Work of Crackpot, Cops Say:

Bomb Rips Miami Jewish Center; Klan Is Blamed

MIAMI (AJP)—A resurgent Ku Klux Klan bent on whipping up a pre-election anti-Jewish hysteria was charged this week by the president of the dynamited Northside Jewish Center here with setting off an explosion which ripped the rest room of the near-completed model center causing an estimated $500 damage. No one was injured in the night explosion.

Charges by the president, George Weisbaum, were coupled with disclosures of cross-burning, the firing of a shot through the window of a temporary Jewish Center and pressure tactics aimed at preventing the purchase of land by a Jewish group in near-by Hialeah.

"I am positive," Weisbaum said, "that this is the work of the KKK. We do not intend to pay any attention to this sort of vandalism."

Weisbaum said the damage caused by the explosion might force postponement of dedication ceremonies for several days, adding "but that's all". Dedication of the attractive new center was originally scheduled for July 4th.

The explosion, he said, was one of a chain of anti-Jewish acts in the Miami area during recent weeks.

"Several weeks ago," Weisbaum said, "the KKK burned a cross on a causeway between Miami and Miami Beach." Earlier when the group had its temporary headquarters in a storeroom, someone fired a shot through the window.

Weisbaum said another Jewish group which had purchased a lot in nearby Hialeah were forced to sell it and purchase another site under pressure from "a group of local businessmen".

Weisbaum interpreted the bombing as part of a plan to stir up anti-Jewish feeling in advance of the November elections.

"The Klan has never died here," he said, "and it wants more power."

ZOA-Israel Squabble To Be Debated at Conclave

Silver and Lipsky Differ on Stand

ATLANTIC CITY (AJP)—The sound of Ben-Gurion's curt refusal to recognize the American Zionist Movement as the prime vehicle through which aid to Israel should be channeled still ringing in their ears, 2,000 delegates representing 800 districts of the Zionist Organization of America gathered here today to open their historic 54th annual national convention.

Top subject of debate at the convention, as evidenced from corridor discussion on the eve of the gathering's opening, will be the role of the American Zionists, members of the ZOA, should play on Israel's political battlefield. A strong pro-Silver-Neumann showing is expected to urge all-out support for Israel's General Zionist Party. A group of Progressives, headed by veteran Zionist Louis Lipsky, Rudolph Sonnenborn, and others, will undoubtedly attempt to block the political thrust.

Highpoint of the four-day convention will come Saturday night when delegates discuss and vote on a series of political resolutions.

Pro-General Zionist elements, angry over the refusal of Israel's shekel board to take action on complaints by the General Zionists and Mizrahi of alleged "irregularities" in the sale and registration of shekel holders, may move for the ZOA's refusal to participate in the forthcoming sessions of the much-postponed Congress scheduled for mid-August in Jerusalem. The Israeli General Zionists threatened a similar boycott unless action was taken and a probe instituted.

Veteran Zionists gathered here voiced the possibility of a split in the ZOA ranks. They recalled the 1948 Pittsburgh convention at which Progressive forces at first refused to join the administration because of somewhat similar disagreements over the ZOA's political affiliations in Israel. Dramatically, at the Pittsburgh convention, the Progressives stalked out of the mammoth Mecca Temple convention site, in protest against the situation.

Whether any similar split would come to pass here remained questionable. However, it was pointed out that a statement last week by Lipsky and three former ZOA presidents endorsing the Progressives in the forthcoming Israeli elections had not eased the clash between the two elements.

Benjamin Browdy's re-election as president of the ZOA appeared reasonably assured.

Foe of Admitting DPs to Resign

WASHINGTON (AJP) — One of the spearheads against liberalization of America's immigration laws to enable the entry of additional displaced persons, Rep. Ed Gossett (D-Tex.), announced plans this week to resign his congressional seat for a better paying job.

The congressman disclosed that he planned to assume the post of general attorney for the South-west Bell Telephone Company.

He is expected to move to Dallas in early August. The new post will bring Gossett $25,000 a year where his pay as a representative totalled $12,500 annually.

Loses Sight But Gets College Degree

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—A dark invisible wall destined to separate the outside world from a young Jewish student, wasn't enough to deprive Leonard I. Cohen of the college education he envisioned even as a child.

Cohen, 26, received his Bachelor's degree here this week at City College's 105th commencement exercises.

The youth's dramatic battle for an education began in 1948, one

Logan To Head Center Building Group

LEO LOGAN

The appointment of Leo Logan as chairman of the Jewish Community Center's Building Committee was announced this week by Saul E. R. Feinberg, Center president.

It will be the duty of the Building Committee, Feinberg said, to draw plans for the remodeling of the newly acquired Center building on Sessions Street. "We hope to start the remodeling work soon," he added, "so that the Center may move to its new location by early fall."

Logan, who has been in the real estate business since 1905, is prominent in local communal circles. He is a member of the board of trustees of the Miriam Hospital, the board of directors of the Jewish Home for the Aged and the Jewish Children's Welfare Society, and is a member of

Conservatives Map Huge Modern Drive For Sabbath Observance

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—All branches of the Conservative movement completed tentative plans at an all-day conference here last week to embark on what promised to be the most widespread, colorful concerted effort ever undertaken to hammer home to the nation's Jews the importance of Sabbath observance.

The nationwide campaign, scheduled to begin next Yom Kippur, will utilize a completely modern approach in getting its message across to more than 500,000 American Jews. Dr. Emil Lehman, United Synagogue of America official, disclosed in an interview with the American Jewish Press.

Another aspect of the sweeping drive, Dr. Lehman disclosed, will be an effort to eliminate violations of the Sabbath within local congregations. Included among the violations are smoking at Oneg

Billy Rose First Urged Bond Sale

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)— Jewish showman Billy Rose was credited this week by a Broadway columnist with first suggesting the current $500,000,000 Israel Bond Drive to President Chaim Weizmann, even before the Jewish State came into existence.

Columnist Leonard Lyons said that Rose also suggested the details—a 3 per cent interest to mature in 15 years.

many other organizations, including the Center. He is a former president of Haggai Lodge, B'nai B'rith, and is a member of Temple Beth El.

Commenting on his appointment, Logan stated:

"I am happy to be able to help carry on the work so ably started by the officials of the Jewish Community Center. The Sessions Street location should be ideal for Center purposes for years to come. It lends itself especially well to the needs of young people who will be attracted to the Center.

"The old fire station building seems to be good and sound, with a strong foundation. With remodeling, the educational and study rooms, etc., should be good for a long time. Equally important, the new Center has room to grow. And when the time comes for additional construction, we will have a fine organization ready to tackle the job.

"The Center's officials deserve credit for successfully maneuvering the deal to acquire the Sessions Street property," Logan concluded.

ed to curtail the KKK and imposed a ban on the wearing of masks, part of the hate group's protective garb.)

"We don't bother anyone," Weisbaum said, referring to the Center's 125 family groups, "We just want to be left alone to worship in peace."

Police patrol cars roamed the area following the explosion, but no arrests were made.

One police official expressed belief the explosion was the work of "a crackpot".

short year after he entered college. Cohen became blind. Although he realized little hope existed for the restoration of his sight, Cohen refused to discontinue his studies. He obtained the services of a reader and continued all of his courses for the next three years.

Cohen had to rely upon a sharp memory in order to make the grade. Unable to use any notes which might be taken in class, the young-retail major memorized the material, then underwent examinations.

Despite the overwhelming handicaps, Cohen received higher grades in his last three years at City College than prior to his illness. He was graduated with a B average.

Sabbath Observance

Shabbat ceremonies and holding meetings and parties on Friday night.

Using a completely modern approach, the Conservative units prepared to use every gimmick proven successful in modern sales methods in order to get their observance program over to the Jewish public. Direct mailings of attractive pieces of eye-catching circulars urging Jewish wives and mothers to refrain from Sabbath cooking and shopping are in the process of preparation.

Teams playing here should arrive early enough to secure the field.

A board meeting last week upheld a protest submitted by Natcor on a forfeited game to M & F Insurance. This game will be replayed later in the season.

Waldorf moved farther ahead in top position with a double win over Arden's. Lefty Bernie Davidson went all the way in the 14-7 first game win. Playing smooth ball the Clothiers built up a ten run lead in the first three innings. Strows Shorin and Herb Weintraub homered for the winners while Greg Karembelas poled one for the losers.

In the second Abe Lobel turned in another fine mound performance. Taking a four run fourth inning lead, Waldorf was never headed. Earl Tetreault hit well for the Arden club.

Natcor and Lincoln Woods split in a double header of runs and errors. Harv Schonfeld highlighted the nine run Natcor sixth in the first game with a pinch-hit

ABRAHAM MADE SURE . . .

From the pages of the old Testament comes the first record of the head of a family making provision for the earthly resting place of his loved ones.

"So the field . . . and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the border thereof round about, were made sure unto Abraham for a possession in the presence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city."

And so Abraham buried Sara, his wife, almost four thousand years ago, in the spot that he had chosen. A thousand years later Solomon declared that he who follows such righteousness and charity, finds life, prosperity and honor.

It is not only his duty—but his privilege; it is the moral law.

So many visitors come to see and enjoy its quiet beauty. Why not drive out this Sunday with your family.

KOREA, IRAN AND PEACE

War Is Not Inevitable, If..!

(The following sermon of Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, Rabbi of The Temple Cleveland, an analysis of the world situation, has received national comment. The editors of the Herald are pleased to reproduce Dr. Silver's document on world peace.)

By DR. ABBA HILLEL SILVER

What are the prospects for peace?

Who can answer this question? If you ask government officials from the President down, or our top military leaders or the heads of foreign governments, the men who are in the best position to know, you will receive conflicting and contradictory replies. Sometimes this diversity of opinion will come from one and the same source. There are those who say that war is imminent. There are others who say that there will be no war in 1951 or in 1952, but there is a definite likelihood that war will break out in 1953.

Again, there are other voices which declare that there will be no war, if we arm ourselves fully and make ourselves invincible, and if we arm all of our allies. This will discourage the aggressor and so avert war. On the other hand, there are those who maintain that the very arming of ourselves and of our allies for the eventuality of war is bound to provoke war. Competitive armament provoked war in the past time and again.

What is the truth of the matter? The truth of the matter is that nobody knows—from Truman and Stalin down. Nobody knows!

Neither side wants war, but both sides fear and suspect each other. Each side tries to read the mind of the other, to out-guess the other, to impress the other; and by ostensible, large-scale mobilization, to over-awe and forewarn the other, in the hope that it will not commit any act of aggression which would lead to war.

Both sides fully realize the futility of a military showdown, the utter, disastrous pointlessness of a third world war, which neither side can win, and which will leave our globe one vast atomic shambles.

The fact that neither side wants war should logically lead to the conclusion that the prospects of peace are very bright. But then, why all the persistent speculation as to when the third world war will begin, and why all the feverish preparation for it? The answer is quite simple. Both sides realize that they may, unwillingly and unwittingly, stumble and blunder into a universally unwanted and unwelcome third world war. They may outsmart themselves into it!

Often in the past nations found themselves in the midst of a disastrous shooting war, when all that they had really planned was a clever diplomatic maneuver, a brilliant move on the checker board of power politics. What they had expected was a victory without war, or at worst, a little war and a big victory, a small investment and enormous dividends.

Small Incidents Set Off Explosions

They always start, these big wars, in relatively minor and unimportant political incidents. But because there exist two armed, hostile camps, which are jealously watching one another, and which weigh each incident in terms of increasing or decreasing power and prestige, these relatively unimportant incidents often turn out to be the burning fuses which explode the powder keg, which nobody wanted to explode. The annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Sarajevo—relatively minor political incidents—caused the explosion of the first World War. Danzig blew up the flood-gates of the second World War.

No political incident is important enough to bring on a world war, but the belligerent pre-disposition which exists at the time, the receptive layer, as it were, the unresolved and accumulated tensions and fears, the prevalent mood and the climate—these constitute the dry tinder which any vagrant spark can set ablaze.

RABBI SILVER
'Neither Side Wants War'

Our world today is full of such inflammable stuff, of such explosive potentials. That is why people today are not optimistic about the prospects of peace. The bull of power politics is inside the china shop. He may be intent upon no deliberate destruction, but any clumsy move on his part, however unpremeditated, may bring the delicately and dangerously poised international arrangements crashing down into universal havoc. That is why nobody is in position to give a satisfactory answer to the question, what are the prospects for peace.

War Can Be Averted

On the other hand, war is not inevitable. It can be averted. I do not know the mind of the Kremlin. If the Kremlin wants war, then war is inevitable. But I start out with the assumption that neither the Soviet Union nor the allied nations want war.

The rulers of Russia are not so completely uninformed nor so utterly mad as not to realize what a third world war, with its vast atomic destructiveness, would mean to their country and people, a country and a people which have hardly emerged from the appalling ravages and devastations of the second World War. They are not fools, these rulers of Russia. It would be placing a very low and unrealistic estimate on the present and past rulers of Russia, who built up an empire which covers one-fifth of the globe, to regard them as fools or reckless knaves.

Undoubtedly, the present rulers of Russia would like to extend the borders of communism. They must realize, however, that this is now impossible without war, and if they are not utterly bereft of reason, they must conclude that war, to use an expression of Benjamin Franklin, "would be too high a price to pay for the whistle."

The progress which communism has made in recent years has not been through direct Russian military intervention. Communism has made amazing progress since the second World War. Hundreds of millions of people have been swung into the orbit of communism since then, without a single Russian soldier fighting anywhere in the world! Russia, of course, provided propaganda, weapons and instruction, but it made doubly and trebly sure that it would not itself become directly involved in any war.

Communism Expands Without War

Undoubtedly, the Russian rulers, at the behest either of the world-embracing revolutionary idea behind communism, or the old but unappeased imperialism which is not, however, peculiar to the Slavic appetite alone, would like to expand still further. But I am inclined to believe that they will not wish to do that at the cost of involving themselves in war. If that is so, then there are ways of checking this appetite for aggression by means short of war.

We should build up our own strength and defenses to a point where the cost of aggression would be prohibitive. We should also help our logical allies to build up their strength and defenses, provided they are willing to pay their own fair share of the cost of mutual defense.

It is, however, futile and in the long run, dangerous, to re-arm former and unrepentant enemies of democracy. It is futile and dangerous to try to woo and win into a world alliance for freedom ex-Nazis and ex-Fascists, Tito Communists, and corrupt and discredited generals like Chiang Kai-shek! They are broken reeds to lean upon! We undermine our moral position in the world and bring the integrity of our cause into disrepute when we join hands with these reactionaries, dictators and dangerous opportunists.

There Are Means Short of War

The most promising way of checking the spread of communism in the world is to be found in those proposals which have been made in the last few years, and more recently again by the President of the United States, to extend economic aid to peoples whose level of subsistence is so low that they become the natural prey of communist propaganda and allurements.

The masses of the earth who live in frightful misery and degradation, possessed of nothing, not even of hope, not knowing where their next morsel of bread is coming from, are not interested in ideologies, either communism or democracy. They are interested in bread. They want food, clothing, shelter, hospitals, schools.

Whoever helps them with these necessities—not with guns, cannons and bombs which they cannot eat, and which only tend to increase their terror and their wretchedness—will win their friendship and will in time cause them to admire and welcome that way of life which brought them healing and help in their sorry plight. It was wise to extend such help wherever feasible through the agencies of the United Nations, thereby augmenting its prestige and the dependence of peoples upon it, making it increasingly more relevant and more necessary.

The present strong appeal which communism is making to them is that it promises them a revolutionary change, a change which will take them out of the hopeless and engulfing misery in which they find themselves. Any change would be a change for the better for them! Communism promises them land and bread, and a planned economy which would provide them with these things.

Of course, it has not as yet delivered any of these things to them, but the very hope and promise give them a psychological lift out of the drab and tragic reality in which they find themselves. They beguile and entice them, and the progress of communism among them is thus made easy and rapid.

If we could give them not merely hope and promise, but concrete help and relief, and, refusing to align ourselves with the representatives of reactionary colonialism and with the ruthless exploiters, native and foreign, of those peoples, if we could convince them by our conduct of our sincere intentions to assist them towards full economic and political emancipation and social progress, we would win them to our side. A people that can see hope ahead, that can see a way out from hunger, desperation and serfdom, will not go communist.

It is in this direction that America can best serve itself and mankind. The other way, the fighting way, the sending of our soldiers to the four corners of the earth, to resist by force any and every outcropping of communism—to save the endangered liberties, as it were, of these underprivileged peoples—is, sad to record, not a very profitable enterprise for anyone concerned.

I read the other day a dispatch from Korea which appeared in the New York Times written by George Barrett:

"In the past seven months, as the battle line advanced and receded, many Koreans have seen their regimes switch from Syngman Rhee to the Communists, back to Syngman Rhee, back again to the Communists, and now, for the third time, back to Syngman Rhee. Out of this seesaw experience, there seems to have crystallized for many Koreans a highly disillusioned point of view. Dislike and distrust of the Communists, with no great love for the South Korea regime.

"To a great many of the Koreans, whose illiteracy rate probably is as high as 60 per cent, the political issues inherent in a war are so much mumbo-jumbo. The big question is the stark one of just staying alive. This means for most Koreans how to keep from being killed in the fighting, and succeeding that, how to get enough food and warmth to stay alive.

"The Communist platform announced from the North was an enticing one, according to a sampling of farmers, shopkeepers, and refugees... but disillusionment set in quickly, according to those who concede that they once were prepared to buy what the Communists had in theory to offer....

"Today vast numbers of Koreans have nothing left. No homes, no work and no food, except what they can forage or beg, and they tell you they are bewildered by the havoc created by the war they never really understood....

"With this feeling of no love for either side, they are begin-

War Isn't Inevitable, Says Rabbi Silver

(Continued from Preceding Page) ning to ask in increasing bewilderment what they themselves can hope to get out of all the killing and destruction, no matter who wins the military victory."

The Johnson Resolution

There are two danger spots in the world today. One is Korea. You may recall that I advocated some time ago the liquidation of the Korean military undertaking. It is now nearly a year since we invaded Korea. There is still no prospect for a decisive victory.

Most military experts seem to believe that we are in a hopeless stalemate in Korea. The casualties have been mounting. They are now approaching 70,000. Recently it was revealed that there have been another 70,000 casualties in the non-combat activities connected with the Korean war. We do not want an all-out war for fear of bringing Russia in, and we, therefore, cannot have an all-out victory. And what did the all-out victories for the democratic nations in the recent wars result in but the spread of dictatorship in the world!

A limited war can yield only a limited victory—and that the United Nations forces have already achieved with the defeat of the latest Chinese-North Koreans offensive and the withdrawal of these forces beyond the 38th Parallel.

A few days ago Democratic Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado introduced a resolution in the Senate which requested the United Nations to call upon all nations now engaged in the war in Korea to cease fire and declare an armistice effective June 25, 1951, the anniversary of the war, and that prior thereto the United Nations forces should retire to points south, and the opposing forces should retire to points North of the 38th Parallel; and that before December 31, 1951, all prisoners of the Korean War shall be exchanged and all non-Korean persons, military and non-military, shall depart from North and South Korea.

Such action should have been taken a long time ago. I cannot see any other way out but the way of a cease-fire, an agreement to end the struggle and to negotiate an all-around settlement. This will not be easy as long as there are people who insist that the present regime in China must never be recognized, and that in fact, efforts should be made on our part to revive the civil war in China in order to unseat the present government and bring back into power the government of Chiang Kai-shek.

Voices of very prominent men were heard recently in Washington declaring that the United States must veto the admission of Communist China to the United Nations. There is a considerable confusion in thinking on this subject. China is today a member of the United Nations, one of the original members, and one of the permanent members of the Security Council. The question is not whether China should be admitted to the United Nations, but which of the rival Chinese governments who claim to speak for China should be accepted as the official representative of China in the United Nations.

Which of these two governments effectively controls China today, its territories and its peoples, and can speak authoritatively for the people of China? It is clear that there is only one government which is today in control of China, and that is the present Communist Peking government. The decision which the United Nations must make at such time as it chooses to make it, involves a question not of a substantive nature, where the veto power of one or another of the permanent members of the Security Council can be exercised, but of a purely procedural nature, where there is no possibility of the exercise of the veto.

Should our government insist that it is a question of substance and not of procedure, it is not likely to be sustained in the Security Council. What purpose then is served other than lessening the chances for a peace settlement, by calling for a United States veto of Communist China which, in the last analysis, cannot be exercised!

Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, recently promised continued American aid to Nationalist China, declared that the American government would not recognize the Communist regime, and, in so many words, offered to help the Chinese people if they revolted against their present government. It should be clear even to a child that you cannot negotiate with a government which you are publicly repudiating and which you are intending to destroy. It is not possible to sit down with the representatives of a government and work out a settlement with them when, at the very same time, you are inciting the people of that country to revolt against that government.

Does our government really want a cease-fire in Korea, and a general peace settlement for Korea and with communist China? If not, what is it that it does want?

The present moment seems to be propitious for a determined and honest effort to settle the Korean affair. We missed two or three such moments in the past year. The latest Chinese offensive has failed, and they are not likely to mount another one in the near future. They have been driven out of South Korea. This is a good time for earnest and honest peace overtures.

Korea still remains one of the two danger spots in the world which make the prospects for peace

SEN. JOHNSON

Calls for a Cease-fire rather dim at the moment.

The second one is in Iran. Iran has resolved to nationalize the vast oil reserves which have been heretofore in the control of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. The Iranian government is prepared to compensate the company for its investments. It has called upon the company to send representatives to arrange for the early transfer of its properties to the Iranian government.

Great Britain replied at first with threatening gestures. It has sent some 4,000 parachute troops to Cyprus, presumably to impress the Iranian government. It is rather strange for a government like Great Britain, which itself has nationalized in recent years some of its own basic resources and industries, to condemn another nation for doing the very same thing. Should Great Britain send troops into Iran, it might provoke Russia, which has a treaty with Iran covering just such contingencies, to do likewise. The prospects of a world war would then become dangerously real.

We had the same problem of expropriation of American oil properties in Mexico 25 years ago.

For a time it looked very threatening. Fortunately, our government had the wisdom and the statesmanship to work out a mutually satisfactory arrangement with Mexico.

There is no way today of stopping the peoples of Asia from exercising their full sovereignty. There is a way of cooperating with them, as equals, for mutual benefit and for common interests. When that policy is adopted, and honestly followed, we will be making friends of these peoples because they would normally turn to us, as to their natural allies.

They do not wish to become satellites of Moscow. But they will no longer tolerate acts of exploitation or the curbing of their independence and sovereignty. Resentment and resistance to intervention and exploitation may drive them into the arms of the Soviet.

If the Korean war can be wound up satisfactorily, if the Iranian dispute can be amicably adjusted, if we will carry out the constructive program for which the President of the United States recently appealed to Congress to make the benefits of our scientific advances and our industrial progress available for the improvement of the under-developed areas of the world, and if we will give up the idea of a crusade against communism all over the world, then the prospects of peace may become increasingly bright in our day.

War is not inevitable. War can be averted. What is called for, on our part, at least—we cannot speak of act for Russia—is to make the maximum effort for peace and to exercise the wisest and most far-seeing statesmanship to meet the present dangers.

We may fail. It may well be that Russia is determined upon war. In that case, war will come. But if Russia is not hell-bent upon war, then the initiative, the leadership for peace, is in our hands.

SYD COHEN:

What's In A Name?
Softball, That Is!

Looking over my notes preparatory to reviewing the current Jewish Softball League season, I got a repeated feeling of confusion when trying to associate any particular team with the name it bears on its uniform and in the news reports.

A look at the standings reveals that five of the clubs are playing under new sponsorship. That is neither new, nor surprising. It displays the initiative of the commissioner and his staff in keeping the league on a steady basis, and extending its appeal to new sources.

As matters stand, however, it is difficult for some of the fans who don't get to all the games to keep track of who is who. League officials must admit reluctantly that even some players are still referring to rival clubs by the names of last year's sponsors.

It is all well and good to read that M & F Insurance won a double header or that Mathewson Toggery's first baseman stole home, but to more than one person, those are only names. There is no association with players or teams, as units that have played together for several seasons with relatively minor changes.

If you are close enough to the league to know most of the players personally or by sight, then you don't have this difficulty; but the chances are that more than a little confusion still reigns, with the season two months old.

"You can't tell the players without a program" is a familiar refrain. Locally our problem is with nicknames — specifically, the lack thereof.

You have to concentrate a bit to remember that Broadway Auto Sales, in this year's softball league, is the same bunch that played last year under the Technoprint banner, and the year before as Jack's Fabrics. Yet it is the same team, and how simple it would be if we could refer to it by its adopted nickname for these three years, the Old Timers!

One year it was Mal's Baby Shoppe, another time it was Esquire Formal Wear. Now it is M & F Insurance. Confusing, at least somewhat, no? It shouldn't be. The team is still composed of that gallant band of Comets who have contributed so much to the league's history.

So it goes, with Waldorf Tuxedo, last year's champs under the Etcoff banner—and the Olympics, who have worn the colors of Jake Kaplan, Cadillac Textile, and now Mathewson Toggery.

There is no complaint about the change in sponsors. That is healthy. And these sponsors are worthy of all the attention they can reasonably be given. But, gosh, let's apply a nickname to each club and let's keep that nickname intact as long as that particular bunch of fellows play together. Then, they will be easily identified, regardless of who is paying the freight. Even the sponsor would benefit, knowing in advance where his money is going, what kind of team he is inheriting.

Let's say that one of Steve Espo's summaries mentions Lincoln Woods Farm five times. Steve may use the full name twice, then for variety he is forced to come in with "the winners" or "the losers" as a direct reference. Much simpler if he could use a set nickname along with the sponsor's handle.

Natcor poses a different setup. Here is a new team, a team that was not previously in the league. Here a new nickname would have to be created. But assuming that the boys will compete in 1952, that nickname would stay on and become a part of the club.

Nobody thinks it silly to call them the Red Sox instead of the Bostons, or the Boston Americans. The side handle carries a meaning all its own that the sponsor's name never can hope to match. We can not, and should not, bury a club's identity just because it didn't pay for its own uniforms.

The sponsor still gets his money's worth. His name is in the papers more than once weekly, especially in the standings; and everyone at the ball park, including the rival players, can't miss knowing who is responsible for the other team's being there.

So let's have some policy whereby we hear about the Old Timers, the Comets and the Olympics, to mention only those outfits that have had nicknames, and then the league will have a feeling of intimacy that it now lacks.

An Interesting Season

With the exception of three teams, the Softball League this year is enjoying its closest race. Waldorf, with a club that was acknowledged to be loaded before the season started, is moving steadily ahead of the pack. Lincoln Woods and Natcor, with relatively new teams and several players who are in their first seasons of competition, are running behind, mostly for lack of experience and organization.

But how about those five clubs in the middle! The jockeying for position is beautiful to watch. There are some real good clubs in that pack, and they play a highly interesting brand of ball. They are fairly evenly matched, and that is good. Can you imagine what would happen in this penultimate race if Waldorf went into a temporary tailspin and came back to the field?

At any rate, it is a good season to date, with a smoother organization and less fuss than in previous campaigns. If you haven't come out to watch the boys of a Sunday morning, you ought to give it a whirl.

A E Pi Wins Bowling Title on Total Pinfall

Cranston A's Smash Record With 1776

Cranston Jewish Community Club's A team smashed the record for high three by one squad, but Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity presented a better balanced 20-man delegation that rolled the highest league total, and it was on the basis of this edge in pinfall that A E Pi romped to victory in the fourth annual Herald Bowling Tournament last week at the Casino Alleys.

A E Pi and Cranston each collected five points, marking the first time ever that a tie has occurred. In such cases, the rules state that the winner will be determined by total league pinfall. That settled the issue beyond any doubt, for A E Pi's royal 20 rolled a total of 6184, as compared with Cranston's 6023.

Other point scores were Fineman-Trinkel JWV Post, three (and a pinfall total of 6105; Knights of Pythias, two (6038), and Providence Fraternal, defending champions, one (5873).

By teams, here is how the points were won: The new champions took two strings and total pinfall via the B team, and one string each with the C and D squads. Cranston's A team registered a clean sweep of three strings and total pinfall, and their C team won one string. Fineman-Trinkel scored once each with the C and D aggregations, the D's also taking honors in total pinfall. Knights of Pythias took one each with the B's and D's, while Providence Fraternal copped total pinfall in the C team competition.

Cranston A's Hot

By far the most impressive feat turned in during the tourney was the job of the Cranston A squad. These five men—Ed Lang, Ben Mellion, Moe Kessler, Al Samdperil and Harold Warren—rolled the terrific total of 1776; and Warren, the easy-going giant lefthander, put together strings of 149, 135 and 130 for the whopping total of 414—that's right, four hundred fourteen—for the night's high. Harold's nearest competitor was Saul Ladow of Knights of Pythias, with a 144 second string and 366 total.

The other four on Cranston's A team rolled 337, 330, 351 and 344. Of their 15 strings, only one fell below 100—and that by just one

Here are some further tournament statistics:

Of the 100 men who participated, 45 rolled 300 or better. A E Pi led the way with eleven. Cranston and Fineman-Trinkel had ten each, Knights of Pythias eight, and Providence Fraternal six. Of the 300 individual strings bowled, 149 were 100 or more. A E Pi again had the highest figure, 35, with Fineman-Trinkel just two behind. Cranston had 28, Knights of Pythias 27, and Providence Fraternal 26.

Individual high threes behind Warren and Ladow were Himmel-farb of A E Pi, 365; M. Klibanoff, Fineman-Trinkel, 353; Moe Kessler, Cranston, and W. Fish, A E Pi, 351.

THE WORLD'S NEWEST DEMOCRACY

In these times, when America seeks friends, an ally has arisen in the Middle East—the State of Israel—the world's newest democracy.

Here is a country founded on the same freedoms that all Americans hold dear—freedom of religion, conscience, education—equality of all citizens without distinction—a nation pledged to safeguard the Holy Places of all religions and to uphold the United Nations Charter.

Today, as you look to Israel, you see a country alive with the industry of free enterprise. You see a people whose faces are turned to the sun of democracy. You see a land that was forged in the fire of freedom.

And you learn that Israel, like early pioneer America, is planning for complete independence and self-reliance.

It is to help insure Israel's independence that Israel is now offering this Bond issue—bonds that will help transform 600,000 more immigrants into happy and productive people—bonds that will strengthen Israel as a pillar of democracy in the Middle East.

You who believe in freedom, who see the importance of helping to develop new democracy—you will want to invest in these Israel Independence Bonds.
