Al Capp B'nai B'rith Entertainer

Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith, will present a star packed program featuring the famous cartoonist, Al Capp, and Bess Myerson, Miss America of 1945 this Sunday evening at Plantations Auditorium starting at 8:30 o'clock.

It might be possible to describe Al Capp as a big, lovable, curly-headed, handsome, mightily-muscled youth, were it not for the fact that his picture accompanies this story.

He is the creator of Li'l Abner and is the only cartoonist ever to establish a national holiday—Sadie Hawkins Day, now celebrated by some 40,000 groups all over the country. Forty million readers follow the fortunes of the Dogpatch people every day in the papers of the nation and his creation, the "Shmoo", is now a national by-word.

Capp won't answer you if you ask him if Li'l Abner will ever marry Daisy Mae, but he will keep you entertained with a host of stories about how he created his characters and how he flunked Geometry nine times in the public schools of Bridgeport. His visit to Providence will be one of his rare public appearances.

Miss Bess Myerson is the lovely and glamorous personality who was selected Miss America in 1945. She is an accomplished musician, an experienced lecturer and linguist and a graduate of Hunter College.

She is now devoting much of her time to the more serious aspects of contemporary life and is spreading the good work of the

Speakers Stress Need of U. S. Aid

The appointment of Alvin A. Sopkin as chairman of the 1949 fund-raising campaign of the General Jewish Committee of Providence was announced Tuesday during the visit of the "Caravan of Hope" train to this city.

This will mark the fifth straight year that Sopkin has headed the GJC's annual drive, which will start on Labor Day.

In his acceptance address, made Tuesday evening at the Rhode Island School of Design auditorium, where the "Caravan of Hope" program was held before a capacity audience, Sopkin urged all contributors to the 1948 campaign to pay their pledges at once, in order that the funds may be rushed to Israel, where they are badly needed.

"I consider it a real honor to have been chosen again to be chairman of the GJC campaign," Sopkin said. "I am fully aware of the responsibility involved. I accept with the understanding that, as in the past, I will have the full cooperation and support of the entire Jewish community.

"From this point on, we roll up our sleeves and go to work again. Very shortly, I will announce the appointment of various division chairmen of our campaign. When you are called upon to work, I know that you will not refuse. "We have it within our power to make "Homecoming—1949" the realization of our dreams and hopes of the past decade."

Economy in Danger
The need of United States aid to Israel and the DP's was the keynote of the addresses delivered by the speakers at Tuesday evening's rally. Max Lerner, noted columnist, author and lecturer, told the packed throng that the DP camps of Europe must be emptied this year. Terming Europe a cemetery, Lerner asserted that if we fail to get the DP's out of the camps, "their blood will be on our hands."

Lerner emphasized that Israel's economy is in grave danger of collapsing because of the tremendous influx of homeless Jews into the country. He pointed out that 130,000 immigrants reached Palestine last year, that 40,000 now are in temporary quarters and that 30,000 are arriving every month. He compared the drain on Israel's resources with the problem that would arise in Rhode Island should the population jump by 30 percent.

Other speakers stated that continued aid from the U. S. is essential if Israel is to survive its economic problems.

In addition to Sopkin and Lerner, the program included Major Yerouham Cohen, Haganah war hero; Marcel Kirschner, veteran of eight years in DP and concen-

Herald Bowling Tourneys April 18, May 2

The three Temple bowling leagues—Beth-El, Beth Israel and Emanuel—will battle for the 1949 championship and the Herald trophy on Monday evening, April 18 at the Casino Alleys when the fourth annual Herald Bowling Tournament gets under way. The tourney will begin at 8 o'clock.

The top 20 keglers of each league, who appeared in at least two-thirds of their respective league's regularly scheduled matches during the current season, will be eligible to participate.

The men will be divided, according to averages, into four teams of five men each—called A, B, C and D—and teams of similar averages will be pitted against each other. That is, the top average clubs of each league will be in direct competition.

As in the past each team will bowl three strings and one point will be awarded for each. A fourth point will be given for total pinfall. The total match points will determine the winner. In case of tie, the league whose teams post the highest total pinfall will be declared the winner.

In addition to the league trophy, the individual bowler who compiles the best three-string total for the evening will receive the Trinkel trophy, awarded annually by Benjamin H. Trinkel in memory of his son, PFC Bernard J. Trinkel, USMC, who was killed on Iwo Jima during the war.

Second Tourney May 2

The second Herald-sponsored tournament, involving leagues not participating in the April 18 roll-off, will be held two weeks later, on May 2. Time, place and rules will remain the same.

Eligible for this second roll-off session, which was inaugurated last year, will be all Jewish bowling leagues in the Providence area with the exception of the leagues taking part in the April 18 affair. Applications for entry in this tourney must be received by the Herald no later than Saturday, April 16.

Ahavath Sholom Dedication Sunday

Climaxing a colorful and memorable program for dedication exercises for the formal opening of the New Ahavath Sholom Synagogue at Rochambeau Avenue and Camp Street this Sunday afternoon, the Jewish community will hear Dr. Israel Jacob Harris who has accepted an invitation to participate in the ceremonies.

Dr. Harris was born and educated in South Africa. He came to this country for the first time as a Rhodes scholar and attended Columbia University and Yeshiva University in New York. He was ordained with honors by the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary.

He is now in this country on a lecture tour and in furtherance of his studies.

The ceremonies will start at 1:30 o'clock at the old Synagogue at Howell and Scott Streets with a special ritual prepared by Rabbi Morris G. Silk, spiritual leader of the congregation. It will be followed by the traditional orthodox Procession of the Torahs, which will be led by the Rabbi and Archie Smith, president. To the accompaniment of band music, honorary bearers will carry the Holy Scrolls and Canopy from the old location to the new, with an honor guard of the Gerald Clamton Post 439, JWV. Max Resnick is Chief Marshal, assisted by Abraham Foster and Joseph Marcus.

The speaking program will take place at the new synagogue, and will include, in addition to the guest speakers, addresses by Rabbi

This series of articles is prepared and written by the General Jewish Committee of Providence. The series is designed to acquaint the public with the inner workings of the GJC, and to describe how that agency operates from the preparation of its annual fund-raising campaign to the ultimate disbursement of funds.

The Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island in New York Harbor is a shining symbol of freedom to the thousands of immigrants to America who arrive by ship each year from the Old World to begin life anew.

In her left arm, Liberty carries a book pressed against her side. The book represents the Law, and on it, carved in bold block letters, is the date July 4, 1776, meaning "Liberty based on Law."

There is a second inscription—one not carved in stone, but rather reflected in the hope-filled eyes of thousands of Jewish immigrants to this country during the past two generations—that was read by them on the broad expanses of this 305-foot-high statuary.

That inscription was, "HIAS Places the Displaced."

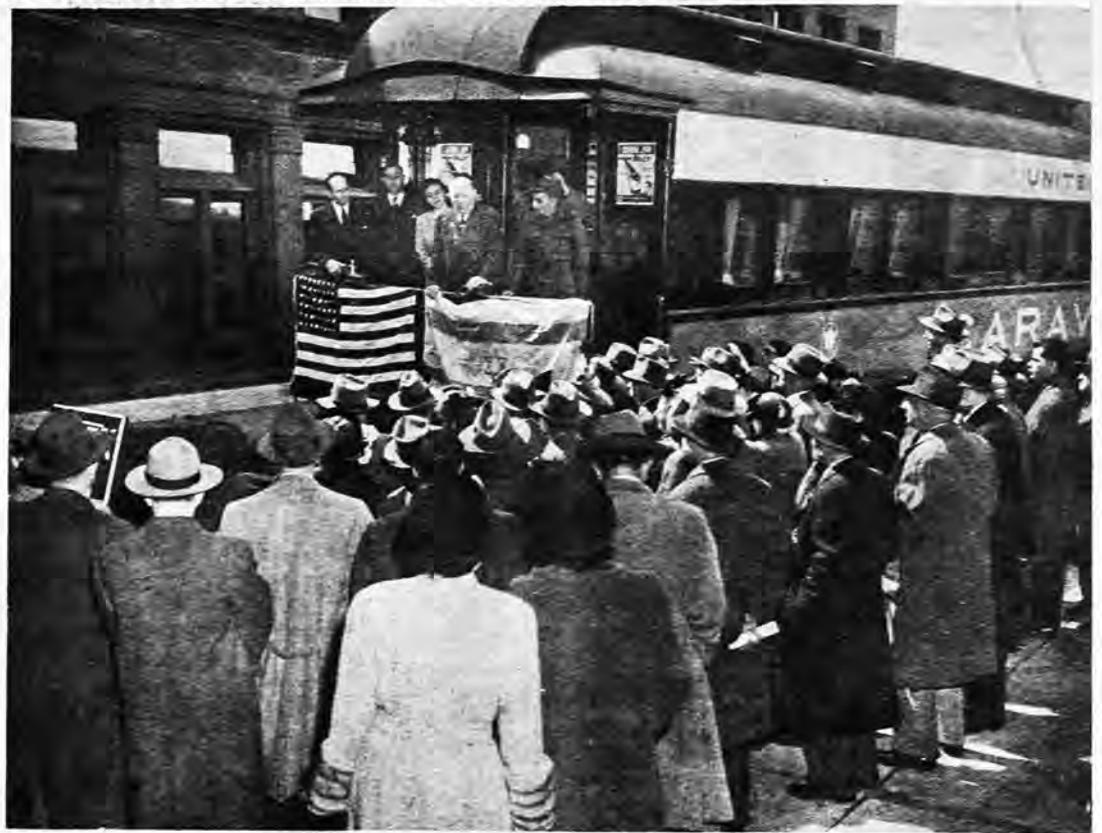

Finding a place for the displaced; providing a home for the homeless Jew in a country where he may strike his roots and live in peace and dignity—that is the function of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America, better known to a humanitarian world by its simple title of HIAS.

Each year until 1945, HIAS conducted independent campaigns and made personal solicitations in Providence. In 1945, by mutual agreement between HIAS and GJC officials, HIAS was included as a beneficiary of GJC campaigns, with the specific understanding that it would no longer conduct independent campaigns in our community.

HIAS is among the 61 agencies, in addition to the United Jewish Appeal, who share in the charitable donations of the Jewish people of Providence, as represented by their pledges to the annual fund-raising drive of the General (Continued on Page 9)

Ahavath Sholom to Dedicate New Synagogue Sun.

Objectives of the New Synagogue

By RABBI MORRIS G. SILK

While we, the children of Israel, are still celebrating the establishment of the new Jewish state in Israel, we, of the Ahavath Sholom, are gathering our forces to celebrate the dedication of the new Synagogue and Talmud Torah, wherefrom Jewish knowledge, learning and ideals will emanate.

And in this period of Dedication, our prayers are fervent that this Synagogue which we have built becomes a factor for good in the spiritual life of our community. We shall dedicate our House of Worship to the service of men, women, and children, to enter it every hour of the day to take part in some activity or program that will be offered to them.

Our spacious and cheerful class rooms will accommodate two hundred Hebrew School students, and the Sunday School activities will provide for five hundred pupils to participate in the program.

We are, at present, making every effort to engage a staff of teachers for the Hebrew and Sunday Schools that will be a pride to the community. The curriculum for the Talmud Torah and Sunday School will have the following subjects: Torah, Prophets, Rashi, customs and traditions, Jewish ethics, Hebrew grammar, Jewish history, Jewish music, etc. In our Schools we hope to implant into the hearts of our youth the knowledge and love for all those great principles and ideals of our Torah that will enable them to face life with courage and understanding, dignity and self-respect.

I extend the heartiest wishes to our President, Archie Smith, to the officers of the Synagogue and its Sisterhood, to the members of the Board of both organizations, to the Chairmen and all members of the Synagogue and Sisterhood and to all our friends who have given so generously and contributed so much to the success of our campaign. It is solely due to their cooperation, devotion and self-sacrifice that this Chanukah Habayis was made possible. May you find your reward in the realization that yours was "a job well done."

RABBI MORRIS G. SILK

Greetings From Rhode Island Rabbis

Rabbi Eli Bohnen Temple Emanuel

On behalf of the members of Temple Emanu-El, and on my own behalf, I am happy to extend a hearty "Mazal Tov" to our sister congregation, Ahavath Sholom, on the occasion of its official move to its new house of worship. We take this opportunity to express our hope that it will become a powerful instrument for the propagation of Jewish ideals and values in our community. May it, in its new home, help to enrich Jewish life through the education of young and old. May it, through its services, bring more Jews under the influence of the Jewish religion, and thus create an environment in which only that which is worthwhile and beautiful will be associated with Jewish living.

We have come to a turning point in American Jewish life. What we do now will influence the future course of Jews and Judaism in this land. It is for this reason that it is important that our Synagogue be strong and influential, and able to give direction to the trends in Jewish life and activity.

It is the hope of the members of Temple Emanu-El that Congregation Ahavath Sholom will be a stronghold for Judaism in Providence. The Torah tells us of God's promise that if we make a sanctuary unto Him, He will dwell in our midst. We hope that the sanctuary built by Congregation Ahavath Sholom will bring God's presence ever closer to all of us.

Sincerely yours,
RABBI ELI A. BOHNEN

Rabbi A. Goldin Rabbinical President

It gives me great pleasure and joy, on behalf of the Rabbinical Association and myself, to extend to you and the Congregation the sincere Mazal Tov and best wishes on the occasion of the Chanukas-Ha-bayis of your greater Ahavath Sholom and Talmud Torah.

Rabbi A. Chill Sons of Abraham

It was with a great deal of pleasure that I learned of the dedication of your new Synagogue on April 10th, 1949. Allow me to congratulate you and your congregation on this historic event in the long history of your congregation.

You personally have acquitted yourself admirably in a Herculean task that you have undertaken. I am convinced that if ever in the future a history of Rhode Island Jewry will be written your name will be prominent among those who have labored for the spiritual welfare of our community. May you go from strength unto strength and may your labors on behalf of your congregation bear the proper fruit.

been such a necessity in the city of Providence as it is at present. If we wish to prevent our Jewish youth from drifting away from Jewish life, we must provide a Jewish spiritual home for them, and you, in the erection of this great edifice have found the answer to that vital need.

It is our combined fervent prayer that you go from strength to strength.

Rabbi William Braude Temple Beth El

The new Ahavath Sholom will have great significance in the life of our community. It will enable Jews of the East Side to form regular habits of worship and study.

Please convey my warmest greetings to Rabbi Silk whose extraordinary labor made possible the emergence of the new synagogue.

May your efforts and the efforts of your co-workers, in the years to come, be crowned with God's blessing.

Cordially,

Rabbi Carol Klein Sons of Jacob

It has come to my attention that the dedicatory ceremonies of the new Ahavath Sholom synagogue will take place Sunday, April 10th. I want to take this opportunity to congratulate you and your congregation upon this momentous event.

I know of your great effort you have exerted, as the Rabbi of the congregation, to erect this new building. I am sure that it will be of great service to our community, satisfying the spiritual needs of young and old in your congregation.

It is with personal pleasure that I extend to you and your congregation my heartfelt felicitations. Your many years of effort and energy is being realized, and it should give you a sense of pride and satisfaction in reaping the fruits of your labor.

Wishing you and your congregation continued success in all your endeavors towards betterment of Jewish education, I am

RABBI CAROL KLEIN

Dedicatory Message of Archie Smith, President, Ahavath Sholom Congregation

The ceremonies marking the official opening of the lower structure of the new Ahavath Sholom Shul make Sunday, April 10, 1949 a day of simcha for the entire Jewish population of Providence.

Soon after our Congregation was organized, it enjoyed recognition as an enlightened, forward-looking Congregation with high standards of dignity, decorum and good taste, and withal, was consciously and deeply rooted in the ancient traditions of Israel.

The ensuing years witnessed a change in the character of the neighborhood. A generally north-easterly movement of population took place. Limited facilities in the northeast section of the city has meant that many of our people have had to go without the benefit of affiliation with a synagogue. This day sees the satisfaction of a generally-acknowledged, long-felt need for a new community building for those who psychologically and ideologically belong in a modern orthodox atmosphere.

It is significant that the first part of our synagogue to be completed is the Talmud Torah and the Community Hall which will temporarily be used as a place of worship until the second story is completed. Who can think of a Jewish congregation without remembering the Teachers of Torah, without recalling Yabneh and Tiberias and all the schools from Babylonian Pumbedita to Lithuanian Volozhin?

Wherever Jews have assembled throughout the world and down through the ages they have engaged in the study of Torah. The burning embers of the spirit of Sinai have been nurtured and kept alive under the most adverse conditions and despite the hardships and suffering of a people without a land. To fan those embers to glowing flames is the directive of our destiny.

Ahavath Sholom has recognized this responsibility, has prepared a physical plant wherein to educate Jewish youth in their glorious heritage and to present Jewish life to adults in such a way as to inculcate the concepts that have been bypassed in our pagan world in a Jewry which so sorely needs the teachings of the prophets of Israel.

From time to time since the inception of our building program I have been associated with this campaign in various capacities. The credit for our achievements, if any is due, should go to those numerous persons who over the years have worked so hard and so sincerely to accomplish these tasks, and to those leaders in our community who, though not affiliated with our congregation, recognized the importance of the project and came forward with very generous contributions. To the Rabbi, to the officers, to all the members of all the committees and to all the contributors I express the sincere thanks of Ahavath Sholom.

The bricks have been laid and the mortar has been poured, but they alone cannot satisfy the spiritual cravings of a people to whom peace of mind is the title of a book. Let us now all work and strive for the day to come soon when, in the words of the Almighty to Jeremiah: "I shall implant my law in their minds, and I shall write it in their hearts, and I shall be to them a God, and they will be to me a people."

Statement of A. Louis Rosenstein, Chairman Dedication Program Committee

As chairman of the dedication committee of the New Ahavath Sholom Synagogue, I welcome to our dedication exercises the many civic and religious leaders, the board of trustees, members, friends and guests of our congregation. It is with joy that I extend to you my greetings on this occasion, commemorating the opening of our new House of Worship and Learning.

To attain this high objective has been brought about only after difficult, earnest and exacting labor on the part of our members. To them and to Dr. Irving Kaplan and Mr. Samuel Olshansky, my co-chairmen, Rabbi Morris G. Silk, President Archie Smith, the committee itself and to the sisterhood I owe thanks for having given so generously of their time and talent. This I now acknowledge. Their efforts are a contribution to the community which will long be remembered.

Statement of Samuel Ornstein, Chairman of the Construction Committee

On the eve of the formal opening of the New Ahavath Sholom Synagogue I congratulate my fellow workers for their fine cooperation in the face of many difficulties. Particularly I thank Rabbi Morris G. Silk whose guiding influence and zealous leadership were so instrumental in overcoming seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

I take great pride in the beautiful edifice which is now ready to serve the Jewish community. From acoustic ceiling to tiled floor, all the latest innovations and improvements of the building craft adorn our structure. Looking at our model Talmud Torah rooms and our spacious auditorium, I feel we have built not only for the present but for a glorious future. It is particularly heartening that unaffiliated Jewish residents of the East Side will now have a rare opportunity to join a progressive orthodox congregation.

Membership Committee

Due to numerous inquiries concerning membership in the New Ahavath Sholom Synagogue, a special committee under the chairmanship of Samuel Wolf will have an information booth set aside in the new location on the afternoon of April 10 for the benefit of those interested.

For the general information of the public, the committee announces that there is still time to become a charter member, although a deadline will be set soon. Membership will include family pew rights on the high holidays, Talmud Torah and Sunday School rights for children, cemetery rights, and an opportunity to engage in adult cultural programs in Jewish and Hebrew subjects. It is pointed out that enrollment now will insure your family pew for the high holidays, as membership will be limited, until the structure is entirely completed, to its present capacity. Attendance for the holidays will be limited to families of members only at the New Synagogue.

SYD COHEN:
 More About the Reserve Clause

The troubled atmosphere that has hung over all professional sports in general, and baseball in particular, since the inception of the Gardella case seems to have lessened. One month ago the game was on the defensive and Gardella was a giant in more than his former uniform. Now the Mexican jumping-(has)beans who are fighting for reinstatement are slipping to the defensive and baseball looks as if it will weather the storm.

The most peculiar aspect of the entire affair has been the way most sports columnists have gleefully seized the opportunity to take pot shots at the set-up of organized baseball. Dave Egan in Boston and Dan Parker in New York, in particular, stand out among this side. There are many others. No one as yet has seen fit or been able to present baseball's side with any clarity, except to say the game can't exist without the reserve clause.

The funny thing is that these money-grabbing owners pay part of the expenses of the writers who cover their clubs. The newspapers do not pick up the entire tab. If they did, there might be fewer writers living with the teams they write about.

This is one column that will stick on the side of the present system until and unless that system is proven wrong and unjust. So far there seems to me to be no such basis for argument, and I predict again that the system will not be changed by the courts.

Listening to the arguments proposed by the opposition, you might get the idea that wealthy baseball owners are taking advantage of the players something awful, and that they have a nerve to offer their hands as little money as they do and tie them up for life as well. Makes good reading, but unfortunately does not truly detail the facts.

Did you see the story last week to the effect that the Boston Red Sox finally showed a profit in 1948—for the FOURTH time in the last SIXTEEN years? Four times in sixteen years—yet, the Sox have one of the largest payrolls in the business and are one of baseball's most liberal clubs.

Did you read what that profit amounted to? Fifty-five thousand dollars. Did you stop to figure what $55,000 means to a ball club? It means that if attendance slumps just a bit this year—just to the extent of one capacity crowd or if rain ruins a couple of games—the profit is gone. Not only that, but with a higher payroll (Williams, etc.) the Sox can easily lose money again.

While it is true that some clubs have made profits of a quarter million or thereabouts in the last few years, there are many in the financial class of the Red Sox. And that brings us to the point.

If a baseball owner ran his club on a sound business basis, he could never afford to pay the present salaries, from the top down. He simply couldn't do it. Suppose Tom Yawkey were not willing to shell out of his private fortune to keep the Sox going, and told Joe Cronin to pare expenses to insure that the club would at least break even, what would happen to salaries—or the price of admission—or both?

Reserve clause or no reserve clause—players will not average any more money, UNLESS the owners are willing to go into competitive bidding for their services and absorb the losses out of their personal fortunes. That might be done for a few years, but how long could they keep it up? It is not sound business practice and it would only lead to a crash later.

The mere fact that millionaire owners would be required under that system and that ball clubs would have to forget about finishing in the black serves as the best indictment of this set-up.

What would happen to the farm systems and the countless baseball schools now conducted by major league teams if the reserve clause should be abolished? Would they be kept alive when the owners realized they stood the risk of developing these players for several years, then losing them in the open market with no return, either financial or on the ball field? Probably not.

The result would inevitably be that farm systems would be drastically curtailed, and many promising kids never would get the breaks they now enjoy because of the patient handling that organized baseball can afford to give them.

From this corner, the moguls of baseball do not appear as black as they have consistently been done a mighty creditable job for painted. In my opinion, they have the players and fans of America.

Urge Public to Open Homes for Passover

An appeal to the Jewish public to provide meals for out-of-town students at Rhode Island colleges during Passover was made this week by Rabbi Nathan N. Rosen, director of the Hillel Foundations at Brown University and other R. I. colleges.

Stating that these students "will find it virtually impossible to keep Pesach without your help", Rabbi Rosen urged the Jewish community to "open your hearts and your homes to one Jewish boy or girl for meals during the week of Passover."

Families interested in assisting these students are asked to call Rabbi Rosen at UNION 0625 or UNION 0692.

School Principals Form Association

At the invitation of Rabbi James I. Gordon, principal of the Providence Hebrew Day School, principals of Hebrew Day Schools in the New England area met in Providence on March 30.

The purpose of this meeting was to form an association that will discuss and attempt to solve the various problems confronting the Hebrew Day School movement. It will be the aim of the association to observe and supervise existing schools and assist them in achieving the best in education. Plans for arranging teachers' seminars for teachers active in the New England area also were discussed.

Another meeting will be held in Boston immediately after the Passover holidays. Rabbi Gordon was appointed to serve as temporary chairman for the group.

The Festival of Passover

Passover is the oldest festival of liberty in the annals of civilization. Thirty-five hundred years ago the enslaved Jews revolted against the tyranny of the Egyptian taskmasters, escaped from slavery, blazed a trail across the wilderness, crossed the Jordan, and conquered Palestine, the Promised Land.

Since that day the Jews have observed this season with prayer and thanksgiving to God for the ideals of liberty and truth. The Passover meals, or Seder, ushers in the holidays on the first night, and the whole history of the Passover is recited to the children. During this season unleavened bread or matzos is eaten, in commemoration of the fact that when the Jews fled Egypt they had no time to leaven their bread.

American Democracy is based upon the ideals of freedom and liberty first proclaimed by the Jews' successful revolt against slavery and oppression. Our founding fathers relived the same atmosphere of tension and fear in their flight to the New World and it is a testament to their endurance and wisdom that we in America enjoy the rights and liberties they won.

Today the Festival of Passover brings a message of hope and encouragement to all people who live in lands of darkness, and gives them the promise of a free world of tomorrow, when "each man may sit in shadow of his own vine and fig tree and none make him afraid."

Your GJC in Action

Jewish Committee.

GJC Aids HIAS

Last year, the GJC allocated $21,250 to HIAS. This year another substantial allocation will be approved by the GJC to this 64-year-old agency.

HIAS was established in 1884 to receive and assist Jewish immigrants coming to the United States. Since World War I, however, it also has assisted Jews in Europe wishing to migrate to other countries.

The scope of its activities is evident from these significant statistics: In 1948, HIAS helped in the emigration of 23,351 refugees and displaced persons from Europe to the Americas, Palestine, Australia and South Africa. HIAS offices gird the globe, with more than 100 centers in more than 50 countries. In 1948, HIAS expended $2,390,754.43 to maintain its many immigrant aid services throughout the world.

But figures and statistics are cold things, and one must look for the human story behind each figure to appreciate the real story of HIAS. Each figure stands for the suffering of a human being. Each figure stands for the transplantation of a human soul, a Jewish soul, from wretchedness and terror to a good land and a good life.

Each of the 23,351 cases aided by HIAS in 1948 involved multitudinous and complex details, processes and steps. Each one of these cases represented laborious work and expert advice before that happy moment came when the ship had been boarded and it steamed out of the harbor toward a long-sought haven of peace and security in any one of the score of nations willing to open their doors to wandering Jews.

In certain respects, HIAS performs functions identical with those performed by the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Service for New Americans, two of the three sub-divisions of the United Jewish Appeal.

Increased Cooperation

However, in recent years there has been a marked degree of coordination among HIAS, JDC and USNA. In Germany, for example, two officers of equal rank—one a HIAS and the other a JDC appointee—head up the co-ordinating committee for U. S. Immigration under the DP Act. And it seems quite likely that eventually an agreement will be arrived at, under which HIAS and JDC will unify their global activities and also co-ordinate certain HIAS and USNA services on the domestic scene.

All three agencies are agreed that their tasks in 1949 will be the greatest yet demanded of them. It is a fact not to be forgotten that the establishment of the new Jewish State will not solve the entire problem of Jewish migration.

Israel, because of the generosity of American Jewry, will be able to welcome many thousands of refugees to its shores. But, manifestly, Israel cannot absorb them all. These Jews must go wherever they will be received and be permitted to live in security, peace and dignity.

Many of the Jews in Eastern Europe have friends and relatives in the United States, Canada, South and Central America, Australia and South Africa who pioneered the way for them and who are ready to help them start a new life.

HIAS points out that it will always stand ready to assist these homeless ones to be placed in friendly and congenial environments.

Affidavits are being prepared; authorities are being intervened with, plane, ship and train space is being chartered; overseas kin are being contacted for documents and information, meals and shelter are being provided at staging areas, as well as money and clothing; relatives are being located; money and messages are being transmitted—these are but some of the innumerable activities of HIAS which are being performed night and day at its offices throughout the world.

When the day arrives when the wandering Jew is but a legend, then HIAS will be pleased to "close shop". But until then—and as long as there is a single displaced person to be placed—HIAS will continue its humanitarian efforts, thanks to the aid it receives from many sources, including your pledge to the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc.!

"One Man's Opinion"

On the Eve of Passover

By BERNARD SEGAL

Mrs. L., a charming young mother of little children, wanted a recipe and directions for baking Haman-tashen this last Purim. Not that she could not buy them at the baker's, but she wanted to busy herself with the preparations and the baking of the Purim delicacies for the sake of her children. Mrs. L., like the ever growing number of young sensitive mothers, knows the value of just such bits of childhood thrills in the lives of their young ones. The little girl of seven, or eight, or nine, will in later years, look back with great delight on the scene at the home of her parents with mother baking delicious Haman-tashen, and she with her sister watching and helping and tasting. Memories of such scenes together with long forgotten sounds and scents and images spell out the magic word "Home."

The festival of Passover is particularly rich in such endearing childhood impressions. The eight-day-long holiday is replete with age old ceremonials and symbols and pageantry that thrill the child and enrich his world. These are ideal days, made to order for sensitive parents to make lasting imprints on the minds and souls of their children—imprints that will radiate a warmth in the years to come.

The two Seder nights are dramatic presentations starring the child of the house. The whole Seder would be meaningless without a child on hand to start off the play by asking the famous four questions. What follows in story and song and in action is all calculated to impress the child, and to arouse his curiosity, and to hold his interest all through the feast.

But the Passover thrills begin days before the start of the holiday. The setting of the stage for the re-enactment of the Passover pageant in the home is as impressive as the performance itself. When I think of the Passover of my childhood, my memories take me back to the hustle and bustle of the Erev-Pesach, the pre-holiday preparations.

I remember the thorough cleaning and cleansing of every nook and cranny of the house. I remember the scrubbing and the scourings of closets, shelves and woodwork. Every one in the house held had a hand in the polishing of utensils, the boiling of metal-ware, and the babbism by fire of all the vessels and pots and pans. We called it "Koshern" the house for Pesach, and it was a new house on the eve of the festival. New curtains appeared on the sparkling windows. Colorful strips of paper lined the shelves. White tablecloths and towels, and kitchen cloths fresh from the linen shops, replaced the ones that were used all the other days of the year.

Airing of the Books

The airing of the books. Who can forget the airing of the books in the spring out-doors? The cases and the shelves were emptied of the volumes lining them, as part of the House-Koshern. Father removed carefully each volume and handed it to one child, who relayed it to another, and so the book passed from hand to hand, out to a long table in front of the house. While the books were aired and refreshed in the sun, the shelves were washed and cleaned. So were all the closets in the house, and all the drawers, and all the window sills, and every article in the house where the dust of Chometz can hide and thus contaminate the Passover.

And the clothes for Pesach. No matter how badly a child needed a suit of clothes or a pair of shoes, the buying was postponed till the holiday. All during the winter we were promised a new something for Pesach. And on the first night of the holiday every child in the Synagogue walked around uncomfortably in new cap, in stiff clothes, and with the smell of new leather in his creaking shoes.

And the dishes, the strange, the lovely Passover wine cups and plates, and china, and silverware, that reappeared in the house after being stored away all through the year. The Pesach dishes that came back like an uncle returning from unknown parts. They were so different, so delicate and so festive. Year in, year out, they appeared with the first days of spring with the bursting of the buds on the trees, and with the twittering of the birds high in the air.

Wonderful days, lovely Erev-Pesach days of my childhood. Who would not thrill at their memory?

Historic Ramblings

By JOHN A. SOLOMON
CHAPTER V

Shortly after the Sons of Zion raised the considerable sum of $1000 toward the erection of a new synagogue a sandy, hilly tract of land on Orms Street was purchased for $3000 also considered a steep price. It was a fortunate break that the city was in need of a large quantity of sand, and a working agreement was arranged whereby the city agreed to take all the sand and level off the land—which proved a considerable saving in later construction.

Hard times continued to knock at the door but five years later—in 1892—a contract was made for the construction of the present edifice on Orms Street for $23,500. This was considered a tremendous undertaking.

They say that truth is stranger than fiction, for the construction of this synagogue was actually commenced without a single dollar of capital; and it is said that after paying High Holiday costs and other current expenses, the treasury was as bare as "Old Mother Hubbard's Cupboard."

Promise and Prayer

During the construction, the contractor was in urgent need of funds and there was a frantic scurrying for some quick cash among the members. Many dated checks and promissory notes were just some of the financial headaches involved before mortgage arrangements were finally concluded. It seems that those were the days of a "promise and a prayer."

Appropriate designs from other synagogues were carefully considered before a final choice was made. The interior was beautifully adorned with appropriate Jewish embellishments and when the synagogue was completed, Providence's new orthodox shul was the talk among New York and Boston congregations. It was opened for religious services in Eru 1892.

By this time the entire land in the Moshassuck Cemetery was depleted and additional ground was denied. It was now apparent that a cemetery of their own was most urgent, so a committee was appointed and desirable land was investigated all over central Rhode Island as soon as it became known, however, that it was sought for a Jewish cemetery the answer was invariably no.

Obtain Cemetery Plot

It became a very discouraging task, but after a lot of looking around, two available locations were found. One was in the town of Lincoln near Lime Rock but goodness only knows how many rocks and ledges were under that land and it was not difficult for the committee to realize that this would be much too expensive a venture for their scant treasury. The other was a desolate-looking swamp filled with old tree stumps and rocks, located in Lincoln Park in the town of Warwick. This area was considered undesirable for building purposes so that is why it was offered to the Jews as a cemetery.

They had no alternative, so the lesser of the two evils was chosen, and this dismal morass was purchased in 1895 for $800. There was a hitch, however, because the Sons of Zion did not possess the $800. This amount was advanced by Joseph Joslin, Moses Frank and Isaac Solomon, and in return for this money they were permitted to select the first family lots in the cemetery. These lots are still retained by their families.

Your Hebrew Lesson This Week

The Festival of Passover starts at sunset on Wednesday, April 13, which is the fourteenth day of the Month of Nisan. The First Seder is observed on Wednesday night, and the Second Seder on Thursday night.

Here are some words and phrases used in connection with the festival.

PESACH, the festival of Passover, is also known by the name of CHAG HAMATZOS, the festival of the Unleavened bread. It is also called CHAG HO'OVIV, the Festival of Spring. The holiday is further referred to as the Z'MAN CHERUSEINU, the season of our Freedom.

The HAGGADAB—the collection of stories and songs and blessings used during the Seder nights, means "Telling." The name for this little book derives from the command in scripture: "And thou shalt tell thy son on that day" of all the events of the deliverance from the bondage in Egypt.

CHOMETZ—all bread and pastry which was leavened, as well as all foods and beverages that were fermented or are capable of becoming fermented, are to be excluded from the diet during the eight days of Passover.

MOROR—the bitter herb, horseradish, which is an essential element in the Seder meal, is eaten to remind us how the lives of our forefathers were embittered in Egypt.

ARBA KOSOS—the Four cups of wine which are re-filled by all who are present at the Seder feast. Each cup is symbolic of the four terms in which the deliverance from Egypt is described in scripture.

Magic Man Performs At Center Sunday

Peter Pan the Magic Man will perform for the Children's Theatre of the Jewish Community Center this Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Hope High School. Dr. Abraham Hurwitz, who is Peter Pan the Magic Man, has appeared at the Children's Theatre in the past. His program is "a delight to all children", and is considered of educational benefit by many parents groups.

This is the last in the current series of four Children's Theatre programs sponsored by the Women's Association of the Center. Mrs. Walter Nelson, program chairman, has announced that non-season ticket holders may purchase tickets at the door.

Beth El Bowling

By JACK APPELBAUM

By the time you read this, the Beth El bowling league season will have been closed. Next week we will publish the official standing of the league. Don't forget—we still have a "singles" and "doubles" sweepstakes to be held April 21 at 8 o'clock.

On April 18 the Inter-Temple League Contest will be held between the top bowlers of each league. Let's get down there and root our men in. May 18 is the date of our banquet to be held at the Narragansett.

Well, it's been a swell season and we've all had a lot of fun. We have a great bunch of men and it has been a pleasure associating with them. I cannot let the season close without a word about the one individual who, to me, has been the most outstanding fellow in the league. He's a top bowler, but more important, he is as swell a guy as there is in the Brotherhood. A paragon of good nature and even temperament, a perfect gentleman and the most lovable character we know. I am talking, of course, about my captain and very dear friend, Allie Shatkin. We're happy he's in our league, and I hope he's my captain again next season.

Troop 20 Has Camping Trip

Eleven scouts and four leaders of Troop 20 Providence, sponsored by the Men's Club of Temple Emanuel, took part in a week-end camping trip at Circle 20 Ranch in Greenville, hiking from Esmond under the leadership of Raymond Sadow, junior assistant scoutmaster.

The activities included setting up temporary camp sites and fireplaces, games and sessions of scoutcraft. Many tests were passed.

Leaders were Martin Dittleman and Sheldon Green, assistant scoutmasters; Bernard R. Clorman, senior scout advisor, and Raymond Sadow, both of senior outfit 20.

Saul Sadow, scoutmaster, and Malcolm Bromberg, assistant scoutmaster, visited the camp site.

Hadassah Doctor Speaks to Local Group

Dr. Joseph Hirsh of New York, executive secretary of the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Reference Board, addressing a group of Providence physicians and their wives last night at the home of Drs. Clara and Joseph Smith, spoke of the urgent need for establishing a medical school and expanding medical research in Israel.

Dr. Hirsh, a major in the Sanitary Corps of the U. S. Army and Air Forces during the past war, was engaged in public health and preventative medical work in 27 countries in Africa, Europe, the Middle East and Latin America. He described Israel and the Arab countries bordering the Mediterranean as "the historical crossroads for infectious diseases of all kinds."

"In the Jewish State itself," he stated, "although Hadassah clinics have served over 2 million people and Hadassah hospitals have cared for more than 250,000 patients, both Arabs and Jews, new problems are arising, due to the influx of 150,000 immigrants from Europe. This new situation has made the expansion of medical work and the realization of the dream of establishing a first-rate medical school in the Jewish State a pressing and immediate necessity."

"The best of American and of European medical techniques and methods of instruction, research and service will go into shaping this new Israeli medical school. It will not only make the Jewish State self-sufficient medically, but in terms of world health, it can reasonably be expected to lift preventative and curative medical standards for the whole ... Middle East."

Also present at this meeting were members of the Providence chapter of Hadassah Donors' Committee, whose donors affair will be held at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet on May 1.

AZA SPEAKER

Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen will be guest speaker at the Narragansett AZA meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Jewish Community Center. All AZA groups are invited.

Center Party Monday Evening

A victory party and dance on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, will conclude the Jewish Community Center Membership Enrollment, the C-Day campaign that was conducted last Sunday, according to an announcement by J. I. Cohen, chairman of the drive. Two hundred and fifty workers and captains attended the breakfast which launched the day's campaign effort. By the end of the day 400 new members, including children and adults, had been enrolled.

Arrangements for the organization of C-Day were in charge of Gertrude Tarnapol. The auditing was handled by Dudley Block, Harvey Blake and Myer Jarcho. The volunteer staff aiding in the organization work were Molly and Ann Bercowitz.

Workers have been urged to complete their cards this week and return all cards, whether pledged or not, to the Center. The final report will be given next Monday.

The breakfast program was based on individual testimonials as to the Center's program.

BEST WISHES FOR A HAPPY HOLIDAY

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

An investigation has been demanded on the score-keeping methods of the Harvard team. At least, I demanded it when one of the members allegedly broke high single with 159. Ordinarily, his name would be emblazoned on these pages but it might be embarrassing to him as he knows that it just couldn't happen.

While we are not embarrassing some one, I must report the excellent progress of Irv Kovitch's Dartmouth team and Brodsky's Syracuse team, both of which are now in contention for the lead as they each walloped Yale, erstwhile leader, and R. I. State for four points.

Besides the unknown who managed to hit high single, Hy Wasserman, 134, O. Dressler, 131, and Wolfe Myrow, 128, turned in good strings. Dressler grabbed high three as he racked up 358 and Wasserman turned in with 328. Anonymous slipped in the middle with 350. While we are still keeping him anonymous, the initials of the person it couldn't happen to are Eddie Berren.

Olympic Bowling

By SIDNEY GREEN

Just to keep the records straight, I herewith wish to state that there are seven other teams in this man's league beside the Rodyns. This statement is made so that the following will not be misleading. The high single and high three scores were rolled by Merlyn Rodyn with 124 and 358 respectively, while he and his mates took home the team honors with a single string score of 521 and total pinfall of 1508.

The Avens took four points while the Gordons also bowled. The Cohens took three points from the Schwartzes, Jacobson and Co. dropped four points with the Rodyns, and Lobel's Lads took a 3-1 decision from the Levines.

The championship play-offs are scheduled for Monday night, April 11, at 8 o'clock and should prove to be a very thrilling battle as both teams are evenly matched. The Rodyns have a 102 average and the Levines 101, and both are definitely "up" for this one.

PLACE OF BRIDGE

The Rhode Island Founders bridge will be held May 16 at the Commercial Travelers Hall on 77 Franklin Street, not 77 Green Street as previously announced.

The second annual Isaac Gerber Oration, sponsored by the staff of the Miriam Hospital and honoring Dr. Gerber as an outstanding and exemplary physician of the community, was held March 30 at the R. I. Medical Society library on Francis Street.

At this time the Society, which brings to Providence each year an eminent physician to speak on a subject of general interest, invited Dr. Harry Gold, professor of Clinical Pharmacology of Cornell University Medical School, as guest speaker.

Camp Jori Reunion This Sunday

The first Camp Jori Reunion will be held this Sunday at the Jewish Community Center from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock. A notice sent to all Jori Campers this week announced the event as "Stupendous—Colossal!"—the kind of affair that no camper would want to miss. Scheduled on the program will be camp songs, movies, square dances and refreshments.

Leo Weiss, Camp Jori Director, will be master of ceremonies. There is no admission charge, and the affair is open to all previous Jori campers. The Board of Directors of the Jewish Children's Home and Foundation have also been invited to attend.

Registration for Camp Jori is now open and is being done at the Jewish Family and Children's Service at 100 North Main Street. It is important for the parent of each child to telephone the JFCS, DEter 1244, in order to make an appointment for Camp registration. Camp Jori, which is located at Point Judith, provides a vacation opportunity of two weeks duration for Jewish children throughout the state. Boys and Girls ranging from 6 to 14 years are eligible.

The registration fee for this season has been set at $20 per week, but, as in the past, it will be adjusted on a sliding scale depending upon the income of the individual family. Children are sent completely free of charge in instances where families are unable to make payment. Under a revision of policy, there will be some room at the camp this summer for a limited number of children of middle and higher income families who are able to pay the full registration fee.

Alexander Rumpler, president of the Jewish Children's Home and Foundation, urged all families who are interested in registering their children for Camp Jori to do so without delay because of the large number who have indicated a desire to go to Camp Jori this summer.

To Place Memorial Tree in Center

Announcement has been made by the Narragansett B'nai B'rith Girls that when the leaves of their memorial tree are completely filled, the tree will be placed in the lounge of the Jewish Community Center.

Contributions of 25 cents for each leaf commemorating some event may be made by contacting Miss Marcia Chase, chairman, or any member of the organization.

On Historic Ramblings

The Historic Ramblings in your paper are not correct.

According to the first chapter, one gets the impression that the Orms Street Synagogue was the first Jewish congregation in Providence.

That is not so. The Congregation now called Beth El was founded in 1854. The records are available in our Temple library which you can see if you make an appointment with Miss Pincus, the librarian, either at the Temple, Union 9797, or her home, Williams 2788.

Carnival Capitalism

Judging from the expressions (not to mention the noise) of the kids who came to Temple Emanuel's Carnival, it was surely a success.

The women at the flower counter were amused when one youngster asked if they would "please" make him up "just a little bouquet". He wanted to take home a present for his mother, but all he had was a penny. Sympathetic Irma Finberg made up a "little bouquet" for him and he thanked her politely. It wasn't more than five minutes later that he returned holding three cents in his hand and—said he, "I sold it—now can I have something better?"
