Israel Moves to Curb Wave of Strikes

TEL AVIV—The executive body of Histadrut, the trade union federal of Israel, has moved to curb strikes called to protest a reduction in cost-of-living allowances which supplement workers basic pay.

A cut averaging $6 per month went into effect Monday after an agreement between Histadrut and the government pegging the cost-of-living allowance to the cost-of-living index.

The agreement was bitterly opposed by the Israeli Workers (Mapam), which threatened nationwide strikes.

Yesterday between two and four thousand workers went out on a protest strike in Tel Aviv and Jaffa. It was pointed out that the strike was in force only in plants where the Mapam and the Communists hold a majority in workers' committees. The strikers include Arab workers.

The Histadrut executive has warned union officials to avoid activities conflicting with decisions of the federation. Those failing to heed this warning will be subject to trial in union courts.

It was reported earlier that more wage cuts are expected by October 15.

Posthumous Honors For Executed Soldier

TEL AVIV—Arrangements were made here for a military funeral with full honors in Jerusalem for Meyer Tobiansky, who was tried by a Haganah court on June 30, 1948, on charges of treasonably giving information to the enemy

Special Women's Gift Workers Hold Conference Wednesday

MISS FLORA R. ROTHENBERG

Miss Flora R. Rothenberg of New York City, director of the National Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of Special Gifts chairmen and workers of the Providence Women's Division, GJC, August 3 at 10:30 o'clock. The all-day conference will be held at "Seadown", Narragansett, home of Mrs. Henry Hassenfeld, Special Gifts co-chairman.

Miss Rothenberg's talk will be featured in a program designed to instruct and stimulate workers for the 1949 "Homecoming Campaign".

Other speakers will be Mrs. Albert Pilavin, chairman of the Women's Division, who will greet the women, and Mrs. Nathan Samors, Special Gifts chairman, who will describe forthcoming plans.

End of Jewry in Germany is Forecast

NEW YORK—"Anti-Semitism is one of the strongest characteristics of Germany today. The Nazi doctrines of racism and anti-Semitism have not lost their fascination for the majority of the German population. . . . German Jewry will cease to exist before long."

These are conclusions reached by the Institute of Jewish Affairs, a research organization for the World Jewish Congress, in a report made public over the weekend.

Shortly before World War I, the report says, there were 615,000 Jews in Germany. With the advent of the Nazi regime in 1933 the number dropped to 525,000. Today there are approximately 15,000, plus about 20,000 Jewish displaced persons. Of the German Jews, 40 per cent are existing on charity or relief. In the legal profession, there are 97 Jews as compared to 3,000 in 1933. Fourteen years ago there were 5,500 Jewish doctors; today there are less than 100.

"The situation is essentially hopeless," the report says. "The Nazi yellow star has been removed by the Allies, but another kind of anti-Semitism is now at work. The Jews in Germany have only one desire, and that is to live in peace. But, they cannot find this peace in Germany. Those who are able to leave will leave the country. The others will die off."

Israeli Cost-of-Living Index Drops Again

TEL AVIV—The inflationary spiral is under control and Israel's cost-of-living index has dropped for the second successive 90-day period, David Horowitz, director-general of the Finance Ministry, said today.

He outlined the basis for a new policy to encourage foreign investments, reviewed the prospects for a favorable export program and reported on increased domestic production. He said the Arab economic boycott of Israel was doomed to failure.

Iron Curtain Zionists Forced Underground

NEW YORK—The Zionist Labor committee for relief and reconstruction made public a report on conditions of Jews in Eastern Europe stating that Zionist organizations in countries behind the Iron Curtain have been forced to go underground as a result of anti-Zionist campaigns being conducted in those countries.

The report says that in recent weeks jails in Hungary and Romania are being "packed with Zionist fighters." Every Jew who is suspected of wishing to go to Israel is being arrested, the report adds. It emphasizes that thousands of Jews in Eastern Europe now live "a life of persecution and are afraid to remain in their own homes."

Jewish Communists in Eastern Europe are aiding their respective governments to "throw a scare into the Jewish population not to participate in any Zionist activity and not to think of leaving their homes and proceeding to the Jewish homeland," the report states.

Dr. Lazonon Not Forced to Resign

BALTIMORE—Rabbi Morris S. Lazonon, the rabbi emeritus of the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation has not been forced to resign because of his strong anti-Zionist views and sermons, declared Milton J. Haas, president of the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation which was reported to have ousted Rabbi Lazonon. In a statement to the press, Haas categorically denied the rumor which appeared first in the New York Tog, that the Rabbi Emeritus had been dismissed, ousted, or forced to resign. Rabbi Lazonon resigned voluntarily and his resignation was accepted "with profound regret and only after a special committee of the board of electors called upon him to urge his withdrawal."

To Admit Wives, Children of Refugees

TEL AVIV—The Lebanese government was the first Arab state this week to accept a proposal made by the Government of Israel for the return of displaced wives and children of Arabs now in the Jewish State. Similar proposals have been made by Israel to the governments of Egypt and Transjordan, it was revealed over the weekend in an official announcement here.

The announcement said that the Israeli Government had appealed through the armistice commissions to the three Arab governments "asking their cooperation to facilitate the speedy return of the wives and children of Arab citizens, who will obtain a permit to enter Israel."

Israel's Map Shapes Up

TEL AVIV—Barring unforeseen developments, the map of Israel is now in its final form.

As it stands today, that map reflects changes effected in the past 15 months largely by the war and partly by the armistice negotiations among Israel and its neighboring Arab countries.

The total area is more than 7,000 square miles, or nearly the size of New Jersey. The area of mandated Palestine was 10,400 square miles. Under the U.N. partition plan of Nov. 29, 1947, Israel was to have 5,500 square miles. The plan prepared last September by Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator for Palestine, would have reduced Israel to 2,400 square miles.

Israel's boundaries on the north with the Lebanon, and northeast with Syria, are identical with the prewar international frontiers between those countries and Palestine. Israel's southeastern frontier with Transjordan also follows the old international boundary. The southern Israeli-Egyptian frontier is the same as the international boundary except for a narrow strip slightly more than five miles wide at its Mediterranean end.

Softball Teams In Action Sunday

Play will be resumed this Sunday morning in the Jewish Softball League, with ten teams in action and one, league-leading Miller's Delicatessen, preparing for the playoffs with an exhibition game. All games will start at 9:30 o'clock.
With the regular season coming to a close with the games to be played August 7, it is possible, and probable, that at least a few playoff spots will be decided this Sunday. Six of the eleven teams in the league will compete in the playoffs, which will start the week after the regular schedule is completed.
While Miller's is certain of nothing worse than a mathematical tie for first place, all other contenders must battle for their playoff positions. Of the three clubs tied at present for second place, two—Jack's Old Timers and Richards Clothing—will fight it out Sunday with other first division teams. The Old Timers meet the Cadillac Textile Olympics, just one game behind, while Richards plays Arden's, which is tied with Philip Dwares Orioles for sixth place, the final playoff spot.
The other second place occupant, Mal's Comets, meets Fall River's Kavodians.
The results of last night's league meeting at the Jewish Community Center, held past the Herald's deadline, will be reported in detail next week.
The complete schedule for this Sunday follows:
Fall River vs Mal's Comets at Collyer Field; Jack's Old Timers vs Cadillac Textile Olympics at Hopkins Park A; Pinkerson's vs Philip Dwares Orioles at Sessions Field; Arden's Jewelry vs Richards Clothing at Hopkins Park B; Krasnoff Creamery vs Windsor Rhodes at Roger Williams Park. Game time: 9:30 o'clock. Miller's players are asked to report at Bucklin Park, Field A, at 9 a. m.
Captains of all teams are urged to contact their rivals for this week to check on the availability of bases. Teams encountering difficulty on this score are asked to call Lou Weiner at the Half Hour Laundry (Laundromat) Service at Camp and Howell Streets.

Hail to Thee, Blithe Dentist

All toothaches were forgotten in the small town of Oriskany, New York, when Alfred Grossman, a young Jewish dentist from America's largest city, was paraded through street and road in token of his acceptance of an offer to open a dental office in that community.

The parade was headed by the Mayor of the town of 930 people, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and social and religious leaders. A band of music played and dentist hating children cheered loudly as they came within reach of the man who was aching to subject them to unpleasant drilling. It was not a hero, or a returning veteran, or a long missing person, or a popular athlete that they came to greet and cheer on. It was just a dentist that was the object of their adoration. And they cheered and applauded, the old and the young, because they stood in sight of the man who was to assuage their dental ills and, in the case of the old, give them new zest for food.

For years the town had been without a dentist. Children developed dental ailments. The old could not replace their decaying teeth with those shining substitutes. And there was trouble in the land. Appeals by the community failed to draw answer. Advertisements in the New York City press were of no avail—until there arrived one day a letter from Alfred Grossman. Here was a Moses that would lead them out of the Land of Toothache.

Whether it was mentioned or not that this Moses too was a Jew has not been recorded. Certain it is that in the midst of jubilation the word Jew was non-existent. Pain and the anticipation of alleviation vitiated all differences and united all men and women and children.

Is It A Depression?

Experts Seem to be Guessing On What the Future Holds

By TOM O'CONNOR

The President's Council of Economic Advisers, in its report on the economic situation at mid-year 1949, avoided specific predictions, hedged cautiously on what the future holds:

"Some conditions are now favorable for a reversal of the downward trend in industrial production and employment. . . . There are other factors, however, which could produce a further weakening. . . ."

Perhaps the hedging was the result of disagreement among the three members of the council as to the significance of what is happening, or perhaps it stems from the vivid memory of being out on a limb less than six months ago and seeing it quickly sawed off.

Leon H. Keyserling, vice-chairman of the CEA, testified at length before Sen. O'Mahoney's Joint Committee on the Economic Report last February, developing the thesis that there were serious maladjustments in the economy and that positive action was needed to avoid a real bust.

But when it came to making specific predictions he minimized the signs of recession already then apparent. He said the growing unemployment was already "tapering off" (it was 2.6 million then; now it's 3.8 million and still going up); that the slight drop in industrial production was "nothing threatening" (it was off 1 1/2 per cent from the peak then; now it's off 13 per cent and still falling fast); that the whole outlook for 1949 was "bright."

Into the Crystal Ball

Economic soothsaying seems to be a good deal tougher than figuring the horses. At those same committee hearings it was related that the American Statistical Association holds a special meeting each year at which the top business fortune tellers get together, take a joint look into the crystal ball, and come up with a prognostication of what is about to happen to business. Over the years, it was said, the prediction had been right an average of one time out of three. As was caustically remarked at the hearing, just flipping a coin gives you at least a 50-50 chance of being right.

Despite the record of wrong guesses there is always some intrepid economist who sees all, knows all, and is willing to rush into print with a prediction of almost the exact day and hour when any given business decline will turn into an upswing.

Such a one is Harvard's Sumner H. Slichter. In an article, which appeared in the magazine section of last Sunday's Times, Professor Slichter went on to explain just when, how and why the recession will end and recovery begin.

His predictions:

1. There will be no further large drop in production. July production will "probably be close to the low for the recession."

2. The upturn in production of non-durable goods (textiles, food products, chemicals, shoes, etc.) can be expected "well before the end of the year and probably before the end of the third quarter."

3. The upturn in durable goods (steel, lumber, machinery, etc.) is to be expected "several months later."

This early recovery is going to come about because of:

"1. The large and growing volume of government expenditures.

"2. The fact that the appreciable postponement of consumption by individuals has now been going on for about a year. "3. The fact that for four or five months consumption has been running ahead of production."

Well, let's see.

1. Government Expenditure. It is true that present budgets call for substantial increases in cash payments to the public by government, state and local as well as federal. In the first half of '48 such payments were running at the rate of 49.6 billions a year; in the second half, a rate of 54.3 billions; and in the first half of '49, at a rate of 59 billions. They will be substantially higher in the second half of '49.

He ignores the fact that the present steep recession developed when government payments were already high and going up. Undoubtedly if the trend of government payments were reversed it would send us skidding faster into the depression spiral. But the fact that government payments are continuing to increase doesn't by any means prove that things are going to get better, inasmuch as it was on this up-trend that things have gotten bad.

2. Postponement of consumption by individuals. Slichter disregarding the figures which prove that the apparently strong position of consumers as a whole is largely a myth, assumes that the falling off of demand was from the conscious choice of consumers to wait for lower prices, rather than their inability to buy at the prices asked. British Election Law Freezes Out Jews

LONDON—The Board of Deputies of British Jews is considering making strong representations to the Home Office in connection with a decision made by the Council of Municipal Corporations to hold municipal elections in 1950 and 1951 on a Saturday.

When H. Hopkins, town clerk of Darlington, asked at a meeting whether it had been considered that this meant disenfranchising Jews, Sir Miles Mitchell of Manchester, chairman of the general purposes committee, asserted: "We had full representation on that point and have considered it." The Board of Deputies, however, was not informed of the decision, it was learned.

Jewish Quiz Box

Q: Why do some Jews insist upon holding marriage ceremonies only in the first part of the Hebrew months? (I.T., Chicago.)

A: Strange as it may seem it is quite a prevalent notion among Jews to restrict marriages to the first part of the month. Others insist upon a full moon. It is obvious that these people consider the latter part of the month, in which the size of the moon decreases, as unfavorable for marriages. Both Karo (Yoreh Deah, Sch. 179) and Isserles (Ramah Eben Haezer Sch. 64) mention this restriction as an accepted custom. While it is true that no rabbi will refuse to perform a ceremony at another part of the month, many advise the early part of the month for different reasons.

Q: Why is it customary for an observant Jew to make a blessing over anything he eats or consumes?

A: The Talmud (Tractate Berochoth, 34) in explaining the seeming contradiction between the passage in the Psalms (Ch. 115:16) which says "The heavens are the heavens of the Lord; but the earth hath he given to the children of men" and the passage (Psalms 24:1) which says that "The earth is the Lord's" contends that the latter applies before man makes his blessing

ARAB FINED, IMPRISONED

JERUSALEM — Mohammed Mahmoud, an Arab living in the village of Khirbet Zakharia in the Hebron hills, which is in Israeli territory, was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment this week by an Israeli magistrate here for illegal possession of arms. The defendant claimed he needed the weapons to protect himself against Arab infiltrates.

while the former applies after man has made his blessing. The blessing is thus the price one pays to the Lord for that which he enjoys upon this earth.

SYD COHEN:

Paging Mr. S. Messiah
Introduction

The Jewish community of Providence and surrounding plantations enjoys a fine rating among similar communities throughout the nation. Its living standards are high, its economic status very good, its social rating among the best, its environment enviable. In size it is the second largest in New England.

Despite this glowing description you may hear often and in various quarters that something is lacking, some puzzling spark that would unite us more and make us work and live in more intimate harmony.

The thing that is lacking might come under the heading of leadership, that intangible and elusive quality or commodity that you either have or you don't. You may develop it if it is inherent, but without the native spark you may develop "abei gesuht" and still get nowhere.

It has always seemed to me that for a community that is so devoutly interested in sports, we are notoriously behind the times when it comes to developing a program of our own. I have harped on this subject in the past, and I imagine I shall twang the strings on it again. We have approximately 35,000 Jewish residents in these parts, and I ask only if you feel the extent of our sports program is commensurate with our size. I don't think it is, and I know I am not alone in holding that opinion.

What causes it, this lack of co-ordinated activity, this apathetic attitude toward our own sports life? Lack of interest on the part of those who would participate? Nope. I'm certain of that. Lack of facilities? Nope. Ours may not be the best in the world, but they are at least adequate—and if they weren't we could do something about it.

My premise is that it is a lack of leadership, a lack of foresight and initiative, a lack of unselfish interest in the welfare of others, an unwillingness to tackle a job that will require a little work. Think I'm kidding? All right, stand by for a broadside.

How many kids' athletic leagues or sports functions do we sponsor every year? Or any year? How many leagues or community sports organizations are there in existence at this very time in our community of 35,000? What percentage of our youth have any kind of a sports program provided for them, except for what they pick up in school or organize themselves?

In answer you may point to a thriving softball league, the bowling leagues that operate independently, the Center's basketball program, the embryonic junior baseball league and touch football. Neither of the latter two is a good example. The baseball league is practically unknown. I have asked for the chance to publicize it, but as of now I don't even know whether it is alive. Touch football was organized in this space last year, and was experimental. As of now we don't know whether it will organize this fall.

It's Not Enough

I maintain that this list is not enough, that it is tragically incomplete. It borders on the insignificant. There should be summer and winter track meets, swimming meets, bowling and golf tournaments, tennis matches, table tennis, skating, field hockey, baseball and football and basketball leagues—all these for the younger element, some of it on the adult level. Such a program should be sponsored by the sports minded leaders of our community, by those who believe in it and are interested in devoting a little time to it.

Roger Williams Lodge of B'nai B'rith runs a fine sports night every year for the children of its members. But that is localized, and a spectator event at that. No organization sponsors a live sports show based on competitive activity, the trait that has dominated our national life. Groups that sponsor any affairs at all usually do so on an organizational basis.

By now you may be thinking that this is a hot weather column, written because there is a dearth of topics. I assure you that such is not the case, and I have at hand two glaring examples to illustrate this thesis. They must, however, wait until next week, when the theme will be further developed and concluded.

Meanwhile, I'm looking for signs of the coming of a very special kind of Messiah.

Seven Scouts Complete Course

Seven scout leaders of Temple Emanuel last week completed the Basic Scoutmasters Training Course, given under the supervision of J. Russell Gray, Field Scout Commissioner, Narragansett Council, BSA.

The course, lasting six weeks, included an outdoor session at Circle 20 Ranch, Greenville, under the supervision of Arthur Lied-man, Field Scout Executive. Saul Sadow, Scoutmaster, and Bernard R. Clorman, senior scout advisors, were instructors.

To receive certificates for this course at Camp Yawgoog on August 7 are: Malcolm Bromberg, Norman Robinson, Martin Dittleman, Sheldon Green and Joseph Ladow, all assistant scoutmasters and assistant advisors of Troop 20 and Senior Outfit 20.

The Senior Scout Leaders Course will be held in August.
