AJC, Zionists Clash on Policy

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — Amid an increasing barrage of attacks on the American Jewish Committee's resolutions to draw a sharp line between Israel and America, the AJC was reported this week readying a "clarification" intended to clear up what it termed "misinterpretations" by foes of the group's stand.

The dynamite-laden AJC resolutions adopted at a recent Chicago meeting warned Israel against granting "diplomatic" status to Zionist groups in America and asserted that "the carrying out of educational programs among the American Jews is exclusively the responsibility of American institutions."

The reference was interpreted as an attempt to discourage furtherance of an American chaltz movement to Israel.

The AJC came under three severe attacks for its stand. ZOA president Benjamin Browdy assailed the resolutions; Mrs. Rose Halprin, acting chairman of the Jewish Agency, charged that the AJC was attempting to "isolate" American Jewry from Israel and the diaspora, and the Congress Weekly, organ of the American Jewish Congress, flayed the Committee for "seeking to undermine the process of organization in coordination with regard to Israel" by challenging the authority of the Jewish Agency.

Since the issuance of the Jewish Agency attack, the American Jewish Press learned, a key group within the American Jewish Committee has been studying the document.

Within two or three weeks it is expected that a "clarification" will be issued by the AJC charging the Zionists with "overlooking and misinterpreting" portions of the twin resolutions.

Rabbis Divided On Vatican Ambassador

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — President Truman's appointment of Gen. Mark Clark as first U. S. Ambassador to the Vatican produced a conflict of opinions among American Jewish leaders this week and first reaction included a strong attack by a leading rabbi and a defense of Truman's action by Dr. Abba Hillel Silver.

The National Community Relations Advisory Council, representing the major Jewish defense agencies, was expected to confer on the issue later this week. They have maintained a consistent opposition in the past to any moves aimed at altering the traditional separation of church and state.

Dr. Silver, described in a United Press dispatch as "one of the foremost Jewish leaders" said in Cleveland that "the Vatican is an

Many Increases Mark GJC Initial Gift Event; $300,000 Contributed

As the GJC Launched Its 1951 Campaign

Henry Hassenfeld, Initial Gifts chairman for the General Jewish Committee, welcomes the close to 300 men who attended the annual dinner-meeting Sunday evening at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. More than $300,000 was pledged at the affair as the Men's Division formally launched its 1951 campaign. More photos on Pages 12, 13 and 14.

ADL Rejects MacIver Report

ATLANTIC CITY (AJP) — The 35-member National Commission of B'nai B'rith's Anti-Defamation League this week soundly rejected the MacIver Report, an NCRAC sponsored study which would lessen the ADL's role in combating anti-Semitism in America.

The Commission instead urged all national Jewish organizations in the community relations field to strengthen their "voluntary form of organization" in order to have the greatest impact in fighting anti-Semitism.

The Commission declared that acceptance of the MacIver Report would "violate the voluntary nature of Jewish communal organizations."

ADL attacked what it termed the "tight and neat control" suggested in Dr. Robert MacIver's report.

Denied Job Because He Wasn't Jewish

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — Being a non-Jew cost him a crack at a job, a complainant charged this week before the State Commission Against Discrimination. Officials admitted it was a rare case.

"D-Day" Chairman

BERNARD GOODMAN
Bernard Goodman has been appointed general chairman of the one-day, community-wide "D-Day" solicitation planned by the Men's Division of the General Jewish Committee for Sunday, Nov. 18, it was announced by Joseph Ress, campaign chairman. A corps of veteran workers, who will assist Goodman as co-chairmen, will be announced next week. Volunteer workers for "D-Day" are urged to telephone GJC headquarters at GA 1-4111.

Among the Initial Gifts Pledges

Among the major contributions pledged at the Initial Gifts Dinner Sunday evening were the following:

Hassenfeld Family, $14,500; Kane Family, $14,500; Milton C. Sapinsley, $11,000; Fain Family and Apex Tire Co., $10,000; E. Rosen Family, $8,500; Max L. Grant, $7,500; Philip Weinstein Family, $7,500; Barnett Salmons and Sons, $6,000; Max Siegel, $6,000.

Several additional major gifts which were not announced at the dinner are expected to be made soon.

Religious Issues

Flare in Election

NEW YORK CITY (AJP) — The religious issue was dragged into a heated political battle for the post of City Council President here this week as Democrats blasted Jewish, candidate Rudolph Halley, Kefauver Counsel and Liberal Party choice for the office, for representing the late G. A. Richards, radio station owner charged with injecting anti-Semitic slants into newscasts.

Halley, charging that his political foes had "dragged a religious issue" into the campaign, said that Judge Meir Steinbrink, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League, had told him he considered accepting Richards

Results Please Campaign Officials

An enthusiastic Initial Gifts audience pledged more than $300,000 to the General Jewish Committee of Providence Sunday evening as the 1951 campaign of the Men's Division formally got under way. The dinner-meeting was held in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

More than 90 pledges represented substantial increases over last year; while most of the remaining contributors "held the line" at last year's levels. As a result, GJC officials indicated, the campaign is off to a flying start, the final results depending on the response of those who have not yet made their contributions.

At least a substantial portion of the increases stemmed from the keynote address of Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, executive vice-president of the national United Jewish Appeal. Dr. Schwartz, who helped liberate thousands of Jews from the Nazi concentration camps and has maintained close personal contact with Israel since its independence was granted three years ago, outlined the principal needs of the Jewish State in vivid terms that spurred many of his listeners to increase their contributions on the spot.

Beginnings of Malnutrition
As a result of a severe food shortage, Dr. Schwartz stated, Israel is now experiencing the beginnings of malnutrition, which is affecting the morale, health and well-being of the children of the country. Only "hard American dollars" can prevent this condition from spreading, he warned.

Israel's worst drought in 25 years, coupled with the enormous immigration program which has brought over 700,000 refugee Jews to that country in three years, were blamed by the speaker for the food shortage. The young nation now must import food supplies which it normally raises through its own efforts, and must pay for these imports with cash, he said.

Dr. Schwartz expressed gratification at the liquidation of the notorious DP camps, but he warned that 200,000 persons today are living in canvas tents or other temporary shelters. This condition, too, can be remedied only through "hard currency," he asserted.

He reminded his listeners that Americans don't know what "bad business" is. "We don't know what it is to have our bank accounts, our businesses and our homes confiscated at a minute's as a client was "entirely proper." Judge Steinbrink later issued a statement in which he said that Halley had "asked me whether I believed his firm had been justified in representing Mr. Richards, whom the league had condemned as a bigot. I told him that under our American system, as an attorney, he had an absolute right to represent any client he pleased."

MAURICE SAMUEL

Maurice Samuel In Temple Lecture

Maurice Samuel, author, publicist, translator and lecturer, will inaugurate the Institute of Jewish Studies for Adults of Temple Emanuel Wednesday, November 7 at 9 P. M. He will be the forerunner of six prominent speakers who will give the community an opportunity to "Meet the Experts," which is the overall subject of the series.

Samuel will launch "The Blueprint for Jewish Living Today" with a lecture emphasizing the place of the Jew in History, entitled "What Are We?"

Maurice Samuel has appeared in Providence often in the past. He is a forceful and dynamic speaker with an extensive background of world traveling and writing. His latest book, "The Gentleman and the Jew," created extensive controversy in both Jewish and Christian circles.

A group of four study courses will precede this lecture. Members will have a choice of "Hebrew for Beginners," "Music is Fun," "The Whys of Jewish Practices" and "Conversational Hebrew."

Beth Israel Lists Special Services

The opening of the new season of late Friday night services and a special B'nai B'rith service have been listed on the calendar of Temple Beth Israel.

Late services begin this evening at 8:10 P. M. A musical program has been arranged for the occasion, to be followed by a Kiddush and Oneg Shabbat in the vestry. Rabbi Morris Schussheim will speak on his experiences in Israel. Cantor Israel Breitbart will chant the services. The choir will be under the direction of Benjamin Premack.

The service in honor of B'nai B'rith will take place next Friday, also at 8:10 P. M. All members of B'nai B'rith and its auxiliaries, together with their families, have been invited to attend. A reception and Kiddush will be held in the vestry following the regular services. Cantor Breitbart will officiate and Premack will conduct the choir.

independent political state, whatever else it is and however small it is," and endorsed President Truman's appointment of General Clark.

But a leading New York rabbi, Bernard J. Bamberger declared his opposition in a statement to the American Jewish Press. "I believe that the great majority of American Jews," he said, "are strongly in favor of maintaining the traditional separation between state and church not only in respect to the current issue but in all internal relationships in the United States."

B'nai B'rith Women Plan Rummage Sale

A committee meeting to discuss plans for the forthcoming rummage sale to be sponsored by Hope Chapter, B'nai B'rith Women, was held at the home of Mrs. Martin Buckler, chairman, on Oct. 25.

Members of the committee are Mesdames Joslin Ross, Harold Ratush, Martin Jacobson, Irving Kushner, William Solinger, Stanley J. Kaplan, Sherman Kaufman, Paul Paris Jr. and Paul Field.

COKIN FAMILY CIRCLE

Reports were given by Mrs. William Fellner and Mrs. Mary Friedman at a Cokin Family Circle meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cokin, 104 Blodgett Avenue, on Oct. 26. A Chanukah party will be held this year for the children.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Young, 84 Marbury Avenue, on Nov. 18.

Ahavath Sholom Annual Meeting

Reports of the various committees will be presented and officers elected at the annual meeting of Congregation Ahavath Sholom Monday evening at 8 P. M.

The meeting will open with a prayer by Rabbi Morris G. Silk. A brief ceremony and welcome to the 25 new families who recently joined the synagogue will precede the presentation of the annual reports. Samuel Orenstein, president, will preside.

New members are Mrs. Helen Dittleman, Abraham Ehrlich, Earl Fallack, Dr. Joseph G. Fishbein, Sanford D. Gertz, Joseph S. Goldfine, Benjamin Greenberg, Jack Greenberg, Jack Honigblum, Samuel Horvitz, Max Jagolinzer, A. Henry Klein, Louis M. Morse, Hayim Mushnick, John Newman, Dr. Alan Pekow, Lester Rose, Louis Seegal, Max Seigal, David Schwartz, Hyman Shindler, Mrs. Elizabeth Simkofsky, Joseph S. Steiner, Martin Wexler and Harry Winkelman.

Initial Gifts Dinner

notice, at the age of 50, 60 or even 70," he explained.

"It is only an accident," he concluded, "that some of us are here in the U. S. and not languishing in Czechoslovakia, Austria or some other anti-semitic nation."

Other speakers were Alvin A. Sopkin, president of the GJC; Henry Hassenfeld, Initial Gifts chairman; Gov. Dennis J. Roberts; Joseph W. Ress, campaign chairman, and Archibald Silverman, honorary president. Rabbi Morris Schussheim delivered the invocation and Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen the benediction. Cantor Jacob Hohenemser led the singing of the national anthem and Hatikvah, accompanied by Arthur Einstein.

Sopkin reminded the initial givers that "you are the men whose financial support of our annual fund-raising drives has literally resulted in the saving of countless lives." He also mentioned that in addition to support of the UJA, the GJC has been rapidly expanding its activities on the local level.

Hassenfeld quoted that part of the Bible that commanded all Jews to give one-tenth of their earnings to charity. He used this theme to point up his plea for generous contributions to the drive.

Ress emphasized that the GJC raises funds for more than 50 other agencies. "Because all of these are in one campaign we have been rather successful in avoiding multiplicity of campaigns," he pointed out. We must have sufficient funds, he added, to prevent various organizations from running separate campaigns.

BOWLING

BETH-EL BOWLING

By Joe Gutterball

A four-of-a-kind rarity turned up in the Beth El Brotherhood Bowling League last week. Four of the five members of Saul Sadow's team rolled identical first-string scores of 107. In addition to the captain, the mark was hit by Jack Bilow, George Bressler and Bob Bernstein.

Before last night's session, the teams of Dick Barber and Leo Kouffman led the American Division, while the National Division was topped by the quintet of Percy Newman.

Nat Alterman registered high single and three for the night, with 133 and 357. Mal Mickler had a 355 pinfall, followed closely by Howie Nelson with 353 and Phil Shaulson with 349. Other high scores were:

Bilow 347; Milt Weisman 341; Bill Smith and Kouffman 336; Aaron Sutton 333; Sumner Pomeranz 332, and Al Gordon 330.

FINEMAN-TRINKEL BOWLING

by Jack Jacobson

The Pirates were behind 90 pins in the third string with only two boxes left to be rolled by teammates Sam Feldman and Nate Gordon—but Sam rolled a double strike and Nate followed with a double spare to overcome this terrific deficit by 1 point.

This clutch bowling gave Nate scores of 119-121-116 for a 356 total and Sam finished with 101-110-129 for 340. For the Pirates it meant a clean sweep and a new team high three of 1587.

Other good three string totals were Harold Golden 342; Justin Robinson, Ed Lief, Jack Jacobson 319; Sid Brown, Dave Allen, Gene Silverman 313; George Luber, Harry Shore, Aron Aronson, Art Pivnick 309; Benton Goldblatt, Max Runstein, Jerry Ruben 305; Charles Steingold and Max Cohen Jr. 300.

Outstanding single strings were Chuckie White and Stu Steingold 118; Izzy Halperin, Reeve Zatliff, Morris Factor, Milt Israeloff, Don Cohen 111; Sam Price, Mel Wasserman, Lester Friedman, Nate Agid 108; Bob Greene and Irv Kaplan 106; Phil Shaulson and Sam Miller 105; Harry Goldberg, Gerry Kent, Norm Bernstein, Morris Satloff, Hal Levin, Aaron Burrows 104; J. Resnick, Allan Silverman, Irv Datz 102.

PROVIDENCE FRATERNAL

by Ben Medwin

With Jagolinzer bowling 328, high for the league so far, Liberty took over top spot by beating Justice four games. Justice pulled into second spot by taking four from Unity and in third spot was Fraternity, with three to one over Loyalty. Close behind in high three for the night were Seltzer 326, Kitzes 317, Chaiken and B. Labush 314, Sam Sklaroff and Miller 309, G. Labush 303 and Paul 302.

Some high singles were Perler 115, Katz and Koppleman 114, Jaffa 111 and Lazarus 106.

EMANUEL BOWLING

by Sid Green

The Browns looked like the other "Browns," even though Capt. "Frenchy" Ettine bowled 341. Frank Goldstein 340 and Shorty Jagolinzer 319 proved too much, however, and the Giants won 3-1. I. Solmer took high three with 363 and enabled the Red Sox to take three points from the Tigers.

Captain Jerry Miller's Yanks and Gerber's Pirates played the thriller of the evening, each taking a string and the third one ending in a tie which was won by the Yanks in a roll-off.

Leo Miller's 334 saved one point for the White Sox who lost three points to the Reds, while the Cubs took the Indians 3-1 with Broadman's 350 and Sherm Price's 347 being high for their respective teams. Mel Paynor tied high single with 151 as the Athletics split with the Dodgers. Other high single strings were rolled by Dr. Goldstein 135, Raizen 126, Curley Kramer 122 and Jerry Tessler 121.

CRANSTON PLAIDS BOWLING

by Elayne Chopak

This week the top place Crimsons established the record for high team single with 440, and also broke their own record for high team three with 1274. This was partly accounted for by Bea Sydney's 115 and Pauline Friedman's 106.

Other high scorers were Norma Baker 110, Adele Brynes 106, Isabel David 105, Kay Jagolinzer, Fran Rodinsky, Fran Sadler and Cookie Shwartz, 104, Shirley White 103, Hope Mellion 99, Sally Levy 97, Eleanor Weinberg 96, Charlotte Cofman, Sippy Kessler, and Edith Litchman 95 each.

High three this week went to I. David with 291 followed by F. Rodinsky 290, B. Sydney 289 and K. Jagolinzer 285.

SUNNYSIDE DEBS

by Estelle Weiner

Shirley Levin surprised with a score for three games of 310. Millie Tragar took high single with 108. Hats off to one of our new members, Evelyn Wasser, who bowled 104. Other good scores were E. Weiner 101, E. Miller 98, T. Green 99, D. Strashnick 98, E. Hochman 97, R. Carner 95, and M. Rodyn 94. To date high team single is held by S. Levin's team while high team three is held by M. Rothstein's crew.

BETH ISRAEL BOWLING

After a one week lapse because of the Yom Kippur holiday, Temple Beth Israel bowling activity resumed again at the Casino Alleys on Oct. 17. Simon Aron continued his sensational bowling with a high three of 340. Other good scores were turned in by Herbert Fain, Charlie Winkleman, Ed Segal, Meyer Epstein and Sam Segal.

Preliminary bowling to the regularly scheduled season terminated last week. Fourteen teams have been formed. Charlie Shechtman, with a single string of 132 and a three of 347 finished his warm up in grand style. Finkelstein rolled a single of 124 with a three string total of 328. Lennie Rubin had 339, Marshall Marcus 326, George Hochman 323, Simon Aron 323 and Sam Segal 323, all kept up their good bowling to date.

CRANSTON BOWLING

by Phil Chopak

When the pins had ceased to fall, Joe Potemkin's Yankees and Bob Baker's Red Sox were four-game winners over the Giants and Braves, while Bernie Goodman's White Sox capsized the Pirates 3 to 1; the Phils and Indians also collected 3 precious points apiece by defeating the Tigers and Cubs, respectively. The Dodgers and Senators and the Athletics and Cards split even in their contests.

High single man was Al Samdperil with 128; other over-100 clubbers included Wallie Shwartz 123, Henry Stampel 122, Moe Cofman 120, Ben Mellion and Ed Feinberg 119, Irwin Rubin 117, Moe Kessler and Moe Filler 116, Joe Potemkin 115, Sid Levy 113, Joe Cohen 111, Bernie Wexler 110. Aaron Davis, Lou Goldstein and Harry Holland each had 108.

Hortense Monath
Philharmonic Soloist
 Hortense Monath, internationally celebrated pianist, who as soloist with the first tour of the R. I. Philharmonic Orchestra, will play Mozart's concerto No. 27 in B Flat Major for piano and orchestra, will have played the same concerto a week before with the Philadelphia orchestra and will shortly after her tour in R. I. be heard with the N. Y. Philharmonic Orchestra in an interpretation of the same concerto. Among the many distinctions she enjoys is that of having been the first woman American pianist to play with the NBC Symphony. She was the first American pianist engaged to play at the famous Salzburg festival. She has played under the baton of many renowned conductors—among them Maestro Arturo Toscanini, whose friendship she values highly and whose autographed photograph looks down at her from the top of her piano as she practices.

SILVER CIRCLE
 A committee was appointed to find new quarters for The Silver Circle at a meeting held Oct. 21, at Jewish War Veterans Post 23 on Niagara Street. All members added a few lines to a letter started by Mrs. Dorothy Andresse to her husband, Arnold, who is stationed in Japan.

R. I. SELFHELP DANCE
 A dance for young and old will open the new season for the Rhode Island Selfhelp at the Jewish Community Center, 65 Benefit Street, Nov. 3 at 8:30 P. M. Al Rosen and his orchestra will play. A well-known dance team will perform. Prizes and refreshments will be provided. This is a paid-up membership affair.

A Healthy Conflict

Reports coming from Israel regarding the government's latest coalition cabinet have aroused a number of comments among American Jews. Premier Ben Gurion has attempted to defend his new group of party leaders, but those who see the group as a mere continuation of the last, predict for Israel a difficult future.

Dr. Emanuel Neumann, American Zionist leader, views the new narrow coalition with strong anxiety. Revisionist leaders have been even firmer in their apprehensions to the degree of claiming that the Mapai's drive for ego-power leaves it with little concern for the politically weakened position into which Israel has been thrown as a result.

Israel's cabinet at this point represents a bitterly fought compromise. Tones of thinking reflecting dominant positions in the new State seem to have temporarily weakened its progress. Accusations made by their supporters abound on all sides. At one point, Mapai is seen the culprit; at another, it is Mapam. General Zionists, specifically, have come under censure for their willingness to exclude Orthodox elements from the coalition.

This state of affairs should be cause less for concern than for reflection. Ultimate strength in any political situation is a product of manifold thinking. Out of the stresses and strains of many opinions must come a vigorous phalanx for Israel's future. A docile facade and tacit agreement can bring only a temporarily strong state; what in reality lies under docility is the need to be led. Conflict such as appears in Israel today is the result of its citizens' desire to express their opinions, and it is indicative of the fact that these citizens will not be led without first speaking.

American Jewry's leaders who see a crisis situation at this moment have only to look back to their own country's beginnings. Its constitution represents the product of great compromise between various elements and interests all of whom wished to speak their minds; furthermore, the pages of its early history are filled with incidents that record near shipwreck because of apparent inability to compromise.

Let these leaders, in turn, then look at the docile ends of many European cultures that have fallen over the years by the wayside because of satisfaction that resulted in silence. Then it will become apparent that Prime Minister Ben Gurion's situation at this point may not be a comfortable one but that it is a healthy one. Out of his discomfort can come no satisfaction; out of his discomfort will come a healthy struggle of many men's ideals and their will to be self-governed.

"One Man's Opinion"

The Dollar and The Soul

BY BERNARD SEGAL

A glamorous movie star is a great attraction. The Vice-President of the United States is a powerful drawing card. And a son of a famous father may arouse curiosity and bring in a crowd. But neither glamour, nor high office, nor fame could do what a spare darkish young man did to a capacity audience in the Sheraton-Biltmore ball room on the night of the opening of the General Jewish Committee drive in Providence.

At the head table, a long line of men in high places in business and the professions.

In the ball room, people who respond to the call of every communal need.

Saved Thousands

And at the speaker's desk, a man who has commuted between America and Europe as often as the average person commuted between Providence and New York during the past five years. It was Joseph J. Schwartz, vice-president of the United Jewish Appeal of America who has engineered the transportation of thousands from the concentration camps of Germany to Israel and elsewhere, and who masterfully opened the 1951 campaign here in our city.

If you were to meet him on the street you would take him for just another teacher, perhaps, a professional, or an office worker.

But listen to him speak and you cling breathlessly to every word uttered by his lips.

And so did we all in the ball room last Sunday night glue our eyes on his lips. Not a chair moved. Not a paper rustled. Not a word was whispered.

Wherein was his power? He resorted to none of the tricks of oratory. He did not tell tales of horror to move his listeners to tears. He did neither threaten, nor scold, nor admonish. He spoke soberly, simply, yet so forcefully that you could not lose the thread and wander off into day dreaming as so often happens during speech making. But the simple words were out of a rich personal experience. They were alive with fresh impressions. And they were spoken out of a warm heart.

And this is what he said.

No More DPs

There are no more Displaced Persons in Europe today. All of the camps, these nests of shame and horror, have been liquidated. It happened much sooner than anybody ever dreamed it could have happened. It was done so quickly, so thoroughly, because of the dollars given by the Jews of America.

Most of the DP's came to Israel. The transportation of these thousands from Europe, and the thousands from countries in Asia and Africa, and the thousands that still come from Rumania, all of it was made possible because of the dollars given by the Jews of America.

Crisis in Israel

Israel is now in the midst of a severe economic crisis. Food shortages are acute. People go for weeks without meat, and eggs and milk are reserved for children only. The food shortage is due to the doubling of the population in three years, and to a crop failure the likes of which the land has not seen in twenty-five years. But this food shortage, too, can be relieved with dollars given by the Jews of America.

Housing Shortage Acute

There is a housing shortage in Israel, as there is in every country. In Israel it is more acute because, again, of the rapid increase of the population. That, too, can be solved with dollars that must come from the Jews of America.

To those who complain of bad times, bad business, high taxes, high cost of living, and offer these as excuses for giving less to the United Jewish Appeal, here are the words of Mr. Schwartz.

If Israel Closed Its Doors

Israel could greatly relieve the food shortage and the housing shortage, and all the hardships of austerity imposed on them by the great stream of new comers, if the country would agree to lock the gates for a year or two. There would be more meat, more eggs, more clothing, more of everything for the population now in Israel. But no one in Israel, from the highest official to the humblest toiler of the soil would permit such thoughts to enter their minds.

To shut the doors in the face of homeless Jews so that I may fill my belly with more food?

To let Jews languish in hopelessness so that I may live in greater comfort?

To exchange refrigerators and nylon stockings and radios for human lives?

Perish the thought.

Israel would rather suffer economic bankruptcy, than to allow moral bankruptcy.

If it is a choice between gaining food and comfort and losing the soul, Israel would rather go hungry and suffer privations.

But there is no need for letting Israel make the choice. The present crisis can be relieved by dollars given by the Jews of America.

We, the Jews of America, too, are faced with two alternatives, very much like the Jews of Israel.

Either we give until it hurts and we save our souls, or we plead bad times and we are ashamed to live with ourselves.

Which will you choose? That decision you will make when your card is called, when your doorbell rings, when the roll call is taken in your trade and professions, and in your neighborhood.

You know and I know, that no matter how much you and I give to the Appeal, we will not deprive ourselves and our children of a single meal, of a single movie or of a single item of comfort to which we are accustomed.

Our choice is much simpler to make than the one the Jews in Israel have already made.

Broadway Tales

BY BEN FEINGOLD

MAKING THE ROUNDS

Add acts of retribution: Armored weapons smuggled in by the British to the Egyptians and other Arabs to push their invasions of Israel and murder Jews, are now being used by Egyptian soldiers in the Suez area—to kill British troops . . . Harry Steinman, fabulous Philadelphia nitery owner who has successfully invaded Broadway with his new Sugar Hill nightclub, which features sepiat talent, is winging to Tel Aviv to push plans for a Sugar Hill nightspot in Israel . . . Billy Stevens, crack boxing scribe of the New York Sunday Enquirer, is Jewish . . . We hear that Eddie Cantor thinks so highly of the singing of Leo Fuld, the Dutch Jewish tenor, that he has recommended him for the Al Jolson role in a Hollywood remake of "The Jazz Singer" . . .

A MATTER OF INTERPRETATION

Hilarious is comedian Larry Best's story of the time Truman upset Dewey for the Presidency.

His aged Jewish grandmother burst into the house, shouting—"Truman wins with the help of his relatives."

"Help of his relatives"—questioned Larry. "What do you mean?"

"Here"—replied his bubba—"is the headline in the paper that reads—'Truman Wins With Landslide.'"

"Bubba"—chastised Larry, with a smile playing around his lips—"that headline reads this—'Truman Wins With Landslide'—not lahntzleit!"

THE PROVIDENCE JEWISH HERALD, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1951

Dr. Burgess Replies to Dr. Vindsberg

My dear Dr. Vindsberg:

Your vitriolic attack upon Mrs. Esther Pritsker, whose long years of diligent and sympathetic service in behalf of displaced persons and other refugees is well known in this community, bears witness to a touchy and sensitive attitude for which you probably should not be blamed, but which certainly will not help her in her work.

In the article to which you refer, Mrs. Pritsker was not fairly or correctly quoted and she has, to the writer's knowledge, been distressed by the quotations published which portray her attitude in a quite erroneous manner. Nevertheless, some of the difficulties, which she and others who are giving the best years of their lives to this type of humanitarian work daily encounter, are very real. It is true that due to the terrible suffering and anxieties which they have endured, many displaced people are considerably demoralized. No one wishes to infer that they are in any way inferior to the more fortunate people who have lived in this country throughout the war, and who, if they had to endure equal suffering, would of course be equally demoralized. Many other displaced persons seem to have maintained their poise and morale despite everything.

In the judgement of the writer, the attack which you have made on Mrs. Pritsker can do nothing but harm, and affords ample evidence of an irritability and lack of understanding on your part which is neither creditable nor helpful.

Very sincerely yours,

ALEX M. BURGESS, M. D.

Israel Can't Say No to Homeless

GJC Initial Gifts Affair Records More Than 90 Increases - Enthu

An enthusiasm that surprised even officials of the General Jewish Committee attended the Initial Gifts annual dinner, which formally launched the Men's Division fund-raising campaign on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and other international, national and local organizations. The event had as its slogan—"Israel Can't Say No to Homeless Jews . . . We Can't Say No to Israel!"

The enthusiasm of the initial givers was manifested in the amounts of the gifts they pledged to this year's campaign. More than 90 men, inspired at least in part by the stirring remarks of Dr. Joseph Schwartz, increased their pledges over last year. GJC leaders frankly admitted that the more than $300,000 pledged helped get the campaign off to a flying start. The final results, however, they added, rest in the hands of those persons who have not yet made their contributions. It is essential that this trend of increases be continued throughout the remainder of the campaign.

On the following three pages are recorded scenes from the affair, which was held Sunday evening in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. (All photos by Joe Marcello)

Dr. Joseph Schwartz, national executive vice-president of the UJA, chats with local leaders prior to delivering the keynote address at the Initial Gifts event. He is flanked (left to right) by Henry Hassenfeld, Initial Gifts chairman; Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president; Joseph W. Ress, GJC campaign chairman, and Archibald Silverman, honorary president.

Gov. Dennis J. Roberts brings the greetings of the State of Rhode Island and urges the audience to support the GJC campaign to their utmost.

Among the Initial Givers were the gentlemen pictured on this and the next two pages. (Each photo is identified starting in the foreground and proceeding clockwise):

Jacob Kenner, Irving L. Baker, Joseph K. Levy, Charles H. Levy, Jacob I. Felder, James Goldman, Maurice Fox and Joseph Schlossberg.

This American In Paris Sold His Own Paintings

By SYD COHEN

When Ben Weiss needed some extra cash, he merely went out to his customary spot on the streets of Paris and sold several of his paintings.

Just like that. At least, you get the impression that it was just as easy as that when you talk to Ben. A student at L'Academie de la Grande Chaumiere, Parisian art school, he lived largely off the proceeds brought in by his paintings during the year he spent in the brilliant French capitol.

While many Americans in Paris preferred to pass up serious work in favor of passing their days in Le Dome Cafe, customary hang-out of international artists like Ernest Hemingway, Gertrude Stein, Picasso and Soutine, Ben Weiss could always be found at his customary locations, painting typical Parisian street scenes.

He became well known to art lovers and connoisseurs, many of whom directed potential buyers to him. At a time when very few Americans in Paris were successful in selling the products of their labors, Weiss sold upwards of 30 canvases and had 15 more on display, out of 100 that he painted during the year.

Several were sold on the spot, even as he painted them.

Could Have Sold More

The quiet, but confident young artist—he is 28—could have sold more than he did. But he was not in Paris on a commercial mission; rather, to study and gain experience. Selling his paintings was more a means of amassing a little extra expense money than a business enterprise; so he offered his works for sale only as the occasion warranted.

The artist also has had what he modestly terms "good luck" in selling paintings right here in Providence, which is not to be compared with "Gay Paree" as an art center. Only recently returned from France, he sold three paintings on one day alone just a few weeks ago.

On Oct. 14 a couple of his paintings appeared in a group show of contemporary artists in the Arcade. One of his paintings is on display at R. I. School of Design as part of another contemporary art show, and he will have an exhibition there at the school next Tuesday.

An exhibition of Ben's paintings will be held at Gallery 73 of The Arcade, starting this Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The show will be sponsored by Contemporary Artists, Inc.

Ben has won prizes sponsored by American Magazine and Scholastic Magazine, and has had copies of his work on exhibition in New York and Chicago.

Painted Throughout War

During his three years of service in World War II, he exhibited native scenes on the island of Maui, Hawaii. Later, on the beaches of Normandy, just a few weeks after the historic invasion of the Continent, he painted scenes of the hustle and bustle of military activity on the beach and aboard ship. Later, in New York, he sold many of these paintings to soldiers and civilians alike.

Weiss was in a fine strategic spot to capture the spirit of the Normandy beachhead. Assigned as a radio man in the armed guard aboard an Army Liberty Ship, he arrived at Le Havre in one of the very first merchant ships to reach that once principal seaport following the invasion. The Allied forces were still working from the beaches when the young painter started to capture the multi-varied scenes on canvas.

Ben visited Spain, Germany and Italy on the Continent, in addition to his travels on the other side of the world, and found each country exciting; but it was Paris this past year that really caught his fancy.

In the current film, "An American In Paris", Gene Kelly portrays the role of a painter in Paris. But Gene couldn't sell his paintings on his own, and that is where Ben Weiss had it all over him. Lucky for Gene Kelly that he got a sponsor (in the film) and that he could dance. Otherwise, he might have starved to death.

The French Helped

The art colony of Paris reached a state of intimacy where everyone knew everyone else; where art lovers desiring to buy paintings were readily recommended to this young artist or that one, and told how to find the painter in question.

Paris—where the French people encourage young artists and help them as much as possible. Restaurant and night club owners along the colony frequently displayed paintings on their walls to aid the painter in attracting buyers. These restaurateurs even went so far as to sell the canvases for their creators; and frequently, they purchased the paintings themselves.

Many Frenchmen took the artists into their homes and provided needed assistance. "It doesn't matter who you are," Ben says. "If you are sincere, the French people will help you."

The international flavor of Paris is perhaps best revealed by noting that among the purchasers of Ben Weiss paintings were people from Norway, Switzerland, Sweden, France and Israel, among others. One Israeli gentleman purchased four paintings at one time.

Ben Weiss, a graduate of Hope High and Rhode Island School of Design, lives temporarily with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Herman at 106 Davis Street. He taught at RISD Saturday mornings before leaving for the military service. Of his painting, an instructor at the School of Design used the terms "refreshing . . . very colorful . . . full of vitality."

Hopes to Teach

Now that he has returned to American life, Ben has ambitions to enter the teaching field, and toward that end, will apply shortly for positions in various schools. He could have had a fine situation as an instructor in Germany, but passed it up in favor of returning to the States.

Ben Weiss would seem ideally suited to serve as an instructor to budding or would-be artists. There is no doubt that several schools will like what they see when he displays his wares. After selling so many of his own paintings, he will then let his paintings sell him.

Describes Israel's Needs at Initial Gifts Dinner

Mixing the Seasons

The time has come for the Herald to do something about the bowling columns, and if you read last week's paper fairly closely, you can understand why. So many leagues are springing up, so many reports are coming in, that our sports desk is being bowled over by the rush.

Last week, we had to spread the bowling columns over five separate pages. Twelve leagues had columns, and three others were left out—we realized, after the paper went to press. More than half a page was devoted to bowling columns!

While we mull the situation over, and decide what to do and what limits to impose, there is one definite step that must be taken. This is an official notification to all bowling writers that from now on they must submit copy either typewritten—double spaced—or neatly and legibly written so that we can send it right through to the typesetters. Our relatively small force is losing too much time trying to decipher some pretty bad scrawls and then re-typing some of the reports so that they read well.

We appreciate the popularity of the bowling leagues and the need for them, and very soon now we will set up a definite system for all of them. But, meantime, we must ask for co-operation to ease our handling of the columns.

Since they are actually columns, they should be prepared carefully and accurately. A penciled scrawl and the presumption that we will blow up stories to greater length are fair neither to the leagues nor the Herald. We should not have to rewrite the stories in order to make them read sensibly, as we have been doing. We will no longer accept responsibility for columns that require such handling.

Co-operation of all concerned will be greatly appreciated.

Reviewing the Movies

Time was when the football season would be heralded by a flock of movies from Hollywood filled with thrills and featuring the hero winning the big game as the last gun sounded.

This year there has been exactly one movie on football—and that had to be on an unsavory aspect of the game.

Conversely, there is a trend to baseball pictures, and Hollywood, always ready to exploit a ready market, is releasing the baseball films regardless of the season.

Don't ask me why. I'm puzzled, too. It appears, though, that football has lost its great emphasis, and that baseball, understood now by more people than can follow the tricky formations and unlimited substitutions of football, has gradually taken over.

Here we have the spectacle of two baseball movies playing in town the week after the end of the World Series. And more are in the hopper. Before leaving baseball for a while, let's look at this situation.

If you missed seeing "Angels in the Outfield" last week you missed what probably was the best baseball movie yet made. There have been other big baseball films in the past. Pride of the Yankees, about Lou Gehrig—The Babe Ruth Story—The Stratton Story. Only the one about Monte Stratton was really good, and even then no ball fan could look at Jimmy Stewart winding up to pitch without feeling he was being cheated. Stewart just couldn't make it look convincing.

Now, however, come the "Angels," and whether you like that aspect of the story, you must admit that the baseball scenes are highly convincing and well done. You actually see outfielders making great catches, infielders making double plays, runners coming in on beautiful slides. Here a manager relays a signal to his team by way of another player in the dugout, then changes it the same way. The batters look like batters, the pitchers like pitchers. In other words, it's good.

I didn't see Rhubarb, so we'll pass comment on the baseball scenes in that one.

Now comes word in the Sporting News about new movies that are either in the production or planning stage. Two that are now being made are "The Rube Waddell Story" and "Alexander the Great." Both are said to be major productions. They will take us back toward the beginning of the century with the eccentric Waddell, and through the hectic days of one of the finest pitchers of all time, Grover Cleveland Alexander, who died only recently.

Now, though, we come to the modern day and age, with one studio getting ready to star Laraine Day Durocher in a picture called "The Lip." Guess who that one is about. The script already is in the works.

And Joe DiMaggio, still on the active player lists, is getting lots of attention and sweet talk from MGM, which wants to do his life story on the screen.

After all that . . . thumb the pages of all the papers and look for the next football story. Once past "Saturday's Hero", you don't find a thing. Impossible—but true.

Brown Draws A Blank

Brown University being the home team—more or less—save for the loyal rooters for University of R. I. at Kingston, considerable interest naturally attaches to the makeup of the football squad at this time of year.

Following this line of reasoning—suggested, incidentally, by a couple of GJC initial givers Sunday night—I placed a call to the Brown athletic office and asked for information regarding the Jewish members of the squad.

The answer came back so quickly and definitely it left me speechless for a long moment. "There aren't any". And it turned out that the voice at the other end knew what it was talking about. There just isn't a single Jewish player on the Brown football squad for 1951!

That's surprising, but only in that we have become accustomed to having some Jewish boys sharing in Brown's gridiron fortunes year after year. It won't be more than another year or two, undoubtedly, before the situation rectifies itself.

Meanwhile, don't feel slighted, you Kingstonites. A letter is on the way to U. of R. I. requesting similar information from the athletic office at State. A report will soon be forthcoming.
