Ship 20,000 Pounds Of Food to Israel

Committee Thanks Volunteer Workers

The "Food for Israel Collection", jointly sponsored by all organizations in the city and run during the week of Chanukah, was completed last Sunday when the committee under the chairmanship of Norman Alper collected from the various depots and shipped to New York approximately 20,000 pounds of canned goods. This will immediately be prepared for overseas shipment to Israel.

Alper reported that the committee had an extremely busy day going from one depot to the other throughout the city loading trucks with the canned goods that had been contributed by the Jewish residents of the state. The cartons had been sorted and packed in the five categories requested. The majority of items were canned milk and canned fish, which are very much needed in Israel.

In a statement issued this week, Alper said, "Food for Israel" is grateful to all who contributed of their goods, time, and effort to this food collection. We wish particularly to thank the young men and young women of the Henry Burt Chapter, Labor Zionist Organization of America, who so generously gave their time and physical work to make this collection possible. While every man and woman participating deserves the highest praise, we would like to draw special attention to the excellent job performed by the ladies of the Sisterhood of Congregation Sons of Abraham. Jewish Figures In Important Posts

Reorganization of the House and Senate at the State House brought several attorneys into the limelight last week, while in Providence City Hall a Jewish doctor was named to one of the more important posts in the city.

At the State House, Archie Smith is the assistant attorney general, holding one of the key posts in the administration. Maurice W. Hendel is the law revision assistant, having been appointed by Secretary of State Armand H. Cote. The post carries the unofficial title of chief law writer for the administration. Leonard Kamaras is the new reading clerk under the Democrats and Max Levin of Newport is a roving clerk in the Senate.

Earlier, Mayor Dennis J. Roberts named Dr. Joseph Smith to succeed the late Dr. Michael J. Nestor as superintendent of health for the city of Providence. Dr. Smith had served for several years in the health department as an assistant to Dr. Nestor.

Sopkin, chairman of the campaign, announced that a special committee is working on a novel type of streamlined program which will be presented in dramatic form. It is planned that the major part of the evening will be devoted to dancing and entertainment, and that speech-making will be at a minimum. He pointed out that "The January 19 affair will be a tribute to all workers as well as a victory celebration, and we want everyone to have a very enjoyable time." Music will be furnished by Al and Irving Rosen's Orchestra.

At the same time, Sopkin issued a strong appeal to any workers

Unbecoming Modesty

One oft-heard criticism of local communal organizations—and indeed, even of those on a national level—is that too often the membership is not informed of the decisions made or the policies to be followed.

This criticism does not necessarily mean that the members are in disagreement with the policies which their respective organizations embrace. It merely expresses a desire on the part of those who pay dues and attend meetings to know what is going on.

For many years there has seemed to exist in Providence a tendency for the officers and board members of our communal agencies to keep their deliberations and decisions out of the public eye. Some may have felt that the public was not interested, or that the matters discussed did not need or merit publicity. Others may simply have overlooked the fact that someone might be interested in what goes on at these councils, where important decisions and policies are made.

The writer has attended several board meetings of various organizations in recent months and has noted that seldom, if at all, have the matters discussed at these sessions been reported to the general membership or the public.

It would seem to be the duty, not the choice, of any organization that claims to represent all, or part of, the Jews in the city to make public the deliberations made in its board rooms. After all, these officers and boards do not represent a limited group, but the entire population that is affiliated with the agency.

In line with this reasoning, we are happy to note that the Jewish Home for the Aged has come forward with a publicity campaign designed to acquaint the Jewish people of Rhode Island with all the workings and goings on of this growing agency.

The action of the Home for the Aged means that every person in the state, whether he is a member of the Home or not, will have the opportunity to become acquainted with that institution, know what it is like, what it is doing, who its heads are and what its program is for the future. It is the best possible means of creating interest, and it fosters a more virile concept of what the Home stands for and its impact on the community.

The officers and Board at the Home are to be congratulated for their democratic action, and it is to be hoped that others soon will follow suit.

What Is Britain Up To?

What has Britain been up to in Egypt? It is "hard to understand," William L. Shirer said Sunday on his WOR-Mutual program.

"The British government, for instance, complains bitterly that Israel troops crossed over into Egyptian territory. What did the British expect? Egypt had invaded Israel and tried to destroy it. The British never protested that. And in the course of driving the Egyptian army out, the Israeli forces pursued it across the border and thus, for three days or so, were on Egyptian territory. Is that not legitimate warfare?"

"Last week," Shirer said, "the British ambassador called on Under Secretary of State Lovett and told him that if Israeli forces did not withdraw from Egyptian territory, the British government would have to consider its position under its treaty of alliance with Egypt of 1936"—which the Egyptians themselves "had denounced ... and did not consider in force. In fact, last Aug. 22 the late prime minister of Egypt told the Security Council ... that the Egyptian government considered the 1936 treaty as invalid ... Now, the British government invokes a dead treaty presumably to justify its own military intervention against Israel."

A Case of Self-Hate

There are both tragedy and irony in the case of a Jew who brought a federal court suit to compel the Reform Temple in Miami Beach to halt its services. The Plaintiff, Daniel G. Arnstein, contends that the congregation, holding services next door to his $225,000 estate, had depreciated the value of his property and that large Friday night "crowds" have been "disturbing" him. That the congregation's services have always been quiet and dignified and that Arnstein's charges have been denied both by Jews and non-Jews in the Miami community, are only part of the story.

It is tragic enough that a Jew should resort to court action in an attempt to halt Jewish religious services, indifferent to them though he may be. What is ironic in this situation is the fact that Arnstein, during the war, was considered to be something of a hero. A multi-millionaire owner of a fleet of taxis, Arnstein was called upon by the Government to aid in planning the Burma Road in the CBI theatre of operations. When the Road was built—mostly by the brawn of Negro GIs—Arnstein was hailed as having made a great contribution to the war effort. Magazines devoted "profiles" to him and at least one cartoon strip was turned out glorifying his effort. He was also played up as a Jew who rendered notable service to his country.

And now this "war idol" is shattered by the hammer of self-hate.

"One Man's Opinion"

To the Doctors

By BERNARD SEGAL

This column is dedicated to the many friends of the medical profession whom I have come to respect and to admire, through daily associations.

The Jewish Publication Society of America has recently published two volumes by Cecil Roth on the remarkable adventures of a Maranno family. "The House of Nasi," an aunt and her nephew who wielded unprecedented power in the court of the Sultan of Turkey, in the middle of the sixteenth century. Of these two books I hope to write on another occasion.

One of the minor characters in the book, a physician, attracts attention every time his name appears on the pages of the narrative. Of this physician I want to talk today, and I am sure that my friends, the doctors, will read this with no small degree of pride in a distinguished member of their profession.

Amatus Lusitanus was a son of Maranno parents of Portugal. When the Inquisition suspected them of observing Mosaic laws in secret, they fled, like so many other New Christians, to the Netherlands. Amatus studied medicine, and contributed no little to the profession of his age. He not only practiced, but also taught at Medical Schools, published studies on the structure of the blood vessels, and was the physician at the Vatican during the days of Pope Julius the Third, in the 1550's.

It was in Salonica, Turkey, where he finally returned to the faith of his fathers, and finished his seven volumes of notes which he called Centuriae. In them he describes in great details the many case histories that he encountered during his brilliant career, as well as many side glances on life and personalities of his days, and his experiences during his wandering in Europe and in Asia.

Among his writings is a remarkable Physicians Testament, which the censors of those days suppressed, and which is reproduced in the second book of The House of Nasi. I will quote here some of the most striking passages:

"I swear by God the Almighty and Eternal, and by his most holy Ten Commandments given on Mount Sinai by the hand of Moses the lawgiver, after the people of Israel had been freed from the bondage of Egypt, that I have never in my medical practice departed from what has been handed down in good faith to us and posterity; that I have never practiced deception, I have never overstated or made changes for the sake of gain; I have given my services in equal manner to all, to Hebrews, Christians and to Moslems. Loftiness of station has never influenced me and I have accorded the same care to the poor as to those of exalted rank.

"I have never produced disease. In stating my opinion, I have always told what I believed to be true. I have never revealed a secret entrusted to me. I have endured the loss of private fortune, and have suffered frequent and dangerous journeys and even exile with calmness and unflinching courage, as befits a philosopher.

"I have published my medical works not to satisfy ambition, but that I might, in some measure, contribute to the furtherance of the health of mankind.

"The many students who have come to me have all been regarded as though they were my sons; I have used my best efforts to instruct them and urge them to good conduct.

"I have been diligent and have allowed nothing to divert me from the study of good authors.

"I have done nothing which might be considered unbecoming an honorable and distinguished physician, having always held Hippocrates and Galen before me as examples worthy of imitation and not having scorned the precepts of many other excellent practitioners of our art."

A monument to this physician, who died of the plague in 1568, was preserved on the Jewish cemetery of Salonica, up to our own times. During World War II, when civilization reached an all time low, the ancient cemetery was desecrated and all the grave stones destroyed. Dr. Lusitanus' monument disappeared without a trace. But does a man who left the above Testimony need a monument of stone or marble?

As long as men and women of Medical art follow his example, the name of Amatus Lusitanus will not be forgotten.

"Buck" Jones, cowboy actor reported among the dead in that Boston night club fire in 1942, told the Newark (O) Advocate he isn't dead. News services should follow this up—to make sure the claimant is Buck ... Tito Schipa, the Fascist, took out his first citizenship papers last month. Please ask the U. S. Immigration Dept. to look up his Mussolini record ... Lucien Ballard (Merle Oberon's ex) and the former Lorelle McCarver have called it "30" in Paree ... Kurt Singer's new tome, "3000 Years of Espionage," was published on Pearl Harbor Day ... Major M. R. Samuel has succeeded his late pater (the head of Shell Oil) as Lord Bearsted. ... Nearly all of N. A tennistar has been jailed in Texas on embezzlement charges ... Linda Darnell was told to leave her colored maid in California during the filming of 20th's "Slattery's Hurricane" in Miami. Sophie Tucker always brings hers ... All the new hotels (but one) in Miami Beach have run out of money and are begging for 2nd mortgage coin. ... Gov.-Elect Fuller Warren brought the Runyon Fund his $500 in person!

Our Best False Friend Dept.: We skimmed over a hooked-up rap printed about us (the other day) just to observe that the knocker was the recipient of several requested "lifts" through the years ... Girl Friday (who has a memory like a memory) just put the following on our desk. It was written by the chap in 1943: "My dear Walter: Thanks very much. The item about needing blood (for the baby and my wife) brought in so many donors the Margaret Hague Maternity Hosp wishes your good readers would give their lab technicians a rest. Elinor has had 8 transfusions, but she is sitting up. Gratitude, Walter, is like a Summer breeze; you can feel its warmth, but you can never see it or describe it. Love, Jim." Oh, that's all right, kid. You must have needed the money very badly. Forget it.

One of the tastier lookie-cookies in the flickers is Geraldine Brooks. She can also act ... This is the time of the year when gazettes and mags waste space listing the best-this-or-that-of-the-year. ... The hoary feature should be bottled and peddled as a sleeping potion ... Television's progress has many radio gee-whizzers jumpy ... There will always be room for radio programs, however ... Indications are that 1949 will be a year of progress in our sports life, and there will be future columns to substantiate that claim.

Harold Hersch made a suggestion to me several weeks ago that, if adopted, would contribute to our progress for the year, and I'd like to make it my topic for this week.

Any athletic team or club, no matter who or what or when, is under a distinct disadvantage if it wants to play on the city's fields on a Sunday because of a city ordinance that prohibits playing before 12 noon. The Recreation Department will tell you frankly that if you want to play ball before noon you will have to take your chances on getting the field, and then hope that the police will not uphold the law. You simply cannot obtain a permit for a field until 12 o'clock.

That is a distinct disadvantage to the Jewish boys, especially, who like to get their games played from 9:30 to 12 or 1 and then devote the rest of the afternoon to other activities. It is unfair and outmoded and should be abolished.

Providence has long been noted for its blue laws. However, the shade of blue in recent years has lightened considerably. For instance, way back in the dim recesses of my childhood I recall the time when you could not attend motion pictures in this city. The statutes were so strict at that time that you would probably be arrested for appearing on the streets on Sunday without a tie.

Athletic contests were simply unheard of. There was no recreation of any sort and Sunday was held inviolate. But that was more than 20 years ago. Now, you may take in a movie and see professional sports and even play ball yourself and nobody will object. To my knowledge the police have never bothered anyone who played ball on Sunday morning. The softball league and the football league played Sunday mornings this year and in previous years without trouble, even though the old Sessions Street playground was on the same block with Precinct 6.

If the blue laws have been relaxed to such a degree, why not go all the way and open up Sunday entirely. Unofficially, there is Sunday morning ball. Officially, you cannot get a permit. It just doesn't add up.

All that it accomplishes now is to make it uncertain whether a scheduled game can be played, unless a few boys get up at the crack of dawn and reserve the field by the simple expedient of hanging around and going through the motions until the rest of the gang arrive. The softball league did have some trouble on that score a few times, having, as a result, to transfer some games to other and inferior fields, without notifying the league or the fans of the switch, because some other group beat us to the punch.

The suggestion, as Hersch made it to me, is for the players and all others who are interested to buttonhole their city councilmen and ask that they work toward the repeal of the present law.

It seems to me that it would be a perfectly reasonable and logical request for us to make of our city government. After all, Sunday is not the holy day of the Jewish people. For us, it is a day of relaxation or anything else we care to call it. We do not play ball on our own Sabbath and there seems to be no honest reason why we should not be allowed to play ball officially on Sunday when we do already play unofficially.

I think Harold's idea of contacting the individual city councilmen is the best means of solving the problem. It means a letter or a call to the councilman in your own district to tell him of your views and to urge that he introduce a bill in the Council or get together with other councilmen in the sponsorship of such a bill.

I don't expect that as the result of one column everyone will buttonhole his councilman. But the idea is presented here for the first time. It may be mentioned again. And we might even work on the idea of an open letter to the council or a signed petition.

For the present, however, I would like to see what the public reaction is to the idea and then we will take it from there.

On Wednesday evening, January 19 Words Unlimited, Rhode Island's association of sports writers and sportscasters, will hold its third annual award dinner at Johnson's Hummocks Grille on Allens Avenue. Awards will be presented to the athletes judged most outstanding in 1948 by the members of the association. Walter (Red) Smith, sports columnist of the New York Herald Tribune, will be guest speaker.

Tickets to the affair are available to the public in limited quantity at five dollars per person. As a member of Words Unlimited, I am authorized to take ticket reservations. Those who are interested in attending the affair may call me at the Herald office or at my home, PL 1869.

Beth El Bowling

By JACK APPELBAUM
For a number of weeks, Milt Weissman's team has been consistently winning four points per night. It has been getting monotonous, not to mention frightening, to their opponents. I have been looking forward to the column where I could change the tune. Well, last Thursday, what do you think happened? Milt's team won four points again!

Young Charlie Silverman's team, composed largely of bachelors (plus two young married men), with the energy and vigor generally associated with youth, plus the immeasurably powerful right arm of young Sumner Pomeranz, set a new high team three of 1875. Wow! The young married men are Paul Paris and Eddie Sofor-enko. The bachelors are Nat Surdat, Ira Pincus, Sumner Pomeranz and Captain Charlie Silverman. Boys, please get married and give us older fellows a chance, huh?

Speaking of bachelors, one of the most improved bowlers of the league is our perennial bachelor, Aaron Sutton. He's handsome, debonair, dashing—I don't understand it. What's the matter with the girls in this town??

No column on bachelors would be complete without mentioning the likeable, smiling, friendly Victor Gold. If you ever feel depressed and low, talk to Vic. I guarantee he'll give you a lift no matter what his own troubles are. Always ready with a joke and a smile.

Well, enough of bachelors. Next week ... oddities. Stay in touch with me.

Chaim Weizmann

BELOVED PRESIDENT OF ISRAEL TELLS HIS OWN STORY!

Under the Sponsorship of the R. I. Zionist Region

With Infinite Pride The Jewish Herald Brings You Complete In One Issue "Trial and Error"—the Brilliant and Heroic Autobiography of the Man Who Rose From the Ghetto to Become One of the World's Great Scientists and Statesmen.

Here is the fascinating story of the creation of the new State of Israel, told through the autobiography of the man who influenced it most. Now, in his own words, Chaim Weizmann reveals the full story of the British dealings on Palestine ... how Zionism was saved from destruction ... the real reason for Arab resistance in Palestine ... the rise of American Zionism ... and, with the scientist-statesman's keen perception, the meaning and the destiny of the new state. Here, too, is the equally significant story of the scientist. The man whose genius helped win two world wars and who is now devoted to the exciting struggle to make the stubborn, wasted land flourish once again.

Honor the Memory Of Those You Love

The Jewish Home for the Aged offers you an opportunity to remember in a thoughtful and lasting manner departed relatives and friends through its Memorial Fund. Your contribution to the Memorial Fund will purchase a bronze Memorial Plate in our Synagogue, with the English and Hebrew name and day of death of the departed.

Special prayers are recited in our synagogue on the Yahrzeit day and four times a year at Yizkor Services in memory of the departed dear ones. Besides honoring their memory in a fitting way, you are helping a worthwhile charitable cause, the welfare of the aged and infirm.

Contemplate Increase in Bed Capacity

Because of the crowded conditions at the Home and the increasing number of applications, Jacob I. Felder, president of the Jewish Home for the Aged, suggested the possibility of increasing the bed capacity at the Home by some alterations on the first floor. By re-location of bathroom facilities and offices, and by possible use of the Board Room, from seven to eight additional beds could be provided on the first floor.

The suggestion found favorable response at a recent board meeting and upon motion duly made and seconded it was unanimously voted that the president appoint a committee to present suggestions on this problem at the next meeting of the Board.

Ira Rakatansky, architect, has offered to draw up some plans whereby the additional beds could be added at a relatively low cost.

RAZOR BLADE...

... so why not keep warm with a TRADEMARKED COAL?

When you find a razor blade that satisfies, you ask for that same brand every time—and depend on the trademark to protect you against substitution. Why not try the "trademark way" when buying coal?

When you call us for red trademarked Famous Reading Anthracite, you get a better Pennsylvania anthracite. Then notice how long a ton lasts... and how little attention it requires. Once you've tried it you'll want it again. And the tiny red trademark spots—put right on the coal—will be your assurance that you're getting what you ask for.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

As we approach the completion of the first half of the league competition, Conn. holds a substantial lead over Army, and if the handicap given them holds out, there should be little chance of dislodging them from the top for this portion of the race.

Our new system of splitting the season into two distinct competitive races, should work out well as the teams that are far down in the standings will have an opportunity to start afresh in competition for first place.

Jerry Dressler really went to work this week as he turned in 353 for high three, edging out Sam Segal who had 349; Myrowitz and Steiner both turned in nice scores of 334 and 328 respectively.

High single went to Segal 148, followed by Steiner 128 and J. Dressler 124.

Olympic Bowling

By TEDI GREEN

MAZELTOV!!! The first half of our season is in the record book with the Levines in first place and the dark horse team, the Hochmans, taking over the second spot followed by the Steingolds and the Zawatskys. The Levines took most of the top honors also during the past nine weeks with high team total pinfall of 1275, and Capt. Rita Levine owning the high single and high three marks with 113 and 295 respectively—the only top score they haven't achieved is high team single which the Steingolds claim with 448.

High single mark for the night was rolled by Elsie Zipkin with a 96 while other good scores were made by Ida Bernstein—94, June Winn—95, and Lillian Zawatsky—91.

Daughterhood Bowling

By RUTH TANENBAUM

It took a guest bowler and a birth in the family to produce some high scores at last week's session. The results were so good we should have more guests and more births.

Betty Rice, star bowler of the City Hall Hardware, joined us just for last week. She won the second string with a scintillating 115 and paced her team in the third with a neat 107. While Betty was warming up, Flo Blilik and Lil Tarsky won the first pool with 83.

Meanwhile, Harriet Keller had announced that she intended to win all three strings from her team in honor of the birth of a niece ... so she won the first with 88, the second with 91 and the third with 99. Team-mate Eleanor Jacobson tied her on the last one, however.

Roumanian Cong. Celebrates Monday

The 52nd anniversary celebration of the Roumanian Congregation Ahavath Sholom, one of the oldest organizations in Providence, will be held Monday.

Organized in 1897, primarily for religious purposes, the congregation also arranges benefits for its members.

Present officers are: Louis Goldstein, president; Israel Winoker, vice president; Joseph Kotlen, treasurer; Max Hercov, secretary.

Among the committee arranging the affair are Louis Urban,

Myer Urban, Samuel Klepper and Louis Feiner.

TO SHOW MOVIE

The movie, "Of Those, Our People", an historical survey of the outstanding achievements of Americans Jewry, will be shown at the next meeting of the Pawtucket Ladies Aid and the Sisterhood of Congregation Ohawe Sholom, Monday at 8 o'clock in the vestry. Mrs. Leonard Paster is the hostess-chairman of the meeting.

things to remember when calling former West numbers

- 1 All former WEST numbers are now either ELmhurst or TEmple.
 - 2 When calling numbers you know were formerly in the West exchange area, use the new West Area Directory Supplement recently delivered to you.
 - 3 For all other numbers in the Providence and Pawtucket area, use the regular Directory.
- If, when looking up an unfamiliar number in the regular Directory, you find it listed as WEST, remember that this number has now been changed. Look up the new ELmhurst or TEmple number in the West Area Supplement.
- 4 Before you dial, listen for the dial tone—a steady hum-m-m. When you hear it, dial carefully the two letters and four figures of the complete number.

With the replacement of the West exchange by ELmhurst and TEmple, all Providence telephone users now enjoy speedy, modern dial service. This change is a step towards a more efficient numbering plan for the Providence area due next Spring. It also paves the way for other improvements in service, such as operator long distance dialing.

McDonald to Address Beth-El Brotherhood

Hugh McDonald, Irish-American who was an active fighter on the side of the Haganah before the establishment of the State of Israel, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Brotherhood of Temple Beth-El on Tuesday evening, January 18 at 8:15 o'clock. McDonald's subject will be: "Israel: War and Politics".

HUGH McDONALD

An entertaining and colorful speaker, McDonald is well qualified to discuss matters relating to the Jewish state. During the British blockade of the Palestinian coast, he volunteered as a member of the merchant marine engaged in ferrying former DP inmates to waiting settlements in Israel. He toured the country for the United Jewish Appeal during the recent campaign and appeared in Providence in 1948.

Tuesday's meeting will take place in the vestry and the public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

Olympic Bowling

By SIDNEY GREEN
 Vim, Vigor, and Vitality marked the opening of the second half of our 28 week schedule with optimism running high among all the captains as evidenced by some of the quotes—Rodyn: "We'll win more than we lose". ... Cohen: "The boys gotta stop listening to all the heckling." ... Gordon: "If I could only trade H. Frank." ... Aven: "We'll finish among the first eight".

Joe Schwartz said, "Just watch our smoke this half", and then his gang proceeded to take four points from the Lobels—the Rodyns and Jacobsons took three points each from the Levines and Avens respectively and the Cohens and Gordons split ... the Schwartz keglers were really hot as they took high team single honors—547 and high team three—1594, and team-mate Ruby Polack was tops for the nite with a single string score of 133 and a total pinfall of 373.

Hebrew Day School Seen Gaining Recognition

"The widespread generous response which the first annual donor dinner of the Ladies Association of the Providence Hebrew Day School is meeting demonstrates the way in which the Day School, looked upon with criticism a few short years ago, is now gaining enthusiastic acceptance in this community," Mrs. Isaiah A. Segal said this week.

"A glance at the list of those who have already signed up as donors shows that women from all sections of the community, from all walks of life, from all sections of Jewish thought—reform, conservative and orthodox—Zionists and non-zionists—laborites and culturalists—are realizing the importance of the work which the Day School is doing and admire the success with which it is meeting," Mrs. Segal added.

"Today the school has an enrollment of just under one hundred students and has an enrollment waiting list. Standards are maintained at a high level. The secular educational standing of the classes in the School have received the praise of the assistant superintendent of schools of the City of Providence in charge of primary education and also have been applauded openly time and again by the Director of Education of the State of Rhode Island. The Hebrew education has likewise been complimented by authorities on Hebrew and Religious Educational Leaders.

Miss Gladys Goodman, sister of the bride and maid of honor, was gowned in grey and lime net trimmed with grey satin. Her bouquet was of roses.

Irving Schmuger was best man. Ushers were Leonard Peel, Philip Peel, George Levy, Harry L. Goodman, Sidney J. Goodman and Karlman Goodman.

Mrs. Goodman chose a gown of beaded black crepe. Mrs. Anna Cedar, aunt of the groom, selected a gown of aqua crepe trimmed with sequins. Both wore orchid corsages.

One hundred thirty guests were present from England, Boston, Brockton, Connecticut and Providence. Music was by Al Rosen.

At the Kindergarten
I had an enjoyable afternoon last Saturday when I watched Ruth Saltzman supervising a group of four and five year old children in her kindergarten conducted every Saturday from 2 to 5 o'clock in the basement of her home on Lancaster Street. Fifteen year old Ruth is a capable teacher. She conducts a program which not only entertains but teaches the children. The kids even have their own band—but they all want to play the xylophone.

What a Surprise!
When Eunice Woolf received a post card inviting her and her fiancé to join a newly organized Engaged Couples Club at the Jewish Community Center, she put it aside, deciding she was too busy going to Bryant College and MCing at Club 65 to join any new club. But Everett Kalver, Eunice's fiancé, was determined that they go to the meeting. So they went. The meeting turned out to be a surprise shower for Eunice.

A Birthday
Happy birthday to Helene Markoff who this week celebrated her 19th birthday.
