Morgenthau, Montor Win; Lead UJA

Zionists Pledge To Support Drive

NEW YORK—Henry Morgenthau Jr., former Secretary of the Treasury, announced this week that he had accepted the chairmanship of the 1949 campaign of the United Jewish Appeal. He also headed the campaigns of 1947 and 1948. His announcement ended months of internal conflict that had jeopardized the huge program of aid for Israel and for the relief and rehabilitation of Jews in other areas of the world.

The chairman of the campaign for $250,000,000 said he had named Henry Montor, vice president of the Palestine Economic Corporation and an executive in former campaigns, to conduct the nationwide drive under his leadership.

Mr. Morgenthau's decision followed the action on Monday night of the board of the United Palestine Appeal, a constituent agency, in endorsing the recently announced decisions of the Jewish Agency Executive on the conduct of the campaign.

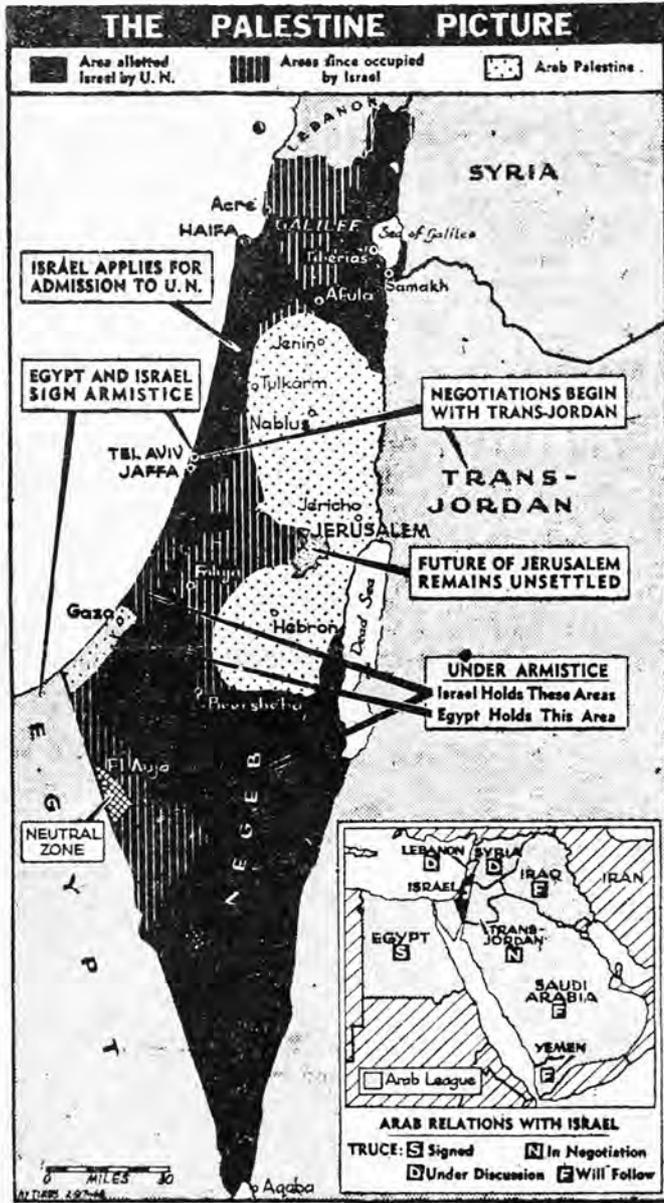

In announcing his acceptance of the chairmanship, Mr. Morgenthau paid warm tribute to Mr. Montor as "my good right arm." He said Mr. Montor had proved himself to be "the best and most devoted fund-raiser for Israel and for the other causes represented

Weizmann to Appear In N. Y. on April 8

TEL AVIV—President Chaim Weizmann of Israel will fly to the United States on April 8 to attend a dinner in New York on April 23 at which President Truman will be present. The dinner, sponsored by the American Friends of the Weizmann Institute of Science, was originally scheduled for February but the opening of the Assembly in Israel forced Dr. Weizmann to delay his trip until the Spring.

Touro to Have Memorial Service

Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen will be the guest speaker at the Touro Fraternal Association memorial services for departed brothers, Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at Touro Hall.

Center Gets $250 From Ganzer Estate

A gift of $250 from the estate of the late Samuel Ganzer was received by the Jewish Community Center, it was announced this week by Raymond G. Franks, president.

Hundreds Visit DPs on Ellis Island

NEW YORK—Eight hundred visitors, laden with boxes and bundles of all descriptions, crowded aboard five special ferryboats to Ellis Island this week to greet and visit with the Jewish refugees who are quartered there on their 15,000-mile journey from China to new homes in Europe and Israel.

Nearly every visitor was burdened with a gift of some kind. As soon as greetings had been exchanged between the friends and relatives the presents were opened and the bare antiseptic chapel, which was used as a meeting room, took on a holiday atmosphere.

Gifts for the 1949 refugees varied from grapefruit juice to plastic tablecloths and from silk clothing to comic books. Many visitors, hearing that their friends could not buy newspapers, brought reading matter of all types. Others, who learned that the travelers' diet had been sparse on their Pacific voyage, concentrated on food.

Immigration officials were somewhat dismayed by the flood of extra belongings that their charges acquired during the day. One officer said, with a philosophical smile, that the service had expected trouble enough, with the 1,600 pieces of luggage already on hand.

Practical problems of transportation, however, were far from the minds of delighted children such as blonde Sarah Nyderberg, 3 years old. She stood quietly in the middle of the noisy room, fascinated with the zipper on her shiny new red-pencil case.

The spirits of the travelers seemed improved after their first full night's sleep since arriving in New York. All seemed anxious to continue their journey.

Russia's Interpretation of U.S.-Israel Loan

MOSCOW—Red Star, official Red Army newspaper, published an article which stated that the $100,000,000 loan to Israel by the U. S. Export-Import Bank and the American Government's de jure recognition of Israel and Transjordan are part of a deal reached between British and American "monopolists" to work "behind the back of the United Nations" in order to create an anti-Soviet Near Eastern bloc and "convert the Middle East into a military base for Anglo-American imperialism."

To Return Oil Experts to Israel

LONDON—The British controlled Consolidated Refineries, Ltd., has alerted fifty of its officials and experts, standing by on Cyprus, to be prepared to return to Israel for the purpose of setting the huge Haifa Refineries in operation again. The return of the British technicians is contingent on signing of a new oil agreement between Britain and Israel.

Race Bias Denied by Medical Group

NEW YORK—The National Physicians Committee denied this week the charges of encouraging racial discrimination that were brought against it Monday night by a standing vote of doctors at the New York County Medical Society.

The charges grew out of a letter circulated by the physicians committee to 160,000 doctors throughout the country. The letter began with the salutation: "Dear Christian American," and was mailed with a covering letter hailing it as "one of the few really vital pronouncements of our age."

The local county medical society adopted a resolution asking the American Medical Association to "deplore" the implied discrimination in the letter and to withdraw its endorsement of the physicians group, which is registered to lobby in Congress.

Resentment Is Reported

After the Monday meeting, it was reported that this action came at least partly as a result of resentment against the AMA for "approving" the letter. Both Jewish and non-Jewish members of the New York County medical society objected to the letter, it was said.

In his office in Chicago John M. Pratt, administrator of the National Physicians Committee, said there was no discrimination implied in the heading.

in the United Jewish Appeal." Pledging all his energies to the success of the campaign, Mr. Morgenthau called upon all elements in the Jewish population to "go forward in a spirit of unity."

"The task in 1949," he continued, "challenges the utmost in effort and ingenuity of every one of us. Never in history has any generation of Jews been given the opportunity to achieve so much in so limited a time."

"We have before us the privilege and the responsibility of bringing at least 250,000 Jews into Israel in 1949. The rate at which they have entered in January and February makes possible an even higher end result—provided we mobilize every resource to keep immigration going."

"We must keep the gates of Israel open in 1949. We must empty the DP camps in 1949. These two tasks must take priority in the American Jewish community budget."

The Zionist Organization of America, whose leaders, Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, former president, and Dr. Emanuel Neumann, present president, have protested the selection of Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Montor and have resigned their positions on the Jewish Agency Executive because of the selection of Mr. Morgenthau, announced yesterday that it was urging its membership to support the Jewish Appeal's campaign despite the controversy.

be a playing manager. He is being counted on to be one of the best catchers in the New England League, and Grays' officials are confident he will work wonders with his handling of the pitching staff, with the emphasis on the development of young hurlers.

A native of Buffalo, Pytlak came up to the Indians in 1932 and was first string catcher in Cleveland until 1940, when he was traded to Boston. He caught for the Sox in 1941 and 1946, the time in between indicating his war service in the Navy. Frankie boasts a lifetime major league batting average of .283 and a fielding average of .991.

The new manager is expected to arrive in Providence next week to sign his contract and become acquainted with his new organization. A major league tie-up is now being sought by the Grays to insure that he will have suitable material with which to work and give Providence a contending ball club.

Menasha Skulnik
Coming to Boston

The current sensation of the New York stage and Broadway night clubs, Comedian Menasha Skulnik, is coming to Boston where he will appear in the stellar title role of "What A Guy", an American-Yiddish musical comedy, which will be presented for only two performances Sunday matinee and evening, March 20, at the Boston Opera House.

"What A Guy" is the work of Abe Ellstein, whose tuneful accomplishment has earned him top-rank position in the musical world.

The play ran for an entire season in New York, where it was acclaimed by the American press as the most tuneful and hilarious musical on any stage.

Commission Calls
For Arab Parley

JERUSALEM—The United Nations Conciliation Commission today invited six Arab states at war with Israel to a conference at Beirut, opening March 21, "to discuss the problem of Arab refugees and possibly other questions concerning peaceful settlement in the Holy Land."

This commission started action on the second of the major issues in the Palestine problem—the refugee question. The trickiest question, the future of Jerusalem, has been dealt with in the past week by a subcommittee. Still to be tackled is the problem of the frontier settlement, about which nothing has yet been done.

In messages to Transjordan, Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon, the commission said that the aim of the conference was "to pave the way for a general settlement of the Palestine question and the re-establishment of peace."

Multiple Campaigns

An appeal to the Israeli Government was dispatched this week by the temporary chairman of the UPA, Herman L. Weismann, which tells a bigger story than its wording indicates. The appeal asked the Israeli government to curb the various small and big campaigns seeking money in the U. S. which are springing up daily like mushrooms after a rain and gravely endanger the chief structure of American Jewish relief, the UJA. Mr. Weismann speaks of a "multiplicity of splinter organizations" each clamoring to aid Israel and the result of all that clamor is that the UJA fell short of a hundred million dollars of its quota last year and it may be reduced even more in 1949. This is the heart of the trouble underlying all the controversies within the UPA and other organizations.

Purim--The Feast of Lots

The festival of Purim is the happiest of all Jewish Holidays. It commemorates the deliverance of the Jews of ancient Persia from the massacre planned by their arch enemy, Haman, the prime minister of King Ahasuerus. The Biblical Book of Esther tells the story of this festival. The beautiful Jewess, Esther, was chosen by the King to be his Queen, and at a series of banquets tells the King of the plot of Haman against her people. The indignant monarch orders him hung on the scaffold he had prepared for Mordecai. The Book of Esther is a charming story of virtue rewarded and evil punished. In this day and age, the Purim festival raises the hopes and hearts of all persecuted peoples. It tells of the miracle of deliverance from evil, and gives the promise of the coming of the day when all men will walk in dignity and concord.

"One Man's Opinion"

On Brevity

By BERNARD SEGAL

"I, Chaim Ben Oser Weitzmann, as president of the State, swear allegiance to the State of Israel and its Laws".

Our children and our children's children, till the end of days, will learn of this oath, and of the blowing of the Shofar as it was pronounced, in their history books.

No news reporter, no radio commentator, failed to remark that thus spoke the president of the first Jewish State in two thousand years, upon his inauguration.

They might have added that thus spoke a seventy-four year old savant who has yearned for this very moment ever since he was old enough to understand the words of the people around him.

A two-thousand year old dream of a people, and a life-long yearning of a man, all condensed in twenty words, and even less in the Hebrew as it was spoken in the City of Jerusalem.

People are not voluble in the face of either great joy or overwhelming sorrow. The more genuine the emotional experience, the briefer are the words we need to express them. Often words fail us all together.

Also the greater the import of the message, the fewer are the words in which it is conveyed to us.

The people who were witnesses to this oath needed no further oratory.

Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address took a mere few minutes to deliver, but to those assembled around him it spoke more than volumes can ever say. This short address will never cease to thrill human hearts and to inspire human souls as long as the English tongue is spoken on the face of the earth.

Who ever fails to respond to the age old Priestly blessing, no matter how often we hear it?

"May the Lord bless you and keep you.
May the Lord lift his countenance upon you and give you peace."

Consider the brevity of this benediction, and think of the benedictions you have listened to on various occasions. How many of them moved your soul? What thoughts, which phrases have remained with you after the blessing was over?

When one works around a hospital, as I do, one observes people in deep despair, and also in exultation. In both instances they make little use of words.

Children waiting without, while a parent is in the operating room, do not talk of their anxiety.

A mother beholding for the first time her new-born infant needs no oratory to express her joy.

But I remember the aunt who came rushing in breathless and hatless and began a long recital how she did not sleep a wink all night long; how she placed the telephone right beside her bed; how she could neither eat nor drink and how her husband made her taste some food by force; how she kept calling for news at the hospital every five minutes, and how she rushed over as soon as she had heard of the good news; how she was determined to be the first one to congratulate the father of the newborn, and how she did not even stop to comb her hair or to dress properly.

And she looked just as she sounded.

Didn't you ever have the urge to do violence to the person who insists on going into a rhapsody at a time and at a place when one word is sufficient, or when utter silence is enough?

One does not want to talk too much when standing in awe at the shore of the ocean, at the foot of a towering mountain, or in the presence of a master, nor when communing with the work of a master.

May we all be granted the God-given gift of discerning between the time to talk and the time to be silent, and above all the sense to know the greatness of brevity ver volubility.

Notes of a Newspaperman

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE phoned this desk one morning to check the claim made by a man who told Washington reporters that he was on Axis Sally's legal staff. This amazing liar told the reporters Walter Winchell was "paying for Axis Sally's legal fees because of remorse." He added: "Winchell feels he got her into all this trouble."

This woman is more than a show-off and deserves to be punished, although we doubt that any U. S. soldier (who was agonized by her voice) would want to see her hanged. It is part of the dignity of this nation that Americans do not want to see women hanged. Perhaps it would be punishment enough if she were the first "woman without a country." Let her live up to her Nazi broadcasts. Let her live in America, but never again be an American. To see the Flag but never again be privileged to salute it or call it her own.

The Nazi-hired recording of Axis Sally's broadcasts have a not-so-amazing similarity to the opinions spouted by isolationists during the war and before it.

If she had made those statements in the U. S. instead of Germany, Sally might have been elected to Congress.

No wonder Washington is wary of Stalin's peace-pipe puffing. In the past, such words served as smoke screens for another Act of Aggression. His zig-zagging record can only make you skeptical. Stalin is suffering the fate of all merchants of mendacity. If you continually lie, people are not apt to believe you even when you're telling the truth.

The expression of peace spouted by Communist leaders is just another zig in their zagging propaganda line. Such spurious blah-blah will only fool a fool.

The current edition of Foreign Affairs magazine proves Stalin's peace promises are false with his own words. For examples: Stalin has bluntly confessed that Russia aims to "raise revolts against capitalists, and in the event of necessity come out even with armed force against their governments."

Pianist Walter Gieseking gave no concert as scheduled at Carnegie hall because of American protest. He left by plane for Europe 48 hours after he arrived.

He refused to avail himself of an offered public hearing to back up his statements of innocence with proof. Just how he managed to get an American visa is another of those state department mysteries the Congress should probe. Who in our government arranged it?

To forgive and forget is noble. To this rule the world must return some day. But it is typical Nazi bad taste to believe the American public would permit a Nazi musician at Carnegie hall at the same time a ship bearing 5,000 war dead was lying in the harbor.

The dead American boys who died to the ear-splitting explosions of Nazi shells have earned at least the silence of a Nazi piano player—while they are being carried home.

CHARITY Rackets

By SYD COHEN
(This is the fourth in a series of articles written exclusively for the Herald on a subject of major importance to the reading public. It is hoped that these articles will be of assistance in helping expose those who solicit funds nefariously, in the name of charity. Ed.)

A Slight Touch of Blackmail

When a person makes a donation to some charitable cause out of the goodness of his heart or because he believes in the cause and feels it his duty to contribute—that is charity.

When this same, or any other person makes a donation because he or she is forced to do so—when this contribution is squeezed out of him unwillingly by the use of a threat to blacklist him or his favorite organization in his own community—or when he is mulcted for this donation against his financial well-being by such threats, whether actual or implied—that is blackmail.

The dictionary may not go along strictly with that definition, but for the purposes of this article and to explain best the sinister effect that this method of solicitation involves, blackmail is the word to use.

As with the examples of other charity rackets mentioned to date in this series, charity blackmail does not limit itself to either men or women, or any particular section of the country. There are protests on record in all areas containing large cities with moderate income communities—and it must be admitted that some men and women, who naturally prefer to remain anonymous, have lodged their individual protests concerning similar activities here in the Providence area.

Would Shock "Villains"

The worst part of this phase of racketeering is that the villains of the piece—those who enlist blackguard tactics to get their quotas filled or all their tickets sold—would be shocked to learn that they are practicing blackmail—that they are working hard-ship on their victims—that they are tearing down their own and their organization's good name by high pressure, forced solicitation.

The reason for that is that we often yield to what we consider public opinion when taking a certain action or declaring ourselves on any particular matter. That is why so many people, protesting inwardly, allow themselves to be driven in directions contrary to their wishes and beliefs.

We all go through this stage at some time or other. Some of us continue to yield; others soon determine that they get further and achieve more prominence and results by developing a high-pressure, aggressive manner. Kept within proper bounds, this trait does not do much material harm. But one abuse leads to another; the taste of a little power leads to a taste for more, and in stronger doses; and so it is that Mr. and Mrs. Average Public quite frequently find themselves the victims of an insidious but seemingly innocent form of blackmail.

Can't Afford It

The tragedy of the whole matter is that most often the funds accruing from this unfair practice come from the pockets of those who honestly cannot afford it. A housewife, who gives annually to the GJC and the Red Cross and the March of Dimes and the Cancer Fund and her Synagogue or Temple—and to her bridge club and her women's organization—and to the meshulach who comes around to the back door—and to the numerous other appeals to which she is asked to contribute during the year—simply cannot afford to overextend her activities and her money on behalf of a charity or an organization in which she has no personal interest, merely because she fears to be blacklisted if she doesn't come across.

How It Works

Here is how the practice works in general—and no doubt many readers will be able to supply variations their own.

Mrs. A. is president of a women's organization that requires much of her time, and toward whose support she contributes generously. Mrs. B. who stands high in the councils of a second association, approaches Mrs. A. and asks that the latter join and support—and contribute to—her group. When Mrs. A. replies that she can afford neither the time nor the money that such membership would involve and that her interests are quite thoroughly tied up in the operation of her own group, she is told bluntly that unless she cooperates, she and her organization will be black-listed by Mrs. B. and that there will be no cooperation between the two groups. Since Mrs. A's activity is communal in nature, whereas Mrs. B's appeals only to a certain segment of the community, such a threat cannot be taken lightly, or on a tit-for-tat basis, by Mrs. A.

Many Variations

There are many variations of this condition in the lower echelons. Women of moderate means are constantly being badgered and pressured into purchasing tickets and making donations toward the multitudinous activities and campaigns of the several organizations that are in existence in every city. Many of these women cannot afford this practice financially; yet they are afraid of the recrimination promised them personally and their own organizations and campaigns if they refuse. So they give in—and prepare the way for continued future blackmail.

While the examples mentioned have employed women, it should not be assumed that the fairer sex have a monopoly on this sort of stuff. The examples are meant as just that—examples. Men have suffered and complained proportionately about as much as women.

Guilty or Innocent?

Having leveled such a serious charge against certain members of our society, let me now refer to the fifth paragraph of this article, in defense of the accused. I said: "the villains . . . would be shocked to learn that they are practicing blackmail", and that is probably as true as that unfair tactics are being employed in the first place.

The most charitable way to explain it is that those who are aggressive, who have the time and the means and the interest, find it hard to conceive that some of the persons they approach are not as comfortably situated in any of these regards as they are. If they could be made to open their eyes to the injustice of their methods, much of the blackmail might be eliminated.

What to Do?

Two recommendations to correct this shameful condition are in order. First, the leaders of all communal organizations that make appeals outside of their own groups should give careful and specific instructions to their members to desist from unfair solicitation.

Second, those who feel they cannot or will not continue to be subjected to threats should keep individual lists of what charities they support throughout the year, how many tickets they have bought, how many times they have responded generously to various causes. Then, knowing that others—many others—are in the same boat and feel the same way—they should ignore threats without feeling conscious-stricken.

And many of the threats would soon die a natural death.

A Talk With The Rabbi

By RABBI J. GOLDSTEIN

The Jewish religion governs every phase of the Jew's life and work, from the cradle to the grave. The Jewish religion is not something distinct from or superadded to the Jewish people; it is the very essence of the Jewish people, their way of life, as well as their life, because Jewish existence without the Jewish faith is inconceivable.

The Jewish religion was given to Israel almost simultaneously with its freedom as an independent nation. The Divine Revelation on Mount Sinai took place only seven weeks after the Exodus of Israel from Egypt.

The Divine Revelation on Mount Sinai took place in the presence of all Israel. Witnesses of the occasion were 600,000 men, aged between 20 and 60 years, besides the women and children, old people (over 60), and the multitude of alien slaves and nobles who accompanied Israel at the time of the Exodus. In all, there were several million eye-witnesses of the giving of the Torah on Mount Sinai. Thus, the Jew's firm belief in the Torah and the Divine Commandments it contains is not a matter of simple faith, but of absolute conviction. Maimonides, (Hilchoth Yesodei Hatorah, Ch. 8).

Al Schacht, the Clown Prince of Baseball, was in a hurry. He wanted to get the 11 o'clock train out of Providence after speaking at the annual B'nai B'rith Father and Son Sports Nite at Plantations Auditorium; and when he finished his stint before more than 450 persons it already was crowding that hour. An interview with him at the hall was out of the question.

No time to ask questions or figure what to do about it, Al dashed for the door, with the column in close pursuit. Thanks to Maurice Bazar of the arrangements committee, I was able to hop in Hy Feinstein's car and accompany Schacht to the station. Got part of the interview on the way, but did better after Al found he was on time and got a seat on the train. It was a mad dash, but how often does a character like Al Schacht come to town?

He Only Thinks Left
One thing that amazed me about Al occurred during his act when he wound up with his right arm. I had always thought he was a southpaw. He told me later he doesn't know where the impression got about. He has heard of stories terming him a southpaw, but he always threw right. Al said, although he admitted he might think left handed.

Schacht's excellent memory was demonstrated during his appearance. He recalled Providence and Melrose Park quite well ... and urged that this city get back on its baseball feet by supporting the Grays and working for a team in a higher classification.

Baseball's inimitable clown, now around 56 years old, is a fine physical specimen. Stands over six feet high and weighs around 200. Claims he weighed 130 when he started. His schedule of personal appearances has tapered off somewhat, although he did recently conclude his annual clowning tour of Veterans hospitals.

He told me he averages just about one such performance per month, although they may be widely spaced in distance. For instance, he may be in Providence one time and take a plane to Denver the next. His biggest active interest now is the restaurant in New York that bears his name. He has to spend a lot of time there, since most patrons come to see him in person.

Appearances Limited
On the subject of major league baseball and his activities for the year, Al betrayed the fact that he is not as active as he is reputed to be. He will not go South for spring training, he said, and while he will attend the opening game of the season, it will be as a spectator and not as a clown. As for his entertaining, he limits it now to night games, the All-Star game and the World Series.

To counteract this lessening of activity, Al revealed his latest project—sponsoring athletics, with the emphasis on baseball, in Israel. The Clown Prince is vice-chairman of an association that is working on the plan. This organization will raise funds in the U. S. and send them to Palestine expressly for the purpose of constructing ball fields and getting a comprehensive recreational program under way. Al is personally interested in this project and will make a significant contribution to it.

On the stage, Schacht proved to be a good comedian and pantomimist. My sole regret was that he wasn't on longer. While entertaining, though, he lived up to advance billing. His pantomime of Ted Williams was hilarious—and he gave an excellent rendition of cantorial chanting to illustrate one of his stories with a Yiddish background. If we ever run out of cantors in Rhode Island, we could do worse than employ "Chasan" Schacht.

Not the Whole Show
Schacht's appearance was the highlight of the night, but by no means the entire program. Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith did itself proud with its show and set a fine example for other organizations to follow. It's a fine, worthwhile annual affair.

Warren Walden again was master of ceremonies and was inducted as an honorary member of B'nai B'rith by President Bert Bernhardt. Warren brought along a long list of local celebrities whom he introduced and briefly interviewed. He can always be depended upon to build up a sports program with several outstanding sports personalities. Warren is worthy of the Menorah pin he now wears.

And the gifts that were awarded! Wish I were a boy again, just for that night.

NAME BRIDGE CHAIRMEN
Mrs. Norman Cohen and Mrs. Sarah Bloom are chairman and co-chairman respectively of the annual bridge and mah jong of the Leonard Bloom Auxiliary, JWV, No. 284, which will be held March 15 at the Congregation Sons of Abraham.

Olympic Bowling

By SIDNEY GREEN

Anybody walking into our bowl-away last Monday night could have cut the tension with a knife as he approached the four alleys where the Levines, Rodyns, Cohens and Gordons were battling for first place. Merlyn Rodyn rebounded from a disastrous week-before with a high 361 for total pins, and a one-string high of 150, and with some very able assistance from Len Chernack earned two points for their side. With this swell chance to gain some ground, the second place Cohens were very lucky to salvage two points in their match with the Gordons, who were inspired on by Capt. Nate, whose wife had just presented him with a bowling baby boy.

Just to tighten things up all along the line, the Avens took four points from the boys of Jacobson Row, and the Schwartzes moved to the head of the second division with a 4-0 win over the Lobels.

Despite the tension and heckling some very good scores were recorded including Rodyns' team total of 1537, the single string 541 bowled by both the Levines and the Cohens, and these single strings: Jacobson—119, H. Cohen—127, B. Cohen—125, Chernack—121, Aven and Zatliff—118 each.

Kids, Big and Small, Have Wonderful Time at B'nai B'rith Event

Fathers and sons alike show keen interest in the antics of Al Schacht, feature attraction of the evening. Seen above are a portion of the more than 450 men and boys who filled Plantations Auditorium for the event.

Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith went all out in its determination to make this year's Father and Sons Sports Nite the finest ever. Held Feb. 21 at Plantations Auditorium, the event attracted more than 450 fathers and sons, in addition to a seemingly endless array of sports personalities and civic leaders who were guests of the Lodge.

Warren Walden, WEAN sportscaster who was made an honorary member of B'nai B'rith at the affair, introduced outstanding athletes of the State in addition to such well-known personalities as Webb Youlden, director of sports promotion at the Journal; Jack Cronin, city recreation director, and others. Gov. John O. Pastore, Mayor Dennis J. Roberts and Police Chief Charles Higgins were among the speakers.

While the fathers seemed to be having as much fun as their sons, it was the youngsters who walked off with the prizes. One group of winners is pictured here with the gifts they received. Left to right: Peter Workman, Norman Bolski, Farrel Jaffa, Steve Feinstein, Tom Benjamin, Stanley Schretter (in front, with glove) and Arthur Gilbert.

It's Mayor Dennis J. Roberts' turn to tell a story, while Al Schacht, Bert Bernhardt and Ben Ruttenberg look on appreciatively.

Daughterhood Bowling

RUTH TANENBAUM

Welcome to all our new bowlers, who joined us last week. We now have three teams, which means we have added half our former strength. Betty Wexler made her debut a rather auspicious one by taking all three strings.

Meanwhile, the Daisy Maes had a close race in the first string, finishing thusly: Lil Tarsky 87, Bertha Boslovitz 88, Doris Levin 89 and Doris Graubart 90. Doris went on from there to take the other two with scores of 92. Closest the other girls could come to her was in the third string when Bertha hit 87 and D. Levin 84.

Eleanor Jacobson started the Pin Down Girls off right with a strike, but that was the highlight of the string, won by Harriet Keller with 88. The same Harriet muffed a fine chance in the second string. Having an 80 score in the eighth box, she wound up with a mere 95, just one pin better than El's 94. Jacobson really rolled 'em in the finale, winning with 101 to Keller's 92, although Harriet had a spare on a spare.

Auxiliary Bowling

By TEDI GREEN

The fight for the lead in this second half is going right down to the wire with but two weeks remaining and the Steingolds clinging to first place with 22 points, just ahead of the Hochmans' 19. The Levines, who dropped four points to the Steingolds and the Zawatskys (here-after referred to as the Cohens) are destined to battle for the third and fourth posts, respectively.

Despite the strength displayed by newly-elected Capt. Estelle Cohen—high three of 294 and high single of 107—the Cohens were on the short end of a 3-1 score against the Hochman five. Chief reasons were Betty Cohen's much improved bowling and sister Elsie Zipkin's good strings, headed by her 102.

Total pinfall of 288 for Anne Steingold and 276 for Helen Lehrer reminds me of another sister team that is doing very well at our bowling emporium.

UPHOLSTERY

AZA BEATS GRENADIERS

Last Call Issued For Queen Candidates

Hurry, hurry, hurry! That was the call issued this week to prospective Queen Esther candidates for the 16th annual Purim Dance to be held at the Narragansett Hotel March 15 under the sponsorship of the Jewish Community Center.

Girls planning to enter the contest were warned that the deadline for applications is Monday, March 7. After that date, the lists will be closed and the question of who will be elected Queen Esther will take on a more definite form.

As the Herald went to press this week eight contestants already were lined up for the prize-winning battle at the Purim Dance polls. Included are Anita Russ, Ruth Paul, Beverly White, Arlene Summer, Helene Markoff, Selma Schmuger, Sylvia Warner and Shirley Heckler. Gov. John O. Pastore is expected to officiate at the coronation of Queen Esther of 1949.

Tickets are available at the Center and from Queen candidates and the Purim Dance committee, to which the names of Marion Baron and Donald Jacobs were added this week.

A full week's vacation at one of New England's most popular summer resorts heads the list of prizes secured so far by the committee.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

The second half race really waxes hot as Sam Gorman's Yales managed to hold on to first place by one game as they walloped Harvard this week and picked up four points. Princeton and Cornell kept pace as they took four each from Brown and Navy to remain one and two games off the pace respectively.

High single was practically in my grasp when I knocked off two spares in the first two boxes of my second game. Everyone was cheering and praying for this noble effort to continue. It then struck me that for the good of the team, that is so the boys shouldn't become too dependent upon me, it would be best to taper off. So when I threw three balls in the alley it was no poor bowling but a matter of deep psychological intent.

Meanwhile, in the scores department, Milt Levitt continues to pay the pin boys and this week they kicked over high three for him at 349 and a tie for high single with Charlie Winkleman who soared to 131. Millman enjoyed a good night as he hit three for 324 and a nice 126 single. Charlie Winkleman kept himself in the limelight with a steady 322 for three strings.

CELEBRATE FLAG RAISING BUENOS AIRES—More than 25,000 Jews—about one-tenth the

Emanuel Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

At least 25 bowlers representing five teams are at this stage of the bowling scramble just five points off the pace setting Dwares Cards, who dropped three points last Monday night, and remain on top by just one precarious point.

Kramers Athletics paced by some good bowling of that ole reliable anchor Sam Chase gained three points over Le Nussenfelds Red Sox, and the Dodgers and White Sox are all knotted up. The snow was coming down hard and so were these pins coming down as some of these three string scores indicate; Leo Nussenfeld led the pack with a neat 348, Zucker 333, Lang 331, Blackman 335, Chernick 325, S. Chase 329, Al Chase 320, Ettine 318.

Next week's attraction and highlight will be the match between the leading Cards and those pesky Dodgers, led by Blackman, F. Goldstein, Morris Waldman, Barney Fradin and Saul Faber. The gang hopes that Jack Broadman will be up and around mighty quick as we all know how this lad loves his bowling. Good health Jack.

Happy Birthday—Doc. Frank Goldstein.

R. I. Rabbinical Assembly
Urges Support of
PROVIDENCE
Hebrew Day School

The problem of religious training of our children is as old as the Jewish people. Through our Jewish history, religious education has taken first place in the national life of our people. Jewish survival is due to our solicitude for our children's spiritual education. This has been true at all times and in all places, and even more so in our time and in this country.

In the past men trained and inspired in the Torah Institutions of Europe came to our shores to renew the springs of Jewish life in America. Now, these schools are completely destroyed, and we must intensify the religious training in our existing Talmud Torahs and religious schools, if we have any care for the Jewish future in our country.

In view of this, we heartily welcome the Providence Hebrew Day School into our midst and we declare it as a happy addition to our existing Talmud Torahs and religious schools. We are pleased to state that our committee has visited the classrooms of the Hebrew Day School and reported that the Hebrew education there is thorough and the general education matches the public schools' standards. The Rabbinical Association, therefore, commends all those who give of their time, money and effort for the support of this school.

"The Male Animal" Coming Here Soon

A play that was a smash hit on Broadway and in Hollywood—a play that was co-authored by one of the theater's leading writers, actors and directors—is being prepared for presentation on Saturday and Sunday evenings, March 26 and 27 by the Center Players.

The play is "The Male Animal"; the author, Elliott Nugent.

A rollicking comedy-drama carrying an effective and still appropriate message of democracy, "The Male Animal" is a story of college life during Homecoming Week. It involves the problems of a liberal-minded young professor who is bullied and threatened with his job by the football-minded and dominating element of the university's directors if he continues to pursue his independent course in the classroom.

Before his problems are solved, the professor not only is in danger of losing his job but his wife as well; while the principles of free speech in American education receive a jolt.

Every part written into the play is a study in character and the vehicle is so unusual in this respect, that it has become a favorite among stock theater goers. Henry Fonda, Olivia DeHavilland and Jack Carson starred in the movie version.
