Ress to Head GJC Trades and Industry

One of the first major appointments of the 1949 GJC fund-raising campaign was made public this week with announcement by Alvin A. Sopkin, drive chairman, that Joseph W. Ress had accepted appointment as head of the over-all Trades and Industry Division.

This marks the second year that Ress, well-known community leader and worker for the General Jewish Committee, has headed the important T and I Division. Prior to directing activities in this division last year, he served as chairman of the then general solicitations division.

In accepting appointment to this key post, Ress declared:

"With almost 1000 immigrants arriving daily in the new State of Israel, it is obvious that adequate medical care, food, clothing and jobs must be provided for them. American Jewry's responsibility to their less fortunate brethren did not end when the new homeland officially came into being. There is still a tremendous task ahead of us in making 1949 the year of the greatest 'homecoming' in history!"

Both Sopkin and Ress pointed out that additional key appointments of divisional chairmen would be forthcoming in the near future. Chairmanship appointments in the following trades and industries are expected within the next several weeks:

Advertisers and printers; automotive, builders and plumbers, food, coal and oil, drugs, furniture, hardware and electric, home utilities, jewelry, leather goods, liquors and beverages, men's clothing and launderers, metals and cables, miscellaneous trades, real estate and insurance, shoes, textiles, women's wear.

Veterans to Dedicate Memorial Cemetery

The Jewish War Veterans of the U. S. of America, Department of R. I., will dedicate a memorial cemetery with exercises at the Lincoln Park Cemetery, Hills-grove, R. I. on Monday, May 30, at 11 o'clock. The Plot is located at the entrance of the cemetery and is reserved for the bodies of the men that are being returned from overseas. At present ten comrades are interred at the plot.

The Cemetery plot has been donated to the Department of Rhode Island by the Chessed shel Emes, The Department, under the direction of Past Department Commander Paul J. Robin, has landscaped the entire plot, erected a flagpole and will unveil ten "MOGEN DAVID" headstones at the dedication. Plans are in process for the erection of a granite Fountain and a pillared entrance to the plot.

State Department Chaplain Rabbi Abraham Chill of Congregation Sons of Abraham and Comrade Rabbi Eli Bohnen of Temple Emanuel will conduct the services at the Chapel and at the Cemetery.

Paul J. Robin is chairman of the Memorial Cemetery Committee and is assisted by Irving Winograd and Saul Friedman, co-chairmen. Past Commander Gordon Schleffer is general chairman.

GJC Makes 1948 Allocations

Mrs. Miller New Hadassah President

Mrs. Daniel B. Miller was installed as president of the Providence chapter of Hadassah Monday at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. Mrs. Miller, the youngest president in the history of the Providence chapter, recently returned from a visit to Israel. Others installed by Rabbi William G. Braude were:

Mesdames Jacob Hohenemser, first vice president; William Bojar, second vice president; Morris H. Pritsker, third vice president; Charles Temkin, treasurer; Joseph Stanzler, financial secretary; Albert Kumins, Simon Gordon, David Dressler, assistant financial secretaries; Walter Rutman, re-

Home Dedication Plans Announced

Preparations for "Home Dedication Day", to be held June 19 at the Jewish Home for the Aged, are being pushed to completion by the Dedicating Planning Committee, Max Winograd, chairman, said this week. Winograd added that there will be no solicitation of funds at the affair, at which several recently completed units of the Home will be dedicated, along with memorial and "in-honor-of" tablets.

The June 10 issue of The HERALD will feature a double spread about the Home, honoring the women of the Ladies Association and the men of the Board of Directors who have been responsible for the growth of the Home in recent years and the new construction of the past two years.

It was also announced this week that a membership list of the Home is now being prepared.

Following several weeks of conferences, hearings and formal meetings, the Allocations Committee of the General Jewish Committee of Providence this week presented its recommendations to the Board of Directors.

More than 50 beneficiary agencies—ranging in approved amounts from $25 to $750,000—are included in the list presented to the Board. At least seven other agencies, including the Zionist Youth Commission of Providence, are still being considered for allocations. The Committee, however, is awaiting further information on this group.

The Committee, in its report to the GJC's Board of Directors, called attention to the fact that it had carefully considered the requests of 14 other agencies who had asked for allocations but, after thorough investigation, recommended that no allocation be granted.

The list of approved beneficiary agencies—excluding the groups still under consideration—is as follows:

Jewish Herald Radio Hour Goes on the Air Sunday, June 5

The Jewish Herald is going on the air!

Announcement of the creation of a new weekly half hour radio show, "The Jewish Herald Radio Hour", was made this week by Walter Rutman, publisher of this newspaper, and George E. Taylor, manager of Station WHIM, which will broadcast the show.

The new Jewish hour will have its inception on Sunday evening, June 5 at 6:30 o'clock, the hour at which it will be heard every week. It is designed specifically as a public service feature. In content, the broadcasts will include classical Jewish music, news reports prepared by the HERALD, interviews with local personalities in the news and out-of-town celebrities, and such other special features as may develop from time to time from the standpoint of this newspaper.

ART MILNER

Conducting the program will be Arthur (Art) Milner of the WHIM announcers staff. Milner, 26, came to Providence from Syracuse, N. Y. where he was on the staff of Stations WSYR and WNDR. While at the latter, he created and conducted the Jewish Chronicle Radio Hour. A native of New York City, he was graduated from last January received his degree the Yeshiva in the Bronx, and from Syracuse University, where he majored in Radio Workshop and English.

Milner served with the Navy for three years during the war, and was on the U. S. S. Gambier Bay when it was sunk in the Philippines during the battle of Leyte Gulf.

Further details concerning the first broadcast will be given in next week's HERALD.

Cranston to Present Emanuel Musical

A repeat performance of the Temple Emanuel Men's Club musical show, "So Let 'Em Fore-close", will be sponsored by the Cranston Jewish Club building fund committee June 9 at the Cranston High School auditorium. Israel Karten and Mrs. Albert Cohen are co-chairmen.

The show is staged and directed by Matthew Millman and under the musical direction of Bob Kaplan.

Tickets may be obtained at Lindy's Diner, Reservoir and Park Avenues, N. E. Gold Buyers, 9 Empire Street, Temple Emanuel or from members of the cast.

Large Crowd Attends Pioneer Donor Affair

In spite of bad weather, a large crowd attended the Pioneer Women's Donor Supper-Dance Sunday night at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

Capt. Moische Barzilai of Israel spoke of the important job being done by Pioneer Women in rehabilitation, education and medication. He outlined the work being done in the training farms, nurseries, vocational schools, refugee homes and rehabilitation centers —institutions established and supported by Pioneer Women.

The hall was decorated with banners, pictures and slogans. A neon light flag of Israel had a place of prominence in the decoration scheme.

Mrs. Harry A. Mincoff, chairman of the affair, delivered the welcoming address, and Mrs. Harry Dress, president, greeted the guests. Mrs. Alter Boyman, assisted by Mrs. Harry Finklestein, gave the salute to Israel.

Needed--A Good DP Bill

The enactment of displaced persons legislation, at once just and workable, should have been a relatively simple matter in a democracy such as our own. Instead, the 80th Congress enacted a bill described by President Truman himself as anti-Semitic, denying relief to any person who entered the military zones after December 29, 1945, and giving arbitrary preference to residents of the Baltic states and an unjustified priority to agricultural workers.

The indignation of men and women throughout the country and a growing recognition of the grave disservice the 80th Congress had rendered American prestige abroad, were expected to help produce an amended law much more in consonance with democratic principles.

Instead, the House Judiciary Committee has just reported out a bill which, while eliminating some of the crude imperfections of the 1948 Act, still fails to meet the standards of justice and decency. The priorities for Balts and agriculturalists have been dropped, and a displaced person is defined as anyone who entered the military zone up to January 1, 1949. The provisions mortgage future quotas to make up for the DP's who may enter under the Act. Thus, present relief is purchased at the price of denying hope to those who may subsequently need or desire to emigrate to this country.

If the discriminatory aspects of the DP bill are to be wiped off our statute books and replaced by a measure based on democratic principles of justice and decency, a nationwide protest must descend on our legislators. The gap between immigration laws based on "ethnic origin" and an American version of the Nuremberg laws is too narrow to contemplate with complacency and inaction.

MEMBERIAL ADDRESS

(Note: This is the last of a series of articles outlining the background, accomplishments and objectives of the GI agencies—on local, national and international levels—who, in addition to the United Jewish Appeal, share substantially in the proceeds of the annual fund-raising campaigns conducted by the General Jewish Committee of Providence. The articles were written, in conjunction with Joseph Galkin, by Charles W. Pine, who has been assisting the GJC during its past two campaigns and has become intimate with the structural set-up of the GJC.)

Prior to the advent of the General Jewish Committee of Providence four years ago, members of the local community were constantly being besieged by mail appeals, charity-boxes and meshulachim for contributions to literally scores of Palestinian institutions.

Most of these appeals were of a worthy nature, it is true. But some of the causes, for which meshulachim, in particular, appeared at their doors with fervent requests for aid, were of a questionable nature.

At best, it meant that the philanthropic member of the community was being asked almost daily to give to one or another cause. As a previous series of articles in the HERALD pointed out, he had no knowledge, in many cases of the actual distribution of funds; and often unwittingly duplicated his contribution.

It was, among other reasons, to remedy situations like this that the GJC came into being. It was organized as a means of providing the community with one major fund-raising agency that would carefully examine the accomplishments and operation of such

"One Man's Opinion"

Small, Still Voices

By BERNARD SEGAL

We hear small, still voices from many quarters these days. We hear them from speakers forums, from pulpits, and from the printed pages of newspapers and magazines.

And here is what they say. "The war is over. The period of emergency is past. The time has come for a revision of our policies. We just cannot go on with our community life in the years 1949-1950 as we did until now. We have geared our personal lives to a peace-time pattern, and we will have to do the same with our communal affairs."

"All during the war and during the emergency period, everything was put aside as secondary. All efforts were bent toward the one goal, that of winning the war and saving its victims. Now the war is over. We lost much, but we also gained considerably. The losses to our people in Central Europe do not need to be repeated here. But we have lived to see our enemy defeated, his cities in ruins, and his people excluded from the family of decent nations. We have also lived to see the rebirth of Israel and its acceptance in the family of nations."

"We can say truthfully, without being boastful, that we, the Jews of America, have contributed to both the winning of the war and the founding of the haven for the homeless. The work is not over. Far from it. We and our children will continue to heal the wounds, to repair the damage, and to give brick and mortar for the rebuilding of Zion."

"But the period of extreme emergency is over. All during the emergency years we neglected our own communal needs here. One does not attend to his garden in his own backyard when the house of his brother is on fire."

"But the fire is no longer raging. We have helped to put out the conflagration. What could be saved, we helped save, and we have stood by to see that the job of rebuilding the house of our brother is well underway. Now we can go back and attend to our own garden. It is badly in need of attention. In fact it is in very bad shape. Many weeds crept into it while we were away doing other things."

"From now on, while we shall continue to help our brother in building a strong fire proof house, we will also give our time and money and talent to cultivate our back yard."

"We are a community of five million in the United States, and our communal needs are many and of great importance. We must give them due attention. We must do it for our own sake, but more so for the sake of our children."

Such are the words we hear smaller appeals and properly allocate its funds among them.

In the very near future, the Board of Directors of the General Jewish Committee plans to set up a committee on traditional agencies in order to work out an effective control of traveling solicitors, or "meshulachim", who come to the city. Further details on this important matter will be listed shortly in the Herald.

Most of the traditional Palestinian institutions are affiliated to the American Fund for Palestinian Institutions (AFPI) or the Federated Council of Palestinian Institutions (FCPI).

Both these coordinating groups spoken in still, small voices here and there.

What do these words mean to us here in Providence?

Let us look about us and see what our neighbors are doing. The Catholic group of our community have just completed the annual Charity Fund Appeal. The drive brought in the sum of over three-quarters of a million dollars. These funds will be used for the maintenance of institutions which the Catholic considers important, but which he cannot expect the State and the City governments to provide for him. He wants hospitals, schools, homes for the young and the aged, camps and centers for the recreation of the youth, and he wants them to be maintained and to function as a Catholic considers proper and right. So the Catholics of our city provide the financial means to assure the existence and the growth of these needs.

The lesson for the Jewish group in this city is quite obvious. We too have certain needs for which the State and the City cannot provide. The list of needs which we enumerated above for the Catholic group, can well be duplicated for the Jewish group.

But our greatest need is to provide educational facilities for our children and youth. That, no Federal, nor State, nor Municipal authorities can provide for us. We are to do it ourselves, and we are not doing a thing about it.

We are bringing up a generation of illiterates as far as Jewish learning is concerned.

We have no authorized committee in Providence that would be financially able to help the existing schools and to encourage the opening of new ones.

There was a Yiddish school in the city which closed during the war and cannot resume its functions because of lack of funds. There was a Talmud Torah on Chester Avenue which is no more because of lack of interest and funds. The Talmud Torah on Orms Street is a school in name only. It still opens its doors to a handful of children thanks to the sacrifices of the one teacher who refuses to give up. The Day school, with an excellent staff of teachers is left to the resources of a small group of ardent supporters.

But the work for Jewish education should not be left to the care of a few. It is everybody's concern, and should be treated as a community problem, with community support, and community supervision, and in a community spirit.

This is what these small, still voices we hear these days say to us. This is what they mean when they call us to give some attention to the garden in our own backyard.

are members of the local GJC and receive substantial allocations annually. More than 100 institutions are represented between them.

Duplicating Drives Out

Their aims, simply stated, are to coordinate in America the fund-raising activities of these several score Palestinian educational, cultural and welfare agencies (religious and secular) that are not supported by any nationwide fund-raising organization, and thereby eliminate numerous and costly campaigns heretofore conducted independently in their behalf.

Some of these institutions have been functioning uninterruptedly for more than 100 years; many of them are 50-60 years old, while others were established during the last 20-25 years to fill the needs of the steady influx of Jews into Israel.

The most famous Yeshivoh in the land are included within the AFPI or FCPI framework. Aside from their remarkable accomplishments in the pure field of education, they have made extremely significant contributions to music and art as a result of the cultural phases of their programs. Virtually all the Palestinian "greats" in the realms of music, art and literature have been aided to some degree by the unheralded but constantly expanding work of the Yeshivoh.

Responsible officers of both groups are in full agreement that the biggest task that faces the new State of Israel today is the admission of tens of thousands of refugees from the displaced persons camps of Europe as quickly as possible.

Aid Must Continue
But, after their admission, educational, cultural and welfare assistance must be provided these people. Until such time as the government is able to include a sizeable portion of the beneficiaries of the AFPI and the FCPI in an all-embracing program of public education, social welfare and social service, both the AFPI and FCPI must continue to cope with the monumental problems that confront them in these three major fields.

Orphanages, homes for the aged, blind and incurable, hospitals and sick aid societies, relief organizations, soup kitchens, free loan funds, Yeshivoh and Talmud Torah schools. These are among the many score worthy institutions maintained as a result of the conscientious work of the AFPI and the FCPI.

The people of Israel find themselves in a situation which is both unique and unprecedented. They must organize a state. They must finance that state. They must repair the damages of war. They must take in close to 250,000 more people within the current year, after admitting 128,000 in the past year.

They must set up relations with all countries in the world. War, rehabilitation, reconstruction, integration, the laying of the foundations of a new civilization require vast sums of money, some of which must be found within a comparatively short period. It is true that the full benefits will be enjoyed by later generations and that a disproportionate amount of the cost must be borne by this generation, but it is also true that this generation is glad to assume that burden.

Survival Assured

It is with that knowledge in mind that the General Jewish Committee approaches its crucial 1949 fund-raising campaign. The fledgling state of Israel is a reality. As a result, hundreds of thousands of oppressed Jewish men, women and children—victims of the Nazi holocaust that spread across half the globe—have been assured a chance of survival.

But survival is not enough. The main goal is continuity of existence. The ancient but young nation of Israel must continue to grow to infinite ends for itself and its people. Continuity—that is the keyword. Stability—that is the watchword.

But the word that will most assure these humanitarian objectives is GIVE! Your gift to the 1949 "Homecoming" campaign of the GJC will translate these objectives into a reality of their own, just as the new state of Israel became a reality. One gift for several score causes—that is what your donation to the forthcoming GJC will mean in tangible terms. The intangible benefits can be accurately recorded only in a Higher Kingdom.

MEMBERSHIP TEA

Plans for a paid up membership tea to be held soon were made at a meeting of the Providence chapter of Women's Mizrahi, Monday afternoon at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

SYD COHEN:

Lament of the Columnist

Since this column was born, it has been dedicated to the development of a suitable sports program for the Jewish population of Rhode Island. Softball, baseball and football are three sports that have been successfully plugged. Golf is one that has been tried but has not resulted in any positive action. Bowling, already established, has been expanded.

At all times an attempt has been made to interest the public in local Jewish sports, whether from an active or spectator point of view. I have always been keenly interested in stories on other sports than those already mentioned and have hunted for them whenever possible. All worthwhile leads have been followed up and a few stories obtained in this manner.

Yet, there have been comments made on occasion to the effect that this column should devote itself more to the development of a local Jewish sports program. Mix these well with other complaints that not enough time is spent on national sports and sports personalities, on major league baseball and other similar items, and you get an idea that the public is a trifle difficult to please. This is not a complaint—just an attempted explanation as to the problem it is to present a well-rounded and interesting weekly column.

The Worm Turns

Now the worm turns—and the column has a complaint. If the public has the right to ask for certain things from a columnist—and it certainly has—and if the public is interested enough to make comments, whether favorable or unfavorable—then the columnist himself has a right to expect a little cooperation in the matter of getting news leads on stories that may be of interest to other readers.

Last year a plan was afoot to purchase the old Ledgeport Country Club and open its membership rolls to other Jewish golfers and country club enthusiasts than those already enrolled in Ledgeport. Here was a story worth something, and a chance for the column to assist in putting the thing over to the public. Yet, the story was not released to me until the negotiations had been under way for a long time, and when the time came to "put up or shut up" there was a lack of funds—and the wonderful project was dead. I blame part of that on the lack of publicity, which I was willing but not permitted to give.

Now a friend tells me that the old Ledgeport is still attracting Jewish golfers and that many local women are out on the links giving it a serious try. Here is another story that should look good in this column and which might lead to something in the golfing line that I have long tried to get started. Yet my facts on the case are limited to what has already been written. I'd like very much to get a story on it, if there is a story. Since others seem to know about it, I might expect that they would get in touch with me and give me the details—in the interests of a better column. So far I'm still fishing for it—without line and bait.

Another Example

Then there is the new Jewish Baseball League that originated at the Center. Since the time it was formed, I expressed great interest in it and pledged my support to it. What happens? The league forms and gets under way with a minimum of notice and when I rush into print with a column based on what I had heard and been told, I find that my facts are slightly garbled and that the complete and accurate story is something else again. Results of games still are not sent in to this paper.

Exasperation, thy name is Cohen! These three instances are typical of the problem from this corner. There are good stories around and excellent chances for us all to develop a good, even outstanding sports program for our own local citizenry. It just requires a news tip and a little information to get things started. Yet, I must honestly complain that such cooperation is too often lacking.

Don't tell me it is apathy with this column, either. There are too many comments for that, if you will pardon a blushing admission. Besides, in two of the instances mentioned above, the sources that gave me the information have been urging that I spend more time on local sports, and then proceeded to give me incomplete details—and a few weeks later, at that, on the stories in question. That's what hurts.

ner in which it bounced back to second game Sunday and regain lick Miller's Delicatessen in the the league lead.

Early Settler

I have been reading in recent issues of the Herald, articles written by Mr. John Solomon. In none of these articles was the name of one of the first Jewish settlers in Providence mentioned. For your information, Henry Rosenblatt and his wife, Rachel Leiblich Rosenblatt, came to Providence from Pittsburgh, and were two of the earliest orthodox Jews in this city's history.

It was Mr. Rosenblatt who brought the first Jewish baker, Nathan Zanvill Schecter, to Providence, and the first schochet, Rev. Finklestein (who married me in 1898), and the first butcher, Mr. Lipschitz.

Mr. Rosenblatt lived on Washington Street, where he had the first plate glass and mirror store. He also was in the real estate business. He helped build the Orms Street Schule. He used to close his business on Fridays at 1:30 o'clock until sundown Saturday.

Wins Trip to Israel; to Leave in June

Miss Eunice Orodener of this city recently received an award, a trip to Israel, from the Zionist Organization of America. She was awarded the first of three prizes given in the New England Region for outstanding work on behalf of Young Judaea, the ZOA youth group.

Miss Orodener will leave at the end of June for Israel, where she will take up studies at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem for six months, and then she will spend the remainder of the year in a settlement.

A recent graduate Magna Cum
Laude from Classical High School,
Miss Orodener won the Anthony Medal for her essay, "Peace for Israel." She participated in student activities, particularly the Dramatic Club and the student newspaper, the Classical Review.

An active member of Young Judaea for many years, Miss Orodener at present holds the offices of president, Providence
Chapter of Senior Judaea; honorary president, New England Region of Senior Judaea; president, Southeastern Massachusetts Region of Senior Judaea; national treasurer, Young Judaea, and treasurer, New England Council of Young Judaea.

Miss Orodener is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Orodener, of Warrington Street, this city.

JFCS Reception, Tea, For Foster Mothers Dr. Clara Loitman Smith Guest Speaker

Foster mothers who care for children placed by the foster home program of the Jewish Family and Children's Service will be guests of honor at a Reception and Tea to be held next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock it was announced this week by Mrs. Edmund I. Waldman, chairman of the agency's Foster Home Committee.

This fifth annual tea for foster mothers will take place in the Conference Room of the Providence Community Fund building, 100 North Main Street. Dr. Clara Loitman Smith, local Pediatrician and expert on problems of child care, will be the guest speaker on the occasion. She will talk on Emotional Problems of Children from the Ages of 7 to 15 Years. Alter Boyman, president of the agency, will extend greetings.

This affair will be the fifth in a series held to provide foster mothers cooperating with the agency the opportunity to know each other and to exchange ideas on the pleasures and problems of foster parenthood. This year each foster mother has been requested to bring along with her as her guest, another prospective foster mother who might with further information agree to take a child into her home. This is being done in order to inform a larger group in the community concerning the agency's Foster Home Program which has been successfully operated since the closing of the Jewish Orphanage in 1942.

Joseph Galkin, executive director of the agency, stressed the point that there is an urgent need for more foster homes in which children can be placed. The agency is attempting to build a reserve of such homes with a view to providing greater opportunity for selecting the most suitable home for each individual child. All expenses for the child's board, clothing, and medical care are paid by the agency, and all that is asked of the foster parents is that the youngster be given an opportunity for a normal family life.

Serving with Mrs. Waldman as hostesses at the tea are: Mrs. Joseph Adelson, Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt, Mrs. Louis Chester, Mrs. Saul Feinberg, Mrs. Louis Finkel, Mrs. Isaac Gerber, Mrs. Isador S. Low, Mrs. Maurice Robinson, Mrs. Joseph J. Seifer, and Mrs. William Weinstein.

In Appreciation

I wish to thank my many good friends and relatives for the beautiful farewell party tendered me on Tuesday, May 17, 1949, at the Orms Street Synagogue.

Ralph Einstein to Play for Torah Party

Both native talent and foreign culture are featured in the program being presented at the Temple Emanuel Sisterhood Torah Fund Garden Party, June 15, at the home of Mrs. Joseph Ress, 386 Cole Avenue. Ralph Einstein, concert pianist and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Einstein, and Miss Esther Gershone, an Indian Jewess and a student at the Jewish Theological Seminary, are guests of the afternoon.

Ralph Einstein began his musical education under his father's guidance and continued with Felix Fox of Boston. He received his B. S. degree from Brown University in 1944 and took his Bachelor of Music degree at Yale in 1947.

Miss Gershone, the first Indian girl ever to enroll at the Seminary's School of Jewish Studies, is a graduate of the University of Bombay, and a former teacher in her home city of Karachi. She is typical of the students the Torah Fund helps

For the young moderns CONANT BALL presents MODERNMATES

HERE is furniture that is new and modern in every sense of the word.

It is modern in its design and conception . . . modern in its broad practical use . . . modern in its natural adaptability to any size room in any type home. It is furniture that will definitely appeal to young people . . . newly married couples starting out in their first home or apartment. For it is quality furniture within their means . . . furniture that will meet space limitations and at the same time, fit perfectly into growing plans for expansion. Breaking away from the sectional idea of modern design this new Conant Ball furniture stresses the family idea. Each piece is made full scale and perfectly capable of standing alone as a complete, well-designed and beautifully proportioned unit. However, the family lines, in scale and design, are carried out so thoroughly that case pieces, sofas, beds and even chairs and tables can be placed together in limitless wall groups creating exciting and different effects.

More than that, Conant Ball designers have also broken away from the traditional furniture-for-a-specific-room idea. Instead of being living room pieces, or dining room pieces, or bedroom pieces, most of the units in this new Conant Ball line are designed so that they can be used in all-rooms in the house. It is furniture not for a room, but for the home.

Even though you may not need furniture at this time, you will enjoy seeing this display at the Modern Furniture Company in Fall River. Be sure to ask or write for your complimentary copy of Modern's new booklet, illustrating the entire Conant Ball collection.

Around Town

with ARLENE SUMMER

Seein' Double

There seems to be an epidemic of twins in Providence! After reporting the birth last week of three sets of twins, I thought I was through for awhile; but again this week two bewildered couples are announcing the good news... It was a boy and a girl born May 18 to the Samuel Garfinkles (she's the former Ann Smith). Robert Steven is just six minutes older than Rebecca Susan. The Garfinkles also have a six and one-half year old son... Twin boys, named Jonathan Lee and David Andrew, were born on May 19, the first children of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Snyder. Mother is the former Sylvia Berger.

Anniversary Congrats

To Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rouslin who are today celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary... Also to the Gabriel Samdperils, married 20 years come Sunday... Friends of the Fred Tennenbaums will help the couple celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary tonight, starting with cocktails at the home of the Irvin Bornsides and continuing to the Narragansett Hotel.

Bad Luck, Bader

No, Hilly Bader didn't walk into a door. That black eye was a result of a foul tip that hit him smack in the eye when he was playing softball.

For the First Time

Jack and Ann Martha (Goldblatt) Strashnick are the proud parents of a son, Michael Aaron, born May 18.

Engaged

Congratulations are in order for Carol Reitzas of Fall River and Harold Weisel of Providence who recently became engaged...

Tower Club's new president, Abbott (Bud) Uloff, is now engaged to Hilda Barad. Bud's a junior (almost a senior) at Brown.

Supper Party

Celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary, the Oscar Klemers entertained at their home May 22 with a supper party. Imagine celebrating by having 80 guests to supper!

Junior Prom Party

Bet Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spater never thought they could fit so many people in their house! 75 hepcat friends of their twin daughters, Ruth and Florence, came to their home after the Hope junior prom. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Weiss (Uncle Leo, the class advisor at school, is a great favorite with the kids) were honored guests.

Just Heard

That Mr. and Mrs. I. Moses have become parents of a baby girl, Sheila Susan, born May 22.

It won't be long now

A luncheon was given Tuesday at Top Hill for Ruth Woodman by Mrs. Jack Cerel. Ruthie's counting the days until June 12 when she and Danny Cerel will say "I do". By the way, wish her a happy birthday on June 2.

Birthdays

June 2 is the birthday of Sumner Pomerantz and Shelly Summer.

Happy Anniversary to me

It was just a year ago this month that I started trying to keep you up on what's new around town.
