Here Two Months, Wins Quiz Prize

Julius Wolffberg, who came to this country two months ago, answered three questions pertaining to music to win $325 on the WHIM quiz program recently.

Mr. Wolffberg, an unemployed musician, was born in Germany. He was imprisoned in the notorious Buchenwald Concentration Camp until he succeeded in reaching China where he lived for ten years. During the last three years there he was an entertainer for the American Armed Forces in Tsingtao.

Mr. Wolffberg, who was brought to this country on a joint affidavit, now lives at 249 Willard Avenue.

Believe Compromise Answer to Jerusalem

WASHINGTON—The United States is not satisfied with Israel's action on the Jerusalem issue but it seems very doubtful that there will be an armed attempt to force internationalization, it was indicated here this week.

High diplomatic sources said here that while the U. S. will cooperate with the U. N. Trusteeship Council, the State Department actually believes the only real solution will be found in negotiations and compromise.

It has been suggested within the Department that a United Nations guard force may be used to protect the holy shrines. However, any armed attempt to force internationalization is precluded by the lack of an adequate U. N. force.

The State Department view is that the internationalization statute cannot be implemented without the consent of Transjordan and Israel.

Therefore, in the unique position of a minority, the U. S. representative on the Trusteeship Council will cooperate, but with little expectation of concrete results. Since it was a resolution of the majority of the Assembly, the U. S. feels it must go along, too.

GJC Workers Salute To Mark Drive's End

To Take Place Next Thursday

CHARLES CASTLEMAN

Widely recognized as a child prodigy, Charles Castleman, 8-year-old boy violinist, will be heard in a streamlined concert recital as a feature of the "Salute to Workers" celebration being sponsored by the General Jewish Committee of Providence at the Sheraton-Biltmore hotel ballroom on Thursday evening, January 5.

Charles Castleman, 8-year-old boy violinist, will headline the program of entertainment being lined up for the GJC's "Salute to Workers" commemoration at the Sheraton-Biltmore hotel ballroom, Thursday evening, January 5.

Staged by the General Jewish Committee of Providence in recognition of the "devoted and unselfish" efforts of hundreds of volunteer workers who participated in the 1949 fund-raising campaign, the affair will feature a well-rounded program of music, dancing and entertainment following a brief business meeting.

The general public is being invited to attend the event, which is without admission charge. It is scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Carl Tatr's orchestra will play for dancing.

Young Castleman, termed a child prodigy by leading music critics, had the distinction of being the youngest artist ever to appear with the Boston Symphony Orchestra when last July he was featured soloist at the Orchestra's Esplanade Concert, conducted by Arthur Fiedler.

He has played at numerous concerts and musicals throughout New England and New York and has appeared as guest soloist with a number of leading orchestras. On several occasions he has conducted orchestral groups in his own compositions. This will be his third appearance in Providence.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Castleman of Quincy, Mass., he will be accompanied at the piano by his teacher, Mme. Gisdyr Posselt, Ondrick.

GJC officials were hopeful this week that they would be able to announce that the $900,000 level had been reached by the Jan. 5 deadline for the current drive in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and 54 other beneficiary agencies.

The drive's total at this writing had reached the $885,000 mark.

Israel Is Neutral In Cold War

LAKE SUCCESS—The Israel delegation scrupulously refrained from identifying itself with the position of either adversary in the cold war, a survey of Israel's voting record disclosed this week.

Israel's representatives abstained on issues which came before the Assembly as a consequence of the East-West struggle and which might have been resolved but for the existence of that struggle. In recording its vote in committee sessions, the delegation generally urged the course of conciliation.

Some of the issues on which Israel abstained were Greece, Korea, human rights in the Balkans and atomic energy.

But the survey shows that Israel voted for most of the measures approved by the General Assembly and abstention was the exception rather than the rule. Israel supported the majority plan for disposition of the Italian colonies and favored all major proposals for social reform and economic advancement.

It joined with the Asiatic and Latin-American countries in supporting all measures aiding non-self-governing peoples in their progress towards self-government and independence.

Consistent with its attitude of non-identification with either bloc, the delegation voted against any condemnatory resolutions.

42 Israeli Aviation Cadets to Train Here

NEW YORK—Forty-two Israel aviation students stopped here this week at the International Airport at Idlewild.

The first large group of its kind, it was proceeding to Tulsa, Oklahoma for a year's training in aviation, mechanics.

"F. D. Jr." Head of UJA Christian Committee

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., left shown conferring with UJA General Chairman Henry Morgenthau Jr., as he announced his acceptance of the post of National Chairman of the National Christian Committee for the United Jewish Appeal's 1950 campaign. At a conference with members of the press, Mr. Roosevelt declared that "the problems faced by the United Jewish Appeal in Israel, in Europe and in the Moslem countries are not just Jewish problems. They are problems for all Americans." Mr. Roosevelt welcomed the opportunity of enlisting the support of Americans of all faiths for the 1950 UJA campaign.

Fund to Memorialize 34 Crash Dead

OSLO, NORWAY—"Arbeterbladet," the official newspaper of the Norwegian Labor Party, has launched a drive to raise money for a new settlement in Israel to commemorate the 34 Jewish children and six adults who were killed in an air crash near here last month. The settlement will consist of 40 houses.

Norwegian unions have already agreed to raise the money by contributing the wages of workers who will work overtime for the project. The funds for ten of the buildings have already been raised. It is estimated that they will cost about $6,500 each.

Haskol La, secretary general of the Norwegian Labor party, arrived in Tel Aviv this week for a three-day visit. A central education building will be named for the Norwegian teacher, Lise Janssen, who died in the same accident.

Yugoslav Jews Slow Immigration to Israel

NEW YORK—Immigration of Yugoslav Jews to Israel has practically stopped because of the improved conditions that have existed in Yugoslavia since Tito defied Stalin, according to recent reports.

Originally, it was expected that the remaining 700 Yugoslav Jews would leave for Israel at the rate of 150 a month. Another deterring factor is said to be the report of unfavorable emergency conditions which prevent Yugoslav immigrants from leaving Israel.

Bowling News

BETH-EL BOWLING
by Joe Gutterball

The competitive system recently established in the Temple Beth-El Brotherhood Bowling League is working wonders.

Some of the men who were not expected to make a showing have been going great guns. Instead of five-man teams, the league is now set up with six bowlers on a squad; but only the five top scores count. The man with the lowest score of the five bowls with his team, but as a spare, the following week.

Since the new idea has been put into effect, Jack Bilow's Burly Bowlers have closed in on Leo Kopit's Keen Keglers. Bilow's boys are now only two points off the lead, since Kopit's team dropped three out of four points to Al Bilincoff's bowlers last week at the Casino Alleys on Pine Street.

Phil Shaulson turned in the top high-three-string score of 362 last week, with Nat Alterman second with 353. Lenny Sheer rolled high single—146. But Murray Trinkle's consistent bowling keeps him on top with the highest average—113 6/33.

FINEMAN-TRINKEL BOWLING
by Jerry Fry

The race tightened a bit when the cellar Goldbergs knocked off the league-leading Cohens 3-1. Justin Robinson helping considerably with a 120 string. Other good singles were Halmar Levin 132, Bander 126, Feldman 125, Rubin 124, Summer 120, Friedman 117, Joe Lozow 116, with good threes by Levin 336, S. Feldman 335, Bander 324 and Summer 315.

Lenny Summer's team continued its winning streak, beating the Les Friedmans 3-1, while I. Feldman beat Silverman 3-1, via Sam's 335. Charlie Steingold's team lost 3-1.

BETH-ISRAEL BOWLING
by Saul Hodosh

It has recently been brought to my attention that bowling has one serious evil. An ostensible gentleman such as Brodsky becomes a screaming maniac, with the subtlety of a witch doctor exorcising the devil. An unassuming citizen such as Charlie Greenstein becomes raucous and strident. Iz Krasnoff becomes a veritable bowling dervish in the heat of league contention. The only team to retain its even tenor is my own quiet group, especially the quiet that follows Howie Nelson's mild exhortations to put it in the alley, and Al Abrams murmuring "what are you gonna do now" I trust that these few words will cause my colleagues to see the error of their ways.

Despite all the tumult noted above Meyer Epstein's Columbia team still retains a fair lead at the top, with every appearance of hanging on. In the individual department Sam Segal took high three as he poured it on for 357. Respectable scores were also turned in by M. Bromberg 341, I. Riffkin 334, Charles Greenstein (I shoulda had more) 334, A. Robrish 345. High single also went to Charlie Greenstein with 143, and Harold Ross 130 and I. Riffkin 129 gave good account of themselves.

CRANSTON BOWLING
by Dr. Hayvis Woolf

Bernie Wexler took high single for the night with 135, and is now in second place for the all-season high single. Morris Filler is first with 137 and Hubby Woolf third with 133.

The handicap system is making things tougher: The Red Sox lost to the Wexler team by their one-point handicap.

Doc Jack Dreyfuss and Moe Kessler are still going strong. And steady scorers like Phil Chopak Al Marks, Archie Kapstein are the backbones of their teams.

Ise Press brought along a friend, Rudy Haber, who looks like another top bowler who'll filter in the league via the spare line.

The date of the annual mid-year banquet has been changed to January 10 at Lindy's, with dinner being served at 6:45 promptly, followed by elections and then the usual bowling session. Better be there at 6:30.

OLYMPIC BOWLING
by Howard Cohen

One week to go to the halfway mark, with the H. Cohens and Rodvns the only ones in the fight.

They eliminated the I. Levines by taking a 3-1 win, with Harry Woloff getting 113, 119 and 122 for a 354 three and Paul Litwin getting 314. I. Levine and Mesh Zatlloff carried the load for the losers.

The Rodvns clubbed the B. Cohens by 100 pins to take four points—Moose Bernstein making 101, 112 and 123 for 336, Abe Lobel, sore leg and all, rolled 307, while Zawatsky got a 125 single and a 299 three. Rube Pollock led the losing club, which once was at the top of the league, with a steady 315, but it didn't help.

Joe Schwartz and his gang took another 3-1 win from the Leonards. Joe and Jim Hochman with 315 and 310 were the big guns for the winners. Len Cohen rolled 310 to lead the losers, and H. Wallick toted up a 305.

Good singles: Wallick 124, L.

Cohen 117, H. Cohen 119, Litwin 110, M. Satloff 114, Zawatsky 125, Bernstein 123, Pollock 124, Lobel 116, Joe Schwartz 112.

OLYMPIC AUXILIARY
by Tedi Green

Esther Miller and Co. took three points from Dot Leonard's gang—dropping the latter out of a tie for first. Capt. Miller and Fay Malatt tied with Rita Levine of the opposition for the high score of their match—97. Rita got 286 three.

Lou Boren's gals, in first place by one point, fought it out with June Winn's group. Shirley Levin took honors with a 100 single and a 286 three. Dot Strasmich rolled a 98 while Mimi Rodyn got a 97.

Good strings were Tedi Green 94, June Stein 95, Estelle Cohen 93, Harriet Zarchen 93 and Esther Blonder 92. June Stein, a former spare, is now a regular member of June Winn's team, taking Evelyn Wolfe's place.

Resurgent Nazism

Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief U. S. Army prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, has admitted that the program of denazification in Germany has failed. In his report to the Secretary of the Army that "an alarming resurgence of authoritarianism" is in evidence in Germany is a warning that German war criminals may escape punishment for their brutalities.

While it is encouraging to know that at least one man takes the matter of war crimes seriously, there are so many indications of a revival of Nazi ideology in Germany that it, coupled with lenience shown the Germans by American military leaders, becomes a matter for grave concern.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has been quoted as stating that "from a military point of view" the creation of a German army now is considered desirable. Fear is being expressed that the Nazis may start goosestepping again in 1950 and that they will be provided with U. S. guns provided by American taxpayers.

For more than a year, Christians and Jews have warned against the rebirth of anti-Semitism in Germany. Harry Greenstein, who recently retired as advisor on Jewish affairs to U. S. authorities in Germany, stated in his report to the Army: "It is imperative that the occupying powers recognize in anti-Semitism a negation of the democratic principles and an unmistakable sign of resurgence of German nationalism in its most vicious form."

But while British Field Marshal Lord Wavell in an address in Ottawa referred to the Germans as the "most dangerous people in Europe," Secretary of State Dean Acheson praised the Germans at a press conference in Washington. President Truman counteracted Gen. Bradley's statement by denying that there is any basis for talk of a new German military machine, but the Germans have become more arrogant daily and democracy is again threatened in Naziland.

It is possible that the democratic powers must begin to learn anew the lesson of history taught mankind by the Germans in two world wars.

It is not the rise of anti-Semitism alone that should cause our own government to be on guard, but the threat to democratic ideas throughout the world. This is a time for preparation for peace by preventing the rise of another Nazi war machine. Let us hope that our heads of state in Washington are not blind to reality.

"One Man's Opinion"

C. J. W.

By BERNARD SEGAL

Do these three letters mean anything to you?

They are meaningful to some 700 Jewish women in Providence. They mean a great deal to the New Americans in our city, to a goodly number of children who enjoyed a summer at camps, to some students on scholarships in our colleges, to veterans sick in hospitals, and to social agencies throughout the state.

These three letters are the initials of the Council of Jewish Women of Providence. It is a name worth knowing, and an organization worthy of support. Furthermore, the organization is one of our oldest women's clubs and also one of our most active women's groups, as I discovered upon close study.

The Organ, published over fifty years ago by Temple Beth El, carries an announcement of a lecture series sponsored by the study group of the Council of Jewish Women, in 1898. The list of lecturers includes professors of Brown, with Dr. Andrews, president of the University, heading the illustrious panel of speakers.

Three-Point Program

In the year 1905 the society joined the national organization to become the Providence Chapter of the Council of Jewish Women. Ever since that date, the Council has carried on a three-point program in our community:

Philanthropic work locally and nationally.

Self education and helping others to an education. Aid to immigrants.

As conditions changed, one or another of these three points was given greater emphasis. At periods of great waves of immigration, the Council was busy helping in the adjustment and the domestication of the newcomers. When the doors were barred for immigrants, the Council shifted its attention to local problems. During the war years, the work of the Council centered around a project all its own. The Council House, maintained at great cost, offered the service men and their wives a home away from home.

But some Council projects were never interrupted, and were carried on continuously over the years. I was astonished to learn, for instance, that the Council has been supplying milk to needy families over a period of thirty years. In the early days, members of the Council would distribute the milk from door to door. Now the bills are paid to the milk dealers out of the special Milk Fund.

Or take the case of the International Relations section of the Council. For a period of twenty years, the group met regularly at the home of one of the members, Mrs. S. Wachenheimer.

Some projects had to be abandoned because of changes brought about by the times. During the first quarter of the century, for example, the Council maintained, staffed, and furnished the North-End Dispensary which was the forerunner of the Miriam Hospital.

The Dispensary no longer exists. But even today the Council is in close contact with hospitals. Thus it provides an annual scholarship for the training of one nurse. A Council committee visits the Newport Hospital bi-monthly to distribute birthday gifts to the veterans.

Refugees Are Main Concern

But the chief concern of the Council of Jewish Women today is the care of the newly arrived refugees. In this work, the Council serves as the right hand of the Rhode Island Refugee Service. Due to a policy of doing things with the least amount of publicity, few of us know the real extent of the help offered by this women's organization to the New Americans. While this modesty is highly commendable, it also deprives the community of a just appreciation of the work of the C.J.W.

The report of the President, Mrs. Lionel L. Albert, reprinted in the Council Bulletin of January 1949, contains enough activities to provide half a dozen organizations with a busy season. The report tells of conferences, of study groups, of community legislative action, of assistance to students, of scholarships to camp Jori, Centerland, and Boy and Girl Scout, of Cancer drives, of Thrift Shop and Fashion Show as sources of income for the numberless funds to which the Council contributes.

But the major activity is volunteer service for the New Americans. I can do no better than to quote from a paper presented to the Council by the vice president, Mrs. Walter Nelson. It is written in the form of a series of incidents in the life of a Mr. and Mrs. D. P., who happened to come to Providence. It so happens that I am familiar with the affairs of that family, and I know that the sketch is correct to the minutest details.

Settling A Family

This family was met at the station by a volunteer from the Council and was taken to a restaurant for the first meal in Providence. They were then taken, the Mr., the Mrs., and the child D. P., to their temporary lodging at the Hebrew Sheltering Society on Jefferson Street.

On the next morning a volunteer again came and brought the family to the offices of the R. I. Refugee Service on North Main Street for a conference with the professional staff. Father needed dental care, the child was referred to a pediatrician, and the mother was taken to a maternity clinic for examination and care during her pregnancy. All three were taken by cars to their respective places accompanied by a volunteer of the Council.

The child, being of school age, was taken to the proper Public School with a volunteer doing the introduction to the teacher and the class mates. The parents were registered in one of the classes in English and the American way of life sponsored by the Council with a most competent staff of teachers.

But the Council gets really to work the moment the bread winner finds a job, and the family moves into an apartment of their own. Then the Council volunteers get busy making the rooms livable. I have before me a list of articles supplied by the Council to this refugee family of my acquaintance.

First, the rooms were cleaned and scrubbed and repaired. Then the Council truck delivered and installed into the apartment a double bed with a new mattress, a two piece living room set, a floor lamp, pots and pans and dishes, a kitchen set, a linoleum, a chest of drawers, chairs, an ironing board, blankets, towels, pillow cases, curtains, and many little utensils for home conveniences. When the expected baby arrived, the Council supplied a bassinette, a crib, and baby clothes, and a volunteer helped with the preparing of the formula.

Layettees for new-born infants, by the way, are now the special project of the Councilettes. This club of teen-age girls is trained in the art of helping others toward a life of usefulness and dignity.

I recall coming upon two girls of High School age in the corridors of the Miriam Hospital, who came to visit a patient they never saw, and to welcome a baby that was born only three days before I took them to the bedside of the refugee woman, and the two girls presented her with a box of chocolates in the name of the Councilettes. The gift and the visit brought tears to the eyes of the young mother, and let me admit, to mine, too.

All in all, Council of Jewish Women consists of a group of

New Year Musings

Memos of a columnist as he closes his mental books on one year and prepares to hang out the "Open for Business" sign on the next:

No need to spend further time on what was accomplished this year ... It's been hashed over here several times. And that all-inclusive Jewish sports league that was proposed three weeks ago ... the Jewish Community Center already is working on it ... Plans are currently being developed, and the Center's executive and activities directors have told me how they plan to go about it ... sounds good, and logical ... and it gives a lift to the project when an agency like the Center undertakes it.

With conditions in the local Jewish sports world on such a steady upswing, there will be less need to plug away in an editorial manner month after month ... it can get monotonous. I know ... but it is also very effective ... Anyway, now there will be time for the column to bring a greater variety of subject matter into print.

Two years ago—even last year—there was real difficulty in putting out a weekly column. Just wasn't enough interesting Jewish activity going on, and it was tough interesting the community in an expansion program.

Plenty to Talk About

No worry now about subject matter for the column. Let's see

... we never did clear up the matter of Al Schacht's major league record, although several readers tried to help out when the matter was discussed ... we should be hearing from the Washington Senators soon, since a tracer letter is going out.

But the amusing thing is that where everyone else failed, young Martin Cohen of Harvard Avenue dug up an issue of Babe Ruth comic books that had the Schacht story outlined in some detail. Imagine that ... all sports records that could be found, and newspaper files and the Sporting News, and two books that contain profiles about Schacht—none of them contained much about his major league playing career, and then it turns up in a comic book.

I held it up in hopes that I could run it together with complete, official information ... but the latter never did arrive, and the comic book is still here ... so we'll clear it up in the near future.

Then there is the boxing story that Charley Pine has offered to do ... and Tony Petronella has promised to dig up the facts and figures on the history of Jews in boxing ... Should make a terrific story. In football we have the unfinished story of Milt Hodosh, a local great who has never received the credit due him ... and Arnie Green, who was hampered by injuries during his senior year, yet contributed greatly to Brown's success during his time on the hill.

There will be stories about the greatest crop of Jewish ball players ever to hit the big time—I think, New England has Sid Gordon, and Brooklyn's Cal Abrams is to start the season as leadoff man, according to Branch Rickey ... Al Rosen gets a complete going over by the Indians next spring. General Manager Hank Greenberg realizes that while Ken Keltner might come up with a good year, it will only delay the inevitable a short while, and they might as well see whether Al can fill the bill and get him started in business at the hot corner.

Hal Saltzman, right handed pitcher, gets a look-see by the same Indians, but despite the current raves, I don't believe he will stick this year ... His record on the Coast was not as imposing as it appeared on the surface ... Washington has right hander Sid Schacht, and Detroit has the classy Saul Rogovin, who may be the outstanding rookie prospect of the year.

Speaking of pitchers, and there seem to be a lot of them, there is a kid named Silverman in Buffalo who might be coming up soon. He didn't get much fanfare last summer, but he turned in some mighty nice relief work. Rogovin was getting the headlines.

And we can't forget Lou Kretlow, who is certain to be a regular with the White Sox ... And the battery mate he left behind in Detroit, Myron Ginsburg, is rated an excellent chance of sticking.

All in all, quite a list, huh? I also have stories of past greats and near greats, like Johnny Kling, old-time Pittsburgh catcher, and Andy Cohen, pride of the Giants for many years even though he never quite came through ... And I never got around to doing a story on one of the great local ball players of a generation ago, Ben Solomon ... Resolution for 1950: get at that.

And the final thought as the New Year approaches ... How about a Jewish Hall of Fame, nationally and locally, or should I save that as the new idea for next year's anniversary column?

I think we had a pretty decent year, and the new one looks even better as it comes up over the horizon of time. Let's wish for everyone and our sports program the best and happiest year yet. Happy New Year!

HOW RICH ARE WE?

IT TAKES MORE than counting dollars to get the answer. No one thing makes a community rich.

A community's net worth to its people consists of many assets: economic, cultural, social, religious, philanthropic . . . plus the imagination and energy of the people themselves.

Consider our community for a moment. What is its wealth: 35,000 Jewish people . . . many fine synagogues and temples . . . hundreds of fine organizations of men and women and youth devoted to general, civic and specifically Jewish causes . . . a network of well-established social agencies . . . a hospital . . . an institution for the aged . . . character building programs . . . modern services for the economically handicapped, for the troubled family, for the new Americans . . .

Is that all? No, we could go on and on.

HOW RICH IS A COMMUNITY?

Well, let's take another yardstick—the United Jewish Appeal. In 1949 more than 7,000 people in Rhode Island contributed more than a million dollars out of their personal means so that the community could provide for our many institutions and agencies here at home, for those in need in Europe and to help build Israel.

We also gave generously to our Community Chests, to Red Cross and to a host of other worthwhile local and national organizations—non-sectarian and Jewish.

You really can't measure how rich a community is. It's as rich as it wants to be. It's as rich as it decides—in buildings, institutions, synagogues, agencies, services and activities. It's as rich as it wishes—in thriving organizations, groups, social and cultural life.

It's as rich as the imagination and energy of its people. Yes, it's as rich or as poor as the personal and family lives of its people.

In the final analysis, the community's wealth is measured in terms of its aspirations, its culture, its philanthropy, its ethics, its educational program, its neighborliness, and the fullness of its social life.

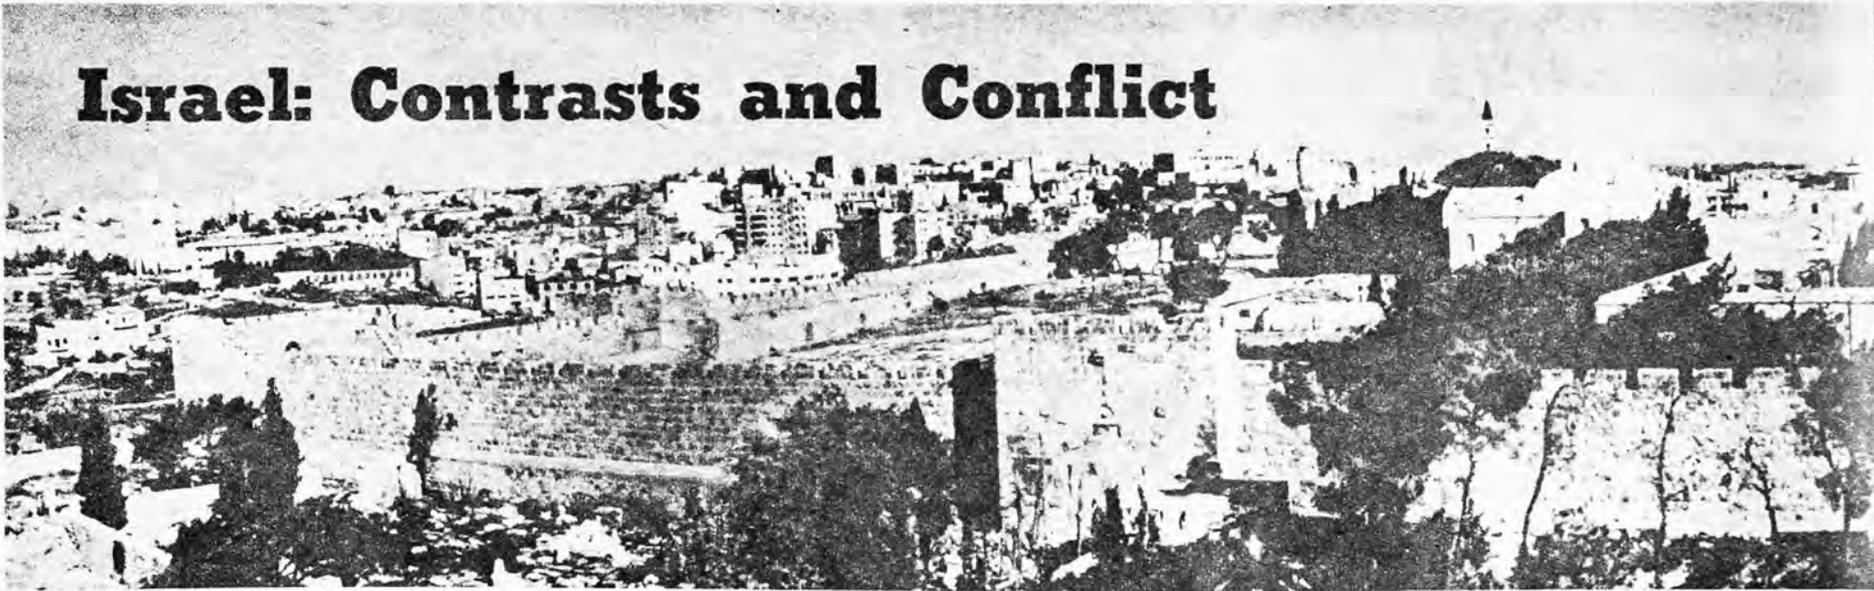

We have a rich community. The people of our community have combined their personal wealth of ideas, imagination, effort and money to make it so. Let's keep it that way and let's improve it.

The Jewish Herald herein presents the second in a series of messages that are intended as a public service, to foster a better understanding of the community in which we live.

Israel: Contrasts and Conflict

TWO JERUSALEMS—The 400-year-old wall, built by Suleiman the Magnificent, around Old Jerusalem and separating it from the New City (left) symbolizes the

NEW ISRAEL—A modern chemical plant at Haifa typifies the country's industrial resources.

NO MAN'S LAND—The armed neutrality of Jew and Arab is marked by a forbidden zone between the Old and New Cities. Here are "dragon's teeth" at Mandelbaum Gate.

troysed in the 1948 fighting, is in Arab hands, while the New City, outside the Wall, is 95 per cent Jewish-controlled. The ultimate political disposition of Jerusalem is bound up with possible decisions in the U. N. General Assembly concerning the whole region. The Conciliation Commission for Palestine is now holding sessions in New York to frame recommendations for solving the problem.

MRS. DAVID S. FRIEDMAN

Mrs. Friedman, general chairman of the second annual Donors Luncheon of the Providence Chapter, Women's Mizrahi, to be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Narragansett Hotel January 23, has announced that proceeds of the affair will be used to carry on the group's work for Youth Aliyah and rehabilitation in Israel.

Intramural Basketball League Is Formed

The Jewish Community Center Intramural basketball league will get under way on Sunday, January 8, at 3 o'clock. A few openings remain for intermediate teams in the age group of 15 to 18. Representatives of interested teams should contact Abe Lobel, Center athletic director, immediately.

For the first time in Center history an adult volley ball league may function. Games will be played in the evening. Any veterans groups, men's clubs, and other organized teams in the age group of 21 and up are invited to participate.

Sons of Jacob Bowling

By S. MAX ROSENBERG

The league got underway with a bang two Mondays back with 16 contestants. In the tryouts, high single was grabbed by president Maurice Winograd and young Kenny Resnick took high total honor. Old timers like Joey Matzner, Jack Glantz and Georgie Labush couldn't get started while Louis Sweet started off with a strike.

Harry Stairman threw some balls off the alley, complaining he was tired, while Dr. Joe Kolodney says it's harder than pulling teeth to get strikes and spares. Benny Medwin showed good steady bowling. Morris Lecht, Philip Gitman and Hyman Stone, who said they couldn't bowl, surprised themselves by getting a few spares and good scores all evening.

The second tryout was held Monday. Anyone still wanting to join us, can call yours truly at Dexter 1-4292 or Ben Medwin at Dexter 1-7017.

Paull of 1 Lillian Avenue, to Leon Sklaroff, son of Mrs. Anna Sklaroff of 46 Taylor Street and the late William Sklaroff, took place December 18 at a 6 o'clock double-ring ceremony performed by Rabbi Abraham Chill at Congregation Sons of Abraham. Miss Edith Gollis sang "Give Me Your Hand" and "Because".

The bride was clad in a white satin gown styled with long sleeves, lace yoke and long train, and trimmed with beads. Her veil was of French illusion and fell from a cap of white flowers. She carried long-stemmed calla lilies with sweet peas.

Mrs. Albert Kotler of Chicago, sister of the bride and matron of honor, was attired in a pink-colored lame gown and carried long-stemmed red roses. Connie Sue Botvin, in a gown of dusty rose satin and lace with a matching hat, was flower girl. She had a nosegay of assorted flowers.

Jerry Sklaroff was best man for his brother and ushers were Herbert Talan, Theodore Halpern, Jonah Sirkin, Philip Zimberg, all cousins of the bride, Shelton Golden and David Goldman.

Mrs. Paull chose a gown of royal blue trimmed with sequins, and Mrs. Sklaroff wore a gown of beige lace. Each had an orchid corsage.

The bride was graduated from Hope High School. The groom, a graduate of Hope, is now attending Champlain College, Plattsburg, N. Y.

The bride wore a white nylon tulle gown styled with an off-the-shoulder neckline of silver lace and a skirt and train panelled with silver lace. Her veil of silk tulle was sprinkled with rhinestones and fell from a crown of white tulle and she carried a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and silver lace.

Mrs. Irving Levine of New Bedford attended her sister as matron of honor. Her gown was of white tulle and lace with an off-the-shoulder neckline and she had a tiara of rhinestones. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses.

Harold Bregstein, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Harris chose a green lace and tulle dress, while Mrs. Bregstein was attired in a gown of beige tissue faille with a yolk of gold and crystal beads.

Decorations in the room were white, silver and green. Edmund Herschel sang traditional wedding music and Herbie Sulkin's orchestra played during the evening.

The bride is a graduate of Vassar College and Columbia Law School. Mr. Bregstein was gradu-

Avoid "New Year's Neurosis"

Let's not kid ourselves—We all know what it's like to spend New Year's Eve in the City—maniacal motorists, playing leap frog, caroming from bumper to bumper. Cabs hard to find as the proverbial needle in the haystack, impassable streets, impossible situations.

Miniature sized dance floors, often mistaken for the Metro during rush hour and entertainment completely obscured by a cigarette smoke screen.

Wait a minute, friends!

Don't cancel your date and bolt the doors and windows! Your New Year's doesn't have to be like that. Pick up the phone. Ask the operator for Sharon 2570-616 and make reservations for a painless New Year's Eve NOW!

Superb cuisine, fine music, thrilling entertainment, favors, prizes, novelties.

$15 per couple—all taxes included.

Sincerely,
