COUNCIL DEBATE DUE

TEL AVIV—An official spokesman said this week that Israel probably would ask the UN Security Council to consider whether Britain had acted as an "active ally of the Arabs" in the Palestine war.

The Israeli government probably will complain to the Security Council at its meeting this week in Lake Success about the British policy regarding Palestine, the spokesman said.

Israeli authorities have accused the British by implication several times of siding with the Arabs.

Brodsky Elected To National Board

Irving Brodsky, a vice-president of Temple Beth-Israel, has been elected to the national board of directors of the United Synagogue of America, it was announced this week. He is also vice-president of the New England Area of the United Synagogue of America.

Brodsky will attend the semi-annual meeting of the national board of directors in New York City on January 8-9; and he will be the New England representative of the executive committee of the national board in its meeting and deliberations on Synagogue expansion.

Finkle Re-elected to JDA Executive Group

NEW YORK—Joseph M. Finkle has been re-elected to the executive committee of the National Council of the Joint Defense Appeal, it was announced yesterday by Oliver M. Kaufman of Pittsburgh, executive committee chairman.

The JDA, currently seeking a national goal of $6,826,115, is the fund-raising branch of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, two national agencies devoted to combatting bigotry and promoting inter-group harmony.

Paying tribute to Mr. Finkle's leadership in Jewish communal affairs, Mr. Kaufman declared: "Mr. Finkle's prestige and standing, not only in his own community, but throughout the state, eminently equip him for leadership in the twin tasks of interpreting the vital work of the JDA agencies to local Jewry, and securing the funds with which to carry on our cause of extending human rights."

Long active in the affairs of New England Jewry, Mr. Finkle is a member of the General Committee of District Grand Lodge No. 1, B'nai B'rith; treasurer of the Central New England Coun-

British Send Troops
To Reinforce Arabs*Admit They Aim to Force Jews from Negev

WASHINGTON—The British government has officially informed the State Department that it is sending combat troops back into the Palestine area.

British combat troops, according to a communication received by the State Department have already been sent to Aqaba, Trans-Jordan port adjoining the far southern tip of Israel.

The same communication said it was planned to send other combat troops to Gaza in Arab Palestine, where Egyptian forces have been reported cut off by Israeli advances.

Seek to Force Move

Notification of the troop movements accompanied a series of proposals which the British will put before the Security Council at Lake Success. Britain's purpose is to force Israeli withdrawal from the Negev area in southern Palestine.

The British informed the State Department that if these proposals were not adopted by the Council, Britain would resume "freedom of action" in the Arab-Israeli war. What this meant was not entirely clear.

These private advices, like the threatening news stories emanating from London during the past week, were regarded here as an effort by the British to force the U. S. to put pressure on Israel, and to hold up action on the long-pending and often-promised $100,000,000 loan asked by Israel of the Export-Import Bank. This loan was reported here as all but "in the bag."

Denies London Reports

Michael J. McDermott, chief press officer of the State Department, called in newspapermen to deny as "untrue" news cables from London that the U. S. had warned Israel it might lose recognition and the $100,000,000 loan unless a reported "invasion" of Egypt was halted.

The denial and the friendly terms in which the State Department spokesman explained what had actually happened was regarded here as marking the defeat of an attempt by the British to stampede the U. S. into hostile action.

The phrasing of the statement would make it difficult for British combat troops to go into action on the Arab side without finding some new excuse. There are indications that the State Department was annoyed by the anti-Israeli press campaign out of London.

McDermott said the British ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, told Under Secretary of State Robert Lovett last Thursday that if Israeli troops did not withdraw from Egyptian territory, Britain would have to consider its position under its 1936 treaty of alliance with Egypt.

Every Donor Provides Weeks Education

THE PROVIDENCE JEWISH HERALD, FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1949

The Ladies' Association of the Providence Hebrew Day School, in conjunction with parallel organizations throughout the United States, has accepted the challenge for the crying need of a comprehensive and integrated Jewish education in a proper environment, Mrs. Archie Smith, chairman of the initial donors luncheon, said this week. The affair will be held Tuesday afternoon, February 1, at the Narragansett Hotel.

Dr. Joseph Kaminetsky, New York educator, will be the guest speaker.

"Our dinner," Mrs. Smith said, "will afford an opportunity to the women of our community to participate in meeting that responsibility. The importance of the project provides a compelling duty on the part of every woman in our Jewish community to place her name on the donors list of the only all-day Jewish educational institution in the State of Rhode Island. Every Donor thus becomes a part of a school that is providing the children with the finest educational personnel in an inspiring and wholesome environment. The curriculum presented and carried out by its administrators makes it possible for our youth to appreciate and understand both the Jewish and American life."

Assisting Mrs. Smith are Mrs. Lewis Korn, co-chairman; Mrs. Jack Feit, co-chairman; Mrs. Jack Hassenfeld, treasurer, and Mrs. Isaiah A. Segal, president, chairman ex-officio.

HOLLYWOOD—After a run of only three weeks, 20th-Century Fox's "Gentleman's Agreement" was withdrawn from the No. 1 movie house in Dublin, Eire. The picture received a lukewarm reception from critics, and despite plenty of ballyhoo it never picked up at the box office. The feeling there is that the picture lacked interest for Eire where there is virtually no anti-Semitism, and the problem merely puzzles the average Irish filmgoer.

Yiddish vaudeville, once a spasmodic affair at best, has suddenly come to life in Hollywood. Starting with a few Sunday night dates at a local concert hall several months ago, it is mushrooming to record proportions. Topping it off is the new hilarious "Bagels and Bows," a Yiddish vaudeville unit composed of such seasoned trouperers as Benny Baker, Shaw and Lee, Sammy Cohen and Senator "Moishe" Murphy. Other dates are being readied and there's talk of a tour.

Danny Kaye, who stormed London earlier this year during his stand at the famous Palladium, repeated his smash before royalty at the Command Performance recently. The comic held the stage for 30 minutes, twice as long as the time allotted other acts on the show. He even had the royal family joining in on the chorus of "Minnie the Moocher!"

Danny was the only actor who came from America specifically for the Command Performance, and hit the audience as no other performer did. He rose to the occasion to keep the audience enthralled for a half-hour of superb artistry, switching from comedy songs to sheer nonsense. Whatever he did was okay with the fans.

King George, Queen Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and the Duke of Edinburgh seated in a box, applauded almost as wildly as the rest of the audience. At the conclusion of the show, Sylvia Fine

Complete Plans for Pawt Hadassah Tea

Plans were completed for the $25 minimum tea of the Pawtucket-Central Falls chapter of Senior Hadassah at a meeting of the committee held last Wednesday afternoon.

Proceeds of the tea, which will be held March 7 at the home of Mrs. Solomon Kipnis, 43 Arlington Street, will go to the Hadassah Medical Organization, it was announced by Mrs. Mitchell Glick, chairman.

Co-chairmen with Mrs. Glick are Mesdames Jack Crovitz, Benjamin Goldenberg and Eli Levin. Team captains are Mesdames Max Alperin, Philip Hak, Abraham Barnett, David Golner, Joseph Elowitz, Harry Portney, Herman Braff and Mrs. Louis Cokin, ex-officio.

Mrs. Charles Steingold is chairman of the program book with Mrs. Samuel Gorman and Mrs. Emanuel Wittner as co-chairmen. Cards were distributed to the following team captains: Mesdames Philip N. Dwares, Jack Kaufman, Mitchell Sack, Gilbert Kitzes, Bernard Horowitz, Jack Meillon, Charles P. Jagolinzer, Samuel Alperin, Harvey Epstein and Lewis Kaplan.

(Mrs. Kaye) was presented to the Royal Family. Queen Elizabeth said, "Tell your husband how much we enjoyed seeing him again." Princess Margaret was present at a party given for Danny at the U. S. Embassy by Ambassador and Mrs. Lewis Douglas.

Columbia Pictures is making upwards of 30 different sound tracks of Al Jolson, all of which obviously can't go into Sidney Buchman's production of "Jolson Sings Again," the sequel to "The Jolson Story." The overage is insurance for possible future subjects by or about the star, and so scored that they could be integrated into future film musicals which might seek to recapture Jolsoniana.

Georgie Jessel is on a timetable schedule this week, running the gamut from playing a "benefit" at Public School 69, in mid-Manhattan, where his daughter, 6-year-old Jerilynn, attends, to taking her to the White House this week, to meet President Truman. Jessel was one of the few Hollywood rooters for the President. In between, the 20th-Century Fox producer is emceeing on several radio shows, guesting on others, doing a couple of personals at theatres to give impetus to "When My Baby Smiles At Me," which he produced.

Irving Mansfield, who produces the Talent Scouts radio program, was informed of the passing of a Hollywood hard-luck fellow who spent his days getting bank loans and making touches. Said Irving: "Poor fellow... he's gone to meet his Co-Maker!"

Pioneer Women's Group to Meet

Mrs. Harry Sklut, membership drive chairman of the Pioneer Women, announced this week that the second meeting of the newly organized evening group will be held at the home of Mrs. Sol Koffler, associate chairman, 77 Blackstone Boulevard, Monday at 8 o'clock.

A program and social hour will follow a short business meeting, and invitations are extended to prospective members.

The End of a Masquerade

Mr. Beigin's farewell address at the Manhattan Center was quite different from his reception at the Waldorf Astoria three weeks ago. It was delivered in Yiddish and was intended for home consumption, not for the liberal outside American world, and all disguises of democracy were openly abandoned. Mr. Beigin quite frankly stated his new policy which consists of 1:—A Palestine on both sides of the Jordan, including the Arab part of Palestine as well as Trans-jordan; 2:—The whole of Jerusalem, the old as well as the new parts; and 3:—No return of the Arab Refugees to their homes.

Mr. Beigin devoted most of his speech to a reply to the criticism levelled against him by Professor Einstein's group, by the American clergymen and the liberal Jewish Press. He compared himself and his Irgunists with the Maccabees of old who were also denounced as fascists of their time according to him. All the while he was thundering against Abdullah, England, the United Nations and the liberal Jewish press, pickets of the 'Hashomer Atzoi' and of other Labor Zionist organizations paraded the streets in front of the hall and denounced his and the Irgun's act of Fascism. The masquerade begun at the Waldorf Astoria ended quickly at Manhattan enter.

Misdirected Zeal

Last week the Sons of Liberty Boycott Committee announced that it had terminated its boycott of British moving pictures, having been convinced that its picketing of British pictures was adverse to American business interests. The boycott, initiated in June, was started as a retaliatory measure against the British policy on Palestine. The Sons of Liberty group ended its boycott not because of a change in view toward the British but because distribution of British pictures in this country is a means of liquidating American film funds frozen in Great Britain.

This is a step forward toward the complete abandonment of any boycott in this country against British goods, but much remains to be done in convincing many serious thinking, well-intentioned people in this country that such a boycott is harmful to America as well as Britain and does no good whatsoever for the State of Israel.

The new Jewish State does not itself engage in any similar boycott, nor does it support it; indeed, a great deal of its current revenue is derived from the export of the greatest portion of its citrus crop to the United Kingdom and other parts of the British Empire. It is true that the British, upon their departure from Palestine, blocked substantial Israeli assets but responsible Israeli authorities believe this is a matter that will be resolved by negotiation, if not before the forthcoming elections in Israel, then most certainly after.

One of the great highways toward world peace is healthy world trade. That means trade for constructive economic purposes not only between the United States and Great Britain but between the United States and Israel, Great Britain and Israel, and all other countries whose hopes for the future lie in building successful domestic economies. Any activities which hamper this trade are both harmful to the fledgling State of Israel and the future.

"One Man's Opinion"

How They Ran

By BERNARD SEGAL

The subject of this article rightly belongs in Syd Cohen's sports department. All talk of sports is very bewildering to me. How often do I wish that I knew a little more about sport games so that I might be able to discuss the World Series with my barber, who is an ardent sports fan.

Hence, sports and sport events, even when they take place in Israel, are not my fare. I do hope that Syd may come around to write of the Chanukah sport events that took place in Tel-Aviv last week in connection with the first post-war congress of the Maccabee World Union. This Jewish Sport Organization, the Maccabees, had clubs in 38 countries the world over before the outbreak of the war. At the Tel-Aviv Chanukah congress plans for the re-organization of the World Union were mapped, and the Maccabees are already talking of representing Israel at the 1952 Olympic games to take place in Finland. But all this is for an expert to discuss.

What stirred me in the news stories of these exhibition games of the Maccabees was the race of the torch bearers from Modin to Tel-Aviv.

In the Hills of Ephraim, near Jerusalem, lies the ancient village of Modin. There, in the village and the surrounding hills, lived, fought, and died the Hasmoneans, the glorious family whose heroic feats are memorialized by the kindling of lights, and are retold these two thousand years in story and in song every Chanukah.

So on the day of the first Chanukah light, a group of modern Maccabees put fire to a torch on the graves of the Maccabees of old in the Hills of Ephraim, and began the race to Tel-Aviv. Can't you see them running up hill and down hill, along byways and highways or the countryside, past villages and towns, through Kibbutzim and camps of new settlers, holding on to the torch?

In the village of Ramleh the race was interrupted by a procession of the school children who came out to meet the torch bearers. In the town of Rehoboth, the home of Dr. Chayim Weitzman, they stopped at the door of the house of the President of Israel, to receive his blessings. Taking the torch from the hands of the young Maccabi runner, the aged scientist said:

"This land of ours is small, but we hope to see great things come out of it. After two thousand years, the spirit of the Hasmoneans is alive again in the Land of Israel!"

On towards Tel-Aviv the torch was carried. Villagers and townspeople along the route cheered and sang. Children of all ages lined the sides of the road to greet the runners.

On the evening of the 26th of December the torch was brought to the great Synagogue of Tel-Aviv. There the flame touched off in Modin was used to kindle the first light of Chanukah in the giant Menorah. And thus the eight day celebration of Chanukah began in Israel, and so began a series of exhibition games by the Maccabee sport clubs, all through the week.

Ben Guryon, the Prime minister and chief of the armed forces of Israel, was on hand to greet the runners at the end of their race, and he pointed out the symbolism of the spectacle. A flame brought from Modin of old to Tel-Aviv of today, a fire kindled by the Maccabees of two thousand years ago still nurtured by their descendants in 1948. A torch never to be extinguished, though many will try to do it—and all will perish in their attempt.

Plantations Bank Moves to Weybosset Street

Plantations Bank of Rhode Island has moved its head office to completely remodeled quarters at 61 Weybosset Street, the former location of its Lincoln-Weybosset Branch and the Lincoln Trust Company, prior to the latter institution's purchase by, and consolidation with, Plantations Bank in 1947. The entire staff of the Canal Street office, which formerly served as the Bank's headquarters and was closed on December 31, 1948, has moved to the more centrally-located Weybosset Street location.

All three floors of the Weybosset Street building have undergone a complete alteration started some months ago. Changes in the main banking rooms on the first floor have resulted in greatly increased lobby space and an entirely new counter arrangement particularly designed for greater customer convenience and increased efficiency in operation.

The second floor now houses the executive offices, the time sales and credit departments, and the board room. The third floor, with the exception of space required for a comfortable and attractive employees' lounge, has been completely re-arranged to provide accommodation for an increased number of the most modern bookkeeping machines. The color scheme and lighting throughout the building are entirely new and ceilings have been sound-proofed.

The move places the number of Plantations Bank offices at seven. In addition to the Head Office at Weybosset Street, Providence, others are located in Olneyville, Pawtucket, Woonsocket, Newport, Westerly and West Warwick.

According to officials of the Plantations Bank, the move, which had been under consideration for more than a year, was made in the interests of greater customer convenience by providing a centrally-located office for its Providence clients. A further step along this line has been taken by new arrangements with a parking lot, almost directly across Weybosset Street from the Bank's building and at the rear of the Old Colony Co-operative Bank. These arrangements provide Plantations Bank customers with an hour's free parking while transacting their banking business.

Beth El Bowling

By JACK APPELBAUM

Last Thursday Perry Shatkin's "Blue Shirts" competed with Allie Shatkin's "Dirty Shirts". Naturally, I missed a lot that went on because of the ear-plugs I had to wear to keep from being deafened. Those "Blue Shirts" are the noisiest, most boisterous and exuberant bunch of lunatics it's ever been my misfortune to bowl against. By the time the first string was half over, our team was so "tsitumelt" we were rooting against our own men. I had to call Nat Alterman Sunday to get the news, and here it is.

Milt Weissman's team took four points again. Getting monotonous, isn't it? They are now eight points ahead of the nearest runner-up, Saul Lerman's team. From there on the teams are very closely bunched, one point apart. I was ribbing Nat, who is on Weissman's team, that we ought to "break up the Yankees", and he said that the secret of the team's success is perfect attendance. Now will you absentees show up?

I'd like to take this opportunity to wish Lou Sonsky, one of last year's captains, good luck in his new venture in Springfield. Lou came into town for the New Year week-end and wistfully asked about the health and well-being of our whole league. His plans are so formulated as to make possible his eventual return to Providence and the bowling league. Good luck, Lou.

There'll be something about the bachelors in our group next week. Stay in touch with me.

Name Weeks, Watson To Federal Board

Two Rhode Island men were appointed as directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston, it was announced this week by the Home Bank Board in Washington. Edward H. Weeks, president of the old Colony Co-operative Bank, was reappointed vice chairman for the year 1949 and J. Bertram Watson, executive vice president, First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Providence, was named director of the Rhode Island area.

Membership of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston comprises some 250 co-operative banks, savings banks and savings and loan associations in New England.

To Hear Report on 'Food for Israel' Drive

Also included in the program are a report on the Food for Israel drive, by Kenneth Resnick, and a showing of a new Haganah film, "Freedom Bound".

The meeting is being arranged by a committee headed by Edward Feldman, vice chairman of the chapter, assisted by Mrs. Edward Feldman, Mrs. Harold Edleston, Miss Beatrice Knopow and Miss Dorothy Click.

Actor to Appear At Temple Beth-Israel

The second presentation of the Assembly of Jewish Learning, sponsored by Temple Beth-Israel, will be Baruch Lumet, Yiddish stage and character actor, on Wednesday, January 12, at 8:30 o'clock at the Temple. Mr. Lumet will present a program of his characterizations, monologues and stories of Jewish wit, satire and drama.

This is the first appearance of Lumet in Providence. The presentation is free and the public is invited to attend.

Classical High Alumni Reunion

A short business meeting was followed by presentation of an original verse written for the occasion by J. Melvin Colman. Members of the Classical High faculty were guests of honor.

Included among the members of the class who attended the reunion were H. Jerome Harris, B. Morton Schuman, D. Lee Bornstein, A. Bojar, Jay Bedrick, David Goldman, Marvin Brill, Irvin Wexler, Rhoda Hodosh, Melvin L. Zurier and E. B. Farky.

Holzman Broadcasts Our Younger Set From Israel Daily

NEW YORK—Every weekday night at 6:05, radio listeners may tune in on Israel.

Nathan Straus, Zionist leader and president of radio station W M C A in New York, figured others besides the Straus family wanted their Israel reports first-hand, so he went to Israel recently and set up a daily broadcast.

"It's not strictly a news program, but more to inform people of the background of the news, the development of a whole new nation," Straus said.

"Arthur Holzman, (son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Silverman), formerly a radio commentator here and a naval commander during the war, handles the broadcast," Straus said. "He sold me on himself when he was able to clear with censorship in two hours, material I had tried for five days to clear. He has settled in Israel, loves the country and knows it. That's why I wanted him for the program."

Straus, president of the Palestine Investment Corp., founded 30 years ago, said no investor in any field need fear that he would lose money in Israel. He said facts in the broadcasts, the first of which was made November 1, will bear out his statement.

The broadcasts, which originate from Tel Aviv from Monday through Friday, originate at RCA headquarters there, Straus said.

In the final broadcast he made during his stay in Israel, Straus gave a message to the people of the new nation, a commentator's prediction:

"What you have done in building the state amid hostile Arabs and a confused and indifferent world is beyond belief. Yet, I predict that what you will achieve in the years ahead will dwarf by comparison what you have done in the past."

Straus reread his broadcast script and smiled: "No man ever made a safer prediction."

Gabrilowitz Family Celebrate Chanukah

The first annual Chanukah party of the Gabrilowitz Family Circle was held Sunday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Maurice Cohen of 57 Higgins Avenue. Gifts were presented to the children in the family following their return from the Chanukah party presented at the Jewish Community Center. Guests were present from Putnam, Conn.

Traditional Chanukah potato latkes were served to the family by the hostesses, Mesdames R. Maurice Cohen, Philip Gabrilowitz, Dora Chafetz, Jack Garfinkel and Louis D. Gleckman. R. Maurice Cohen lit the Chanukah candles.

A committee comprising Syd Cohen, president, and Mesdames Gabrilowitz, Gleckman and Cohen was named to select the site of the family's Passover Seder in April.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, January 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gabrilowitz, 284 Willard Avenue.

EXPLAINS MIZRACHI WORK

Rabbi James I. Gordon was the guest speaker at the Chanukah celebration of the Providence Chapter of Women's Mizrahi, held at the Sheraton-Biltmore, December 27. Movies of the work done by Mizrahi to house, clothe and rehabilitate the children of Israel were also shown.

things to remember when calling former WEst numbers

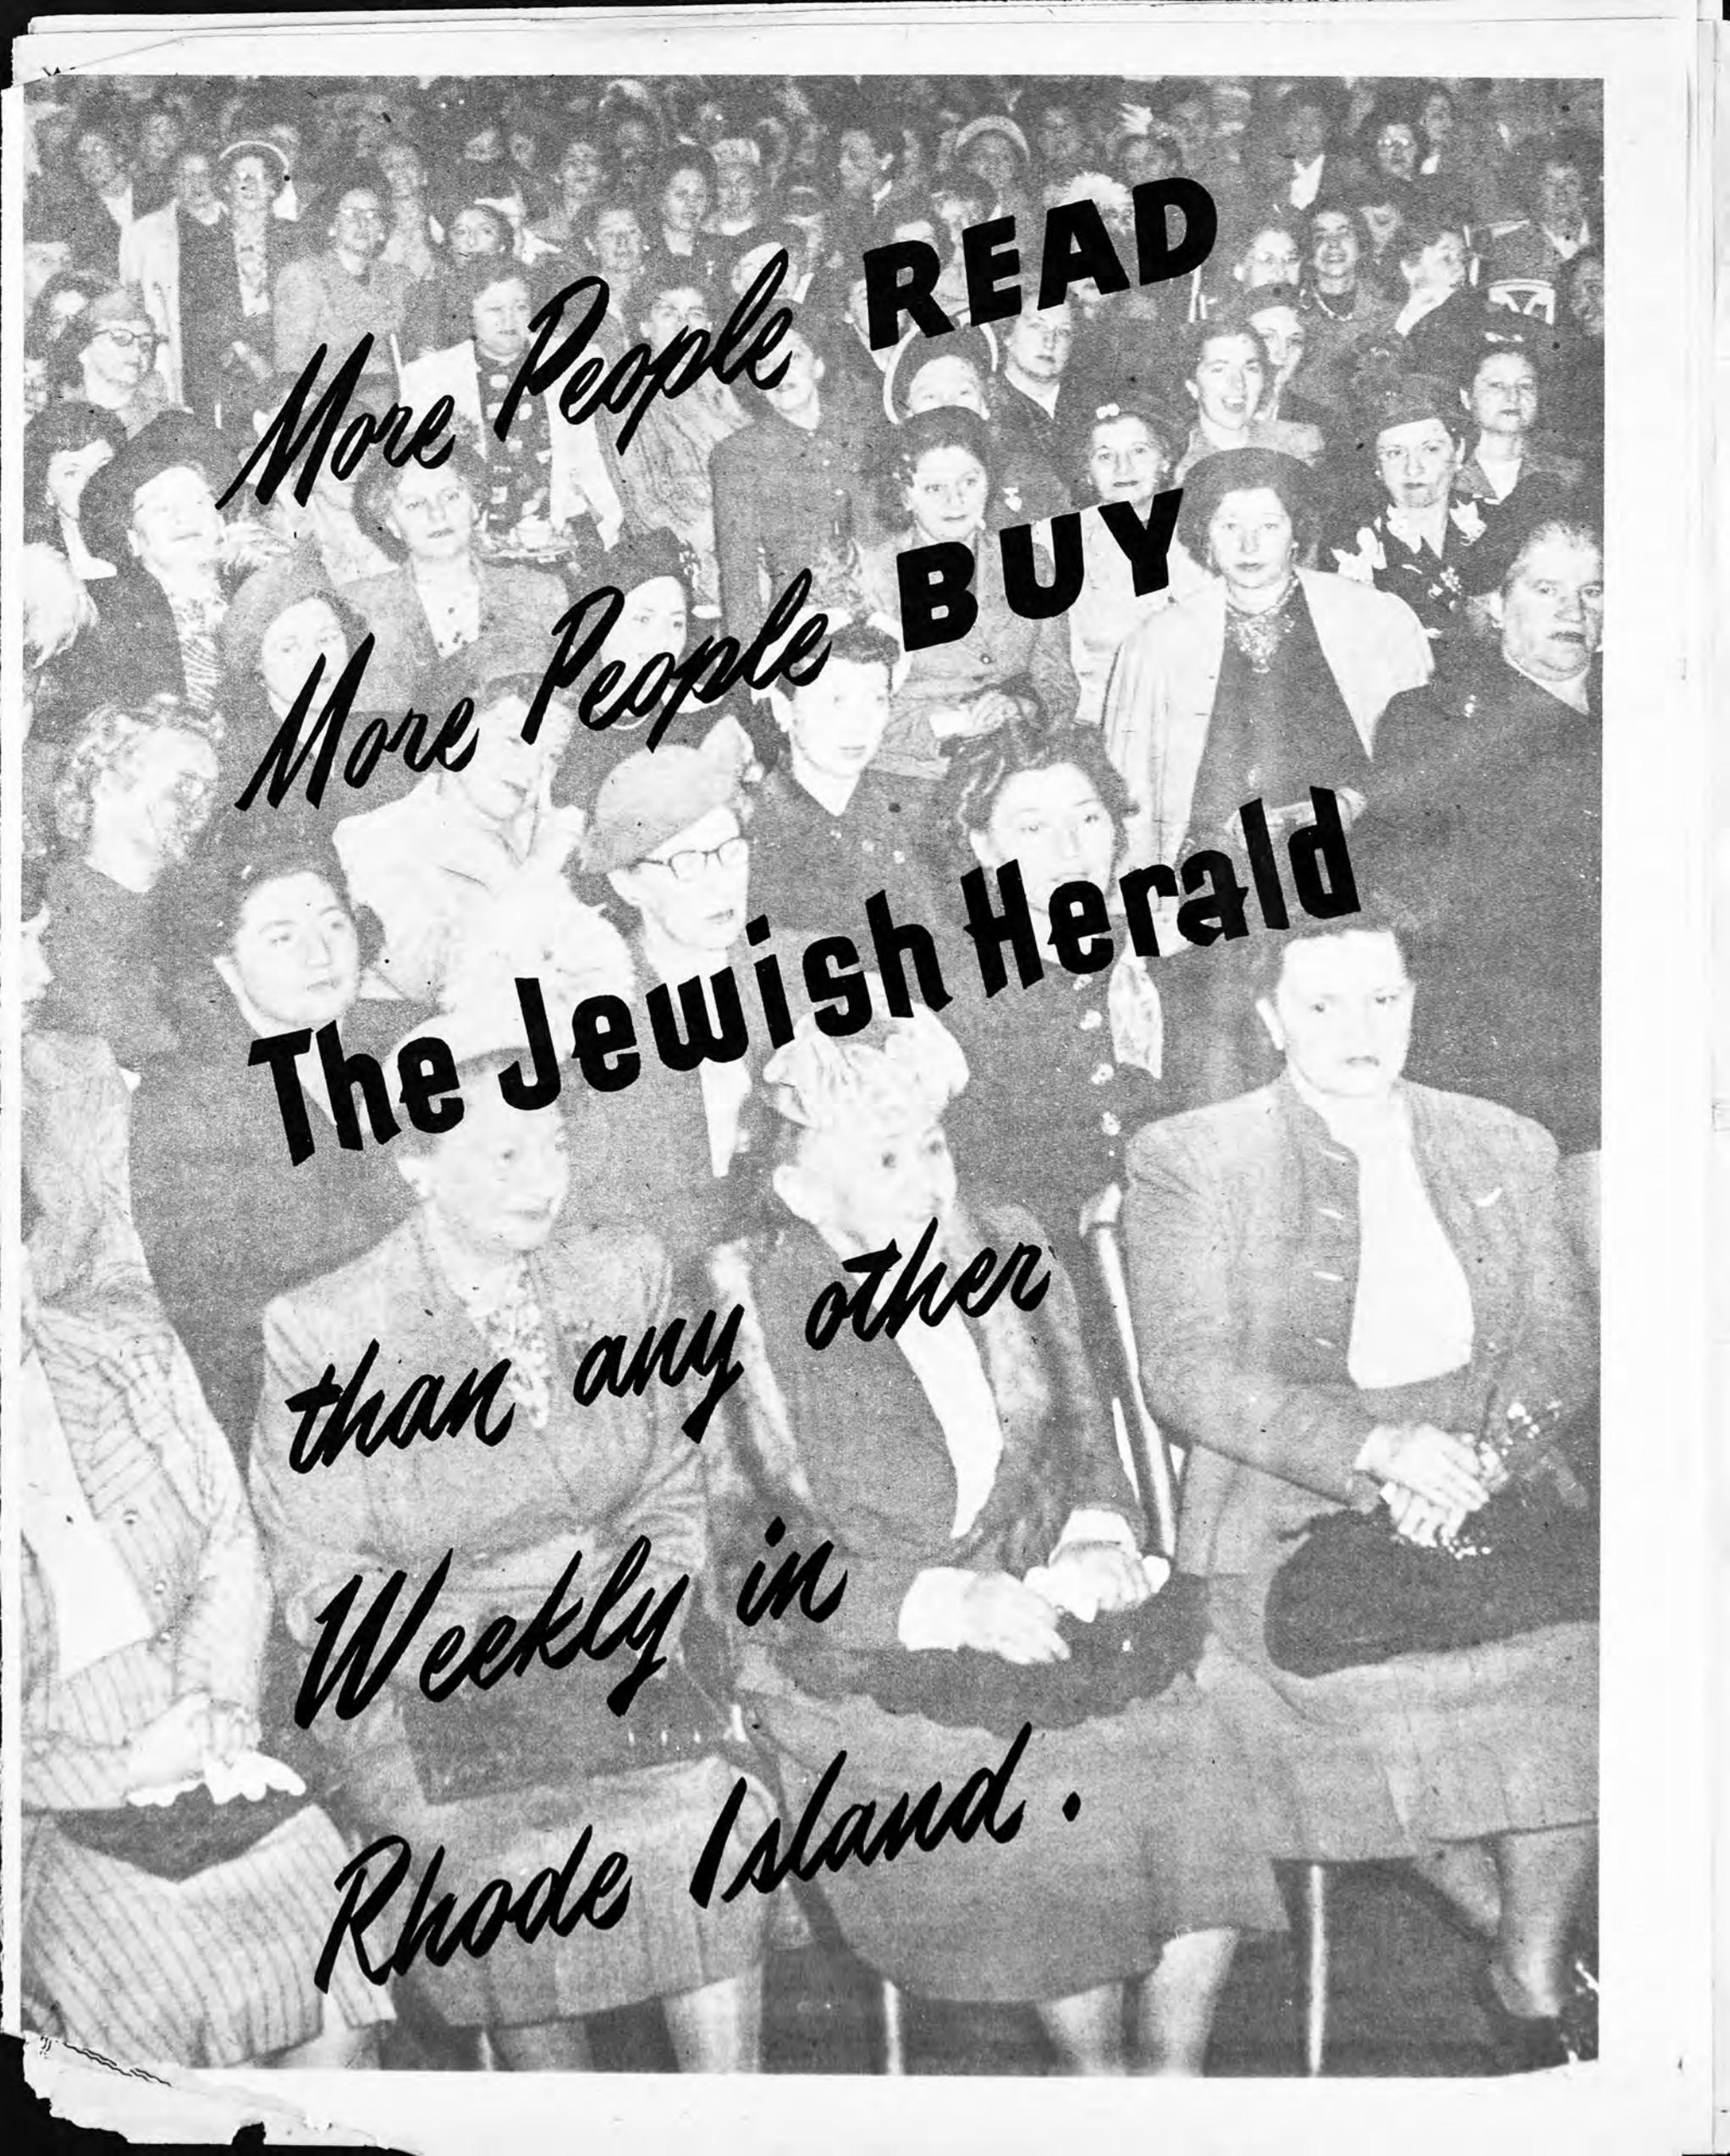

- 1 All former WEst numbers are now either ELmhurst or TEmple.
 - 2 When calling numbers you know were formerly in the West exchange area, use the new West Area Directory Supplement recently delivered to you.
 - 3 For all other numbers in the Providence and Pawtucket area, use the regular Directory.
- If, when looking up an unfamiliar number in the regular Directory, you find it listed as WEst, remember that this number has now been changed. Look up the new ELmhurst or TEmple number in the West Area Supplement.
- 4 Before you dial, listen for the dial tone—a steady hum-m-m. When you hear it, dial carefully the two letters and four figures of the complete number.

With the replacement of the West exchange by ELmhurst and TEmple, all Providence telephone users now enjoy speedy, modern dial service. This change is a step towards a more efficient numbering plan for the Providence area due next Spring. It also paves the way for other improvements in service, such as operator long distance dialing.

Olympic Bowling

- Auxiliary -

By TEDI GREEN

It looks like 1948 was a good year for the bowling Levines, as Harold Levine's team won the championship in the men's league, and wife Rita and her gang clinched the first half title by taking the necessary one point from the Hochmans.

Roz "Lefty" Jacobson couldn't stand the noise resulting from the balls banging against one another as they were returned by the pin boys, so towards the end of the first string she tried stopping them with a finger—despite a badly swollen third digit she rolled a third string score of 112 which was tops for the night and Edith Hochman's sturdy 290 was high for total pinfall.

P. S.—welcome to our two new keglers—Elaine Aiken and Elsie Zipkin.

SYD COHEN:

The Column
Makes An Award

This column made no individual awards or citations during its first year of existence, although a movement was started to name an all-star softball league team. Maybe that will succeed this year.

Now, in the first column of 1949 I want to pay belated tribute to a man I honestly believe to have been the outstanding figure in Jewish sports in Rhode Island during 1948, may it rest in peace.

Man of the year, thy name is Irving (Tex) Rabinowitz, commissioner of the Centre Softball League.

Naturally, public opinion will differ on any "most valuable" selection such as this; but I think that an intimate look at the contribution made by Tex Rabinowitz to the re-organization of Jewish sports was unsurpassed by that of any other person. He is my man of the year.

It was Tex who raised the surprisingly large sums of money which made the league so comparatively affluent during its first season. It was Tex who arranged the schedules, got field permits, engaged umpires, bought equipment, lined up sponsors. It was Tex who organized the junior division of the league and paid the bills.

It was Tex who personally called men of comparative means in the community and asked for financial support in reviving organized sports in Providence. And if Tex finally bogged down under the sheer weight of all the things he had to do and the lack of support he was given, who can dare to say he could have done better?

Naturally, during the course of the season there were those who criticized some of Tex's acts, or lack of them. For example, the team that finished on top in the first half of the season was put out when the original schedule was continued until the end of the year and that championship was lost. A playoff club that had to play two games in one day while another club drew a bye took it out on Tex. Some complained that the league rules were not properly set up. And so on down the line.

These same critics, who blamed me personally along with Tex, and often more than Tex, forgot that the league delegates did the voting on the rearrangement of the schedule, that an honest flip of a two-sided coin decided who would draw the bye—and, most important, that no one in his right mind could expect a perfect administrative setup in one year, when no one knew a thing about organizing a league, and when we agreed in advance we would have to do the best we could and benefit by our first year's mistakes.

It may not be generally known, but supporting the softball league meant a personal sacrifice to Tex. Until 1948, the commissioner never missed a Sunday at Sessions Street field. He liked to play along with the younger fellows and he looked forward to it. Realizing that a league would force him to the sidelines, he still became one of the staunchest supporters of the plan to organize.

It is not known, too, that being commissioner cost Tex some money personally. He has never bragged or complained about it, but I know it to be true.

Teams looking forward to a bigger and better league this year may be interested to learn that Tex already has several prospective sponsors lined up for 1949. That means a head start over last year, when sponsors could not be sure what they were letting themselves in for.

If I had any criticism of Tex, it would have to be that he spoiled us. If not for Tex, the league would have operated on a shoestring and few of us would have even dreamed of purchasing all that equipment, getting all those sponsors, and the like. Most of the players expected at the start to dig down in their pockets for whatever they needed. Tex saved them that and provided more wealth than they had thought possible. Inevitably, a few imagined they had been born with a silver spoon in their softball mouth and the more they

By SIDNEY GREEN

On September 20, the first night of bowling, the Levines won four points and never relinquished first place, finally being crowned champs of the first half on December 20th with a total of 45 points.

Following in order of their finish were the Gordons—38, Rodyns—31, Cohens—28, Lobels—24, Jacobsons—23, Avens—21, and the Schwartzes—14.

Going into the second half, our keggers will attempt to better records established by Rodyn and Co.—holding a single string score of 582, the Gordons' 1654 mark for total pinfall, Joe Schwartz's very neat 395 for three strings, and the high single string score of 157 held by Curly Jacobson.

got the more they wanted. Rabinowitz also worked hard at organizing a banquet at the end of the season. Tentative plans were made, but fell through because of—surprisingly enough—financial reasons. Tex wanted to provide the banquet free of charge for the players, and it was that thought that motivated his preparations. Better luck next time.

Anyway, a commissioner is not appointed for just one year. I hope Tex will head our league—and its affiliates—for a long time. But I also hope that he gets some help next year. It is not a one-man job, and any man who tries to do it all by himself is (1) nuts; (2) worthy of all the support he can get.

Let's see that Tex gets it.

Daughterhood Bowling

By RUTH TANENBAUM

This last Tuesday night really proved how popular bowling is with us. We have three substitutes and could only use two. While the bowling provides good opportunity for reducing, the post-bowling sessions at local diners offset the few precious ounces lost on the alleys.

Pool winners for the week ran, or rolled, thusly: Doris Levin won the first game in her set with a lofty 97, and Eleanor Jacobson took top honors in her division with 92. Doris slipped to 82 in the second string but still won, while Harriet Keller supplanted El with 95. Doris Graubart hit 100 to win the third pool and Harriet just missed with 96.

Sophie Tucker Gives Library Her Memoirs

NEW YORK—Sixty-year-old Sophie Tucker, looking like Winston Churchill dressed as a Gibson Girl, made the first visit in her life to the New York Public Library this week. She didn't borrow a book. She presented Ralph A. Beals, library director, with her personal collection of scrapbooks.

The collection covers 41 years in show business. More than 2000 books filled three trunks and a wicker hamper. They will be added to the vaudeville section of the library's theatre department.

"I started this collection the day I came to New York from Hartford in 1906," Sophie boomed. "I got on the Park Circuit and then I was shouting my head off at the old German Village, 46th St. and Broadway.

Pasted Notices After Work

"I got home about 8 a. m., and before I went to sleep I'd paste every card or notice of every day's work in one of these books. First one I used was actually a bank clerk's ledger I got at the five-and-ten.

"I didn't hell around. I was too broke and I had too far to go. Maybe I'd get $10 a night, so I'd come home and worry about the next ten bucks. But if a girl was dreaming of dates in those days, she was probably dreaming of Otis Skinner or Lew Fields. They were around and they sure looked good."

La Tucker's scrapbooks are remarkably complete and colorful mementos of successive ages in show business, and especially of the two eras Sophie loves best to remember—the Park Circuit era, up to 1912, and the five years from 1916 to '21 she was warbling at Reisenweber's where she popularized "Some of These Days."

The main sentimental treasures of her collection, she said, are the records of her two command performances before the late King George V of England. The first one was at the Hippodrome, in London, in 1922. The second was at the Palladium, but Sophie couldn't remember what year. She is also sentimental about the souvenirs of her late personal maid, Molly, who traveled with her all over Europe and the U. S. before death separated them in 1938.

BB Young Women Collect Clothing

Used clothing for distribution to four needy families was collected at the last meeting of the Roger Williams Chapter, B'nai B'rith Young Women. The collection took place at the home of Barbara Cohen. Hilda Barad was chairman, assisted by Miss Cohen. Articles collected included all kinds of wearing apparel from shoes to jewelry.

A party was held last Wednesday evening at the Jewish Home for the Aged under the chairmanship of Edith Koffler and Eileen Dubin. The Young Women sponsor one affair each month for the entertainment of the residents at the Home.

SAYS DP LAW FAIR

NEW YORK—Rep. Ed Gossett of Texas, a member of the House Judiciary Committee which will handle any new Displaced Persons law in the 81st Congress, defended the much-criticized 1948 Refugee law as "fair and workable."

Gossett said last week, it was not to the best interests of the

U. S. to open its door to more immigrants, particularly DPs whom he called the "least deserving and desirable."

Switching a Short Hairdo

Only few ways to wear new short haircuts are possible. Jean Worth (above) has hers waved and simply brushed back here.

YOU can change your casual short hairdo in almost a twinkling into a glamorous evening coiffure by pinning on a braid or bangs from a cellophane package. There are dozens of ways of doing your hair with these (they come in 36 shades). You can wear them high or low, in front or back. The back, by the way, is a good place for the braid or curl-bang when the hairs there have grown in shaggily. The short hairpiece, called Conover Career Curls, can be worn as a cluster of dress-up curls, or arranged in bangs, whichever is most becoming. The important thing about the hairpieces: They offer ways of changing a hairdo quickly to suit mood or occasion.

Mrs. Pilavin To Tell Story Of "M-Day"

Mrs. Albert Pilavin, chairman of the Women's Division in the 1948 campaign of the General Jewish Committee, has been invited to be one of the principal speakers at a special National Women's Division session to take place in Atlantic City on Thursday, January 13, in connection with the National Conference of the United Jewish Appeal. The invitation to Mrs. Pilavin came by telephone from Mrs. Ernest C. Wadel of Dallas, Texas, who is national chairman of the U.J.A. Women's Division.

"M-Day", the whirlwind one-day house to house solicitation of the Women's Division, took place on Sunday, September 26, and has received nationwide attention as a novel fund-raising device. Providence residents will recall this high-spot in the campaign when over 400 women assembled on a Sunday morning and covered 2900 prospects, doubling the amount of money received from the same prospects in the previous year. There has been considerable interest expressed in this type of one-day campaign by other communities. Providence is the first city in the country to have used this unique idea.

Mrs. Pilavin, speaking for the women of Providence, will tell of the local experience. The three local chairmen of "M-Day" were Mrs. Bertram Bernhardt, Mrs.

Center Players to Cast Three Plays

A novel program will be presented as the main attraction at the Center Players' meeting on Monday evening, January 10, at 8:15 o'clock at the Jewish Community Center. Preparations for the casting and production of three one-act plays will highlight the business portion of the meeting. A proposed program for the year will be submitted to the group.

The Players' radio workshop committee reported this week that arrangements are under way for a radio audition at a local station, and that a weekly half-hour show will soon be a regular feature of the organization.

Under a new plan adopted at the last meeting, new members who have not previously been in the group, will be auditioned as a requirement for membership, although it is specified that lack of experience will not in itself bar participation in the Players' activities. The auditions will serve mainly as an index of the members' interests and abilities. New members will be prepared for their auditions by the casting and auditions committee before making an appearance before the group. Each applicant will be auditioned at the second meeting he or she attends. All members must, however, be paid-up members of the Jewish Community Center.

Committees named at the last meeting include the following: Publicity—Nat Swartz, Providence, and Irving Espo, Pawtucket; Casting and Auditions—Morris Percelay, chairman, and Bernice Bernstein; and Gerald A. Oster, director, and Syd Cohen, ex-officio; Program—Irving Espo, chairman, Edith Fink and Thelma Blumenthal; Radio Workshop—Barbara Feinstein; Play Reading—Dorothy Klemer and Bernice Bernstein.

All those interested in the Players are invited to attend Monday's meeting.

GJC Fund Hits New High; Plan Celebration

With the appointment this week of a closing celebration committee to arrange final details for the GJC's combined meeting-dance on Wednesday evening, January 19, the greatest fund-raising campaign in the history of greater Providence was ready to write "well done" at the bottom of its ledger.

As this week's Herald went to press, an even $1,125,000 had poured into General Jewish Committee headquarters since the 1948 "Year of Destiny" campaign was officially launched last September.

"Mopping up" activities were still in progress and officials were hopeful that last-minute gifts from tardy contributors might raise the total another five or 10 thousand before the final report on the night of January 19, at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

One conclusion was obvious: Providence's contribution to the United Jewish Appeal, major beneficiary of the local drive, will be the largest in the 10 years that have passed since the UJA came into being.

In keeping with the tenor of the occasion, members of the Closing Celebration committee were hinting that a novel form of entertainment might complement the traditional final report. No details were available as to the nature of the entertainment but it was evident that a streamlined program of activity was being planned for the affair.

Alvin A. Sopkin, campaign chairman who also is heading up the Closing Celebration committee, this week announced the names of his co-workers in charge of the evening's program. They included:

Mrs. Bertram Bernhardt, Mrs. Harry Fowler, Mrs. Charles Reitman, Mrs. Burton Finberg, Leonard Chaset, Edward Deitch, Jules Goldsmith, Irving Kritz and Milton Kay.

Following the brief business meeting—to which all workers and contributors are being invited—the ballroom of the hotel will be cleared and additional entertainment, as well as music and dancing, will be the order of the night.

Pointing out that the January 19 affair will be "a tribute to our workers as well as a victory celebration," Mr. Sopkin this week paid high praise to the hundreds of volunteer workers who "so willingly gave of their time and efforts that the 1948 drive established an all-time high for any philanthropic endeavor ever launched by any group in this community."

Emanuel Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

A rubber shoe sales distributor by the name of William Lipson has captured the high single with a magnificent 158, and now Billy needs only a little more snow. This high single honor has changed hands no less than five times. Previous holders were Lang at 151, Press 149, Gordon 144, Ed Lavines' Indians appear to be holding on to that top spot, with Billy Dwares' Cards next, only one game behind.

Good three string scorers were Milt Stahlman 354, Sam Green 351, Markoff 338, Muddy Waldman 335, and Nate Weiss 325. Good single strings were Joe Waldman 130, Jos Primack 132, and Sam Chase 138.

Geo Miller and Stahlman pulled a triple strike last Monday night, the third time this season in which bowlers have done just that little thing.

Circle Bowling

By DORIS SIEGL

Although slow in getting started, Lou Rottenberg is now one of our high scorers, getting 105 in his first string. Also getting high scores in their first strings were Larry Carner with 106, Doris Siegl, 101, and Rosalie Jacobs, 94.

Permanent teams will be formed Monday and those wishing to join may do so at this time.

Around Town

With ARLENE SUMMER

This is Special

It's always a pleasure for me to report the announcement of an engagement, and they're not rare in my column; but to report this engagement gives me a real thrill, for the man in this case is my own brother, Erwin, and the girl is Sybil Ganzer. Erwin chose New Year's Eve as the night to give Sybil the ring. They were celebrating with friends—ten married couples.

New Year's Eve Party

New Year's Eve parties naturally highlighted the week's events. Bea Genser was one who greeted the New Year with friends at her home. Among the 20 couples were Normie Levine, Barbara Manheim, Claire Gornstein, Harold Krasnow, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Factor, and Teddy Manheim.

What? Another?

You'd think that after celebrating New Year's Eve she'd have had enough parties, but Arlene Miller gave a party the night after the big night, too! This one was in honor of Helene Sharad who leaves for California on January 17.

Quiet New Year's Eve

It was at 3:20 on the afternoon of December 28 that Lou Baker slipped an engagement ring on the finger of Priscilla Dressler. Priscilla and Lou planned to spend a quiet evening with just a few couples at her home on New Year's Eve; but the "quiet evening" turned into a little more than that when dozens of people chose that time to offer congratulations. The couple figured that they said "thank you" at least 100 times that night!

Must Have Been Funny!

Friends of Harold Sugarman are still laughing as they recall the entertainment he provided on New Year's Eve. It was at a party in the Colonial Room of the Crown Hotel to celebrate both the New Year and the 21st birthday of "Buzzy" Labush.

Celebrate in Florida

The Dave Steingolds and the Charles Steingolds left last Sunday for Florida where they will spend the month of January. They arrived there in time to celebrate the Dave Steingolds' 17th wedding anniversary on January 3.

Bridal Luncheon

About 65 women were guests at a luncheon given by Mrs. Louis Sackett in honor of her daughter, Barbara, held Monday in the French Room of the Crown Hotel. The centerpiece of the head table caused many "oohs" and "ahs" among the guests. It was a bridal procession of tiny dolls dressed in crepe paper outfits—there was even a rabbi. A tiny doll dressed as a bride was given to each guest as a souvenir. Mrs. Arthur Galkin deserves credit for the centerpiece and souvenirs.

Barbara will be married on January 16 to Edward Berman.

Visits Providence

Barbara Siegel, daughter of the Louis Siegels of Cass Street, visited her parents during the vacation week. Barbara is a decorator and designer in New York.
