YAD Drive Well Ahead of Last Year

The Young Adult Division of the General Jewish Committee continued to run way ahead of last year's campaign during the one-day general solicitation drive last Sunday. Latest figures released by Bruce Sundlun, chairman of the YAD shows a 100 percent increase over last year's General Division YAD pledges. Nine hundred forty-four pledges were obtained Sunday for a total of $2,856. Last year's total on the same cards was $1,443.

So far this year, the Young Adult Division has received pledges in the amount of $18,952. This represents an increase of approximately 40 percent over the total pledged at the corresponding date of last year.

Not only has the monetary

"The achievements of the school", she said, "have been so highly commended by the educational and

Announce Plans for One-Day Solicitation

"D"-Day, a whirlwind community-wide solicitation in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal, will be staged Sunday morning, Nov. 6 by the Men's Division of the General Jewish Committee of Providence.

The one-day, house-to-house canvass will be patterned closely after last year's highly successful solicitation of unpledged donors in this division.

More than 300 volunteer male adult workers are expected to participate in the special canvass which will highlight activities scheduled for the closing weeks of the 1949 campaign.

Bernard Goodman, general chairman of the "D"-Day drive, this week sounded an appeal to all prospective contributors to remain at home on the morning of Nov. 6 when his volunteer workers make their calls.

"Last year's canvass proved conclusively that the overwhelming majority of the members of the Providence Jewish community contacted by our solicitors realized the tremendous importance of their GJC pledges to the new state of Israel. The gravity of Israel's present plight—because of the almost unbelievable influx of immigration to the new homeland—calls for even greater financial support," declared Goodman.

The "D"-Day canvass will begin at 9 o'clock with a Rally Breakfast and final instructions to workers at the Narragansett Hotel. Workers will be assigned to automobile squads, and cards for each squad will be concentrated within a specific geographical area to avoid backtracking or waste of time. It is expected that by noon all squads will have covered their assignments and reported their totals to "operations headquarters" at the Volunteer male adult workers for the special "D"-Day solicitation on Sunday, Nov. 6 are requested to phone GJC headquarters at 203 Strand Building (GA 1-4111) and list their names for assignment to specific automobile squads participating in a community-wide canvass that morning under the direction of the GJC's Men's Division.

Bernard Goodman, "D"-Day chairman, has emphasized that the house-to-house canvass will be completed by noon on that date. In a message to all male adult GJC members, he said: "You may be approached by a 'D'-Day captain and asked to give of your time and energy to this special event. Although only a few hours in actual time is involved, your participation as a solicitor will aid considerably in the success of the canvass. Please reserve the morning of Nov. 6 for this important solicitation."

Presents Show at Veterans Hospital

A one hour show, directed by Howard Winograd, was presented by a cast of 25 high school students yesterday at the Veterans Hospital, Davis Park. The show included singers, dancers, a pantomime and a magician.

Winograd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Winograd of Oakland Avenue.

A check for $160,000 was presented to the United Jewish Appeal last weekend by Archibald Silverman, president of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc., at an emergency meeting held in Washington, D. C., to point up the Appeal's crucial need for immediate cash for its program of relief and rehabilitation in Israel. The check was an advance on the GJC's 1949 fund-raising drive in behalf of the UJA, and was made possible by a loan from a local bank. GJC officials expressed hope that prompt payment of 1949 pledges would enable the agency to retire the loan as rapidly as possible.

phase of the YAD campaign showed a tremendous improvement, but the general enthusiasm of the workers has increased immeasurably. Harold Katz addressed about 300 people at the YAD General Division Party at Ledgemont Country Club last Thursday. Other speakers were Bruce Sundlun, chairman of the General Division, and Archibald Silverman, GJC President. Entertainment for the evening included the showing of two films, a comedy, "Oysters and Muscles", and a movie on Israel, "Day of Deliverance", narrated by Martin Gables. Dancing was to the music of Eddie Davidson.

Breakfast was served to 250 workers who turned out for the one-day solicitation held Sunday. From the Narragansett Hotel the teams were driven to their sections. Several teams went out on more than one trip, and the workers showed more than the usual amount of interest, many of them staying on till after 3 o'clock to see the results. Many also took cards to follow-up on people who were not at home during the drive. A recovery squad is in the process of distributing other cards in the same category.

The Herald's Plan Adopted

In a recent issue of the Herald—October 14, to be exact—there appeared a brief story out of Tel Aviv stating that the Jewish Agency has established a "new committee on control and authorization of campaigns to assure maximum American support for the United Jewish Appeal . . ." The American section of the Agency, the story said, will issue and receive applications from all organizations which plan in 1950 to solicit funds for Israel causes.

This new plan to control charity solicitations is particularly interesting to the Herald, since it was on these very pages, on March 11 of this year, that a similar suggestion was made, in the fifth of the series of "Charity Rackets" articles sponsored by this newspaper. While our recommendation was built around local needs, it nevertheless coincides in theme and design with the plan just now being placed into operation on a national scale.

Here are the highlights of the proposal made in the Herald seven months ago.

" . . . An independent board of religious and communal leaders . . . would best suit the public need. Set up as a clearing house for all charities, this board . . . should meet periodically for the following purposes:

"1. To check on all appeals that will be made publicly.

"2. To approve or disapprove these appeals, according to the evidence obtained, and to rate them according to their purpose, need and accomplishment.

"3. To furnish all approved appeals with a card of credentials, together with the rating given the appeal by the board . . ."

We are pleased to note this action by the Jewish Agency, from which it would appear the Herald was on the right track last March.

Progress of the DP Resettlement Program

American Jewish community leaders will gather in key cities throughout the nation within the next two months to blueprint the largest resettlement program affecting Jewish DPs in the history of our country.

After a slow start due primarily to administrative obstacles, the DP Act of 1948 has begun to function more smoothly and Jewish DPs are reaching our shores in increasing numbers. By the end of 1949, for example, the number of Jews reaching the United States, including both DPs and regular quota immigrants, will be at least 39,000 and possibly more. This rate of Jewish immigration is expected to continue for the first six months of 1950 and very likely even beyond.

This does not mean that the situation is ideal. Far from it. Thousands of Jews who wish to rebuild their lives in America are still stranded in Europe's dismal DP camps because they are ineligible for admission to the United States under existing legislation.

But what of the 39,000 who will have arrived by the end of this year and the substantial number already scheduled to enter the country by the middle of next year? Many will find their integration into the American way of life facilitated by friends and relatives. The successful resettlement of those with neither friends nor relatives here will be a responsibility and obligation which United Service for New Americans can assume and carry out only with the complete cooperation of every Jewish community in the United States.

American Jewish communities, regardless of how toxed their refugee programs may now be, must be prepared to extend a helping hand to every Jewish immigrant who requires assistance. Communities must be ready to accept increased responsibilities for the U.S.N.A. resettlement program in the United States. The American Jewish people as a whole will be watching the deliberations at the ten U.S.N.A. regional conferences with unprecedented interest. For the fate of thousands of Jews, whose reclamation has unfortunately been delayed too long already, will be at stake.

Trouble with Tests

By BERNARD SEGAL

I see by the papers where the janitor of the State Capitol is having trouble with passing tests. The Civil Service Commission, it seems, calls him in for examinations, which he never passes, every once in a while. This has been going on for over six years, ever since Jan took his janitor job on probation. The last time the tests were given, Jan the janitor struggled with a 17 page folder full of all kinds of questions. Again he did not pass.

This reminds me of the time I had troubles of my own with tests. I know just how Jan the janitor feels. That was many years ago, during my first year in this country. I was young, and in the true fashion of youth, I was also very impatient with delays. I wanted to enter college in the middle of the year, and the great University of Minnesota, where we lived, did not accept new students in January.

Six months were a long wait at my age, then, and I found for myself a small college which was willing to take me in after the Christmas vacation. My application was filed and accepted, so was my fifty dollar advance fee, subject to my passing an intelligence test. I was to come to the office of a professor of Psychology for the testing.

I found one more student waiting for the professor. He, too, was a new immigrant—from Sweden. Between the two of us, our English vocabulary could hardly fill one typewritten page. We carried on a conversation in very basic English plus a lot of smiling when we did not get it. Thus the two of us, the young immigrants from Russia and Sweden, waited bravely at the portals of the Garden of Eden, by the Tree of Knowledge, little knowing what fate had in store for us.

The professor appeared, as did a goodly pile of mimeographed sheets of questions, and out of the great man's vest pocket came a shiny stop watch. We were seated at opposite ends of the desk, with the professor between us, and the stop watch ominously held aloft in his hand.

"Get ready, Go!" And then began the thump, thump of the heart, the lick, lick of the pencil point, and a blur, blur of words in front of the eyes. You leave out the first question. You skip another one. Now, this one I ought to know. Just can't think of it now. Maybe later. But click goes the stop watch. Off goes the first sheet. Time is up. Ready, go, for the next set of questions.

There were questions to test our imagination, and others to test our power of observation, and some to test our memory, and still others to probe into our background.

"What product has the picture of a bull on the label?"

"Which industry carries the slogan 'The Pride of a Nation' in its advertising?"

"You are shown a picture of a young lady with her head on the shoulder of a young man. What do you think is taking place? A greeting? A parting? A scene?"

"When did you stop sucking your thumb?"

"Did you ever walk in your sleep?"

"If you had a million dollars, what would you do with it?"

And so on sheet after sheet. Agonizing seconds racing across the face of the stop-watch with the fury and the speed of a demon. At first we exchanged glances and smiles, the Swede and I. But as the sheets were removed half finished from in front of us, and they were examined with much shaking of the head by the professor, a gloom settled on our wan faces. We sensed the approaching doom. And, sure enough, doomed we were.

The office of the registrar returned our advance fee, less five dollars, the charge for the Intelligence tests we failed to pass, plus a note regretting our rejection.

Now, anybody but a professor of Psychology would surmise that our failure to answer most of the questions was due to our meager vocabulary in English, to our thinking first in our native tongues and then trying to translate our thoughts into English, and also to our unfamiliarity with the American scene.

As I walked out of the campus I was confronted with a billboard advertising a pipe tobacco with the picture of a mighty bull on it. But to this day I do not know which industry is "The Pride of the Nation." As for the picture of the young girl leaning on the shoulder of the young man, it reminded me of familiar scenes of brothers and sisters, wives and husbands saying good-bye to each other before boarding the ships that would carry one of them to America. The professor, on the other hand, insisted that the picture tells of rejected love. Who am I to argue?

Anyway, we failed, and let this be a consolation to the janitor of the State Capitol.

I don't know what became of the Swede. He might be the Congressman from Minnesota, now. As for me, it was destined that I come East, and that I become a mere alumnus of Brown, one of thousands in Providence. Had I passed that ill-fated test, I would now be an alumnus of Hamlin University, perhaps the only one in these parts.

Ever hear of Hamlin University?

hotel. Bertram L. Bernhardt, Paul Chernov, Archie Fain, Merrill Hasenfeld and Nathan Samors are assisting Goodman as co-chairmen of the solicitation.

Alvin A. Sopkin, 1949 campaign chairman, pointed out this week that "D"-Day is a "significant title for this dramatic event. It not only marks our entrance into the closing stages of our campaign but it emphasizes our duty to our unfortunate brethren overseas, as well as our determination that their future destiny shall be provided with a reasonable measure of dignity and a deliverance from the despair that now engulfs so many thousands of new arrivals in Israel because of deplorable housing and living conditions."

Meanwhile, GJC headquarters announced that the 1949 drive total had reached the $725,000 level this week.

A full turnout of captains and workers at next Thursday's Report Luncheon at GJC offices at the Strand Building "will enable us to determine exactly what measures are necessary to push our campaign over the top," stated Joseph W. Ress, chairman of the overall Trade and Industry division. He emphasized that "the thoroughness of our remaining coverage will spell out the ultimate result of the 1949 drive."

Israel Diary

By RUVAIN KLEIN

(Following are excerpts from letters written by Ruvain Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Klein, who is in Israel on a scholarship granted by the Rhode Island Zionist Region, to his parents in Providence. The letters are in Hebrew and have been translated by Mr. Klein.)

We came to K'far Witkin where is located the school of the youngsters of Ben Shemen. There we swam in the waters of the sea. What a stormy sea is the Mediterranean. We went to see the muster of the G'dud Noar (Youth Battalions) at Pardes Chana. These youths will be the future soldiers. They train there to be soldiers. We heard a talk by Lt. Colonel Elchanan (last name unknown) who is the chief of G'dud Noar. He explained the achievements and the functions of G'dud Noar.

Then we went to K'far Glickson where is located the school of the General Zionists. This Kibbutz is magnificent. It has fields of flowers just for the sake of their beautiful appearance alone.

August 29th

This letter is written especially to you, Joel, (a younger brother) but father and mother may read it too. It is about our recent tour. I want to describe to you the bus drivers who took us from city to city and from place to place. There were 3 buses and each bus had a driver with characteristics of his own. The first I met was Ephraim Shoshani. As good a driver as he is, you've just never seen. A young chap, always cheerful. He always led the passengers in singing. He would blow the bus-horn to the rhythm of the song. He had a good voice, too. But when we broke into one of the most popular songs in Eretz, "Hoy a Jeep a Jeep", he cried out: "So you're not satisfied with this bus; you have to sing about a jeep. O.K. We don't go any further." He stopped the bus till he finished the song. Then he started the bus, but after a short while he brought it to a halt again, saying: "All out! Let's dance a hora!" Everyone had to get out of the bus and dance a hora with Shoshani for 5 minutes in the middle of the main highway between Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. That's one type for you.

The second is called Aharon. He won't tell us his last name. He is from one of the oldest families of Petach Tikvah. During the trip he kept telling us about his wife and children. He has a 2 month old son and a 3 year old daughter. But what distinguished him most was that whenever there was a chance for a swim, he was the first in the water and the last out.

The third type is Joel. Exactly like our Joel. A frightful jokester. Not bad but awful. All the way we laughed at his jokes but he never laughed when we told a joke.

Now a bit to mother and dad. We went on this trip last week. I'll write more about it in the next letter or two. I have many pictures of the trip and of Jerusalem. I'll develop them here and send them to you later. And now a word to Joel. Your Bar Mitzvah day is coming. I'm sorry I cannot be with you then. Remember to chant the Haftarah in a good voice. Tell mother to make a recording so that we will all be able to listen when I am with you again. Mazal Tov on your Bar-Mitzvah day and may all good things come to you. Be a good boy. Remember to help mother and father all you can. I can't help since I'm not at home but you can be a big help.

Closing the Books
On the Banquet

When the idea for an annual banquet for the softball league first appeared in this column well over a year ago, I figured that the first in the series, whenever held, would attract about 150 persons, mostly players and their wives, fiancées or dates. If someone had suggested that the attendance would be closer to 300 I would have expressed grave doubts.

So—the first banquet was held, at the end of the league's second season, and the turnout was a bare 13 shy of 300! I wonder how many realize what an accomplishment that is. There are several major sporting events of that kind in our own area and 300 represents a terrific crowd for any of them.

Why, Words Unlimited, Rhode Island's organization of sports-writers and sportscasters, stages an annual dinner at which awards are presented to outstanding athletes on the local scene, and at which national sports personalities are the featured speakers, and the crowds are no better than that at the Coco-Cabana last Tuesday evening. In the spring of this year, with Lefty Gomez listed as guest speaker, with Red Barrett and Earl Torgeson of the Boston Braves on the program, and with all the local greats, including Terry Reardon, in attendance, Words Unlimited attracted 300, give or take a few.

A Real Achievement

So the recent achievement of the Jewish Softball League is not to be scoffed at. It was just that—an achievement, and it drew unqualified words of praise from Mayor Dennis J. Roberts and Webb Youlden of the Journal-Bulletin, both of whom stated frankly later that they had not expected anything like that.

They were not the only ones. Several sponsors of softball teams have been heard to say just about the same thing, and we have the word of more than a few that they will be back next year to support a team. Nor is that all. Other businessmen have said they intend to sponsor clubs in 1950. Here are indications of real progress, and here, too, is the basis for the operation of the league next year.

The first affair in any series, as I have said before, is the one that you chalk up to experience. Good or bad, you use it as your guide in planning for the future, and that is the case with the softball banquet. It had its strong points and its weaknesses. You may be assured that next year's event will have more of the strong points and fewer of the weaknesses—and that should be our pattern for the future.

Suggestions for 1950

For 1950, I should like to see a professional master of ceremonies, and a nationally known Jewish sports personality as guest speaker: a fellow, say, like Mel Allen, who is a drawing card by himself. Those two factors would lend the big-time touch that an event of this kind should have.

On the debit side, it is generally agreed that the program was too long. That cannot be blamed too much on the speaking program. It is awfully hard to cut down on your speakers, and it is wiser to budget the time on other items. The program was a half hour late in starting, and that hurt; and the drawings for door prizes took too much time, as did the conduct of the raffle. All are simple matters to correct next year, and the entire affair should be regarded in that light.

Too much credit cannot be given to Al Abelson and his committee. Al did a splendid job in creating this event and the mere fact that 287 attended is praise enough for his efforts.

My only criticism of Al is that he piled too much work on his own shoulders. I feel that he should not have saddled himself with the added job of MC. And that really is a job. It requires plenty of time and thought—much more than a committee chairman can hope to give it.

Because of all his duties, Abelson omitted mention of one man when bestowing credit for the affair. That was his co-chairman, Lou Weiner, who was, in Al's own words, of invaluable assistance. Lou poured his heart and soul into the banquet and his contribution certainly was not intended to be overlooked.

Commissioners Old and New

Outgoing commissioner Irving (Tex) Rabinowitz was fittingly honored at the banquet, and it was a very appropriate slip of the tongue when Mayor Roberts referred to him once as Tex Rickard. Rickard was a master promoter, and so was Rabinowitz in 1948, when he promoted the softball league into existence, after this column had plugged for a league and called the first meeting. I have always maintained that Tex was directly responsible for all the success we had last year and for the firm foundation that was laid—the foundation that enabled the league to develop so beautifully this year.

To the new commissioner, Senator Frank Licht, go the column's congratulations and best wishes. Senator Licht followed the league closely from opening day, when he threw out the first ball at two different games. He attended some game just about every week and thus knows what it is all about.

Community Is Interested

The best part of the banquet was the obvious demonstration that our Jewish community is starved for such affairs and has taken this one to its heart. A casual look around the hall revealed that here were persons who never attended a softball game, who didn't play, and were not related to players. That is the way it should be. Eventually, more of them will be interested; and if not, they are still welcome, for they help support the league by their presence and they get a chance to see what is being done in the community. And not to be forgotten is the fact that the more who attend, the more successful is the banquet.

Do I need to add now that I think we have proved we are on the right track?

Beth Israel Bowling

By SAUL HODOSH

Temple Beth Israel opened its bowling season some two weeks ago, and on such an accelerated and strenuous note that your reporter has just regained sufficient strength to make these pages.

Fourteen six-man teams have been organized, which is an addition of two teams to our last year's roster, and of course, the new recruits were probably attracted to our ranks by glowing reports of our activities in these columns.

The high single to date was immediately set up by a new member, Max Nemrow, as he hit 144 and proceeded to carve out high three with 368.

This past week, Hy Fishbein (he must have been practicing or using dynamite) and Moe Abramow took high three with 330 and a new man, J. Wymer got into the picture as he hit 327. High single for the night also went to Wymer as he bowled a string of 141 and Abe Robrish closed his eyes and wound up with 133 followed by Wolfe Myrow, at 126.

Troop 20 Makes Annual Fall Hike

Troop leadership was augmented by members of the Jolly Roger Explorer Post 20.

Boyman Elected Regional Officer

A delegation of the Providence Chapters of the Labor Zionist Organization of America attended the annual convention of the LZOA held in Springfield, Mass., on October 22 and 23. The entire proceedings took place at the Hotel Sheraton.

Highlighting the opening sessions on Saturday evening were addresses by Dr. Beryl Frymer of the National Praesidium of LZOA and Maurice Samuels, well known author and lecturer.

On Sunday morning, Myer Brown, national president of the National Workers' Alliance, spoke on the World Jewish Congress and the forthcoming elections of delegates to that body. Following the address, the delegates had their choice of attending panels dealing with Political Affairs, National and International, Education and Culture, Organization and Membership, Habonim, and the Pioneer Movement.

A luncheon followed these sessions. Akiva Eger, who organized Hechalutz, the Pioneer Movement, in Egypt although it was illegal to do so, and also organized the first Jewish settlement in Trans-Jordan, spoke on the future of Hechalutz and the future of the Labor Zionist Movement.

The final highlight of the weekend was the election of regional officers. Maurice Kern of Springfield was elected as regional president and Alter Boyman was unanimously elected regional vice president.

CRANSTON BOWLING

By HAYVIS WOOLF

Remember a guy named Al who said he couldn't play cards, remarking as he thumbed the deck that it was light one card? Ed Charon's 101 last night proved he is no flash-in-the-pan; he can really bowl and gives all the rest of us hopes of being better bowlers some day.

The din was terrific when Jack Phillips got high single for the night with a 127 and Ben Mellion got high three with 319.

Wonders—such as Doc Dan Kouffman's 117—will never cease. These guys that plead they can't bowl! Another was Max White ordering a pair of bowling shoes. Not because he is captain, says he, but just for effect.

Guest spares of the evening were Jerry Fish and Dave Sugerman. We could have used that 120 on the third game very well.

The captains who took over at first competition Tuesday night were Al Cohen, Al Sydney, Bernie Wexler, Max White, Ben Woolf and Hubby Woolf.

land Council meeting, followed by an entire afternoon of workshops.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Final plans for the Comette-Comet Hallowe'en Party to be held Sunday evening at the Jewish Community Center were made at a joint board meeting held last week. Miss Beatrice Genser and Seymour Golden, presidents of the clubs, are in charge of arrangements, assisted by committees from each club.

TOUCH FOOTBALL MEETING

A meeting to organize the Jewish Herald Touch Football League will be held this Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Jewish Community Center. All who are interested in playing must attend.

BOWLING BANTER

By TEDI GREEN

For the first time since the start of the season, the teams seem at last to be completed. Due to the last minute dropping out of regular members, it was necessary to find replacements up till last week but now it looks as tho' everyone is present and accounted for and we can settle down to fighting it out for first place. The two newest members are Evelyn Wolfe and Fay Malatt upon whom are pinned a lot of their teams' hopes.

October 20 saw the Leonard's take four points from Boren's team and Winn's team take three from Miller's team. D. Strashnick still holds high single of 119 and E. Miller's high three of 299 was not even faintly threatened. Good scores for the night were

Beth El Bowling

By JOE GUTTERBALL

The top spot in individual averages seems to be too hot for anyone in the Temple Beth-El Bowling League to stay there for long.

First, Mush Cofman led the pack, and then Frankie Mellion took over. Now, after last week's bowling session at the Casino Alleys on Pine Street, Milt Weisman comes up as the leader. He has the best individual average of 113½. Milt was helped into the lead by one string of 142, which was the best for the night, and a three-string total of 351.

The high three-string total for last week, however, was racked up by Dave Ettine, with 356. That's still a long way from Irwin Silverstein's 389.

The team race is also turning into something this side of torrid. Archie Finkelstein and his four team-mates are now in first place. Members of Archie's squad are Perry Shatkin, Harold Leavitt, Mort Zisquit and Frank Berad.

rolled by E. Miller with 106, B. Cohen 104, E. Cohen 100, and racking up good high threes were E. Blonder with 273, B. Cohen carrying on with 284, E. Miller ditto with 277. Top high team three and single for the evening's work was carried off by Winn's gals with an impressive 1291.

The scene when Al Jolson (Larry Parks) returns home to surprise his father, the lovable Cantor Yolsen (Ludwig Donath), is a thrilling moment in "Jolson Sings Again", a Columbia Pictures Technicolor musical which opens November 2 at the Metropolitan Theatre. Barbara Hale is also starred as Jolson's wife. Also in the cast are William Demarest, Bill Goodwin, Myron McCormick and Tamara Shayne. Henry Levin directed "Jolson Sings Again," which was written and produced by Sidney Buchman.

Emanuel Bowling

(Substituting for Jack Platkin) Losing one point to Nate Weiss and his Giants, Mal Paynor's Browns still lead the league with an 11 and 1 record. All of Mal's team are bowling at a better than 100 average with a team average of 535.

Alan Chase's White Sox led the high three for the night with 1574 while the Reds had the high evening single with 561, one short of the season high.

Frank Goldstein, with the high average of 117, rolled 331 but still maintained his lead. Other three string scores were Sam Gordon

Olympic Bowling

By HOWARD COHEN

The boys started to get into their natural forms as the second week of bowling went into the books. Improvement was evident in all the teams.

The Joe Schwartz's and the Lowell "Teddy" Leonard's split four points. Sam Hochman's 122 single and 321 three helped Joe's team to their two points while Teddy was best for his side.

Overall good bowling by Howie Cohen's men gave them a sweep over the "Eetz" Levine's and also put them in top spot in the league. Paul Litwin with 315 three was one of the leading pickers. Irv was best for his team with 309 but 'twas a lost cause.

Merle Rodyn's boys continued their bombardment to bury Jim Hochman and Co. Rodyn 334, Bernstein 312 and Lobel 305 meant a 4-point loss to Jimmie's boys. Hasky Wallick returned to form after a bad first string to get a 325 three. Hochman had a steady 307.

Ruby Pollock's slow ball was working to perfection as he led Bernie Cohen's team to a 3-1 win over Moe Malatt's five with a 338 triple. Newcomer Bob Rose helped with 302. Hesh Golden had his best night in a year with 314. Guess these Sunnyside alleys are made for him.

Good singles were rolled by Pollock, 128 and 124; Golden, 121; Sam Hochman, 122; Rodyn, 127; Lobel, 119; Wallick, 123; H. Cohen, 126 and 121, and Bernstein, 115.
