and Ben Frucht. . . . Sam Shores and Morris Coopers. . . . Leo Grossmann and Bill Smirans. . . . Lou Davis and Hetrof Moskol. . . . in the fishing scene, Morris Feinberg and Harry Leach. . . . Hy Presaman and Pat Fain were night inseparable until two fair ladies tore them apart—and there are many, many other combinations who can always be found together.

THIS AND THAT
The Jack Felders are among the locals who are also in Florida and they tell me Archie Fain is also escaping the wintry blasts at the same place. . . . the Dr. J. Irvings are on a southern cruise. . . . Repertory Players busy in rehearsal for "Success Story" to be presented on March 2 and 3—cast will include Gerald Bronstein, Jennie Halprin, Annette Kaufman, Abe Blackman, Selma Newman, Leo La Porte, Abe Blackman—Meyer Tenenbaum will be production manager.

Local B'nai B'rith to hold Brotherhood Night at one of local Temples. . . . good wishes by the Irving Pains on the addition of another to the family household—this time a girl, Mazel-Foy. . . . Abe Goldstein nearly won that ham donated by Art Korstein at that Woonsocket Lions Club dinner.

Milt Levin put on the "soup and flat" last Sunday for that wedding in Boston. . . . recommended; this month's article in FORTUNE concerning our people—the finest article ever written on this subject. . . . a great combination, Jack Boyle, WJAF manager and his assistant Violet Marks.

A smiling individual with a fine personality, Sol Faber, who with his pretty wife can be found most everywhere and these young people have a family of 3 youngsters, the oldest 13 years—only, I feel awfully old. . . . Ed Markoff proves the adage "that you are only as old as you feel". . . . we wonder when Doc, Connie Berger and Charlie Silverman will again appear in another minstrel show—remember the old days, well, I do.

One year ago Temple Beth-Israel began making plans to celebrate its 10th anniversary. . . . and Dr. Morris R. Lebow was elected president of R. J. Medical society—remember—I betch you have forgotten—my, what memories. . . . The S. Colittas are on a several weeks auto tour of the Southwest. . . . Carl Sandburg will be the next speaker of the Jewish Center lecture series and then follows, Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin—suff said, these two men will fill the house. . . . and this is all for another week.

Edward Weeks Elected Committee Member
Edward H. Weeks, President of Old Colony Co-operative Bank, has been elected to the Executive Committee of the United States Savings and Loan League as a representative of the Rhode Island League of Building and Loan Associations.

The Rhode Island League is comprised of eight institutions, covering the entire State in the field of home financing and thrift; the United States League is the national body, comprising over four thousand such associations, and playing a large part in the financing of homes throughout the country.
