City's Organizations Back Food for Israel

Norman Alper Names Chairmen

Preparations for the intensive week-long "Food for Israel" drive to be conducted from December 26 to January 2 were practically completed this week by Norman Alper, chairman of the drive, and his corps of assistants.

The drive, which will be conducted on a nation-wide scale, is being coordinated in Providence by the General Jewish Committee.

Officials of the special food drive are repeatedly reminding those who intend to contribute that only specific items of canned goods are desired. They are urged not to substitute other items, since the items to be solicited are the ones most urgently needed in Israel today.

That list includes: canned milk, condensed or evaporated; canned fish (tuna, salmon, kippered herring, etc.); canned fruits, except for citrus fruits; canned vegetables of any kind, and canned coffee, vacuum packed.

Must Deliver Food

Another important reminder to the community is that no pick-ups will be made at individual homes, but that donors must bring their gifts to one of the several collection depots that will be set up for the occasion. These depots have been designated at various points throughout the city to facilitate delivery of the canned goods.

Included on the list of collection depots are Temple Emanuel, Temple Beth El, Temple Beth Israel, Congregation Sons of Abraham, Sons of Jacob Synagogue, Congregation Beth David, Council Thrift Shop, B'nai Israel Synagogue, Woonsocket, and Congregation Ohawe Shalom, Pawtucket.

It was emphasized by leaders of the campaign that donors have a full week, not just one day, in which to make delivery of their food gifts.

Israel Representative Among Speakers

Rhode Island Zionists and their friends will have an opportunity this Sunday evening to hear one of the representatives of the Israeli government to America. Chaim Ginsburg, who represents the Education Department of the Jewish State, was sent here by his government to study the methods and procedure in American educational institutions, and he will give the address at the dinner session of the third annual convention of the Rhode Island Zionist Region in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel, at 6 o'clock Sunday evening.

A native of Palestine, and a teacher by profession, Chaim Ginsburg was one of the early members of the Haganah, and was a member of the scouting patrols dispatched by the Jewish Defense Forces to Syria during World War II to cooperate with British military forces in putting down a Fascist rebellion. Upon completion of his mission to this country, he will return to Palestine to put into effect in Israeli schools the modern and progressive methods of education he has observed in America.

Rabbi Morris Schussheim of Temple Beth Israel, will preside at the dinner session, which is being given in honor of Dr. Emanuel Neumann, president of the national Zionist Organization of America, who will speak to a mass meeting of Rhode Island Zionists in the auditorium of the Rhode Island School of Design the same evening at 8 o'clock.

Rabbi William G. Braude of Temple Beth-El, will give the invocation, and Cantor Israel Breitbart of Temple Beth Israel will lead in the saying of grace.

The presidents of the various chapters of Hadassah throughout the state will bring greetings to the dinner and guests of honor—Mrs. Irwin N. Silverman for the Providence Chapter; Mrs. K. J. Hasterlik for the Providence Business and Professional Women's Chapter; Mrs. Louis Cokin for Pawtucket-Central Falls; Mrs. Mayer Mayerson for Woonsocket, and Mrs. Ira Mason for Newport.

Israelis Say Britain Violated UN Arms Ban

WASHINGTON — Representatives of Israel have accused Britain of 13 violations of the UN Security Council's ban on arms shipments to participants in the Palestine war.

One of the charges, contained in a statement released by the Israeli Information Service here, was that Britain sent surplus U.S. war materials to the Arab armies.

The statement said there was no doubt that Britain has supplied various kinds of war equipment to the Arab countries during the Palestine truce between June 11 and July 9, and from July 18 to date.

Here are some of the alleged violations it cited:

During the truce and before mid-October, Britain supplied 27,000 to 28,000 rounds of six-pound, 25-pound and large ammunition to the Egyptian army.

Britain sold eight Viking airplanes to the Egyptian Misr Airlines after the Egyptian army had requisitioned a large number of planes belonging to the lines.

In August a number of British Fury planes, previously camouflaged on Mosul airdrome, "reached Mafrag, Trans-Jordan, for delivery to the Iraqi airforces."

Late in August, the Iraqi air force had to curtail its activities due to shortage of gasoline and "the Royal Air Force in Iraq supplied them with fuel from their own stores on a lend-lease basis."

An Invitation to Write

In the belief that our "Editor's Mailbox" column can be one of the most interesting and important features of this newspaper, we invite our readers to express their opinions on any topic of interest in Jewish life today.

Guided solely by the principle that the minority of one has as much right to voice his views as the representative of thousands, we allow the widest latitude within the limits of good taste, for the expression of opinion.

We ask, however, that our readers keep two basic considerations in mind. This newspaper can not become party to libel by publishing recriminatory attacks on an individual's character; and, second, because of our space limitations, we must ask that correspondents limit the length of their letters.

The "Mailbox" column serves a double purpose. It not only gives our readers a forum for expression of their ideas, but it helps this newspaper towards attainment of one of its goals. We want to make The Jewish Herald truly representative of our community and responsive to its needs and wishes; letters can help us to a better understanding of how best to accomplish this.

A Spell of Chanukah

We noticed recently that another Jewish weekly in a different section of the country editorialized on the spelling of the forthcoming holiday "Chanukah". While we disagree with the other newspaper as regards the preferred spelling of the word, we must admit that their idea is sound. Chanukah lends itself peculiarly to much debate and confusion regarding its spelling, particularly with our type setter, who sees as many different spellings of the word as he has varieties of type. To avoid further confusion, we are omitting all spellings except the one we prefer. Go do us something.

Most amusing, however, on the business of Chanukah is not the spelling but the pronunciation, especially among those non-Jews who have occasion to use the word. At the Herald plant, for example, the boys have had no trouble following the Hebrew lessons, but Chanukah—that is a different story. The guttural Ch—as in Bach—is trouble enough, but where to put the emphasis and how to pronounce the rest of the word—it shouldn't happen to a dog!

At any rate, we have heard some classic attempts at the sounding of the word. To list a few, there are (with the Ch as in cheese) Chan'ika, Chon'ika, Hon'ika, Kon'ika—and the all-time classic—Chanooka.

Had enough?

"One Man's Opinion"

J.F.C.S.

By BERNARD SEGAL

Old widow Menie takes the wicker-basket from the peg on the wall in the kitchen. She spreads a clean white cloth inside the basket and wipes off the dust from the outside. She puts the Turkish shawl over her shoulders and motions to the two boys, who watch her preparations, to follow her. It is Thursday evening, and Jewish housewives are baking Chales and pastries for the Sabbath.

Menie walks ahead and the two boys, pupils of the local Yeshivah who make their home at the widow's basement apartment, follow behind her, carrying the basket. From door to door they go—up stairs and down long, dark corridors they move silently. And as the evening wears on, the wicker-basket fills up with sundry baked goods, preserves and meats, and an occasional article of clothing which the widow collects from the good housewives. Silver offerings also swell Menie's leather bag.

Later at home, by the light of the kerosine lamp, Menie spreads out her collection of the evening on the kitchen table, and allocates portions to the various families under her charge. These she puts in separate bags and bundles and distributes in the morning. Nobody but herself knows the destination of these allocations. On Friday morning she stops at the homes of the needy families for a chat, and leaves behind her a little bundle, which she carried concealed under her shawl when she came in.

It is a far cry between the family service as practiced by old Menie in the Ukrainian town of my boyhood, and the services offered by Mr. Joseph Galkin and his case workers and secretaries at 100 North Main Street at the Jewish Family and Children's Service.

But the warm heart is there, the sympathetic understanding is there, and the eagerness to help is just as strong in these modern offices as in the humble kitchen of the widow's basement dwelling.

And the underlying principle is the same: The principle which our sages expressed in these words:

"He who endeavors to keep a single person alive, is regarded as if he had kept a whole world alive!"

For twenty years now this agency, the Jewish Family and Children's Service, has endeavored to save human lives on the brink of despair, to bring comfort to troubled hearts, and to show a way out of difficulties that threaten to overwhelm old and young.

It is an agency that deserves wider renown than it enjoys now in the community. It can not very well publicize the work it performs day-in, day-out through the years. Utmost secrecy and confidence is the primary virtue of such an agency, and the files in the steel cabinets in the offices of the J.F.C.S. are zealously protected from the eyes of a stranger. Here in these files are records of human tragedies, shattered dreams, distorted lives. They may be the records of people who are your friends, your relatives, or your next door neighbor. But none but the ones who were helped will ever gain a glance at these papers.

Now, on the eve of the observance of the twentieth anniversary of the agency, while we are not permitted to reveal a single story, a single episode out of these confidential files, we want to arouse public interest in the organization. We wish to review the work it does and the functions it performs for men, women and children who come daily to knock on the doors and to gain a listening ear and a helping hand.

And the ear those who apply are gaining is an understanding ear, and the hand that is reached out to them is a skillful one. For the staff of the Jewish Family and Children's Service is a well trained unit, yet retaining the human warmth of the friendly adviser and guide.

Of the aid to men and women, and the care of children this agency provides, I will tell at length on another occasion.

Answer Segal Column

(The following letter was written by the Alpha Alpha Chapter of Phi Delta Sorority in answer to the column, "One Man's Opinion", written by Bernard Segal, which appeared last week.)
My Dear Mr. Segal,

Ever since we have read your letter, we cannot get you off OUR minds. We can see you now, sobbing into your inkwell at the thought of those children in Berlin receiving gifts from 40 open-minded Jewish girls.

No, Mr. Segal, we didn't cry into our handkerchiefs, tremble with grief and sacrifice a few ice cream sodas so that we might send these children of the "master race" our gifts. We, instead, discussed the matter intelligently, decided it was a worthy cause and sacrificed our time and effort. Unlike your conception, it was painless.

No, Mr. Segal our minds are not so small that we soon forget the horrible penance inflicted upon our people by the Germans. We cannot forget the faces, of the hungry, the cries of the tortured, nor the torn bodies of the dead. But this we do remember, too—we remember that these hideous deeds were not committed by the children of Germany, but by men and women who were old enough to realize what they were doing.

These children did not ask to be brought into a world of hatred; they were victims of circumstances.

No, Mr. Segal, we are not angels, but our hearts are not so small that we condemn these children, nor any children, for the crimes of their elders. Too easily it is forgotten that children, regardless of their religion or nationality, are materially the same. Treat these German children like criminals and they will respond accordingly.

You mentioned other addresses which you believed needed aid as much as, or perhaps, more than these German children. Well, Mr. Segal, we know of many of the addresses, and although we have not publicized it, have sent clothing and have done with little we could to aid them.

No, Mr. Segal, we can't forget, but we can forgive. Can you?

Sincerely,
ELINOR SILVERMAN, secretary,
FRANCES KUSHNER, president,

In Sheba's Footsteps

By DAVID SCHWARTZ

A friend, who has just returned from Israel, after some six months' service in the Israeli Army, brings me an interesting story. He reports that not so long ago, there arrived in Israel a Malayan delegation. They came to find out from the Israelis at first-hand how they had kicked the British out of Palestine. They want of course to apply the knowledge gained to their own country.

This story would seem to show that events in the new state of Israel are paralleling the ancient pattern. We remember that in days of old many came to Israel to learn. In particular we know of the instance of the Queen of Sheba. She was a great queen and seemed to have been greatly impressed by King Solomon's wisdom. There are many stories that tell of the wonderful things she learned from Solomon.

No Coincidence

When the Americans fought the British in 1776 something of the same kind happened. Shortly after the American Revolution took place, there occurred the French Revolution. After the Americans had tossed off King George, the French got rid of King Louis. This was no mere coincidence. When we remember that many thousands of Frenchmen had served in the American Army against the British, we can easily surmise from what source they gained the idea.

Some Protection

Israel may not only get rid of the British herself but perhaps may deal the final blow to British imperialism. The first blow to that imperialism was given by the American Revolution.

Mr. Bevin may have been far more prophetic than even he thought when he said, when he began his service as Foreign Minister, that he would stake his career on his handling of the Palestine situation. It may be when he gets through that the British Empire, won't need much of a foreign minister.

If the Malays learn from Israel how to kick the British out, what is to keep the Egyptians from learning from Israel how to kick the British out of the Sudan and so on and on.

It seems strange when one thinks about it, how Mr. Bevin was induced some months back, to withdraw the British forces from Palestine. In the light of his statement that he would stake his whole career on his handling of the Palestine question, why should he have withdrawn the British forces?

Quite Prophetic

Could it all have been a trick which Bevin tried to pull off which boomeranged on him? Mr. Bevin thought that after the British withdrew, the seven adjoining Arab countries would quickly teach the Jews a lesson and since the leading Arab army, that of Abdullah, was essentially a British army, financed and equipped by the British, the British would still control Palestine.

If the British forces per se remained in Palestine, under the Mandate, they had to afford some protection to Jews, but once they withdrew the Arabs could have a merry time killing off the Jews. So the British would withdraw, the Arabs would do a good job with the Jews and the British would in effect still control Palestine.

This seems to have been the plan. But it didn't work out that way. Instead the Malays came to Palestine. History certainly is wonderful!

Comets Take Football Championship, 13-6

By SYD COHEN

Paced by the brilliant signal calling, breakaway running and passing of Seymour Gerstenblatt, the Comets Club concluded a highly successful outdoor athletic season Sunday morning at Mt. Pleasant Field by defeating the Eatons 13-6 to take the championship of the Herald Touch Football League.

The largest crowd of the entire season turned out for the playoff game between the two clubs which finished the regular season in a tie. They witnessed a close, rough, hard fought battle that was decided by the better long passing game and team direction of the Comets.

The game was scoreless until the final four minutes of the first half. Then Greg Karambulis, the Eatons' best passer, intercepted a Comet pass and returned it to that team's 29. After one pass missed fire, Jackie Pearl hit Jerry Winograd with a first down toss on the 24 and then connected with Big Joe Wuraffic in the end zone. An incomplete pass wrecked the Eatons' chance for the point and led directly to their defeat.

The Comets came roaring back, Nate Ludman taking the ensuing kickoff to his own 44. Then Seymour Golden slipped out on the left flank unnoticed, got behind the Eatons' secondary and gathered in a long pass from Aon Rosenbaum for the tying touchdown. Bertie Gerstenblatt's placement split the uprights perfectly to give the Comets the lead at half time.

With five minutes left in the last quarter, the Eatons, caught deep in their own territory after Seymour Gerstenblatt's coffin corner punt went out on the 12, lost the ball on downs on their 18, whereupon Seymour tossed to Bertie in the end zone for the final Comet score.

Sisterhood Has Chanukah Party

A Chanukah party was held last Wednesday at the meeting of the Sisterhood of Congregation Sons of Abraham. Food for Israel was collected from the members, and entertainment was provided by Miss Irene Poliakoff, who sang accompanied by Miss Mabel Woolsey, and Carol Freehof, who tap danced. Mrs. Abraham Chill lighted the Chanukah candles. Refreshments were served.

Center Varsity Drops Opener

In a close game that marked the opening of the New England YMHA basketball league, the Jewish Community Center Varsity dropped a 37-35 decision to Quincy (Mass.) last Saturday night at the Center. Bert Gerstenblatt and Lou Kronick starred offensively and defensively for the local club.

In the preliminary game, the Comets edged the Olympics 50-49 in a game that was in doubt up to the final whistle. Merlyn Rodyn paced both clubs with 20 points, followed by H. Greenfeld and Foster of the Comets.

Dancing until midnight followed the two contests.

The Home Belongs To You--The Public

Probably the most important and factual utterance made by Jacob I. Felder in his recent presidential report at the annual meeting of the Jewish Home for the Aged was this: "Gone is the stigma that was attached to placing a parent in the Home." Had Mr. Felder made a statement of that sort several years ago he would have been arguing a premise. In 1948 he was reporting a fact.

It is certainly no disgrace for an aged parent, whether healthy or ill, to be entered in the Home. Rather, it is a blessing. Even the best meaning children, willing to submit to personal sacrifice in order to keep their parents in their homes, cannot care for them and entertain them and provide for them in the manner that the Home for the Aged can and does. Regular physical inspection, prescribed diet, modern and comfortable surroundings, personal freedom, entertainment, and, above all, the companionship of people of their own age group—all these are far better for the aged than even the best private home, which invariably must be filled with noisy children and the irregular goings and comings and doings of younger people.

Now that the Jewish Home for the Aged has succeeded in making the comfort and satisfaction of the older people a more important consideration than the personal vanity of well-intentioned children—children who may have neither the time nor the means of providing adequately for their parents—another problem must be faced. That is the matter of responsibility for the Home.

Every Jewish person who considers himself a part of the life about him, shares or should share this responsibility with the relatively few who conduct the affairs of the Home. Those who work at the Home and those who serve as the officers and committee members must be acknowledged as merely our representatives in the maintenance of the establishment. The need for the facilities of the Home may come to any of us or any of our parents. We cannot and should not detach ourselves from this institution any more than we would ignore the annual campaign of the General Jewish Committee, the Community Chest or our individual insurance policy premiums.

Increased facilities are needed

"Let's Make Chanukah Week--Home Week" Is Slogan for Membership Drive

"Let's Make Chanukah week Home Week" was the theme of an appeal directed to the entire Jewish community of Rhode Island this week by Harry A. Blacher, chairman of the membership committee at the Home for the Aged. Blacher's appeal ties in with the fact that the Home's membership campaign will be resumed during the forthcoming Chanukah holiday.

"Chanukah is a joyous festival commemorating an event that brought light to Jewish hearts through the efforts of the gallant Maccabees," Blacher said. "Let us also make of it a festival that will bring light to the old folks at the Home for the Aged."

"Let it be a rededication of service to the aged of our community."

at the Home and these cannot come from the good intentions of a handful of persons who appreciate the need for them. It is a Jewish Home for the Aged that we have on Hillside Avenue and it is the responsibility of every Jew to share in the cost of its maintenance.

Blacher also extended an invitation to the entire community to visit the Home during Chanukah week to inspect its modern facilities and, while there, to join the membership drive that will from now on be conducted on a year-round basis.

"Every family in Providence and Rhode Island should hold membership in the Home, which is a Jewish institution maintained and operated for the benefit of the aged and aged infirm of the entire state," Blacher added.

"Let's make Chanukah week Home week"

A total Home membership of 2067 was reported by the membership committee at the annual meeting held recently. Exactly 225 new members were added to the rolls from the beginning of the drive on May 9 until the annual report was compiled last month. The immediate goal of the committee is 3000 members, but Blacher emphasized that, since the Home is the responsibility of the entire community, the committee will not rest until every family in the State is enrolled.

Daughterhood Bowling

By RUTH TANENBAUM

The girls not quite being up to par, last week's session did not include any terrific scores, although that does not mean the usual laughs and fun were not in attendance.
The first game was a cinch for Ruth Tanenbaum who won it with 95 while Bea Levin, a spare bowler for the night, paced her team with 81. In the second round Harriet Keller's 96 and Dee Chorney's 93 led the field. This round led to the keenest competition of the session since Harriet and Ruth had a side bet running on the outcome. Selma Lapatin rolled 98 to win the third round string in her group and Bertha Boslovitz' 83 took top honors in the other division.

Olympic Bowling

By SIDNEY GREEN

I was seriously tempted to title today's column "Gordon's Bowling" but restrained myself. Capt. Nate took high single and high three honors with 140 and 351 and his team rolled 536 and 1547 for the night's high team single and three marks. They concluded by winning four points from the Jacobson (if you'll pardon the expression) bowling five.

The Schwartz's kept their record intact by losing four points to the Levines who retained their lead with 34 points. Shades of the old spitball pitchers—R. Karten rolled spare after spare simply by having his middle finger taped . . . Haskell (the beak) Wallick really pointed his team into this 4-point win.

The Lobels and Cohens split and remained in fourth and fifth places respectively with both H. Woloff and S. Boren improving steadily over previous weeks' bowling . . . The Rodyns stayed in the fight for the first half title by taking three points from the Avens to claim third place with 26.

Beth El Bowling

By JACK APPELBAUM

Tense, stark drama—ha ha—was enacted at the Casino Alleys last week when Milt Weissman's team topped Perry Shatkin's "Blue Shirts" out of first place. Milt's team not only took over first place, but in doing so established a new high team single and high team three of 653 and 1814, respectively. These figures should stand up for a while.

The excitement reached a fever pitch when it became apparent that the records were within reach, and their opponents, Silverman's team (who were invincible the week before), seemed more interested in whether Weissman would reach the figure than they were in their own score.

Incidentally, the whole thing was made possible by the phenomenal bowling of two brother acts, the Feldman and Alterman boys, who, together with Bill Matzner, make up Weissman's team.

Welcome home to Bert Bernhardt after a six week sojourn in Texas and points West. Bert celebrated his return to the team by rolling a first string of 116. I reckon that's mighty fair bowlin', pardner. (Let's not talk about his other two strings.)

Next week I'll tell you about the origin of the "Blue Shirts". Stay in touch with me.

Yours truly reported back to action this week and—coincidentally, I am sure—our team (the Steingolds) bounced back from a 4-0 defeat last week to take three points from the Zawatskys. Estelle Cohen tried hard to compensate for the absence of their captain by bowling a high three mark of 292 and tying Rita Levine for high single honors with 108. It was certainly the Levines' night to howl—they defeated the Hochmans 4-0, established two new records, high team single—446, and high team three—1275, and now lead the Steingolds by five points.

Other high scores were posted by June Stein and Helen Lehrer with 106 each. Dotty Strasmick—103, Esther Blonder—100, and

Dear Mr. Rutman:

We know you will be interested to hear about the marvelous response to our full page ad in the Jewish Herald of November 26, announcing the opening of our new Super-Market and which advertised a number of "specials."

We can truly report fine results, which is indeed a tribute to the pulling power of your newspaper. People from all over the State brought the page ad with them, so that they could refer to the many items they wished to purchase. Frankly, we are delighted.

Many thanks for all your co-operation.

Very truly yours,

SYD COHEN:

Crowing Before Dawn

Superstitious sports fans and writers for years have feared to have too many "nice things said about their favorite teams or players when the latter two are going well because of the possibility of putting a whammy on the particular club or player involved.

Most of the time, of course, the press notices do no more harm than force up the price of paper, due to the increasing number of scrapbooks; but there have been occasions when, almost immediately after getting a good press, a player has broken a leg, developed a sore arm, inflation of the cranium, or otherwise been "jinxed". For all that the sports writer takes blame—and so I start this column with bated breath and stiff fingers. It's a dangerous undertaking.

This buildup merely means that we are discussing this week the Providence (hockey) Reds, currently the best minor league team in the business and easily the finest in local history. I'm not superstitious and I don't believe all that stuff about whammies. Just to make sure, though, I've crossed my feet, some pencils and other miscellany in the office. Nothing like making sure.

Hail to the Reds

Providence has had classy hockey teams before and has won the title and appeared in the playoffs more often than any other Eastern team and most of the western clubs. But these outfits of the past never threatened to set as many sensational new records as does this team of 48-49 vintage.

Last year the Reds established an all-time scoring mark, a record for total victories among Eastern teams and a record for wins at the Auditorium. Two other marks just missed fire because the Barons of Cleveland were Cook-ing with high octane gas.

This season may be the one that witnesses the cracking of every record in the book. In scoring, for example, the Reds went well over the 300 mark a year ago. This season, so far, with slightly more than one third their games completed, they are already well on their way to their second hundred.

The current campaign may see Providence establish a new high for total wins in one year and also the highest number of points in league history. The defensive situation at present also presents a favorable picture. So far, the enemy has averaged two and a third goals per game. The Reds' average is five. And oh yes—the league scoring records show six Reds among the first 13.

All the above makes nice dreaming, especially when it appears to be more than wishful thinking. BUT—there is a fly in the ointment and the sooner that fly is swatted the better off the Reds will be.

Briefly, it has been a long time since Providence won the championship (playoffs) in the American Hockey League, and I believe the fans would gladly sacrifice all the records if the title could be brought to this city. And if we are to do it this year a certain jinx that derives from no particular superstition will have to be overcome.

That Man Cook

The Reds' last all-conquering championship was achieved under Bun Cook. Ever since he took over at Cleveland, Bun has taken delight in smashing every attempt of the locals to get the title. Practically every single time that the Reds have won the Eastern flag, there were the Barons—and red hot Barons, too—to be met in the opening round of the playoffs. Just once, I believe, it was in the final round—and the result was the same. We have never gotten past Cleveland and that has cost us, as the saying goes.

Last year, for example, the Barons were so poor a club over the first half of the season that it would have taken a streak of 30-odd games without defeat to put them in. So they did just that. And licked us in the opening round.

This year the fans are eyeing St. Louis, which is living up to its name, the Flyers. That club is an important consideration, for in the event they meet the Reds in the playoffs the team with the highest number of points will get the extra home game.

Forget the Flyers for the moment, though, and look down the standings. There are the Barons again, big as life, only a relatively few points behind the Reds, who are roaring along at the top of their division. Get the point?

So, while I would like very much to see the Reds set up a flock of new records, I would appreciate much more the cracking of that jinx held over us for so long by the Cooks of Cleveland. They have an insatiable appetite for chicken and have feasted for too long on the type known as Rhode Island Reds.

This year I hope the chicken gives them indigestion.

GJC Campaign Reaches $1,105,000

As the 1948 "Year of Destiny" fund-raising drive of the General Jewish Committee climbed to the imposing total of $1,105,000 this week, it became evident that the Jewish people of greater Providence once again had nobly responded to the plea of their less fortunate brethren in Europe, Israel and this country.

As a result, Providence's contribution to the United Jewish Appeal this year will be substantially in excess of its 1947 figure. Last year's drive barely passed the million dollar mark.

In view of the fact that many communities throughout the nation failed to attain even their totals of last year, Providence's efforts took on added significance.

Frank Praise

GJC officials were frank in praising both the generous response of the several thousand contributors and the tireless efforts of hundreds of volunteer workers during the past three months.

At GJC headquarters in the Strand Building, plans were being made this week for a closing celebration for workers, tentatively scheduled for the middle of next month.

At the same time, it was pointed out that "mopping up" operations would continue until all remaining uncontacted cards were covered. It is estimated that additional gifts totaling at least $25,000 will be forthcoming as "late" pledges are reported to headquarters.

Veterans Visit Soldiers' Home

A visit to the Soldiers' Home in Bristol was made recently by members of Post 23, Jewish War Veterans, who provided entertainment and gifts of cigarettes to the patients.

The visitors were received at the hospital by Commander and Mrs. Chester Williams, who expressed their gratitude for the many contributions made by JWV posts and their auxiliaries during the past few months.

Members making the visit were David Vecker, Esmond Borod, Bernard Guy, Joseph Dickens, Saul Weinbaum, Fred Hohenemser and Ben Zeidel.

Masada to Hold Oneg Shabbat

Masada will hold an Oneg Shabbat tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Jerry Bienenfeld, 27 Warren Avenue, Pawtucket, it was announced by Miss Beatrice Sock, chairman of the program committee.

On the program committee with Miss Sock are David Kessler, president; Miss Dorothy Greene, Sam Kreitman, Miss Toby Rose, Sid Stern and Jerry Bienenfeld.

The program will consist of services, led by Jerry Bienenfeld, entertainment and refreshments.

Zionist Regional Conclave Sunday

(Continued from Page 1) the luncheon session, also to be held in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Biltmore, is open to the public by reservation. The morning and afternoon sessions, in the ballroom foyer of the Sheraton-Biltmore, as well as the mass evening meeting in the Rhode Island School of Design auditorium, are open to the public, and no admission will be charged.

Pawt. Ladies Aid To Meet Monday

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid and Sisterhood of Ohawe Sholam Synagogue of Pawtucket will be held next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Cantor Joseph Schlossberg will entertain with renditions of Hebrew and Jewish songs, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Click, and Mrs. Irving I. Newman will present humorous Yiddish readings. Hostess-chairman for the evening is Mrs. Leonard Paster; co-chairmen are Mrs. David Horvitz and Mrs. Abraham Horvitz.

The ideal Chanukah gift—a subscription to the Herald.

COUNCIL BOOK REVIEW

Sher-Greenfield

Miss Anna Greenfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Greenfield of Eaton Street, was married to Sheldon Sher, son of Mrs. Nathan Sher of New Bedford on Sunday, December 5 at the United Commercial Travelers Hall. Rabbi Carol Klein officiated at the double ring ceremony performed by candle light. Cantor Jacob Hohenemser sang the benediction.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a gown of ivory satin appliqued with seed pearls and iridescent sequins with a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil fell from a juliet cap and she carried a white bible with orchids and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Max Resnick, sister of the groom and matron of honor, wore a black faille gown with a white lace drop shoulder and mits of white lace. Miss Anita Russ, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and was gowned in aqua faille and marquisette. Both carried colonial bouquets and wore matching tiaras.

Dr. B. J. Margolis of New Bedford, uncle of the groom, was best man. Sanford Resnick, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. Ushers were Ross Sher, Richard Kaufman, Donald Bloomberg, Arthur Grabel, Leonard Rotenberg and Theodore Mannheim.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Greenfield chose a peacock blue gown trimmed with rhinestones. She had a corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Sher selected a beige gown with bronze beading and had green orchids.

Miss Dorothy Buckler sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly", and Al Rosen's orchestra played at the reception.

Guests were present from New York, New Jersey, Boston, Florida, New Bedford and Providence. After a wedding trip to Cuba and Florida the couple will live on Angell Street.

The marriage of Miss Harriet Adelle Primack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Primack of Pembroke Avenue, to Karl Sigmund Kritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kritz of Plain Street, took place last Sunday at the United Commercial Travelers Hall. Rabbi Carol Klein officiated, assisted by Cantor Israel Breitbart and choir.

Mrs. Frank David was matron of honor and Seymour Ladd was best man.

Bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Gaffin, Mrs. Myer Malin, Miss Pearl Cohen, and Miss Selma Bell; Miss Beverly Primack, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

Rudy Schneider, Albert Katzman, Myer Malin, and David Bell were ushers. Arnold Kritz, brother of the groom, was junior usher.

Child Prodigy Violinist to be at Emanuel

Charles Castleman, seven year old prodigy and concert violinist, will be the feature of the Annual Chanukah Music Festival which is sponsored by the Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults of Temple Emanuel. The Festival will take place on Wednesday evening, December 29, beginning at 8 o'clock. The program will include solos by Cantor Jacob Hohenemser and selections by the Temple Choral Society under the direction of Arthur Einstein.

Charles Castleman has already received recognition "far beyond what might be expected by one of his few years." He has appeared as guest soloist with the Andover Symphony Orchestra, the Fall River Symphony Orchestra, and other musical organizations. He has given concerts in various communities. He will be accompanied by his teacher, Madame Gladys Posselt Ouderick.

A social hour will follow the program. Tickets for the concert are available at the Temple office.

Emanuel Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

Milt Wintmans' White Sox received a bad break when Dave Ettine made contact with an automobile recently, injuring his arm, but his just being around did lend enough spark to take four points from the Tigers.

I asked Irv Chase what was the trouble with his team resting so comfortably in last place, and when you take a look at the team—Irv—batting 105, Gerber 96, Al Chase 96, Broadman 95, and Joe Chernick 100 you realize all they needed was just a few breaks. After this writer gave them a little moral support, they trimmed the Braves for four points.

Murray Freedmans' Yankees were squeezed out of first place last Monday night, and remain in a tie for second place with Kramers' aged Athletics.

No bowling next Monday night the 22nd., but will be resumed on Monday the 27th.

Circle Bowling

By DORIS SIEGL

Circle bowling has begun another quarter with new members joining us each Monday evening at the Washington Alleys. The three highest individual scores this week were Larry Carner—116, Lou Rottenberg—105, and Esther Tillinger—100.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

At this time we are at the quarter pole with Barney Coken's Pennsylvania leading the way over Army and Yale by 2 games and the rest of the field closely bunched and in contention.

The new handicaps this week may cause some change in the complexion of the race, but on the whole, the competition has been excellent to date and no team is far from a challenging position for leadership.

W. Myrowitz and A. Abrams turned in three strings of 337 and 323, respectively, but Jack Epstein managed to peirce their combine with a nice total of 333. Millman's-130 was good for high single over Henry Stampel's 126 and Jack Epstein and Al Abrams turned in singles of 122 each.

Best wishes to Rosalie Adelman who recently became engaged to Harold Shore. . . . Also to Glenna Robinson, engaged to Phil Mazel of Boston.

Decided to Stay

When Miriam Marks went to New York, she planned to stay for just a week; but she evidently enjoyed her stay very much, for at the end of the week she telephoned her mother to send some of her clothes—she decided to extend her visit indefinitely. Friends can contact her at 350 Park West.

Some Mistake!

There was either a misprint in the Pembroke Herald or Glenna Robinson's fiancé, Phil Mazel, is leading a double life! On the guest list for the Holiday Ball, Phil's name appeared not only with Glenna's name, but with another girl's too!

(After thought—he was seen at the dance with Glenna.)

Congratulations to Bob Greene who recently passed the Rhode Island Bar exam. Bob has opened his law office in the Hospital Trust Building.

Bride and Groom

Louis Snyder and Joe Barry became Mr. and Mrs. at a wedding in Boston last Saturday. The couple are honeymooning in Canada and will make their home in Somerset, Mass.

Honored at Shower

Bunny Harriet, was guest of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Max Harriet and Mrs. Jacob Feldman on December 7. About 200 guests attended the affair which was held in the Empire Room of the Crown Hotel. Bunny will become the bride of Morris Feldman December 26.

THE NEW YORK BUTCHERS DRESSED MEAT COMPANY
NEW YORK 18, N. Y.

December 11, 1948

Mr. Fred Spigel
190 Willard Avenue
Providence, R. I.

Dear Sir:

Congratulations on your purchase of "Prize Winning Cattle" sent to you today. Also on the fine selection you made.

No doubt you are giving careful thought to the preparation of displaying these outstanding cattle of the 1948 International Live Stock Exposition to your discriminating customers.

The thought has come to us that your trade may desire some information regarding the breed of these animals. They are known as Aberdeen Angus and have won more honors in beef competition than any other breed. This breed is uniformly black with a short head, a compact low-set body, and is naturally hornless. It was imported into America about 1873 from Eastern Scotland and it has found the most favor in this country by people of discriminating taste, because of the fine texture and quality of these cattle.

We are enclosing a Blue Ribbon certifying that the meat you have purchased from us has won a prize at the International Live Stock Exposition held at Chicago.

Very truly yours,

Louis Levine
