Myerson Criticizes Newsweek Report

Says Russian Story Absurd

Charges Misuse of Welfare Funds

NEW YORK — Henry Hurwitz, editor of the MENORAH JOURNAL, announced this week he had formally petitioned the New York Board of Rabbis for a Beth Din (rabbinical court) to hear his charges of misuse of United Jewish Appeal funds.

Hurwitz said he had asked for a hearing on his Din Torah, a public suit for trial and judgment by a rabbinical court.

Charging that non-relief agencies had again been tacked on to the New York United Jewish Appeal campaign, Hurwitz said that repeated requests to the management of the New York UJA for agreements with the non-relief groups and the extent of their shares in the campaign have been met with silence.

He said such secrecy was contrary to sound democratic policy and harmful to the welfare of American Jewry as a whole.

MOSCOW—Mrs. Golda Myerson, retiring Israeli Minister to the Soviet Union and Israeli Minister of Labor, in a statement to the press on a NEWSWEEK article published last week asserting that she was "indignant over treatment she received during her brief stay in Moscow," declared this week that "I am indeed indignant, not over anything I have met in the U.S.S.R., but with reports of correspondents who, either through sheer ignorance or wilful malice, report such things which are as absurd as they are unfounded."

Mrs. Myerson's statement added that "ever since the Israeli legation came to Moscow, we met nothing but helpfulness and courtesy from everybody whom it was our privilege to meet. I feel almost inclined to believe that it is the cordial relations between the two countries, as expressed between the U.S.S.R. and the Israeli legation, that leads some who are dissatisfied with this, to publish such folly."

B'nai B'rith Re-elects Bertram Bernhardt

Bertram L. Bernhardt was re-elected president of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith, last Sunday night at the annual election meeting. The lodge broke precedent by electing him for the third successive year.

Other officers are: George M. Goldsmith, Sidney Rabinowitz and Coleman Zimmerman, vice presidents; Irving Wattman, recording secretary; Benjamin Ruttenberg, treasurer; George Katz, financial secretary; E. Max Weiss, chaplain; Ronald Sopkin, assistant chaplain, and Burton Finberg, warden.

Trustees are: Benjamin Brier,

Turkey Bans "Oliver Twist"

ISTANBUL—The British movie, "Oliver Twist," which has been branded anti-Semitic and which was banned recently in the U. S. zones of Germany and Austria, will not be exhibited in Turkey. Dr. Lufti Kirder, governor of Istanbul, this week notified leaders of the local Jewish community.

Labor Zionist Third Seder Sunday

The annual Third Seder of the Labor Zionists of Providence will be held this Sunday evening at the Narragansett Hotel. This celebration, begun in Providence in 1925 and adopted by Jewish communities throughout the world, honors the Histadrut as the initial factor in preparing Israel for its epic role in history.

The Histadrut, representing 75 per cent of the workers in Israel, led the movement to work the soil of Israel, leading to a source of economic self-sufficiency, and founded the Haganah, so important in the recent history of the new State.

Highlighting the program will be Congressman Emanuel Celler, guest speaker, and Shoshana Damari and Joseph Goland, stars of the Israeli theater. Archibald Silverman, president of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, will also be a guest. Rabbi Aaron Goldin, president of the Rabbinical Assembly of Rhode Island, will give the benediction.

Hadassah to Memorialize Dr. Haim Yassky

Hadassah is commemorating the death of Dr. Haim Yassky, Hadassah medical director, who with 75 others was killed on the road to Mount Scopus April 13, 1948, by expanding their medical work.
 April will mark the opening of the Hadassah-Yassky Memorial Hospital in temporary quarters in Beersheba. The health center and hospital, the forerunner of the modern $300,000 hospital to be constructed next year, is the first hospital in an area into which thousands of new settlers are expected to pour this year.

 As part of the commemoration program and to support the medical program of Hadassah, the Providence chapter of Hadassah is holding its Donors Supper-Dance, May 1 at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

COMMUNITY SENIORITY AGENCIES

This series of articles is prepared and written by the General Jewish Committee of Providence. The series is designed to acquaint the public with the inner workings of the GJC, and to describe how that agency operates from the preparation of its annual fund-raising campaign to the ultimate disbursement of funds.

largest circulated newspaper in Israel.

In Israel, "Histadrut" is the short title of the General Federation of Jewish Labor, the widely-diversified labor cooperative society which was founded in 1920 and today numbers 200,000 members, equivalent to about three-quarters of the working population of the new Jewish republic.

It is not only the dominant trade union in Israel, whose strength, by American standards, would equal the CIO, AFL and all the Railroad Brotherhoods combined. It is also the largest enterprise in the country!

It owns a cooperative airline and shipping company that ties Palestine together with Europe. It operates a great network of bus cooperatives serving Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv, and linking almost every city and town throughout the country.

The Hebrew word "Histadrut" (which rhymes with "parachute," emphasizing the last syllable) means "organization." This synonym, however, is almost a misnomer because Histadrut actually is a group of many trade unions, working as a single unit on many fronts to reclaim the harsh soil of Palestine.

It owns important iron foundries, large glass works, a giant construction syndicate, half interest in a huge cement works at Haifa and in a mushrooming company, named Shemen, that makes everything from oil products to shaving cream!

To get a proper perspective of Histadrut maintains a unique position in the world labor movement. Its activities extend to fields which normally do not fall within the sphere of trade unions: cultural work, like the publication of a dictionary of the Hebrew language; educational work, in conjunction with the Hebrew University; agricultural research, in collaboration with the Weizmann Institute at Rehovot; publications, such as Davar, the

Temple Keglers Compete Monday

When the Herald's fourth annual Temple Bowling Tournament gets under way Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Casino Alleys on Pine Street, the keglers representing Temple Beth Israel will be seeking their third straight win. Temple Emanuel took the inaugural tourney, but neither that group nor Temple Beth-El has since been able to stop the current defending champs.

Last year, in addition to romping home with the Herald trophy, Beth Israel also copped individual honors.

Twenty men, comprising four teams, will represent each of the three leagues. Teams are arranged according to season's averages, which means that the best five keggers of each organization bowl together on their league's respective "A" teams.

The public is invited to attend the championship rolloff.

Application Deadline
 Bowling leagues other than the Temple groups that are interested in the Herald's second tournament, scheduled for May 2, are reminded that applications must be made at the Herald office by noon tomorrow, April 16.

Organization Waste and Duplication

Publishers and editors of the English-Jewish press convened in Washington recently, reviewed the hundredth year of their existence and voiced some pertinent comments regarding the publicity expenditures of national organizations. They had written to 47 organizations requesting information as to their expenses for publicity and only 10 had replied—those with minimal expenses. The others who sponsor bulletins, periodicals and expensive releases, had maintained a discreet silence. That their releases are a total waste—duplicated by the news services, and released by the weekly Jewish papers, was pointed out by the editors.

Calling for correction of this needless waste of public funds, the group passed a resolution deploring the waste of money such as the deficit of $164,092 incurred by the magazine "Commentary" in a twelve month period. This magazine, published by the American Jewish Committee, is supported by the United Jewish Appeal—it is one of the "tagged-on" beneficiaries of which the contributors know so little. In fact, Jews who give their annual donation to the UJA believe they are helping the Jews of Israel and the DP's, for all the speakers say so and all the literature they receive point up scenes of immigration and rehabilitation. Why should "Commentary" be supported to such a fantastic deficit, when it accepts advertising and paid subscriptions even as other Jewish publications do, and what special claim does it have for the support of American Jews, through the U.J.A.?

The Jewish publishers merely scratched the surface in raising the issue of this one publication. They could ask a great many allied questions on the subject of allocations and support and duplication and waste.

Your GJC in Action

Histadrut, imagine one big farmer-labor union that—through subsidiary cooperatives—plays a major role in the country's transport, banking, marketing, wholesaling, fishing, water supply, aviation, merchant marine, building and publishing.

This is Histadrut in Israel—a state almost within a state—that owns in terms of output a tenth of the country's manufacturing industry—yet pays the executives of these enterprises modest salaries comparable to those received by the average labor organizer in this nation.

This is Histadrut—which during the recent war helped train and arm a people's militia for resistance to an occupying power, and mobilized the nation's workers, farmers and productive capacity in a successful war of independence.

This is Histadrut—whose foremost leader, David Ben-Gurion, is also Israel's new chief of state.

To understand the phenomenon of Histadrut, it is necessary to go back to the beginning of modern Zionist colonization. The settlers who arrived in Palestine after 1890 were determined to make labor the foundation of the country.

Their fathers and forefathers for generations had principally been traders and shopkeepers. But they turned their backs on the past. They gloried in working with their hands. They made themselves into a voluntary class of workers and peasants. The best brains, the strongest leadership in Palestine went into the factories and agricultural settlements. And, by 1920, when Histadrut formally organized, it had become a driving crusade.

Its aims cannot be stated more eloquently than in the words of Ben-Gurion, its leader:

"Our task is not only to organize the worker, but to create him, to train him, and bring him into the land.

"We strive not only to improve labor conditions, but to seek and multiply opportunities for labor and possibilities for immigration.

"Our aim is not only to improve the present economic order, but to build an entirely new economy in agriculture and industry.

"We must not only make the worker an active factor in the cultural and spiritual life of the nation, but create a new literature and art.

"We must not only obtain and defend his political rights, but establish a basis for a free commonwealth and mold the society which shall evolve therein."

Shift the scene against which these words were spoken 5000 miles westward and 160 years into the past—and you will find little difference between this ringing statement and the declaration of the founding fathers of our own United States!

In this country, the fund-raising arm of Histadrut is the National Committee for Labor Israel. Its goal for 1948-49 has been set at $10,000,000 but it must be noted that only about 15 percent of Histadrut's income is obtained from campaigns abroad. Its basic financing is provided in Israel through its own membership resources. Organizational and social service programs are financed by the membership; foreign income is allocated to programs of economic development and immigration.

Agricultural settlements, immigration, housing, vocational training and development of industry—these are the major activities of Histadrut to which its donations from this country are earmarked—and which has won for it high praise "as the most vigorous movement in a vital, new democracy."

Until 1946, Histadrut conducted an annual independent campaign here in Providence. In that year, by mutual agreement, the local Histadrut campaign was included as a major beneficiary of the General Jewish Committee. Now, each year, it receives its entire allocation in this community from the GJC.

"One Man's Opinion"

Joseph M. Coldwell

By BERNARD SEGAL

So we gathered in the dim funeral parlors for a last look at Joseph M. Coldwell. We sat silently while the subdued haunting melody from an invisible instrument reached us from the corner where in the casket lay silently the body of the man whom nothing could silence while he was alive.

We were a goodly number, filling the chairs of the parlors, at the funeral of a man who had no family of his own, nor a brother nor a sister. We were all strangers, but closer friends no man could desire. There was a kinship that transcends blood and flesh between Joseph Coldwell and the people who came to mourn for him.

A most unusual congregation listened to the words of the officiating clergymen. Christians and Jews, intellectuals and mill workers, ministers of several different denominations and labor leaders, college people and simple folk, all sat side by side now, just as they did in the days when Coldwell spoke. Men and women of all ages were there, young people who could still qualify for membership in the Young Peoples' Socialist League, and octogenarian comrades of the days when Socialism was young, and so was Joe.

First Impressions

The melody continued, and words were spoken, and I found myself transplanted in time and in space, to the day I first met Joseph Coldwell. The house was an old family mansion with a terraced garden, on Benefit Street, now an empty lot. And the time was the year 1925, when this house was the headquarters of the Workmen's Circle, and the Socialist Party, and of many labor unions.

I remember a Sunday morning, and crowds of people in the Hall and in the corridors. A greying head came bobbing up the stairway, and a hearty "Hello" burst on all sides. My turn came to be introduced, and a powerful hand held mine for a long while, with a pair of sparkling eyes looking fully at mine. I was groping for words to explain the nature of my work with children who filled the class room, and then Joseph Coldwell said:

"It does not matter what you teach them, as long as they learn it precedes, by two days, the Third Seder sponsored by the local branch of the Histadrut, to be held at the Narragansett Hotel on Sunday, April 17.

Celebration of the Third Seder is a highlight of Histadrut activity in many cities throughout the country—but it was in Providence, 23 years ago, that the celebration originated. Originally the opening fund-raising event of the local Histadrut campaign, today it is continued as a means of interpreting the organization's vital work in Israel.

It is not of stone and steel alone that a country is built—but of the hearts and souls of its men and women—the sinews of its workers—the toil of its farmers—the bravery and sacrifice of its soldiers. This is Israel being built by the Jews—from human materials mobilized in large part by Histadrut—and organized within the widely-spread but closely-knit framework of the Histadrut.

Your contribution to the 1949 General Jewish Committee campaign will be of inestimable value to this noble work!

to be free men, honest men".

That was a big order. The biggest order any teacher was ever charged with. There are no text books, nor laboratories, nor reference books for this most important subject. It was easy for Joseph Coldwell. He was then in his fifties, and his road was clear ahead of him. He was a Socialist. And that to him meant being a free man and an honest man. Free from all racial and national prejudices. Free from being subservient to royalty, economic or political. Free to say and to act as his conscience dictated to him. And honest with himself and in his dealing with others.

So he chose a dingy room on Olneyville Square, eking out bare necessities out of his photography trade, rather than a life of comfort for a price on his soul. He preached a political creed which brought fame and fortune to some, but he never gained nor desired any gains for himself. He fought the battles of labor, but no one could say of him that he ever took an ass or a young goat for his efforts. He lived to see many of his dreams come to be real in his lifetime. The eight hour day, the right to organize, the greater benefits, the social securities that labor enjoys and is taking for granted, were all things for which Joseph Coldwell and his kind quarreled for, and were beaten up for, and were imprisoned for. But in the records of no union office or labor board will you find the name of Joseph Coldwell on the pay-roll.

Lonely, But Not Lonesome

He was a lonely man, but never a lonesome man. Hundreds called him comrade, and thousands who ever listened to him were his brothers and sisters. To those who were foreign born he was a staff of strength. By his presence at their meetings and celebrations he was a living denial to the charge that Socialism is a foreign plant imported by immigrants together with their baggage. Men like Eugene Victor Debs, and Joseph M. Coldwell were the most compelling reply to their taunters. Here were people as American as the Rocky Mountains, preaching the gospel of Socialism in an English as forceful as the Gettysburg Address.

Hence they came to his funeral, the people whose home was Italy, and Poland, and Sweden, and Germany, and those who have no Fatherland at all. Coldwell never questioned their Americanism, and their right to live their lives as they deem best. He called them all Comrades, and they called him friend.

And then there were the former comrades who might have parted their ways with Joseph Coldwell, but never lost their admiration for his personality. To those who came to the funeral and to many more who stayed home, he was the ideal of the man to whom many would like to measure up, but are not strong enough. He was the conscience and the moral symbol to all who were ever touched by his presence.

There were literary men at the funeral, who have liked him and admired him, and who have written about Joseph Coldwell with genuine feeling. I hope one of them, and there are our leading men of letters among them, will write a longer essay on Joseph Coldwell and his times. Coldwell was the personification of an ideal, a creed, and an era.

Historic Ramblings

By JOHN A. SOLOMON
CHAPTER VI

My father, Isaac Solomon, resided in East Greenwich in those early days, but he always took an active and leading part in the affairs of the Sons of Zion. He was particularly interested in the development of the Lincoln Park Cemetery. He spent days, weeks, and years working side by side with laborers, supervising this arduous task. The drainage of this swampland was a difficult problem. For all his work, he selected the first family lot in the cemetery, where he "rests in peace".

People marvel at the Cemetery's magnitude today, but few realize the tremendous amount of work and the sweat and tears that were put into this enormous project.

He retired from the clothing business in East Greenwich in 1906 and moved back to Providence. In 1910 he was elected president of the Congregation Sons of Zion and retained that office until his passing in 1920. During his term he remodeled the entire synagogue and made many new, modern improvements. This was quite an undertaking, but it added beauty and prestige to the synagogue.

In 1919 he laid the foundation for the new Talmud Torah adjoining the synagogue on Orms Street, but did not live to see it completed. Posterity does not always remember a man's good work, but in my humble opinion he was truly one of Providence's worthy Jewish pioneers.

Compared to Father

After my father's demise, I was elected treasurer of the Congregation in 1920 and served in that office for the next 16 years. Old members said I had a sort of "Hazakah", comparable to inheritance, acquisition, or possession from my father. I used to like to talk with the oldtimers about the old days. One of the wittiest and most popular was Zalmon Jersky. He put in a great deal of work and retained his interest to the very end.

Jersky possessed a lot of anecdotes and liked to tell one about a cantor named Raphael who came from New York for the High Holidays and received $75 for his services. It seems that most everybody was a music critic. Some remarked the "chazan" was pretty good, others said they would rather listen to the bleat of a goat or sheep, but the poor cantor had to take all this and more, because cantors were as plentiful as borscht. It seems every boat brought new ones who were better than others.

After the High Holidays came Simchas Torah, and the cantor and some friends decided to do a little celebrating by gathering in the back room of a merchant on Charles Street for a "friendly game of pinochle." Herring, black bread, and beer served as refreshments, and the game proceeded for quite some time.

Finally, Cantor Raphael found himself entirely destitute. Zalmon Jersky said the boys were generous and gave him a rebate of $10 for train fare back to New York to look for another cantorial position.

Going from the ridiculous to the sublime, the Congregation Sons of Zion has had the services of some of the best cantors that ever emigrated to America. I can still remember some of their beautiful melodies, the great fervor, technique, and execution of their liturgy. Some of those cantors were truly fine artists.

Beth-Israel to Have Forum Discussion

The fourth in a series of public presentations sponsored by the Assembly of Jewish Learning of Temple Beth Israel will feature a discussion on "How Can We Strengthen Marriage and the Home?", April 27 at the temple.

Speakers for the forum are:

Dr. Robert W. Kenney, Dean of the College at Brown University, as moderator; Judge Patrick P. Curran, Justice of the Superior Court of R. I., in charge of Domestic Relations, who will discuss legal aspects of marriage and the home; Dr. Vera M. Behrendt, Clinical Director, State Hospital, Howard, who will discuss personality aspects of marriage and the home; and Rabbi Samuel Ruderman, of Temple Beth El, Fall River, who will discuss spiritual and religious aspects of marriage and the home. The speakers will answer questions of the audience.

The series has been arranged by the program committee of Temple Beth Israel, headed by Irving Brodsky, chairman.

A reception will be held in the vestry following the meeting.

The fifth and last presentation of the season will take place on May 18, with Dr. Israel J. Kazis, of Temple Mishkan Tefila, Roxbury, speaking on "Legal, National and Emotional Aspects of Judaism".

Post Makes Donation For Needy Veteran

A donation was made to needy Jewish veterans and their families by Fineman-Trinkel Post 439, JWV, to help them in their Passover celebration.

At the regular meeting of the post Monday night at Temple Emanuel, refreshments in keeping with the Passover tradition will be served after the business meeting.

B B GIRLS' BRIDGE

More than 60 people attended the Narragansett chapter B'nai B'rith Girls bridge held at the Jewish Community Center April 6. Door prizes, refreshments and a raffle were features of the affair.

EMANUEL SERVICES

Concluding Passover services will be conducted at Temple Emanuel Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 6:15 o'clock, and Wednesday and Thursday mornings at 9 o'clock. Memorial Services will start shortly after 10 o'clock.

RABBI ELI A. BOHNEN

Cranston to Have Passover Affair

Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, Cantor Jacob Hohenemser, Frank Shapiro and Samuel Workman will be the guests of the Cranston Jewish Community Club Passover Festival April 17 at Legion Hall, Cranston.

General chairman of the affair is Joseph Jagolinzer, assisted by Dr. Morris Botvin, toastmaster, Ben Wolf, Albert Cohen, Israel Karten, Dr. Daniel Kouffman, and Abel Gurwitz.

Refreshments supervision is by Mrs. Gordon Schleffer, chairman, and Mesdames Albert Cohen, Joseph Kurtz, Max Greenberg, Mortyn Zietz and Miss Ann Fishman, secretary.

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

The season is waning, but the battle for play-off spots waxes hotter as with three weeks of competition, six teams are within four games of the top. At the moment, Aaron Bromson's Princeton team holds first place by one game as they walloped Navy and took four points while Cornell blew four points to Sussman's Army team.

This keen competition should keep the boys pretty well keyed up for the forthcoming inter-league competition on April 18th when we confidently expect to put a strangle hold on the cup awarded.

Meyer Epstein plugged his ears with cotton so he couldn't hear my gentle cries of encouragement and went wild for a three string 362. Manny Bromberg 335, C. Greenstein 328 and Hy Wasserman 325 also did well for their averages. Hy Wasserman hit high single of 136 and Sayre Summer and "Charlie" Greenstein turned in 129 strings. Before I close, I must not omit orchids to Jack Rosenberg for a sparkling 115.

"Me and Molly" Tryouts Continue

Tryouts for the three-act drama, "Me and Molly", to be presented in June by the Center Players, will be continued on Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Jewish Community Center, Gerald A. Oster, director, announced this week.

Since the play requires a large cast, there are still several parts open to those members or would-be members of the Players who wish to try out for them. Both adults and juveniles are needed.

Providence Plan Becomes Widespread
Herald Coverage
Receives Praise

The "Providence Plan", as it has come to be known, has taken the country by storm. The "Providence Plan" is none other than the one-day fund-raising campaign, the "M" DAY staged so successfully last year by the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee of Providence. Queries for details on this unique idea have come to the local group from cities all the way from California to Connecticut.

Recently Mrs. Robert Hochberg was invited to explain the workings of the one-day campaign to the executive board of the Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal in Baltimore. Many representatives from the Men's Group also attended this meeting. As a result the city of Baltimore will be treated to an "M" DAY campaign copied lock, stock and barrel from the local drive.

The same slogan—"Mothers. Mobilize for Mercy"—will be used, as well as all the publicity originated here in Providence which will be adapted to their own needs. As a matter of fact the Providence scrap-book, containing complete samples of all mailings, radio talks, press releases, speakers' suggestions and even the workers' kits, is still in Baltimore and will remain there for the duration of their preparation.

The meeting in the Maryland metropolis took place in the beautiful Jewish Welfare Building. And Mrs. Hochberg reports that it was a serious "work conference" with luncheon brought right in to the conference table as the Baltimore leaders listened carefully to the Providence "M" Day plan. The excellent cooperation of the Providence newspapers was enthusiastically commented upon.

There were several professional advertising men in the group who made particular mention of the fine coverage by the Jewish Herald of this event. Interestingly enough, they quickly spotted the superior reproduction of pictures used in the fine offset process of this paper. Another comment was made on the fact that the press releases in the HERALD actually showed a cross-section of the city with all neighborhoods and all groups equally featured.

Providence, too, gained some worthwhile information from this meeting in Baltimore. Mrs. Hochberg returned with an "infallible cheese cake" recipe given to her by one of the Baltimore Women's Division leaders, who brought this delicacy for the luncheon dessert. When Baltimore's "M" DAY rolls 'round on May 15, it will be interesting to see which city gained most from this meeting!

Other Cities Interested
Recently Mrs. Albert Pilavin, chairman of the Women's Division of the General Jewish Committee and now a member of the National Board of Women's Divisions went to New Haven to give that city the story of "M" DAY. After her talk, it was immediately voted to have a similar one-day campaign in New Haven.

Detroit, Michigan—Dallas, Texas—Nashville, Tennessee—Cleveland—several towns in New Jersey—Minneapolis, Minnesota—each of these cities is planning a one-day campaign according to the "Providence Plan". The idea has caught fire with women-leaders because of the fact that it saves from six to eight weeks of solicitation. Also, the excitement and the glamor of a one-day campaign seems to attract many more enthusiastic workers as well as givers.

The fact that Providence has pioneered this "M" DAY drive and has been successful with it has given great impetus to the 1949 campaign all over the country. The national office in New York, at the request for more information, has photostated and reproduced copies of the Providence "M" DAY plans, including organizational methods, personnel and motor squad activities, every phase of publicity and all the step-by-step directions for this project. Each city requesting information can now apply for this valuable guide.

The Providence Women's Division, having set the pattern for the whole country, now recalls with some amusement the shocked surprise with which Mrs. Bertam Bernhardt's proposal for a one-day drive was greeted early last summer. The fact that this plan was eagerly accepted and implemented with months of hard work has aroused the admiration of fund-raising leaders. Mrs. Arthur J. Levy's organizational plan is being imitated in many of the larger cities.

As Mrs. Alfred Tuvin, teams captain of the United Jewish Appeal in Baltimore said, "How can we miss, when you hand us this masterly plan complete in every detail, on a silver platter?"

Mrs. Pilavin has been asked to give the inspirational "kick-off" speech to the more than 1200 workers, who will assemble at the Hotel Emerson on May 15, designated as "M" DAY in Baltimore. It will be interesting to hear the results of Rhode Island's brain child, "The Providence Plan", as it makes its rounds over the nation.

SYD COHEN:

Baseball Has
A New Comedian

Probably the greatest characteristic of the Jewish people, besides our supreme faith, has always been our ability to laugh in the face of adversity. It undoubtedly has contributed greatly to our mental stability in times of great stress.

In this country the adversity has gradually lessened, but the ability to laugh fortunately has not been diminished. As a result, we have developed into a people renowned for our humor, and we have contributed a high percentage of the legitimate comedians of the world.

In the minor leagues of organized baseball, the newest in this long line of comedians is now completing his apprenticeship before moving up to the big time. This man, already billed as the successor to Al Schacht, is Max Patkin.

Patkin is not strictly an unknown or a newcomer. Two years ago he and Jackie Price, still another Jewish comic, toured the American League for a time with the Cleveland Indians. The Indians were going nowhere in particular, and getting there fast, and the fans got far more enjoyment and entertainment from the two buffoons than they did from the ball club.

Snakes In His Shirt

No self-respecting manager could tolerate a situation like that for long, so Lou Boudreau put his foot down—after Price gave him a good opportunity. Jackie traveled around with a pack of snakes—the kind that crawl on their bellies—and one day he wandered through the train on which the Indians were riding and allowed one of the snakes to escape from its resting place in his shirt front. Several women promptly went into hysterics, the train officials went into a tantrum. Boudreau went into a huddle with Bill Veeck—and Patkin and Price into the minor leagues.

Out of that glamorous beginning, Patkin has developed into a recognized baseball comedian, who undoubtedly will find his way soon to the major leagues. His clowning now is done on the ball field. He takes himself and his work seriously and seems intent on making a career in baseball. According to baseball big shots who have seen him in action and watched the fans' reaction to his stunts, his success is assured.

A Tenth Player

When he was with the Indians, Max gained the reputation of being a "tenth man" in the lineup. With Cleveland at bat, he would start acting up in the first base coaches box with devastating result. Rival players could not keep their attention on the pitcher and the hitter because of Patkin's distractions. Steve O'Neil, then manager of the Tigers, actually complained to the umpires about it. O'Neil is quoted as having said:

"The guy is wonderful. But how can you play ball when you hear the fans laugh and know that everyone in the park is watching Patkin?"

One minor league manager raised such a rumpus about Max last year that he, the manager, was thrown out of the game by the umpires, while Patkin was permitted to remain.

What is the routine that convulses the fans so? For one thing, he is double jointed and can lean forward slowly until his chin practically scrapes the ground. In this position he pretends to steal the catcher's sign. While warming up a pitcher like Bob Feller, he puts on a terrific act of knocking knees. He is also a sensational jitterbugger, and his jigs and wiggles never fail to please.

In fact, Boudreau reported to Veeck that the guy was wonderful when he saw him do a pitching act with a convulsing jig just before each pitch. Add to this a snake dance, a strip tease, the ability to mimic umpires and the other routine acts that every baseball comedian automatically picks up, and you see that Patkin has a pretty good repertoire.

An Easy Job

During the 1948 season, Max traveled upwards of 50,000 miles for more than 100 minor league appearances. He started as a pitcher, just as Al Schacht did, but failed to make the grade in Class A ball.

His clowning has resulted in such injuries as a split thumb,

Al Capp, Bess Myerson Entertain Here

By SYD COHEN

Back in the 1700's, at a time when the literary brilliance of England was at its peak, Jonathan Swift achieved immortal fame as a satirist. His "Gulliver's Travels", still widely read by children and grownups alike, was probably the most devastating take-off of contemporary life ever written, and portrayed Swift's personal opinion of the institutions and beliefs of the day.

Al Capp has fashioned a brilliant career out of somewhat the same mold as that used by Swift. Through the medium of his cartoon strip, "Li'l Abner", Capp has for years successfully caricatured the American scene. His strip follows faithfully the normal happenings of our daily lives, with vivid impressions that compel even the "victims", subjects of the cartoons, to laugh at their mad-Capp portrayal.

There is one difference between Swift and Capp. Where the former was often bitter and vicious and insulting in his satire, Capp is at all times amusing and thoroughly enjoyable. He pokes fun at the life about him without malice, but rather as a huge joke which we must all surely appreciate if it is pointed out to us.

Capp and Miss America
Practically surrounded by the shmoos that he created but now

insists he hates (they have only created an income tax problem, he says) Al Capp kept a crowd of more than 350 members and guests of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith in continual laughter last Sunday evening at Plantations Auditorium, where he shared speaking honors with Bess Myerson, of the Bronx, "Miss America" of 1945.

A relaxed entertainer who seems perfectly at home on the speakers platform and who apparently enjoyed his own jokes as much as did the audience, Capp displayed a most infectious personality as he related how he got his start and then lost his job to Milton Caniff, creator of "Terry and the Pirates". He admitted patterning all his characters after live persons and would admit only that "Daisy Mae is willing" when asked if that comely Dogpatcher ever would marry the perennial bachelor, Li'l Abner.

In a later interview, Capp told the Herald that the series is 15 years old, that he has been cartooning for 17, that Li'l Abner was his first and only success, that the idea just came to him without any special inspiration, and that it takes about four hours to turn out each daily strip. His working studio is in Boston, but he and Mrs. Capp and the two li'l Capps maintain an apartment in New York.

Beauty Can't Hate

Miss Myerson, now married and the mother of a year-and-a-half old daughter, brought a message of Brotherhood and stressed the importance of the work done by B'nai B'rith and its Anti-Defamation League. "You Can't Be Beautiful and Hate" and "We are all ambassadors of democracy" were the themes developed by the talented beauty queen.

After relating the hectic whirl of activities that engulfed her for three months immediately following her coronation as Miss America in Atlantic City, Miss Myerson told how she developed an immediate interest in Brotherhood work and took to the lecture platform for the ADL. Marriage and motherhood being what they are, she admitted limiting her engagements now mostly to the New York area.

At present, she conducts a music school (she is an accomplished pianist) and is a fashion commentator on a television show originating from New York every Saturday evening at 7:30. She holds the distinction of having turned down the Hollywood offers that accompanied her 1945 success, although she did make a personal appearance tour and go on a piano recital tour.

Capp, who himself has but one leg, joined Roger Williams Lodge in presenting a television set to the patients at the Newport Naval Hospital, a group of whom attended the meeting as guests of the lodge, at Capp's suggestion. Capt. Lynn N. Hart, M. C., U.S.N., accepted the gift from Capp. Sidney Rabinowitz acted as master of ceremonies; Bertram L. Bernhardt, president, introduced the guests.

We Wish a Happy and Healthy Passover to all our customers and friends

Stone-Shief
Miss Miriam Dorothy Shief, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shief of Taunton, Mass., was married Sunday to Irwin Stone, son of Mrs. Gertrude Stone of this city and the late Joseph Stone, in the Tifereth Israel Synagogue, New Bedford, Mass. Rabbi Bernard H. Ziskind performed the double ring ceremony, assisted by Cantor Sigmund Lipp. The bride was attired in a white satin gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. Her tulle veil fell from a Juliet cap of seed pearls and she carried a white prayer book with a white orchid. Miss Dorothy Schwartz of New Bedford, maid of honor, chose a gown of peacock blue and carried an old fashioned bouquet. Leon Stone was best man for his brother and ushers were David Kahn of Boston, S. David Cronig of Vineyard Haven, Mass., Jerome Lamchick, Leonard Rotenberg, Robert Soren and Gordon Trust, all of Providence.

Marsha Lee Cronig of Vineyard Haven, Mass., niece of the bride, was flower girl and Larry Kahn of Boston, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Miss Jane Pikor of Fall River sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly".

After a wedding trip to New York City and Washington, D. C., the couple will make their home in this city.

700 Jam New Ahavath Sholom for Dedication

Passover services were held for the first time in the new Ahavath Sholom Synagogue Wednesday night. Since the transfer Sunday of the Crown of God and the Crown of the Law, the new building is now the congregation's main house of worship, although the Scott Street Synagogue will continue in use for some time.

Nearly 400 members attended farewell services at the old synagogue Sunday, where the congregation had worshipped for 44 years and more than 700 crammed the new structure for the opening of the consecration ceremony.

Rabbi Israel Jacob Harris, Ph. D., of Johannesburg, South Africa, gave the dedicatory address. Other speakers were Rabbi Morris G. Silk, rabbi of the congregation; Samuel Orenstein, chairman of the building committee; Archie Smith, president of the congregation; A. Louis Rosenstein and Dr. Irving Kaplan, chairman and co-chairman of the dedication ceremony committee, and Mrs. Rosenstein, president of the Sisterhood.

Rabbis of other congregations attending the services were Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, Temple Emanuel; Rabbi William G. Braude, Temple Beth El; Rabbi Aaron Goldin

Grays to Conduct Baseball Tryouts

An opportunity for all boys interested in professional baseball careers was offered this week by the Providence Grays, who announced that they will conduct a baseball school and tryout camp at Cranston Stadium next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 18-20 from 10 o'clock until 3.

Manager Frank Pytlak will supervise the camp, assisted by "Sheriff" Brown, newly appointed trainer. All players signed to date by the Grays also will attend. Those boys displaying sufficient ability will be offered contracts by the club.

In order to be eligible to attend this tryout session, participants must be high school graduates, or, if no longer attending school, their classes must have been graduated. Any player eligible for American Legion competition will not be allowed to try out. Players must bring their own equipment, including some type of uniform and sliding pads. All who attend will do so at their own expense, but will be reimbursed in the event they are signed to contracts. Regional scouts for major league clubs are expected to be on hand.

D., Congregation Sons of Jacob; Rabbi Morris Schusheim, Temple Beth Israel, and Rabbi Nathan Rosen, Hillel Foundation.

Isadore M. Gan and Morris S. Ross carried the Crowns from the old synagogue to the new, and Hyman Karklin, Irving Koffler, Samuel Woolf and Louis Ganz carried the Scrolls.

Rabbi Silk and Cantor Joshua Goldberg of Boston conducted the religious ceremonies at the Scott Street Synagogue. The procession was led by members of the Gerald Clamon post, JWV, and George Jaffee's band.

Around Town

with ARLENE SUMMER

Firsts

From California comes news of the birth of the Seymour Coplans' first baby, Susan Roberta, born April 5 ... and in Providence on April 3, Saul and Betty Berman welcomed their first son, Eugene.

Future Brown Men

Waiting excitedly for September when they'll be freshmen at Brown are Don Barengos, Robert Curren, Larry Gladstone and Larry Goldberg.

Brides' Teas

Leah Greifer, who will become Mrs. Lennie Abrams on June 26, was guest of honor at a tea given last Saturday by Gloria Aisenberg and Babe Dorenbaum at Gloria's home ... Mrs. Ben Zachs entertained the same afternoon for Jeanne Wexler, who'll be married to Arnie Fellman on July 3.

Birthdays

Ruthie Flink celebrated her 17th birthday at the Narragansett Saturday night ... A party celebrating the second birthday of Paul Meierowitz, son of Mrs. Dorothy Meierowitz, was given Sunday afternoon at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Levine. Fifteen children from Newport, Fall River and Providence were there and prizes were won by Sheila Malatt, Paula Cohen and Richard Levitt ... Thanks to the splendid cooperation of the planners of Ardean Dress's 16th birthday party, not a word about the arrangements of the surprise party reached the ears of the guest of honor. Ardean was certainly flabbergasted when she walked into Janis Brickle's home Friday night and found all her friends waiting.

Honored at College

Bernice Schuster was initiated into Tau Kappa Alpha honorary Forensic Fraternity at State College last week. Bernice is graduating from State in June and has been accepted at the BU Graduate School of Social Work.

Family Seders and Reunions

The Chace family held their Passover Seder at the Narragansett Hotel Wednesday night—none of their homes could seat the 90 people who came from New York, Boston, Connecticut and Providence ... The Nathan Goldfarbs of Pawtucket were reunited with their niece and nephew from Buenos Aires, Mrs. Bertha Goldfarb and her son, Carlos, whom they hadn't seen in many years ... The L. Jenkins of Cottage Street, Pawtucket, are entertaining their daughter, Charlotte, and Edye Berger and Ann Berger, all of New York, over the holidays. Ann is the fiancée of Arnold Spolter, formerly of Providence.

Can You Help?

The R. I. Refugee Service has again requested our cooperation in helping them locate Josef David, age 64; occupation, house painter, lived in Providence from 1898 to 1900. He is being sought by Malka David, born 1863, maiden name Abramovici; and her daughter, Dina Sora Molse, born 1882, maiden name David, both living at Bucharest, Str. Nerva Traian N. 93.

Emanuel Bowling

By JACK PLATKIN

Dwars Cards win Pennant—Well, it took Dave Dressler, William Lipson, Lou Chase, Joe Waldman and Billy himself to turn the trick, winning by two points over three teams tied for second—Kramer's Athletics, Blackman's Dodgers and Mill Wintman's White Sox. In fifth spot were Ben Zachs' Cubs, the team many had picked to win.

The bowling tournament which gets under way on Monday night will complete the activities of most Temple Emanuel bowlers. Those competing will be:

M. Paynor, L. Chase, A. Press, C. Blackman, A. Chase, J. Orchoff, I. Chase, S. Price, L. Miller, L. Nussenfeld, S. Chase, D. Ettine, M. Filler, M. Miller, H. Markoff, P. Goldstein, J. Chernick, E. Lang, J. Zucker, B. Zachs, J. Primack, M. Kramer, L. Schoenberg, A. Weiss, M. Ross, B. Chase, D. Temkin and B. Fradin.

The Waldmans—Lenny and Morris—have birthdays during April, and we wish them many more bowling years ... and Al Chase on the 26th.

Don't forget the Annual on May 5, Narragansett Hotel.

Softball Delegates To Meet Sunday

With the start of the Jewish Softball League season only nine days away, league officials this week announced that the final meeting of delegates prior to the opening will be held this Sunday afternoon, April 17 at 1 o'clock at the Jewish Community Center.

All rosters must be submitted at Sunday's meeting and the schedule will be released at that time. In addition, a final vote will be taken on the important matter

Cranston Has Model Seder

Approximately 55 children attended the second annual model Seder of the Sunday School of the Cranston Jewish Community Club last Sunday at the School of Creative Arts. The Seder was conducted by Herman Priest, with arrangements made by Mrs. Israel Karten and Mrs. Ellis Rosenthal. Children of the Sunday School took the parts of the mother, father and child who asks the four questions. A Seder luncheon was served by the mothers of the children. Mrs. Karten and Arnold Ross are the teachers of the school.

Olympics to Stage "Parents Night"

One of the most novel shows of the season will be presented this Sunday evening at the Jewish Community Center when the Olympic Club holds its annual Parents Night program, starting at 8 o'clock.

On the entertainment slate are Sadie Goulston, who performs Yiddish and English character sketches, impersonations and monologues; Chuck Harrison, in 30 minutes of magic and shadow-graphing, and a new March of Time movie on the State of Israel. Sen. Frank Licht will be the feature speaker.

While "Parents Night" is held especially for the parents and friends of the Olympic Club, the public is invited to attend Sunday's program. The Welfare Committee, headed by Sidney Green, is in charge of arrangements.

Temple Clubs to Have Joint Meeting

The Honorable Harold Davies, M. P., will be guest speaker at the first joint brotherhood night planned by the three leading Jewish men's clubs of Providence on Sunday, April 24 at 8:15 o'clock at Temple Emanuel. The men's clubs are Beth-El, Beth Israel and Emanuel.

Mr. Davies has been a vigorous defender of the new state of Israel in the English Parliament. Also featured will be a musical program by Cantor Jacob Hoh-enemser of Temple Emanuel and Cantor Israel Breitbart of Temple Beth-Israel. The entire meeting will be under the supervision of the three men's club presidents; John Sapinsley of Beth-El, Charles Greenstein of Beth Israel and Myron Keller of Emanuel. Rabbis William G. Braude, Morris Schussheim and Eli A. Bohnen will also take part.

The meeting is open to the entire public and special invitations are being sent to all Jewish Men's Clubs throughout the city.

of league accident insurance.

While league headquarters has been busy putting the finishing touches on plans for the season, all teams entered in the league have been making the most of the mild weather on Sunday mornings. Practice sessions have been underway for three weeks and most clubs are reported in good shape for the openings.

All teams in last year's league, both senior and junior, that still have equipment belonging to the league, are requested to turn in that property at Sunday's meeting.

Benefit Bridge

Mrs. Myrtle Goldstein is general chairman of the Providence Alumnae League of Sigma Delta Tau benefit bridge to be held May 4 at Temple Emanuel, it was announced this week by Miss Kay Markel, president.

The proceeds of the affair will go toward the Edith Robinson Memorial Scholarship which is awarded each year to an outstanding member of Alpha Beta chapter of SDT at R. I. State College.

Assisting Mrs. Goldstein are: Mrs. Elaine Silverman, tickets; Miss Bea Hecker and Miss Anita Horowitz, table properties; Mrs. Gloria Kenner, chairman, Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal, Mrs. Evelyn Saltzman, and the Misses Avis Shapiro, Jacqueline Cohen and Arleen Falcofsky, refreshments; Miss Claire Gornstein, chairman, Rosamund Wyzansky, and Rose Sugarman, prizes; Elsa Isenberg, chairman, Mrs. Priscilla Krasnow, Mrs. Harriet Forman, Mrs. Trudy Galkin and Miss Margie Kramer, hostesses.

Mrs. Eleanor Fine is in charge of publicity.

Further information may be obtained from any member of the sorority or by calling Mrs. Goldstein at Williams 0381.

Daughterhood Bowling
RUTH TANENBAUM

One of the most entertaining sessions of the season took place last week, and all because the league's top three bowlers finally got to compete on the same team. Dotty Graubart, Eleanor Jacobson and Harriet Keller were the principals who made the fur fly, and the pins fall.

It was like the old-time game of follow the leader as the three tried to outdo each other. To give an idea of what it was like, Harriet would roll a spare on a spare and Dot and El would promptly follow suit.

When the dust had settled Harriet had 107, 88 and 91, Eleanor rolled 90, 90 and 97, and the Champ showed 86, 106 and 113. Selma Lapatin stayed close with 96 and two 83's, and Doris Levin rolled 102, and 97. Honorable mention to Hylda Edylman, who rolled 85 and thereby got out of that 60 but she has been in.
