Denies Israel Sacked Monastery

NEW YORK—Vatican broadcasts charging that Israeli troops had destroyed church property and mistreated nuns at Ain Karem monastery were called "exaggerated and inaccurate" by Father Terence, Catholic Vicar of Southern Palestine, it was revealed here this week by the American Christian Palestine Committee.

Members of the Committee's study mission to Israel returned with a copy of a letter by Father Terence to Rabbi J. Herzog, of the Israeli Ministry of Religious Affairs. In the letter, the Father recounts his investigation of Vatican Radio charges that on May 17 a group of Jews invaded the chapel and residential quarters of the Franciscan Sisters at Ain Karem, near Jerusalem.

They were said to have smashed a number of holy statues. The Radio claimed the Sisters had been ordered by Israeli military authorities to leave the Convent, which was to be used as a troop billet. Father Terence quoted the Sisters as saying, "Nothing has occurred which, to their knowledge, would substantiate the exaggerated and inaccurate impression" broadcast by the Vatican Radio.

"It is to be regretted that such stories receive wide public attention . . . and thus build false impressions and create serious misunderstandings," the Catholic official wrote. He added that he would ask the Apostolic Delegate in Jerusalem to make a public statement. No such statement has been issued thus far, the returned members of the study mission said.

Finkle Elected ADL Vice Chairman

Name Rabinowitz
To Regional Board

Joseph M. Finkle, a member of the Rhode Island Fair Employment Practices Commission and chairman of the Anti-Defamation Committee of Roger Williams Lodge B'nai B'rith, was elected vice chairman of the New England Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith at a meeting held last Wednesday evening at the Hotel Kenmore in Boston. Judge David A. Rose of Boston was re-elected chairman.

Jail Bobby Who Fired Jews' Homes

LONDON—Policeman Alexander Weallans, who set fire last April to several Jewish-owned dwellings here was sentenced to five years imprisonment.

The magistrate said Weallans wanted to take revenge "for what the Jews had done to his friends" in Palestine "and it is a perfectly wicked thing that innocent people should be made to suffer for something with which they had nothing to do."

Archibald Silverman off to Israel

Shown above is the background photograph at the farewell luncheon tendered to Archibald Silverman by the General Jewish Committee and the Providence Zionist District, on the occasion of his leaving for a visit to Israel.

Honored at Luncheon by Associates

Seventy friends and business associates gathered at the Narragansett Hotel last Friday noon to pay homage, in the form of a surprise luncheon, to Archibald Silverman, GJC president, who left this week for a six week's visit to Israel.

Mr. Silverman, who has been a leader in Providence Jewish philanthropic activities for the past two generations, was hailed for his untiring leadership and financial support to Jewish charities, his record as one of the city's most prominent businessmen, and his background of overall civic activity.

A number of innovations made the affair one of the most entertaining of its type. On the wall behind the head table was a huge display, bearing a large hand-painted portrait of Mr. Silverman and a number of amusing cartoons depicting him as a civic leader, story-teller, mediator and fund-raiser.

The inscription at the bottom read: "Providence's Ambassador of Good Will—Give Our Regards to Israel!" Across the top, the display read: "Happy Landings to Archie Silverman!" Mr. Silverman left by plane on Tuesday of this week for the new Jewish homeland.

On another wall of the ballroom was a large illuminated neon map of Israel in color.

Another feature was the singing by the audience of an original song dedicated to Mr. Silverman and entitled "Give Our Regards to Israel!" Joseph Shlossberg, prominent local cantor, led the audience in the singing of the chorus and recitation of several verses. The song was written for the occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Pine.

Presentations to Mr. Silverman were made by Rabbi Morris Schussheim, in behalf of the Providence Zionist District, and Milton C. Sapinsley, in behalf of Mr. Silverman's business associates in several fields.

Musician, Mother Reunited Here

NEW YORK—A Roumanian mother and her musician son, separated six years ago in a Nazi concentration camp when he was taken out to be shot, were reunited this week on a New York harbor pier.

Mrs. Fanny Flor, 60, the mother, was one of 876 DPs who arrived Sunday aboard the Gen. M. L. Hersey from Bremerhaven.

Samuel Flor, 38, a first violinist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra; his wife, Gertrude, and his mother, were in the same Nazi camp in the Ukraine in 1943. Early one morning Flor and his wife were taken out to be shot. After digging what was to be his own grave, he threw his coat around his wife and, "in a wild dash through a hail of bullets, escaped from the camp."

Assumes Duties

MORRIS KRITZMAN

Mr. Kritzman, formerly of Trenton, arrived in Providence last week to assume the duties of Executive Director of the Jewish Community Center.

GJC Sets Goal of $1,350,000 for 1949

(Pictures on Page 8)

The amount of $1,350,000—last year's quota—was again set as the goal for the 1949 "Homecoming" campaign of the local General Jewish Committee of greater Providence.

Members of the Board of Directors, as well as numerous key workers in the major divisions of the drive, gathered at the Wayland Manor last Thursday evening to establish a goal and discuss plans for this year's campaign.

Speaker after speaker who participated in the general discussion that followed the remarks of Judge Morris Rothenberg, acting chairman of the United Palestine Appeal—agreed that the $1,350,000 figure could be achieved, "provided the proper pattern of giving is established and all potential donors are adequately contacted."

Judge Rothenberg, New York City magistrate and nationally known leader in Jewish philanthropies for many years, emphasized the countless sacrifices being made by the people of Israel to accommodate the thousands of new arrivals there each week.

"They have taxed themselves to the limit," he declared. "Two-thirds of their income is given to the government to help feed, clothe and shelter their new fellow citizens. Uncomplaining, they are living under an 'austerity' program unbelievably severe. Food, for example, is rigorously rationed—yet they never hesitate to share their own limited resources with the new arrivals."

Kane Supports Plea
Benjamin N. Kane, who recently returned from a visit to Israel, gave warm support to Judge Rothenberg's plea.

Protest Arms Shipment to Arabs

LAKE SUCCESS—Aubrey S. Eban, Israeli representative to the United Nations, protested to the Security Council against the British Government's decision to resume arms shipments to the Arab states.

Mr. Eban said that the representatives at Lausanne of the Arab states had refused to meet with Israeli representatives under the auspices of the Palestine Conciliation Commission, and that "responsible leaders" of some of the Arab states had recently issued statements "expressing not a desire for peaceful relations with Israel, but a resolve to resume war as soon as conditions permit."

"My Government," he added, "is deeply convinced that in such circumstances as these the promise of renewed arms supplies to these Arab states may be a blow to the prospects of peace and a gratuitous obstacle to the success of the Lausanne talks at a peculiarly delicate stage."

Board members are Mesdames B. Fish, I. Hayman and A. Mendelovitz.

A rescue luncheon scheduled for October 17 is now being planned.

U. S. TO RETAIN EMBARGO

Authoritative sources in the State Department declared here this week that the U.S.A. has no plan to lift the embargo on arms shipment to the Near East. Before such steps are taken, it was pointed out, the UN. Security Council would have to repeal its decision not to send arms to that part of the world. This comment was made in connection with the report that Britain will send small arms to the Arab States.

He said he intended to visit every area of the new state and confer with all leading personalities during the five weeks he will remain there.

Numerous congratulatory telegrams, including one from Henry Morgenthau Jr., national chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, were read by Alvin A. Sopkin, who presided as toastmaster.

June brings many brides and with the brides come all kinds of teas, parties and showers over which you won't have to rack your brain with a few sandwich and dessert suggestions like these.

Dainty patty shells add a gracious touch to any party. Try these easy-to-make dessert party shells:

Dessert Party Shells

- 4 cups corn flakes
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1/2 tspn salt
- 1 tblspn butter
- 1/2 tspn vanilla

Measure corn flakes into greased mixing bowl. Cook sugar, syrup, salt and butter over direct heat to temperature of 236 degrees F. (soft ball in cold water). Remove from heat, add vanilla. Pour hot syrup mixture over corn flakes, stirring so that each flake is coated. Line greased muffin pans with flakes mixture, pressing firmly into patty shapes. Serve patty shells filled with fruit, pudding or ice cream.

Yield: 7 patty shells (2 1/4 inches in diameter).

Here is a festive sandwich loaf to grace the simplest or most lavish of wedding reception buffets. A hint about Brazil nuts: chill in the refrigerator overnight and the nuts are easy to crack and drop out of their shells whole.

Brazilian Sandwich Loaf

Remove crusts from a loaf of bread and cut into five lengthwise slices. Cream one-half pound of butter or margarine and divide into four parts. To the first part, add one-half cup finely chopped Brazil nuts and one teaspoon prepared mustard. To the second part, add one-half cup minced watercress, one teaspoon onion juice and one teaspoon lemon juice. To the third part, add one-quarter cup minced pimiento and to the fourth part, add one-quarter cup minced olives. Spread four of the slices with the fillings and place them on top of each other in the order given. Cover with the unspread slice.

Soften four packages of cream cheese and beat in one-fourth cup sour or sweet cream. Cover top and sides of sandwich loaf with the cream cheese mixture. Garnish the top and sides with sliced Brazil nuts. Chill in the refrigerator at least an hour. Garnish with parsley or watercress and slice at the table.

JEWS, NEGROES RESTRICTED

TORONTO—The Ontario Court of Appeals this week upheld a restrictive covenant barring the sale of land at a Lake Huron summer resort near here to Jews or Negroes. ## New Law Needed to Control Peddlers of Hate Propaganda

By Will Maslow

In 1948 there were 45 anti-Semitic organizations in the United States, busy distributing literature designed to stir up hatred against the Jews. Their propaganda themes were preposterous and inconsistent, yet striving by dint of continued repetition to make an impact. They argued that all Jews were Communists and international financiers, that Jews plotted a world empire, that they controlled certain industries and the government as well, that they "owned" the atom bomb and were engaged in a vast conspiracy to overthrow Christianity. Sometimes these peddlers of hatred distributed material which they must have known were forgeries; on other occasions they printed charges which they themselves could not possibly have believed.

What shall be done about such racketeers? Shall we ignore them, hoping that they will make no headway? Shall we confine our efforts to exposure of these anti-Semites and their financial connection? Shall we engage in counter-propaganda to convince Americans that its Jewish citizens are loyal? Or shall we attempt to invoke governmental sanctions to punish, and thus prevent such hate propaganda?

Maslow

Believing that anti-Semitic material is a cumulative poison which envenoms group relations and which contributes nothing to the public discussion of ideas and opinions, the American Jewish Congress has sponsored a federal group libel bill introduced by Representatives Klein, Javits, Dawson, Keating and Keogh (H.R. 2270).

The bill makes it a federal misdemeanor for any person "with intent to create ill-will against a racial and religious group" to mail, import or distribute in interstate commerce any printed or mimeographed material which exposes any individual or group of individuals to hatred, contempt, obloquy, aversion or injury because of his or their race or religion. Truth or reasonable and honest belief in the truth of the statements circulated is an absolute defense. The bill also places upon the defendant "the burden of coming forward with evidence upon the issues of truth, honest belief, reasonableness of belief and lack of intent to create ill-will" except that "the burden of proof beyond a reasonable doubt upon the entire case shall be upon the prosecution." Irresponsible administration of the law is guarded against by requiring the Attorney General's approval and supervision of each prosecution.

Under the bill, the prosecution would be required to show that the defendant had circulated written materials characterizing racial or religious groups in a manner which subjected them to hatred, etc. It would then be up to the defendant to raise either of the following defenses: (1) that he did not intend to create ill-will; (2) that the statements were true or that he reasonably and honestly believed them to be so.

There is little point in arguing whether the Klein-Javits bill is constitutional. This issue has never been squarely before the United States Supreme Court, although the Court has held that a state may punish utterances which are "no essential part of any exposition of ideas and are of such slight social value as a step to truth that any benefit that may be derived from this is clearly outweighed by the social interest in order and morality" (Chaplinsky v. New Hampshire, 313 U. S. 568, 571).

The real issue is whether the bill will inhibit freedom of press and whether it is not more desirable to suffer the anti-Semitic rabble-rousers than to jeopardize our free speech tradition by a form of governmental control.

We hold dear the free market in ideas and revere our constitutional guarantee of a free press. We realize that the best protection the Jew has against prejudice and discrimination is a free society of which a free press is integral. But we deny that malicious circulation of material known to be false and designed to stir up religious hatred contributes in any way to a free press or a free market in ideas. An utterance which is basically fraudulent blocks the free communication of ideas just as fraudulently advertised products must be eliminated to prevent the blocking of a free competitive commercial market.

False and malicious anti-Semitic statements are not opinions entitled to constitutional protection. They are obsessions or racketeers' devices. Anti-Semitism is not a rational opinion.

What is the alternative to a group libel law? Shall we argue there is no "clear and present" danger to society because counter-propaganda can be issued before the evil is imminent? But the real evil is not riots or disturbances; the danger is that the irrational element in all of our minds becomes infected with this cumulative poison and thereafter no amount of logic or reason will unsettle these fixed prejudicial ideas.

We do not for a moment assume that the Klein-Javits bill or any other group libel bill can "outlaw" anti-Semitism. That fight must be waged on many fronts: the enactment of FEPC, against quota systems, against racist immigration laws, against "restricted" suburbs, etc. But in that fight a group libel law to prevent group defamation can play an important role.

WILL MASLOW is general counsel of the American Jewish Congress and director of its Commission on Law and Social Action. He has been director of field operations of the wartime FEPC, trial attorney and trial examiner of the NLRB, associate counsel of the N.Y.C. Dept. of Investigation, counsel to the City Affairs Committee, and a reporter for the New York Times. He holds degrees from Cornell and Columbia and is a member of the U. S. Supreme Court Bar.

Question:

Should the group libel bill be passed by Congress?

The question is one on which emotion collides with cold reason. Anything that can be done to control the dissemination of hate propaganda certainly should have the support (morally, at least) of every genuine believer in democracy. One hydra-headed monster alone, "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion," although it has been exposed as completely fraudulent, time after time in the past 30 years, is responsible for dozens of beliefs, as widespread as they are slanderous, concerning the Jews.

Southerners become so indoctrinated with race superiority that many of them almost automatically indulge in spreading false concepts about the Negro. Americanism has become so narrow in its interpretation by certain groups that progressive social movements are automatically labeled as Communist, with no consideration of the facts.

Group libel needs careful consideration, obviously. And few would question the motives of Rep. Klein (D-N.Y.) or the American Jewish Congress in connection with H.R. 2270 which is now before Congress. One must ask: Will it work as intended?

The bill can cut two ways. To a non-legal mind, it would seem that it might even be used as additional ammunition for the suppression of periodicals like The Nation, which is currently banned from New York's schools. Furthermore, the bill has been so hedged with protective clauses that probably a conviction under its terms would be almost impossible, which would only result in more work for the courts without any benefits.

The British, to whom we owe as many precedents in law as in imperialist behavior, recently made an exhaustive survey of the libel laws of the United Kingdom and reached the conclusion that they were "not amiss." Among other things, the committee, which had been working for nearly 10 years, rejected a proposal to extend the law of defamation to embrace "false statements vilifying groups or classes of persons distinguished by race, color, creed, or vocation."

These sober British jurists probably foresaw a threat to the freedom of the press.

And why give the misguided groups at which the Group Libel bill is aimed a chance to fight back? Let's not put any restrictions on that section of the press which is interested in exposing the enemies of democracy.

—Clip Boutell

In view of the widespread interest that has been created by the Javits-Klein bill (H. R. 2270) now being discussed in a committee of the House of Representatives in Washington, the HERALD is reprinting on this page a debate on the group libel bill as it appeared in a recent edition of the New York Daily Compass.

Bill Might Be a 'Boomerang' Harmful to All Minorities

By Herbert M. Levy

The Javits-Klein group libel bill represents a praiseworthy attempt to deal with the problems engendered by racial and religious hatred. It assumes, however, that such hatred would be stopped (or at least slowed down) by denying the right to publish such libels when they are transported through interstate commerce. It does not touch other channels of communication. And it deals only with libel, that is, the publication of statements tending to hurt reputation, not with incitement. Thus, a newspaper could run banner headlines "Kill the Jews and Negroes," and it would go unpunished by the act, so long as no defamatory statements were made. Moreover, the bill would only punish a group libel if the defamatory statement was made with intent to create ill will, and without honest belief upon reasonable grounds in the truthfulness of the statement.

Before considering the civil liberties aspect of such a bill, let's examine its practical effect and operation. An actual conviction under the bill would do little if anything to ease racial relations. The defendant, who would probably merely be given a light fine, would become a martyr, and would just use more circumspection in getting around the statute: the next time he would preach aloud, and be left untouched by the law. Of course, the effect of an acquittal would be still worse. The racial bigots would shout their triumphs, and proclaim that it was not libelous to say what they were saying. They would also proclaim that the courts had held that their statements were true!

Would it be possible to get a conviction under the act? I doubt it. First, how could it be established that the defamatory statement was made with intent to create ill will? That is difficult enough to prove, but it would be next to impossible to prove that a statement, if not true, was not honestly believed to be true upon reasonable grounds. No bigot would confess to his dishonesty. How could the Attorney General prove, then, that the belief was not based upon reasonable grounds? Bigots and non-bigots alike, we all base our beliefs on information supplied to us by others. Unless we are researchers in the social sciences, we are forced to form our beliefs in this way. Since almost all base their beliefs upon what they are told, it would seem to be a reasonable ground upon which to base a belief. And if a defendant says he has believed Gerald L. K. Smith or what the Klan taught him, would a jury say he is unreasonable? Certainly there are certain sections of our country where such beliefs would be held reasonable, and, indeed, some juries in such areas might think it unreasonable to believe what was read in this very newspaper!

Needless to say, the donation of the courts to the rabble-rousers as a new forum in which to preach their propaganda will be conducive to their success, just as in Germany the frequent libel suits against the Nazis resulted in more Nazi propaganda and helped the Nazis to succeed.

But aside from the fact that a bill such as this would be a knife-edged boomerang for the minority groups, it must also be condemned because of its threats to civil liberties. All speech is wisely protected by our Constitution, unless there is a clear and present danger of serious substantive evils. Group libel does not present such a danger, since the Supreme Court recently held, in the Terminiello case, that the evils must rise far above the stirring of people to anger and the causing of unrest. A written publication, moreover, distributed by mail, gives time for counter-propaganda. The law is clear that freedom of speech will be protected when there is time and opportunity to counteract that speech by another speech.

You may say, who cares about free speech for Fascists anyhow? But you miss the point that it's your free speech, too. A bill like this could easily be turned against minority groups. It is not too difficult to conceive that an attempt might be made to convict a Negro who made a defamatory statement about the white race! The bill attempts to guard against the institution of such prosecutions by providing that the Attorney General must first approve the prosecution. There is no guarantee of the political predilections of future Attorneys General. And can you imagine the terroristic weapon this gives an anti-Negro bigot if he hears a Negro say a word against the white race? Lest it be said that this fear is fanciful, let me add that not only the American Jewish Committee but also the Anti-Defamation League, one of the leading groups of professional fighters of racial and religious defamation, oppose the bill because it is felt that it would hamper them in their work. (The American Jewish Committee agrees.)

Only two states, Massachusetts and Indiana, have group libel laws. We know of only one prosecution even having been begun since the Massachusetts law was passed seven years ago, and it was dismissed on a technicality. Although the Indiana law has been on the books for two years, no attempt has ever been made to prosecute the "X-Ray," published in Indiana, and the most vicious anti-Semitic publication in the country. Moreover, there is no proof whatsoever that racial hatreds have been in the least dissipated in either of those states since the group libel laws were passed.

HOLLYWOOD — Writer-director-producer Cy Howard, who shortly will become radio's top-salaried chattel, told me this week that the $200,000 per year he will rake in for the next six years is the payoff from hitting the situation comedy jackpot. Cy's new contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System is the reward for the success of his two current packages, "My Friend Irma" and "Life With Luigi," with a new opus "The Private Lives of Eddie and Ann," to debut this summer on the network. The latter show, dealing with the adult world through the eyes of 10-year-olds, may also be telecast simultaneously.

 Howard has pronounced ideas on the place of situation versus gag comedy. He maintains that the day of gagery and tailoring a show to a star's needs has ended. Cy insists, for his shows, on a story stressing characterization with "real people and real problems" in it. In this way, he claims, the comedy basis is laid for situations that have impact and can be continued indefinitely.

Cy claims the technique of playing a show to a studio audience is all wet. "Why sacrifice an audience of 22,000,000 at home for 400 in the studio?" he asks. "The number of laughs a show gets in the studio is a false barometer because comedians use tricks to get the people in the studio to laugh. They mug, use tired old mother-in-law jokes, sex jokes, girdle jokes, insults and wild jokes. I go after relaxed listening in the home."

Cy "dejokifies" each of his radio scripts and pulls out at least 15 gags that are not in character and do not spring from the situation. He explains: "Each of my scripts must have the story resolved. I do not use cliches, and there are no jokes fed to characters." Cy has his actors dress in character for the studio audience, his theory being: "For the studio audience—theatre; for the people at home—radio."

Jack Benny informs us that he'll do at least one live television show a month starting in the fall for his present sponsor, to augment the cigarette firm's weekly program built around comedienne Martha Raye.

Lucky Strike wants Jack to concentrate on his Sunday night radio stanza and thus the TV program will remain on an experimental basis. If it is found that he has time enough to do more than one TV show each month, then the schedule might be stepped up to a bi-weekly basis.

Norman Mailer, brilliant young author of "The Naked and The Dead," hitherto averse to film offers, is talking a deal with Director John Huston for a picture to be made for the One World Award Committee. Project calls for Mailer and the film director to tour the world for background material.

Danny Kaye was described as "the greatest ambassador of Anglo-American relations" by U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, Lewis Douglas, at a luncheon this week feteing Danny at the Hotel Savoy, London, with cabinet ministers, members of parliament and the Lord Mayor applauding the American comedian. Douglas declared that Kaye has done more to cement relations between the two countries than all officialdom.

SYD COHEN:

Elegy in Gray

Funeral services for the Providence Grays, four years old, who died a month ago when their stockholders defaulted their obligations and turned the club over to the New England League, were held in Boston last week when the league disbanded the team and placed the franchise on an inactive status, and in protective custody.

The cause of death was listed officially as cancer non-supportis, aggravated by complications of lack-suitable facilities, otherwise known as "no ball park".

The deceased was a direct descendant of the old Providence Grays, formerly of the National, International and Eastern Leagues. Among its claims to fame was that the late and great Babe Ruth jumped to the major leagues from Providence.

Survivors include the remaining seven clubs of the New England League.

In paying homage to the sad passing of the Grays, this column does not intend to rehash the story that already is more than a week old. The tale has been told and concluded. Nothing can be added—about the way the Grays died. Yet there is more to be said . . .

The most practical and accurate group I know are the sportswriters and sportscasters of this area, who predicted at a spring meeting, when Frankie Pytlak's appointment as manager had been announced, that the team would not last through the season. "You'd better see Pytlak as soon as he gets here," said one of the most prominent of the newspapermen, "because he won't be here for long."

If you stood on the corner of Dorrance and Westminster Streets, the acknowledged crossroads of Providence, and questioned passersby, chances are that you would not meet anyone who could tell you that Providence once was a thriving baseball town and highly respected in baseball's annals—or that Providence boasted of two of the earliest world championship teams in history. If anyone who saw those clubs is still alive, he likely is too old and feeble and weary to remember it. For these championship clubs played way back in 1879 and 1884.

In 1879 the Grays had a season's record of 55 wins and 23 defeats for a glittering .705 percentage. George Wright was the manager. Five years later Providence did even better under Frank Bancroft—84 wins and 23 setbacks for .750. That was our last title in the National League. But it is enough to show that we once were of the baseball intelligentsia.

That is not all. That 1884 club became the first recognized world champion, for that was the year of the very first World Series, in which the Grays knocked off the New York Metropolitan.

Providence also had an interesting history in the International League. In 1892 the Grays won the first half championship and lost the playoffs. In 1894 they won the title with a percentage of 696. They were back on top two years later, and again in 1900 and 1905. After that it was a comparatively long haul between pennants, 1914 being the next title season—the year Babe Ruth, Ernie Shore, Carl Mays, etc. were here, the Babe rather briefly. That was Providence's last title in the AAA league.

In between the Grays were in the Eastern League.

The lack of a ball park first hurt the Grays in 1925, when the owners of that time decided to move the franchise to Reading, Pa., because this city held an "unpromising" future and had no suitable playing field. The Braves kept the team here the next year, however, and Judge Emil Fuchs leased Kinsley Park and hired Casey Stengel as manager. Whether Casey ever showed up I have been unable to determine, but he apparently did not spend a season here. In fact, Fuchs probably did not operate the team in 1926, for the Braves did not definitely buy control of the club till September 2, 1927, the year following our final championship.

Bar Mitzvah

The Braves did take over in 1927, at the end of the season, and they operated the franchise until July 19, 1930, when Fuchs gave up because of the Eastern League's unstable condition.

National, International, Eastern and New England Leagues; eight pennants; the leading pitcher of the National loop twice—John M. Ward in 1879 and Charles Radbourne, the old Hoss, in 1884—Providence has had its share of baseball glory. Unfortunately, it is all in the past, and now it is nothing but a memory, with no heir to carry on in the old tradition.

Softball team of the week: The Olympics of Cadillac Textile, who knocked off the second place Comets twice, thus practically assuring themselves of a playoff spot and just about ruining the Comets' chances of finishing first over the course of the regular season.

finish in a tie. One defeat for each of the second place trio, or one Miller's win, automatically will bring the title to the Hope Street food emporium.

The defeat by Arden's Jewelry marked the first time this year that any team has failed to field enough men to play its scheduled games. The defeats, coupled with the Orioles' split with Richards, dropped Arden's into a sixth place tie with the Dwaresmen—and sixth place represents the final playoff spot.

None of these battles will be decided until late in August, however, since the league suspended play for six weeks after last week's games.

Olympics Upset Comets

In Sunday's feature contests, the Olympics of Cadillac Textile, fighting for a playoff spot, pulled one of the year's big upsets by downing the Comets twice, 11-10 and 11-4. The first game was handed to the Olympics on a silver platter, as Nate Ludman, with a 10-6 lead going into the last of the seventh, gave up one hit and seven bases on balls and walked the Olympics to five runs and the game. The Olympics, who twice failed to hold leads against Miller's last week, came from behind twice before dropping into that four-run deficit. The second game was a rout as the Comets seemed to fall apart. Lowell Leonard and Paul Litwin clouted homers for the winners.

The Comets played without their ace pitcher, Warren Foster, who was injured in an automobile accident on Thursday.

Philip Dwares Orioles climaxed their uphill fight for the first division by whipping Richards Clothing 13-7 in the second half of their double header after Richards had taken the opener 8-7. Taking full advantage of several Orioles errors, Richards pushed across seven runs in the second inning of the opener. The Dwaresmen tried hard to overcome that lead but their seventh inning rally fell one run short. Pomerantz homered for the winners. The Orioles banged out 18 hits, including Winograd's homer, in the nightcap to win going away. Pomerantz hit another circuit clout for Richards while Len Rodman starred in the field for the winners.

The victory-starved Pinkerson's outfit made a valiant bid to break their losing streak at the expense of Krasnoff's Creamery, but in the end the cellarites dropped their 15th and 16th in a row. The scores were 12-9 and 6-3. In the opener Pinkerson's overcame a 6-run lead to go out in front 9-7 in the fourth. But Krasnoff's came back with a five run splurge in the seventh for the win. Snyder for the winners and N. Tortola for the losers led the hitters. Pinkerson's Lafferty pitched a 4-hitter in the nightcap, only to lose because of eight errors.

The Kavodians kept alive their chances of finishing in the playoffs by drubbing Windsor Rhodes 20-7 and 9-3. Six runs in the first and sixth innings told the first game story, with Katzen homering for Fall River. Stern pitched a 4-hitter in the second game, aided by Stone and Hamer home runs. Three runs in the fourth and four in the sixth featured the winners' attack.

As GJC Set 1949 Goal

(Left) Shown during a pause in their deliberations are members of the GJC Board of Directors and key division workers who last week set an overall goal of $1,350,000 for the 1949 GJC campaign in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and three-score other beneficiary agencies.

(Below) Judge Morris Rothenberg, New York City magistrate and acting chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, strikes a reflective note as he reminds leaders of the General Jewish Committee at the Goal-Setting Dinner held June 23 of the many problems confronting Israel today as a result of the world's greatest mass immigration of refugees.
