YOUR GJC
IN ACTION!

Next month a sturdy, alert and extremely active youngster will be celebrating his fourth birthday anniversary. He has matured rapidly; so rapidly, in fact, that today he already is regarded as an established and highly respected member of our community.

Yet, he was conceived only four short years ago. His formal name is the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc., but to his friends and supporters—and they include virtually every member of the greater Providence Jewish community, as well as thousands of non-Jews—he is probably better known by his shorter title—"the GJC".

May 28, 1945 was an historic date for the Providence Jewish community. On that day, the GJC was organized by overwhelming vote. No longer could it be said that Providence was the largest city in the United States without a permanent Jewish communal organization.

GJC Widely Acclaimed

Now, four years later, the GJC is acclaimed throughout the community for its tremendous accomplishments in the field of fund-raising and community planning. Its prestige and integrity are unquestioned; its diversified program of action here in the smallest of the 48 states has won it the unstinting praise of its 47 sister states.

More than three and a quarter million dollars for charitable and educational purposes have been raised since its inception. Its total of approximately $1,125,000 (total still incomplete) in the 1948 "Year of Destiny" drive represented the greatest philanthropic campaign ever waged in this state.

An army of more than 1500 tireless volunteer workers contacted more than 9400 donors. And the actual whirlwind campaign itself was sustained on an unprecedented level of enthusiasm and activity for four complete months!

Misconceptions Exist

Yet, even today, certain popular misconceptions regarding the GJC's accomplishments and objectives still exist in the minds of some people.

This is the first of a series of articles written for one express purpose: To acquaint all the people of our community with the GJC's program of action—how that program is arrived at, how it is evaluated, how it is accomplished.

There are two erroneous beliefs in particular, concerning the GJC, that are entertained by some members of our community.

The first is that the GJC came into existence merely for the purpose of spearheading the annual fund-raising campaign in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and that, as a result, it operates on a full-time basis only part of the calendar year.

The second, a corollary of the first, is that the GJC's funds are devoted solely to the support of the UJA and its three beneficiary agencies: The United Palestine

Arab Legion Takes Over Disputed Area

LONDON—Transjordanian forces in Palestine were reported to have been replacing the Iraqi army in the occupation of the disputed Nablus-Jenin-Tulkarm triangle north of Jerusalem.

A reliable informant stated that the Iraqi Government was informing Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations Mediator, who was presiding over the armistice negotiations between Transjordan and Israel, that its troops were yielding territory to the Arab Legion. Accordingly, the Baghdad Government is saying that Transjordan is authorized to negotiate an armistice for the triangle as well as for other areas occupied by the Arab Legion.

The Israeli Government has protested that the entry of Transjordanian forces into the triangle would constitute a violation of the Palestine truce and has challenged Transjordan's right to negotiate for that area.

In the House of Commons this week, Sydney Silverman, pro-Zionist Labor member, suggested that Transjordan's request for British forces to patrol the Transjordan-Palestine border between Aqaba and the southern end of the Dead Sea might have been made for the purpose of releasing Arab Legion troops to occupy the triangle.

Christopher Mayhew, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, replied that Mr. Silverman's interpretation was "open to doubt."

Ralph Einstein will present a piano recital at the meeting of the Brotherhood and Sisterhood of Temple Beth El, on April 6. Mr. Einstein is the recipient of a fellowship awarded him by the Yale Graduate School of Music. A reception will be held in the vestry after the concert.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In an atmosphere of unique dedication to the reconstruction of Jewish life overseas through mass settlement in Israel, a new milestone in humanitarian effort was established last weekend when 126 Jewish communities made cash contributions totalling $26,851,967 to the United Jewish Appeal at the launching of its nationwide campaign to raise $250,000,000 this year.

The funds raised in the drive to be conducted under the leadership of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., general chairman, will go for large-scale immigration and settlement in Israel, rehabilitation and reconstruction in Europe and North Africa and refugee adjustment in the United States.

Representing Providence at the rededication conference were Archibald Silverman, president, and Joseph Galkin, executive director, of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc.

Silverman presented a check for $150,000 to the UJA on behalf of

Center Issues Call For Workers

LIBRARY CLEANING

MADRID—Removal of all anti-Semitic works from the shelves of the University of Madrid Library has been decreed by its officials. Among the volumes was "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion."

With 200 workers already enrolled in the one-day Center Membership Enrollment scheduled for "C-Day", April 3 J. I. Cohen, enrollment chairman has issued a call for additional workers to cover some 4000 prospects in all sections of the city.

Stressing the need to assemble this force during the coming week, Mr. Cohen has asked members and friends of the Center to call DE 6730 or DE 6175 today to volunteer their services for the Sunday morning solicitation.

The "C-Day" plan is for the workers to assemble for a bagel and coffee breakfast at the Center at 9 o'clock on April 3. After breakfast and a quick briefing, groups of workers will go out to designated blocks or streets and, working in pairs, will visit the prospects assigned. Each worker will be given a limited number of prospects so that he may finish the job in a short space of time. Both men and women are needed for this effort which aims at "Every Family a Member".

A call is also issued for automobiles and drivers for the transportation of the workers of "C-Day". Volunteers are asked to call the Center.

UJA Caravan of Hope to Tour U. S.

the local community as part of Providence's 1948 campaign pledge. An unusual procedure for the conduct of the 1949 campaign was outlined by Henry Montor of New York, Director of the national UJA drive. Montor announced the plans for five trains to be known as the "UJA Caravan of Hope", to carry outstanding American national and communal leaders and prominent Israeli personalities on an intensive campaign, swing up and down the country. On Sunday, April 3rd, the five special trains will start out simultaneously from the east, west and other areas for a three-week tour of more than 150 cities and towns. Each train will cover a separate region of the country.

Moshe Sharett, Israeli Foreign Minister declared that the immigration and settlement in Israel of the Jews who are streaming into the country from Europe and North Africa is "the collective responsibility of the entire Jewish people—if they share in the glory of Israel, they must share in its travail."

Stressing the significance of the United Jewish Appeal, the Foreign Minister said that "the Jews of Israel will provide for her defense. The Jews outside, and particularly those of the United States, must foot the bill for immigration."

PARTY AT HOME

Roger Williams B'nai B'rith Young Women, which sponsors monthly affairs at the Jewish Home for the Aged, held a Purim Party last Wednesday evening, with Judaeen groups participating in the Palestinian dances and singing. Refreshments were served.

Beth El Bowling

By JACK APPELBAUM

Heavens to Betsy!! Our column, due to a rare lapse on the part of the postal department, did not reach The Herald last week. I am gratified at the number of phone calls which indicated the interest in our nonsense each week. Thank you, noble readers.

On April 21st our league is staging a unique and most interesting tournament. Each entrant will bowl in this tournament with a handicap of the difference between his average and that of the top average of the league. In this manner every man has an equal chance to win one of the six prizes which will be awarded. The plans are not quite complete, but I believe the prizes will be for the first, second and third high singles, and for the first, second and third high threes. All in all, it should prove to be a very interesting evening.

Next week, we'll give you the current status of the pennant race.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

The second half competition in our league has produced a new leader, as Sam Gorman's Yale team holds down first place by three games over another newcomer to the ranks of the leaders, Moe Press' Princeton team. This is even a more remarkable state of affairs when in checking the records I found both teams to be tail enders in the first half struggle.

Before giving the usual weekly scores I must congratulate Coken's Penn team for finally winning four points as they walloped Navy, and at the same time I can mention that Dave Roberts also bowled, so he can see his name in print.

High three went to that owner of a lovely flesh colored head, Max Levy, with 319, who beat out his captain Wolfe Myrow, 317 and Howie Nelson, 316.

In the singles Myrow reversed the order with 120, topping "Flesh" Levy who had 119 and Alcott, 118.

Daughterhood Bowling

RUTH TANENBAUM

Bowling last week brought forth a mixture of moans and groans, and an occasional cheer. The moans and groans belonged to those who bowled badly, while the cheers were directed at D. Graubart and H. Keller, who ended the last string in a 104 deadlock.

During the first string, H. Preblud did a fine job, ending with 100, while El Jacobson came up with 92. H. Keller kept up with them in spite of a backache and rolled 95. The Pin Downs showed D. Levin doing a consistent job as she broke the high single string record of 114 established by E. Jacobson. The new titlist rolled 119. B. Boslovitz ended with 94.

Betty Wexler's bowling merits mention here; she outdid herself with a 90 in the second string, which the Daisy Maes needed badly. D. Graubart hit 95 to win the second string.

The Daughterhood is anxious to compete with any other women's bowling organization in the city. Anyone interested?

Emanuel Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

We took a look at the Dodgers last night, and believe me, that's one terrific team. In first place by six points and with only three weeks to go, their position looks safe to your truly. With fellows like Morris Waldman shooting a 118 in the clinch and Barney Fradin coming up with a 341 for three, it looks to me as if it'll be pretty tough for one of the other teams to knock them out of their first place spot.

Other good three strings were Sam Gordon 378, Paynor 357, Price 348, Orchoff 346, Filler 343, L. Chase 326, Goralnick 320, and the rookie captain Davey Temkin. 340.

Happy birthdays to Sam Greene and Art Weiss.

Auxiliary Bowling

By TEDI GREEN

Three cheers for the 1949 Champs, the Steingolds who became the Champs of the Olympic Auxiliary's first bowling league by defeating the Levine five in four consecutive strings during the playoffs held last Wednesday and Thursday nights. The sister act of Anne Steingold and Helen Lehrer was the definite stand-out of the first night's bowling with Anne bowling 282 and Helen 281. Rita Levine was the most consistent performer for the losers with 280.

The first two strings were nip and tuck with the Steingold quintet winning 417-413 and 426-421, they took the third as they pleased 435-396. Obviously discouraged and with little heart left, the Levines still made a fight of it in the first string of the second night's play-offs, and finally went down to defeat 430-425. This win for the Steingolds gave them the championship and was strictly a team victory, as all five members bowled over 80, with Capt. Anne and yours truly rolling 93 and 92, respectively, and we can't overlook June Winn's 103 which kept the Levines in the battle right up to the finish.

Political Scoreboard

Out of the confusion of names and places in the Middle East, the UN and the capitols of the world is emerging a more or less clear picture of what things will be like politically and in terms of land holdings in Israel. Up to the present moment, the Israelis have successfully used that wonderful old political weapon, the fait accompli, with first rate results. Adding up the score, it would seem that Israel now has under its control 68 percent of the 10,000 square miles of Palestine which includes a Jewish population of 800,000 and an Arab population of 100,000. This is a gain for Israel of some 1200 square miles over the area originally assigned to it under the United Nations partition resolution of November 29, 1948.

Even more significant is the fact that at present Israel holds more than three times the area recommended by the late Count Bernadotte last September. In football parlance, the Arabs threw a block which backfired. By attempting to block the original UN partition plan, the Arabs have run in the wrong direction to the extent that Israel gets all of Galilee, which previously was to have been divided, and more of the Negev than it would have gotten before.

Strategically, Israel now holds the important land corridor, giving her an outlet to the Red Sea, which will allow her to take out important mineral deposits and other resources of the Negev in the most direct fashion. Not only is this an advantage to Israeli economic stability, but it also gives it strategic precedence over Trans-Jordan and Britain. Trans-Jordan does not have independent land communication with Egypt, which takes away a bargaining power for a highway leading to the sea on the Mediterranean coastal strip. If Trans-Jordan desires such an outlet on the Mediterranean, it must make a deal with Israel for the use of either of its major ports, Jaffa or Haifa.

By blocking Israel consistently in the UN, and by aiding and abetting the attackers of Israel, Britain has lost the use of the Elath corridor which was a vital link between Egypt and Trans-Jordan and her bases and supplies there.

The effect of this shift in land holdings is of major concern to world Jewry. Immigration to Palestine is now going on at the rate of 2500 immigrants a month. It is estimated that when this coming summer is over, the last Jews in European refugee camps will be absorbed into Israel, and that within two years the population of the new country will be 1,500,000.

Your GJC in Action

Appeal, the Joint Distribution Committee, and the United Service for New Americans.

Serving 100 Causes

The facts of the matter, of course, are that the GJC services 64 different agencies—representing more than 100 important charitable causes on overseas, national and local levels.

To carry out this intensive program of action, the GJC operates on a full-time basis every week of the year. Its staff of permanent workers, comparatively small in number, functions at a highly-gear speed throughout the year. The countless evenings of activities that are also devoted to their GJC duties by key members of the staff will probably never be known.

"We just keep working until our job is done," said one of them the other day, "but somehow there always seem to be other important tasks ahead of us."

The fund-raising campaign, itself a year 'round job, has four major phases: The planning of the drive, the actual staging of it, the collection of pledges made during the drive, and, finally, the painstaking work involved in allocating to its 64 beneficiaries the funds raised in the drive.

Subsequent articles will deal specifically with the important work of the Allocations Committee, as well as outline the purposes and accomplishments of several of the major beneficiary agencies.

This initial article, however, is primarily concerned with the GJC's conception, and its balance sheet of performance to date.

Original Prospects

On May 28, 1945, the Jewish men and women of Providence decided that the purposes of the GJC would be "to conduct an annual campaign, and to collect, receive and distribute funds for the support, maintenance and development of such Jewish charitable, cultural and religious organizations and causes as are willing to participate as beneficiary agencies; to assist in communal activities; and to promote general Jewish welfare."

In addition to the loosely-knit Providence United Jewish Appeal that had been in existence prior to the GJC's birth, there were numerous independent fund-raising campaigns.

Included among these separate campaigns were those of the Youth Aliyah Project of Hadassah, HIAS, Histadrut and the Child Rescue Fund-Palestine Women's Club.

Duplication Existed

Although their objectives did not conflict, nevertheless, they often worked at cross purposes. And the staging of these several separate campaigns represented considerable duplication of activity in planning, staging and collecting the proceeds of the drives.

With the formation of the GJC, this no longer was true. "One Campaign for More Than 100 Worthy Causes!" became the slogan that, more than any other, summarized the GJC's mission.

The GJC is the first to admit that it owes a debt of great magnitude to its predecessor, the Providence United Jewish Appeal. It

"One Man's Opinion"

The Jewish All-Day School

By BERNARD SEGAL

New ideas never receive immediate acceptance.

Generally speaking, there are three attitudes toward innovations in any field of human endeavor, political, social, or cultural.

First, there are the enthusiastic followers. Then there are the violent opposers. By far in greater numbers are those who withhold judgment, and adopt a wait and see attitude. Not to mention the countless numbers who are entirely indifferent, and are not concerned one way or another.

The idea of a Jewish All-Day School is no exception to this general rule.

Relatively new in our city, the Hebrew Day School counts a small group of ardent supporters, as well as a small group of outspoken foes. Those of us who were not too hasty either in embracing or rejecting the new trend in Jewish education, will welcome the recently published material of the Jewish Day School in America in theory and in practice. To be informed is the first step in forming opinions.

The material was gathered and released by the National Council for Jewish Education in New York. The Council is a neutral agency, and is concerned with reporting the facts as they are, without bias or partiality. It is the most extensive survey on the Day-School movement at our disposal, and gives the reader a clear picture of the aims and educational goals of this type of school, and the extent to which it has succeeded in taking root in the American Jewish Community.

1. As of the School year 1949.

The opening of the new school year found 18,397 children registered in the Jewish All-Day school in the United States. This figure represents an increase of 15 percent over the number of pupils registered in this type of school last year. Only some 16,000 pupils attended All-Day schools in 1948.

Total of All-Day Jewish schools at the time of the publication of the report is 120, scattered in 17 states. The greater number of them, 66, are reported from New York City. New York also claims 12,600 pupils, or 70 percent of the entire enrollment in all the Jewish All-Day schools in the country.

has borrowed freely of the experiences and the techniques of that organization. And it has added innovations of its own that have brought it high praise from the most respected fund-raising agencies of national stature.

To prove that it was past the crawling stage, the GJC first had to demonstrate its strength in the fund-raising field. These figures, representing the amounts raised during each of the past four years, speak for themselves:

1945 - $ 368,000
1946 - $ 747,000
1947 - $1,001,000
1948 - $1,120,000

The mobilizing of hundreds of voluntary workers, the charting of their work, and the spirited enthusiasm it stirred among these volunteer aides, are other tributes to the GJC.

Donors Increase

So, too, is the striking increase in the number of donors in the past four campaigns. The 1945 total represented 6082 donors; in 1946, the number spurted to 7,667; 1947 witnessed a surge to

2. Comparing figures.

The increase in enrollment has been gradual, showing a steady gain since 1935. On that school year the total of pupils attending this type of school was only some 4500. A tremendous growth.

At the same time, figures show a decided decline in the enrollment of the Talmud Torahs.

Again, while many Talmud-Torah type of Jewish schools closed their doors because of lack of students, 20 All-Day elementary and five high schools were opened during the last four years. On the basis of these facts, the report of the National Council concludes that the All-Day school, where the Jewish and the public school subject are integrated, is the only type of educational institution that shows definite gains. The communal Talmud-Torahs are definitely on the decline, while the synagogue and temple schools are holding their own or show slight gains here and there.

3. What part of the Whole?

Figures are only important in comparison with the over-all picture. The number 18,397 may be impressive or insignificant depending on the total number of children in Jewish schools of all types. And here are some figures in this respect.

There are an estimated 725,000 Jewish children of school age in the United States.

b. Only 25 percent of these receive some kind of Jewish education, either in the All-Day school, in the afternoon-week-day school, or in the Sabbath schools.

c. The percentage of those attending the All-Day schools is thus only some two percent of all possible Jewish students, and some eight percent of the actual number of children attending Jewish schools. It is very interesting to note that this number is very close to the figures for the general population in the United States. It is estimated that only two percent of all the children of school age in the country attend private schools, including the Catholic Parochial schools, and Protestant private schools and academies.

The report goes on to analyze the types of All-Day schools, how they differ from one another, and the educational philosophy of each of them.

To this we will return in another article.

8,846. Last year, the number was in excess of 9,000!

Bear in mind, also, that virtually every non fund-raising campaign of national scope—such as the "Food for Israel" and "SOS" drives—all have been coordinated within the framework of the GJC.

Bear in mind, too, that the GJC offers a valuable fund of information concerning the background of all Yeshivoth and related welfare and cultural institutions in the United States, Europe and Palestine—an information which is drawn upon freely by scores of persons approached by solicitors or meshaluchim.

Bear in mind, further, that the GJC is the agency to which thousands of persons, during the course of the year, turn to for information and advice about problems far removed from the actual field of fund-raising.

Then it will be realized that, actually, the GJC is you in action! It is your agency, your philanthropy, your community in action!

Historic Ramblings

By JOHN SOLOMON

CHAPTER III

When the B'nai T'sion, or Congregation Sons of Zion, was organized in Providence late in the 19th century, the roll of charter members included the following names:

Isaiah Davidson, Jacob Finklestein, Zelig Lipsky, Abraham Green, Lipman Harris, David Harris, Zalmon Jersky, Isaac Jersky, Nathan Marcus, Raphael Marcus, Jacob Mistofsky, Myer Potashinsky, Joseph Podrat, Isaac Solomon, Zalmon Silverstein, Shepsie Weisman and Tonchin Weisman.

Of these 17 young immigrants, nine were married and eight were single.

About the Members

From among this group I can recall Myer Potashinsky, who served as one of the early presidents. He was the first Jewish wholesale dry goods merchant in Providence. His place of business was located at the corner of Charles and Orms Streets; it also served as a gathering place for discussions of business, religion, and pleasure.

Jacob Finklestein conducted a clothing business in Narragansett Pier and also dabbled in real estate. The Weismans probably were the first Jewish wholesale wooler dealers here. Joseph Davidson went into manufacturing raincoats when that industry was in its infancy. Joseph Podrat had a dry goods business in Wakefield. Simon Jersky went into the liquor trade, and Zalmon Silverstein was engaged in wholesale newspaper dealing.

A small, uninviting, stuffy room at 98 Charles Street was rented at $4 per month, and it was here that the first organized orthodox religious services were held. The room was lighted with a few kerosene lamps. For furniture it had a limited number of used chairs. A crude wooden box was built and used as an Oren Kodesh, and Safer Torahs were procured from New York. This room also contained a dense population of rodents, and young wives were frightened out of their wits on numerous occasions, until some of them were afraid to attend services.

The "Blue Danube"

This location was on the banks of the Moshassuck River, sometimes called the "Blue Danube" by the older residents of the North End because of its offensive stench (which it still retains), especially in the good old summertime.

History records that the Moshassuck is the very same river that Roger Williams and his followers came down in their canoes and greeted the Indians with the historic "What Cheer". The Moshassuck in those days was no doubt a beautiful, unspoiled, tranquil stream, teeming with fish and wild life, but all that was before the coming of the white man.

The Sons of Zion craved a little luxury for their new place of worship, so a janitor, a colored man they called George, was hired at the lucrative salary of 50 cents per week. His duties consisted of filling the lamps with kerosene, trimming the lamp wicks, sweeping and dusting, besides lighting, and putting out (the lamps on the Sabbath, All this for 50 cents!

Well, 50 cents was not considered hay in those days, because it would buy a lot of beers for George at the corner saloon, or if you prefer, a considerable quantity of food at the nearby grocery. Half a dollar of the coin of the realm would even buy a couple of pounds of steak.

On Sunday, the David Feldmans will have been married 25 years. In honor of the occasion the Lou Mirmans, the Max Goldens and the Max Seigals gave a progressive party, last week. If you've never been to this kind of party you've really missed something. The guests go from house to house—and are served a different course of the meal at each. A novel touch was added to this party to make it even more fun—a bus was hired to carry about the gang of 40. Can you picture that?—and then, in the middle of March, they cooked steaks outdoors!

One of New England's best known advertising phrases is "You have the floor — Fain's has the floor-covering." That is not merely a slogan — it means that no matter what your floorcovering problem may be — Fain's can supply the perfect solution.

We are specialists — we sell and install only floorcovering. Doing one thing for more than 62 years means that we have the experience, the facilities, the selection that assures you permanent and complete satisfaction. For floorcovering of broadloom, asphalt or rubber tile, or linoleum — you'll be wise to visit or call floorcovering headquarters. "Remember, there's no substitute for experience."

Reveal Details of Synagogue Opening

Further details pertaining to the formal opening of the new Ahavath Sholom Synagogue to be held April 10 were released this week by A. Louis Rosenstein, chairman of the dedication committee.

In keeping with orthodox tradition, the synagogue will transfer the Sepher Torahs from the old synagogue to the new with all the dignity and color of an Old World celebration. The only concession to the modern world will be a motorcycle police escort and a few automobiles. The rest of the parade will be on foot, led by Rabbi Morris G. Silk and Archie Smith, president of the congregation.

The Gerald Clamont Post 369, Jewish War Veterans, will act as the guard of honor and a large band will provide appropriate music. Chief Marshall of the parade will be Max Resnick, assisted by Joseph Marcus and Abraham Foster.

SYD COHEN:
 Warning to Softballers

Tonight being the deadline for softball teams to pay their franchise fees, this is an appropriate time to issue a warning to each of the 12 teams that are planning to enter the Jewish Softball League for the coming season. The warning is meant especially for those clubs that are without sponsors—to date, at least.

Twelve teams constitute a large league—half again as large as last year's inaugural circuit. The planning for 12 teams is much more exacting than for eight; the cost is considerably greater; the problem of obtaining sufficient fields is increased—and the effect on the league if any of the teams should fail would be very harmful, to say the least.

That's why this warning—directed straight at the sponsor-less teams. If you have any doubts whatever concerning your financial ability to finish the exacting 22 game schedule, then don't gamble. Give the league the benefit of the doubt and stay out for this year.

Consider the cost. Twenty-five dollars is due tonight. In addition, the rock-bottom estimate of what it will cost to finance a club this year is $150—in addition to the franchise fee. It may easily run to $200. The younger teams especially should give heed to these figures. If any team fails, the league will not be able to give financial assistance. You must sink or swim by your own resources.

If any team drops out during the season, the entire schedule will be disrupted, the entire league upset. A complete reorganization will be required and confidence in the league will be seriously jolted. And you forfeit the $25 franchise money.

Think it over carefully, boys. Unless you feel absolutely sure you can afford to carry out your obligations to the other clubs, don't pay that franchise money tonight. Leave your team out of the league until next year. It will be the wisest thing to do.

Olympic Bowling
 By SIDNEY GREEN

Well, there are probably some die-hards who think the Cohens or Levines might have a chance to cop the second half championship, but I for one believe that it will be the Rodyn quintet which turns the trick. They took four points from the Avens and thus pulled away to a safe six point lead with but three weeks remaining. The Cohens split with the Lobels, and the Levines posted a 3-1 win over the Schwartzes. Gordon's baby behaved this week, so his gang defeated Jacobson and Co. 4-0.

"Happy" Aven still can't understand his team's lack of success.

Merlyn Rodyn's 383 was tops for total pinfall and his 134 led for a single string. Following this was Jarcho—131, J. Hochman—129, Cofman—119. 117 proved a popular pin total, being rolled by Mallatt, H. Levine, Pollack and yours truly.

Sponsors Needed

Now a word for those who can afford—and would like to sponsor one of the softball clubs. Now is the time to volunteer. Four sponsors are needed at present. The cost will be $150. League headquarters, not the individual teams, will provide the best index of what expenses are involved. The amount of good will created and the "free" advertising obtained are well worth the money.

Think it over—but don't take too long. The league gets under way in four weeks. Jerseys must be ordered now and all equipment bought while the buying is good.

If you can't afford the entire amount, give what you can to the league. The gift will be used wisely and with appreciation. The boys need accident insurance as well as gloves, and every dollar counts.

A Bowling Challenge

For the last few years the Daughterhood of Temple Beth Israel has been attempting to get into a competitive bowling series with some other women's organization. Up to now they have failed. This being another year, however, the Daughterhood is back again with the same request.

This year, for the first time, the Herald has carried the bowling reports of both the Daughterhood and the Olympic Club Auxiliary. Since the regular seasons of both are just about completed, now is the time to get things rolling.

The girls of the Daughterhood would like to meet the Olympic Auxiliary in a post-season match, on a neutral court, and to establish the event on an annual basis. If the distaff element of the Olympics are in favor, the matter may be speedily arranged. The column will be glad to handle the correspondence between the two groups until they get together.

TO HEAR REPORTS

Reports will be given at a meeting of the Jewish National Workers Alliance, Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.
